Tax director's pay $5.20

A change in the annual salary of the income tax director was approved by village council Tuesday during a special meeting.

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, present director, has been paid an annual salary of $7,400.

Her new salary will be set at $5.20 an hour for 1,000 hours of tax work.

Remainder of her time will be spent in assisting the clerk-treasurer, utility clerk and administrator. She will be paid from other funds for her work.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore, her husband, said he wished to stay out of any discussion about the amended ordinance since his wife was involved. He pointed out the new salary arrangement, if wholly taken out of the income tax fund, would amount to $8,400, so she was receiving a pay raise.

What the change actually does is give the sum of $8,300 to the general fund for capital improvements.

No action was taken on the pay ordinance for other employees, which will require changes since it does not spell out the various percentages from the funds by which employees are paid. The clerk was asked to call the solicitor to remedy it.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Oiveh!

We wouldn't accept appointment to serve in the village utility office next week for all the money in the world.

The new water bills will be out and everybody, despite fair warning, will be outraged.

Some village employees have already said, facetiously, we hope, they plan to stay home for a few days until the furore dies down.

The man who goes to his barn in the morning to find that his horse has been stolen has no one to blame but himself. If he failed to lock the door, that the horse is no longer there is his fault.

We recall, somewhat painfully, that for eight consecutive years, seven of them on this very page, the penultimate mayor urged the council and the village to tackle the water situation.

Once it was suggested that, with federal help, an upland water supply be investigated. When the probability, not to say the possibility, of federal help disappeared, no more was said of that proposal, which had long been the dream of Ohio's water managers: a reservoir jointly serving Plymouth and Shiloh.

Shiloh's water system has lately undergone some revision. Yet Shilohans still rely on wells, at best a precarious policy. The water table is likely to rise after this season, if snows as predicted actually fall. But underground water supply is, over the long term, say the experts, not a sound technique.

We have the water from Willard now, and we must pay for it.

Despite our reservations about the whole deal, and most especially about the time of transfer of title, we must live with it. And with the rates that have been computed to be enough to settle our debt and to pay for the water.

If we could only replenish the retail community so quickly as we resolved the water situation, we'd all be much happier, richer and better served.

Friends 45 years, widows reunited by newspaper

Mrs. John Jewett, nee Florence Hills, worked in The Advertiser between 1926 and 1929. She and her late husband moved to Sandusky in 1929 and to Clyde in 1937.

For many years she was a subscriber to The Advertiser. Since a copy of the newspaper goes each week to the Clyde Enterprise, where Mrs. Jewett is employed part-time, she stopped her subscription and reads the exchange copy.

Which explains the background of a pleasant pre-Christmas reunion.

Mrs. Jewett read in the social columns that Mrs. Elton A. Robertson, nee Eloise Longnecker, whom she met in 1926, is living in Canal Winchester. At the time of her marriage to Mr. Jewett in 1926, Florence Hills and Eloise Longnecker were close chums. So were the late Mr. Jewett and the late Mr. Robertson, who met in New London. When they came to Plymouth, they met the two women who became their brides, Florence Hills in 1926 and Eloise Longnecker in 1931.

Mrs. Jewett's daughter, Mary E., is now Mrs. William Dillon, who also lives in Canal Winchester. So Mrs. Jewett seized the opportunity of a visit with her daughter and her family to call upon Mrs. Robertson, whoem she had not seen for 45 years.

John Jewett died in 1956. Elton Robertson died in 1975.

10% pay raise voted to village employees

Pay raises to all employees were accorded Dec. 22 by village council.

Village Administrator James C. Root will receive $18,550 a year, an increase of 12.6 per cent.

Police Chief David Gibson will be paid $17,760 a year, a raise of 10 per cent.

John S. Sawvel & Associates, Findlay, electric rate consultants, recommends a second person be engaged to relieve the head electrician when he is on leave or otherwise eannot perform. No action has so far been taken.

The appropriations ordinance which the council approved was drawn up almost in its entirety by Ernst & Whinney, the Cleveland accountants appointed by the state to oversee Plymouth's finances when the then mayor, Eric J. Akers, plunged Plymouth into receivership.

Its proposal includes assistance for the clerk-treasurer, Mrs. Sidney Ream. This will be supplied by the incumbent income tax director, Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, who can complete her duties in that department in less than 40 hours. Mrs. Moore will draw less from the income tax department and some pay from the general fund.

Payment of a bill in the amount of $15,214.88 filed by the former solicitor, Robert A. McKown, was approved. The bill is for legal services performed by him during his eight-year tenure that he had not previously billed.

The council also agreed to compensate Vernon Risner, Plymouth street, for damages resulting from overflow of the sanitary sewer into his basement. He claimed $750. Root admitted the sewer, which is the village's responsibility, baked the village's responsibility, backed up into Risner's house.

A contract to furnish ambulance services has been submitted to Plymouth township, which in turn sent it to the county prosecutor for review. The contract expired Dec. 31. In the meantime, the ambulance will serve Plymouth township on oral orders of Mayor Dean A. Cline.

Trustees of the township will submit a levy to pay for ambulance service to voters of the township in June. If it fails, there will be no ambulance service to the township.

Matmen close 1981 with unbeaten string

They don't draw crowds and the amount of non-school support is small, but Plymouth's wrestlers closed out 1981 with something to crow about: they're undefeated in dual competition.

It was the sixth consecutive win for Plymouth without a loss.

The Big Red recorded seven pins. It forfeited one bout.

Trojans rip Big Red; Schulz scores 26

South Central broke into Plymouth's zone defense with regularity at Greenwich Dec. 29 and routed the Big Red, 82 to 44.

No Plymouth team in 25 years has been beaten so badly.

Bill Schulz, the big Trojan center, who measures six feet six inches, scored 26 points. Plymouth simply could not deal with Schulz.

Repeatedly the Trojans penetrated the Plymouth zone for easy under-the-bucket shots.

South Central fired for field goal 70 times and was successful half of the time, a remarkable percentage even on the home floor. Plymouth scored 19 times in 70 tries. Which, of course, spelled the cause of the defeat.

Thanks to Schulz, the Trojans outrebounded Plymouth, 43 to 25.

Jeff Music scored 16 for the winners.

By winning, South Central raised its record to 7-and-1. Plymouth fell to 1-and-7.

Fixed (and variable) factors in Plymouth's athletics

(There begins today a series of pieces about athletics in the Plymouth school system. It is written by the most experienced observer of Plymouth athletics now alive: 28 seasons of watching Plymouth teams in action, having missed just three football games and only 27 basketball contests. The series is necessarily subjective in some respects, although its author has made every effort not to be subjective. Where confidence was requested, identity of informants has been protected.)

Buckeye Central's woman superintendent makes no bones about it: the success of the Bucks' athletic program, notably its outstanding football seasons in 1980 and 1981 and its current record in basketball, have made her job easier; she obtained approval of an operating levy to keep the schools going (many will recall that the schools were compelled to close a year or so ago because of shortage of funds) and has benefitted from an increased perception by school district patrons of the needs of education generally.

Lay it to what Howard Cosell calls "the American sports syndrome". He uses the phrase with much sarcasm, perhaps not without justification. But nobody has so far refuted his contention: the nation is addicted to competitive sports and the zeal to win at all costs. Vince Lombardi, the late great football coach, is widely quoted: "Winning is not everything, it's the ONLY thing!"

Plymouth teams haven't won much over 28 seasons.

The Advertiser over that period didn't cover every game or match in which Plymouth teams were involved. Its staff was and is too small for that. But it reported and recorded just under 100 per cent of those engagements.

And what are the results?

In the major spectator sports, Plymouth teams since 1964 have won 41 per cent of their engagements. In all sports, Plymouth teams have won 61 per cent of all engagements.

It is fashionable among Big Red fans to single out the level of competition in the new defunct Johnny Appleseed conference. Taking all contests into account, Plymouth teams won 56 per cent of all engagements. Admittedly, in football and basketball, the figure is considerably lower. Baseball, track and field, golf, volleyabll, tennis, cross country, softball and wrestling have raised the winning percentage.

What are the limitations on the athletic program here that affect the success of Big Red teams?

In the railroad business, there are two kinds of costs, fixed and variable. In athletics in Plymouth Local School district, there are two kinds of factors, fixed and variable.

This piece will deal with the fixed factors.

They are geographic, demographic and economic in nature.

Geographically, the location of the high school and its practice fields tends to limit participation to pupils who live within walking distance of the school. One coach says, "Our program is essentially a Plymouth program because of the geographic location of the school. Boys -- and girls -- who live more than a decent walk away from the school need transportation to get them home after practice."

To count the number of pupil vehicles in the school parking lot is to conclude that while economic conditions may be deteriorating, they haven't deteriorated so much here as to reduce the traffic of pupils' vehicles in the school yard.

These cars tend to serve those who are licensed to drive. This means 11th and 12th graders.

But any athletic program needs the feeders, the pupils in grades nine and 10 who, with experience, will accede to the positions vacated by older athletes. And these pupils require private transportation after practice and on evenings when games are played.

What this means is that, for all intents and purposes, pupils who live outside Plymouth township and New Haven township find it difficult to participate in athletics until they are 16 years of age. By which time, many of them have obtained their own transportation, for which they must pay. Fuel costs continue to rise. Insurance coverage for a vehicle owned and driven by a teenager is all but prohibitive in cost. These facts tend to dissuade 16-year-olds from athletics. "I've got to pay for my car," they say.

A parent whose children are now in high school says, "This is my second pair of boys participating in athletics. With the first pair, their father worked and I stayed home. We had two cars, which we could afford, and I would fetch the boys home after practice and take them to dress for the games. Now, I'm working, out of necessity. I can't get to the school to pick up the second set of boys because my work day ends too late. Their father can't pick them up, because he works second shift. So they have to do for themselves. Ten miles each way is too far for them, so the present pair doesn't participate."

The argument explains both the geographic and economic limitations on participation in athletics.

What of the demographic argument?

What is demography? It is the study of population, taking into account anthropology, living conditions, sex, age, marital status, size of family, race, religion, family income, education and a dozen other variables.

One long-time observer of the Big Red athletic scene admits he has no scientific data to support his conclusion. "The only scientific data I have," he said in response to The Advertiser's question, "is what I see and have seen. And that is that we don't seem to produce as many big boys as the schools that we play. Let's face it, a good big boy is better than a good small one. Over 20 years or so, I can remember only a handful of boys who weighed over 185 or stood over six feet four inches. And they were outstanding players, partly because there were few opponents who could slug it out with them."

One need only study the football and basketball programs published by the high school athletic department and those published by opponents over 25 seasons to note that, considering only those certified to play in a particular game, Plymouth's competitors are more often than not smaller by weight and height than players of opposing teams.

A final fixed factor relates to appointment of coaches.

Only once in 35 years has Plymouth actively sought a successful teacher-coach to come here to reproduce the program that made him locally famous.

His name was Frederick Kreutzfeld, who coached an undefeated team at Butler. Some members of the board of education and others interested in the football program approached him to ascertain if he would accept a contract at Plymouth.

He was hired as a teacher. He was subsequently appointed high school principal, although he continued to teach and coach. He produced the most successful football team in Plymouth's history, although he wasn't around to reap the benefits. He retired, temporarily, from teaching to go into the housing business with his father at Pt. Clinton.

Plymouth Board of Education has since then hired teachers, not coaches. If a candidate for a teaching job had qualifications as a coach, his application was considered at length. Perhaps at greater length than another's. Which is not to say that the board and administration did not widely advertise for one whose experience in coaching might warrant issuance of a contract to teach. But always the teaching qualifications were paramount.

When a teacher-coach is unsuccessful in the coaching role, and is persuaded, whether by himself or by others, to quit, he usually retains his teaching job, assuming his performance in the classroom has been satisfactory.

"We usually hire teachers on a one year limited contract," says Supt. Douglas Staggs. "It is in the discretion of the board, with the advice of the superintendent and the principal, whether to renew that teaching contract. It's been our policy, for longer than I have been here, to hire teachers. Admittedly, many teachers for one reason or another don't wish to coach. If we have a coaching vacancy, we must find a candidate whose teaching qualifications meet our needs, whether in mathematics or French or English or whatever. We consider teaching qualifications first, coaching qualifications second."

Which explains why, for economic reasons, changes in coaches, or the hiring of more experienced coaches (those who are experienced usually have been in teaching for a few years and have reached salary levels that Plymouth cannot or will not reach) can't be done quickly or often.

Another increase in interest rates for U.S. Savings Bonds.

9%
Growing Bigger... Faster.

That's the good news about U.S. Savings Bonds.
The Series EE Bonds you buy today grow bigger with an increased interest rate of 9%. And they do it faster, with a shortened maturity period of only 8 years. Interim rates have been improved, too. Bonds earn 6% after 1 year and 8½% if held 5 years.
These changes make Bonds much more desirable. And with the Payroll Savings Plan, it's easier to save more, in a shorter time.
In fact, almost all outstanding Savings Bonds will benefit from a 1% increase to their next maturity.
So take another look at Bonds. They're still easy to buy through the Payroll Savings Plan; they're safe, guaranteed. Take a look at the tax benefits. The new interest rates. The shortened maturity.
And you'll see Bonds do make sense.
For you, and for your country.

Council passes new appropriations

A final appropriation ordinance was passed by village council during a special meeting Jan. 5 to amend the original ordinance, 13-81, passed in March, 1981.

The new ordinance shows a $100,000 difference from the first one.

This is the result of more revenue than expected, thus more expenditures.

The first ordinance had income from the village income tax pegged at $64,853. Actual collections for the year totalled $107,200.

Another revenue producing item not accounted for was the interest from short term investments of funds not needed quickly.

The clerk-treasurer gained $37,715.39 for the serveral funds.

The additional expenditures included $31,000 for street repairs, paymenta to Robert A. McKown, former village solicitor and to Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland attorneys for their legal work in the suit against the bonding company for the sewer construction project, and additional sums for the police department.

Councilman Terry Hopkins questioned the necessity of having to approve a complete ordinance. He contended that only the amended sections should be considered. Since Ordinance 13-81 was passed, two other amendments to change the electric and water funds were approved.

Councilman John E. Hedeen agreed with him that the ordinance could be a shorter version.

During the discussion, Mayor Dean A. Cline telephoned the Cleveland accountants, Ernst & Whinney, who are supervising the village finances, and was told that the ordinance, which is merely a shuffling of funds so the financial year balances out, should be passed in its entirety.

A letter from Squire, Sanders & Dempsey was read by Councilman G. Thomas Moore, in which the firm thanked the village and the council for its integrity in paying its bill, which it had just about considered uncollectible.

Before the meeting began, the mayor formally swore in Hopkins, who is a newcomer to the council, and Councilmen Bill Taulbee and Moore, who were reelected in November.

The mayor was sworn to the remainder of his term Jan. 4 by the court bailiff, Mrs. Robert Reed.

Council to seek talk with trustees about ambulance

A meeting with Plymouth township trustees will be sought before the next council meeting on Jan. 19 to iron out the problems of the ambulance contract.

Meanwhile, the ambulance will continue to serve the township and will be covered by insurance which had been in doubt beforehand.

Apparently Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, and the Richland county prosecuting attorney who is handling the township's case have not been able to come to an agreeable understanding.

The latter had suggested the contract offered to the township is adequate if Sections 3 and 4 are omitted. These two sections call for a $100 fee for transportation to a hospital and $35 for a call where no one is transported.

Councilman Bill Taulbee said he attended a cemetery board meeting and the trustees wondered what had happened to their suggestion of raising rates, which had been presented to the council.

At the time the council was to check rates of nearby cemeteries for comparison, but apparently it forgot.

James C. Root, village administrator, said serious consideration should be given to the purchase of a new bucket truck for the electrical department to replace the one which has been in use since 1968.

A new vehicle will cost close to $45,000, but he said a used 1976 model in a good condition could be purchased for $17,000. The sum of $15,000 has been budgeted for this year for the purchase or set aside for a future purchase.

Root told the council some problems have arisen with the water line from Willard and are slowly being remedied, partly on the line and partly in the village's system.

He also said that it is too soon to determine if the new water rates will cover all the expenses of Willard water, but there is no question that there will not be any great surplus in the water fund as a result of the increased rates.

Formal mpassage of the several pay ordinances, covering village employees was approved after much discussion and changes.

The Motels are occupying the Robert L. McIntire house at Plymouth street and Mills avenue in Plymouth.

On Friday night, a house in Noble road caught fire while its occupant was at the Crestview-Plymouth basketball game. Ashes left in the garage ignited and destroyed the kitchen. The house is owned by Harry Seaman and is occupied by his daughter, Linda.

How to cut expenses outlined by Staggs

Four courses of action to save school funds suggested by Supt. Douglas Staggs were approved by Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

Staggs said that until the board received the amended certificate of available funds from the Richland county auditor, he feels the move is necessary.

One item, he said, he had planned to suggest anyway.

Beginning with the fifth grading period at the end of March, kindergarten classes will be all-day sessions, based on an even and odd day schedule.

The youngsters will ride to school with elementary school pupils and go home with high school pupils, thus saving bus travel.

Mark Sheely, Plymouth Elementary school principal, said the change was well received by parents last year when it was implemented.

Field trips by school classes are to be cancelled, at least for the time being, until it is ascertained that funds are available.

Saturday classes for pupils under suspension are also to be cancelled.

Staggs was given the go ahead to investigate the cost of a commercial driver education program., which might be cheaper than the present one. I fonly class room instruction is given with no actual driving, a savings can be realized, he said.

Staggs simply said the district needs to save money since it is apparent there will be less money coming from the state because of the new evaluation of property. He thinks his four proposals will not harm the educational process.

He also pointed out to the board that Plymouth district transportation costs are lower than the state average.

A cost analysis for two years has been distributed by the state department of education. It shows that for the school year of 1979-80 the average state cost of a school bus was $28.19 higher than Plymouth's and that for 1980-81 it was $638.89 higher.

Plymouth's costs per mile, per pupil and for maintenance and repairs also were lower.

High School Principal James Craycraft briefly discussed the proposed "course weighting program" which will be instituted with the Class of 1984.

He explained it has been determined that by the time a pupil reaches the junior year, many requirements have been fulfilled, leaving a choice of subjects.

A number of Richland county districts have already instituted the program.

What it does is give extra credit to pupils taking what are to pupils taking what are considered the more difficult subjects versus those who take less difficult ones.

The weighted courses will be English IV, which is not required for graduation, biology I and II, chemistry and physics, algebra I and II, geometry and trigonometry and calculus.

In the language department are four years of French and Spanish.

He also told the board the ninth grade orientation program is planned for Jan. 26 at 7 p. m. in the old gymnasium of the high school. The evening session is planned so that parents may attend. Scheduling for pupils will begin next month.

Sheely reported the program provided this month by the Gorman Nature Center was highly successful.

To make school more fun, he has instituted special days. Last week the pupils had a "clashing day" in wearing apparel and next month an "inside out" day is planned.

He is also setting up a parents' visitation, whereby parents can sit in the classroom to see what is being taught.

Another item, he said, is the planning of a career day, when various people in the community will explain their professions and businesses to the classes.

The board agreed there would be some special committees set up, except for Miller and Vredenburgh, who were reappointed to the athletic control

The board agreed there would be no special committees set up, except for Miller and Vredenburgh, who were reappointed to the athletic control board.

Mrs. Roger Pugh said she thinks the board should be totally involved with all aspects of the school and work together as a whole, as was done last year.

Her colleagues agreed.

Temporary appropriations for a three month period was approved in the amount of $535,209 for the general fund and $49,559 for the lunchroom program, which should be adequate until the permanent appropriation is finalized. This must be done by Apr. 1. Until the board hears from the county auditor as to the funds available, this is the only way to solve the problem.

Because Edward W. Kinsel, principal at the Shiloh buildings, was called from the meeting to solve a frozen pump problem, there was no report for the two schools there.

Yuletide travel no picnic, Auntie says, with experience

By AUNT LIZ

This was really a great holiday season.

We spent it with two of our children and their two, who were a ball.

Getting there and back, however, was another tale. Never again will we fly during a holiday. Especially in the winter.

You cannot trust the weather, but 50 million people ignore that and travel anyway.

We started out to leave Toledo, well off the beaten track of holiday travel, on a Tuesday morning. We stayed with kind friends Monday night and at the crack of dawn called the airport. Yes, we would leave at 7:30 a. m., so off we go.

We sat and sat until noon until the fog cleared up in Indiana. No way would that airline miss 80 passengers and let 40 or so fly alone. It really wasn't too bad, since I was equipped by our Monday night hostess with a bunch of antique papers and had something to read.

Finally we left, picked up all the poor people who had waited almost equally as we had, and off to Denver we go. They served breakfast at noon. It was very tasty, but by then, anything would be tasty.

So Stapleton International airport looms in sight. It is a very large airport, the fourth in the world. It had a problem. It had snowed the night before and nothing could land all morning, so when we get there about four, they are unloading planes from about three hours back.

There was no way to get us off, and me with two large hat boxes for our little ones. We sat for an hour, and eventually someone came on the intercom and said the pilots were "tossing" to see who got the next ladder to get everyone off. Our guy apparently won, because we were next.

I have been in many airports before, but such a zoo that afternoon!

People were scurrying around to see about connections to other places, and there were the skiers. Gad, you had to be careful or you would have had an eye knocked out by some character carting a pair of skis.

One thing I will give United credit for, it knew how irked all the passengers were about it, and it had the good grace at the end of the flight not to say "Thank you for flying United".

The week in Denver was great, but coming home was another story. Everyone got all belted in, ready to go. The sky was blue, the runways were cleared of snow, and there was nothing to stop us. Then the happy pilot comes on and says there will be a small 20 minute delay in taking off. He nicely turned off the no smoking sign at this point.

Then two minutes later, he comes back on and says all seasoned travellers know "when we say 20 minutes, it really means 40." And 45 minutes later, we took off, and because the winds were pushing us, we got home almost on the dot.

This is my last time over a Christmas. I will walk to the next place.

Once we got off that plane at dinner time in Denver instead of 9:30 a. m., we ended up having a delicious dinner. Easy too. And if you have a timer on your stove, you have it made, just set it and wait for your family to come airborne.

This is what our daughter did.

She calls it "No Peek Stew".

This made more than enough for four generous servings, and I think can do six with no sweat.

Start with a pound of beef stew meat in bite size pieces. Add a can of cream of mushroom soup, a package of dry onion soup mix, a fourth of a can of dry red wine. Mix it up, throw in a bunch of cut up carrots and potatoes, you guess at this.

Cover tightly and bake four hours at 300 to 325. It will thicken and be great.

Girls win two: over Cougars, Chieftains

Big Red girls made short work of Crestview there Friday.

Plymouth jumped off to an early lead, went to the half-time recess in the van by 13 points and outscored the Cougarettes by one point in the last half. The score was 51 to 39.

Becky Turson threw in 19 points for the winners, who shot 53 per cent from the field, with 24 successes in 43 tries. They missed six of nine free throws. Renee Taylor was the only other Plymouth player in double figures. She had 16.

Plymouth thus avenged an earlier, one-point defeat by Crestview in Black Fork Valley conference play. Suzi Harmon had 14 for Crestview. Crestview shot for field goal 52 times and tried 10 free throws.

Plymouth girls edged Hopewell-Loudon Saturday, 66 to 64.

The score was tied at 49 after three periods. The Big Red broke it open and led by eight with two and a half minutes to play, whereupon the Chieftains managed to break through the Plymouth zone and creep to within two.

Renee Taylor fired in 22 points for the winners. Becky Turson had 19 and Lisa Daron 14.

Nan Sauder of the Chieftains was game high with 24. Chris Deahl contributed 19.

Plymouth controlled the boards, 48 to 21, and committed fewer turnovers, 24 to 31. And the big Red was much better in its shooting. Plymouth's record was 31 of 58 shots at the basket but it missed nine of 13 free throws. The Chieftains shot for field goal 74 times and made 29. They missed all of 17 free throws.

Cougars erupt in second half

Crestview broke the game open in the third period at Olivesburg Friday night and marched away with a 58 to 44 victory over Plymouth in Black Fork Valley conference play.

The contest was close for 16 minutes. The Cougars led by just two at the half.

But quick baskets by Mike Kochheiser and two by Mike Williams improved Crestview's lead early in the third quarter and Plymouth was compelled to play catch-up basketball thereafter.

That Plymouth was even in the contest at the half was a small miracle. The visitors weren't able to make a field goal in the second period, being forced to settle for seven free throws. As it developed, better free throw shooting by each team would have increased the margin of victory.

The Big Red was outscored by nine in the third period and try though it did, it could not eat into the Cougar lead in the final eight minutes. Crestview scored 19, Plymouth only 15.

The Cougars shot exceptionally well. They got off 49 tries for field goal and converted 22 of them. They missed eight of 22 free throws.

Plymouth shot much less well. It tried for field goal 45 times and was successful with 14 of them. At the free throw line the Big Red failed with nine of 25 tries.

The visitors outrebounded Crestview by one, 30 to 29, but made more mistakes on offense: 22 to 20.

Williams was game high scorer with 18, the only Cougar in double figures. Eight other Crestview players hit the scorebook.

Brad Postema and Steve Mowry had 10 apiece for the Big Red, which got seven others onto the scorebook.

When the outcome was no longer in doubt, Coach Dave Dunn went to his bench.

Matmen lose to Flyers

185-lb. bout turns tables against Red

Big Red wrestlers lost their first dual meet of the season, after seven victories, at Norwalk Thursday, falling before St. Paul's, 36 to 32, on the strength of a win in the 185-pound class.

The score stood at 33 to 26 in the Flyers' favor when the 185-pound bout began. Plymouth's strength is in the heavier weights and Coach Richard Roll was beginning to taste a come-from-behind victory.

But Bob Dudics managed to outpoint Junior Adams, 11 to 7, and that clinched it for St. Paul's. Dudics is just a ninth grader.

Summary:

98-lb.: McFadden (S) pinned Mumea (P), 3:07;

105-lb.: Mack (S) 17, Miller (P) 5;

112-lb.: Moorman (P) pinned Peters (S), 3:15;

119-lb.: Stima (P) 9, K. Jaworski (S) 7;

Second of a series —

Fixed (and variable) factors in Plymouth's athletics

Given some fixed factors in Plymouth High school athletics, what are the variable factors?

They number five, at the outset. There may perhaps be others.

The first one is quality and quantity of the material, which varies from year to year. Every school has its ups and downs. There is, so far as modern science has any way to measure it, no way to forecast in advance what kind of material will be available.

Yet, say the nay sayers, such schools as Willard produce winners year after year. The same is true of Shelby in football. And Crestview in track and field. New London has consistently had a successful football team.

It is often said, "Shelby is a football town". It used to be said of Bellville and Butler that they were football towns. For some years after the consolidation, Clear Fork produced outstanding football teams. Now the Colts have fallen on fallow years.

Willard, in the past 10 years, anyway, has been spoken of as "a basketball town". The Crimson Flashes have done exceptionally well in that period. Much of the success is attributable to the splendid coaching of Bob Haas and his staff and the program they had instituted.

Which suggests the second variable factor: the feeder program, which is as good as the material that comes into it and the kind of instruction given to it.

A third factor is the quality of the coaching at all levels. This series has already pointed out that because of limited finances and the necessity to hire teachers first, then coaches, perhaps – and only perhaps – the school district has not engaged the best coaches. If a coach won't apply for the job, there's nothing the school district can do. There are scores of coaches who wouldn't live in this school district (not because it's Plymouth, but because it's small, its cultural and entertainment opportunities are limited, housing of a rental character isn't readily available, shopping isn't what it is in, say, Lorain or Lima, there's no local hospital, some consumer services don't exist – there are a number of such shortcomings from the standpoint of those who were raised in urban areas) if you paid them $40,000 a year (which is unheard of anyway).

A corollary to the third factor is the amount of money available to pay coaches and to fund the program.

The superintendent has already been at pains to describe how the program suffers when the football and basketball teams don't win. People turn out to see a winner. Only in Detroit, Mich., is it different. Sports fans in Detroit will support their home town team no matter what!

With school budgets constricted owing to reduced state funds and changes in the evaluation process, the amount of money available with which to pay coaches is, naturally, simiarly restricted. Plymouth's pay scale for coaching is not likely to advance in the next several seasons. Those who aspire to coaching jobs will need to accommodate themselves to the pay scale or forget about it.

Similarly, unless the program turns around, or unless the Boosters club devises some magic way to make a lot of money easily, there won't be so much money to fund the programs. None of the Booster club money, or other earnings of the program, goes to pay coaches. But it is used to buy training devices, to pay for road trips, to pay for special equipment – all items that successful coaches are integral parts of a successful program.

Next week The Advertiser will examine the first variable factor, the quality – and the quantity – of the material.

Lions to stage charter night

Plymouth Lions club will observe its charter night Jan. 16.

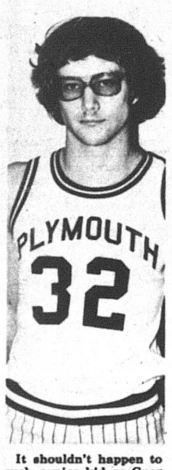

A dinner is planned at BPOElks club, Norwalk, at 7 p. m.

All members are urged to attend the affair with visiting dignitaries from other clubs.

Supper set

A spaghetti supper will be served Saturday from 6 to 7 p. m. for members and guests only in Ehret-Parsel Post 447.

Members of the post auxiliary are in charge.

It shouldn't happen to such a nice kid as Greg Polachek, 11th grader who's suffering through a basketball season that, so far, is just as dismal as the football season just closed.

One of the two tall players on the Big Red squad, he's used as starter and as relief man, notably for rebounding strength. No great shooter, he relies on garbage shots under the basket to improve his scoring level.

An outstanding baseball player -- he's a catcher on the Plymouth nine -- he expects to join a small legion of Plymouth athletes who've won nine or more letters when he's through in June of 1983.

Quiet, unassuming, faithful, coachable, earnest -- that's Greg Polachek. He'll see action at Wakeman Saturday when Plymouth faces Western Reserve.

Sno-ball set

Five Plymouth players will be part of Mack's Super-Valu softball team in the second annual March of Dimes Snoball tourney at Cyclops circle, Mansfield, Saturday and Sunday.

These are Bill Furr, Jr., coach; his father, Jerry and Bob Furr and Wendell Wright.

Other players are Jim Roberts, Shelby, and Mike Pugh, Rick Adams, Steve Chambers, John Weiss and Robert Flores, Willard.

They'll play Doc Sawyer's Marina Saturday at 10 a. m.

Village balances in black ink

Balances in village funds as of Dec. 31 are in the black.

The general fund has $20,255.92.

Total of all funds hovers about $351,371, but may be a little more because of additional money in the bond retirement fund for the first sewer construction, when a bond issue of $150,000 was passed to help finance it.

Other funds show balances as follows: income tax, $3,252.37, which will be considerably increased when the December quarterly payments are recorded; cemetery, $9,726.20; fire operating and maintenance, $499.50, and the fire pumper fund, $89,364.51. A three mill levy passed for a five year period still has this year to run.

The street fund stands at $1,951.05 and the state highway fund at $1,768.47.

The village has $2,346.15 from the Huron county permissive vehicle tax, which is held by the county commissioners until requested and can only be used for the Huron county side of the village.

As of the first of the year, the $5 tax is being collected for license tags on the Richland side and will be forthcoming for street work in Richland county.

The park fund has $3,281.14 to begin this year. In the past it has received about $500 annually from the Plymouth Community Chest drive, which was not conducted in 1981.

Operating and maintenance funds for the ambulance have a balance of $3,028.01 and the ambulance reserve fund stands at $11,129.50.

The electric fund has $40,128.20 in the operating and maintenance fund. The reserve fund remains at $38,091.

Sewer operating and maintenance fund is $7,988.67 with $46,659 in the reserve fund.

The water fund has $8,462.73 in operating and maintenance and $2,911.31 in its reserve fund.

Galion mayor to seek Ohio House nomination

Galion's controversial woman mayor, Paulette Ritchey, a Democrat, will seek her party's nomination in June to run for the new seat in the 90th House district of Ohio.

The district includes all of Huron and Crawford counties.

The 35-year-old Miss Ritchey served as councilman at Galion for two years before she was elected mayor in November of 1979.

Paul Capelle, Willard's city manager since 1974, announced he will seek the GOP nomination for the same seat. The 49-year-old Capelle would oppose Robert (Mac) Morrison, 61, principal of Colonel Crawford High school at North Robinson and a member of the Ohio Athletic Control board, who will retire as educator.

Whether more candidates will enter the field isn't certain now.

David A. Howard, former councilman and school board member here, seems optimistic about running for the 90th district seat. He said his campaign "is looking positive and I am looking forward to it."

In the new 64th district, a 19-year-old graduate of Madison High school in 1980, Rex Elsass, will seek the GOP nomination.

Frank Sawyer, 29, a Democrat, president of Mansfield's council, will seek his party's nomination.

Rep. Sherrod Brown, incumbent representative to the General Assembly, will seek the Democratic nomination to be secretary of state.

Moore to head council

Councilman G. Thomas Moore was chosen president pro tempore by village council Jan. 12.

He will preside at meetings and the mayor's court when Mayor Dean A. Cline is absent.

The mayor made these committee appointments: John Hedeen and Moore, finance; Ronald Frederk, Terry Hopkins and Bill Taulbee, public service; Taulbee, Hopkins and Hedeen, rules and administration; Moore and Hopkins, public safety and planning.

Moore and Taulbee will represent the council on the Firemen's Dependency board.

The fire department has chosen Hopkins and Timothy Redden as its representatives to the board.

The four will choose a fifth member, who has been Albert Marvin in the past.

Daniel Hockley, Mrs. Music join council at Shiloh

Mrs. Barbara Music, who formerly served as councilman at Shiloh, was sworn to a four year term as councilman there Jan. 13.

She will complete a term for which there was no candidate.

She resides at 137 Scott street.

Daniel Hockley, 34 North street, was sworn to the other term for which there was no candidate.

Robert Boock, whose wife is the village clerk-treasurer, was appointed to be trustee of public affairs. Frank Cline, president pro tempore of the council until Jan. 13, said he was reluctant to support Boock's candidacy because of his relationship with the clerk-treasurer. More. Boock said she was assured there would be no conflict of interest by the solicitor.

Roger Renwick.

Mayor Francis Gowitzka said he cannot find a candidate to fill the other vacancy on the board of trustees.

Cline and Delmar Nesbitt declined nomination to be president pro tempore and Charles R. Reeder won the nod.

John Barnhart was rehired as zoning inspector at $500 a year.

Cline said the village can save money by combining the monthly utility charges into one bill, owing to the fact that First Buckeye Bank has raised the fee for dealing with utility bills. Mrs. Boock said she thinks there will be more delinquencies if one bill is sent. She suggested the council should seek to obtain a reduction in the charge collected by the bank, which is now 10 cents a bill.

Mayor Gowitzka appointed committees for 1982 thus: Cline, chairman; Hockley and Nesbitt, industrial; Cline, chairman; Nesbitt and Reeder, police; Cline, chairman; Nesbitt and Mrs. Music, sewer and finance; Richard Tallman, chairman; Reeder and Hockley, insurance; Reeder, chairman; Mrs. Music and Tallman, building and safety.

Income tax during 1981 was $98,616

In her year-end report to village council, Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, income tax director, shows a total of $98,616.27 was collected.

There were 204 withholdings from wages, 116 businesses and 265 individuals who filed tax forms.

She estimates collections for 1982 will be less. She has set the figure at $95,000.

In a statement, she says, "The prediction for 1982 assumes a general economy to be about the same as 1981 and that the lower amount reflects the move of Banner Internation to Willard last July."

She does, however, hold out hope that the 1982 collections will be equal to those of 1981 if the economy perks up in this area.

She also says, "General compliance with the ordinance has remained quite good. However, at this point in time we appear to have a number of individual delinquent accounts. While the revenue implication of these is not great, enforced collection action may be necessary in the interest of maintenance of overall compliance. Such a course of action will be considered with our solicitor after the annual returns are filed in April, when we can distinguish between unemployment and delinquency."

Strine asks council to buy ambulance

During the Jan. 12 meeting of village council, Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine made several requests.

He suggested the purchase of a new ambulance, that the fire station be fully repaired and insulated and that liability insurance be provided to the firemen.

He also recommended the ambulance rates be revised upward.

The council agreed to consider his requests.

A capital trip to Capitol: 30 hours!

There is nothing like driving from Ohio to Washington, D. C., at 30 miles an hour.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Pittenger did just that Jan. 13 and arrived there Thursday at 3 a. m.

By then their hotel decided they would not make their reservations and gave their rooms to other stranded people.

This meant a little more driving to another hotel.

They returned Sunday much faster.

Firemen deal with two blazes

Thawing of frozen water pipes caused two blazes over the sub-zero weekend.

Plymouth firemen were called to the residence of Forrest Butler, 52 Mulberry street, Friday at 2:37 p. m. Little damage was noted.

The second call came Saturday at 2:02 p. m. to the McQuillen house in Plymouth East road, where the insulation caught on fire.

Banner gets fresh money at 13 per cent

Placement of $10 million in 13 per cent convertible subordinated notes due Mar. 1, 1997, was completed last week by Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

The first $5 million was issued at a conversion price of $15. The second $5 million will be issued in March.

Wertheim & Co. arranged the placement.

Banner said the borrowings will be used to reduce borrowings from commercial banks and for other corporate purposes, including possible acquisitions. This financing will reduce Banner's weighted average interest rate from the 10.6 per cent level reported in its fiscal year ended June 30.

$2,000 theft in Mill street

Teri Meiser, 23½ West Broadway, reported to Plymouth Police department Sunday at 8:30 p. m. that the knob on the door to her apartment had been forcibly taken off.

Nothing was found to be missing.

On Jan. 11 Steven Bailey, 54 Mill street, reported that jewelry, which was valued at almost $2,000, was taken from his residence.

Carl McPherson, 84, dies at Norwalk

Father of Carl M. McPherson, Carl F. McPherson, 84, Norwalk, died Sunday at his home.

Born in Fairfield township, Huron county, July 29, 1897, he lived in Norwalk 35 years. He formerly farmed in Fairfield township, then was employed by Norwalk Truck Lines, Inc., thereafter as a landscaper by Paul E. Bleile Co., Norwalk, and finally by Cornelius J. Ruffing, a Norwalk attorney, until he retired in 1979.

He was a member of First Baptist church, whose minister, the Rev. Paul Smith, conducted services yesterday at 1 p. m. Burial was in North Fairfield cemetery.

He is also survived by two sons, Keith S., Shelby, and Dale W., Ashland, formerly of Plymouth; two daughters, Sara, now Mrs. Eldo Meeker, Berlin Hts., and Louise, now Mrs. Robert Bauman, Norwalk; 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

His wife, Dorothy, died in July, 1981. A daughter, Beth Lucille, died in 1940. Two brothers, Lester and Everett, and two sisters, Edith Mary and Nina Pearl, died earlier.

Born Christel Van Scoy in Fairfield township, Huron county, she lived in Greenwich and New London most of her life. She moved to Ashland and Pine Island four years ago.

She taught in New London and Mapleton districts for many years.

She is also survived by her husband; a son, Harold O., Westerville; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Sharpless, Greenwich, and three brothers, Myron, Frank and Fred Van Scoy, all of Greenwich.

The Rev. Dan Gault, Church of Christ, Fredericksburg, conducted services at New London Saturday at 3 p. m. Burial was in Grove Street cemetery, New London.

'43% of local trade has Willard origin' — EAS witnesses favor service to Willard

Forty-three per cent of the trade done by Plymouth's diminishing retail community is done with persons having Willard telephones, an examiner for the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio was told Thursday as 19 witneses testified in favor of extended area service between the two towns.

Cost of the service on the present rate schedule would be 30 cents a month to Plymouth residential subscribers but nothing to Willard subscribers.

William R. Miller, proprietor of Plymouth's only hardware and a director of Willard United bank, said 43 per cent of his customers live in the Willard telephone exchange.

William D. Hill, proprietor of Hill's Jewelry & Gift shop, said 40 per cent of his customers come from the Willard exchange.

Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard, speaking for Plymouth Pharmacy, said the establishment prepares no prescriptions for other than Willard doctors living in Willard.

Village Administrator James C. Root said there are times when emergency units of Plymouth need to communicate with Willard urgently for mutual aid, in some instances, or for back-up information in connection with criminal investigations. He added that the new water line between the two towns requires up to six calls a day.

Mrs. William Chapman, who lives in the east side of Route 61 at the north edge of the Plymouth exchange, said she has two children in Willard schools. One call from Willard, placed with operator assistance, cost 80 cents. Its message: "Hello, Mom, come get me."

Supt. Douglas Staggs, who organized the presentation for Plymouth subscribers, pointed out there are a number of instances when the schools and others in the community must rely upon services that are available exclusively in Willard, such as hospitalization (the inference was that Plymouth's only physician does not admit patients to Shelby) and medical care.

Paul Duffy, a lawyer, was the examiner. He said a report will be issued in about 90 days, to which each party may file an objection. These objections will be laid before the PUCO at Columbus.

Andrew Jones, an attorney representing General Telephone Co., said costs to his employer would be in excess of revenues derived. These costs, he said, would be $100,300 at the outset. Yearly maintenance costs would be not less than $36,341, he said.

Jones also argued that Plymouth is self-sufficient and does not need Willard so much as some witnesses contended.

City Manager Paul Capelle, Willard, testified that community cohesiveness is a desirable aim of EAS and alluded to the development of "the shopping center era" (although he gave no details, and was not pressed for any) that would require unlimited telephone access by residents of Plymouth and Willard.

Jones suggested the solution to the proposal is that Plymouth and Willard should choose Optional Off-Peak Service, which could be made available more quickly and would provide a discount of 30 per cent to all subscribers between 3 p. m. and 9 a. m. each day.

Two pay $260 in court

Walter J. Tackett was fined $100 for resisting arrest and $50 for disorderly conduct after he pleaded guilty last week in the mayor's court. He was also sentenced to 20 days in the Huron county jail.

Also charged with two counts, speeding and resisting arrest, was Bruce Sams, who pleaded guilty. He was fined $10 on the first charge and $100 on the second.

Virgil Owens, charged with assault and domestic violence, pleaded not guilty and the case has been transferred to Shelby Municipal court.

A waiver of $20 and court costs was posted by Nana J. Eulett, Norwalk, who was charged with failure to drive on the right side of the roadway.

Tax bills in mail

First half 1981 real estate statements have been mailed to Huron county freeholders, Mrs. Ardeth L. Chupp, treasurer, announces. The final date for payment had been established as Jan. 31, but through the efforts of Mrs. Chupp, the Board of Tax Equalization of Ohio has granted an extension until Feb. 10 for the payment of the taxes.

This same policy applies to the mobile home or trailer statements which were to have been due by Jan. 31.

Here's mayor's annual report

By law, the executive officer of this municipal corporation is required to give a report on the affairs of the Village. I will do this in outline form starting with 1981 and ending with my recommendations for 1982 as follows:

I. Receivership

The village was put into receivership by the state at the request of former mayor Eric Akers, as a result of failure of the village to meet several requirements that were to be met by law. All requirements were met to the satisfaction of the state; the commission is reviewing the financial situation. I expect the village will be severed from receivership by early spring.

