10% or 19% raise for electric rates?

Electric users are in for a raise of rates. How much is in limbo right now.

Ohio Power Co. is raising the village bill about 12 per cent for its wholesale price. Both Councilman James Holloway and Village Administrator James C. Root recommend raising the rates by 10 per cent immediately and waiting to see what further increase may be necessary.

Councilman D. Douglas Brumbach suggests raising the rate immediately by 19 per cent, which will cover the Ohio Power increase and also allow for the electric fund to begin again to contribute to the reserve fund, which has not had any contributions for over a year.

It is ironic that Brumbach has proposed what is the needed raise. When he served earlier as a councilman, at the time the Ohio Power instituted the fuel clause, he said the electric fund had a good balance at $16,000 and could ride it out, "the whole thing will go away," he said. His thinking at the time was that those on fixed incomes simply could not pay the extra charge. He stamped the council that no action was ever taken and Plymouth was the only village in the entire state that swallowed the increased fuel clause. Because of this the village started 1974 with exactly $106.50 in its electric fund and it has taken almost six years to catch up with the payments due Ohio Power.

The electric rates will be raised, but no action was taken Thursday. In spite of a good rainy week, Root told the council water is not available, the pumps are working overtime and barely able to keep the water tower filled.

Discussion by the council focused on punishment of water wasters, perhaps with fines for excessive usage, such as watering lawns and washing cars. Councilman G. Thomas Moore said a good warning to the water users is all that is necessary.

Mayor Eric J. Akers warned the council that expenditures in the cemetery and fire funds must be watched carefully so they do not exceed what has been appropriated for 1981. He is asking the clerk to check with the county auditor to see exactly what the estimated receipts will be for the year.

By the end of this month, he wants to know how close are the expenditures in each fund to what had been planned.

Akers told the council that even though it had been planned that 75 percent of the income tax collections would be transferred to the safety fund, only about 50 percent is really being used, which allows more income tax money to be used by the other funds for capital improvements, such as street repair.

Holloway said the safety committee has thoroughly checked the request to close the disputed alley from Park avenue back of Walnut street and recommends that no action be taken now unless all the property owners agree to it.

Brumbach said the alley should be kept open as a safety factor for the fire and police departments.

Moore asked what maintenance the village would be required to do to the alley. The solicitor said since it is an "emergency route," maintenance would be at the minimum, not necessary to maintain as are several alleys in the village that are used daily for access to garages.

After a meeting of several hours with the trustees of Greenlawn cemetery, the service committee agreed the trustees will make their own decisions and will conduct what goes on in running of the cemetery their way, but they must stay within their appropriation. It was also agreed that since the village administrator is the purchasing agent for the village, all cemetery purchases will be funneled through him, except for small incidental items that are needed immediately.

The solicitor told the council he believes the existing rules and regulation sewer ordinance is outmoded and should be updated. Ordinance 8-73 was passed by the council Apr. 9, 1973, spelling out the requirements of connecting to the sanitary sewer system, and includes penalties for those not connecting to it. This ordinance was required by the Farmers Home administration during the negotiations when the village was borrowing $968,000 to construct the sewers.

There are about 12 buildings, businesses and homes not yet connected for various reasons, although a previous council had set the cut off date for connections as of Nov. 1, 1980.

The council has taken no action on the problem to date, and Root asked what should be done. No action was taken.

Hand in glove with that problem is that which has arisen about one water meter serving four separate dwellings.

When the village was still negotiating its loan with FmHA, one of its requirements was that each household or water user be metered. It was determined that it would be a hardship in several cases because of the construction of the buildings. The council then allowed that it would be satisfactory if the property owner paid the water bill, its overage and the sewer charges.

One of the structures was a four unit apartment building owned by Willard Wirth. He sold it to the William C. please see page 4

Council names Taulbee

William Taulbee took the oath of office as a council member Thursday night from Mayor Eric J. Akers to fill the seat of the late James Cashman. He was chosen by the remaining councilmen.