II. Codified Ordinances

The codifications are completed, enabling accessibility at our fingertips to the many ordinances we require to run a village properly. Codifications were extremely important because of the fact thet the village had not had this done since 1949.

III. State of Emergency due to the Acute Water Supply

The waterline between Plymouth and Willard was the least expensive and quickest way to solve the problem. I feel the state of emergency is now non-existent.

IV. Electric Study

This study will help to answer the many unanswered questions and will help us solve problems that exist in our growing community.

V. Past Due Liabilities

Council devised and executed a plan to pay past due liabilities by the end of 1981. These liabilities were left by prior governing bodies.

VI. Ownership of Ambulance

This has been a controversial problem since I have been involved with the village council and even before that time. I feel that this has been established and is final, that the Village of Plymouth has ownership.

In summary, for 1981 I feel that it was a very prosperous year for Plymouth in many areas, although there were many struggles, including the PLW strike and the turnover of village personnel. If we can project for 1982 the forward progress that 1981 has left us, then Plymouth will be a better village in which to live.

For 1982, I have a few recommendations that I feel are necessary to maintain that forward progress that 1981 put forth. I will not include the many capital improvements we hope to accomplish in 1982. I will briefly outline 1982 recommendations:

I. Better Communications

Communication is a necessary building block for a good foundation. I feel we lack this not only in "in house" but also in areas outside of Plymouth council and employees, such as township meetings, school board meetings, governmental meetings for grants, Chamber of Commerce meetings, etc.

II. Zoning

This too has been an item of discussion for many years. I feel this should be completed before 1983.

III. Residential

To become a strong residential area, I feel we need a strong promotional plan to encourage housing development.

IV. Pay Ordinance

I feel our present pay ordinance is inadequate for both employees and taxpayers of Plymouth. Our next pay ordinance will be more complete.

V. Taxes

Village council and residents of Plymouth should start considering what is going to happen when our income tax money has run out. I feel that some type of pre-planning should start this year.

In summary, for 1982 I feel we have even a busier year ahead to maintain our forward progress which is extremely important to all who live in or near the Village of Plymouth. Good luck to us all.

Dean A. Cline

Here's recipe for frozen peas that's guaranteed to be good!

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing like having another mouth to feed in your house.

Our four legged friends come first, which is kind of helping us to diet a little.

When all the radio stations say there is a big snow coming, we rush out and stock up on cat food and dog biscuits to make sure there would not be any hungry charcters around.

They do not appreciate it one bit. They simply expect to have full dishes, which the biggest one of the bunch cannot stand, so he cleans them all out at one clip.

Once that chore is done and all dishes filled up again, it is time to go outside for you-know-what.

The littlest one of the bunch loves the great outdoors, especially when the snow is deep and it is eight below.

She romps like mad, buries her nose in the snow, then explores the neighborhood. This causes rather undignified behavior when you have to chase her down three houses away. Running through the snow also gets the hems of a nightie and robe soaking wet.

Most people get up in the morning and put on warm bedroom slippers. No me. It's boots.

Someone said a new pup keeps you young. That is not true, it is aging me like mad.

Who wants to start any day standing outside and yelling, "Go potty"? And if a little cocker can smile at all, she does. She thinks I am saying, "Go play!"

We did give her a name. Really a nice one, Tuffett, but lately she has been called Dracula. You try to hold her and cuddle a little, and she sinks her sharp little teeth into your neck.

Her father is having a ball playing with her. Sometimes, though, he can get rough and has to be hawled off her while she is screaming like mad. I know he is not hurting her and he must be reminded that she is the result of two glorious afternoons he had in our garage with a visiting friend.

When they are finally played out and snoozing, life gets back to normal.

This, translated, means to cook.

This can take the place of what most of us call a salad. It is a nice change, especially since lettuce has zoomed up so much.

Cook a 10-ounce package of tiny small peas. Drain.

Mix a cup of sour cream, a little less than a tablespoon of dill weed, a teaspoon of chopped chives (finely chopped onion can also work), a dash of pepper and salt and a teaspoon of curry powder.

Sprinkle it with a little fresh lemon juice.

Carefully combine with the peas, chill. When ready to serve garnish with more dill and chives.

If your family kind of turns up its nose at cooked carrots, for which I do not blame it, try this. Carrots are better raw, but this sauce makes them into something good and disguises them.

Combine two tablespoons of sugar, two teaspoons of corn starch, a half teaspoon of salt and a half teaspoon of ginger.

Add a half cup of orange juice and boil until it thickens. Stir in about three tablespoons of butter and pour over the carrots.

These recipes were a Christmas present along with a whole box of others.

And since our daughter gave them to us, they please all ages, even wee ones.

Third in a series —

Fixed (and variable) factors in Plymouth's athletics

"Why is it that year after year we have excellent junior high school teams in football and basketball, which is all I care about, and often a good to very good ninth grade team, only to have it all fall apart when they get to the varsity level?"

The question is asked by a longstanding fan of the Big Red. He is not the first to ask it. The question in this or another form is asked scores of times each season, year after year.

Does the question have substance?

To the extent that Shiloh Junior High teams have excelled in football and basketball over the past 15 years, the answer is yes. These teams have excelled, often with championships in tourneys especially arranged to accommodate seventh and eighth grade teams. There are no tourneys in football. Not for junior high school players, anyway. For basketball players, the record shows that in the past 15 years, Shiloh teams have placed first, second or third in the county, the conference, or a special tourney arranged for eighth graders. (Note: the reference to conference excludes the Black Fork Valley conference, in which third place is much akin to kissing one's sister.)

As for ninth graders, the reference can only be made in basketball. There is no organized competition for ninth graders in football.

Nevertheless, over 15 seasons, ninth grade teams have ranked first, second or third in the county, the conference or in tourneys 10 times.

"How come these players who are so good at the seventh, eighth and ninth grade levels suddenly turn out to be not so good at the 10th, 11th and 12th grade levels?" asks the fan.

There are some explanations, valid ones. Not contrived ones, but honest explanations.

Here're some of them.

First, there is pressure to advance a player beyond his peer group. In the past 20 seasons, there are 15 situations that come immediately to mind where players were sent to the varsity team in advance of their peers. Some of them produced importantly in the first, or 10th grade year, but fell victim to the same developments that afflict all boys of that age. Their egos developed too fast, or they become local folk heroes and became ensnared in girl trouble, or they fizzled out because, in the act of sending them to the varsity level before they were really prepared, they found a shortage of fundamental skills with which to compete with their peer group at the 11th and 12th grade levels.

Fred Heinlen, a veteran of 40 years of high school coaching in the Greater Cleveland area, writes a special column relating to high school athletics for Ohio's largest newspaper. He is widely regarded as authoritative and experienced in his field.

He wrote three weeks ago on the mystery of the development of 13- and 14-year-old boys, which bulwarks the second explanation.

It is that not all boys develop at the same speed or to the same level as others and, by corollary, such development as occurs at ages 12 through 14 differs from that which transpires at ages 15 through 18.

"The 12-, 13- and 14-year-old player," says Heinlen, "is usually individually developed. He has competed against his peers almost exclusively. He has developed his own motor skills as an individual, and if he has developed them well, he is a star in his own right, often a big scorer or a big gainer, at his age level. But when he gets to age 15 and older, he is forced to compete not only with his peer group but with older players, many of whom, if not all of whom, have developed their own motor skills at least to his exceptional level. And he discovers that these older players have a skill that he doesn't have as yet. It is the ability to blend his talents into team play. It is rare, particularly in a small school or with a small squad, that all of the players have a superior level of skill development. In the smaller school, we have as many 16-year-olds as 17- and 18-year-olds on the teams because of this fact.

"Of course, in big schools, it's unusual to see an 11th grader on the varsity team because there are so many 12th graders whose skills are much more developed. They're bigger, they're faster, they're more experienced. It's a fact of life that you can't change."

A third explanation is that while one or two players of superior talent may come along each season, or every other season, the presence of a team of such players runs in cycles. Trouble is, nobody knows what that cycle is. In one school it may be every three years, in another every five, in a third every seven, in yet another every 10.

To some extent, this is a matter of coaching, of the quality of the organized feeder program, of the level and enthusiasm of parental encouragement, of the community's attitude toward excellence in athletics and the rewards it extends to those who achieve well. It is also a matter of genes and of demographics that no coach anywhere, neither a Rockne nor a Lombardi nor a Wooden, can control, or even predict.

Next week the series will deal with the quality and quantity of the feeder program.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?
We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.
Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Another increase in interest rates for U.S. Savings Bonds.

That's the good news about U.S. Savings Bonds.
The Series EE Bonds you buy today grow bigger, with an increased interest rate of 9%. And they do it faster, with a shortened maturity period of only 8 years. Interim rates have been improved, too. Bonds earn 6% after 1 year and 8½% if held 5 years.
These changes make Bonds much more desirable. And with the Payroll Savings Plan, it's easier to save more, in a shorter time.
In fact, almost all outstanding Savings Bonds will benefit from a 1% increase to their next maturity.
So take another look at Bonds. They're still easy to buy through the Payroll Savings Plan; they're safe, guaranteed. Take a look at the tax benefits. The new interest rates. The shortened maturity. And you'll see Bonds do make sense.
For you, and for your country.

Take stock in America.

From July to December —

Ambulance made 59 calls

Fifty-nine ambulance calls were answered by Plymouth Ambulance service from July through December Kenneth Echelberry, head of the service, reports.

Twenty-eight were in the village, 11 in Plymouth township, one in New Haven township, six in Tiro and Auburn township. There was a mutual aid call to Cass township.

The ambulance travelled 871 miles during the six month period.

Since the service was begun in 1973 a total of 845 calls has been answered.

Echelberry also reports that 133 bills are outstanding.

1980 alumnus tapped to play in BGSU band

A 1980 Plymouth High school graduate, Terry Baker has been chosen to play in the Bowling Green State university concert band.

For two seasons he has performed with the university marching band. He plays the trumpet.

He is also a member of the school chorus, which will go to Chicago, Ill., for several days in March to give concerts.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Baker.

Harper chosen to head board

Former Methodist minister here, the Rev. Richard G. Harper, Collins, has been elected chairman of the Huron County Board of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities.

Elizabeth Fackler, enrolled at the University of Toledo, plans to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Fackler.

Mrs. J. Michael Winans and her sons, Bradley and Timothy, Fremont, spent last weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Webber, and spent most of the time skiing.

Township tax base is $5,466,279

Tax valuation of Plymouth township is $5,466,279, its clerk, Joseph J. Lasch, certifies in his annual report.

Tax levy for township purposes is $4.30.

Freeholders of the township domiciled in Plymouth pay only $1.80, which amounts to about $8,700 a year.

Population of the township is 2,275 persons.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

On candidates

Not since the late Fred Dawson, who lived outside Shiloh, was commissioner almost a generation ago has northern Richland county had anyone serving in county office.

He was a capable and efficient servant of the people and he went to his grave with the knowledge that he was respected for that service.

One commissioner has said he won't seek reelection this year.

Dale Cook has served faithfully and with some success. Not so much as he, or we, would have liked, but some success all the same.

Is it written in the stars that no one living north of Route 39 can be chosen by his party to seek election in November?

The pay is not overpowering. Cook managed to serve the county and to participate in his family business, a prosperous one. At least one of his colleagues relies entirely, or almost entirely, on the official salary for livelihood.

Our point is that somewhere in Plymouth, Cass, Bloominggrove, Sharon, Butler or Jackson townships there must be someone, whether Republican or Democrat, who can collect enough support to prevail in the primary in June and again in the general election in the fall.

Come to think of it, there is no reason to believe that Ohio, for example, would be necessarily poorly served if both of its senators lived in Cleveland. And, by corollary, there is no reason to believe it would be better served if such were the case.

People being what they are, they tend to trust, to rely upon, to support those who're their neighbors.

People of Plymouth, Cass, Bloominggrove, Butler, Sharon and Jackson townships, unite! We need candidates.

2.7% drop recorded in census

A 2.7 per cent decrease in population between 1970 and 1980 is what the U. S. Bureau of the Census says occurred in Plymouth.

It certified last week the amended count of noses completed by law in 1980. It is 1,939 persons.

Population in 1970 was 1,993 persons.

Son born to Pennells

A son was born Jan. 20 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pennell, Shiloh.

Oversight of funds to end soon

As soon as resident staff can familiarize itself with a new accounting procedure, Plymouth can divest itself of the fiscal overseer process into which it was plunged by its ultimate mavor. Eric J. Akers, in May, 1980.

That was the consensus Thursday of the financial planning commission meeting in monthly session. George Lord, chairman of the state controlling board who is a member of the commission, said the village's deficit situation has been dealt with and new management controls are in place. He said he thinks it's about time to shut down the commission.

Ralph Roll, Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants who are overseers of the village's finances, agreed. But, he said, the village clerk-treasurer, Mrs. Sidney Ream, needs more time to become acquainted with new accounting procedures. Mrs. Ream herself confirmed this fact.

Ernst & Whinney reported the village ended 1981 with $20,300 in its general fund and an overall surplus of $334,000 in all funds.

Appropriations for 1982 in the amount of $1,107,000, of which $213,000 comes from the general fund, have been approved.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said the village's financial problems in the past derived from an inadequate bookkeeping system. "With this new system," he said, "I don't think there will be any problems."

Gregory Kibler, controller of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., a member of the commission, said the village has improved its fiscal position "faster than I thought it would".

Mayor Dean A. Cline said progress has been made because village officials are working together.

First time here, European ends visit with sister

Mrs. Hildegard Brenn and her 12-year-old daughter, Suzy, left Sunday for their home in Wiesbaden, West Germany, after a three week visit with her sister, Mrs. Leroy King. This was her first visit to this country.

Mrs. Hawk elected by Lutherans

Mrs. Ivan Hawk is the newly elected member of the council of First Evangelical Lutheran church.

She was chosen during the congregational meeting Sunday morning.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Root and Glenn Haas were reelected for three year terms.

Approval was given to the 1982 church budget.

Tax rate $48.85 here; $53.45 in Shiloh

With tax bills now due, freeholders can reflect on what it's for.

Plymouthites residing in Richland county will pay 1981 tax bills at the rate of $48.85 for each $1,000 of valuation, of which $10.90 goes to the village, $32.30 goes to the schools, $4.85 goes to the county and $1.80 goes to Plymouth township.

The composite factor applied to residential property is .2626.

Plymouthites residing in Huron county will pay 1981 tax bills at the rate of $48.90, of which 90 cents goes to New Haven township, $29.50 goes to the schools, $2.80 is Pioneer Joint Vocational school levy (which makes $32.30, exactly the same as Richland county), $10.90 goes to the village, and $4.80 goes to the county. The composite factor for residential property is .349219.

Residents of Plymouth Local School district in Plymouth township will pay at the rate of $41.75. Their township rate is $4.60. The composite factor for residential and agricultural property is .2494.

Those who live in New Haven township will pay at the rate of $40.80. Their township rate is $3.70. The composite factor for residential and agricultural property is .325035.

Shilohans are taxed higher. Their rate is $53.45, of which $14 goes to the village and $2.30 to Cass township.

Others in Cass township will settle their bills at the rate of $40.45, of which $3.30 goes to the township.

Rate in Bloominggrove township is $40.75, of which $3.60 goes to the township.

The Army Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Whittington, an administrative specialist, is a 1979 graduate of Plymouth High school.

Lions to dine

Members of Plymouth Lions club and their wives will dine Saturday at 6:30 p. m. in BPOElks club, Norwalk.

The dinner marking charter night was postponed for several weeks because of the weather.

Mrs. Curpen hurt in fall on ice

Mrs. Otto Curpen is a patient in Willard Area hospital for treatment of a fractured shoulder.

She fell Sunday morning while on her way to church and was taken to the hospital by a friend.

Creed Reed was taken to the same hospital Monday at 1 p. m. by the Plymouth ambulance service.

Carol Kranz, Shiloh, was released Jan. 20 from Willard Area hospital.

Eleanor Company and Harold Foraker were released at Willard Thursday.

12th grader injured in collision

An 18-year-old 12th grader in Plymouth High school was treated in Willard Area hospital Friday evening after his car hit a ditch in Baseline road east of here at 10:45 p. m.

Aaron Allenbaugh, Shiloh, was eastbound when his car struck an icy patch.

Water supply problems 'fault of Willard', Root tells council

Fluctuation in the amounts of water being pumped from Willard to the Plymouth system is causing a hardship by overworking Plymouth's pumps, village council was told Tuesday. The village is not receiving the daily amount of water contracted for.

James C. Root, village administrator, told the council it is Willard's problem. He said there is a possibility that Willard may have to lay a new larger supply line to adequately take care of the 10-inch line which its eight inch line is serving.

He also said Willard's meter has been plugging up, which also must be remedied.

The village, he said, also has a water line problem in the Fenfor-Willo Root area, which was to be taken care of this week.

A three year contract for ambulance service with Plymouth township was approved over the objections of Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine and Councilman Terry Hopkins.

Section 4 states that if a levy the township proposes to place on the June ballot fails, there will be no funds to pay the village for the service and the contract will be terminated.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said he sought legal opinions concerning the section and that other sections of the contract state it will be in effect no matter what happens at the election.

However, Section 7 states that either the village or the township can terminate the contract by giving a 90-day notice.

The township will pay the village $2,500 for this year's service, $2,750 for 1983 and $3,025 for 1984.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore filled his colleagues in on the Financial Planning Commission meeting of Thursday.

He said the commission agreed not to dissolve itself until at least April. By then it will be determined if the village can conduct its own financial affairs alone. "It is time for the village to stand on its own feet", he said.

The mayor said he as asked Ernst & Whinney, the Cleveland accountants, to keep track of all telephone calls back and forth so that it can be determined if continued help is needed with the state-mandated bookkeeping system that went into effect this month. This can then be the responsibility of the commission to pay for the calls.

Councilman John E. Hedden said since the system is the state's idea, then it should be answering any questions.

Damage to the Risner home in Plymouth street, Councilman Bill Taulbee said, is being studied by the committee to determine what agreement can be reached, although he has been informed by the village's insurance company that the village is not legally responsible.

He also broached the question of how much room remains in Greenlawn cemetery and has been informed that what is there will last about 20 years.

He is of the opinion that the village should be planning for 30 years ahead. Adjoining land apparently is available for purchase, plus a small amount near the water tower, which is village property.

No action was taken on raising cemetery rates, which the mayor said must be accomplished. The rates are the only item recommended by the Cleveland accountants that has not been completed.

The mayor said there seems to be a problem of who is who and for how long on the park and cemetery boards.

The park board has for many years had three members. The Ohio Revised code says there should be four, two of each major political party. The present three members are registered Republicans.

The cemetery board's problem is the length of terms of its three members, when they began and when they end.

The mayor said that research into the minutes produced the fact that J. Harold Cashman's six year term was up this year and he was sworn Monday night to another term.

The mayor told the council he plans to meet individually with each village employee at least four times a year to iron out problems and listen to suggestions.

He requested each council committee to give him the dates and times of meetings in writing for the next meeting on Feb. 9.

He suggested he know which committee member would be attending local board meetings, departmental meetings and those outside the village to which Plymouth should be represented.

For meetings outside the village, which are less specific, the council will have to determine which committee should attend.

Three were for construction in Huron county totalling $102,500. Five were for construction in Richland county totalling $15,100.

Poor economy said cause of low activity

Real estate activity in Plymouth and New Haven township diminished during 1981, Huron county recorder's annual report shows.

He blamed the record on poor economic conditions.

Deeds recorded in Plymouth during the year numbered 21, as compared with 32 in 1980. Number of mortgages recorded dropped to 16 from 28.

In New Haven township, deed recordings numbered 42, down 25 from 1980, and mortgages fell 25 to 39.

For many years she was one of the more active members of United Methodist church and of Esther Taylor Bricker Tent 87, Daughters of Union Veterans. Her father, W. C. Patterson, was a soldier in the Civil War.

Cook to quit as commissioner

Richland County Commissioner Dale E. Cook, a Republican, won't seek reelection, for health reasons.

"Upon the advice of my doctor after some medical problems last year and my other business interests, I have decided not to seek reelection this year," he said.

"I have always been interested in politics and I will continue my interest by working for my community and Richland county.

"I would like to thank all the groups and individual people who have supported me as well as the elected officials who have worked cooperatively with me."

Fourth of a series —

Fixed (and variable) factors in Plymouth's athletics

"A sound athletic program in the public schools is as good as the feeder program that supplies its manpower."

That axiom, laid down in a doctoral dissertation at Columbia university, New York, N. Y., in 1921, is as correct today as it was then.

Ohio law and the rules of the Ohio High School Athletic association control how an athletic program in the public schools can be operated.

Interscholastic competition for high school and junior high school athletes is approved in a dozen sports. Not every school has either the desire or the facilities to engage in that many. Almost all of them engage in basketball, both boys' and girls'. Many of them engage in football, only for boys. Many high schools field boys' baseball teams. Some high schools field girls' softball teams. Almost all high schools have girls' volleyball teams. Some high schools compete in boys' wrestling. Competition in golf and tennis is usually not restricted to sex. Boys' and girls' track and field squads are almost universal. Competition in cross country is not limited by sex, although some schools field girls' teams separately from boys'. The fortunate compete in swimming, soccer, field and ice hockey.

At the junior high level, there are football, basketball and track and field, for the most part. Some larger schools engage in other sports. Some soccer is played at the junior high level.

Some schools organize basketball for fifth and sixth graders. Time was when that was the case here. No longer. Expense, availabilty of practice floors and the feeling that perhaps organized competition with keen emphasis upon winning is too much for immature boys.

Nevertheless, in basketball and baseball, such boys compete in non-school connected athletics.

In baseball, there is a midget league operating in Shiloh and Plymouth. Participation is limited to those under 13 years. There is little or no competition for 13-and or no competition for 13- and 14-year-olds and none for high school boys outside the high school program.

In basketball, there is a fifth grade team, known as the Plymouth Vikings, and a sixth grade team, also known as the Vikings.

Participation is not limited to residents of the school district. Although the teams have been eminently successful over the past several years, only a handful of Plymouth Local School district players took part. Coaches engage in a forceful cutting policy and only boys of exceptional ability are permitted to remain with the squad.

Effect of this program is to limit the development of boys who eventually may play for Plymouth High school.

Some parents in the past have objected to the policies of junior high coaches, notably in basketball.

Should the coach cut players? Should those who survive get to play in every game?

One parent told The Advertiser, "If my boy doesn't get to play more than seven or eight minutes of every game, I'll take him to Mansfield where he'll get to play more." Needless to say, the boy is one of exceptional ability as a basketball player.

Another parent says, "By limiting participation to those who are advanced in their development, the program works against the late bloomer. Some boys do not mature so fast as others. They should be given an equal chance to participate."

What may be wrong with the feeder program is that participants, whether boys or girls, do not receive much instruction in the rules of the particular game nor in its philosophy or tactics. Coaches here and elsewhere complain that ninth graders "don't have any fundamentals and they don't know the rules of the game, both of which should have been taught to them before they reach high school."

Whether this complain is valid, it would seem, depends upon the personality of the head coach of the particular sport. Boys who play football at the junior high level should play a system that is identical to that taught the high school players. Junior high school players can't practice formally until school starts. Their coaches are involved, or should be involved, with the pre-season preparation of the high school team.

Should there be organized competition among fifth and sixth grade boys and girls? There are many who think not, but equally as many who think otherwise. Should there be organized instruction among fifth and sixth grade boys and girls? Absolutely. The question is, at this juncture, how to fund it and where to find the people to staff it.

Two matmen win in loop

Plymouth lost to Crestview, 39 to 27, in the last bout, a swing of six points owing to a default that would have produced a Black Fork Valley conference championship in its final year of existence.

But James Jamerson, returning from an injury, was compelled to default to Bobby Jones and the Cougars won the championship. Crestview had earlier defeated Mansfield Christian, 60 to 17.

Plymouth downed the Crimson Flames, 39 to 33.

Joe Messer and Bill Sexton are Plymouth's sole league champions; Messer prevailed in the 138-pound class, Sexton in the 185-pound division.

Messer pinned Eric Hale of the Cougars in 5:17. Sexton threw Mark Laser in 2:39.

In yet another engagement, Black River whipped a tired and hurt Plymouth team, 51 to 14. The Pirates have a good club. They defeated Mansfield Christian by 58 to 6 and took Crestview 43 to 20.

Before you start the day, save some energy.

Saving energy is easy. Even in the morning. All you need to know is what it takes and follow through.

Here's a list of little things you can do that won't cost a cent.

So start putting them into practice.

You'll be surprised how much energy you'll save.

Surprised, too, that your lifestyle won't change.

Morning Energy Savers

Starting tomorrow, take short showers.

When shaving, don't run hot water continuously. Fill the sink halfway instead.

If you use an electric razor you actually save energy, using less of it in a year than a hand razor and hot water uses in a week.

Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or a fry pan in place of the large oven or range surface units.

Never use the oven as a heater.

Place a pan on the surface unit before turning the heat on. Heating air is wasteful.

Match pans to the size of the heating surfaces on your range.

If boiling eggs, use a minimum of water. It shortens cooking time.

Save breakfast dishes until evening or a time when all dishes can be washed together.

If frying bacon and eggs, surface units can be turned off a short time before food is done. Let the retained heat finish the cooking.

In winter, open the draperies so sunlight will warm your home. Turn the thermostat down.

Turn off all unneeded lights, radio, TV, etc. when leaving the house or no one is using them.

One final tip.

For dozens of additional ideas, call or visit our office and ask for our free series of booklets.

We give it our best.

Decision Monday —

Will schools adopt system of weighted grades?

A weighted system of grading some high school courses will be laid before Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

The plan was prepared by a committee of department heads, administrators, the guidance counselor and a member of the board.

Aim of the new system is threefold: to obtain a more accurate ranking of pupils for college entrance, to obtain a more accurate ranking of pupils for academic scholarships and to encourage pupils to enroll in more courses than the minimum requires.

Weighted courses, which number 17 so far, will receive an additional point for each grade.

That is, an A in a weighted course will be counted as five grade-points, whereas an A in a non-weighted course will be counted as only four. Grades of B, C and D are similarly classified.

Courses to be weighted are English IV, biology I and II, chemistry, physics, algebra I and II, geometry, trigonometry and physics, French I, II, III and IV and Spanish I, II, III and IV.

If the proposal wins approval, the system will start with the Class of 1984, the present 10th grade.

Huston kin dies at 82

Brother of Woodrow Huston, Shiloh, Bert H. Huston, 82, Canton, died in Aultman hospital there Thursday evening of a brief illness.

He was born in Shiloh and moved to Canton in 1911. He owned and operated N. H. Huston Horse Transportation Co. in Canton until he retired in 1970. After he retired, he was agent for Dunmire Bros., Plain City.

He was a member of LOMoose Lodge 233, Canton; FOEagles, Shelby, and Shelby Owls club.

He is also survived by his wife, Mildred; two daughters, Mrs. Janis Stephan, Shelby, and Betty, now Mrs. A. G. Imhoff, Columbus; a brother, Chester J., Mansfield; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Dr. E. Reed Crabtree conducted services at Canton Monday at 10 a. m. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township, Monday at 2 p. m.

No funds for food, says Army

Because of a lack of local funds, the Plymouth Salvation Army unit is unable to fill requests for food orders.

It is hoped this is a temporary situation.

Contributing to the problem has been the fact there was no local Community Chest drive last year and that so many requests for aid have been received and filled the best way possible.

Solicitor at Shiloh rehired

Renewal of his contract was approved by Shiloh's village council Jan. 27 for Roger Renwick, Mansfield attorney who serves as solicitor.

He will be paid $1,100 plus $40 for each council meeting he attends and $50 an hour for case work.

Renwick told the council the suit filed by Lige Sawyer, seeking $10,000 in damages, has not been settled. The court's docket is so filled that the case will not be heard for some time.

John Ferguson, manager of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., suggested to the council that all utility billings be placed on one card, which will econo-economize on postage fees and on the per item charge exacted by the bank.

Mrs. Robert Boock, the clerk-treasurer, and Mayor Francis Gowitzka said they think with such a system there will be too many persons who will not pay their bills on time.

Trustees of public affairs were assigned to wrestle with the problem.

Spelling bee set in PHS

Top 10 spellers in each grade of Plymouth High school will compete tomorrow at 9:45 a. m. to determine the best speller in each grade.

On Tuesday at 2:45 p. m., in the library, the top speller in each grade will compete for the school championship.

Public is invited.

He farmed near North Fairfield, where he lived most of his life, until he retired in 1964.

He was a member of North Fairfield United Methodist church and of North Fairfield Grange 806, of which he was secretary for some years.

Briner, whom he married Nov. 11, 1959; a step-son, Vernon Phenicie, Willard; a step-daughter, Loretta, now Mrs. James Smith, Green Springs; three brothers, Frank, North Fairfield; Fay, in North Carolina, and Earl, Phoenix, Ariz.; a sister, Leona, now Mrs. Raymond Baker, North Fairfield, and seven step-grandchildren.

1981 alumna on dean's list at Ohio State

A 1981 alumna of Plymouth High school who was awarded the Masonic scholarship has been named to the dean's list by Ohio State university.

She is Mary Ellen Pugh, daughter of the Roger Pughs, Shelby route 1, who is enrolled at the Mansfield campus.

When she was a high school pupil, she was listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students".

Shilohan held for DWI

A 31-year-old Shiloh woman was charged with drunken driving Jan. 26 after her car went out of control in Peru Center road about 1.7 miles south of Monroeville and struck a tree.

Kathryn K. McQuillen, 36½ East Main street, was northbound in Peru Center road.

A passenger, Ethel Marie Wireman, 33, Willard, claimed injury and was treated and released at Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital, Norwalk.

Mrs. Sauer succumbs at 58 in Indiana

Mother of Mrs. Frank Burks, Mrs. Richard E. Sauer, 58, died Jan. 20 in Indianapolis, Ind.

She had been hospitalized since before Christmas.

She is also survived by her husband, a daughter, two brothers, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henderson, Indianapolis.

The Burkses, who had been there for several weeks, returned to their home Monday.

Heavy snowfall hits village

Worst snowstorm of the season struck Plymouth Saturday.

Rain that turned to sleet Sunday converted the soft snow to a frozen sheet. Snowfall of up to seven inches was recorded locally. By Monday morning it had frozen so hard it would support a 200-pound man.

No injuries were reported. There were no stoppages of power or utilities locally.

Some complaints that village and state personnel did not react quickly to the heavy snowfall were heard.

These crystallized on the failure to remove light snow before it was soaked by rain and then by sleet.

Route 224 was not plowed on Sunday.

Route 61 between Plymouth and Route 103 was said to be "all but impossible".

Route 61 south to Shelby was equally difficult of passage.

Bowman Street road between Route 603 and Mansfield was said to be "mostly all right, but you've got to reduce speed".

Schools were closed Monday.

Village crews worked Monday and Tuesday to plow side streets and to remove snow from the Public Square, where it was piled in heaps reaching seven feet.

High winds on Sunday night would have resulted in enormous drifting save that the snow surface was frozen.

Although schools were closed Monday, only a few pupils offered their services to shovel sidewalks. Most of them said, "It's not worth it to fight that hard snow and ice."

Cemetery personnel were grateful there was no demand for preparation of burial sites.

"If we get a fast thaw," said one village street employee, "look out, because there's a lot of this stuff on the ground and I don't know if our catch basins can handle it fast enough."

Possibility that an additional snowfall would occur Tuesday night alarmed some residents, notably those who could not get their cars from their garages because they could not remove deep, frozen snow in the driveway.

Political pot heating up

The political pot is beginning to heat up.

Two women seek the GOP nomination to run for the new 90th district seat in the Ohio House.

One is Trina J. White, 26, who lives near Norwalk. She will campaign on a platform of reducing taxes. She is a bookkeeper for a Norwalk concrete firm.

The other is Marian Moyer, Bellevue, active in her party at the municipal and county level.

Mrs. Moyer sought to unseat Rep. Gene Damschroder (R-Fremont) in the 85th district in 1980. She is manager of Senator Thomas Van Meter's campaign for governor in Huron county.

They will oppose Robert (Mac) Morrison, Bucyrus, principal of Colonel Crawford High school at North Robinson, and Paul Capelle, city manager of Willard.

Chairman of Huron county's Democratic party, a Norwalk lawyer, John Allton, is considering seeking the nomination of his party for the post. The only Democrat so far who has shown interest in the new job is Galion's mayor, Paulette Ritchey.

Gerald F. Golden, who owns Pleasant Hill Golf course south of Mansfield, seeks the Democratic nomination to be Richland county commissioner. The 45-year-commissioner.

The 45-year-old Golden is a well-known basketball and football referee. A native of Columbus, he was graduated by Rosary High school, where he was president of the student council and football and basketball captain.

Married, he is the father of four children, a married son, a son in Otterbein college, Westerville; a son in Ohio State university at Mansfield and a son in Clear Fork High school.

Before he bought the golf course, he was a superintendent in Cooper Industries, Mt. Vernon, and worked as an industrial engineer. He also worked as an industrial engineer for Buckeye Industries, Columbus, for seven years.

JERRY GOLDEN

Another Democratic candidate for commissioner, handpicked by the incumbent Democrat, Mrs. Joan Thompson, is Robert Kahn, a professor of political science in Ohio State university at Mansfield and Mrs. Thompson's political mentor.

The 34-year-old Kahn lives in Mansfield. He is an alumnus of Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., and holds the master's and doctorate degrees of Indiana university, Bloomington, Ind. He says his candidacy has three qualities: toughness, honesty and intelligence.

Paul White, a 67-year-old councilman in Mansfield who was once escorted from a Plymouth basketball game because fans were enraged at what he wrote about Plymouth's basketball team, has already filed his petitions for nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Homer Howell, Mansfield, is also a Democratic candidate.

So is Elwood Finley.

Robert DeMoine and Richard Gross, Republicans, will seek the nomination of their party for the seat to be vacated by Dale Cook.

Consider pencils: 8% rise since 1972

By AUNT LIZ

Did you know that one thing we simply take for granted in our everyday lives – the pencil – was dreamed up in England in 1564?

And that there are in this country 17 manufacturers of them that produce two billion a year?

Of that number, we are responsible for wasting about one every two weeks because they somehow drop on the floor and are considered very edible by our pup. Our other dog preferred pens and there is nothing worse than seeing the only one you own that works all chewed up.

Should you be planning on visiting Washington, D. C., this summer, do not miss the Smithsonian Institution. It has set up an exhibit showing how pnecils are made. It should be rather fascinating. Some 40 different raw materials go into the making of one pencil. And even though the price of a pencil has only increased eight per cent in the last 10 years, the cost of California cedar has jumped up 120 per cent, so maybe an ordinary pencil of today will become a big collector's item.

Wouldn't you know that our government is the most important purchaser, buying about 8,000,000 a year! I do hope that it is making certain that each pencil it buys has an eraser, which is so badly needed in government today. That really is a nasty crack, but somehow we all must admit we are very capable of and adept at making wrong decisions and plain ordinary mistakes.

There is, however, one place an eraser cannot help, and that is in the kitchen.

There is no way to make a change in something you have made to eat: either pretend it is the tastiest thing you have ever touched in your life, or have the backbone to throw it down the garbage disposal, which is a heart-breaking experience in this day and age. We eat the stuff that was a big mistake.

Usually such mistakes come from the fanciest cookbooks we own, and a long time ago we all learned (meaning our daughter and daughter-in-law) that those cookbooks put out by local organizations with recipes turned in by ordinary people who sign their names to them are truly tested and good and reliable.

This week one such cookbook was delivered, and there is one recipe that looks really good. Even though we have not tried it, I know it has to be good because we know the family who contributed it and also know that that particular "man of the house" simply would refuse to eat anything that is not tasty and good.

It is a sausage loaf, and I must leave the name out so as not to hurt feelings.

It is very simple. Buy a pound of good bulk sausage. Take it home and mix it with four beaten eggs, a cup of dried bread crumbs and a can or two cups of cream style corn. Put it in a baking dish and spread about six tablespoons of catsup over the top and bake at 350 for an hour. The friend who contributed it says it is good hot or cold.

Fixed (and variable) factors in Plymouth's athletics

All things considered, it seems clear that improvement of the athletic program, by which read a better winning record for the two major spectator sports (and let's face it, nobody really cares if the volleyball team or the golf team or the cross country squad wins a lot of engagements; what really counts is for the football and basketball teams to win many more than they lose), is a matter of money.

The Boosters club has recently published its statement.

Income amounted to $3,794.14, of which $1,305 derived from operating the concession stand during football and volleyball games, $857.44 from the fifth annual turkey supper, $520.71 from the arts and crafts show, $228.58 from the beef raffle, $221.53 profit from operating a lunch counter at an auction, $238.52 from operating and renting the dunker and $422 in memberships.

Memberships were sold at $1 apiece, which leads to the conclusion there must be at least 400 members. Barely 10 of them show up for meetings, and when it comes time to lay muscle on the line, fewer than that show up on a regular basis.

What can the Boosters do to encourage better support?

Is there a promotion that will insure large net income for minimum effort by a few dedicated people? Anyone with such an idea is welcome to notify the Booster management.

Supt. Douglas Staggs earlier said that a poor football season and an equally poor basketball season produced such adverse effects on gate receipts that the athletic program will experience some fund shortages.

On Monday, presumably, he will tell the board of education what cuts must be made to live with the mandated reductions in state fundings brought about by a $1 billion shortfall in state revenues.

It is logical to believe that these cuts may fall heaviest on supplemental contracts. The teachers' union will resist, and resist strongly, any effort to cut staff. The union exists to insure teachers of jobs and pleasant working conditions. Thirty-five noisy youngsters in a classroom are not what most teachers call "pleasant working conditions". They want classrooms of 26 or 27 pupils, in most cases even less.

If the cuts fall heavily on supplemental contracts, it's certain that public outcry will be heaviest if they are applied uniformly throughout the athletic program. That is, if there is any impairment in the football or basketball programs, the people will be outraged. No matter if track and field, cross country, golf, volleyball and such are severely cut or even eliminated, football and basketball are what draw the public's eye.

The days when a single coach could mould a juggernaut in football or basketball are over. The games have become too specialized for that. So it seems likely that while one or two cuts may be applied in football, and perhaps in basketball, these programs will survive with only minor injury.

So how can the financial situation be improved?

To do so requires:

1. A winning football season, preferably seven victories.

2. A winning basketball seaso, preferably 12 or 13 victories.

3. Development by the auxiliary services to the athletic program, whether the Boosters club or another group or groups, of some relatively painless, easily staffed, high profit operation to benefit athletics. Which is the same as saying "What we need is a product that we can make for a nickel, sell for a dollar, that's not immoral and is habit-forming, and is a necessity in every home, several times a week."

4. Winners produce an entourage. Some of that entourage joins up in the donkey work necessary to produce winners. When the footbtall and basketball teams start to win consistently, there will be better Boosters support.

5. A feeder program, probably staffed by volunteers and overseen by trained educators of the local staff working without pay, should be undertaken for fifth and sixth graders. School facilities must be made available for its use.

6. Attitudinal changes in the community. The Plymouth Syndrome (the appellation is that of a coach, not of The Advertiser) must be changed. It is, "If I can't start, I don't want to play". The vicious and sometimes unfair treatment of those assigned to coaching must be toned down. Those who excell in athletics and in academics must be more conspicuously regarded. Those who excell in athletics alone must be taught to feel that to do so is worth the candle. The attractions of automobiles, sex, alcohol and drugs must be minimized, better yet, eliminated. This requires leadership by everyone.

7. A vigorous effort to develop pride in person, in school and community. There is absolutely no substitute for pride.

Vikings record No. 11

Sixth grade Vikings recorded their 11th win Thursday, defeating Lexington for the second time this season. In the closing seconds of the game, the Vikings, trailing by one point, got a break when a Lexington player was assessed with a foul for unsportsmanlike conduct. Todd Rinehart went to the line to tie the game and send it into overtime. The final score was 25 to 23. Leading scorers were Marc Rankin with nine and Mark Pittenger with seven.

The Vikings will play a non-league game today at 7 p. m. at New Washington against St. Bernard's.

Fifth grade Vikings won in the first round of Friendly House tournament play by defeating Madison, 20 to 17, Jan. 19.

Both teams were undefeated at the time.

Stacy Hall and Bill Wiess had 10 apiece for the Vikings.

Plymouth ran its record to 12-and-1 Saturday by defeating McElfresh-Smith, 19 to 8. Terry Branham scored eight and Wiess six.

Big Red rally at end falls short

A furious rally by Plymouth in the final period at Collins Jan. 26 failed to produce a victory for the Big Red.

Western Reserve won, 58 to 52.

Brian Fenner scored a career-high 17 points to lead Plymouth, which was unable to penetrate the zone defense of the Roughriders with any consistency.

Plymouth's guards were under pressure throughout the game and the Roughriders took advantage of opportunities at the foul line.

Plymouth defeated Western Reserve from the field, 23 to 22. But the winners got 24 free throws and made 14 of them. Plymouth had 12 opportunities and succeeded with six.

The Roughriders are always tough at home and they proved it last week. They shot for field goal 46 times and converted 22 of them. Plymouth fired 52 times and made 23.

The Big Red is not known for any great height yet it outrebounded Western Reserve, 28 to 22.

Lucas gets revenge over Plymouth

Reserves beaten by 20 points

Lucas obtained revenge for a last-second defeat at the hands of Plymouth by trouncing the Big Red, 62 to 54, in Black Fork Valley conference play there Friday night.

The Cubs hung the sixth consecutive defeat on Plymouth, which last won here Dec. 18 by nipping the Cubs, 56 to 55.

They did it by forcing Plymouth to shoot from outside with a 3-2 zone defense. Plymouth got off 54 tries for field goal and was successful with 20 of them, but nine of them came in the final eight minutes.

Meanwhile, Lucas was shooting the cords out of the baskets. It fired for field goal 62 times and was successful 25 times.

Plymouth was forced to foul late in the game and Lucas did well with the penalty shots. Overall, the Cubs sank 12 of 20 tries.

Lucas has no great size. Only Chris Wolfgang stretches high enough to be an effective rebounder. But the Cubs won the battle of the boards, 38 to 22.

Lucas's little men, Clayton Alsept, Randy Marshall and Greg Sauder, were the thorns in Plymouth's side.

Sauder scored 16, Alsept 13 and Marshall 13.

Plymouth drew first blood and during the early stages of the first period it appeared the Big Red might finally turn things around. But the spurt soon petered out. After eight minutes the Cubs led by four at 16 to 12, having scored with seven of 15 tries for field goal and two free throws. Plymouth, meanwhile, had shot only 40 per cent, with four of 10 tries.

Although the Big Red's shooting record was more than satisfactory in the second period, when it garnered four of eight tries, Lucas was doing much better with nine of 16. And at the half it was 34 to 22.

Plymouth has not been much of a third period team this season and on Friday night the Big Red was outscored by its opponent, 12 to 9. The Big Red really put it to Lucas in the final quarter, 23 to 16, but it was too little, too late.

Steve Mowry, in his final basketball appearance against the Cubs in a regular season game, scored 18 to lead both teams. Greg Polachek had 13. Five other Plymouth players hit the scoreboard.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Take stock in America.

The Wayne Kesslers, at left, greet the mayor of Las Vegas to receive sealed proclamation declaring Sunday "We Believe in Marriage" day in Nevada.

Ex-villagers coordinating Nevada's 'Marriage day'

Nevada's governor and the mayor of Las Vegas proclaim St. Valentine's Day, Sunday, as "We Believe in Marriage Day" in Nevada and Las Vegas.

And two former Plymouthites, Wayne Kessler and his wife, the former Marcia MacMichael, are coordinators of the event.

"Valentine's day provides a traditional day of romance for thousands of Nevada couples," says Governor List. "it is a fitting occasion to promote the special relationship that exists between husband and wife, particularly since married couples provide one of the greatest social resources in the country today."

The "We Believe in Marriage Day" campaign was organized by Worldwide Marriage Encounter, the largest pro-marriage organization in the world, according to the Wayne Kesslers.

"Despite the attention given to divorce, separation and the single life, millions of couples firmly believe in the institution of marriage," say the Kesslers. "This campaign will let people know that having a successful marriage is not only possible, but a very rewarding and achievable experience."

The Kesslers have been married nearly 17 years and have three children.

Vredenburgh resigns post as school board member

In a surprise move Monday night, Larry O. Vredenburgh submitted his resignation as a member of the Plymouth Board of Education.

"Gentlemen:

"Please accept my resignation, effective upon finding a replacement or April 1, 1982.

"I have no problem with the Board or Administrative relationship. It has been better than I could have expected.

"The problem seems to be with a couple of relatives and very few people who for the last three years have contributed my children's accomplishments in sports or any activity to the fact that I am on the School Board.

"I can understand that this may be expected, but I cannot handle it, and my son or daughter should not have to.

"Thank you.

"Larry O. Vredenburgh"

Apparently he had discussed it with the board president, the Rev. Arthur Hamman, but the other board members seemed unaware of it.

Mrs. Roger Pugh did not want to act upon the resignation, saying the board should "get the book out to see what procedures are necessary to accept it and choose a new member." Her motion to table it went unseconded.

Douglas Staggs, superintendent, recommended the board act immediately because of the time element in finding and screening a new member before Apr. 1.

Donald M. Echelbarger made the formal motion to accept the resignation. Mrs. Pugh voted nay.

A special meeting will be Feb. 25 at 7:30 p. m.

Staggs is to investigate if the board can have it as an executive session.

Norwalkian in running

A 40-year-old Norwalk businessman will seek the Republican nomination for representative to the new 90th Ohio House of Representatives district.

Richard E. Rench has served as Republican finance chairman in both Erie and Huron counties. He is currently serving on both the Huron county central and executive committees.

In 1980 Rench was elected alternate delegate for the 17th Congressional district to the Republican national convention as a Reagan delegate. Later in the year Rench was chosen to head the Huron county campaigns of both Ronald Reagan and Andy Douglas, who was running for 6th District Court of Appeals judge. Both men were elected. Rench and his wife, Cheryl, nee Tom, Bellevue, attended the inaugural of President Reagan in Washington.

In a previous try for a state house seat in 1976, Rench almost doubled the vote received by Rep. Marie Tansey in Huron county, but lost, after a recount, by 32 votes among almost 10,000.

Rench is well known for his distaste of bureaucrats and "red tape". Over the years he has lead an unrelenting challenge to the EPA and any unelected body attempting to raise taxes. In most cases he has won and the tax was rescinded. Twice he was given his tax money back (once on a cactus plant by the attorney for the county health board).

A long-time Boy Scout leader, former church school teacher and Kiwanian, he is a former highway patrolman and has been honored as the Milan Jaycees outstanding young man of 1974, Who's Who in Ohio in 1974, Outstanding Young Man of America in 1972 and Marquis Who's Who of 1976 and 1977.

Chairman of Huron county's Democratic central and executive committee, John D. Allton, 35, Norwalk, will seek his party's nomination to be its candidate for the new 90th Ohio House seat in the General Assembly.

Born in Newark, an alumnus of Bowling Green State university and of the college of law of Duke university, Durham, N. C., Allton is a veteran of Air Force service. He practices in Norwalk, where his wife if guidance counselor in Norwalk High school.

He is village solicitor in Monroeville and Wakeman.

Allton claims the endorsements of Glen Achtermann, chairman, Crawford county Democratic executive committee; Sim Siclair, chairman, Crawford county Democratic central committee, and of Jack Hogsett, former chairman, Huron county Democratic central and executive committees.

He will oppose Pauline Ritchey, mayor of Galion.

David A. Howard, former councilman and school board member at Plymouth; Pat Saunders and Carl Essex have enlisted in his campaign, treasurer of which will be John Elmlinger, Huron county recorder.

A Norwalk attorney who earlier made an unsuccessful bid to be Huron county prosecutor will seek the GOP nomination to run for commissioner in November.

Michael R. Fegen is so far the only Republican with his hat in the ring. There are signs that Walter J. Wilhelm, 43, North Fairfield, a former Plymouth resident, may run. He was unsuccessful in the GOP primary in 1980.

The winner will oppose the incumbent, Maurice Smith, who is completing his 12th year as commissioner.

A second GOP candidate for county commissioner has told the board of elections he wants to run.

He is William L. Ommert, Norwalk route 1.

Seven musicians chosen all-Americans

Seven musicians in Plymouth High school's band have been chosen for all-American honors by the board of directors of the All-American Hall of Fame Band foundation.

These are Robin Harness, clarinet; Rodney Hampton, precussion; Debra Owens, and Patricia McKenzie, trumpet; Glenda Will, trombone, and Jamie Brooks, tuba.

NHS to induct new members Sunday, Mar. 7

A request by Louis Bromfield chapter, National Honor society, to conducts its formal induction of new members on Sunday, Mar. 7, was approved by the board of education Monday night.

The chapter cited three reasons for its request: more parents and relatives would be able to attend, the ceremony could be more formal, and attendance would be voluntary.

The ceremony will be at 2 p. m.

The capping ceremony will be conducted during a special school assembly.

Two board members, Mrs. Roger Pugh and Larry Vredenburgh, voted against the request, saying they think the whole pupil body should be able to see the induction.

Man jailed for assault

Milford G. Gayheart, Plymouth, was fined $100 and court costs in Norwalk Municipal court on a charge of assault and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

He also was fined $150 for petty theft and sentenced to another 30 days in jail, which was suspended.

Robber pleads guilty

A 32-year-old Mansfield man pleaded guilty in federal district court Feb. 2 to robbing the Shiloh branch of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., at gunpoint on Oct. 17, 1980.

Wendell O. Gibbs, 582 Springmill street, is held under $250,000 bond pending a pre-sentence investigation ordered by Judge Manos in Cleveland.

He admitted he robbed the bank of $38,004. He faces a sentence of 25 years and/or a $10,000 fine.

Gibbs is subject to additional penalty because he failed to appear and defaulted on a $75,000 bond to stand trial Dec. 28. He is also under indictment on charges he robbed a bank at Franklin Furnace on July 23 of $37,-049.

Playschool for toddlers to open Feb. 17

Vocational home economics department of Plymouth High school will have a playschool for pre-school children as part of a child development unit.

The playschool will be Feb. 17, 19, 23, 25, 26 and Mar. 2 from 7:50 to 9:30 a. m.

There will be a $3 charge for the playschool. Parents will be responsible for bringing the children to Home Economics Room 109 between 7:45 and 7:50 a.m. and picking them up immediately afterward at 9:30 a. m.

All children in the school must be three, four, or young five-year-olds, toilet trained, able to see mother leave without too much difficulty and free of colds, infections, rashes and other symptoms of contagious infections.

If hats and coats are marked, it will help to identify each child's clothing.

Any parent may call Plymouth High school at 687-4051 and ask to register his child. The number of children is limited to 15 and will be selected on a first-come basis.

Explosion of gasoline cause of fire

Two blazes erupted in the fire district last week.

The more serious occurred Thursday at 8:21 p. m., when the house at Trux and Mulberry streets belonging to Mrs. Clinton J. Berberick, Columbus, and occupied by Charles Vanderpool broke into flame.

Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine said Vanderpool was apparently cleaning car parts with gasoline when he lighted a cigarette, the fumes ignited and an explosion threw him through the front door.

Firemen were conducting a meeting at the firehouse when the alarm was received. They rushed to the scene, scarcely 200 yards from the firehouse, to deal with the blaze.

Damage to the structure was slight. But the family's possessions were all but ruined by smoke and water, Strine said.

A chimney fire in the house on Morse's hill in Route 61 occupied by Kim Carter broke out Feb. 3 about 9 a. m.

Damage was slight.

FFA to get used tractor, board rules

Plymouth Chapter, Future Farmers of America, will get a new used tractor.

The board of education approved spending of $1,960 for a 1966 International 706 to replace the Model 460 made in 1950.

Todd Arnold, Loren Kranz and Gary Adams, chapter members, made the convincing pitch to the board, stating the later model would not cost any more to run and would do more work in less time.

The Rev. Arthur Hamman, board president, asked how they would finance the purchase and was told the chapter has $4,941 in the bank now and can plan on another $4,200 when the corn and beans now in storage are sold. Of that sum, $5,000 will be needed for putting out this year's crops.

Hamman complimented the pupils and their adviser, Keith Johnson, for doing a "good job".

$5.9 million increase in profit for Banner

Increases in earnings and revenues for the second quarter and the first six months of its fiscal year, ending Dec. 31, are reported by Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Banner said second quarter earnings by its aviation retailing and industry products groups offset an increased operating deficit by its motor freight division.

Net sales for the quarter to Dec. 31 amounted to $53,987,-032, as compared with $48,-252,734 a year ago. Net income for the period was $564,338, as compared to a loss of $5,381,155. The latter figure was affected by a writeoff of motor carrier operating rights amounting to $5,889,492.

Income per share for the quarter was 14 cents, compared with a loss of $1.34 a year ago.

The six month figures are stronger.

On net sales $106,771,-780, net income was $1,432,-798, amounting to 36 cents a share. A year ago, net sales were $100,172,737, net loss was $3,927,257, equivalent to a loss of 98 cents a share.

Weighted grades approved

Approval of a weighted grading system was accorded Monday by Plymouth Board of Education.

Pupils taking the easier courses were receiving the same grade points as those taking the more difficult ones, the schools say. This now gives the extra credit to the latter group.

The board also agreed to hire Safeway Driving school, Elyria, to conduct the driving classes for drivers' education during the 1982-83 school year.

Supt. Douglas Staggs suggested it last month as a means of saving money.

Now the school is getting free use of a car from Bacon Chevrolet, Greenwich, and only having to pay the maintenance. This, Staggs said, cannot last forever.

Even with this, it is costing the school $80.92 for each pupil enrolled in the class. The state reimburses the district $50 for each pupil and a fee of $20 is charged to each pupil, leaving $10.92 to be paid for from the school's general fund.

Staggs's recommendation was that the classroom work be done during the school day, which fits in with class schedules, and that only the driving part be farmed out. The Elyria firm will charge $73 a pupil. Fees will be raised to $23 to cover the costs, thus eliminating any draw on general school funds.

Having the classroom work in the school will give credit to pupils toward graduation.

Staggs said he investigated three driving schools and checked with other schools using them and found they are satisfactory. The Norwalk schools are the nearest one to Plymouth using the Elyria firm.

The board agreed to try the commercial firm for a year.

Staggs told the board he was "very frustrated and still in the dark" over school finances and so far has not received any information from the state department on how much will be cut in state funding.

The district receives 70 per cent of its funds from the state.

The appropriations for the year must by law be completed by Apr. 1.

Now he is planning on a cutback of three per cent, which is $6,000 less, but per cent, which is a loss of over $200,000 for the period of July 1, 1982 through June 30, 1983.

Maternity leave of one year was approved for Mrs. Kim Steitzlein, high school business education instructor.

The resignation of Barbara Janice, Shiloh elementary teacher, as of Apr. 29 was accepted. Mrs. Janice has not taught long enough to qualify for maternity leave.

Joseph Ireland was hired for a 30-day probationary period as a cleaner in the Plymouth Elementary building. He will then become a regular custodian.

Approval was given to hiring two substitute cleaners, Wade Kinsel and Delmar Nesbitt.

The schools have received an offer from Charles A. Arms, Arms Industries, which manufactures three wheel vehicles, to purchase the Shiloh annex.

The building would be used for office space. Presently it is being used for storage.

Purchased in 1956 when more classrooms were needed, the remodeling and cost of the property was about $32,000.

The school owns the property outright, but it cannot be sold privately unless two public auctions are legally conducted.

The board agreed with Staggs that the first move would be to have the buildings appraised.

If the building is sold, the proceeds, according to law, would go into a permanent improvement fund.

Schools target of study

Plymouth Local school district has been chosen as one of three school systems in the state and as of 21 in an eight-state area for a special study of federal programs and their impact on local programs.

A California firm has been hired by the U. S. Department of Education to make the study.

Columbus and Warren are the other two systems in the state.

It's nice with pasta, or whatever: economical, easy to prepare

By AUNT LIZ

Well, we got through January.

"It was a struggle. Never have I been so cold in my life, and now some one is saying, "Just wait until March gets here." It is to be even more miserable.

The thing about March is that April will come with tulips and daffodils.

January does have its points, though.

At least it gives us two New Year's to celebrate, so if you miss Jan. 1, and you always plan on the Chinese New Year three weeks later.

The only catch to it all is that all the Happy New Year stuff is gone from store shelves and it is too early for the July fire crackers.

This year, we will plan ahead a little better. And who would dream that fire crackers would be going off in the middle of January so no one would even think we were being illegal?

Costumes are out. I really did think of them, but then soberly realized that we have several 50-year-old friends who might be tempted to come as the New Year. No way would I be responsible for their freezing to bits.

Since you have a good three hundred days to get ready for your next party, you still can enjoy kitchery things.

The other night when I was freezing cold we had spaghetti for dinner and I made a great discovery.

Just standing over the boiling pot of pasta warmed me up so I felt human again. It was great, but how many pots of the stuff can you consume?

It does make a good wholesome dinner and everyone really loves it.

Because it is study and just needs a good tossed salad, a fragile, light tidbit can finish off a meal.

This is an economical recipe because it makes a 9 x 13 pan full.

Mix a half pound of margarine or butter, two cups of flour and a half cup of powdered sugar until it is crumbly.

Press it into the baking dish. Bake for 15 minutes at 350.

Pour this mixture over it: four well-beaten eggs, four tablespoons of lemon juice, a teaspoon of baking powder and four tablespoons of flour.

Bake for 25 minutes, and when it is finished, sprinkle powdered sugar over it.

If you want to be more elaborate and most likely more popular with your family, try this chocolate deal.

Melt over low heat a 12 oz. package of chocolate chips, a fourth of a cup of powdered sugar, six tablespoons of cold coffee, a tablespoon of rum extract, a tablespoon of mace and a fourth of a teaspoon of salt. Stir until it is dissolved, then add three beaten egg yolks.

Beat the three leftover egg whites until stiff and fold in and beat two cups of whipping cream and fold it all in.

Meanwhile, have a 22 oz. package of angel food cake handy. Tear it into pieces, and fold it in too.

Chill over night or all day in a good looking bowl. To perk it up a little, sprinkle some colored sugar over the top.

Girls rap Seneca East, lose to Buckettes

Big Red girls got back on the winning track at Attica Thursday by defeating Seneca East for the second time, 53 to 48.

Becky Turson scored 19 points to lead Plymouth.

What's more, she took down 20 rebounds.

Plymouth took an early lead and simply built on it. At the half the score was 36 to 18.

The Big Red let down somewhat in the third period, when the Tigers scored 13, three fewer than Plymouth, and performed poorly at the foul line in the final quarter, allowing Seneca East to cut 10 points off the lead.

The Tigers crept to within four with a minute left but Plymouth bagged a free throw and put it away.

The Big Red's shooting at the free throw line continued in the doldrums. In the past three games, Plymouth has had 64 penalty shots and has converted only 29 of them. Its shooting from the field wasn't so hot either: 19 of 47. The Tigers fired 75 times and scored with 23. Had Plymouth not had so many opportunities at the foul line, it would have been curtains.

The Big Red took down 46 caroms, Renee Taylor getting 12. Seneca East was credited with 35 rebounds.

'Dogs defeat Big Red, 65-56

Crestline built an early lead and broke the game open with a sensational shooting performance in the second period there Friday night and walked off with a 65 to 56 victory over Plymouth.

Plymouth was not a factor after the second period started.

Leading by 10 to 7, the Bulldogs shot the cords out of the basket with quick baskets by Gary Almanson, a substitute who led all scorers with 18 points, and Chris Spiroff, a pint-sized guard. Aside from a bucket by Scott Harris, who wound up with 11, at 7:11 and a free throw to go with it, Plymouth did not figure in the scoring until Brian Fenner unloaded one of his patented shots from the corner at 5:54. Brad Postema scored at 3:37 and Steve Mowry got the three point play with just over two minutes left in the half.

But Crestline had by this time built a lead of 28 to 18 and the Bulldogs added to it at 1:03 when Dick Miller hit from the top of the key and John Harvey banked one in with half a minute left. Only Craig Thornsberry's slick shot from the corner at the buzzer saved Plymouth from going to the locker room down by 16 points.

At the half, Plymouth had fired for field goal 26 times and had been successful just eight times. Crestline's record was 15 of 32.

In the third period, Crestline managed to outscore its opponent by three, where the Bulldogs were eight of 18. For its part, Plymouth got seven of 12.

Each team bagged six free throws in the final period, when Plymouth outshot Crestline, seven to three, from the field.

Every Plymouth player who got into the game managed to score.

Mowry's 15 led the pack. Crestline has not had such a successful season, which is now at 6-and-7. Plymouth fell to 1-and-13.

Beaten at foul line —

Red falls to Cougars

Plymouth defeated Crestview from the floor here Saturday, 27 to 23, but lost at the foul line, 15 to 5, and the Cougars went home with a 61 to 59 victory in Black Fork Valley conference play.

The Cougars seized the lead at 49 to 48 with 4:10 left in the game and hung on despite a frantic Plymouth rally.

What broke Plymouth's back was a 117 second period between 4:10 and 2:13 on the clock when Crestview scored five unanswered points. This brought the lead to 53 to 49.

The Big Red pecked away at the advantage and crept to 58 to 55 with 1:15 left, thanks to the second of two field goals by Jeff Jacobs, both from 21 feet away. Tim Bernhard converted a garbage shot with 13 seconds left and a shot by Scott Harris with 12 seconds remaining cut the lead to 60 to 59.

Bernhard's free throw with 10 seconds remaining gave the Cougars a two point advantage that held up despite a desperate Hail Mary fling that caromed off the rim.

Plymouth shot better than it has for several games. It got off 56 shots and was successful with 27 of them. The Cougars were much more accurate. They played a deliberate game, tried to penetrate Plymouth's zone defense, and took only 49 shots, of which they made 23.

It was at the free throw line that Crestview sank Plymouth.

Notably in the second period, when Crestview had eight opportunities and made six of them. In the final period, Crestview got 13 tripe to the line and came away with eight successes.

The Cougars had the advantage of the bonus shot early in the first half and not so early in the second half.

All told, they had 27 penalty shots and made 15 of them.

For its part, Plymouth had 16 free throws with just five successes.

Mike Williams, the high scorer in the earlier game at Olivesburg, when Crestview won by 58 to 44, was again the leader with 18 points. Jay Bond scored 13. So did Keith Vipperman.

Among Plymouth players, with seven on the scoreboard, Steve Mowry was the leader at 14. Harris had 12.

Mowry took a terrific beating under the boards. Neither of the officials seemed able to see how he was impeded.

It was a better than average Class A contest. Neither team will go very far in the playdowns, but this was good entertainment of a cold February night. Each team played its heart out.

LITTLE ANGELS
When God calls little children
To dwell with Him above
We mortals sometimes question
The wisdom of His love
For no heartache compares with
The death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world
Seem so wonderful and mild
Perhaps God tires of calling
The aged to his fold
So He picks a rosebud
Before it can grow old
God knows how much we need them
And so He takes but few
To make the land of Heaven
More beautiful to view
Believing this is difficult
Still somehow we must try.
The saddest word mankind knows
Will always be "Goodbye"
So when a little child departs
We who are left behind
Must realize God love little children
ANGELS ARE HARD TO FIND!

IRS TAX TIPS
To Save You Money

If you itemize your deductions, be sure not to overlook any—you may be able to deduct the cost of transportation to and from the doctor's office, the rental of a safe deposit box, union dues, uniforms, and donations to your favorite charity, for example.

If your income for 1981 is more than your average income for the past four years, try "income averaging." It could save you money. See Schedule G, Form 1040, Income Averaging.

If you have interest and/or dividends to declare on your tax return, you may be able to exclude the first $200; (or $400 if married, filing jointly), from the amount.

If you itemize deductions and are using the Sales Tax Tables to find the appropriate amount of sales tax to deduct, remember to use your "total available income" which may include some nontaxable items such as social security and welfare benefits, when reading the Sales Tax Table.

Order free IRS publications—over 90 topics in all. Use the handy order form in your tax package.

Coach scolds the scolders

Sir:

There seems to be a new sport that has become popular in the Plymouth school district — harass the coach. No matter what philosophy or course of action a coach may take, he receives criticism. There are some who play the game every season, and some who save their talents for a specific season. I for one am sick and tired of it, and I haven't even had it as bad as some of the others.

As coach of junior high girls basketball, we began our schedule recently. It didn't take long for it to begin. After the first game, a gentleman felt obligated to let me know he felt it was highly unfair that I had not played everyone exactly the same length of time. Furthermore, I, to quote him, "don't care about the girls, only about playing (my) favorites". First of all, to answer his accusation about each person not playing equally, what would he suggest — a stopwatch for each player to make sure each plays the same number of seconds? I would love to introduce him to a gentleman who has been criticizing one of the other junior high coaches because he does play everyone. They might have an interesting conversation. No matter what, though, neither coach would win.

As for his second point that I don't care about the girls — how dare he! What does he think I'm doing it for, the money? Ha! Because I don't want to spend so much time at home with my wife and son? Ha! That accusation really hurt. I admit it. By quick count, at this point I have coached 29 basketball games. How many has he seen? I have coached 12 track teams in nine years, more than 70 meets. How many has he seen? I helped coach wrestling for six years. How many meets did he see? I have also coached cross country and football. Some of these jobs I did for free. All because I DO care. And so do other coaches in this system. How dare he judge me, or anyone else! This is just my story. Other coaches have theirs. We are merely human beings, trying to do the best we can with the talent we have. Are there people in this community really bent on driving these coaches out of the system? This school year alone there were 50 positions open of which 3 were not filled and 2 were filled by certified poeple out of the system. Next year doesn't seem to look much better. Will the dropping of sports because of lack of coaches really fulfill a goal of certain people? I don't mean to single out the person who "talked to me". He is merely indicative of the growing mood. If it is a contest or a battle between the public and the coaches, I'm beginning to get the feeling some coaches are to the point of saying, "O.K. You win." When that times comes, Mr. Faultfinder, Mrs. Critic, you'd better ask yourself exactly what it is you've won. Or more importantly, who the real losers are.

It'll cost more to live and cost more to die

It will cost more to stay alive or to die in Plymouth.

Village council discussed raising ambulance and cemetery rates Feb. 9.

No action was taken because Mayor Dean A. Cline was absent because of illness and Councilman G. Thomas Moore, president pro tempore, presided at the meeting, which did not make a quorum so that any emergency legislation could be enacted.

It is expected the rates will be raised Tuesday night and that the mayor will announce his choice of a council member to replace Ervin Howard, thus making a full body.

Cemetery lots will be increased to $150 from $100, burial of ashes to $50 from $35, opening and closing of graves for residents to $100 from $60 and for non-residents to $150 from $75.

Financial Planning commission, which is overseeing the village's finances, has recommended the rate increase for over a year. The cemetery trustees were reluctant to suggest to the council that the rate increase be enacted because of a renewal levy on the November ballot. It was passed.

Councilman Terry Hopkins recommended that ambuance rates be increased.

Trips to Shelby Memorial hospital and Willard Area hospital will be raised to $80 from $50 and to other nearby hospitals from $75 to $100.

A run to either Columbus or Cleveland hospitals will be billed at $250, up from $200.

The same rates will be effective in both New Haven and Plymouth townships.

Since last year the townships have paid a flat contract rate for the service, rather than dividing up the annual expenses, with the village paying half of each township a quarter.

Only Councilman John E. Hedeen questioned the rate increase.

Repairing of the fire house, suggested by Hopkins, who estimated it would cost about $10,000 was referred to the committee for further study.

Hopkins said the heating bill is "eating up the department".

He inquired if the interest generated from the investment of the pumper fund could be used for operation and maintenance, retaining the principal of the three mill levy, which expires at the end of the year, for the purpose it was voted for, the purchase of a new pumper.

Changes are to be made, if possible, in the village's hospitalization policy with Prudential Life Insurance Co. The solicitor, Richard Wolfe, is to review the contract, which now does not cover the hospitalization of a baby.

The council approved the tax rates of two mills inside the 10 mill limitation and 8.90 mills outside, which is required by the county auditor.

Two blazes in 94 hours

Alert neighbors probably saved the Quentin Ream home in Willow circle Thursday morning.

Smoke was seen coming out of the garage and the Plymouth fire department was called at 9 a. m.

Apparently Ream had cleaned out a fireplace and put the ashes in the garage, some of which were live, before he left for work.

Several hundred dollars of damage was done to the garage wall.

A fire of undetermined origin caused heavy damage to the Walter Stover house in Park avenue Monday.

Firemen were called at 10 p. m.

The blaze travelled up the basement stairway and through the roof of the structure.

The January financial report prepared by Mrs. Sidney Ream, clerk-treasurer, shows the village has $382,690 in total fund balances.

Mrs. Ream shows a cash balance of $42,690.05 on hand.

The general fund has $20,899.21, which includes income tax revenues.

The street fund shows a balance of $3,181.72. The $5 license tax, which is being paid by vehicle owners in both Huron and Richland counties, is available upon specific requests to each county and is not reflected in the local balance.

All other funds show positive balances with the electric fund taking the lead with $84,103.23.

Late fireman honored by colleagues

The late James H. Cashman was chosen Fireman of the Year for 1981.

The announcement was made Saturday night at the Fire Ladies' dance in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

He is the first member of the department to be so honored. A placque is being placed in the fire house for additional names in future years.

Cashman, who lost his life last winter in an automobile collision in Kentucky, officially became a member of the department in 1971, when he turned 18, although he had several years of service with the civil defense unit beforehand.

White attending Ohio State university, Columbus, he aided the department when he was able, and became the first member of the ambulance crew to complete a paramedic course.

A new memorial fund, to be called the James H. Cashman Memorial, is being instituted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Cashman. Annual donations by the family will be used for equipment or training for the ambulance personnel.

A special fund was set up after he lost his life and a Jaws of Life was purchased.

Mrs. Lewis's suit accuses Drs. A. A. Baddour and Robert W. Tawse, Mansfield, and Grant Dowda, Shelby, of "failing to exercise that degree of care, skill and diligence ordinarily exercised by physicians treating patients under circumstances similar to those that existed". The suit contends that the death was a direct and proximate result of the acts and omissions of the defendants suffered physical pain and mental anguish during his hospitalization."

A jury trial is requested. It will be heard by Judge Max Chilcote.

Greying grandmother reports life in India better than here — for some!

A greying grandmother spent Christmas in a six bedroom, six bath house occupied by her son and daughter-in-law and their children halfway across the world and has one observation: "They certainly live a lot better there than we do here."

Mrs. George L. Lesho, Sr., 85 Sandusky street, spent seven weeks abroad. She flew both ways, via New York, N. Y., and Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany, to New Delhi, capital city of India, where her only son, George L., Jr., is a communications specialist with a federal agency.

He's not the first product of Plymouth to be so engaged. Until he retired, after a generation of similar service, James Rhine served in communications in such remote places as Kabul, Afghanistan, and Taipeh, Taiwan.

Young Lesho attended Plymouth schools and went into military service before he joined the civilian employment of the government.

He is married to the former Claudia Hamons of Plymouth. The younger Leshos have three chidlren, two of whom attend the free American school in New Delhi. The youngest one attends a pre-school class with Indian nationals and others of the international community.

They reported to New Delhi after service in Turkey, having prior to that lived in Iran.

The Leshos relish Indian food, although they are careful where they eat it.

"Not every restaurant is so sanitary as some others," Grandmother Lesho explains. As a public health service nurse, she's sensitive to such things.

New Delhi's main thoroughfares are broad avenues, she reports, and the traffic density is overwhelming.

Twice, while she and her daughter-in-law were shopping, they were halted by a police cordon while "a big sedan, probably a Mercedes, with flags on the fenders, swept by. We later learned it was Mrs. Gandhi, who runs the country."

And there are mendicants, mostly pitifully attired and gaunt women with young children, who constantly cry "Baksheesh! Baksheesh!", the Hindu word for alms.

Some household necessities are relatively inexpensive.

"Adult female clothing," Mrs. Lesho says, "is very cheap. I saw some items for $1.50 that are priced in the catalogue of a prominent American department store for six times that, and the very same article."

Fruits and vegetables are plentiful. The cook employed by the household does most of the buying – he has experience in diplomatic households – and is able to haggle effectively with native vendors.

The Hindus do not eat beef. "The butcher comes on foot or by bicycle every week or so, rolls a piece of paper out on the floor and puts his meat, which is buffalo, on the paper. The householder then orders as much as he wants and it is cut off. How is it? I found it very good, without the fat that characterizes American beef."

But some items are extremely expensive, notably paper products.

"When I left, I had some room left in my luggage so I filled it with toilet tissue," Mrs. Lesho relates. "Toilet tissue, as other paper products, is extremely expensive in India. Not that my family can't get any – there's an American commissary where they buy, but when a shipment comes in, the choice items are snapped up right away."

Anybody who is anybody at all visits the Taj Mahal, the tomb constructed by an Indian potentate in memory of his beloved.

Lesho file took a day of leave and the family hired a taxicab to make the trip, which took about four hours at an average speed of 50 miles an hour.

"What a beautiful thing it is to see! I remember I asked how they keep that marble so white, what with all the air pollution everywhere."

Wives in the embassy were hostesses for a Christmas party at an orphanage run by Mother Teresa, the Nobel prize winner, and Mrs. Lesho was included.

"The older girls, perhaps 13 or 14 years old, take care of the babies. There were about 25 or 30 there, all told, and the older girls went right to work changing diapers and such as that."

It is the Indian custom to distribute small presents to young guests who attend a birthday party. "And those little items, plastic things that you would find in a dime store, are very expensive in India, as are all plastic things."

December and January are ideal months in New Delhi. Temperature range was 50 to 70 degrees each day. In the summer the mercury often flirts with 115 degrees.

"They were getting ready to open the swimming pools in a few weeks when I left," Mrs. Lesho says.

The younger Mrs. Lesho manages a household staff of three. The housing is furnished by her husband's employer. Utilities and appliances are paid and operated by the employer. Tuition in the American school is free. Civilian employees of the government station abroad are, of course, liable for U. S. income tax, which is deducted bi-weekly.

Communications media are less well developed in India than in the United States, the Plymouth visitor found.

"There was an English language newspaper that was filled with stories about Indian cities that I never heard of but not much international news. The only American item I saw was a picture of deep snow in Chicago, with perhaps 30 or 40 words underneath it.

"Television is all in Hindu or another Asiatic language and is controlled by the government. My son occasionally is able to get a tape of an American cartoon or comedy show and his children take it to a colleague, who has a device on his TV set, so they can see it.

"But after a while, I got so used to the routine that we were living that I didn't mind missing what was going on."

And what of jet lag?

"It didn't bother me when I went out there but it certainly did on the way back."

Would she go again?

"Just try me!"

Miss Ayres marries Jeffrey Lee Daniel

Miss Wendy Sue Ayres and Jeffrey Lee Daniel were married Feb. 6 at 6 p. m. in Grace United Methodist church, Willard. The Rev. William Moran, the minister, performed the double ring service.

The bride is a beautician in Nancy's Beauty salon.

Mrs. Ted Williams, cousin of the bride, Pioneer, organist, accompanied Mrs. Jack Veleteau, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Bruce J. Ayres, Willard, and the late Bruce Ayres and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Daniel of near Willard.

Pink floral arrangements decorated the altar and small hurricane lamps and satin bows marked the family pews. The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Robert Ayres, Sandusky. Her gown was of white chiffon, styled with a fitted bodice and full circular skirt. The long tapered sleeves, bodice and back shoulder panel were of sheer, diamond pattern net, lined with chiffon. The front of the bodice, back shoulder panel, neckline and long pointed sleeves were trimmed with lace accents. The sleeves and back of the dress closed with tiny satin covered buttons. A sheer panel of chiffon, attached to the dropped shoulder panel, formed the chapel length train. The bride accented her gown with a matching picture hat also trimmed with lace accents. The back of the hat was designed with a large bouffant net bow and white satin ribbon and streamers. Her bridal bouquet was of colonial design with pink roses and baby's breath. For something borrowed she carried a small Bible, covered in white satin, which belonged to her late maternal grandfather.

The maid of honor, Miss Sherry Ayres, the bride's sister, Bellevue, wore a gown of Daphne rose polyester knit material. The plain style dress, with spaghetti straps and gathered waistline was complimented with a jacket of chiffon in matching color. A small ruffle decorated the jacket at the neckline, shoulder yoke, wrist and waistline. The yoke of the jacket was enhanced with lace and satin ribbon at the front and back of the shoulder and small ribbon streamers tied the jacket at the waistline. Sisters of the bridegroom, Karen Daniel and Mrs. James Roth, bridesmaids, wore gowns in the same style and color as the maid of honor. They carried long stemmed pink roses, tied with baby's breath and satin streamers and wore small floral accents in their hair. Miss Laura Ayres, niece of the bride, flower girl, wore Daphne rose with an eyelet pinafore of white. She carried a basket of pink sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's brother, Timothy, was best man. Steven Ayres and David Daniel, brothers of the couple, ushered. Mark Daniel, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer; carrying the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow made by the bride's late paternal grandmother and carried at other family weddings.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of wine color polyester, with pleated skirt and diamond pattern net cape effect. The gown was trimmed with lace on the front and back of the bodice and neckline. She wore a floral corsage. Mrs. Daniel chose a floor length gown of light blue polyester with long sleeved jacket in matching color and beaded trim. Her accessories were in blue. Her corsage was in shades of pink with white statice accent.

Honored guests for the wedding were the bride's paternal grandfather, James W. Ayres, and the bridegroom's paternal grandfather, Herman Daniel, Sr., both of Willard. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Senn, was unable to be present.

The Misses Kathy and Sandy Daniel, sisters of the bridegroom, distributed seed packets as the guests left the church. Miss Chris Daniel, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests.

A reception took place in Father Nardecchia hall. Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. Timothy Daniel, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mrs. Steven Ayres, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Mark Elmlinger and Miss Any Senn, cousins of the bride.

Paul Zweidinger's band played for dancing and a buffet lunch was prepared by women of St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Willard High school and also of the Tiffin Academy of Hair Design. The bridegroom graduated in 1974 from Seneca East High school, Attica, and is employed at Horn's Crop Service center, near Willard.

Here's rice dish recipe that's tasty and not expensive!

By AUNT LIZ

How long is it going to take grocery stores to realize that they might be losing money on offering double and triple refunds on coupons for this and that?

One store a few weeks ago offered a triple deal. I carefully planned what I needed and what coupons I had and saved about $6, which I considered great. But the gal ahead of me did a little better. She bought about $95 worth and paid $29 something. All practical staples too.

It is a real game. The catch is that most of the stuff we buy regularly never has coupons, so I guess the stores make it up on that.

Another thing I discovered this week is that some really good bargains are not advertised. You simply must go into a store and look, and I captured some nice hamburger for spaghetti sauce, which need not be the very best since it gets so gooped up with spices, and some very good looking chicken breasts, which you can do so much with and have no waste. A long time ago I realized that it was wiser to pay a little more and have no waste. Another thing, a good piece of this and that cuts down on cooking time.

One thing you can say about the lousy weather we are having is that it is the main bit of conversation. People simply have forgotten to gossip about who is doing what with whom; it is all the snow and ice you have to plow through. So maybe it does have its points.

The other day I picked up the paper we get from New Jersey and it had a really interesting article about the winter in 1780 that Washington and his troops were there.

If you think it is rough now, just think back about those guys who made this nation possible. They didn't have thermal underwear or good boots. Everything they had to wear was handmade. And furthermore they simply did not have enough to eat, let alone dropping into a warm place for a nice hot cup of coffee.

We really forget all this. That winter the New York harbor was frozen with 11 feet of ice, and every time the troops needed to move, it snowed. And today it snows on the night when you want to watch a basketball game.

Here're menus in cafeterias here, at Shiloh

Here're menus in Plymouth Elementary school cafeteria for the week:

Today: Sloppy Joe sandwich, potatoes, applesauce, cookie, milk;

Tomorrow: Pizza, pretzels, buttered peas, yellow cake with chocolate frosting, milk;

Monday: Burritos, bread and butter, green beans, chocolate nut drop, milk;

Tuesday: Pork patty sandwich, Spanish rice, pineapple, chocolate cake with chocolate frosting, milk;

Wednesday: Tuna noodle casserole, buttered peas, bread and butter, plums, milk.

Here're menus in Shiloh school cafeteria for the week:

Today: Meat and cheese pizza, buttered green beans, bread and butter, fruit, milk;

Tomorrow: Meat loaf sandwich, potato sticks, mixed vegetables, strawberries and bananas, milk;

Monday: Sloppy Joe sandwich, potatoes, cherry cobbler, milk;

Tuesday: Turkey gravy with mashed potatoes, bread and butter, cole slaw, pineapple, milk;

Wednesday: Hot bologna sandwich, buttered or sweet potatoes, fruit mix, cookie, milk.

For those who are going to games down a snow covered road, they need to start out well heeled with a good hot meal.

Whatever meat you have, from a roast to pork chops, this rice dish can add to it.

Cook three cups of rice, read the directions so you get the three cups. Instant will work.

Cut a cup of celery nicely, and a cup of green onions with the tops. Gently cook the two in about two tablespoons of butter, add the rice with a tablespoon of grated lemon rind, a little salt and pepper, and it is ready.

If you want to be more elaborate about the rice, serve it with some raisins, coconut, almonds or chutney. This should make six nice servings or four really good ones.

What is left over can be reheated in the oven. Just add a small dash of water and a little margarine.

Rice is no longer the big bargain it was about 10 years ago. I hate to think what the poor Chinese must be paying for it since they can not serve a meal without it. Nevertheless, it is filling and worth it.

Eagles claw Plymouth, 81 to 58; reserves' rally insufficient

Monroeville showed Plymouth what is likely to be in store for it when it enters the Firelands conference next season.

The Eagles demolished the Big Red at Monroeville Saturday night, 81 to 58. And they did it by keeping their poise and overcoming a Plymouth lead after eight minutes.

Plymouth clawed from behind after a disastrous start to take a 16 to 13 advantage at the end of the first quarter.

Todd Ryan got two buckets, Bill Missig scored a basket and Ryan came back with his third field goal of the period, all within three minutes, and Monroeville never again was headed.

Missig scored again at 3:19 and added two free throws at 3:04 before Fred Leber got his first field goal of the night. Plymouth did not score until 1:29 remained in the half, when Steve Mowry got two free throws. He was fouled by Mike Brown.

By this time Monroeville had a lead of 31 to 18.

It was Katie bar the door thereafter.

Limited to just six points in the second period, Plymouth couldn't do much better in the third . The Big Red managed only nine points. The Eagles, on the other hand, scored 17, six of them by Don Farmer, who was shut down save for two free throws in the first half, and six by Missig.

Each team scored 27 points in the final eight minutes, when play became ragged on both sides. Monroeville had six turnovers and Plymouth four in the final quarter, when Jeff Fenner scored 13 points for the Big Red, and a points for the Big Red, a season and career high for him.

In its effort to obtain possession, Plymouth fouled heavily on the last period. Monroeville went to the line 13 times, once on a technical against Brian Fenner, and scored with 11 of them.

Both teams had bench players on the floor after the outcome was no longer in doubt. Save for Jeff Fenner, Plymouth's bench did not do so well as Monroeville's bench.

Only one Monroeville player failed to score.

Brad Postema had 15 for Plymouth, the only player other than Jeff Fenner in double figures.

Four Eagles were in double figures, Farmer, Mike Landoll and Missig with 14 apiece and Ryan with 11.

Rhonda Branham only a ninth grader, scored 14 points.

Becky Turson scored 12 points and took down 11 rebounds. Renee Taylor matched her point output and had nine carons. All told Plymouth had 32 rebounds, South Central only 17.

Red reserves reversed a trend and finally won one again, 30 to 20.

Plymouth meets Mansfield Christian in Black Fork Valley conference play here today.

Coach Keith Diebler took his Big Red girls' basketball team to his old stomping grounds at North Robinson Feb. 8 and for two quarters took a stomping.

But he ignited his team early in the third period and Plymouth came on to win, 47 to 40.

The victory raised the Big Red's record to 11-and-5.

After a technical foul call against their coach, who made some ugly reflections on the quality of the officiating, Plymouth tied it at 29 and when Renee Taylor completed a three-point play with 1:13 left in the period, Plymouth was ahead to stay.

Miss Taylor stole a pass and converted it with 29 seconds left and Fayette Hudson threw in a bank shot from 12 feet away with three ticks left on the clock and the Big Red led by 34 to 29.

Plymouth applied the pras in thefinal quarter and built its lead to 12 points with 1:36 left in the game.

After that it was all downhill.

Plymouth fired for field goal 41 times and converted 16 of them. The Eagles shot 51 times and sank 15. Plymouth outpointed Colonel Crawford at the foul line, 15 to 10, but Plymouth had 33 chances, Colonel Crawford only 17.

The Big Red outrebounded Colonel Crawford, 42 to 32. Miss Taylor taking down 18.

Red reserves were beaten, 27 to 16.

Big Red girls knocked off Lucas, 61 to 31, here Feb. 9.

It was Plymouth's 12th win of the season against five losses. And since it was a Black Fork Valley conference contest, the Big Red rose to a 4-and-1 record there.

Renee Taylor stormed through the Cubs for 21 points. Tembra Tackett contributed 14.

Becky Baughman had 20 for the losers.

Plymouth overcame a brief Lucas lead and simply stormed the net. After eight minutes it was 15 to 8 and after 16 the score was 25 to 10.

When the smoke had cleared away, Plymouth had fired for field goal 64 times, succeeding with 25, or 39 per cent. Lucas, meanwhile, got off 60 shots and made 14 of them, or 23 per cent.

The Big Red missed 12 of 23 free throws, Lucas four of seven.

Flames burn Big Red with two big quarters

Mansfield Christian broke open a close, albeit dull, game in a second period here Friday night and ran away with a Black Fork Valley conference victory over Plymouth, 50 to 40.

The Crimson Flames outscored Plymouth by five in the second period and by seven in the third and that was all she wrote.

It would have been a landslide save for the spectacular shooting of Scott Harris in the final quarter, when he threw in four baskets.

And Jeff Fenner, a precinct not heretofore heard from, contributed two important buckets in the last eight minutes, when Plymouth managed to outscore the visitors by two.

It has been a mystery all season that Plymouth does not shoot well on its own floor and the first three periods Friday night showed once again the truth of that observation. Plymouth was three of 13 in the first period, four of 14 in the second, four of 12 in the third. Only in the fourth quarter was its shooting up to the level necessary to win at this level of competition. The Big Red fired for field goal 20 times and canned eight.