He is the third appointee to that particular seat, to which James C. Root was elected four years ago. The term expires Dec. 31. Root resigned shortly after being elected to accept the position of village administrator Michael R. Taylor was then chosen by the council to fill the chair. He resigned this year because his business took him out of state. Cashman was then appointed.

Taulbee, 49, can almost be called a native of the village because he has lived here since he was five when his family moved from Kentucky.

He graduated from Plymouth High school in 1950 and served with the Air Force during the Korean Conflict. He is a 22-year employee of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard.

Married to the former Shirley Donnenwerth, he is the father of two daughters. The Taulbees have one grandson.

He is a member of Plymouth United Methodist church and of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

Safe stolen at market

Discovery was made Monday at 7:55 a. m. that the safe was taken from the office area of Mack's Foodland.

The police checked the door at 5 a. m. but when Charles Mack arrived he discovered the lock on the door had been drilled open and the safe was gone.

Along with papers pertaining to the business, $30 in change was in it.

It pays to have good connections.

We're your hometown power company. But we're also part of American Electric Power, one of the most efficient electric systems in the country.

When you turn on a light switch, or an electric appliance, you probably don't care where the electricity comes from. As long as it gets there.

But we care, because the cost of making electricity can vary from plant to plant at different times of the day. And since we're part of the 7-state AEP System, we can tap the best combination of generation and transmission efficiency to get the most economical power to you instantly from anywhere in the system.

Being part of this power system and its split-second efficiency is one reason why we've been able to keep your electric rates below the national average.

We give it our best. OHIO POWER COMPANY

By how much will rates rise?

Enderbys in 1973. Each apartment has been billed the minimum water and sewer charge for each month. The Enderbys were billed the water usage for the quarter and the sewer charge.

This was done according to the ordinance. The Enderbys say there should be a reduction of 6,000 gallons of water a quarter for each of the four apartments and credited to what overage they are paying. This would also apply to the sewer charge.

The trailer court owned by Roger Ross has the same situation, and he is now questioning such bills as he has been paying.

The problem has been turned over to the rules committee, which heard the solicitor say that perhaps the ordinance should be reviewed. The mayor excused himself from it all since he rents one of the Enderby apartments.

Brumbach said that prior to FmHA's demand of separate water meters for each user, the village had attempted this in 1970.

Since most of the "leg work" of the council is now conducted during committee meetings, on which three members of the council serve, a list is to be posted as to the time and date of each one's meeting. They are open to the public under state law.

The next committee meeting will be that of the rules on Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the council room.

VA will pay for vet's stone

Families of veterans who select a burial site for a deceased veteran in a private cemetery have two options for Veterans Administration assistance in marking the grave: Gordon L. Holden, veterans service officer of Huron County reminds.

Newsy notes...

Mrs. M. Martin Miller and her two children, Kenton, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Redden. Sunday they were dinner guests of Dr. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Miller.

A second option is that VA will reimburse part of the cost of a headstone or marker bought privately and placed on the grave of a veteran. The current amount is $59, which is the average cost of headstones purchased by VA.

Application for the VA headstone or marker should be addressed to Director, Monument Service (42), Department of Memorial Affairs, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420.

Application for the $59 reimbursement for a marker other than the VA standard should be filed at the nearest VA regional office. Proper routing of the application will expedite service.

This can be accomplished at the Veterans Services, 258 Benedict Avenue, Norwalk.

The Book That Put Pueblo, Colorado On The Map.

For years Pueblo remained uncharted and unknown. Then, suddenly, the secret was out. Pueblo is the city that sends out the free Consumer Information Catalog. It's the city where the streets are paved with booklets.

Now everyone knows. And now everyone can send for their very own copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. The new edition lists over 200 helpful Federal publications, more than half of them free. Publications that could help with—money management, car care, housing hints, growing gardens, food facts. All kinds of useful consumer information you can use every day.