Overall, Plymouth shot 53 times and made 19 of them. It missed six of eight free throws.

The Flames, on the other hand, got off 59 shots and made 20 of them, just over 33 per cent. They missed five of 15 free throws.

Plymouth outrebounded the visitors, 37 to 33, but made many more turnovers, 19 to 13.

Only Harris was in double figures for the Big Red, which had nine scorers all told.

For the Flames, there were two in double figures, Jesse Byrd with 11 and Mike Longshore with 10. Longshore did all the scoring for his team in the first quarter.

The successful reserve squad produced another victory, 47 to 44, thanks to a big third quarter. As it turned out, Plymouth needed it, for the young Flames came back and doubled the score on the Big Red in the final six minutes. As it was, Plymouth won it at the foul line.

To Save You Money

If you itemize your deductions, be sure not to overlook any—you may be able to deduct the cost of transportation to and from the doctor's office, the rental of a safe deposit box, union dues, uniforms, and donations to your favorite charity, for example.

If your income for 1981 is more than your average income for the past four years, try "income averaging." It could save you money. See Schedule G, Form 1040, Income Averaging.

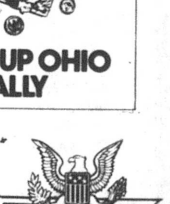

If you have interest and/or dividends to declare on your tax return, you may be able to exclude the first $200, (or $400 if married, filing jointly), from the amount.

If you itemize deductions and are using the Sales Tax Tables to find the appropriate amount of sales tax to deduct, remember to use your "total available income" which may include some nontaxable items such as social security and welfare benefits, when reading the Sales Tax Table.

String of tractors lined up in high school parking lot prior to pull staged Tuesday by FFA for its national week.

Bulldog sets record

Chris Spiroff is only five feet three inches tall but he looms as Goliath in Plymouth basketball annals.

The little Bulldog scored 29 points, 17 of them from the foul line, here Tuesday night to lead Crestline to a 74 to 51 victory.

No player in Plymouth history has ever scored 17 free throws.

Plymouth never lead, but managed to tie it twice before crumbling in the last period.

Spiroff was awarded 23 free throws, 13 of them in the final period.

Crestline, which raised its record to 8-and-11, managed to lead by two after eight minutes and by three at the half. It added another point to its lead in the third quarter before the roof fell in the final period.

Crestline clearly deserved to win. It outshot Plymouth, 23 to 18, from the field. And at the foul line it was devastating.

Four Plymouth players fouled out in the contest, during which 48 personal fouls were called.

And during the last few minutes of the game, there were some harsh words and some angry gestures exchanged between the two teams.

Dick Miller was the only other Crestliner in double figures. And only Scott Harris, who fouled out with just over six minutes left, got into double figures for Plymouth.

Crestline got off 60 tries for field goal and missed 13 free throws. Plymouth fired 58 times and had 22 free throws.

Plymouth mistakes in the second half, notable when there were less than two minutes to play in the third period, cost it dearly. The Big Red was charged with 19 turnovers, seven of them in the last period.

Plymouth scored with four of 11 tries for field goal in the first period, four of 14 in the second quarter, six of 17 in the third and four of 16 in the fourth, not by any standards a satisfactory performance on the home floor.

Man, 40, arrested in chase by police

A 40-year-old Plymouth man was arrested early Saturday after he led Willard and Plymouth police in a high speed chase.

Robert Oney, 223 Nichols avenue, is accused of having entered the house of his former wife, Patricia, in Willard. She said he beat her up.

Willard police responded Saturday at 5 a. m. to a burglary-in-progress alarm at Mrs. Oney's home at 16 West street. When police approached the scene, they saw a man driving a truck from the house, followed by Mrs. Oney on foot. Police later identified the suspect as Oney.

He sped south in Route 103 through Celeryville, then turned east in Baseline road to Route 598, where he turned north. Police chased him to Route 103, where he turned west and returned to Willard.

He was arrested in Walton avenue, where there was a struggle. Oney was injured and admitted to Willard Area hospital. Willard police charged him with fleeing and eluding an officer, reckless operation and resisting arrest.

Will village purchase a new ambulance?

Bids to advertiser for bids for purchase of a new ambulance were authorized Tuesday night by village council at the urging of Councilman Terry Hopkins.

Hopkins said the present ambulance cannot meet the specifications, although it can be retained as a back-up vehicle.

He added it is beginning to cost more and more for maintenance.

Councilmen agreed to review the bids received, then figure out how the purchase can be financed.

The present vehicle is a 1974 Dodge, which was purchased in 1977 from Kansas City, Mo. That particular model, Mayor Dean A. Cline told the council, was taken out of production once it was discovered it was of faulty construction.

Hopkins said it is safe to drive with care.

The ambulance department has been eyeing a demonstrator with 5,000 miles on it, which can be purchased for about $28,000. A similar new model would cost about $10,000 more.

The question of leasing it would simply cost too much in interest payments, the council was told.

The mayor suggested perhaps the village could lease the vehicle and pay it off more quickly, thus saving the interest money.

The village solicitor, Richard Wolfe, will prepare the advertisement for the next council meeting and determine how many weeks it should be advertised.

Wolfe was asked about the interest gained from money for the fire pumper fund being used for other than the pumper. He said he must check the wording of the three mill levy that was passed five years ago. The legal notice states the money raised by the passage of the levy is to be used in the future for the purchase of a fire pumper with no mention of what interest money would be generated by investing the tax money as it came to the village.

Councilman Ronald Predieri brought up the problem of garbage bags not being collected as they should be.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said he believes the present ordinance should be changed to read that no garbage may be placed at kerbside for collection more than 24 hours beforehand.

The council expressed the hope that residents will be aware that the garbage must be properly bagged and not left out so that stray animals can strew it around.

Compliance with the present ordinance, which was passed in 1968, is in the hands of the village administrator to enforce. James C. Root said he will work with the police department to see that it is done.

Moore said the police department is undertaking an inventory of its equipment to ascertain exactly what it has.

Hopkins inquired how a department can rid itself legally of unwanted equipment. This problem will be undertaken by the service committee, which will include the police department coffee pot, which no longer works nor does anyone know where it came from.

Electrician Terry Jump went to Muncie, Ind., yesterday to inspect a bucket truck. Root said that even though the council has made no appropriation for one in 1982, it has discussed replacing the present one, which was purchased in 1968.

Former Supt. John Fazzini was chosen to replace Roy Barber, who is the newest councilman, on the planning and zoning committee.

Parley set

President William Sturman will meet with members of Local 2161, UAW, today at 3 p. m. to outline changes in the work schedule of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., amid rumors the work week will be cut to 32 hours.

An antique muzzle-loading rifle with a powder horn, a 12-gauge shotgun and a calibre .22 rifle were missing.

Deputies said there was no sign of forced entry.

Coach's tires slashed

It's apparently open season on wrestling coaches.

Richard Roll, 79 Plymouth street, head mat coach in Plymouth High schools, found the front and rear tires on the driver's side of his sedan were slashed and flat when he went to use the vehicle Feb. 17 at 6:45 p. m.

He reported the incident to police, who are seeking clues to the identity of the vandal.

His colleague at Norwalk, Dennis Corrigan, reported to police there that four tires were slashed Friday night. He estimated damage at $225.

Barber named to council

Roy Barber was sworn as a member of the village council Monday by Mayor Dean A. Cline.

He is taking the seat vacated by Ervin Howard, who was elected to a four-year term in November.

Howard tried to withdraw his name from the ballot, but it was too late to do so. He resigned as of Jan. 1.

The appointment of Barber was made by the mayor because the council failed to choose another member in the 30 days allotted to it by law.

He is a 14-year employee of Ohio Seamless Tube Co., Shelby.

A Shelby native, Barber, 33, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Barber, Shelby, and a graduate of Shelby High school.

He and his wife, the former Ruth Ann Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toy Patton, are the parents of a six- and eight-year-old daughters and a four-year-old son.

They reside at 306 Willow court.

Girls cop loop title, defeat Flames, 51 to 41

Big Red girls won their third straight Black Fork Valley conference championship Thursday by defeating Mansfield Christian, 51 to 41.

Plymouth did it from the foul line.

Its record is now 14-and-6. In the conference it is 5-and-1.

Plymouth took an early lead and managed to hold off a late surge by the Flames, who outscored the Big Red, 33 to 26, in the second half.

Plymouth got off 51 tries for field goal and converted 19 of them. The Flames matched the number of baskets but shot 69 times.

Renee Taylor, completing her schoolgirl eligibility, scored 23 points for Plymouth. She also took down 20 rebounds.

Becky Turson had 13 for the winners.

It was stout defense by Plymouth during the first half that produced the lead of 25 to 8.

But with 1:35 left on the clock in the fourth period, Plymouth led by only four, the Flames having nibbled away at Plymouth's lead. Miss Taylor shot two free throws and Lisa Daron got one to push the lead to 44 to 37. Home free, Plymouth continued its pace. Rhonda Branham and Miss Turson scored from underneath and Tembra Tackett and Patti Payne bagged free throws to snare the victory.

Sixth graders vie for title

Sixth grade Vikings, tied for first place with Wendy's, play their last league game today against St. Peter's.

If the Vikes win, a playoff for the title will be necessary.

Vikings downed Madison, 25 to 23, Marc Rankin scoring seven.

Wildcats win over girls

A frantic rally by Plymouth in the fourth period at New London Feb. 16 failed to overcome a Wildcat lead and Plymouth fell victim to the Firelands conference team, 45 to 43.

It is likely Plymouth will meet the Wildcats in the second round of the Class A playdowns at Willard. This can only happen if New London defeats Monroeville.

The Wildcats produced two uncanny shooters in Joni Stoll and Patty Young. The former fired from the perimeter of the Big Red defense and the latter repeatedly sneaked inside.

Plymouth was nine points down going into the final eight minutes.

Becky Turson and Tembra Tackett converted rebounds and Plymouth had cut the margin to five with 7:05 remaining.

Lisa Daron scored at 6:21 and Miss Turson bagged a rebound to cut the lead to one point at 38 to 38.

Miss Young went to work and slid inside for three consecutive goals before Rhonda Branham thew in a jumper and Miss Turson scored a field goal and an accompanying penalty shot.

Plymouth was two points down with 41 seconds left.

Renee Taylor was called for charging and the Wildcats took possession. But they gave tha ball away and Plymouth came up the floor again.

Two seconds remained on the clock when Plymouth threw the ball in but a turnover cost the Big Red its last chance.

Miss Taylor scored 14 and Miss Turson 11.

Redmen vanquish Big Red

Bucyrus took an early lead and administered a sound trouncing to Plymouth here Saturday night, 66 to 46.

The Redmen drew first blood and forged to the front at 3:54 of the first period and never were headed thereafter.

The visitors led by seven after eight minutes and by 11 at the half.

They did so by shooting well in the second period, when they canned seven of 16 tries for field goal. Plymouth got into foul trouble early in the first quarter and Bucyrus capitalized on the penalty situation by sinking five fof six foul shots.

The Big Red also shot well in the second period, five of nine tries, but was unable to cut into the lead. Plymouth had only two free throws in the first half, made them both, and had gone to the line only twice when the fourth period began. Overall, Plymouth had eight free throws and made six. Had Bucyrus shot as well, it would have blown Plymouth from the gymnasium. The Redmen managed to make only eight of 23 tries.

From the field, Bucyrus succeeded with 29 of 66 tries, whereas Plymouth bagged 20 of 47 shots.

It was a case of too much Mike Cotsamire, who repeatedly penetrated the Big Red zone to score six field goals. In an effort to stop him, Plymouth fouled overmuch, with the result that he had

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

You better believe we have coaches and teachers that care. We'll compare ours to any school we know and with four pupils each participating in three sports each school year, we have plenty of experience.

We could list hundreds of incidents but a few things stand out in our minds that we will list. We have seen Mr. McClintock and family out in the rain, miles from home on a holiday to watch one Plymouth pupils run a race that we knew she would not win.

Football coaches making sure that the equipment is available for use during their vacation time, summer after summer. Football coaches and other teachers attending track meets miles from home to see "their" boys.

How about the Saturdays Mr. Diebler is giving up to work with the junior high pupils? How about the car load he drove to see one of "his" girls play college ball? How about the open gym he supervises in summer?

Wasn't that Mr. Pore at a girls' basketball game when he has a sick wife? But he didn't want to disappoint "his" kids by not showing up at a game.

It doesn't stop at the coaches. Mr. Conklin keeps the road hot from Ashland so he can direct the pep band at both boys' and girls' games. Our band has certainly improved since he started summer camp.

Teachers and the administrative staff working the concession or popcorn stand at games. I'm sure they don't do this for the love of popcorn.

It doesn't stop at the paid member of a teaching family. Wives provide drinks for events, take stats, take care of sick or hurt pupils, all with love. Girl friends take pictures, husbands assist with projects and on and on.

We could write a book, but we will just say Thank You Plymouth District Teachers, we appreciate what you are doing for our kids. And we'd like to challenge the "silent majority" to flood this newspaper with your appreciative thoughts for the most-caring teachers around.

Margaret and William Hudson

Sir:

Congratulations to the Plymouth girls' basketball team for winning the Black Fork Valley conference. Nice job!

The sounds of coal at work.

Coal can hum, buzz and whir, too. After all, coal makes the electricity that runs your refrigerator, television, and all the things that get you through the day.

Coal is plentiful. Reliable. More economical than oil. America's supply of coal is so abundant it will last for centuries. The more coal we use, the less dependent America will be on expensive foreign oil.

The American Electric Power System — which we are part of — makes almost all of its electricity from coal. Matter of fact, American Electric Power uses more coal than any electric utility in the country.

And that's good news for all of us. You see, since fuel is the major factor in the cost of making electricity, our use of coal helps keep your electric rates below the national average.*

Now, doesn't coal sound good!

Redmen win

seven free throws, making five.

Todd Brenner, who scored 16 points, all of them on field goals, was a particular thorn in Plymouth's side. He scored 10 points in the first half. So did Bruce Thomas, only a 10th grader.

Steve Mowry contributed 11 points to Plymouth's total, in which 10 players participated. What happened was that none of them participated enough.

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS—IRAs.

It's nice to have someone take care of you.

But it's even nicer to feel confident that you can take care of yourself. Especially when you retire.

To start building that confidence talk to the professionals at our FULL SERVICE BANK about setting up a tax-deferred Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

Starting in 1982, IRAs will be available to almost everyone (even individuals already covered by a company pension).

With the new IRAs, you as an individual may deposit up to $2,000 a year.

We'll even help you set up a convenient payment schedule.

WHAT A TAX DEFERRED IRA COULD MEAN TO YOU
Based on 12% interest compounded annually

| $500 INVESTMENT | $1,000 INVESTMENT | $2,000 INVESTMENT |
|---|---|---|
| $ 15,000 | $ 30,000 | $ 60,000 |
| $135,146 | $270,292 | $540,585 |

Note: This chart is intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. This is not a guarantee of interest rates or end financial results.

Letting you make your deposits by the week, by the month, or what ever suits you best.

You then deduct the annual investment from your taxable income. And pay no federal taxes on the interest until you start withdrawing funds (maximum age 59½).

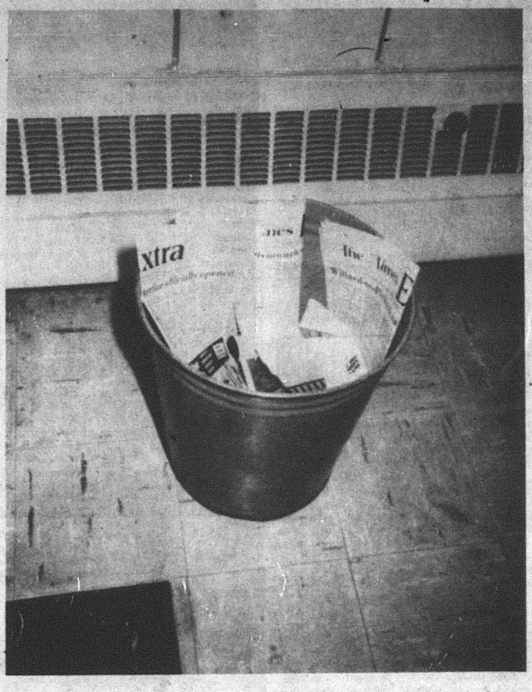

Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket able to hold on to the lion's share of your nest egg.

For complete details about the new IRAs, talk to the professionals at our FULL SERVICE BANK today. Then you won't have to worry about social insecurity tomorrow.

Vikings

As penultimate week of a dismal season nears end, bench support of Big Red team looms more importantly in scheme of things. Jeff Fenner, No. 24, another in a line of Fenners, is an 11th grader who sees some action and with Seneca East's juggernaut due here tomorrow, he may see even more. At five feet eight, he's looked upon as nucleus for 1982-83 squad.

Rick Hawkins, No. 22, plays with reserves sometimes but also suits up for varsity action. He's not big but he's quick, a quiet sort who does what he's told and does it suitably. He's an 11th grader and will be back next season, when a strong contingent of 11th graders-to-be, now members of the successful reserve team, will challenge his experience and expertise.

Jeff Brown wears No. 42. A 12th grader with some experience, he measures an even six feet. No great scorer, he's a fair rebounder and has been used by Coach David P. Dunn in situations when his two big men, Greg Polachek and Brad Postema, are in foul trouble. He'll play his last home game tomorrow.

After 50 years of driving cars, Auntie at long last hits ditch!

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing worse than having to admit defeat.

It has happened to me before.

A couple of times I ran for election and got clobbered, which really didn't bother me at all since it had to be and I knew it very well.

But to end up in a ditch after 50 years of really careful driving did it.

I also knew it had to happen one day and for years managed to stay on the road with some very close encounters.

What do you do when a Pinto decides to act like a drunken butterfly, and there you are in a nice snowbank? Fortunately the car was completely off the road so no one else could hit it.

And there I sat using every word my happy husband had taught me.

I was disgusted. I was not hurt nor was the car, but I was kind of in the middle of nowhwere, so out I go and start to hoof it toward the golf course, which I knew had someone living in it to take care of it during the winter months.

All I can say is if this happens to anyone, do it near a friendly golf course which has heat, a telephone, hot coffee and a nice bathroom.

What really hurt is that my father taught me to drive when I was 13 when we lived on one of my grandfather's ranches in Colorado. Those roads were no great shakes, but I could get my mother into the little village 10 miles away to play bridge even though we slid this way and that, in a little snow but mostly in slippery mud. So 50 years later in our great age of knowing how to manage to drive, I run up against pure, smooth ice, which no one was doing a darn thing about. I heard later that the salt truck doing the road was also in a ditch.

In about four hours I had gone about 15 miles, seven one way and seven back. When the weather is good, you simply do not notice how a road can dip up and down. It sure does.

Right now I consider that the new ice age that is being predicted has really hit Ohio. It is mostly concentrated in our backyard. Can you imagine walking over maybe six inches of snow and not sinking in (and granted I would sink if it were normal)?

Our pups love it, and the little one, who must go out on a leash so I do not have to chase her three houses away, wants to go and go, and I cannot without falling flat on my face. I have already fallen twice on my back and no way can I bend my neck to get my hair done at this point.

Happier days are coming. I have a birthday coming up, and we are having a real feast. It will be my most favorite dinner.

It will be meat loaf, a nice baked potato with lots of butter and baby peas. The meatloaf will have some of my unsuccessfully made chili sauce on it, which I spent hours on last summer, and it is for the birds, but tasty even though it did not thicken as it should.

Call me a real peasant. Some great delicacies I simply hate, but we will have a cake which will be great. It is going to last us a whole week to boot. And we will be helping an industry, the rum people.

Since we own a nice, sturdy bundt pan, we are ready. Never buy one of those meager little ones. Pay more, and it is worth it.

This has been in every magazine anyone gets, but maybe you did not see it.

You can make it from scratch, but it is easier and cheaper to use a yellow pudding cake mix deal.

Mix it with three eggs, a third of a cup of oil, a half cup of cold water, and a half cup of dark rum.

Pour the batter into a nicely greased bundt pan, and if you want, first sprinkle the bottom with some chopped nuts - anything but salted peanuts.

Bake at 325 for about an hour. Cool it, then invert the pan and let it gently come out on a plate. When still hot, prink the top with a handy tooth pick and pour a glaze of a fourth of a pound of butter, mixed with a fourth of a cup of water, a cup of sugar and a half cup of run. Cook it up a little so it is a liquid.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Hats off to girls, conference champs!

The record of the Big Red girls' basketball team is not the best ever turned in by a Plymouth team and it is far from the worst.

That it won the third straight year the championship of the Black Fork Valley conference is a feather in its cap. Let it be said that here the girls received some of the praise they deserve.

They and their coach are entitled to commendation, which everybody ought to extend to them. It's nice to win; it's better to win and be nice. Which is how we have found the entire squad, from coach to mere substitute.

If vacancy occurs, how to fill it?

From time to time, public officeholders deem it proper to resign. It then falls upon the body to which they were elected or appointed to seek out a replacement.

How should a replacement be chosen?

There is, in our opinion, only one fair way to do it.

It is to show preference to those who in the past have circulated nominating petitions, have sworn to their validity and have paid the nominating fee to the county board of elections.

There has been for some time an argument hereabouts that if, say, John or Mary Doe seeks office and fails to receive enough votes to win, this should be taken as a sign that his or her friends and neighbors don't want him or her in the job.

Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The truth is that at the time that John or Mary Doe sought office, another candidate, or candidates, obtained the preference of the electorate.

When the manager looks for a competent pinch hitter, he chooses the player most likely, at that time, to produce what he's looking for – a base hit. He chooses a Ruth over a Durocher, a Rose over a Geronimo, a McBride over a Manning. Which is not to say that Durocher, or Geronimo, or Manning may not be a very competent player who, in other circumstances, such as when there is no Ruth nor Rose nor McBride available, for whatever reason, may very well produce what the manager seeks.

It is the same way with political office.

Timing of one's candidacy is all important. Because a candidate errs in judging his appeal to the public at a particular time is no reason to conclude that at another time he may not be entirely suitable for the vacancy.

It would be wise for all public bodies hereabouts to consider the merits of this argument and to seek to make replacements to their ranks by choosing those who have submitted their names to the public.

It may very well be that, as one defeated candidate said recently, "Once is enough! Wild horses couldn't drag me to accept appointment now!"

If this is the case, then the appointing authority may proceed to the next likely candidate.

And if there is none who has previously sought office unsuccessfully willing to accept appointment now, then it is time to seek out others to accept the appointment.

For the information of those who may be called upon to appoint, this newspaper maintains a roster of all candidates for all local offices for the past 25 years. It may be examined during normal office hours.

It's hard to match socks, even with a college degree!

By AUNT LIZ

Ice and snow you can really blame on the elements and our good Lord.

None of it is of our making nor our fault.

But when you try to match up a bunch of socks in various hues of blues and browns and grays, it is our fault.

Mostly because we bought the darn things for a present that was needed.

You learn the hard way. Never, never buy several shades of any color of sock. If you want to get into colors, stick to what you can see like bright red, green and blue, but never let those darker shades catch you.

I get them all laid out on the dining room table to match up and can go great guns for three pair, then I am stuck with three odd balls who do not speak to each other. Sometimes I can recoup one in the middle of the living room floor, since we have a pup who thinks socks are great, but that still leaves me with two who still are not speaking.

This is really sad, but somehow there is always something to perk it all up and the dumb socks can wait until a mate surfaces out of the dryer.

Can you believe that a small resort hotel in New York state had a whole weekend devoted to eating chocolate?

I heard this on the radio. The people who ran the place were all sitting around one day and realized they were all munching on something chocolatey, and decided oters chocolately, and decided others might like it.

They planned a whole weekend to devote to the stuff and everyone who came loved it. They did serve ordinary food, but each meal was spiced up with a chocolate dish.

They brought in pounds of the stuff, which has now become very expensive, but the weekend really was nt. I think they said it was about $200 for four nights and three days, which is not bad for rooms and meals.

What intrigued me about it all is that they served chocolate chili.

This is hard for me to imagine, but it had the beans, hamburger and all the goop plus the chocolate in it.

One person who had been there said that you could detect a rather bitter-like taste of chocolate, which sounded like kind of a spice in it all.

This recipe apparently exists. It was said that the hotel people found it in a cookbook.

We have a bunch of cookbooks that apparently are outmoded for such things.

If anyone can come up with this recipe, I will try it and ask him to dinner.

I do not think I could take the whole weekend of chocolate, which I do love, but this I would like to taste.

Meanwhile, we are eating like ordinary people having such exotic things like tasty Swedish meatballs on noodles, which is great, especially after they have aged a little bit in the freezer. It does something to them. Some spices do not freeze well at all, but those do. A chemist would know the answer. I do not, I just taste.

And then there is the miserable, but really good tasty chili sauce I spent an afternoon making last summer. It is pure soup but works like a dream on spareribs as a sauce.

The only thing which I can recommend to anyone is that the next time you have guests or are even feeding your own family, just go out and buy a good jar of chocolate fudge sauce; you could also make it, but that takes too long. Heat the jar in apan of water, and serve hot fudge sundaes.

There is not one blessed age in this world from the smallest to the oldest who doesn't like that.

Four matmen to vie in district tourney

Four Plymouth wrestlers won at Vermilion Saturday the right to compete in the Class A district tourney at Bowling Green tomrrow and Saturday.

Two others are alternates.

Joe Messer, 138-pound class, brought his season record to 20-2-1 by winning his division. He captured the sectional title when Jim Gassman, St. Paul's, was compelled to default. Earlier Messer had pinned Jeff Whissler, Buckeye Central, in 1:03 and Augie Staich in 1:22.

Mike Stima, 119-pounder, finished third. His season record is now 20-and-4. He participated in the entire tourney with an injured hip. Stima lost to Kevin Jaworski, 7 to 4, in the semi-finals and pinned Pat Gaietto, Tiffin Calvert, in the consolation bout for third place.

Jim Will, 175-pound class, also placed third. He lost to Tim Scheerer, New London, the Firelands conference champion in his weight class, in the semi-finals. En route to third place, Will defeated two good wrestlers, Dave Winston, St. Peter's, whose season record was 17-and-7, and Steve Steward, Crestview. Will went into the sectionals with a 2-and-10 record.

The smallest wrestler on the Plymouth team, Dan Mumes, finished fourth in the 98-pound division. He was pinned by John McFadden, St. Paul's, in 1:08 in the semi-finals, then lost to Frank Wise, Monroeville, by pin in 1:54 of the consolation finals.

Jesse Miller, 105-pounder, and Richard Cunningham, 167-pound class, placed fifth and will serve as alternates.

Junior Adams, 185 pounds, and Scott Fuller, heavyweight, finished sixth. All other Plymouth wrestlers lost their first round matches.

New London ousts girls in sectional tourney

Susi Howsman scored only two points at Willard Thursday night but they may very well be the biggest two points of her life.

She was fouled by Lisa Daron with 1:02 remaining in the game with New London in the Class A playdowns and went to the line calmly. She hit both efforts and New London took a 52 to 50 lead in the contest that saw the score tied six times and the lead change hands 10 times.

Miss Daron had herself tied the count at 50 at 1:24 with a classy shot that banked off the glass.

Plymouth twice came up the floor, only to lose possession, and New London returned the favor. With 12 seconds left, Coach Keith Diebler called for time out and planned an attack that would tie the game. Plymouth threw the ball in and it was promptly stolen by the Wildcats, who sprang Lori McCoppin loose for an easy layup that put the game on ice.

The Big Red led after eight minutes at 9 to 6 but fell behind in the face of a terrific Wildcat attack during the second period, when the Red and Black scored 22 points. Plymouth managed but 19. Miss McCoppin had two field goals and four free throws during the second quarter.

At the half, with the score 28 all, Plymouth had fired for field goal 23 times and had 12 successes, whereas New London had gotten off 37 shots with 12 conversions. One reason for the difference was that Plymouth was not passing well and threw the ball away 15 times during the first 16 minutes.

The Big Red employed a difference tactic in the second half and managed to steal three inbound passes under the New London basket, each of which was converted to a field goal.

Renee Taylor, in her swan song in Red livery, scored 22 points, game high. Becky Turson, also playing her last game, wound up with 14. Miss Daron contributed 10.

For the other side, Joni Stoll and Patty Young, each of them all-Firelands conerof them all-Firelands conference selections, scored 12 apiece. Miss McCoppin had 14 and Tammy Wise, with four baskets in the second period that kept New London in the ball game, had 12 alos.

New London concluded the contest with 22 successes in 55 tries from the field and 10 of 12 free throws. Plymouth had 21 good ones among 40 tries and eight of 13 free throws.

Friday's 41 to 40 conquest of Seneca East, in which victory was not produced until the last 30 seconds.

Seneca East scored the first eight points of the second period to take a lead bf 12 to 9 and never thereafter was headed in cruising to a 50 to 29 rout of Plymouth here Friday night.

The Big Red concluded its regular season at 1-and-19.

It was simply a matter of too much John Schueler, the all-district player, on Seneca East's side and some horrendous shooting by Plymouth, which got off only 51 shots, making just 12 of them.

The Big Red was in front when the first quarter ended, but not by much: just one point.

Plymouth managed eight shots during the second period and made one of them. Almost never did it get a second shot. The Tigers, meanwhile, were getting off 17 shots, making six.

Seneca East led at the half, 18 to 9. And it improved on that advantage in the third period, outscoring Plymouth by six, a situation that did not change in the fourth period.

Overall, Seneca East took 54 shots and made 22, a creditable showing on an alien floor. It missed four of 10 free throws.

Plymouth missed four of nine free throws.

No Plymouth player managed to break into double figures. Brad Postema at eight was the leader. Only Schueler was in twin digits for Seneca East.

A strong crowd was on hand to watch this one, dull as it was. Sam Cook, athletic director, agreed the size of the crowd proves the old adage that there's nothing like a neighborhood fight to draw a crowd.

For five Plymouth players, Postema, Steve Mowry, Rob Smith, Brian Fenner and Scott Harris, it was the last home game of their careers.

Despite having no big player, Plymouth reserves have turned in a creditable season. For excitement and suspense, one would have to seek a long time to outdo

It always happens so fast.

And, this time, you're right. It did happen to "the other guy."

You know: The guy who wouldn't hurt a fly, turn down a friendly drink—or take a cab home instead of driving. A nice guy who'd now and then smoke in bed, maybe swim out a little too far, sometimes hurry a little down the stairs.

We know you knew him. And that you'll miss him.

We just don't want you to join him.

"Oops" is a pitiful epitaph.

'Finances precarious but good through '82'

"We can probably make it through 1982 but unless things change drastically, we'll have to face a new levy in 1983," Supt. Douglas Staggs told Plymouth Board of Education Monday night during a review of the critical financial situation.

He said Plymouth Local School district will lose $141,915.82 as a result of the 8.9 per cent reduction in state funds during the current fiscal year.

Appropriations for 1982 were approved on his recommendation. They show earmarkings of $43,768 less in the general fund than last year.

These appropriations are $2,249,561.87 in the general fund, $24,105 in Title IV, for special education; $51,139 in Title I; $43,548 in permanent improvements; $4,984 in Titles IVB and IVC; $15,556 in the farm fund; $19,000 for guidance services; $150,306 for food services; $13,074 for uniform supplies and $183,235 for bond retirement.

An outstanding bond issue, amounting to under $27,000, will be settled this year.

Staggs said the appropriations, worked out by him and the treasurer, Mrs. Frederick E. Ford, are "minimal appropriations, there's no fact, they'll allow us to continue the program we have now with a few cuts."

One reason why costs are going up, Staggs saidm is the higher expense of heating. In two months, he said, the school spent for natural gas half of what was spent during all of last year.

Valuation of the district, Staggs said, is $36,690,358.

He called on board members and patrons of the district to bombard legislators with written and oral appeals to "address the problem; they're not doing it because they're so bound up with the elections in November."

A calendar for 1982-83 was adopted. It varies only slightly from the county calendar.

First day of classes will be Aug. 31. Labor day, Sept. 6, will be a holiday. A teacher in-service day will take place Oct. 8. Thanksgiving recess will be Nov. 25-26, Christmas recess Dec. 23-Jan. 3. Martin Luther King, Jr., day will be observed Jan. 17. Presidents' day on Feb. 21 will be a holiday. Easter recess will be Mar. 31-Apr. 4. Memorial day, on May 30, will be a holiday. Last pupil day will be June 1.

Keith Diebler was hired as assistant baseball coach at $429 for the season.

A change in the elementary reading program was presented by Mark Sheely, principal of Plymouth Elementary school. The change was recommended by a committee of teachers and administrators and two patrons, Mmes. Bil Young and John Echelberry.

The board took the recommendation under advisement and will decide at the Apr. 12 meeting. Cost factor for the first year, Sheely said, will be $6,274.19, of which $1,943.40 will be paid by pupils.

Pre-school registration for kindergarteners and first graders will be conducted in Plymouth Mar. 31 and in Shiloh Apr. 2, the board was told. The Rev. Arthur Hamman, president , was absent.

California battery of tests for pupils in grades two, four, six and eight are about to begin, Sheely told the board.

James Craycraft, principal of the high school, said today will be parent visitation day. If a pupil's parent, guardian or close friend reports in his stead, the pupil will be excused for the day. The surrogate will attend the pupil's classes, which will not be altered because of his attendance, and must turn in the assignment for the day and relay the assignment for the next day to the pupil.

Joe Irelan was hired as custodian in Plymouth Elementary school.

Births exceed deaths by 434

Births exceeded deaths in Huron county during 1981 by 434 persons, Dr. Howard C. Sparks, health commissioner, says in his annual report.

Births numbered 412 males, 377 females, of whom 545 were born at Norwalk, 236 at Willard and eight elsewhere.

Deaths numbered 365, of whom 217 were recorded at Norwalk, 102 at Willard and 46 elsewhere.

Main cause of death was cardiovascular disease, totalling 223. There were 69 cancer deaths, 23 of respiratory diseases, 11 as the result of accident or collision, five by homicide or suicide, four from diseases of early infancy and 30 from other causes.

Persons aged 80 to 89 compresd the largest number of deaths, 118. Those 70 to 79 numbered 85, those 60 to 69 amounted to 73, those 50 to 59 totalled 39. Persons over 90 who died amounted to 29.

On appointments

Plymouth Board of Education took action Monday night to postpone notification of extra-curricular assignments to certificated staff until after Apr. 1.

It did so on recommendation of the superintendent, who said the decisions on supplementary contracts may require some consultation before they are revealed. He ticked off what decisions they are, without singling any of them for special notice. What it amounts to is that almost all of the extra-curricular assignments (read athletic coaching) will be held in abeyance until the board can sit down and reason together as to how it should proceed.

Perhaps the board will wish to consult with a full membership, in which case it will have to do so after Apr. 12, when it says it will appoint a successor to Mr. Vredenburgh.

Has any harm been done? We think not. Neither to teacher-cum-coach nor to the public.

Save the fact that it ought not to be so overpowering a consideration that whether John Doe or Max Soe coaches one team or another is more important than 13 pupils being tapped by the National Honor society (and how many attended that ceremony, by comparison with a basketball game?) or that the board is considering installation of a new reading program (and what is more important than reading) in the elementary grades. It may be helpful to point out that except for a teacher and two likely candidates for appointment to the school board, Monday's meeting was attended by three others, all members of the Fourth Estate.

Robber admits guilt

A 48-year-old Shelbian admitted in federal court in Cleveland Mar. 1 that he aided and abetted the robbery of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., at Shiloh Oct. 17, 1980.

Cecil H. Oney will be sentenced after a pre-sentence investigation is complete, Judge John Manos said.

Oney and Wendell Odell Gibbs, 32, Mansfield, were charged with robbing the bank of $38,004.

The FBI said Gibbs entered the bank alone and Oney drove the getaway car. Gibbs, Oney and possibly a third suspect escaped after abandoning the car in a field south of Shiloh.

Two Shiloh youths were indicted Mar. 1 by a Richland county grand jury on charges of receiving stolen property.

These are Danny Sexton, 20 North Delaware street, and Richard L. Laney, 51 Euclid street.

Dean was able to put the blaze out himself, although he burned his hand while doing so.

A fire destroyed a home in Delphi Mar. 2.

The home belonged to Ralph Swander, who lives in the north side of Route 224 west of New State road. The house that burned is across the highway: It was occupied by the Thomas Greathouses, who occupied it on Aug. 1.

No one was home at the time of the fire.

Greenwich firemen fought the blaze, assisted by a tanker from North Fairfield.

This is living end: collect sugar packets?

By AUNT LIZ

For years I thought I was simply wise about what things can be real collectible things. Silver, coins, stamps, dishes, bottles, the list is endless.

But something new has been added: This I discovered in a magazine I happen to see a week ago and simply could not believe it. Little packages of sugar.

This can open a whole new world. Everyone drinks coffee and all you have to do is say you need some sugar, and many places will hand you little packets of it.

You can do two birds with one packet, save the little envelope and put the sugar in a container. Granted it may take a lot of cups of coffee, but maybe you will end up with enough sugar to make one recipe of jelly.

We can — maybe most of us, anyway — remember when milk came in bottles. I really cannot remember, but I think they were returned when new filled bottles arrived. No doubt many dimply got thrown out, but that is now a big collecting area.

Who in the world back then would even think of saving one?

Every time I throw out a jar, I stop and say to myself, "Should this be saved for 50 years from now for our grandchildren?"

This thinking can kin of overcrowd your house and really drive you out of your mind.

You can be practical about it all. Just get a nice big box and start stashing this and that, like an empty bottle of catsup or peanut butter.

I am willing to bet that maybe in 10 years or so such every day things will be worth a mint. Look at the Avon bottles. Over the years I bought the stuff here and there because a friend was selling it. It got used, and out went the container.

Anyone who was a bride in the 1940's must remember what was caled fiesta ware, brightly colored bowls.

Like everyone else we had a set of three, and naturally over the years one by one got broken.

I suspect the way to be assured that you will leave a good bunch of antiques to your children is to simply go out and buy this and that to save and never use.

If old radios are making it today as antiques, just give an electric frying pan a few years. Another thing that is really savable is some of the fancy catalogues we all get in the mail. I could really kick myself for not saving some of them. I either threw them out or gave them away. Start another box and save the ones you get now. Really old Sears and Ward's catalogues are the thing to some people.

I once heard some man from the Ford museum in Dearborn say they are now saving current things that they will put on display in years to come because by then they will be real museum pieces.

Food is the one thing you do not save. You cook it, eat it and somehow must come out even though your water and sewer bill goes up.

Just try this little mixture. You will enjoy it coming and going.

It will serve six very nicely. Open a can of pineapple chunks, a pound and four ounce can. Manage to get six canned peach halves and five of pears and 24 melon balls, which may be fresh or frozen, and right now they must be frozen. Put them all together in a bowl.

Then mix a cup of brown sugar with a half cup of sweetish white wine, a fourth of a cup of cider vinegar, 15 whole cloves and two sticks of cinnamon. Throw in a pinch of curry, Cook it up, pour it over the fruit and chill it.

All about town . . .

Flames burn Big Red in sectional tilt

Disaster struck Plymouth's Big Red early in the second half at Ashland Mar. 2 and the Crimson Flames of Mansfield Christian blew Plymouth out of the gymnasium.

The score was 68 to 30, the worst beating Plymouth has taken in a 1-and-20 season.

After playing poorly throughout the first period, the Big Red came to life and cut the Flames' lead to four points at the half.

Then the roof fell in.

Mansfield Christian scored eight of the next nine points and went on to a 20-point period, while holding Plymouth to just seven.

The winners shot for field goal 13 times in the second period and were successful with nine. Plymouth's record was three of 10.

And in the final period, the Flames ran wild, scoring 23 points with nine good ones among 20 tries. The Big Red managed just two points, a field goal by Brad Postema.

Plymouth's turnovers and poor rebounding were what caused the debacle, although its shooting was no great shakes.

The Big Red committed 12 turnovers in each half. It fired for field goal 34 times and was successful with 13. The Flames, meanwhile, took 62 shots, converted 30 of them, nearly 50 per cent, and were charged with 12 turnovers.

Plymouth simply could not fathom the Flames' two-three zone defense. And on offense, the Mansfield school repeatedly got inside the Big Red's defense for back door baskets.

Jeff Ellington scored 20 to lead all players. Mike Longshore had 14 and Dave Lilly 12.

Steve Mowry was one of four Plymouth players to score. He finished his school-boy career with 13.

5th graders win league title

Fifth grade Vikings won the Friendly House league with a 10-and-2 record.

The club has won five straight league championships and has won or placed second or third in each tourney it has entered for five seasons.

Its coaches were chosen to coach the all-star game between Mansfield YMCA and Friendly House All-Stars.

Three Vikings are on the squad: Stacey Hall, Billy Weiss and John Starcher.

The Vikes will play Saturday for the championship of the Plymouth Band Mothers' tourney. They defeated Springmill Cavs, 26 to 19, Friday.

Spikers gird for '82 season

There's a better way to predict your next electric bill.

You don't need a crystal ball.

You need the Equal Payment Plan. A Plan that smooths out the ups and downs of your monthly electric bills. Your bills fluctuate with the seasons. Up in winter. Up in summer. Down in spring and fall.

With the Plan, you'll pay a fixed amount each month, based on your average annual electric usage. It means you can defer part of each winter's heating and summer's cooling electric bills to spring and fall.

The Plan gives you a better, easier way to put together a household budget. Without surprises.

Your account will be reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And, at the end of the twelfth month, you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Now your electric bills can be very predictable. With the Equal Payment Plan. Just send in this coupon for more information.

Fire maintenance levy set for June 8 primary ballot

Approval of a fresh three mill levy will be sought June 8 for the operation and maintenance of the fire department.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said Mar. 9 Wayne E. Strine, fire chief, feels it is needed for repairing the fire station, which needs roof repairs and insulating and to upgrade equipment.

It will not cost the taxpayers any more than what is being paid now because it will replace a three mill levy that expires at the end of this year to pay for a new fire pumper.

The legislation will be presented Tuesday night and it will then be determined how long the levy will run.

In the absence of Mayor Dean A. Cline, whose daughter was ill, Councilman G. Thomas Moore presided at the meeting.

In answer to the request of Kenneth Reiderman, who asked that the village allow him to receive electric power from Ohio Power Co. rather than the village, Moore suggested the request be studied by the service committee.

Reiderman said his electric bills have soared out of sight and that he had checked with the utility company and was told that its charge would bv $199.90 for 5,150 kilowatt hours versus the $283 charge of the village.

James C. Root, village administrator, cautioned him about the request and said Ohio Power has plans to raise its rates considerably.

Councilman Bill Taulbee suggested that a girls' softball field be developed on the village property near the water tower. He is to check into what the cost will be.

He also said the cemetery board wants to put 20 per cent of each lot sold in a perpetual care fund. This was tabled and not added to the ordinance passed as an emergency to increase the cemetery fees because the other council members felt it had been delayed for too long and should be enacted.

Violations of Ordinance 17-68, passed Oct. 5, 1968, stating that rubbish on private property must be cleared, came under discussion again.

The ordinance states that a 15-day notice be given. If not complied with, charges will be enforced by the police department.

Root said offenders should receive a "friendly warning" before the written notice is delivered, which would give them time to do their cleaning and removal of debris.

Complaints about the condition of the village streets owing to weather conditions have been forthcoming. Root said he wished that he would be notified sooner than he has been in the past.

He cited the ice storm of Mar. 4, which began about 4 a. m. and made the streets almost impassable. He said he wasn't notified until 6:30 a. m., when the police department called him. He said the village equipment was out within 15 minutes to salt the icy roadways.

First Buckeye to merge with Toledo Trustcorp

A letter of intent for affiliation of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., with Toledo Trustcorp has been approved by the boards of directors of both companies, it was announced Mar. 10.

Toledo Trustcorp is the largest multi-bank holding company in Northwest Ohio with assets exceeding $1.35 billion as of year end. Headquartered in Toledo, the corporation's lead bank and largest affiliate is the Toledo Trust Co. Toledo Trustcorp serves a 24-county market area with a network of 59 banking offices.

In commenting on the proposed affiliation, Avery C. Hand, Jr., chairman of the board of First Buckeye, said, "Affiliation with Toledo Trustcorp provides our bank and our people with significant future opportunities. The strength of First Buckeye Bank blends well with those of Toledo Trustcorp. Our local control and banking expertise combined with the professionalism and resources available through Toledo Trustcorp will enable us to meet the future financial needs of area businesses and residents with state of the art financial services."

With the affiliation of First Buckeye Bank, assets of Toledo Trustcorp will exceed $1.6 billion. Its financial service network will include 84 banking offices, six travel centers, a special commercial loan/trust production facility and a capital management subsidiary. First Buckeye Bank will retain its present name, officers, staff, advisory board and board of directors, and on the effective date of affiliation, Hand will become a member of the Toledo Trustcorp board.

Terms of the affiliation, which is subject to regulatory approval, specify that each First Buckeye Bank shareholder will receive one share of newly issued Toledo Trustcorp no par preferred stock for each share of First Buckeye Bank common stock. The preferred stock will pay a cumulative annual dividend of $2.90 and may be converted at any time into 55/100 shares of Toledo Trustcorp common stock. Holders of less than 100 shares of First Byckeye stock have the option to receive a single cash payment for a tender of all of their stock at the rate of $25 per share.

The transaction will be subject to all necessary regulatory approvals, approval by the boards of directors of both First Buckeye and Toledo Trustcorp of a definitive agreement, approval of First Buckeye shareholders and authorization of the new preferred stock by the shareholders of Toledo Trustcorp.

First Buckeye Bank as of year end had assets exceeding $271 million. With 25 branch offices in Ashland, Crawford, Huron, Richland and Seneca counties, First Buckeye Bank is the largest bank within its market area.

Bricker aims for Senate, Swartz for Ohio House

Dale Bricker, retired Mohican State park manager, will seek the GOP nomination for state senator representing the 19th Ohio Senatorial district, within Ashland, Knox, Richland and Wayne counties.

"My return to the political arena has been encouraged by family, friends and many associated within the 19th district," he says. "This is my country, I've represented this area before as a field representative for former Secretary of State Ted Brown, and as the 17th Congressional district GOP state committeeman (1972-78). It will be great to be back in the swing of things, renewing old acquaintances, and working with old friends in these counties; I'll be there again with my people," he adds. "Public service (32 years) and politics (25 years) are in our blood, it's good to be back, and as my political uncle Senator John Bricker declares, 'It'll be good to have the Bricker name back-on-the-ballot'."

DALE BRICKER

Bricker cites his experience as legislative and administrative serving with Mansfield council as clerk, 1958-63; as director of elections, 1964-78; as field representative of the secretary of state, 1978; and Mohican Park manager, 1979-82. He lives with his family at Shelby.

A veteran Cass township farmer who served eight years as member of Plymouth Board of Education will contest the candidacy of a 19-year-old Mansfield for the GOP nomination for member of the General Assembly from the 64th district.

He is John F. Swartz, 68, Kaster road, proprietor and manager of Swartz Potato & Onion farm, which he operates with his sons and son-in-law.

A graduate of Shiloh High school, Swartz attended Ohio State university for one quarter. He says he's never worked for hire in his life and knows what it is to put in a 20-hour day.

Swartz says he was induced to run against Rex Elsass, the 19-year-old student, because the incumbent representative, Sherrod Brown, D-Mansfield, who is giving up the seat to seek election as secretary of state, was unopposed in 1980, which upset him, and he doesn't want any candidate to win election without opposition.

An experiment that worked!

The experiment undertaken Thursday by the high school was by any standard a genuine success.

Parents of pupils attended in their stead, sat in their classes, turned in their homework, copied work assignments for delivery to their children.

Some parents were enthusiastic about the experience. Others had some reservations.

Which is to be expected. Not everybody is turned on by the same music.

The best comment, however, came not from a parent but from a teacher, who begged to remain unidentified.

"It was a good program," the teacher said, "but I saw all the wrong people. The parents who came to class were, for the most part, those who belong to pupils that're doing well in my classes, good citizens, pupils who study, who do their homework, who volunteer for extra work. The ones I would have preferred to see are the parents whose children aren't doing so well. The name of the game is to get home to the poor pupil, to the child who's not motivated enough, and if I can't get through to that child in the classroom, then I'll take a shot at building a fire under him by getting at his parent."

It is not a new concept. And we'll wager that long after we're dead, all of us, teachers will complain about the same thing.

'80 alumnus on dean's list at ONU

Hand reelected by bank

Avery C. Hand, Jr. , was reelected to a one year term as chairman of the board of directors of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., Mar. 10.

The post of vice-chairman, which fell vacant Jan. 2 when Earl C. Cashman resigned, was not filled.

Miles Christian, president of Banner Energy, Inc., was reelected as a director together with 22 others, including Hand.

Cashman was elected an honorary board member.

Fire district to be set up by Shiloh

Complications in obtaining insurance coverage for participants in the firemen's dependency fund have led Shiloh to undertake a joint fire district with Cass and Bloominggrove townships.

Its village council ordered its solicitor, Roger Fenwick, to prepare a contract among the three fire companies. Trustees of the two townships are agreeable and will sign the contract, the council was told.

General fund appropriation of $258,155 were approved Mar. 10. Total appropriations amount to $360,028.

A contract with the Richland county sheriff provides for payment of $25 a day for prisoners lodged in the county jail.

The old rate was $18.45 a day.

Armatrout, a Willard scavenger, submitted the only trash disposal bid. New quarterly rate is $11.25.

Brooks opens second store

While local businesses face a dismal future, one of them has expanded.

The Donald Brookses opened Thursday in Ashland a Schwinn Cyclery.

Brooks got into the bicycle business as a part-time helper to Don W. Einsel, Jr., who operated the Schwinn agency from his home in North street, first as a part-time enterprise because he was chief clerk in the post office until he retired, later as a full-time operation there. Brooks bought the business from Einsel and later bought the Suttles building at 19 East Main street, which he remodeled and occupied both as a business and as a residence.

A product of Plymouth High school, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brooks of Plymouth route 1, Brooks is married to the former Carol Jo Cunningham, who will manage the Ashland operation.

A sturdy breakfast's just the ticket!

By AUNT LIZ

A few weeks ago when I was again complaining about the weather, some one said, "Think spring!"

That someone was so right. The first thing I did was rush out and buy some sugar to start a supply for jam making. I would suggest you all do, too, and throw in parafin and the stuff you need to make up a batch of strawberry, cherry or elderberry.

Soon as the time comes, such things quietly zoom up in price. I would guess it is not the fault of the stores but the suppliers, who are facing higher costs with each new season.

While you are busy thinking of sunny warm days, you should be eating wintery things like sturdy breakfasts.

Anyone can cook bacon, eggs, sausages and French toast, but put a little oomph in it, especially for Sundays.

This is obviously for four, since there are only four bananas involved, but can be adjusted.

Peel the bananas, natch, roll them in lemon juice then in a brown sugar and cinnamon mixture. Wrap a strip of bacon around each.

The added touch can be oranges broken into sections, sprinkled with the sugar mixture.

Put the whole thing under the broiler, turning the bananas once so the bacon cooks.

With eggs your favorite way and hot rolls, you have a small feast. Nourishing, too.

Another tasty and different breakfast dish involves small link sausages.

Saute the sausages (fry is a bad word in our house and there is nothing better than some thing plain fried) then set aside. Then brown eight pineapple slices in the fat left over in the skillet and drain when done.

Mix a half teaspoon of curry powder with a teaspoon of cornstarch and a cup of the pineapple juice. Add it to what it left in the skillet after the pineapple is done and out. Cook a little until it thickens.

This you will not believe, but it works and is very good. Arrange the sausage and pineapple with the sauce poured over it on a platter which has a nice heap of cornflakes in the middle.

This can also be a great Sunday night supper with rice.

Another sturdy breakfast recipe which can also be a supper meal is to simply cook up grits and add cheese so it gets melty. Our daughter taught us that one when she was being a real southern girl in North Carolina.

If you want to be plain lazy and just have ordinary eggs with bacon and toast and your best jam, bake the bacon in the oven. Put it on a cookie sheet and let it go while you wake everyone up.

And if you are even lazier, try Swiss cheese sandwiches with a salami on pumpernickel.

There is no reason that we have to be such creatures of dumb habits and eat certain things for each meal.

I grew up with a lovely girl. We went through school together, and her mother gave her cake and all sorts of desserts for breakfast, which was unheard of in our houses. She was thinnish, and I guess now that her mother realized she needed those calories to get through the day. She still is thin and very much alive in California. We visited her several years ago and what really floored me was when she said, "Dick and I get out with nothing on — all California houses have very high fences so you cannot see — and we dig and plant." She is doing it there, but what would happen if we decide to try it here. We could charge admission.

Newsy notes . . .

Mr. and Mrs. John Fazzini spent Sunday in Fremont with their daughter and son-in-law, the Jeffrey Halls.

7 'P' winners out for baseball

Seven lettermen and 13 winners of reserve letters are competing for starting places on Coach David P. Dunn's Big Red varsity baseball team.

Lettermen are Greg Polachek, an 11th grader who's won two letters; Steve Mowry, Rob Smith and Brian Fenner, 12th graders, each of whom has won two monograms.

Polachek is a fixture behind the bat. Mowry will pitch and play third base. Fenner and Smith are outfielders.

Craig Thornsberry, Jeff Jacobs and Jeff Fenner, each of whom won a first letter last season, are 11th graders.

Thornsberry will probably play first base. Jacobs is a lefthanded pitcher and outfielder. Fenner played second base for part of last season.

Hardest job of Dunn this season: to find a capable replacement at shortstop for the departed Bill Hudson.

Hudson, Marty Carty and Steve Tackett were the only graduating players of the 1981 squad.

Reserve letter winners, some of whom are certain to break into the 1982 lineup, include Greg Brown, Greg Taylor, John Robinson, Jamie Beverly and Mike Moore, 11th graders; Tony Reinhart and Tim Branham, 12th graders, and Greg Hicks, Rodney Hampton, Tom Baker, Chad McGinnis, Steve Brown and Brian Vredenburgh, 10th graders. The 10th grade contingent is the strongest to come up in Plymouth in several seasons and at least four of the candidates in this class will see heavy action.

Hampton will pitch. He's a southpaw.

Baker, Vredenburgh and McGinnis are the likely prospects to see some varsity action.

10 vets seeking posts in track

Mike Beck heads a thin contingent of lettermen out for the 1982 Plymouth boys' track and field squad.

He won the MVP award last year as well as a third letter. He's a 12th grader.

James Will, most improved athlete last season, an 11th grader, is out again. Doug Nease, who shared with Jesse Woodmansee the Steve Ruckman prize last year, and his classmate, Kevin King, are candidates. Each is a 12th grader.

Rick Hawkins, Bob Jamerson and Woodmansee, 11th graders, and Ron Baldridge, John Cole and Richard Cunningham, 10th graders, are also lettermen back for another season.

Plymouth is apt to be weakest in the field events.

Todd Weber, 11th grader; Joe Messer and Dave Studer, 12th graders, and Don Adams and Loren Kranz, 10th graders, won reserve letters last season.

WANTED: Assistance for athletics

WANTED: Rotary tiller, by athletic department, on loan basis. Please call Sam Cook at 687-4051.

WANTED: Volunteers with rakes and shovels to put track at Shiloh in condition. Report Saturday at 11 a. m.

WANTED: Responsible persons to assist in refereeing track and field meets. Notify Douglas A. Dickson, Plymouth High school.

10 veterans available in softball

A girls' softball team that's loaded with talent and is heavy on experience will be Coach Richard Roll's entry in teh 1982 season.

He has 10 letter winners ready to play for the Big Red.

These are Tammy Adkins, Tammy and Tembra Tackett, Ebbie Owens, Renee Taylor, Barb Shaver and Patti McKenzie, 12th graders; Cheyne McGinnis, 10th grader, and Patti Griffitts and Marty Reynolds, 10th graders.

The Misses Adkins, Tacketts and Owens have won three letters. The Misses Taylor, Shaver and McGinnis have two monograms.

Up from the reserve team are Cindy Keesy, 11th grader; Julie Ross, Shelli Dent, Charlene Sams, Valentina Wagoner, Vicki Thornsberry and Melanie Wolf, 10th graders.

Each of these won a reserve award last season.

Girls' track team loaded with veterans

Girls' track and field squad may be strong on experience this season but not so strong on talent.

Letter winners include Jamie Brooks, who's won three; Montelle Levering and Fayette Hudson, who've won two, and Lisa Gundrum, Jan Wallace and Annette Takos, also 12th graders, and also two letter winners.

Others are Lisa Will and Paula Phillips, 11th graders, and Jill Donnenwirth and Becky Turson, 12th graders; Jackie Barnett, Kim Schriner and Amy Echelbarger, 11th graders, and Kim Daron and Glenda Will, 10th graders.

Fifth graders win tourney, now 16-and-3

Fifth grade Vikings after a hard fight captured the Plymouth Band Mothers' tourney, 24 to 23, over Springmill Cavs.

Stacky Hall scored seven, J. T. Reppart and Billy Weiss five apiece.

Reppart, Weiss and John Starcher collected 36 rebounds.

Now 16-and-3, the Vikes will compete in the Friendly House spring tourney that starts Mar. 30 at 6 p. m.

132 years!

Richland Lodge 201, Free and Accepted Masons, will mark its finest hour tomorrow when it submits to its annual inspection.

The lodge was founded in 1850 and stands as the oldest continuing fraternal organization in the village.

For many years Richland Lodge and its members went about their business with not much kinesis. About a decade ago, new ideas and new blood infused the organization and its public works have redounded to the benefit of the lodge and the community. The establishment of a scholarship that is awarded each June to a deserving graduate of the high school is a fine example of this. Invariably, the recipients of the scholarship go on to excel in advanced study.

What's particularly nice about it all is that, although Richland Lodge is wholly male in membership, it does not limit access to the annual award to males. The last winner is female, every inch so, and doing well, thank you.

Inspection set by Masons

Annual inspection of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, will be tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Robert E. Straight will be the inspecting officer.

A family style dinner will be served in Plymouth Elementary school at 6:30 p. m. by Plymouth Chapter 321, OES.

The lodge was chartered Oct. 19, 1850.

Meetings were held in the Odd Fellows lodge, which was purchased from them in 1854. Six years later a fire destroyed the building including the charter.

In 1871 the second floor of a newly constructed building was purchased. It is the present lodge hall.

Brothers of Richland lodge were instrumental over the years in assisting the formation of new lodges in nearby communities. North Fairfield was started Oct. 23, 1854 and Monroeville on Nov. 10, 1858.

By the 1860's there were a number of Shelbians who belonged to the lodge. They were finding it increasingly difficult to arrange transportation to the meetings. They sometimes walked or road a handcar on the Shelby, Mansfield and Norwalk railroad. Finally on Oct. 27, 1864, the Shelby lodge received its charter.

Lodges of Attica, Shiloh, Greenwich and Willard were also organized with the help of Richland lodge.

Breakfast will be served Saturday in Richland lodge 201, F&AM, from 6:30 until 10 a. m.

Three films set at library

"Petunia", "The Pied Piper," and "Porky's Railroad" will be the movies for preschoolers in Plymouth Branch library Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Shiloh's population rose from 817 in 1970 to 858 in 1980.

Another honor for Cashman

During the 38th annual safety awards banquet conducted at Mansfield, James H. Cashman, assistant fire chief and councilman, who was killed in a collision at Elizabethtown, Ky., Apr. 21, 1981, was among five firefighters paid special tribute.

She is the former Evelyn Burkett, daughter of the late Omer G. Burketta. Her father was for many years a councilman and park trustee here.

Three mill levy to maintain fire department sent to ballot; trained dog steals the show

A three mill levy for the operation and maintenance of the fire department and ambulance service will appear on the June 8 ballot.

It will generate $32,636 annually, based on the evaluation of $10,878,820 for the village.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore had asked Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, to prepare two versions of a resolution to place the levy on the ballot. It will replace the expiring three mills designated for purchase of a new fire pumper.

One version was to name only the fire department to benefit from the levy.

The other version included both fire and ambulance departments.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said he had talked with both Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine and Kenneth Echelberry, head of the ambulance squad, and was told they prefer to have only the fire department designated, since the ambulance is a part of it, but that each has a separate budget.

Councilman John E. Hedeen said he favors including the ambulance because provision could be made for a new vehicle.

Mayor Dean A. Cline called for the reading of one of the resolutions. The first one included both and was duly passed.

Hopkins said the service committee is to meet Monday night with the park board to discuss the possibility of developing a park in the Riggs street area. This had been suggested at the last meeting by Councilman Bill Taulbee, who was absent because he is vacationing in Florida.

Moore brought up a problem that he said all the council members should consider and not just the committee involved. It is that of village employees taking their sick leave for vacation days.

Hopkins said recently state law has been changed to provide that 4.6 hours for every 80 hours of work is allowed for sick leave and it can be unlimited. In the past there was a limit of 120 days. It can, however, be limited by local action.

There was no doubt that the first hour of the bi-weekly meeting was the hit of the evening.

Boomer, Galion's trained 92-pound German shepherd, was present with his master and trainer, Patrolman Ed Needs.

Sergt. John Moore, Shelby police department, strongly urged that Plymouth enter into the canine program.

A 10-week training course will start May 17 in Shelby.

When asked the cost, the answer was $2,500, which also includes the dog and equipment. For additional training to fund narcotics and bombs the cost is $200.

Both Sergeant Moore and Needs emphasized it is not so much a matter of the training of the dog as the training of the police officer to work with the dog as a team.

It was pointed out the dog can search faster than a man and could put such fear in a violator that an arrest can be made easily.

Pupils to jump for Heart fund

Auntie shows concern about shootings

By AUNT LIZ

For years the controversy about guns has been raging in newspapers, stuff newspapers get in their mail about controlling them and what ordinary people think about it all.

Frankly, I never have made up my mind, since we are out of it for the simple reason that we do not own a gun and never will.

Should someone want to break into our house, I do not need a gun. I have three darn good frying pans which will do the trick and can whack them out with one swing.

Now I am beginning to think this whole deal about who has a gun is going a little too far. About a month ago a young boy shot his brother — this was in Medina county — because of a little fight. Now another child close by has shot himself because he knew he did something wrong.

Maybe parents should not be so free about having such instruments so handy.

I hate to think of the people I know who are carrying a small gun in a pocketbook for protection. I cannot blame them in a way and each little weapon is turning us into a very violent society.

We like to call ourselves a really church-going nation, so what is really wrong? No one wants to trust anyone else anymore.

Once we did have a gun in the house. I was years ago and given to us for protection. I was an old army .45 which weighed a ton and no way could I shoot it if I had to. My thinking was that if I needed it, it would be easier to throw it at someone and knock him out.

That gun was a real dream. The whole native neighborhood knew we had it. When I was alone in the house with two babies, I would arm myself with it and three good mystery books and sit up until daylight reading. No way would I go to sleep when there was a slight chance we could have been murdered.

We really could have been because it had happened before, but they really all liked us. Ethiopia was lovely but it did have its little problems.

So does Ohio, but forget them and cook away. Maybe that is the answer. If someone tries to break in, just say, "Come in and eat."

That can be irresistible.

Since you do not know what your unwanted guest really like, you can never go wrong with a tasty pie, but you must be careful. They may be good church goers and not want anything with hoochy flavorings.

This is very easy. Start with a baked pastry shell, which you can buy with a fancier edging than most can do.

Dissolve a package of orange gelatin in a half cup of water. Add a cup of orange juice and chill until it is a little thick, then whip it. Beat one egg white in one bowl and a half cup of cream in another. Combine carefully with a half cup of powdered sugar. Add them to the gelatin, and chill a bit.

Pour into the pie crust after you have mixed in a cup and a half of cut-up seeded grapes.

Sprinkle the top with cocoanut, and voila, you have a way to stop a break-in. What can make it even better is to put an orange segment on each slice of the pie.

If no one tries to break-in, it will last until the next day in the refrigerator for your family, so it is not wasted at all.

SAVE THIS. IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it. If misused, electricity can be dangerous. So treat it with respect and make sure you follow these safety rules.

1. If you're trimming trees, painting a house, repairing a roof or putting up aluminum siding, make sure you're well clear of overhead power lines.
2. When using a ladder, make sure it will not come in contact with any power lines.
3. Before installing a CB, TV or ham radio antenna, make sure it's at least one and one-half times its total height away from all power lines.
4. Don't use electrical yard tools when the ground is wet. And make sure they're double-insulated or properly grounded with a 3-wire plug.
5. Before you do any type of digging, contact your power company to make sure there are no buried electric cables.
6. Never go near any fallen lines. If you see a victim of electrical shock, don't touch him if he's still in contact with the wire.

Price too high, buyer balks; school annex won't be sold

An appraisal of $28,400 on the annex at Shiloh is too steep for the prospective buyer, Plymouth Board of Education was told Mar. 23, and no effort to sell the building at auction will be undertaken, the board ruled.

John Hedeen, a realtor, appraised the property at that figure, plus or minus 10 per cent.

The prospective buyer has said he is not anxious to buy at that price.

Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board there is no need to solicit the services of an auctioneer and to pay for advertising unless there is vigorous interest. It does not cost much to sit as is, Staggs said. The building is used for storage. It stands at the northeast corner of Main and Mechanic streets.

Lisa Gundrum, a 12th grader, was authorized to be released from class each day so that she can attend North Central Technical college, beginning today. She would lose Social Security benefits if she were not permitted to do so.

Montelle Levering, another 12th grader, was authorized to leave class early Mondays through Thursdays to attend Ohio State university at Mansfield. She wishes to enroll in courses that are available only in the spring quarter.

Advertisement will be made to purchase a new 65-passenger school bus, funding of which will be 77 per cent by the state department of education, roughly $18,143.

The district will join the North Central Computer Cooperative. Initial cost is about $10,000 for the first year. Thereafter costs amount only to payment for supplies.

On books

A highway trooper in Missouri found 39 "objectional words" in the American Heritage Dictionary.

In Anaheim, Cal., books taken off the list approved for instruction include "Silas Marner", all of Shakespeare save "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet", all of Charles Dickens but "Oliver Twist", and Margaret Mitchell's American classic, "Gone With the Wind".

Copies of these volumes and some others that have been banned at one place or another are part of the American Library Association traveling exhibit.

Some of the others include Ira Levin's "Rosemary's Baby", Ken Kesey's "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest", Bernard Malamud's "The Fixer" and J. D. Salinger's "The Catcher in the Rye".

One would wish that such an exhibit could be brought to Plymouth. Not to encourage any prurient interest (and truth to tell, it's a long time since we read, and committed Portia's soliloquy to memory, "The Merchant of Venice"; but when we were 14 years old, life was a lot slower than it is today and mores were substantially stricter, yet there was no one, absolutely no one, in that community who objected that "The Merchant of Venice" was obscene, or prurient, or vulgar, or Communistic, or especially offensive racially, including the large and important Jewish community) but to seek to show the young, and particularly the young, that their elders don't know it all. Not by a long shot.

In Genesis 38:9 one finds reference to a man called Onan that would be outre at most dinner tables, even in the bosom of the family.

Which is not to say, perish the thought, that the sacred book isn't all it ought to be, or that it should be banned.

What needs to be said is that the witch hunters who would ban, or burn, books, or clothe statues in the Toledo Museum of Art, or censor magazines need to consult a psychiatrist.

Nobody in the course of human history has ever satisfactorily proved that examination of scatological or prurient pictures or texts produces commensurate behavior.

The fire apparently started in an area where there was a clothes dryer.

Nine seek nomination in new 90th

Not much competition for Huron county seats on the board of county commissioners will appear on the June 8 ballot.

Michael Fegen, Norwalk attorney, dropped out of the GOP race. He did not file a nominating petition.

William Ommert, Norwalk, and Walter Wilhelm, Jr., North Fairfield, an unsuccessful candidate last time around, are the GOP nominees.

Incumbent Maurice Smith, Democrat, New London, has no opposition.

Neither does James Westerhold, a Norwalk radio station manager, who filed as an independent.

Hottest competition will be for the nomination to seek the new 90th district seat in the Ohio House.

Five Republicans and four Democrats have filed nominating petitions.

Republicans are Richard Rench, Milan, a realtor, previously a candidate in Huron county and its legislative district; Robert (Mac) Morrison, Bucyrus, high school principal in Colonel Crawford district at North Robinson, who will retire from education; Paul Capelle, Willard, where he is city manager; Marian Moyer, Bellevue, chairman of the Bellevue GOP committee, and Trina White, Norwalk.

Democrats are Gene Slagle, Galion, formerly a representative and a senator from this legislative district, Mayor Paulette Ritchey, Galion; John Allton, Norwalk, county Democratic chairman, and Robert Casey, Galion, a school teacher.

They're sopaipillas and they're delicious!

By AUNT LIZ

Have you ever eaten something really out of this world either in a friend's house or a restaurant and forgotten to ask for the recipe?

You really should carry a piece of paper and a pencil with you every time.

I could kick myself for not remembering the name of a Chinese beef dish we had in San Francisco. As a result, we have gone through a lot of beef trying to figure it out. Once we had the year of veal. That was back when you could buy it, and I worked and worked trying to duplicate what we could order in a nice place in Akron and finally won. Frankly, I thought my version was tastier than theirs.

When we were in Denver for the holidays, our children took us to a fantastic Mexican place. Some architect must have designed it while sipping a case of scotch. It was a real fun place for families. They had puppet shows for kids and kind of a stage show for adults. Should you go to Denver, simply ask where that Mexican place is, and everyone will know.

It was very efficiently run, sort of like a cafeteria. There were perhaps three choices of what to eat. The tables were set so you were isolated from the others, and if you wanted a waiter, you raised a little flag, and bingo, one appeared from nowhere.

Mexican food is really good, but sometimes a little can go a long way.

I really had never eaten it until the second Christmas we went to California. It started when we met an old school friend, who took us to a lovely place which really impressed me, and I thought that as soon as I got home, we would get into this cookery.

After five such meals in a week, I had had it.

The last one was in Los Angeles. A dear friend whom we had always suspected was a little on the gay side took us to what he said was the best place in the world to eat. He is still a good friend. He was the guy who moved me and the kids from one house to another in Ethiopia when I was flat out with typhus fever and so sick I could not raise my head.

After a few minutes, our daughter looked at me and said, "Mom, we are the only women in this place." I will say that they did have a nice ladies' room.

be served with most anything.

They are called sopaipillas.

Mix a cup and half of flour with two teaspoons of double acting baking powder and a dash of salt. Work in two

Now I have finally found a recipe for a little tidbit that is served with Mexican meals, and it is good. Actually it can tablespoons of shortening with your fingers so it gets crumbly.

Add a half cup of lukewarm water and toss around until you can make a ball.

Then on a floured board, knead it until it is shiny and elastic-like and make into a ball again. Cover and let it rest for about 15 minutes.

Get your deep fryer ready and heat it up to about 400 degrees.

Roll out the dough, which will make 12 three-inch squares. Cut them and fry a few at a time. They will puff up while cooking, drain, and eat with butter and honey.

They are great.

The fair

It is no secret that the Huron county fair board is in fiscal deep water. Water all but over its head.

Two steps were taken in the past fortnight to assuage the problem.

One was to borrow $15,000 from the county commissioners, interest free, until the end of the fair season. This is to settle outstanding bills and to afford the fair board a little maneuvering room in its cash position until it has fresh revenues.

The other was to raise the price of admission to $3.50.

For this price, the fairgoer may ride in all the amusement rides and watch grandstand shows without additional fee.

Only children in the arms of a parent will be allowed through the gates without paying admission.

The fair board will pay $1 of the admission fee to Megerle Shows, Akron, the owner of the amusement rides.

Attendance last year amounted to about 60,000 persons, of whom about 40,000 got in free.

Paid attendance was 22,121 persons.

Under the new plan, exhibitors and some others can enter without paying admission, but to ride the rides or enter the grandstand they will be required to pay the $3.50 fee.

Last year the admission price was $2 a head. Admission to the several rides varied. Admission to the grandstand for harness racing was free but a fee was exacted to sit there for the demolition derby and the tractor pull.

The fair as an attraction for the amusement dollar has gone down hill in recent years. The competition is keen. What was once an agricultural display in a society oriented toward agriculture doesn't draw customers any more.

Perhaps the fair board ought to look at the demographics of the county, and its drawing area, for another slant.

Rides don't interest those over 35. And those over 35 are steadily increasing in Huron county, as the last census data show.

The advent of night harness racing will help. It was a long time in coming, even as pari-mutuel wagering was a long time in coming. The racing secretary ought to bestir himself to obtain funding for richer purses so that better stock can be attracted to racing at Norwalk. People will pay to see the best.

The board needs to sell its product. It did not do so last year.

For example, for the first time since the fair opened, this newspaper did not receive one single piece of publicity material about the fair. A premium book was sent in advance of the fair; reading a premium book is pretty much like reading the telephone book.

For example, save for some understandable emphasis on Norwalk, there seemed to be no effort to spread the word throughout the county. Especially the southern part of the county, where taxpayers meet their obligations to the county treasurer with the same diligence and rectitude as those in the northern part.

For example, save for a Ripley township expert in racing, only a few from the southern part of the county participated in tha planning of the fair.

The fair belongs to everybody. It needs to be brought to everybody. That some parts of the county lie within another county's school district should not militate against participation in the fair by the pupils involved.

Bad news —

Fire levels Edgeson house

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the dwelling of the Arthur Edgesons at Kuhn and Preston roads early Sunday.

The Edgesons were in Kentucky at the time.

A passerby saw the flames and turned in the alarm.

Plymouth apparatus fought the blaze for several hours, handicapped by high winds. Only two chimneys were left standing when the flames died down.

High winds that arose Saturday caused some damage in the village.

An evergreen tree was blown over at the Roy J. Johnson, Sr., house in West Broadway. It punctured a small roof.

A tree blew down in Maple street and cut electric current to the Huron county side of the village, forcing some businesses to close early on Saturday.

A large limb from a tree in front of the Loehn residence in West Broadway fell on wires and caused an outage of almost five hours to West Broadway, Brooks court and some in Sandusky street.

Restaurant closes, victim of recession

Another Plymouth business closed Mar. 30, bringing to three the number of businesses forced to close because of the recession.

Hi-Ho restaurant, operated by Ulis Dillman, Willard, for three years, abruptly terminated operations the night of Mar. 30 and did not open for business Mar. 31.

Dillman also owns and operates the Hi-Ho restaurant in Willard and the Spinning Wheel restaurant in Shelby.

It is understood he sought to extend his lease with the owner, Hugh Washburn, on a month-to-month basis but was turned down.

The restaurant opened in the premises at 11 West Broadway two generations ago. It was first called the Black and Gold. Later afficionados who went there for coffee and community gossip every morning referred to it as "the grill". It was owned and operated by the late Weldon M. Cornell and his wife, nee Gertrude Ford. It was changed to Cornell's restaurant and operated under that styling even after Clarence Mack and Quentin R. Ream bought it 25 years ago.

After Washburn acquired the restaurant from Mack and Ream, he retained the name until a remodeling some years later, after which the restaurant was known as the Frontier Inn.

Washburn gave up the business about five years ago.

Bridge out

Because a bridge is under repair, New State road between Townline road 131 and Hanville Corners road will be closed for about two months, Huron county engineer reports.

Siren to ring for tornado

During the tornado season, the alert system operated from the village hall will consist of one prolonged blast of not less than three minutes as a warning of approach of a tornado. An all-clear blast of one minute will be sounded to end the warning period.

He is survived by a daughter, Agnes, now Mrs. John McCready, Sun City West, Ariz.; a sister, Mrs. Bernice Bush, in California; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in DeQueen.

Trucker sued for $1,447

J. Raymond Willet, Route 98, is defendant in a suit to recover $1,447 filed in Richland county common pleas court by Spector Red Call Freight System and Dixie Insurance Agency, Inc., both of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Claim is made that Willet leased a tractor-trailer rig owned by Red Ball and damaged freight belonging to U. S. Steel Co., which was insured by Dixie. Raymond Donadio, Jr., Mansfield, filed the suit, which was assigned to Judge James Henson.

Drugs stolen at night

Drugs on shelves were taken sometime between Mar. 30 and 31 at Mack's Market.

The theft was discovered the morning of Mar. 31.

Entry apparently was made through a restroom window.

Vandals damage truck

Raising of children easier with recipe

By AUNT LIZ

We are going to have two granddaughters going to kindergarten this fall.

One mother is getting very apprehensive about it all and wondering what she will face.

I just wrote and said, "Nothing, just wait until you hit the high school age."

We went through it all. But then we really did not have the alcohol nor drug problems that exist today.

We had endless band concerts to have to sit through, potluck athletic dinners where the kids went first through the line and by the time we got there, the food was all gone. Then there were football games in the rain and snow and the basketball games where there was so much shouting and screaming that you came out of the gym absolutely deaf and thought you were ruined for life.

Someone should give medals to mothers who have gone through this.

My one bit of advice is stay out of the cheerleading deal. One year which involved our daughter, they went wild and bought about $100 worth of costumes. Back then, that was a hefty sum, and I must say that one cheerleader after all these years still is wearing that expensive red sweater.

Bringing up kids can be for the birds, but it is fun.

The other day we talked to a roommate of our son. He is now a good doctor.

I feel I have a part in his career. He came one Thanksgiving weekend. We got the kids who did not have the time to get to the east coast and back so they came here, the boys from Hiram and the girls from Wooster.

Anyway, he brought a large, long dead black cat to study. He brought it in from the car wrapped in newspapers and nicely asked where he could do it all.

When I saw it, I was ready to drop, but I put more papers down on the kitchen table and let him go at it. Meanwhile our two Siamese are at the door dying to get in on it all.

I am not sure if I could do it all again, but our poor kids are in for it, and I know they will survive.

You simply have to pitch in, like making baked beans for about 120 for a Midget league picnic and stuffing a bunch of turkeys for a Cub Scout dinner. That I will never forget. There were four bids and our oven would hold one, so the other three got stashed around to cook. I know I will get a really nasty letter for what I am going to write next but it is funny. I carried one bird to a neighbor on a cookie sheet all ready to put in a roaster. A couple of months later I got into a cookie making mood and realized I was missing one pan so I called her. She still had it on the back porch but it was not washed because it would not fit in her dishwasher.

I have one really good recipe to pass on to young mothers that is easy and great. I used to make these fudge bars back in the days when I worked in Girl Scout camps on a wood burning stove and it never failed.

This is for a single recipe, but it doubles like a dream.

Melt two squares of unsweetened chocolate in a stick of margarine. Add a cup of sugar, two eggs, and a dash of vanilla.

Mix three-fourths cups of flour with a dash of salt and a teaspoon of baking powder, teaspoon of baking powder.

Bake at 375 degrees and frost with milk chocolate.

You can cut them up in little squares and they go a long way and are plain good. And what is really nice about this recipe is that it can all be done in one pan which saves hours of dishwashing.

The Add-On Electric Heat Pump will give you a nice, warm feeling.

You'll feel good about your new Add-On Electric Heat Pump because it could help save you energy and money. You see, it works with your existing furnace (no matter what kind of fuel it uses) to share the task of heating your home more efficiently.

And that's not all. In summer, it's a central air conditioner, cooling and dehumidifying your home.

Reinhart named as successor to Vredenburgh

Charles Reinhart, 41, was the choice Monday night of six prospective candidates by Plymouth Board of Education to fill the vacancy caused by Larry Vredenburgh, who resigned two months ago from the board.

Vredenburgh was elected in November to a four year term, which began Jan. 1 and will end Dec. 31, 1985.

Reinhart, who has been an untiring worker for the Plymouth Midget league and the Boosters club, has lived in Plymouth 12 years. He is a native of Tiffin.

He has been employed by Midwest Industries, Inc., Willard, for six years.

He is married to the former Carol Ray, daughter of Mrs. John Ray and the late Councilman John Ray. They are the parents of two daughters and two sons and live in Willow court.

Reinhart will take over Vredenburgh's place on the athletic control board.

Contracts for 11 teaching employees were approved.

John Conklin, band instructor, and Mrs. Edward Noble received three year contracts.

A member of the audience, Robert Sponseller, said that he "is very disappointed that the board awarded the contract to Conklin."

Supt. Douglas Staggs asked him if he had discussed his problems with either James Craycraft, high school principal, or with Edward Kinsel, junior high school principal.

Sponseller replied that he had not because it would have been of no use because of the problem of "personalities".

Two year contracts were extended to Denise Thompson, Sondra Herron, Cynthia Hornikel, Judy Mawhorr, S. Michael Tracey and Carol Kirkpatrick, who is a part-time teacher.

Jane Broege, Mrs. Paul McClintock and Joni Rinaldi received one year contracts.

If money is forthcoming late this summer in the Title VI funds, a one year contract will be offered to Mrs. Tracey.

Four non-certified employees of the schools were given continuing contracts.

They are Mrs. J. Max Fidler, Mrs. Mary Fidler and Charlotte Adams.

Two year contracts were given to Mrs. Donald Baker, Mrs. Danny Adkins, Douglas Church, Mrs. Wilford Postema, Edna Owens, Nancy Baldridge and Mrs. A. George Miller.

A one year contract was extended to Joseph Irelan.

The resignation of Phyllis Phillips, effective with the last school day of this year, was accepted. She has been a bus driver for three years.

Staggs reported to the board that although the four school buildings have used two per cent less gas for heating than last year for the same period, it has cost about $3,000 more.

He also reported that even though the finances of the state are playing havoc with school fundings, Plymouth can weather it this year.

Now, he said, the state legislature is beginning to seriously consider the problem, which it had not done before. It is anticipated that schools will be cut 6.6 per cent and welfare funds seven per cent. This, he said, will be very controversial and he does not expect any real action from Columbus until after the primary election in June.

The board accepted the data processing service contract with the Mansfield schools for scheduling classes and preparing grade cards at a cost of $3.20 a pupil, which will be about $960 for the next school year, depending on the enrollment.

Staggs said this is a cheaper method in the long run than trying to do the work here.

Approval was given to pay $80.85 a month or $727.70 a year for a child who is enrolled in the Crestwood Local school district to attend a special school in Mantua for disabled children.

A series of reading materials published by Houghton Mifflin will be phased into the elementary school program as recommended by Mark Sheely, Plymouth Elementary school principal, as funds are available for the 1982-83 school year.

The local schools have again joined the Ohio Education Research council of Bowling Green State university, which provides in-service programs for the teachers and administrators at an annual cost of $100.

Treasurer Mrs. Frederick E. Ford reported the school has a book and bank balance of $678,844.50. Expenditures of $14,585.58 were approved by the board.

Village agrees to buy used bucket truck

Purchase of a 1975 bucket truck for the electrical department was authorized by village council Tuesday night.

The cost is $15,000. It will be purchased from the Townsend Tree Service, Muncie, Ind.

It replaces the truck purchased in 1968, which will be retained as a backup vehicle.

One other bid was received in the amount of $17,500 for a 1974 model.

No action was taken on the purchase of a new ambulance.

Four tenders were received for six vehicles, with prices ranging from $25,000 to $38,000.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said he is not sure where the needed money will come from. Roughly $9,000 is needed to supplement what is available in the ambulance fund.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said the finance and safety committees should meet to work out financing. Hopkins pointed out perhaps a partial payment could be made or a new vehicle leased with funds available now. If the three mill levy for the fire and ambulance on the June ballot carries, funds should be more readily available.

Most of the money the levy will generate the first year will be used out of necessity for repairs to the fire house, mainly its roof, which has been patched practically since the day the building was built.

James C. Root, village administrator, asked the council to advise him as to how much money will be available for street repairs. He said he had hopes he will have at least $35,000 from income tax money to use but it looks doubtful now that the anticipated income tax funds will be collected because of the poor economic climate.

He said his priorities for blacktopping include Brooks court, Bell and Mulberry streets, since they are so heavily travelled.

Four Brooks court residents, Duane Keene, Noah Sammons, Jr., Larry Smith and David Hall, were present. Once they heard that their street was on the priority list, they said nothing.

The mayor said the village solicitor, Richard Wolfe, Ashland, has been advised to check into the tappings of several buildings into the water line between Plymouth and Willard, which apparently has been done with no notification to the village.

To date Plymouth has not formally turned what will be Willard's share of the line over to it. This makes such tappings illegal.

The mayor commented there are a lot of "loopholes" in the contract between the village and Willard.

Councilman Ronald Predieri suggested the village have two pick-up days in May.

The north side of the Square will be done on May 3 and the south side on May 5.

Welfare workers from both counties will assist. There is the possibility the village can receive some reimbursement from the Richland county health department through rubbish control money which has been allocated to the county.

The council agreed to authorize the purchase of five handguns for the police department. These will cost $164.08 each. They are Smith & Wesson No. 65 of stainless steel and should have a long life.

Hopkins said the department is also in need of a new riot gun and that Police Chief David Gibson is gathering information concerning one.

No action was taken on Councilman Bill Taulbee's request from the cemetery board that 20 per cent of the sale of graves be put aside in a perpetual care fund for future emergencies.

Root spoke up and said that Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants who have been overseeing the village finances for almost two years, had suggested that some of the funds which existed when they took over be eliminated. This was done. This, Root said, only backtracks in any progress made and suggested the cemetery board could manage its own budget to provide for future expenditures not included in every day operation and maintenance.

WANTED: Infallible recipe for beef-and-noodles

By AUNT LIZ

A few who read this column really seem to think I am a good cook.

I am not.

Sure, there are some things I can make that I like myself, like curry and spaghetti sauce, but there are also some things I have never been able to master.

Namely, they are beef and chicken in noodles. I have tried but somehow end up with a goopy, liquidy mess.

And there is nothing I like better.

This is something most people can make from memory and there are no recipes to follow.

I would deeply appreciate some one sitting down to write it all out in plain English, scientifically, how to make these nice things.

There is a prize involved. I will bake them a little cake that is really good but loaded with brandy, so one little slice goes a long, long way.

Cooking can be plain fun, but also a chore at times.

There are days that I start to think about noon time, "What in the world will we have for dinner?"

Some of those happy nights have ended up with a breakfast-like meal of eggs, bacon and toast. And there have been the soup and peanut butter sandwich nights.

The other night, though, we had a real feast. I really made too much, so we ate for two nights.

We had goulash, which is very tasty on noodles.

Years ago we knew some Czeck families who had served their time in German concentrations camps because they ere Jewish, and managed to survive. Somehow they got to Africa and found jobs. They were well educated people who could speak a bunch of languages including English, and we were lucky to know them.

We became friends and went back and forth for dinner.

We were the ones who had so much more, but their dinners were much better.

Meat was very available and cheap. The catch was you cooked and cooked it so any small worm was a dead duck. Beef filets, which are such a luxury, were common. One could be tough as shoe leather and the next so tender you could cut it with a fork.

These were the cuts are friends used to make a nice thick and very filling goulash soup that was a meal by itself. They would simply dump a whole filet in with a bunch of tomatoes, some flavorings, and let it simmer all day.

This we have never been able to afford in this country, but what we had last week was good.

Being a really good cook, I simply used a package of good goulash mix, followed the directions and did have good beef stew.

Never, never, underestimate package mixes, but be selective.

The very best are made by the Swiss and called Knorr. They also make soup mixes that are out of this world. If you see them, buy them. They cost a speck more, but are worth it.

Someone will surely accuse me of trying to help the Swiss economy like they are doing to the people who are buying Japanese cars. Frankly, I do not think the Swiss realize that I am even making a dent.

All about Plymouth...

The Thomas J. Webbers were hosts at luncheon Sunday to the A. L. Paddocks, Jr.

Fighter . . .

M. H. Burns reflects on 50 years in New Haven

The senator from New Haven has always been a fighter.

He had to fight to stay alive when he was a kid growing up in the tenderloin of Pittsburgh. He had to fight to survive during the Depression, when he came to New Haven township and sought to make a living farming. He had to fight to get electricity outside of New Haven proper. He had to fight when, as chairman of the Plymouth Order of Mechanics negotiating committee, he sought better working conditions and increased benefits for its members. He had to fight five years ago when he was compelled to submit to serious surgery. Two years ago, he underwent even more serious surgery at Columbus.

Now he faces the toughest fight of them all.

But Marshall H. (Red) Burns faces it with some equanimity.

"All my life I was self-dependent, I did what I needed to do," he laments. "Now I must depend on others and I don't like it, not one damned bit."

He must submit to radiation treatments at Sandusky.

How old is he?

"Officially, I'll be 80 in August, but unofficially, I am not sure."

How does this happen?

"They didn't keep records so well when I was born and there is some doubt that I was born in 1904 or 1902. But the social security administration accepted 1902 and so I tell everybody I'll be 80 on my next birthday anniversary."

Fighting was de regueur when he was a small boy.

"The Irish and the Italians competed for their place in the sun. What else could Burns be but Irish. I had my share of fights."

His parents became separated.

"It was a sad day when we rode on the trolley car to the orphanage. St. Francis de Sales it was. I remember my mother started to cry when the car conductor announced that we were there.

"And they were strict on discipline. In Pittsburgh there's always been hard feelings between the Irish and the Italians and wouldn't you know the sisters were Italians. One was Sister Eurebius, who was nasty. She beat the daylights out of me. Another time Sister Anthony, another Italian, walloped me with a cane, a cane that was about as thick as my forefinger."

Why?

"She accused me of being an enuretic!"

Was he?

"Hell, no, I was housebroken competely when I went in that orphanage."

After motley schooling, he gravitated to New Jersey, where he found work at Western Electric Co., the subsidiary of Ma Bell, at Kearney.

About this time he became enamored of a young damsel and they had serious thoughts of matrimony. The man in the pale blue suit with the leather sack came one day with a Dear John letter.

Young Burns went to pieces. He took off on a toot. They found him in a bar operated by Frank Sinatra's father at Hoboken.

Although Black Tuesday occurred in 1929, the depression didn't really hit until 1931.

It hit young Marshal Burns and he came to New Haven township to try to keep body and soul together.

"I farmed west of here and I worked at the Peek-a-Boo, trying to run it as well. I'll say this for my time there, we never had any fights. I would not allow them. Of course, we only had 3.2 beer in those days."

It was the coming of alcoholic beverages to New Haven township that, in Burns's view, ranks among the top occurrences of the last half century.

"The biggest thing was the coming of electric power to the folks who lived outside New Haven itself. New Haven Light & Power sold out to Ohio Power Co. Grandpap and I went to Tiffin to talk to those people and they turned us down. They said it would be too expensive to run lines and put in poles to every farmhouse in the township for what they'd expect to get out of it.

"I've been a Democrat all my life and I supported Franklin Roosevelt. He had started the REA (Rural Electrification administration) and so we approached them. They said they'd get started right away. We offered them just what we'd offered Ohio Power: we'd dig the holes for the poles and cut the limbs that needed to be cut and give them right-of-way at no charge, if they'd do the paper work.

"So we got electricity. I mind it was about 1933, maybe 1934. Of course, this was about the time the Volstead act was repealed. Ivan Teglovic built the Peek-a-Boo and ran it for a while and then I ran it."

By 1936, he became affianced to Viola Hoyles, whose family were old settlers in the township. He borrowed $4 to pay the preacher, the late Rev. John Heffelfinger, and married Dec. 5, 1936. They celebrated 45 years together last year. Her health is poor.

A son was born in 1940 and a daughter a few years later. The son, William, after many years as a bachelor, will delight his parents by taking a bride in June. He has already bought the old Leon McCullough house in New Haven.

"With mouths to feed I needed a job. For six weeks I went every day to the Fate-Root-Heath Co. to apply. Then one day the late 'Nip' BeVier said, 'You must really need a job, you're hired!'

"My first assignment was cleaning toilets and sweeping up. Then I was sent to the pattern shop, where I worked with my old friend and political enemy, Dominic Dorion, for a long time.

"I started in 1940 and I worked until I retired in 1966. When the war broke out, we moved to Plymouth, to 12 Woodland street, where we rented from Clay Hulbert. He was the village marshal. In 1947, I was serving as a councilman, with the late Glenn West, the late Omer G. Burkett, Harry (Trigger) Trauger, Whitney J. Briggs and Robert Fogleson. We decided to fire Hulbert as marshal and I voted to do just that. The next day he told me he planned to raise my rent, which was $15 a month (we only made 55 cents an hour in those days, as skilled labor), and I told him I'd pay it. A few days later he came to me and said, 'I can't raise your rent, they've got rent controls on!' That was no surprise to me!"

He was raised into the Masonic order in New Jersey in 1931. He is a past worshipful master of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, in which membership was obtained by demit.

One of the highlights of his experience in Plymouth is the national election of 1952, when Dwight D. Eisenhower opposed Adlai E. Stevenson. Burns vigorously supported Stevenson. His old friend, Dorion, now also retired and now also 80 years old, was equally supportive of Eisenhower. The stakes were that the loser would push the winner around the Public Square in a wheelbarrow, with appropriate signs.

Their cronies in the factory fixed up the wheelbarrow. And Burns began to push it, with Dorion, attired as Uncle Sam, loudly and proudly proclaiming his victory.

His colleagues had lashed some 60-pound pigs to the underpinning of the wheelbarrow, which made it insupportably heavy. With Dorion, and the pigs, as cargo, he pushed the wheelbarrow only as far as the telephone building and then turned it around.

Does he ever go back?

"I've been to the plant just once since I retired. I did attend a couple of company picnics at Mary Fate park."

What are his conclusions after over half a century in New Haven township, including Plymouth?

"I'm a Democrat, a Protestant, a Mason and a union man and I expect to be until I die, which may not be very long off. After all, how many live much beyond 80? But my family has been good to me and I'm as lucky as anybody else. I just wish I didn't have to depend on anybody else to deal with my troubles. I'm big enough and old enough to deal with them myself. Only trouble is, I'm not strong enough."

Red Burns is a fighter. Odds are he'll win.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

Graves tended on skis

The working conditions of a 67-year-old Shiloan whose entire life has been devoted to one occupation, save for a six year hiatus in the Army, are difficult to improve upon: nobody bothers him, he doesn't have to put up with carping about inflation or a stopped-up drain pipe or the failure of the automobile to start, or whatever.

His name is Albert (Pete) Ferrell and he presides over the City of the Dead.

Since 1937, he has been sexton of Cass township cemeteries. Nobody in Richland county has so much service in that calling as he.

One of three children, two boys and a girl, of the late Frank and Maude Ferrell of Shiloh, he was raised there and graduated by its high school in 1933. Times were hard in those days and he joined the Civilian Conservation Corps for three years.

When he got out, he looked for employment in his home community and in 1937 he found it: he was appointed to assist the cemetery sexton in charge of the three burial yards of Cass township.

These number three: Old Salem cemetery, in which no burials have been made for a long time; Dick cemetery, where there are two or three interments a year, and Mt. Hope, which lies in the west side of Shiloh-Norwalk road and covers 15 acres, with space for about 300 more graves.

Pete Ferrell, who has never married and still lives in the family homestead, a brick structure raised by Mike Donovan about 1870 in the south side of Noble road hard by the Conrail tracks, was apprenticed to John Kuhn, then sexton of the cemeteries. He died in 1968, having served the township for two generations.

Ferrell succeeded him.

He operates alone save in the mowing season. Last year Harry Seaman assisted him. Whom the trustees will hire this season is conjectural at this time.

"I suppose if he wants it he can have it again," Ferrell says of his old friend and colleague, Seaman.

A grave measures, in Cass township, at least, three feet wide by five feet deep by 92 inches in length.

And Ferrell digs it by hand.

The township exacts a fee of $100 for opening a grave. It's paid by check either to the secton, Ferrell, or to the clerk, Mrs. Joyce Von Stein.

Sometimes the grave site is chosen by the sexton.

"Some people think it's grisly to have to choose a burial place and they leave it to the undertaker who leaves it to me. But in the past few years you'd be surprised how many people who don't have any notion of dying come out here and pick out a spot and go buy the site and then have a stone put up, so they can see it before they die. I think maybe they figure their children won't do so well by them as they would hope.

"And some of the stones are much different from are much different from what they used to be.

"You go over to Old Salem cemetery and you'll find epitaphs on a good many stones. Over there, though, it apparently was the Methodist custom that suicides weren't given the Christian burial that others got. Past that wild cherry tree there are five or six graves of suicides who're not really a part of the cemetery. I've asked some Methodist ministers over the years if that's part of their doctrine and they've said they don't know anything about it. But apparently that was the case in the old days.

"Some of the stones these days have pictures of what the person who expects to be buried there did or hoped to do. Myron Guthrie had a telephone placed on his stone. Maurice Kissel, who was in the tractor business, had a tractor put on his stone.

"The cemetery used to be a place, in the old days, where young fellows took girls to visit after dark. The late Ivan McQuate used to tell me about having a casket come on the train and he's take the rough carton out to the cemetery and sometimes, because the train got in late, he'd get there after dark. All of a sudden, the place lit up like a Christmas tree and there'd be four or five cars with young fellows and their girls clearing out of there. But with the change in society, television and the growth of places where young people can go, there's much less of it. And certainly much less of it after the 15th of October, when it's too cold."

What's happened to Shiloh in his lifetime?

"I suppose the biggest thing is that the business community isn't what it used to be. You can count the businesses on one hand now and when I was younger we had lots of businesses.

"Then we lose train service. The mail train used to stop twice a day and you could buy a ticket to Greenwich or Shelby or wherever. When that stopped, Shiloh didn't prosper the way it used to prosper."

But it's a stable business, the call for his services of an emergency nature doesn't exceed 30 or 35 times a year, he seldom gets an order to dig up a grave, he doesn't make mistakes about who's buried where, he files his records with the clerk and keeps a copy for himself, and he repairs to the taproom of Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, for his daily Southern Comfort and Squirt.

Pete Ferrell is one of the figures of his community. He knows everybody and everybody knows him. And they know that so long as he's around, he'll be the last to deal with them, on this earth, anyway.

And he may do it by bicycle, in clement weather, or on skis when it has snowed.

If there's another cemetery sexton in Ohio who tends to his business on skis, let him step forward.

$98,616.27 paid in income tax during 1981

In spite of the economy, collection of Plymouth village income tax for 1981 is not too bad.

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, tax director, collected $98,616.27 as of Dec. 31, 1981.

This does include the first quarter payments in April, 1981, which were due on 1980 taxes.

The breakdown is $58,786.83 in withheld taxes by employers, $28,693.92 paid by businesses and $11,135.52 paid by individuals.

In 1980 the village collected $51,608.76, considerably lower because the payment due in April, 1980, only reflected a 19-day period when the tax was effective in 1979, rather than a complete quarter.

As of Apr. 14 Mrs. Moore estimates the collections for 1981 are down about $2,600.

She is basing this on the fact that $25,632.26 has been collected so far this year, versus $28,287.06 for the same period in 1981.

Butner, Atkins lead Bike-a-thon

Dr. C. O. Butner and the Rev. Ronald Atkins, Mt. Hope Lutheran church, have been appointed chairmen of the Shiloh-Plymouth Bike-a-thon May 8 at Shiloh Methodist church to raise money to fight cystic fibrosis.

They said "We are delighted to be able to help this worthwhile cause and I want to urge every local resident to participate in the event to make our Bike-a-thon the best in Ohio."

"Bike-a-thons are for everybody, adults and kids, and you can win some great prizes, too."

According to Dr. Butner, the proceeds of the Bike-a-thon will fund research to improve medical treatment and ultimately find a cure or control for cystic fibrosis, an inherited respiratory and digestive disease which is currently incurable.

"Twenty years ago," Dr. Butner noted, "few children with cystic fibrosis lived to reach school age. Now, thanks to the research funded by activities such as this Bike-a-thon, young people have a 50-50 chance of living into their twenties and beyond."

Wallet fell in lake, found almost intact

A wallet that disappeared from the hip pocket of a local fisherman and dropped into the depths of Lake Erie has been recovered and some of its contents returned to the rightful owner.

In late September, 1980, Lester Shields invited some friends, Vance c. Hoffman, Sr., and Joe Rosenberry, New Haven, for a last-gasp perch expedition from Cedar Point. They were in Shieldsee' boat, together with Mrs. Shields.

Water depth was about 30 feet.

Somehow Hoffman's wallet worked its way from his pocket and fell overboard.

In it were about $60 in cash, some credit cards, lodge membership cards and such.

On Apr. 10, Mrs. Hoffman received a telephone call from Maude Clemons, who reported that the northeaster washed his wallet onto the beach at Cedar Point.

Two days later the Hoffmans drove to the U. S. Coast Guard station at Cedar Point to meet Brian Clemons, brother of the finder, who works for the USCG. He reported his sister walks the beans constantly.

Hoffman rewarded the finder with some cash, now all of which was found in the wallet.

But there were two $20 notes folded and inserted between some photographs and these were intact.

Secret to French toast: no milk, just eggs

By AUNT LIZ

Over the years I have realized that one of the most popular things to steal is copper wiring.

I gather it is going to become even more popular since the price of copper is really up.

What kind of surprises me is that no one has even tried to steal the Statue of Liberty, which is pure copper.

Right now you can't tell that it is and haven't been able to for years because the wind, rain, snow and sleet have turned it green. This is called verdigris.

That situation is going, somehow, to be remedied.

Some man, I do not know who nor where he lives, is starting a campaign to clean her up. He hopes to do this by 1984, which is her 100th anniversary.

He has found some chemical that has been tested and will not harm her.

It will cost millions, and I say it is worth it. Our happy government can throw millions away around the globe, and the one thing which is so symbolic of the freedom we have, is that gal in the New York harbor.

I can remember our second home leave, after being gone for three years, and when we sailed into the New York harbor at the crack of dawn, we went up on deck to see it all. It was a real thrill to know we were home where we were not followed nor our telephones tapped, which most foreign governments do to foreigners like us.

I also remember the day we sailed out. That day I simply did not notice the famous statue. I was too busy disposing of my dinner into the water.

It was my first time on a ship, and it moved up and down just enough to have my stomach go with it. No one looked at food for three days on that ship.

They really didn't save any money, though, because we all ate like mad after that.

Ship food like what used to be served years back on railroads was among the very best in the world, especially the French toast for breakfast on the B&O betweem Washington and Chicago.

One summer I worked in a Girl Scout camp, which had a retired railroad cook, and he taught me the secret.

No milk, just dip the bread in beaten eggs and cook slowly.

Another thing they served, was a creamed chicken dish on toast.

Although I never had the recipe, I was dead sure it was made with real cream.

Over the years I have experimented with it in various forms, and frankly, some of my versions are just as good, even though memories can play funny tricks, like making things much better as time goes by than they really were in the old days.

My versions are very budgety. Use a cream soup for the sauce. Both celery and chicken work like a dream.

Just start with enough cooked cut-up chicken, throw it in a sauce pan with the soup and add any flavoring you want, depending on your mood.

If you feel Chinese, add soy sauce; if you feel French, add a little white wine, and if you feel Italiano, add some basil and oregano.

It can be served on nice fluffy biscuits, rice or crunchy Chinese noodles.

If you do not have any cans of soup handy, just fry the chicken which is one of America's favorite meals.

If you're not careful, your TV or CB antenna could put you in touch with a lot more than you bargained for.

Like many do-it-yourself projects, installing your own TV or CB antenna can save you money. But unless you take proper precautions, it could put you in touch with our power lines.

And the slighest contact between you, your antenna and our lines, could be fatal.

So, before you put up your antenna, here are a few suggestions you should follow.

First, we recommend you have a professional do it for you.

Okay, if you're determined to do it yourself, look out for power lines. The ones attached to poles. And the ones attached to your house.

If you can't tell a power line from a phone line, don't experiment. Steer clear.

Then make sure you locate your antenna (including supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. Which means, a 30-ft. high antenna should be 45 feet away from all power lines in all directions.

That way, if it falls during construction, or gets blown down during a storm, it won't hit any lines and endanger you or your neighbors.

Wait for a calm day, assemble the antenna where you intend to put it up, be sure to ground the antenna properly and get somebody to help you.

And remember: Ladders don't mix any better with power lines than do antennas.

Financial planning commission to end supervision soon

It was agreed Thursday when the financial planning commission met that Plymouth should end the supervision by the state auditor's office.

William R. Miller, chairman of the commission, and Ralph Roll, Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants who have overseen the village's financial records, will write a joint letter to Thomas Ferguson, state auditor, requesting that an audit of the village books be made as of May 31.

The village has been considered in fiscal emergency since June, 1980, when former Mayor Eric Akers requested that the state assist the village to bring it out of default.

Since that time, the outstanding loans and bills have been honored and each fund shows a healthy balance.

The default of the village came at the time that the first income tax money was forthcoming. This money was put into the general fund for the most part.

Recommendations of the Cleveland accountants such as raising some utility rates and prudent investment of funds not immediately needed, have been approved by the council during this period.

New puppy in house wears Auntie down

By AUNT LIZ

Now that spring has arrived and the lifestyle in our house has taken a turn for the better, it is very pleasant.

Since the early weeks of December I was getting up at 5 or 5:30 a. m. struggling into boots and taking one little dog outside.

There I was wandering around in a foot of snow to make sure she knew why we were out. The catch was I had my coat on over a robe and nightie and naturally the hems of both got wet. So then I would come inside and have my turn in the little room, and lift it all up, gad, was it cold and wet.

There is absolutely nothing like a suffering mother of the cutest little dog you have ever seen.

Now I am letting her out with her father, and they are a riot. She sticks right to his side. The catch is that she thinks it is her playtime and does not do what she should. Eventually, this beast will learn. If she were not so cute and lovable, I would beat her to a pulp.

She has completely changed our way of living. I now end up putting things like underwear on in the living room. She grabs them out of the bathroom, and off she goes. Hopefully, our neighbors are not seeing this. I try to turn the lights off. There I am half dressed and my girdle is in the middle of the living room floor.

If anyone thinks I am worn down at 9 a. m., he is right. I have had about three hours of one pup who never seems to get tired.

Our daughter made the remark that Tuffet would keep me young. Little does she know that I have aged at least 70 years. I cannot even run so fast as she can, and once I was the fastest runner in our neighborhood. I even put the boys to shame, and that is why I always had a chance to play on the neighborhood football team.

This is something kids do not do any more. I grew up with a whole bunch of them. We played all sorts of silly games, tried baseball and that stuff, of course not really knowing what we were doing, but we did, and it was a ball. If you ate all your dinner, you were allowed when it was still light out to go out and play. This was our life. It is sad, that this part of growing up has vanished.

Our parents never bothered watching nor supervising. There was simply no need. We knew when we had to come in and that was that.

We did not have television and hardly radio then. Today both are great, but we had to amuse ourselves with hopscotch, jacks and jumping rope, and all three are plain skillful. The things we could do with rope jumping could have put any really good dancer out of business. We were good and very fortunately never did break our necks. It can be a really dangerous little pasttime.

So those were the days of growing up when our parents were drinking illegal hooch and homemade bathtub gin. It was in the 20's and hooch was very illegal.

All you have to do is say, "You cannot have it," and everyone who never even thought about it before decides, "if it is illegal, I must have it."

As an old mother, I say, let it all be available, the kids will try it all for the most part. Let them, and that is where the parents must sit down and really talk. Some can and some simply don't want to mention it.

There is one good way to keep your kids at home. Feed them. Let them know you truly love them by good food. They will go out for a pizza, a hamburger, but give them somthing really extra.

Right now chickens are about the cheapest thing you can buy. Just boil up one whole one, which will produce a good broth for something else. Take the meat off so you have two cups. This can be doubled.

This recipe came from a nice friend, and it is good and can be great when you have a potluck affair to deal with. It must be kept hot.

This is for a single recipe that will serve more than four desperately hungry people.

To the chick, add a cup of finely chopped celery, a half cup of chopped toasted almonds (that is the big secret to the flavoring), two teaspoons of grated onion and a little dash of salt, which I never add. Try pepper.

Mix it then add a cup of your favorite mayonnaise, the real stuff which is better than the lovely cheap, substitutes.

This all goes in a baking dish. Sprinkle it all with about a half cup of grated American cheese and a cup of crushed potato chips. I suggest you buy a bag of the things, and eat like mad until you hit the bottom layer. Who ever heard of a decent size potato chip at the bottom?

Bake it all at 450 for 10 to 15 minutes so it really gets heated.

To make it look pretty, spread sprigs of parsley on each serving.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.

Boomer

Village council has rejected the idea of the village police department acquiring an added member to the department such as Boomer who works for the Galion department. He is pictured here while working his beat.

Council agrees: Village is not going to the dogs!

Upon the advice of Solicitor Richard Wolfe, Plymouth village council will seek a better line of communication with the City of Willard to establish who owns what and who gets water from the new water line.

Council met in regular session Apr. 24.

Several weeks ago Mayor Dean A. Cline had questioned the legal status of the line which was financed by Plymouth with a $300,000 HUD grant and $150,000 borrowed from the OWDA.

The contract signed by the village and the city divides the ownership of the line between the two. It is Willard's line to Skinner road.

The problem has been the deeding of land for the rights of way needed for the line which Willard has not as yet completed.

Meanwhile, the city has allowed several homes in Neal Zick road to tap into the line during the construction period. Several weeks ago the New Haven Elementary school tapped into it.

Now Willard is receiving the tap-in fees.

Village churches plan Bible school

Elaborate plans are being made for the annual vacation Bible school next month in which the village churches participate.

It is to recreate the 12 tribes of Israel. Each child will belong to a tribe grouped by ages. They will meet in tents and learn the history and customs of the tribe.

The individual church committees are seeking help to be able to do this.

More people are needed to help. Persons knowledeable about crafts such as rope weaving, pottery and candy making, a singer, a dancer and a story teller are also needed. Twelve tents are also needed.

The churches are hopeful that a ram's horn which is essential to the program can be found plus someone who can blow it.

Since then he has been a member of the faculty of Pioneer Joint Vocational school where he teaches electronics.

He has been an active Boy Scout leader and a member of the Plymouth Lions club.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Glider pilot?

Sir,

A search is on to locate all former military Glider Pilots of World War II. These were the pilots who flew the Army Air Force CG-4A combat gliders and had a "G" on their silver wings.

So far we have located about 2500 of the original 6000 men who qualified to fly gliders. Our association was formed ten years ago, holds annual reunions, publishes a quarterly newspaper called "Silent Wings", maintains a museum, and has restored a CG-4A which is assembled in Dallas.

We are a unique and extinct group since there were so few of us and there will be no more of us.

All military Glider pilots of WWII are urged to contact me at the following address. I would also appreciate hearing from anyone who has information concerning our glider comrades killed in action or since deceased.

We are a non-profit veterans organization and will deeply appreciate your assistance in locating the above.

Sincerely,
Richard Bowling

Shiloh villagers question gas bills

No action was taken about the service contract the village of Shiloh has with Don Barr, Inc., Mansfield, for the copying machine, when village council met Apr. 28.

Several council members said they believed that the charge of $500 annually was too much.

Soon as legislation is formally adopted, charges for collecting refuse will be combined with the utility bills and sent monthly rather than quarterly.

Talks are continuing between the village and Cass and Bloominggrove townships to create a fire district.

Jerry Tischer, district manager of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Mansfield, met with the council to answer any questions, and there were questions from all. The main question was why Shiloh's rates were so high and why there was such a difference between rates in various communities.

In a study made last fall by the Office of Consumers' Counsel, 22 communities in the area were compared. Shiloh was 12th in costs. For an average usage of 1,300 cubic feet of natural gas, the rate was $61.67.

The village is looking for a used truck for village use.

CARD OF THANKS

We most heartily thank everyone for all the kindness shown to us — the cards, the calls, visits from friends.

Until you actually experience what we have, you really do not know what your small, nearby hospital can do. We had the help of doctors who were visiting their own patients, but stopped to help us, the nurses, the other professional people came in to help, and the sides did everything to make us feel comfortable. That is not an easy job under the circumstances.

These are the people the Willard Area hospital carefully chose to work for it. There are people and people in this world, but somehow the very nicest and best get the job. Willard Area Hospital did this and chose the best.

Stock your cupboards for unexpected guests

By AUNT LIZ

There is news for every housewife.

Stock up your cupboards and your freezers like mad with food.

You are going to need it, for unexpected guests.

There was a column not long ago in the morning paper about how the city of Cleveland plus all the others around it will pour down this way when we get bombed.

This is nothing new. We have lived here 28 years and every now and then the subject raises its ugly little head. Once someone said we should set up barricades with a couple of machine guns and keep the people out. The big catch was that no one had a machine gun and did not know where nor how to acquire one.

Maybe they should become standard household equipment.

We do not even own a gun of any kind, but we do have something almost better.

Somewhere years back someone gave us a Swiss bullet maker. It is about three feet long and opens up so you have a half of a rounded side on each side of it where the molten lead can be poured in. It makes nice fat little bullets which probably would not fit any existing gun.

Let us face cold hard facts, if we do get attacked, perhaps our bullet maker will come in handy. I figures they could always be used in a strong, sturdy, sling shot deal.

Right now I have enough problems to face without thinking of being invaded.

Trying to keep two four legged children happy is simply taking all my time.

We ran out of dog biscuits the other day at 6:47 a. m., and both were ready to bite me about it all. They were furious, even when I showed them the empty box.

Later I bought two boxes and brought them home and proudly displayed them, and can you believe, they recognized them and plain settled down?

Meanwhile, this is sauerkraut ball season. I am really experimenting.

The first batch was definitely too big. They were not a snack but practically a meal and really good. Somehow they expand.

The nice thing is that they are very cheap to make. Just don't count the hours that it takes to do them, not the time it takes to clean up your kitchen.

Buy a pound can of sauerkraut, drain it really well and chop it up. This I did by hand. Food processors are great but they or rather ours has two things to use, which cut things biggish or pulverize them. Set aside.

Brown a cup of sausage with a fourth of a cup of minced onions, drain and mix with the kraut. Add two tablespoons of fine bread crumbs, a three ounce package of really softened cream cheese, a teaspoon of prepared mustard, a fourth of a teaspoon of garlic salt and a good dash of pepper.

Mix it all up and refrigerate until really firm.

Bring it out and roll in really small balls. Baby ones. I learned this the hard way and made the first batch too big.

Dip them in a mixture of two eggs, a fourth of a cup of milk and a fourth of a cup of bread crumbs that has been mixed. Frankly, a dash more of milk will help.

Then chill them for several hours. Fry in deep fat until golden or until you think they really look done.

They freeze like a dream and only need to be heated up.

There are tons of reasons why your electric rates are below average.

Coal. All of the electricity we make, we make from coal. And the American Electric Power System we're part of uses more coal than any other utility in the country. Almost 45 million tons last year alone.

So, since coal is more economical to use than other fuels, and fuel is the major factor in the cost of making electricity, our use of it helps keep your electric rates below the national average.*

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Take stock in America.

Telephone company offers optional service

An optional service that enables customers to call a wide area of exchanges at a reduced long distance rate is being offered at Plymouth and Willard, General Telephone Company of Ohio announced today.

Called "Optional Off-peak Toll Service," the discounted toll-calling plan is available to residential and business customers.

Tom Souter of Norwalk, service manager, said the monthly charge is $4.15 for the first hour (or fraction) of usage and $1.05 for additional 15-minute segments.

Willard users will be able to call 24 area exchanges and Plymouth, 23. The exchanges are within a 22-mile radius of the two communities.

The off-peak hours are 3 p. m. to 9 a. m. weekdays, 3 p. m. Friday through 9 a. m. Monday and all hours of five holidays.

Souter said the discounted rate applies to customer-dialed station-to-station calls. Operator-assisted calls are excluded, and those made during non-off-peak hours are billed at regular toll rates.

Customers interested in the service can call the company's business office in Norwalk. No fee is charged the first time a customer signs us, he said. And the service can be discontinued at any time.

The offering of off-peak calling comes in the wake of public hearings conducted last January at Plymouth. The hearings involved a separate action initiated by a Plymouth group to establish two-way toll-free calling with Willard.

Fate of that action still is pending before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. The PUCO attorney examiner's report to the commission is expected soon, Souter said.

At the PUCO hearings, the examiner noted the off-peak calling plan was available. Petitioners in Plymouth and Willard later obtained more than 100 signatures in each community and requested General Telephone to seek off-peak calling authority through the PUCO.

Souter said the company requested PUCO's permission and the PUCO granted the off-peak plan for a 24-month experimental period. General must file quarterly and annual reports with the PUCO and the latter will determine if the plan will be made permanent.

He noted that because the service is optional customers not wanting it will not have to pay for it. The off-peak calling takes advantage of periods during which toll-free transmitting equipment is relatively idle.

Under the off-peak plan, monthly phone bills will indicate total minutes charged. Each call will be billed a minimum of one minute. Also, the bill will report what the off-peak calls would have cost at regular toll rates.

Plymouth's off-peak exchanges are Adario, Ashland, Attica, Bellefontaine, Attica, Bellevue, Bloomville, Bucyrus, Chatfield, Crestline, Galion, Greenwich, Lykens, Mansfield, Milan, Monroeville, New London, New Washington, Norwalk, Nova, Republic, Savannah, Shelby, Shiloh and Willard.

Oliver Tilton succumbs at 76

Oliver Tilton, 76, died Thursday in Hillside Acres Nursing home, Willard.

He was born here and was employed by Fate-Root Heath Co. for 17 years. In 1943 he worked for the Pneumatic Tool Co., Cleveland, until he retired in 1958.

He made his home in New London most of his life.

He was a member of the Ruggles grange.

He is survived by his wife, Martha, to whom he had been married 54 years; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Rogers, Ashland; four sons, Dwight, New London, Raymond, Greenwich, Wayne, Dayton, and Dan, Beaufort, S. C.; a brother, Rex, Mansfield; 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Bob McFaul conducted the last service Saturday in the Eastman Funeral home, New London.

Burial was here in Greenlawn cemetery.

Deadline set by planners for zoning

August 10 is the deadline set to have completed a zoning ordinance by the village planning commission.

It will then be presented to council for approval or rejection.

Mayor Dean A. Cline who attended this month's meeting of the commission May 3, said one of the top objectives is to control the installation of trailers.

Those which are already in place throughout the village will be allowed to remain and be improved.

Another problem facing the commission is that trailer permits have been issued in the past, but never used. Setting a time limit on the permits is being studied.

Goals for a five year period were determined to study annexation of land to the village, improve the streets and form a park and recreation committee.

During a 10 year period, it is hoped that the electrical distribution system can be improved and updating the sewerage treatment system.

Mrs. Charles Pritchard, chairman of the commission, indicated she would like to resign, but her colleagues urged her to stay.

Financing sought for new ambulance

Plans are underway for the purchase of a 1981 McCoy-Miller ambulance although the financing is still to be worked out by village council.

The vehicle is priced at $35,000 and about $23,500 is available in the ambulance and federal revenue sharing funds which leaves $11,500 to be found.

The finance committee has talked with three banks and have had good interest rates offered.

The new ambulance will replace the 1974 Dodge which was purchased in 1976 from Kansas City, Mo.

Homestead exemption applications due

The auditor has mailed out 2,100 applications and only 1,400 have been returned.

To receive the homestead exemption a homeowner must be 65 years of age or permanently and totally disabled and have owned and occupied the house as a principle place of residence as of Jan. 1, 1982.

Total income cannot not exceed $15,000 yearly.

Those who have not applied before and are eligible may call the real estate assessment office in the basement of the courthouse for more details.

Meeting set by Chamber

Members attending are reminded that they may choose their meal from the restaurant's menu.

Land transfer recorded in village

A land transfer in the Huron county recorder's office shows that Kennon L. and Vickie L. Osbun transferred lot 273, Park avenue, to the Home Savings and Loan Co., Norwalk.

Mrs. Ashbrook on ballot June 8

Mrs. John Ashbrook has announced that she will run in the primary election June 8, to fill the seat held by her late husband as Republican representative to congress from the Ohio 17th district.

If she is successful, she will face a Democratic opponent in a special election June 29.

She is a native of Newark and a graduate of Ohio State university, Columbus.

She has been active in Republican party activities and had been urged to seek the seat to give President Ronald Reagan support for his policies.

The term will expire Dec. 31.

Lewis kin succumbs at 80 at Willard

Mother of Mrs. Frederick Lewis, Mrs. C. G. Fordem, 80, died Friday in Willard Area hospital where she had been a patient for a week.

A native of Galion, she and her late husband, Clifford, ran a grocery store there for many years. Later they moved to San Diego, Cal., where she lived for 40 years and was employed by the Walker-Scott department store.

She has been in failing health for some time, and the Lewises who had spent most of the winter with her, brought her back to Plymouth to live with them several months ago.

She is also survived by two sons, Paul, La Mesa, Cal., and Robert, Oak Harbor, Wash., a sister, Mrs. Anna E. Watts, Galion, 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

She was also preceded in death by a daughter, Mary Louise, and a son, Dean Edward.

The Richland County Sheriff's office has recently installed a strictly confidential telephone "drug hotline". Individuals are encouraged to report any illegal drug activity.

The telephone number is 524-DRUG (524-3784), and it is in operation 24 hours a day.

Anyone who dials the hotline will receive a tape recorded message from Sheriff Richard Petty. There will be approximately three minutes in which to relate the message. Individuals are not required to give their name.

The information is strictly confidential, and pertinent data is sorted later for key information. The information will then be used to conduct discreet inquiries into the nature and extent of the illegal drug activity in Richland county.

This hot-line is the result of cooperation and planning between the sheriff's office and several local area civic and fraternal organizations. The various groups have donated the tape recording device for the hot-line, and are paying the monthly telephone bill for it.

Rates increased by telephone company

Telephone rates have increased an average of six cents a day for residential users.

General Telephone Co. was granted a rate adjustment Apr. 26 by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to take effect immediately.

Residential rates are $11.15 a month for a one party line, an increase of $1.25; $10.70 for two party lines, an increase of $1.80; $9.85 for four party lines, an increase of $1.60.

Multi party lines remain the same at $8.55.

A one party business line has increased $1.60 to $20.90.

Two party and multi-party business rates remain the same at $17.25 and $16.35.

This is the company's first increase in seven years.

Pay phone calls go from 10 cents to 20 cents, the first increase since 1953. Other boosts affect service connection charges and business terminal equipment.

Allen W. Hughes, Marion, vice president-general manager, said the adjustment will increase General's annual revenues by 11.9 percent. Taxes, however, will consume about half the additional revenues.

"A significant change in this case separates the telephone instrument from the basic exchange rate for business and residential users," said Hughes.

Called unbundling, it is a move associated with FCC-ordered deregulation of the telephone industry, he noted. It means, a one-party customer can purchase a phone or lease one from the company. A user owning a phone saves $1.50 on the monthly phone bill.

In addition, service connection (installation) charges were raised from a flat rate of $25 to a multi-element charge totaling $33. But a customer now will pay only for installation services required.

The connection charges, separated into five elements, are initial service order, $12; line connection (to switching equipment), $4; premises wiring, $4; station handling, $4 and premises visit by an installer, $9. A customer can avoid the latter three charges by using another supplier or dealing with a GTE Phone Mart.

Hughes said the changes in installation charges are designed to associate actual costs more closely with users requiring the services. The PUCO also approved gradual increases in installation charges. They are scheduled to take effect Oct. 1, 1982, 1983 and 1984.

Reclassification of 59 exchanges into higher rate bands also was approved by the PUCO. The local toll-free calling areas of those exchanges had grown since the last rate action in 1975.

General's new tariffs also established a single set of 10 rate bands. Previously, General had nine bands and exchanges formerly served by Northern Ohio Telephone Co. had 10. All the exchanges now are consolidated into 10 scheduules. Northern was merged into General of Ohio in 1974.

The rate bands range from Band I (1-3,000 main stations) to Band X (768,001 main stations and over). The higher the rate band, the higher the basic rate.

If Monroeville users can call Norwalk toll free, the rates will slightly increase.

Councilman Taulbee resigns, water loss questioned

It was a mixture of sorrow and complete surprise when Mayor Dean A. Cline and village councilmen learned that their colleague, Bill Taulbee, was submitting his resignation as a member of the council.

Although he had only served less than six months, he took a very active part in village affairs.

He asked to be relieved of his duties immediately saying personal reasons prompted his action.

The council has 30 days to find a replacement. If they fail to do so, the mayor then appoints a new member.

No action was taken on the purchase of a new ambulance because only four councilmen were present. Ray Barber was vacationing. Councilmen Ron Predieri, John Hedeen, G. Thomas Moore and Terry Hopkins were present.

Councilman Hedeen objected to the suggestion that some $9,000 of federial revenue money be used to purchase a new vehicle. The one chosen by the ambulance squad will cost just under $35,000.

Hedeen also questioned the loss of water which he commented looked like something like 10 million gallons were not accounted for in the billings.

He would like to see a complete study of the water system made to determine where there are leaks.

Village administrator, James C. Root, disagreed with him saying that the billings equal the amount of water being pumped.

Posting of signs, either political or local yard sales, on utility poles was briefly discussed. It actually is against a state law although the village itself does not have an ordinance prohibiting the signs.

Hedeen said that perhaps the yard sale signs could be simply tied to a pole for a short time.

Council will meet later to study capital improvements which will include street repairs.

The clerk's report for April shows a balance of $3,718.81 in the street fund and $2,569.54 in the state highway fund. The capital improvement fund which is 50 per cent of the village income tax money collections is $21,910.16.

Mrs. Sidney Ream, clerk-treasurer, also showed strong balances in the other funds including $390,000 invested in short time deposits which are generating a good interest rate.

Alton Sexton succumbs at 42

Funeral services were conducted yesterday for Alton Sexton, 42, New Haven.

He died Sunday afternoon in Willard Area hospital after a long illness.

At one time he was an employee of Fate-Root-Heath Co., and for 25 years worked as a field foreman for Holthouse Bros., Celeryville.

He is survived by his wife, Thelma; a daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Slone, New Haven; a son, Ricky, who is stationed in Michigan with the Air Force; his father, Lummy Sexton, Plymouth; four brothers, Clovis and Milford, Plymouth; Lowell, Indiana, and the Rev. Velman Sexton, Willard; four sisters, Mrs. Ressie Reed, Willard; Mrs. Naomi Tussey, Indiana; Mrs. Ellen Shepherd and Mrs. Avenell Collins, Kentucky.

The Rev. James Wilson conducted the last service in the United Baptist church, Willard.

Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven.

Estate of Richard G. Jones has been inventoried at $39,387 by the Huron county probate court.

Rates to go up at Shiloh

Increases in natural gas and electricity faced Shiloh village council during its May 12 meeting.

Columbia Gas of Ohio has already notified the village that its rates are increasing 1.4 cents for a thousand cubic feet of gas. The increase will be effective with the meter reading June 7.

Ohio Power, from the village purchases electricity at a wholesale rate, says it is requesting an increase on May 28 for a 12-month period. It will take effect later this summer.

Approval was given to laying a water line to the Little League concession stand. The village will do the work and the League will pay for the pipe.

It was also agreed that a village employee will mow the field rather than parents doing it with village equipment.

Picnic tables are to be placed in the park.

The village will pay for the paint for the Scout house. The Scouts and leaders will do the painting.

Six and a half acres now zoned residential will be rezoned as manufacturing. The land is in the east end of the village in Route 603.

Charles Arms plans to construct a pole vault building for storage and later hopes to install an assembly factory. He had unsuccessfully tried to purchase the school annex from the board of education.

A public hearing will be conducted by the zoning board after a 30-day notice has been given residents.

Auntie says buy a poppie, it's for a good cause!

By AUNT LIZ

This is the time everyone is wearing a pretty little red poppy.

You won't be able to walk 10 feet without some Girl Scout or Legion auxiliary member popping out of the bushes with a hand clutching a bunch of them and in the other hand a small container for your contribution.

The contribution goes for a really good cause, to help needy veterans. No one can disagree with that. If our country is so dumb as to get mixed up in other people's wars, we owe it to the ones who had to solve the problem.

And as it has happened before with a lot of other good things in our everyday life, it was a lady school teacher who started it all.

Moina Belle Michael graduated from the teachers college at Athens, Ga., and taught for many years and was part of the local YMCA. When World War I came, she served in the Y's Rome office and later back in New York. It was there on a Saturday morning that a young soldier handed her a copy of a poem called "We Shall Not Sleep". It had been published in a magazine. Today that poem by Lieut. Col. John McCrae is known by everyone as "In Flanders Field".

She was moved by it and pledged that the red poppy should be worn as a memorial to those who had lost their lives. Her friends all pitched in and bought them from her. These were real poppies which she had bought with a small sum that had been given to her to thank her for the hospitality the Y had shown for a conference.

Later she went back home to Georgia to teach and raise red poppies in her garden and made replicas of them.

It was in 1920 when the American Legion officially sponsored poppy day, which most of us have grown up with.

Those little red crepe paper flowers really perk up what can be sad memories of those who never came back. So wear yours proudly.

Memorial day began as a remembrance, but it is also the time of family gatherings because of it being a long weekend holiday.

Best you be ready for a couple of relatives who just decided at the last minute to drive 300 miles to visit.

Such visiting relatives deserve nothing better than a casserole of tuna helper and tuna fish. You can serve it to them bare.

Say what you will about great gourmet cooking, I find the combination very tasty. It can be perked up by adding sliced mushrooms, stuffed olives, which give it a little color, and a little sliced up onion. Be sure to sprinkle the top with bread crumbs before it goes in the oven.

If you can afford a salad, then you have a meal, with some sherbet thrown in. If you cannot afford the salad, hunt down a patch of watercress, which is in season now. It is delicious with a little oil and vinegar.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir,

In response to a news article4n last week's Willard Times on the repaving of Brooks Ct. A council member made the statements that the residents on Brooks Ct. only wanted a new street in front of their new homes. Also that other taxpayers' money would be used and that was not fair to these other taxpayers.

Well listen buddy, my husband and I both work ard for our money, just like everyone else, and we are entitled to purchase any type home we choose, be it old or new. And just because we chose a newer home does not mean we have to be deprived of a descent street. Most of the time we can not even get the holes filled. We're not asking for a street of gold. Yes we need storm sewers and a turn around, but I'm sure we can eliminate the fancy curbs and sidewalks. Do you know the school bus won't even come down our street to pick up the students because of the road conditions and there is no turn around. The students have walk to the end of the street and stand at the edge of the road without any shelter and wait. The bus stops between two knolls on W. Broadway so here you have 18, 20 students waiting for the bus. One of these days there will be an accident and then we'll wander why something wasn't done to prevent this. Now is that just?

Also last year there were other streets repaved in this town that run in front of older homes. I didn't hear anyone say "Don't use other taxpayers' money, that wouldn't be fair." We probably pay more taxes than most of you. Shouldn't we have the same rights as the other taxpayers?

The council member that made these statements appears to be a very narrow minded person. I was under the impression council members were to work for ALL the bers were to work for all the people not just a chosen group. I'll remember this come election time.

They talk about growth in this town, well with attitudes like this they might as well forget it. If you begrudge someone for trying to do better, then obviously you've stopped growing. And that's sad! If I ever get the chance to move out of this town you'd better believe I won't hesitate I'll move.

A Brooks Ct. resident,
Mrs. Larry Smith

Sir,

The Plymouth varsity baseball team has won the BFVC league, are Sectional Champs and will play in the Districts. We want to congratulat them for a job well done! They have played some tough teams, and by working well as a team they won a lot of those games. They are awesome this year! And we are sure proud of them. To the team we say "Keep up the good attitude, the drive and determination to win, and the friendship and respect among your teammates and coach. That's what got you where you are today."

The very best of luck in the first game of the Districts! Beat Old Fort.

Dave and Nancy Polachek

Sir,

I may not live in Plymouth, but I am darn proud of their varsity baseball team, as well as being proud of my nephew who plays.

I can not see why in the world other papers, such as "The Willard Times" and "The Shelby Globe" can write a half page on the boys, but the Plymouth paper only has eleven lines.

You would think that since it is their hometown paper and the boys are doing so well there would be more than eleven lines in their paper.

Show the boys you are as proud of them as I am.

Congrats on sectionals! Good luck in districts!

A Proud Aunt, Shelley Weiss, Willard, Ohio

Village to pay respects to dead of nine conflicts here Saturday

Plymouth will pause Monday to pay tribute to the dead of nine national conflicts.

A parade will form on the Square at 10 a. m. and march to Greenlawn cemetery at 10:30 a. m.

Color guard of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, will lead the march.

Legion auxiliary colors will be carried by Mrs. William C. Enderby, Mrs. Richard Mitchell, Mrs. Eugene Roeder and Mrs. John Hedeen.

DOUGLAS STAGGS

Plymouth High school band directed by Jeffrey Conklin will play.

Robert Metcalfe is the parade marshall. He would like any organizations or individuals to contact him to be assigned a marching location.

John Hedeen will be the master of ceremonies at the cemetery.

The invocation will be delivered by Pastor Ronald Atkins, First Lutheran church. Pastor Polly Atkins, Mt. Hope Lutheran church, Shiloh, will give the benediction.

Superintendent of Plymouth Local School district, Douglas Staggs, will give the principle address.

A native of Portsmouth, he graduated from Portsmouth West High school and received his bachelor's degree from Eastern Kentucky university, Richmond, Ky.

He received his master's degree at Bowling Green State university, and has done further graduate work there and at the University of Dayton and Georgetown university, Washington, D. C.

He has taught in the Sandusky City schools and served as principal both at Centerburg and Mapleton High schools.

He came here five years ago as the assistant to John Fazzini who was the superintendent then. When the latter retired, Staggs assumed the position Apr. 1, 1980.

Staggs is the current president of the Plymouth Lions club, has served on the board of Mary Fate park swimming pool and has been active in the Plymouth Midget league.

He and his wife, who is a student at the Mansfield branch, Ohio State university, are the parents of Kristi, an eighth grader, and Jeff, a sixth grader.

Keith Hebble will read General Logan's general order which formally established Memorial day after the civil war.

A group of women chose May 30 to honor the dead of both the Union and Confederate armies. It is believed that a Virginia woman, Cassandra Oliver Morcure, was responsible for the date. Of French origin, she may have chosen the date because in France it was "The Day of the Ashes". This French Memorial day commemorated the return of Napoleon's remains to France from St. Helena where he had died in exile.

Orlo J. Strohm will read the Gettysburg address.

Wreaths will be laid at the cenotaph in respect to those who died in nine national conflicts thus:

Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., War of the Revolution;

Mrs. Carl V. Ellis, War of 1812;

Mrs. Carl C. Carnahan, War with Mexico;

Miss Florence Danner, War of the Rebellion;

Mrs. George Lesho, Sr., War with Spain;

Mrs. William Van Wagner, World War I;

Mrs. Marie Hill, World War II;

Mrs. Keith Gooding, Korean conflict;

Mrs. Joel Van Loo, Vietnam action.

Mrs. Jack A. Laser will lay a wreath in memory of firemen who have died in the service of the village.

The Legion post will conduct a reception in the post home in Trux street after the countermarch to the Public Square.

'69 graduate to speak at commencement Sunday

A 1969 graduate of Plymouth High school, David Williamson, will be the commencement speaker during graduation ceremonies May 30.

Memorial Day Prayer

O god, our gracious Father and Redeemer, we thank Thee that Thou dost inhabit eternity and hold the ages in Thine hand, that one day is as a thousand years with Thee, and a thousand years as one day, yet Thou dost recognize and operate within our standards of time.

On this another Memorial Service, mindful of our own frailty and brevity of time on this earth, we do sincerely thank Thee for the brave men and women who have given their all at the noonday of their lives that we might enjoy life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

WE SO little deserve what they have done for us, but we pray that we may be stabbed awake to discern the meaning of life and to use our opportunities to preach and teach the gospel of Christ to all nations, and to live the Christian life so consistently that Thou canst righteously spare us from war and national turmoil.

HAVE MERCY UPON us, O God, in these perilous days when war clouds hang so heavy over our world. Frustrate those who keep the pressure of cold war upon us, and enable us to beam the warmth of freedom's holy light to them. Defeat, O Lord, those organized principalities and powers of wickedness who seek to destroy our nation by lawlessness, crime, immorality, intemperance, and materialism. Give us spiritual strength and discernment to stand against all such and to preserve the fruits of peace for our children and grandchildren.

WE THANK THEE MOST of all for the sacrifice of Thy creations for our sins to reconcile us to God and to redeem us from all iniquity. May this service and its memories deepen our appreciation of God and all Christian blessings.

We ask this in Your great and Holy Name. Amen. Dr. Jerry E. Snavely, District Nine chaplain.

Blood pressures to be taken

Jamie Brooks to tour Europe

JAMIE JO BROOKS

Jamie J. Brooks has been notified that she has been selected for membership in the American Musical Ambassador's Band. This highly select concert band, composed of outstanding high school and university students from all over the United States and Canada, will tour several European countries for three weeks in July and August.

Jamie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Brooks, is a member of the Plymouth High school band directed by Jeff Conklin.

Professor Maxine Lefever, an assistant director with the Purdue University Bands and director of the AMA tour, has announced that Lt. Col. Dale Harpham (U. S. Marine Band, ret.) and Professor David Catron of Michigan State university will serve as conductors for the 1982 tour.

The tour group will visit and perform in Paris, Lucerne, Lugano, Milan, Venice, Innsbruck, Salzburg, Berchtesgaden, Wiesbaden, Amsterdam, Windsor and London. Highlights of the tour will include concerts in the concert halls and parks of Europe. Students will visit many sites of musical and historical importance as well as the popular tourist attractions.

The purpose of the tour is to foster cultural and personal relationships between students of the U. S. and the people of Europe. In past years students of the AMA tours, through their high standards of musical excellence and equally high standards of personal excellence, have indeed served as fine representatives of American youth and as ambassadors of good will through their music for audiences throughout Europe.

"If you think you are beaten, you are,
If you think you dare not, you don't
If you like to win, but you think you can't,
It is almost certain you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost,
For out in the world we find,
Success begins with a fellow's will —
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you are outclassed, you are.
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man,
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the man WHO THINKS HE CAN!"

This has helped inspire me in difficult times and you are taking a giant step forward with your graduation. I hope it can help you.

All about Plymouth...

Mrs. Robert McIntire spent last week with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Pierfedeici, Avon, Conn.

Mrs. James McClure and Mrs. Jeffrey Daniel, Nancy's Salon of Beauty, attended a hair show Sunday in Cleveland. They watched Gary Gerard, San Francisco, Cal., show the latest techniques of hair cutting and styling.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hebble were in Muskegan, Mich., over the weekend, where he bowled in a tournament.

Children's pictures shown

A representative of Woltz Studios who took pictures of children a month ago will be here today at McIntire's to show the pictures.

The hours are from 3 until 5:30 p. m.

A son, Ryan Christopher, weighing 6 lb., 9 ozs., was born May 12 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Mumea, Willard.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robinson, Willard. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mumea.

A daughter was born May 19 in Willard Area hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Don Deskins in Willard Area hospital.

A son was born May 18 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Luke Nolt, Plymouth route 1.

Villager cited in collision

William Taylor, 39, sexton of Greenlawn cemetery, received minor injuries Friday in a collision at the intersection of Route 224 and New State road.

Taylor failed to stop and hit a car driven by Thomas Sessler, Warrensville Heights.

He was charged with failure to stop by the state patrol.

Two charged in theft

Scott E. Lewis, 21, Plymouth, and James D. Stively, 21, North Fairfield, have been charged by the Norwalk Police department of theft from two cars.

The cars were parked in a lot of a tavern.

Stereo speakers were taken from one car and other equipment from the second car.

Generous daughter-in-law stands in for Aunt Liz

My mother-in-law has been writing this Aunt Liz column at least as long as I've known her which has been very close to 13 years.

Occasionally in her letters or in our conversations she has lamented, "I have to come up with a column, but I don't have an idea yet."

One Christmas season it occurred to me that one of the best presents I could give her would be a couple of columns I had written as a substitute for her; I could be her stand-in just as David Letterman stands in for Johnny Carson.

Well, sort of like that . . . Somehow, though through the crush of the holiday season meant I failed to act on my idea, and to my knowledge Aunt Liz has gone forever without a "vacation".

Obviously, this column changes all that, as will next week's. Maybe it can be considered a belated Mother's day gift.

Being daring enough to submit this column, I dare not deviate from the customary "slice of life" coupled with some homespun philosophy. And I will end, of course, with a recipe which comes with my personal guarantee.

And so . . .

The three of us, Chip, I and one of those granddaughters occasionally mentioned by Aunt Liz, tried an Iowa institution, the Tulip Festival in Pella, a town of almost 8,000, most of them of Dutch ancestry.

I imagine the Pella telephone book has more pages of V entries than 99 per cent of the communities of similar size. Van der Ploegs and Van Erps live there as well as lots of others with "Van" as a part of their names.

The festival is a truly community affair, and a tradition too, having inaugurated in 1935. It is remarkable and unique in the proportion of community members involved.

Where, for instance, have you seen a parade that included a contingent of at least 50 mothers pushing antique strollers or pulling decorated wagons with their infants and toddlers in them?

All were in costume, and some of the toddlers are destined for public relations professions judging from the waves and smiles they gave us so generously. Also marching in the parade were the community's elementary teachers with their pupils, again all in costume.

There were wooden shoe dancing and street scrubbing demonstrations.

The whole community seemed to pitch in which was refreshing to see how they worked together for a common cause.

We tried the fried Dutch pastries, of course, but the following recipe is more delicious and not nearly as doughy. Served cold, it is perfect for the warmer days ahead and can be prepared in advance too.

It is a dessert called Lemon Cups and comes from an impressive book entitled Soutern Sideboards.

Cream two tablespoons of melted butter with one cup of sugar, a fourth cup of flour and an eighth teaspoon salt. Add five tablespoons of lemon juice and the grated rind of one lemon. Set it aside.

Beat three egg yolks well. Scald one and a half cups of milk and add a small amount to the eggs, then return it all to the rest of the milk, stirring constantly. Add this to the creamed mixture and fold in three well beaten egg whites.

Pour into greased custard cups or a shallow baking dish. Put it in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 for 45 minutes.

It can be served hot or cold and will take care of eight.

Typically I make this with results in a dessert with custard on the bottom and sponge cake on the top when we have dinner guests.

I always omit the salt, double the recipe and bake in my 9 x 13 glass pan.

Pioneer JVS will seek 1-mill levy in November

The Pioneer Joint Vocational School Board of Education approved a request for a 1-mill, one-year levy to be placed on the November ballot.

The request for the levy, which would generate $1 million, was approved at a meeting Monday night. The money would be split 50-50 or 60-40 between permanent improvements and operations, said Assistant Superintendent Marvin Webb.

Permanent improvement monies would be used to make the building more energy efficient, Webb said. Other projects under consideration include a new roof, a new student parking lot and replacement of equipment.

Some of the repairs needed are reaching the emergency stage, Webb said. He said, "It's not an emergency levy, but it is an emergency levy."

Operating funds are needed because of the state cuts.

A one-mill levy was pased Mar. 4, 1980, after a .92 mill was defeated twice in 1979 by voters in the eight-county school system. The delay in passing that levy is also costing the district money.

"When the levy passed two years ago, we didn't get the money the year we passed it," Webb said. The district was forced to borrow $450,000 to operate that year.

Teachers to receive salary increase

Teachers of Plymouth Local School district will receive a 2.6 per cent salary increase beginning July 1.

Meeting in a special session Thursday the Board of Education agreed to the salary increase formally which the Plymouth Education association had approved two weeks earlier.

Along with the salary increase, the starting salary was raised $300 to $11,900.

Some of the fringe benefits have also been increased.

Also beginning July 1, sick leave was increased to eight days a year from five and can now accumulate up to 200 days; the board will pay $105 per month for hospitalization on the family plan and $42 for a single person and severance pay was increased to 40 days.

Beginning Sept. 1, dental insurance in the amount of $17.72 will be paid.

Additional college credits will be paid at the rate of $35 for six hours.

In exchange the PEA gave up three tems they had originally suggested: pay for substitute teachers which the board will continue to pay, preparation time for classes and vision care insurance coverage.

It was agreed that there can be new negotiations beginning Jan. 15, 1983.

$500,000 damage to farm sheds

About $500,000 damage resulted when several sheds and packing areas of the Buurma Bros. Farm, Celeryville, were destroyed in a fire Thursday morning.

The blaze was apparently of electrical origin, and only one injury resulted. Rebecca Compton, an employee, was treated by the emergency squad.

Damage was to equipment rather than stored produce because it is early in the season.

Repair work was begun immediately Friday morning by three crews.

Fire departments of Willard, Plymouth, Attica and New Washington fought the blaze.

Three arrested in robbery case

Three Riggs stree residents, Goble, Paul and Shirley rianer, have been charged with the robbery of the Dosie Reed home in Bullhead road, Celeryville, by the Huron county sheriff's department.

They are alledged to have stolen four guns and other items May 25 late in the afternoon.

The unidentified juvenile who accompanied them was turned over to the Manafield Juvenile Detention center.

Toll-free number installed by sheriff

A toll-free number has been installed by the Richland County Sheriff's office so that persons outside of the Manafield dialing area may call without being charged from any exchange in the county.

The telephone number is 800-472-5822.

The funding of the line ill be paid by the sheriff's department.

Sheriff Richard Petty said that this service will upgrade the effectiveness of his department.

Shelby K-9 helps to find culprits

Man's best friend did it again and is a real hero.

When Plymouth police were notified that something was wrong at Plymouth High school two weeks ago and discovered it had been broken into, they sought the best help available.

Damion, Shelby police department's K-9 member, arrived, was let loose in the school, sniffed a trail and practically led the police to the culprits, not all the way but close enough.

Damion was accompanied by his best friend, Sgt. John Boor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sheriff appeals for help

Sir,

The Huron County Sheriff Department because of the lack of necessary funds is reluctantly appealing to the public, business, professional, and industrial communities for contributions to assist the department in enforcing the drug laws of the State of Ohio.

Our officers have repeatedly been involved in situations where undercover drug operations are in existence but because of lack of funds to make drug buys, our officers hands are tied.

Discussions with the Prosecuting Attorney and the State Examiner's Office has determined that it would be legal to set up a drug enforcement fund in the Huron County Auditor's Office, to be administered by the Huron County Sheriff's Department. All checks would be made out to "Huron County Drug Enforcement Fund" and sent to the Huron County Sheriff Department. Any monies would be deposited in this fund which would be a continuing fund from year to year. The expenditures and operation would be subject to State Audit.

Employees of the Huron County Sheriff Department, as well as all other county empoyees, received no salary increases in 1982 and it looks as though there will be none for 1983 if conditions do not improve. Necessary motor vehicle funds had to be transferred to the department salary account so that layoffs could be averted. Department personnel who have left the department through retirement or other reasons have not been replaced so that present employees could continue to perform their needed services.

We dislike begging, but we feel that if we can control this covert activity that we may be able to save many persons, including children, from future drug-related problems. The last major drug operation resulted in 80 indictments against 35 persons.

Thanking any interested person in advance.

Two local issues on ballot Tuesday

Tuesday's ballot will have only two local issues to be voted upon.

Both involve new taxation.

Plymouth township is asking for .3 mills or three cents for each $100 of evaluation. Plymouth residents will not vote on this issue. Those living in the township outside the corporate limits will vote on it.

It is to run for three years, for 1982, 1983 and 1984.

Proceeds are designated to pay for ambulance service which the township has contracted with the village for a three year period.

Joseph Lasch, township clerk-treasurer, estimates that if the levy is successful, it will bring in about $2,700 a year. That is the sum the township is paying the village for this year. The next two years under the contract escalate slightly.

The village levy is for a

The village levy is for three mills which amounts to thirty cents for each $100 of valuation.

It is to replace the present three mills which expires at the end of this year earmarked for the purchase of a new fire pumper.

'The thinking of the council was that it was really not a fresh tax since it had been in effect for the last five years, merely an extension although it will actually cost taxpayers a small amount more because it will be based on the new valuations of property which were not in effect when the first three mills was approved.

It is specifically designated for "providing additional funds for the operation and maintenance of the fire department, including providing and maintaining fire apparatus, appliance, buildings or sites or to purchase ambulance equipment or to provide ambulance or emergency medical services operated by the fire department.

If approved, the levy will be for a continuing amount of time with no set year or years. It will bring in about $20,000 annually.

One person's reflections on 'neighborliness'

It is that season again.

Spring has finally arrived, and everyone is once again outdoors playing, planting a lawn or garden or kibbutzing over the fence.

The sea sonal increase in contact and our adjustment to our West Demoines neighborhood the past four and one half months have caused me to reflect on some of the relationships and experiences my husband, daughter and I have shared with former and current neighbors.

We have always thought good relationships with our neighbors are important. We try to be supportive in appropriate ways.

Over the years my husband and I have collected mail, watered plans, and snow shoveled walks for those we've lived near. I have shared baked goods and baby sitting with them and invited them to dinner. Chip has helped move furniture and mowed lawns. Neighbors have returned our neighborliness with kindnesses of their own.

Of course there are some memorable occasions to be noted.

The elderly widow who lived next door in California once telephoned Chip at work to say there were unauthorized swimmers in our pool. I never worried too much when we were gone since her kitchen window overlooked our house, and no hired guard could have been more observant.

Another Californian also telephoned Chip at work to say Dolly, our cocker spaniel, had gone into the house via the dog door . . . and so had another dog who had dug a hole under our fence and crawled into the yard.

We arrived in West Demoines the first day of this year and the moving van came on the fourth day. Always will we be grateful to the McCullochs who lent us a snow shovel and a card table and chairs. They also invited our daughter to spend moving-in day to play at their house.

All that is secondary, however, to their being considerate enough to have a daughter just the age of ours.

When our daughter was a toddler, we lived next door to a 13 year old boy whom she idolized. We laughted often at how embarrassing it was for him to be called "B-O" (her pronunciation of Bill), and to be pursued regularly by such a fan. Bill was truly a patient and tolerant teenaged neighbor.

Our daughter has her own perceptions of neighborliness and how to implement it.

I'm sure she felt neighborly as she gave a complimentary haircut to the fellow four-year-old who lived next door.

My first hint came when his mother called to ask if she owed us anything for Sean's haircut (I didn't say all experiences with neighbors are pleasant).

Without question, all of us enjoy the treats and kind favors from our neighbors. The following recipe is terrific. Served with any kind of tortilla chips it is low in calories, easy to prepare and helpful in using a garden's bounty.

What more can be asked of a recipe? I got it from, you guessed it, one of my old neighbors.

Finely chop or dice four medium tomatoes, a half cup of onion, a fourth cup of green pepper, a half cup of celery, and add two tablespoons red wine vinegar, one teaspoon prepared mustard, one teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon parsley, one fourth teaspoon basil and a dash of pepper.

When well chilled, start dipping!

You are asked to vote on a .3 mill levy for ambulance service in Plymouth Township Levy to run for three years.

This is a necessary levy in order to have ambulance service.

Plymouth Township Trustee, Frank C. Fenner, Chester Jones and Mark Fry

Republicans Rex Elsass and John Swartz are vying in next week's 64th Ohio House District primary election for the right to take on Democratic Frank Sawyer, Mansfield's City Council president, in the fall.

Rex Elsass

Elsass, 19, is trying to break Brown's record as the youngest person ever elected to the Ohio General Assembly. He won't be 20 until after the November election. Brown won election when he was 21 and fresh out of Yale university.

Elsass, legislative liaison for state Sen. Paul Pfeifer of Bucyrus and a student at OSU-Mansfield, graduated from Malabar High school last year.

The candidate has been working on campaigns since he was 11 and has aided the efforts of the late Rep. John Ashbrook, Pfeifer, Mansfield Mayor Edward Meehan and 8th Ward Councilman John Thomas.

Elsass was an intern in the mayor's office and put in 2,100 volunteer hours over two years as coordinator of the city's Action Line.

He was a delegate to the state Republican convention and a member of the Reagan Youth Delegation at the 1980 national GOP convention.

During his campaign, he called for a redefinition of basic education and said programs such as driver's education might be nice but should be given a low funding priority, especially in times of tight finances.

Local tax revenue should be pooled at the county level and distributed evenly for each school district, according to Elsass. He advocated a combination of income and property taxes to fund education.

He has pushed for establishment of a "workfare" program in the state, and is a strong proponent of both determinate sentencing and the death penalty.

Street repairs in village considered by councilmen

Repairs to both water towers were seriously considered by village council Monday night during a work session.

James C. Root, village administrator, recommended that the council accept the estimates of $4,995 for work on each tower.

The old tower would be put into working order to serve while the new tower is being renovated and then would serve as a back-up in the future.

Figures prepared by Root for the water department fall within the $14,600 which is available in the water fund for capital improvements.

Root had earmarked $2,000 for new water meters but said he has been able to purchase what is needed so far from the operating and maintenance fund.

Council questioned the $5,000 he had earmarked to find water leaks, and he said that probably was high.

Repairs to the village buildings in New street will amount to $4,000 and shared by the electric, income tax, water and sewer funds.

Capital improvements for the electrical distribution system are set at about $20,000 which will include tree trimming and following the recommendations of John Sauvel, electrical consultant to the village, to upgrade the system.

Street repairs being considered amount to $42,537, most of which will come from the income tax fund if the complete program is approved.

Auditor critical of township

For years Plymouth township passed its periodic audits by the state auditor's office with flying colors.

The last audit just released shows it did not do that this time.

There were no findings for recovery of any money. The problems are procedural.

Examiners found that no public hearing had been advertised nor held for the expenditure of the township's revenue sharing funds during 1981.

They also said that $148 more was spent in 1981 than had been appropriated in the road fund, and that the 1981 budget had not been approved by the three trustees before the deadline of July 15, 1980, and was not delivered to the Richland county budget commission to meet its deadline of July 20, 1980.

They were critical of the fact that the bonds for James Hawk and Larry Tucker, trustees, had not been approved from Jan. 1, 1978 through Dec. 31, 1980.

They also noted that the trustees had not approved the bond of Joseph J. Lasch, the township's longtime clerk, from Jan. 1, 1976 through Dec. 31, 1979.

Artichokes inexpensive, great with Auntie's dips!

By AUNT LIZ

Our favorite daughter-in-law's Mother's day present of two columns could not have come at a better time.

In fact, I think we will put her on the payroll. She is good and her recipes are great.

Be sure to try her dip. We had it one Christmas when we went to share the party deals.

One thing she did leave out and I bet had forgotten was the time Chip was helping a friend plant.

This was not ordinary planting. It was a full grown, 20 foot palm tree.

On of his friends who had a very modest house but a lot of land decided to plant one of everything which grew around Bakersfield.

It was a beautiful idea, but there were five full grown college professors trying to figure out how to get this beast upright and land it in the big hole which had been dug.

And these are the guys teaching in our universities and colleges, and they had no answer.

Actually it was out son who was the last to arrive to figure it out rather simply . . . rent a fork lift which they did for very little, get it upright, and plunk it in the ground.

They made a big party of all these dumb things and had fun.

But now the sadness has begun. The last time he was home he said, "You know, Mom, we have two Christmas card lists because everyone we went to school and worked with are divorced. And because it is getting so costly, they send to a wife one year and the husband the next."

They were such nice young families, all with young children. To me this is heart breaking.

They all had nice homes and were excellent cooks. If anyone has a party, everyone anyone had a party, everyone pitches in and brought something really special.

They were great on dips, and since they were living close to the artichoke center of the nation, they were readily available and considerably cheaper than here.

If there are just four for a dinner or a supper, this can make a nice first course and not break you up too much.

Cook the artichokes in boiling water for about 30 minutes, drain well and chill.

Serve with these dips.

Combine a cup of mayonnaise with two tablespoons lemon juice and mix well.

The second is a cup of mayonnaise mixed with two teaspoons dry mustard and a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce.

This makes a nice variety with very little effort.

Miss Pry to wed

Engagement of their daughter, Gwen, to Charles Doty has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Pry, Shiloh.

Mr. Doty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doty, Meadville, Pa.

He is a graduate of Arizona State university, Tempe, Ariz., in 1976 with a MBA degree.

He is district manager of Therm-O-Disc, Mansfield.

CLEAN UP OHIO LITTERALLY

Since the invention of the printing press, nothing has filled modern man's need for information as objectively and reliably as the newspaper. Whether it's your hometown weekly or a multi-edition daily, nothing else even comes close.

Today, newspapers are covering more of the news, in greater detail, than any other medium can. Did you know that three times as many people read newspapers every day as watch a network news program (137 million vs. 45 million)? Or that newspapers place more advertising than do TV., radio and magazines combined?

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

The Equal Payment Plan.

A convenient way to budget for your electric bill.

Some household expenses are fairly steady throughout the year. But your electric bill varies from month to month because your electric usage fluctuates with the changing seasons. The bill is usually higher in the winter. It dips a little in the spring months, then, for most people, rises during the air conditioning season, before dropping again in the fall.

We can't do anything about the weather, but we can help you smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill. And that's by offering you our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average yearly usage.

Your account is reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. At the end of the twelfth month you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Many of our customers are already taking advantage of the Equal Payment Plan. If it sounds like a good idea to you, simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

Street repairs of $32,675 directed by council

A good sized list of capital improvements for the village was authorized by village council June 8.

James C. Root, village administrator, was told to seek bids where necessary or contract to have the work done.

The largest expenditure will be for street repair. The total amounts to about $32,675, but might be lower because Root gave estimated figures to the council for study.

The following streets are to be done: Brooks court, $9,282; FenFor court, $5,032; Railroad, $2,310; Bell, $4,389; East Mills, $1,628; Wall, $1,766; Mulberry, $1,462, and Willow drive, $6,237.

The only street not slated for repairs, which Root had initially suggested, is Riggs for $9,948. It will be considered later.

The driveway of the fire station will also be done at the cost of $549.

Repairs will be made to the fire station itself for about $6,500.

Both water towers are to be refurbished, each costing just under $5,000.

Repairs will be made to the village buildings in New street. The cost will be shared by the water, electric and sewer funds, with the greatest amount coming from the electric fund in the amount of $1,332. The water fund will pay $332 and the sewer fund $342.

The sum of $2,000 from the electric fund is earmarked for tree trimming.

The park is slated for $1,800 of improvements.

Sewer lagoons will undergo repair and maintenance in the amount of $4,000.

Second reading was given to the ordinance to purchase a new ambulance.

Voting ended in a tie, Councilman Roy Barber and Terry Hopkins in favor and Councilmen John Hedeen and Ronald Predieri voting nay.

It was broken by Councilman G. Thomas Moore, acting as mayor in the absence of Mayor Dean A. Cline.

The council's 30-day period in which to choose a council member to replace Bill Taulbee who resigned May 10 has expired.

Now it is up to Mayor Cline to name the replacement.

The term will end Dec. 31, 1984. Taulbee replaced Ervin Howard, who resigned about six months after being re-elected to a new four-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1981.

Hedeen suggested the clerk invest some of the funds current in the village checking account which are not needed immediately to pay bills, rather than let the money sit in an account which draws no interest, it could produce some on a short term basis.

He said he had checked the legality of his idea with Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, who saw nothing wrong with it.

Mrs. Sidney Ream, clerk-treasurer, did not agree with his idea.

2.4% pay raise for adminstrators approved by school board

A 2.4 pay increase for administrators and non-certificated personnel was approved by Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

The raise is identical with that accorded certificated staff last month.

A veteran teacher retired after more than 30 years of service. She is Mrs. Norman B. McQuown, nee Beulah Dawson, a 1938 alumna of Plymouth High school.

Pregnancy leave was granted Mrs. Phyllis Burgette.

Paul Gase, junior high school guidance counselor, reported to the board that results of the California Test Basic Skills examination give given to second, fourth, sixth and eighth graders show Plymouth pupils exceeded tha national norms at each level.

Fifty per cent of pupils in the eighth grade scored at the fifth, or median, stanion for their total battery of tests.

In the sixth grade, the figure was 62 per cent.

In the fourth grade 70 per cent of the pupils exceeded the fifth stanin.

Among second graders the level was 62 per cent.

Eighth graders exelled in mathematical computation, mathematical concepts and applications and science.

Sixth graders were best at spelling.

Fourth graders showed excellence in mathematical computation, mathematical concepts and applications.

These skills were dominant among second graders.

The findings, Gase said, show that teachers in Plymouth schools excell in imparting mathematical skills.

Kindergarten schedule for 1982-83 will be as it was last year.

After the fourth six week grading period, which ends Mar. 7, kindergarteners wil attend classes all day three days a week. They will report in the morning at the usual hour and be dismissed so they can ride home with the high school pupils.

A supplemental contract to be assistant football coach was approved for John Hart, who earlier had said he did not wish to coach football any longer. His hiring brings to four the number of assistant football coaches.

Routine approvals for contracts to transport a handicapped pupil, to receive educational telecasts of Station WVIZ, to participate in Title I and chapter 2 funds, tc employ Gase as summer maintenance help at $4 an hour and to employ S. Michael Tracey as summer driver education instructor for 18 pupils were accorded.

Whether the General Assembly will take action before month's end on a compromise proposal to fund public schools is problematical, Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board. If the General Assembly fails to act by July 1, Staggs said, state foundation payments during July will be cut by 27 per cent. The proposal now in conference committee and presumably to be laid before the Assembly calls for cuts averaging 5.56 per cent.

Kelley designated 'honorary citizen'

Alvin M. Kelley, North Fairfield, has the distinction of being named the first honorary citizen of Plymouth.

To show its gratitude for the work he did setting up and directing the village income tax, the council by resolution at the June 8 meeting commended him.

After Ord. 8-79 was passed on July 17, 1979, he was appointed as tax director Aug. 7, 1979, at the suggestion of his brother-in-law, Councilman G. Thomas Moore, because of his wide background.

Kelley retired as the director of the Internal Revenue Service, having served from President Harry Truman through the administration of President Richard N. Nixon, from whom he received a letter of commendation for the held he gave the president before Nixon resigned.

The local income tax had a stormy beginning.

The first ordinance passed called for one and a half per cent, which meant those working outside Plymouth not only pay the tax which for the most part was one per cent to that municipality, but another one-half locally.

A petition put the matter up to vote on the November 1979 ballot and was soundly defeated.

The council then pulled in its horns and passed Ord. 21-79 on December 3, 1979, calling for only one per cent.

Kelley devised the forms for collection, set up the files and conducted a village wide survey of those liable for the tax.

The present director, Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, worked closely with him and later was appointed as director.

The resolution follows:

RESOLUTION NO. 7-82
A RESOLUTION PROVIDING HONORARY RECOGNITION OF ALVIN M. KELLEY FOR HIS SERVICE AND CONTRIBUTION TO TAX ADMINISTRATION BASIC TO VILLAGE MANAGEMENT IN PLYMOUTH, OHIO

WHEREAS, Alvin M. Kelley served full time as First Director of Taxation throughout the inaugural phase of our Village Income Tax, and

WHEREAS, he conducted the Village census of liability, developed the administrative system, instituted withholding, and trained his successor, and

WHEREAS, he developed the tax resolutions nd ordinance into an indexed brochure format, which he supplied as a gift to the Village, along with the pilgrim logo designed by his son, Larry, and

WHEREAS, he continues on the Village rolls at $1.00 (one dollar) per year required for legal reasons, as a technical advisor and to assist if needed as an alternate or during peak work-load periods, and

WHEREAS, he has conducted special analyses and forecasts for Village management purposes, and has been a constant Village friend and proponent

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF PLYMOUTH, OHIO, A MAJORITY THERETO CONCURRING:

That ALVIN M. KELLEY be hereby proclaimed an Honorary Citizen of the Village and be so recognized as he visits and works among us.

Accounts of village ordered for audit

William R. Miller, chairman of the village's financial planning commission, designed to take the village out of financial default, has been notified by the office of the state auditor that a village audit will be conducted after the 1983 budget is finalized.

It had been requested that the audit be through May 30. The state office says it will undertake it as of the financial records through June 30.

The annual budget is due July 15 in the Richland county auditor's office. It then is forwarded to the county budget commission for approval.

The commission is planning to dissolve itself after two years. During that period the village's finances have been under the jurisdiction of the Cleveland accounting firm of Ernst & Whinney whose recommendation the council closely followed.

The state funds to pay the firm have almost been exhausted. Some $150,000 was allocated to pay for the financial supervision locally.

Computer failure leads to tardy returns in Huron county

When 30 precincts had been tallied by the Huron county board of election's computer, it all stopped the night of the primary election.

Part of the equipment was found to be defected when tested earlier and a replacement was delivered.

It then broke down.

Election board workers think it might have been due to the fact that not enough air could circulate in the windowless room where the computer is installed.

A part of the Sandusky county computer had to be borrowed from Fremont, and the final count was not ready until early morning June 9.

Huron county will be represented in the next session of the Ohio House of Representatives, but Crawford county will not.

Both the Republican and Democratic nominees are Norwalk residents.

Richard Renck took the Republican race with 2,094 votes.

Mrs. Marian Moyer, Bellevue, who received a surprisingly strong vote in Crawford county, was a fairly close second with 1,958.

Robert Morrison, a Crawford county educator, had 1,931; Paul Capelle, Willard city manager, 1,375, and Mrs. Trina White, Norwalk, 537.

On the Democratic ticket, John Allton, a Norwalk attorney making his first bid for public office, had 2,284.

Veteran politician Gene Slagle, Galion, polled 2,185. Robert Casey, Bucyrus, who received the largest vote in Crawford county of the four candidates, was third with 2,115, Paulette Ritchie, who is serving her first term as mayor of Galion, trailed with 988.

Huron county voters will have a choice of three to elect for county commissioner in the November election.

Walter Wilhelm, North Fairfield, won the Republican nomination in the primary over William Ommert, Norwalk, 1,832 to 1,761.

He will face incumbent and veteran commissioner Maurice Smith, New London, who is seeking his fourth term, and James R. Westerhold, an independent, Norwalk.

A latecomer to political campaigning, and in his first try at partisan office, John F. Swartz came within 386 votes of toppling the machine-backed candidate for 64th Ohio House district.

The veteran Shiloh farmer polled 2,709 ballots, or 46.8 per cent of the vote, in losing to Rex Elsass, the 19-year-old Mansfielder who will face Frank Sawyer, president of Mansfield's council, in November.

Ray Gregory, Republican, will face Paul White, Democrat, in the race for the seat of Richland county commissioner.

Dale Cook, Republican, is not seeking reelection.

This leaves Terry Wolfe, Republican, and Mrs. Joan Thompson, Democrat, as the two remaining commissioners who each have two more years to serve.

Plymouth voters supported White strongly, but Plymouth Republicans threw their support to M. E. Garber who came in fourth of the five running.

Shiloh Republicans favored Richard Gross who received 14 votes.

On the Democratic side they also supported White.

Gas rates up, ColGas says

Columbia Gas of Ohio users living in the unincorporated parts of Richland county may be faced with a rate hike.

The company is requesting the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to allow it to raise its rates.

It contends the present rate is unfair and unjust and is not yielding enough return. I hab been in effect since Feb. 20, 1980.

The customer service charge, which is $3.63, would go to $4.20 for each service connected each month, no matter how little or how much natural gas is consumed.

The rate for each 100 cubic feet would be raised 14.6 per cent for residential users and 14.5 per cent for both commercial and industrial users.

The proposed and present rates, however, are subject to increases or decreases as provided by the "Gas Cost Recovery" provisions of the company, which is required by law to be filed with the PUCO.

Police inventory finally submitted

After months of waiting, the council safety committee received an updated inventory of the police department from Chief David Gibson Monday night.

The committee, Councilmen G. Thomas Moore, Roy Barber and Terry Hopkins, with Mayor Dean A. Cline and Councilman Ronald Prederi, checked it against an older one dated Mar. 21, 1980.

It had been prepared by former Police Chief Robert Seal and given to former Mayor Eric J. Akers.

For the most part the lists were in accord.

Several pieces of equipment listed in 1980 are not in the department now and have perhaps been "borrowed" by the fire department or the utility department.

Moore suggested that any police equipment be clearly marked no matter where it happens to be.

One item, however, is definitely missing and that is a portable AM-FM radio.

Gibson says it apparently was stolen from the department because of an unlocked door.

He also said that he had asked to have the locks changed but had been refused.

Some equipment is not in good working order. The two CB radios can receive but not send, and one cruiser which is still in use has about had its day because of costly repairs.

Some equipment is to be junked as it is unusable and not worth repairing.

Moore suggested it should be destroyed so that no one can accuse anyone of taking any of it for their own use.

Fire levy approved; to produce $20,000

Plymouth's 3 mill fire levy passed hands down in the primary election June 8.

Precinct A, Richland county, passed it 82-40.

Precinct B, Huron county, did slightly beter with 90-35.

The levy which is a continuing one will brgin in about $20,000 annually for the fire department and the ambulance squad which are sharing the tax.

How the money is to be spent and on what will be determined by the village council.

Plymouth township's ambulance levy also passed, 67-42.

It is for .3 mills for a three year period and will bring in about $2,700 annually.

Bulk water sale banned at Shiloh

Shiloh won't sell water in bulk any more, its village council has ruled.

But Landmark will be permitted to continue to buy water at $3 for each 1,000 gallons and to resell it.

Owners of properties that are overgrown with grass and weeds will be notified by mail that unless this is attended to the village will enforce its ordinance and fine the owners.

No action by police in week

Not many police departments can chalk up a perfect week.

Plymouth's department can.

From June 8 through Tuesday, apparently no complaints either by person or telephone were received, no investigations made and no summonses issued.

Auntie's child writes as well, maybe better than mother

By AUNT LIZ

(A number of persons has come to the support of the writer of this column, who for the past six weeks has shouldered double duty.)

We were recently invited to a Fifties party in our neighborhood. Nostalgia continues to be an "in" theme. Our hostess asked that we bring essays on the familiar topic, "What do I want to be when I grow up?" These were to be written anonymously, as if we were 16 years old. The party guests would then guess who belonged to which theme.

I thought a long time about how I would approach this subject when it suddenly occurred to me, "What does it really mean to be grown up?"

My children certainly see me as grown up: there is no task in their eyes that Mom can't do and no item in the world that Mom can't buy. I think I am one of the oldest women on the block so that sure tells me I'm a "grown-up", suburban woman. The PT-A calls me "Mrs.," as do all the solicitors, so I have belived them that I'm considered "established."

Recent events, however, have led me to believe that being grown up is only in the eyes of the beholder.

My mother still introduces me by my maiden name and continues to have difficulty believing that I am a wife and mother, let alone that I can drive a motor vehicle. She still leans in the car whenever Id rive – a holdover, I'm sure, from past years of driving practice on those narrow Celeryville roads. When I told her on the telephone that I had a perm, rather curly at that, her response was, "Oh, you had such beautiful hair!" – her same comment when the local barber removed my braids when I accompanied my brother for a haircut years ago.

I also recently asked my father a question and he responded, "We'll see." I immediately informed him that I knew exactly what that meant. I use that very same phrase on my own children.

It's difficult to forget the holiday when my parents visited us in North Carolina and it took several long distance calls to convince them not to bring the turkey on the plane. We had a friend whose mother wouldn't relent and did arrive with a cooked turkey wrapped in foil in a duffel bag.

Whenever I visit my parents I am always asked to bring a large suitcase. The purpose of this request is so that I have room to take back extra items. These items range from my mother's phenomenal strawberry jam to the bunny fur wrap I wore to the prom. I am not complaining. Our girls feel like princesses wearing it for dress-up. I try to remind myself of these positive aspects as I lug my suitcase through the airport.

I suppose I will behave in similar patterns when our children are "grown-up". At 16 I certainly never would have projected that I'd find myself in this phase of my life.

I was raised to aspire to "set the world on fire," per my father. Instead, I find myself subject to a moderate simmer. Crises do not center around the launching of a NASA flight, but rather finding the special blanket at naptime which is a very necessary companion. Thank goodness thumbs don't get lost!

This recipe is from a potluck supper of last summer. It, unlike our daughter's thumb, has been misplaced.

Combine two beaten eggs, two cans creamed corn (large size), three-fourths cup cornmeal, three-fourths teaspoon garlic salt, one-half teaspoon baking powder, and six tablespoons oil in a large bowl. Mix thoroughly and pour one half into the bottom of a 9 x 11 greased casserole dish. Grate about three-fourths pound of cheddar cheese and mix two four ounce cans diced, green chilis with the cheese. Fingers work best for this task. Layer one half cheese/chili mixture over the corn. Repeat the layers and bake one hour at 350 degrees or until it tests done.

How will league handle dropouts?

A meeting today may determine the pattern of competition in the Firelands conference next fall.

Members of the conference, which includes 10 schools, will discuss what arrangements can be made to take account of the failure of two districts to pass operating levies.

Mapleton Local School district has already announced it will not field fall sports teams.

Black River Local School district has yet to make an announcement, but odds are the Pirates will be forced into the same predicament as the Mounties.

If this occurs, the remaining schools will need to adjust their schedules to make allowance for the nonparticipation by Mapleton and Black River.

In Plymouth's case, for example, both the Mounties and the Pirates are slated to play in Mary Fate park. Loss of gate receipts of these two games would cripple the Big Red program.

At the same time, some new coaching faces will be seen in the league.

Paul Nestor, highly successful mentor at New London for 10 years, has resigned to go to Bishop Ready, a parochial school, near Columbus. He will be replaced by Bob Haseman, his long-time assistant and coach of the Wildcats' eminently successful wrestling squad.

Dick Roll has risen to the head job at Plymouth after several years of apprenticeship under three other coaches. He replaces David Coulter, who was asked to resign.

'78 alumna gets B. S.

A 1978 alumna of Plymouth High school, Corinna Snipes received the bachelor of science in home economics education during the 280th commencement of Ohio State university Friday.

She is the daughter of the James Snipeses, Baseline road, Shiloh.

(Ed. Note: A later photograph of Miss Snipes was submitted but it disappeared. This one is dated 1978.)

Nobody wants party posts

Local committeeman to serve the Republican and Democratic parties is not a popular position, according to the June primary race.

For the most part the incumbents run with no opposition.

Bloominggrove township was the only political subdivision to have any kind of a race. Kenneth Humbert, Noble road, nosed our Forest Peters, Latimer road, 32-31, in the Republican race.

Carl V. Ellis was chosen again to be the Republican committeeman for Plymouth precinct B.

No Huron county Democrat ran. Ivan Hawk last held the position.

In village Precinct A, Mrs. Kenneth Echelberry, a Democrat, was reelected.

There was no Republican running. Former Mayor Eric J. Akers last held it.

In Plymouth township, incumbents William Humphreys, Republican, and Oliver Fairchild, Democrat, were voted into office.

Incumbent Democrats reelected were Charles Bly, Bloominggrove township and Vera Rinehart, Cass Township B.

The Republicans are Mrs. Waldo Pittenger, Cass Township A, and Mrs. Mary Dawson, Cass Township B.

Two collisions, some damage, no injuries

Mrs. William C. Enderby escaped injury June 2 when her Honda was hit broadside by Scott Masters, making a left hand turn into Curly's Drive-In.

She was driving south and had stopped for the traffic light, and when the light turned green she started slowly down the street.

The motorcycle was heavily damaged.

Masters was charged with driving left of center and will appear in the Huron county juvenile court. His car was not damaged.

A car owned by Mrs. Mary Moore, Trux street, but driven by Noah Justice, was damaged in a two car collision June 1 in the parking area of Fisher Big Wheel, Shelby.

The other car driven by Richard J. Lepard, New Washington, was also damaged.

No charges were filed against the drivers because the collision occurred on private property.

Gospel sing set to fund church roof

A gospel sing is being sponsored by the Plymouth church of God June 26 in the Plymouth High school gymnasium from 4 until 8 p. m.

Music will be by the Wilson family, Plymouth, the Freeman family, Sandusky, the Long family, Willard, and the Jointair, Cleveland.

It is to raise funds to provide a cover on the church building in Trux street which was begun last year and not completed.

The pastor, the Rev. T. L. Williams, of the church began the building project which came to a halt when he had to undergo three surgeries for a brain tumor.

Before coming to Plymouth to found the church, he built the Church of God in Willard and the church in London West road near Shelby.

F. B.

In the death of Frank Buurma, Huron county, and particularly that part of it in which he and his family did business, sustained a severe loss.

Much more severe than most of us realize, now or before.

He was a good citizen in every sense of the word. He was a loving husband and a kind but firm father who raised a handsome and vigorous family that was and is a credit to him. He served his church and his community without thought of reward. He had a good business head and he used it in his trade and in trading with others. But he was always fair and, so far as we personally know, honest and charitable in his dealings with others even if it cost him a penny or two. That he always had that penny is an earnest to his dedication to duty and his willingness to go the last mile.

Willard Area hospital, which he served so long and so faithfully in its period of travail, is undertaking a memorial scholarship fund in his name. It is but little enough. We intend to contribute to it and we urge our friends and neighbors to do likewise.

Frank Buurmas are rare. We should not forget them.

To remember

Elsewhere today we report that the period of stewardship exercised by the state over the finances of the village is nearing an end.

It is useful for each of us to remember some important facts about it.

1. Not one penny of state funds ever was spent to bail Plymouth out of its debts.

2. State funds to pay for expert supervision over accounting procedures, amounting to about $154,000, were and are being spent.

3. The supervisory commission, comprising only three persons who are citizen-electors of the village, really did no more than rubber stamp what the accounting firm did to reorganize the finances.

4. The money with which to pay Plymouth's just debts was always there. What happened was that the council could not or would not see its way clear to manipulate those funds to pay the village's just bills.

5. The precipitation of the village into state receivership was as much the result of a fit of pique and a failure to lead as anything else.

6. Some decent citizens were cruelly maligned by the effect of the action.

7. The experience of the village over the past year and a half shows more than ever before how important it is that a sensible, honest, intelligent and cooperative person be assigned as clerk-treasurer.

8. The same experience points up the fact that in these times, municipal corporations run on paper, what's written on paper, how it's written, by whom it's written and to whom it's written. That communication is the key to successful management.

9. None of the actions of the receivership came to grips with Plymouth's real problems: how to encourage the weakening business and commercial community, how to keep the cost of utilities in proper check, how to improve the quality of life in the village by spending its resources wisely and well.

Here comes man's best friend.

Since the invention of the printing press, nothing has filled modern man's need for information as objectively and reliably as the newspaper. Whether it's your hometown weekly or a multi-edition daily, nothing else even comes close.
Today, newspapers are covering more of the news, in greater detail, than any other medium can. Did you know that three times as many people read newspapers every day as watch a network news program (137 million vs. 45 million)? Or that newspapers place more advertising than do T.V., radio and magazines combined?
As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.
Get ahead in your reading— read the newspaper.

Early Yule present

Union gives time to clean plant

Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., got Friday an early Christmas present from its employees.

Members of Local 2161, UAW, donated four and a half hours of free time to police the factory and clean it up.

For their pains, the union members received a placque from Lawrence J. Panzica, internal auditor of Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of PLW.

The gesture by the union, many of its members told The Advertiser, is "really our way of saying nice things about Miles Christian." The veteran industrialist, who came here after World War II to join the Fate-Root-Heath co., recently succeeded to the presidency of PLW that he forsook about three years ago to become president of Banner Energy, Inc., the subsidiary of Banner that is engaged in preparing coal fillings into ingots for burning.

"He kept the company going when that other guy (referring to William Sturman, the departed president) had us going down the tube," one union officer said.

The tight money market and the downturn in the economy have made for a poor sales year for locomotives. Earlier this year Jones & Laughlin, Aliquippa, Pa., postponed construction of three large locomotives. The company is now emphasizing its spare parts supply business, notably for extruding machinery, in which it has long been an industry leader; the new product it introduced last year, a custom-built lift truck called the Route-A-Bout, and stronger service to former customers.

Panzica made one statement that gladdened the hearts of all who heard him: "We're here to stay!"

Katie, two, and Jacob, one, are the children of the C. Michael Folletts, Route 98. Mrs. Paul Roeder is the maternal grandmother.

Brother of villager drowns in Lake Erie

Brother of Reed White, Donald White, 65, North Fairfield, drowned during the storm June 13.

He with two friends, Kenneth Baxter, Willard, and Alfred Statzer, North Fairfield, was fishing off Marblehead in Lake Erie when the storm suddenly began.

The men were headed for their moorings when their craft turned over in the heavy wind.

Baxter and Statzer clung to the overturned boat, but White apparently was thrown farther out in the water and they were unable to reach him.

Another boater, Robert Lucas, Olmstead township, Lorain county, was also headed toward shore when he realized that two men werer in the water. He returned and rescued them and made several attempts to dive for White.

The Coast Guard made an extensive search but was unable to find White.

His body was found Friday morning by commercial fishermen north of the mouth of the Toussaint river northwest of Port Clinton.

White was born in Steuben and had lived in North Fairfield most of his life. He was a truck driver and had retired in 1979 from the Walcher-Green Trucking Co.

He was a member of North Fairfield United Methodist church, Firelands Memorial, Post 706, American Legion, North Fairfield; FOEagles, Willard, and the Retirees Social club, Norwalk.

Food stamp rules altered

Food stamp benefits for many Huron county residents will be reduced, effective July 1.

This is caused by the combined effect of the summer utility standard used as a deduction, which is mandated by state regulations and federal increases in Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits, which also must be used to figure the July budgets for those households affected by this change.

Also, beginning July 1, owing to the increase in food stamp cases, the Huron County Welfare department will vary the mailing to recipients. Instead of mailing all cards at once, the food stamp cards will be mailed in four consecutive days at the beginning of each month.

Shilohan put on probation

A 19-year-old Shilohan was placed on three years of probation in Richland county common pleas court June 14 after being convicted June 3 on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Thomas J. Sutter, 19 Wells road, Shiloh, was convicted of drunken driving in Mansfield Municipal court and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, suspension of his operator's license for one year and to pay a fine of $200. The jail sentence and 11 months of the license suspension were set aside subject to compeltion of the ADAPT school and no similar violations for 18 months.

Complaints about water 'unjustified', Root says

Village water users have been loud in their complaints of paying for Willard water and getting Plymouth well water.

The metered figures show that water users are getting mostly Willard water.

The first bill received from Willard for $13,815.90 was for 19,200,000 gallons during January and February.

The second bill, which is a more accurate usage, was for $15,656.10, which reflects the village used 207,150 gallons a day. Because the village had a semi-annual credit due in the amount of $7,945.25 only $7,710.85 was paid.

This was for March and April.

James C. Root, village administrator, says during the first four months of the year the village pumped 2,000,000 gallons into the system, which normally needs 250,000 gallons a day to supply the needs of the water users.

In order to keep the water plant in working order so that it is available should any emergency arise, it must be used periodically.

Village water was used to fill Mary Fate park swimming pool, which saved a considerable amount of money, and most likely it was during this period that the complaints arose.

It's helpful in emergencies to have 'writing' family

By AUNT LIZ

Writing this column has become a real family affair.

Now I wish we had had more kids, but then we did not own a shoe factory, which was the big deciding point.

If anyone wants to try his hand at one, he is more than welcome.

There is a catch, though. If you want to say something really nasty, disguise it in sugar water so it is not too noticeable.

Some days it really is hard to have kind thoughts about everything.

Always there is some little irksome thing that you would like to blow you top at, yes?

Right now I have two that I consider really major, but then they are kind of offset over my finding a beautiful coupon for the coffee we drink in one of those store boxes where nice people leave them. It was right smack on top in clear sight and I did not even have to hunt for it.

All five of us are home again. Even our house cat, who has been trying to be an outdoor one by sneaking out when I open the door for the morning paper. Her two friends have learned to catch her and hold her down with their large feet until I can grab her.

It is called "salt free diet".

Have your read the labels on the package and canned stuff in your cupboards?

Don't.

Over the years we have simply left salt out of any recipe except for some thing made with chocolate, because I once read that salt should always be added to bring out the flavor, but then it has been a rare occasion that I have used chocolate for anything since there is no one but us to eat tasty fudge bars which are very caloric.

This can almost be a whole meal especially with a long loaf of crusty French bread.

It is a simple beet and spinach salad that can come right out of your garden about now.

You need two hard cooked egg yolks which have gone through a sieve.

Add a fresh yolk, a third of a cup of olive oil and table tablespoons of fresh lemon juice. Beat until creamy. Then season with a fourth of a teaspoon of oregano and some freshly ground pepper (you can always throw in salt).

Have two cups of cut-up chilled celery ready. Add a half cup of chopped walnuts and pour sauce over them. To this cubes of feta cheese should be added, but if it is difficult to find, Swiss can be used just as well.

Wash and clean about a half pound of spinach. Line a bowl with the leaves. Cut the rest in stripe to put in the bottom of the bowl. Pile the celery mixture on top.

Have two cups of cooked, sliced, chilled beets ready. Cirlce them around the edge of the bowl inside the spinach leaves. Cut stripe of cheese to criss cross on top of it all.

It is a pretty dish even though it is not quite Christmas yet.

Bible school 'great success'

Last week's Bible school will be a "hard one to follow", said one mother who also spent the week as a teacher.

Tents representing the 11 tribes of Israel were set up behind St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. Each child was assigned to a tribe regardless of his age. Each tribe did certain crafts and activities.

Only one rain, June 16, when it rained all day, looked like disaster, but somehow the staff kept the children organized and busy in the church's social hall.

Both the Plymouth and Shiloh Fire departments helped to erect and take down the tents and put them back up the night after a heavy wind and rain storm.

Gary Lydy and Gerald McKown and his nephew also helped with the tents.

During the week, a group of children and parents slept in them for safety reasons.

That group included Ronald, Michael, Jeffrey and Matthew Studer, Glenn Welker, Brandon Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Runkle and their twins, Chris and Craig, James and Lee Garber.

One of the highlights of the week was R. Earl McQuate in his turban and costume blowing a ram's horn which had been loaned by Rabbi Gary Lobe, Mansfield.

Pita Miller and Mrs. Albert Marvin helped with the baking.

Teachers for the week were Mrs. Gerald McKown, Mrs. Robert Phillips, Mrs. William Flaherty, Mrs. Eugene Roeder, Mrs. Frank Burks, Mrs. Ronald Krystowski, Mrs. M. A. Vittel, Kathy Martin, Cheryl Garber, Mrs. Jacque Donnenwirth, Mrs. Billy Young and Jean Lydy.

Working with the children on craft projects were Mrs. Richard Paulo, Mrs. Lawrence J. Root, Mrs. Douglas McQuate, Mrs. William Hettinger, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stoodt, Mrs. Roy Barber, Mrs. Clayton Loehn, Judy Long, Deborah Dobney, Sandy Williams, Mary Carol Johantgen, Lori Lewis;

Also, Martha Rath, Agnes Moore, Jeannette Rose, Barbara and Ronald Studer and Sister Mary.

Teachers' helpers were Julie Rose, Mary Kilgore, Mrs. Kenneth Reiderman, Jennifer Rath, Kimberly Burks, Delores Bettac, Debbie Hass, Tracie Williams, Connie Blum, Fran Miller, Rhonda Gullett and Lori Alto.

The week was planned by the host church with Sister Mary Kuhlman in charge.

Murder suspect arrested by FBI at Shiloh house

A murder suspect was arrested in Shiloh Friday.

FBI agents assisted by sheriff's deputies took Eugene Elmer Gody, 47, into custody at about 6 p. m. He did not resist, they said.

Gody is accused of having escaped from a penitentiary in Washington Dec. 31. FBI agents said Gody was using the name of William Edward Milligan.

A warrant for Gody's arrest was issued after an FBI agent in Spokane, Wash., filed a complaint on Feb. 3, charging Gody with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of escape.

The FBI said Gody and Robert Thomas escaped simultaneously from penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash. Gody was serving time for robbery.

The FBI added the two escapees are suspects in the murder of Tommy Lynn Warrington, 22; Baker, Ore., who was found dead in a culvert near Baker in April.

Warrington was last seen alive with Gody and Thomas, the FBI said. Warrington's car was later found abandoned in Illinois.

The FBI learned from non-Ohio sources that Gody was in Ohio. They said he was at the house in Shiloh several days.

Gordon services conducted

Services for Daniel S. Gordon, 33, 16½ East Main street, who died June 19 after collapsing in his apartment, were conducted Tuesday in Phoenix, Ariz. Burial was in the veterans' cemetery there.

Born July 17, 1948, in Springfield, Mo., he spent most of his life in Phoenix. He was employed as a traveling auto parts salesman.

A veteran of the Vietnam engagement, he is survived by a son, Zachariah, and his mother, Mrs. Jean Gordon, Phoenix.

Death of Daniel S. Gordon, 33, who shared an apartment over Weber's cafe, where he was found unconscious on June 19, resulted in a quandary for Richland county authorities.

They couldn't find a next of kin. Dr. Milton Oakes, county coroner, performed an autopsy, results of which are so far undisclosed. Gordon died June 20 in Mansfield General hospital, whence he was taken by ambulance after preliminary treatment at Willard.

Gordon's mother, Edna Jean Gordon, was found in Phoenix, Ariz. She was located by Darla Perry and Debbie Sampson, who made perhaps 35 long distance telephone calls to find her.

Gordon was an honorably discharged veteran of the Vietnam action.

Echelberry drops bomb on council, seeks $30,340

A small bomb was tossed at village council at its June 22 meeting by Kenneth Echelberry, head of the Plymouth ambulance squad.

He wrote this letter:

Att.: Mayor and Plymouth Village Council:
Dear Sirs:

As billing clerk f the Plymouth ambulance service, I wish to inform you that the Village of Plymouth has not paid their one half (½) share of the yearly total bill of operation of the Ambulance Service for the first eight years of operation, starting January 1, 1973-December 31, 1980.

The first payment received by the Plymouth Ambulance Service was in 1981. This payment of $5,424.30 was authorized by the Financial Planning and Supervision Commission for the Village, on the advice of Chris Landers, accountant with the firm of Ernst and Whinney, to comply with the agreement between the Village of Plymouth and New Haven and Plymouth township. The records will show starting in 1973, the total amount due was $18,000.00 plus interest (average) 8% per year. The interest, $1,400.00 multiplied by eight years makes a total of $11,840.00. Added to the amount due the total owned the Plymouth Ambulance Service will be $30,340.00.

Sincerely,
Kenneth Echelberry

The ambulance has not been self-supporting, but previously a council agreed to st aside the payments from New Haven and Plymouth township of their share of the annual costs in a reserve fund for the future purchase of a new vehicle, and the village footed the costs of maintaining the squad from payments received for calls and from the general fund.

Medallion was presented to Charles F. Hanline, right, by Dr. Clive W. Donoho, Jr., at Wooster. It recognizes significant contributions to Ohio agriculture.

Hanline given special award for farm work

A local resident was among a select number of Ohioans recognized by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center during Centennial Showcase, a four-day celebration of the institution's 100th anniversary.

Approval of state controllers needed to buy ambulance

The fact that the village council cannot make any financial decisions on its own came to light Friday.

For two years, the council did not realize this.

Councilman John Hedeen had called a meeting of the finance committee to determine how the purchase of the new ambulance is to be accomplished.

The committee was aware that $11,500 had to be borrowed to cover the cost of the new ambulance, which is $34,940.

The ambulance fund has $14,400 for capital improvements, which is to be used. In spite of Hedeen's misgivings, federal revenue sharing money for 1982 in the amount of $9,100 will be used. He has said he thinks the money should be saved for other purposes and the new three mill levy for both fire and ambulance funds can be used for future repayments on any sum borrowed.

Neither Councilman Terry Hopkins, who is also a member of both departments; nor Kenneth Echelberry, head of the ambulance, liked the idea of using all the money generated by the new levy solely for the purchase of the new vehicle.

During the discussion of how long any borrowing will be for, which will be at 10.25 per cent interest from First Buckeye Bank, N.A., the clerk-treasurer, Mrs. Sidney Ream, left the meeting to call Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants who were appointed by the state auditor's office to oversee the village finances. She was not able to answer any questions without conferring with the auditors.

Later the firm called Hedeen for a lengthy conversation.

Both were told that nothing can be done on arrangements to borrow and spend the money until it is approved by the state-appointed financial planning commission.

For two years since it has been in effect, it has simply "rubber-stamped" any suggestion made by the accountants, which the council also did when it turn came around.

It also came to light, of which the clerk-treasurer was not aware, that no federal revenue sharing money can be spent without a public hearing.

The hearing will be combined with the annual budget hearing.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said he thinks a telephone call to each member of the financial planning commission would solve the situation, rather than trying to plan a meeting of the members, two of which represent the state and would have to come from Columbus, plus the accountants coming from Cleveland.

What the committee will seek approval of is to borrow the money for about four years and map out explicitly how it is to be repaid.

Meanwhile, this delays the delivery of the new ambulance, which Echelberry had hoped would be here this week so that the new radios, which will reach both Shelby Memorial and Willard Area hospitals, can be installed.

Another piece of legislation will also be required, amending the 1982 appropriations to reflect the sum borrowed.

Pebbles put in compressor at Shiloh

Damage of about $1,000 was reported to Richland county sheriff's deputies Thursday after a compressor at Hall'd Body shop, 5 East Main street, Shiloh, was found to have pebbles placed inside it.

Ambulance vote 5-0

During the voting on the third reading of an ordinance to purchase a new ambulance June 22, village council passed it unanimously.

Councilman John Hedeen and Ronald Predieri changed their voting pattern from the first two readings to approve it.

Hedeen said he had been waiting to see the outcome of the three mill fire and ambulance levy and that since it had been approved, he feels the residents of the village are interested in upgrading the present service.

It was announced the planning commission hoped to have the completed zoning ordinance ready for the council to study by Aug. 3.

James C. Root, village administrator, told the council that work would begin shortly on repairing the old water so it may be used when the new one is being refurbished. The repairs will be temporary until winter when more work will be done on it so that it is completely usable.

The costs are broken down into two parts of $4,995 for the work on both towers, which eliminates advertising for bids, since it is under the state ceiling of $5,000. Root thinks that actual costs will even be lower.

He also said that Plymouth has joined the other municipalities that purchase power wholesale from Ohio Power Co. to fight the proposed rate increase of about 12 per cent.

Planners set meeting here Tuesday

Village planning commission will meet Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the village hall to review a draft zoning ordinance with the regional planning commission.

Child born to Smiths

What July 4th was like in past —

Anvil clanging at midnight marked July 4th in 1876

Uncle Sam was a hundred years old last Tuesday, and Plymouth meant that all the country for miles around should be reminded of it. The preparations that had been made for weeks previous led every one to expect something more than usual.

At 12 o'clock the day began, or at least sleep ended for a large part of our citizens. A number of enterprising boys, with a couple of anvils, fired several salutes that woke the echoes and the people. The church bells took up the refrain, and the whistle of several shops joined in the chorus. Altogether they made the welkin ring. At day-light the light artillery — fire-crackers by the thousand—began to be heard and every juvenile seemed to have received a double allowance of "fourth" money, and had invested the whole in noise.

At rather an early hour, 7 o'clock, quite a number of patriotic and devoted citizens met at the Lutheran Church to publicly return thanks to God for having so abundantly blessed our country and pray for continued blessings in the years to come.

During the hours of the forenoon people began to pour into town from every direction, attired in holiday dress, but the rain which came up about 10 o'clock made most everyone look a little solemn. The exercises of the day, announced to begin at 10 o'clock, on account of the rain had to be deferred until 1 o'clock, and took place on the Public Square instead of the fair grounds. The hours were enlivened by the fife and drum parading through the town, strongly reminded one of '61, when they meant war in the land. The cannon, cast especially for the occasion by our founders, Kroenke & Co., was irrepressible, or rather the gun squad was not much afraid of the rain. Salutes were fired at intervals during the day, which, together with the other noises, made the ladies and the nervous, timid people feel glad that "Centennial Fourths" came only once in a century.

After dinner the sun came out bright and those who stood on the square to listen to the addresses avow that the sun sent down his rays by the "short line". It was hot, awful hot.

The speakers escorted by the bands marched to the stage. The president of the day, attired in a suit of the days of '76, after an introductory address, announced "The first prayer offered in Congress, December, 1777" to be read by Rev. Graham, which was then followed by the opening prayer of the day, offered by Rev. Stough.

Dr. R. Bevier, in a manner alike creditable to himself, and satisfactory to his hearers, read the Declaration of Independence. The historians of the day, Messrs. W. W. Drennan and A. York, presented a great number of facts of interest to the people, and being among the oldest settlers could draw largely from personal recollection.

Dr. Tucker recited an original poem appropriate to the occasion, which, to the regret of a great many, could not be heard far from the stand on account of the confusion.

Procession was then formed and a great crowd marched to the fair grounds to witness the Hook and Ladder running. But one company, the "Centennials" od DeKalb, was 'present, so that no contest could take place. After the preliminaries were arranged they took their places and made the quickest run on record, or at least the quickest we have seen recorded. The distance was forty rods, the time 33½ seconds, beating even the remarkable run made by the Leiters of Shelby, last fall at the Plymouth Fair, by one fourth of a second. If any of you know of any thing better send it on.

In the evening a large crowd collected on the public square to witness the fire works. From some reason or other probably owing to the damp weather in the early part of the day having affected them, they were not quite up to the expectation of the people. But it may be that we expected too much.

So ended the "Fourth" in Plymouth. It began early and ended late, and everybody was pretty well tired out when evening came. Some things were creditable, some were a disgrace. The decorations over town showed the patriotic spirit of our people, if flags are to be taken as any index of patriotism, for scarcely a house but had its flags and banners.

The "Fantastics" might have been and would have been as much appreciated as a relief from more staid and sober things had they waited until the speaking on the stand had closed. But we must make allowance for the heat &c, for "boys will be boys."

Sidewalk repair offered

Homeowners who wish to have their sidewalks replaced may call James C. Root, village administrator.

Village council gave its approval June 22 to his plan to do the work on a "first come, first served" basis as long as help is available.

He explained that the changes in welfare regulations requiring recipients to work have made six persons available from both Huron and Richland counties. He said since the labor is available, the village can do this to help residents.

The labor will be furnished, but the property owner will pay for the materials.

Enjoy, enjoy, enjoy tomatoes: tomorrow they may be flour

By AUNT LIZ

Enjoy those luscious red tomatoes while you can.

They might become a luxurious rarity.

A researcher at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development center in Wooster has discovered that the seeds which are waste materials during processing for this and that like tomato juice can be ground into flour.

He has found that the protein from the seed is of an excellent quality and is actually higher by 13 per cent in lysine, 42 per cent in arginine and 49 per cent in threonine than the protein found in soy flour.

Granted most of us who gaily eat bread simply do not think of what is really in it. Mostly what is on top of it.

Nutrition-wise, this is important for feeding a lot of hungry people instead of throwing it all away as waste, which is an expense to the growers and canners.

The catch is to find a really simple way to get the seeds separated from everything else, which they are working on and probably staying up nights about it, all while munching on a bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich.

Another researcher has found that it is easier somehow to get the seeds separated from green tomatoes.

This could lead to all tomatoes being picked green and never allowed to really ripen.

These experiments are for real. Those men have already made a tasty nut bread from tomato seed flour. Next time the research station has an open house, be sure to go. They might serve it.

Since tomato season is about here, don't miss the boat by not using some that are green. It is an investment in the future, and come the holidays, you are ready.

This is about five generations old and has been used for hundreds of green tomato mincemeat pies. It makes about 10 pints.

Start with a peck, put them through a food processor or a hand-turned food grinder with the finest attachment. Drain off any juice.

Just barely cover them with cold water and let them stay that way overnight, drain again when you get up in the morning. (It really doesn't matter what time you get up, but a recipe this old most likely got started about sunrise.)

In a large kettle, mix it with four pounds of dark brown sugar, two pounds of raisins, two tablespoons of salt, a cup each of cider vinegar and suet which is very, very finely ground, and two tablespoons each of cinnamon and nutmeg.

Cook over low heat for a couple of hours, stirring now and then, until it is thick.

If you want, about half way through the cooking, throw in some chopped apples, which I think belong in mincemeat.

Pour into jars and seal.

When you are ready to use it, a little flavoring like a bit of rum or brandy may be added.

This may not be the real thing, but is just as tasty. Most of us simply buy jars or packages of it, which really are not the real thing either.

If you are lucky enough to know a church whose women make it as a project, be the first in line.

Since the invention of the printing press, nothing has filled modern man's need for information as objectively and reliably as the newspaper. Whether it's your hometown weekly or a multi-edition daily, nothing else even comes close.
Today, newspapers are covering more of the news, in greater detail, than any other medium can. Did you know that three times as many people read newspapers every day as watch a network news program (137 million vs. 45 million)? Or that newspapers place more advertising than do T.V., radio and magazines combined?

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

What a pity? Public input on budget not offered

Despite adequate public notice, it's safe to say that no citizen-elector of the village, save for the mayor and some councilmen and a reporter turned out for Tuesday's session in the village hall when open discussion was had on the proposed budget and how revenue sharing payments should be spent.

Even if there were objections, however valid, it's unlikely that any changes would have been made in the budget, which is due in the county auditor's office on the 15th of the month.

Perhaps it's as well.

For one thing, a budget is just that: a proposal to earmark certain funds for certan purposes if the funds become available.

Those who prepare the budget have, of course, the certificate of anticipated revenues prepared by the county auditor to go by. We've said before, many times, that it's hardly a valid foundation to rely upon.

Who can tell who's going to die in the next year? And how much he'll leave? Yet year after year, a fixed figure is written into the certificate of anticipated expenditures to reflect anticipated revenues from estate taxes.

The same is true in relation to revenues of the mayor's court. How can we tell a whole year in advance how many arrests the police will make in the forthcoming 12 months? Or how many will be convicted in the mayor's court? It's one thing to make a charge for a traffic offense and try it in the local court and quite another thing if the accused pleads not guilty, in which case the trial is conducted in another court and the court costs accrue to it.

Let's say the projected revenue of the mayor's court is put down at $10,000. Do we expect that after, say, seven months, with only $3,000 collected in fines and costs, the police will go out and arbitrarily make arrests so that the $10,000 "quota" is reached? We hope not!

By the same token, given the precarious employment situation both in the village and outside of it, to set down any figure for anticipated income revenue that will be realistic is all but impossible.

It is the intention of the village council to spend revenue sharing on a new ambulance. What's coming in revenue sharing money won't be enough to pay the bill so the village will borrow some funds. Approval of the financial planning commission is a foregone conclusion.

What plagues us is that no plan has been made to dispose of the present ambulance. When the time was ripe to engage in public discussion of the whole question of whether a new ambulance is necessary, we weren't available to engage in it. Now it's too late. But it's not too late to ask how the new vehicle will be equipped, and what funds will be used to pay for it.

It'd be nice to have a different ambulance, fully equipped, for every day of the week. But we can't afford that. We can barely afford what we've got.

These are only a few of our reservations about the budget. Budgets are meant to be violated. What counts is the appropriation ordinance, due at the first meeting of 1983. No municipal department can spend money that isn't appropriated.

GenTelCo to ask for higher rates for local service

Higher telephone rates are in the offing if an application by General Telephone Co. of Ohio to be filed Oct. 1 is approved.

The request would raise basic residential rates about 12 cents a day.

Robert R. Randall, Marion, vice-president-general manager, said $32.5 million will be sought, amounting to a 9.4 per cent boost in annual revenues. Taxes would take about half the amount granted.

He said major thrusts of the case call for changing methods of depreciating equipment and shifting more of the costs to the cost causers.

The company serves about 573,000 customers through 244 exchanges in 80 counties.

Rates in Plymouth exchange would rise by $2.85 a month for a one party residential line, $2.70 a month for a two party line, $2.55 a month for a four-party line and $8.10 a month for a business line.

Randall said the request will seek changes that take usage of services into account. Customers not using certain services, or using them very little, would not continue to subsidize others who do.

The company will ask approval to establish usage-sensitive service on a local basis, initially at the Huron exchange (Erie county) in 1983.

The proposal will call for a basic line access charge, about 40 percent lower than the regular monthly flat rate, plus a charge per call. This charge would be sensitive to duration, distance and time of day.

If approved, the usage-sensitive method would be implemented statewide over the next couple of decades, Randall said. Equipment would be installed on an exchange by exchange basis.

"Customers would have more control over their monthly phone bill this way," said Randall. "They would pay for service according to usage – the same as for water, natural gas and electricity."

The application also will seek to raise local coin telephone calls from 20 cents to 25 cents.

'82 alumna to enroll at Ashland

Lori Baldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Baldridge, Plymouth route 1, has been accepted and plans to attend Ashland college this fall. She is a graduate of Plymouth High school.

Danbury Red foe on Nov. 5

Football fans can breathe a sigh of relief.

When Mapleton Local School district's fresh operating levy failed at the polls, its board of education was forced to make cuts. What did it cut? The autumn athletic program, for one. (And it might cut the winter one, too, if the resubmitted levy fails in November).

Mapleton went to the Firelands conference and asked to be excused from competing in football and volleyball for this season only.

This left Plymouth with an opening in its home schedule, reenue from which is important to the athletic program.

Despite the lack of success lately against Danbury, the Tigers have been scheduled to come here Nov. 5 to replace Mapleton. Game time will be 7:30 p. m.

St. Paul's High school has notified Athletic Director Sam Cook of a conflict in use of the Norwalk Junior High school gymnasium for the February basketball game. It will be scheduled on another date.

Cost rises on calls via United

Higher rates for subscribers and users of United Telephone Co. of Ohio services were approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio June 23.

The new rate schedule takes effect from July 1.

Pay telephone rates will be increased from 20 to 25 cents.

Telephone services to subscribers will be charged in proportion to the company's costs to perform them.

The rate will be $24 an hour. Customers can reduce their expense by performing indoor work themselves.

Service rates will increase about $2 a month.

New nursing director on job

Susan McConn is the new director of nursing of Willard Area hospital. Her predecessor resigned.

A resident of Clyde, she has served as head nurse of Jewish hospital, Cincinnati.

Jamie Ray, 18 months, is the son of Burns Brown, Ashland, and of Mrs. Josie Fenner Brown, 106 Sandusky street.

All about town . . .

Harold V. Ruckman, Lake Wales, Fla., is visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie, Shelby, were Monday dinner guests of his daughter and son-in-law, the John Hedeens.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne H. Strine returned Sunday night from Atlanta, Ga., where they attended the Lions International convention. He is a member of the local club and is the first to attend this annual convention.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Van Wagner drove to Fredericktown Sunday for the reunion of the Sheriff family, which is Mrs. Van Wagner's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Morrow, Columbus, spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ford.

Harold V. Ruckman celebrated his 90th anniversary, which occurred apr. 24, at a family picnic in Mary Fate park Monday.

Will PUCO approve EAS to Willard?

Will the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio accept the recommendation of its examiner to establish extended area telephone service between the Plymouth and Willard exchanges?

General Telephone Co. of Ohio has a 20-day period in which to file a demurrer to the recommendation of Paul Duffy, examiner, who conducted hearings here Jan. 14.

Duffy wrote the PUCO, "The record indicates that a strong community of interest exists between the exchanges, thereby justifying the requested service." He wrote this on June 26.

He cited these factors:

1. Calling rate from Plymouth to Willard is 6.8 calls a customer a month.

2. Distribution of calling was 95.5 per cent of Plymouth customers to Willard.

3. Plymouth subscribers rely on many services, products and activities in the Willard exchange.

4. Cost of establishing the service is justified.

5. Most Plyouth subscribers are willing to pay for the service, which will cost about 30 cents a month more. Willard subscribers will not pay an additional charge.

GTE contest the investment of over $100,000 in equipment and annual charges of $36,340 would be necessary to fund the move.

GTE also argues that not every Plymouth customer favors the proposal. Two per cent of the 700 subscribers canvassed in Plymouth said they don't want the service and 28 per cent was not canvassed.

If GTE files a demurrer, petitioners, led by Supt. Douglas Staggs, have 15 additional days in which to respond. Deadline for GTE to demur is thus July 16. If it files the demurrer, petitioners must file their response by Aug. 1.

Finance planners dispersed

William R. Miller, chairman of the Financial Planning commission of the village, is attempting this week to reach the other six members of the commission to gain approval of the borrowing plan of the village council's finance committee for purchase of a new ambulance.

Approval by the council to buy it was made June 25.

The finance committee then met June 28 and discovered it was against a stone wall because it could not make a firm financial decision without the approval of the commission.

The delay in delivery of the new ambulance most likely could have been averted had the clerk-treasurer, Mrs. Sidney Ream, been able to tell the finance committee that it was powerless to make any borrowing of money commitments before it met to finalize its plans for payment of the ambulance.

The lack of communication is causing a short delay, but Miller is confident that the commission will approve the finance committee's plan.

Because of the holiday last weekend, he was unable to reach the other members.

Does Gibson plan to quit?

Police Chief David Gibson apparently plans to resign, but at press time his formal resignation has not been put in writing to Mayor Dean A. Cline.

Gibson is currently on vacation, and Sergt. Frank Hodge is in charge during his absence.

No reason has been given by any village officials as to why Gibson is considering resigning. Rumor has it that he may return to his former employer, Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., but it has not been confirmed.

Gibson was appointed by Mayor Eric J. Akers in April, 1980, after he fired former Police Chief W. Robert Seel, who had taken a 21-day leae beginning Mar. 24.

Seel was not popular with several council members including Ervin and David Howard, who had opposed his appointment when former Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock proposed his name.

He became more unpopular with Akers when he gave an interview to a daily newspaper in which he was quoted as saying that the two car collision Mar. 8 in West Broadway which claimed the lives of two teenagers could have been avoided had not the mayor cut back the patrol hours of the police department, which left no patrolman or cruiser on duty that Saturday night.

Housecleaning can be a ball if you've got old magazines!

By AUNT LIZ

Perhaps we clean house a little differently than good house wives do.

Eventually some closets and drawers will get their turn, but this is more fun.

Clean and read. It is a joy.

Like everyone else, and if there is someone who has not done this over the years, that person is a real odd ball, I saved stuff which I considered simply too nice and interesting to throw out.

So far I have cleaned some out and found happy homes for it, but my present project would never find even a mean home.

It is a collection of old magazines devoted to food, and 30-some years in our dampish basement has done them in, but with my happy allergy, it has not really bothered me too much to sit down and reread them and rip out some lovely recipes.

What has amazed me is what people ate back in the late 50's and early 60's.

Granted that this magazine was not exactly written for the housewife who opens a can of baked beans, flavors them with this and that, and stashes them in the oven, which just happens to be one of my most favorite dinners.

Back then things were in reazon like shrimp, lobster, veal, lamb and crabs. Perhaps not for everyday, but for something special. Now you cannot even find them except on ocasions.

Just about everything had real cream, the thick kind like we would get from a friend who had a really nice cow. You had to use a spoon to scoop it out.

This magazine took no short cuts, which are there for about everything. Each recipe did everything the hard way and used about every pan in a kitchen and hours to complete. None of this 20-minute complete meal stuff.

Another little thing I realized was that if they did have a really simple recipe, they simply gave it an unpronounceable French or German name.

I found one that really sounded good and tasty. Then something happened.

It seemed that I had made this before in a different way. I had for years. It was nothing but a simple cream puff recipe.

What I did not know was that instead of baking them and stuffing them with something for a dessert or to munch on before dinner, you could deep fry them.

This could make you the most popular mother or grandmother in the neighborhood.

Mix them, drop them into deep oil and cook until they look done, drain them on brown paper and immediately shake them in a bag of powdered sugar.

If you just drop spoonfuls, you will get little balls, but you can shape them a little into strips and even cut like a doughnut.

Then they become French crullers. Add a little flavoring, whatever you want, at the beginning of the recipe when you add the flour to the water and butter mixture.

These have also disappeared from bakery counters for some reason.

I also found another recipe that I could not resist having but so far have not tried it, mostly because no meat counter I know of has it.

It is for alligator roasts, which you soak in a little wine for a while. My first thought was that even California would not have that much wine.

If you can ever find the makings of this, you can also get shoes, pocketbooks and all sorts of little things from the skin, so it is rather practical, providing you really need a new pair of shoes.

State's fiscal pinch pressing —

Red ink foreseen in schools' '83 budget

The fiscal pinch, brought about in part by straitened state finances, is beginning to squeeze Plymouth schools.

Plymouth Board of Education approved the 1983 budget Monday night. It calls for red ink of $153,952 in the general fund, with estimated expenditures and beginning balance of $2,131,520 and expenditures of $2,285,472.

All other funds are in black ink save the lunch room fund, which shows a deficit of $683.

Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board the state has cut basic aid by four per cent and categorical aid, such as payments for special education, transportation and other purposes, by 7.86 per cent. Additionally, it has adopted a posture of paying only 40 per cent of a school district's allocation of funds in the first six months. Staggs said the district is losing $63,291 from what was earmarked in the biennium budget. Coupled with what was withheld last year, loss to the district over two fiscal years is "over $100,000", he said.

Outstanding indebtedness of the district as of Jan. 1, 1983, will be $1,210,000, of which $80,000 will be settled during the year. Interest due will be $69,800.

Save for the bond retirement fund, the board intends to spend every penny available to it to hold the line and maintain the present level of instruction.

Two vacancies remain. One is a learning disabilities teacher, the other a business education teacher.

Mrs. Molly Gatoff resigned as girls' junior high basketball coach.

Mmes. Thomas Dawson, fifth grade teacher, and Paul McClintock were accorded maternity leave. Mrs. Dawson's leave is for the entire school year. Mrs. McClintock intends to work until her confinement, anticipated to be in December.

Goals of the district for 1983 were approved as submitted by Staggs.

Mostly they are a rechsting of previous aims.

These include:

1. Continue to work on community involvement.

2. Development of CPR instruction. All coaches and extra curricular assignees should be qualified. A six hour course in first aid will be accomplished during the in-service day in the fall. Additional training will be organized so that each employee, whether certificated or otherwise, will be qualified to administer CPR.

3. Development of an attendance policy in the high school. The dropout rate is "fairly decent", Staggs said. Elementary school attendance rate was 96 per cent, an improvement, Staggs said. High school rate was only 91 per cent two points below the county average.

4. Study and evaluate the grading system for grades one through eight.

5. Examine the health program in grades kindergarten through nine.

6. Coordinate a school bus discipline program.

7. Continue to expand the program for the talented and gifted.

8. Examine and evaluate the board's official policies.

9. Continue positive efforts to improve staff relations, energizing of buildings and to remain solvent.

Owing to poor economic conditions, the board will not tamper with the fee schedule save to increase the driver education fee by $3 to $23. Total cost to the district for each pupil is $73, paid to an Elyria firm. The state will contribute $50 a pupil.

Approval was given to Staggs, Robert Wagner, Edward M. Kinsel and Keith Johnson to purchase surplus property from the state agency.

Routine renewal was accorded to agreements with the Richland county office to furnish specialized assistance, to continue the DPPF program, by which the guidance counselor at Shiloh is partially funded, and the employees' liability insurance coverage.

'83 budget given approval; chief decision due July 21

Mayor Dean A. Cline's budget was promptly accepted by village council Tuesday night.

Some of the councilmen were present Monday night when he presented it at a public hearing attended by two outsiders, both newspaper reporters.

The mayor pointed out that no income tax money is listed, although it is expected that $96,000 will be collected in 1983. He explained that it was divided and accounted for in various funds, which the council had previously approved. Fifty per cent for improvements and the remainder for the general fund.

He also said that, upon recommendation of the Cleveland accountants, that the water and electrical reserve funds are dropped, which will make record keeping easier.

No suggestion was made, however, to rescind the ordinances that created both funds.

Petitions were presented urging the appointment of Frank Hodge as police chief.

One mother, Mrs. Thelma Hall, said she feels a local police department is needed in the village.

The mayor said later the village completely had 24 hour protection.

Although they did not have the formality of being signed by the carrier, the council in one voice said it was pleased that so many citizens were taking an active part in the village's problem of finding a new chief.

The mayor said the final decision of naming a new chief will definitely be made July 21. He agreed with the council's opinion and said it was "admirable people signed the petitions".

Councilman John Hedeen suggested the name of Keith Hebble to fill the vacant council seat when the mayor asked for suggestions. No action was forthcoming, and the appointment put off.

Hedeen said no one had objected during the July 6 hearing of the budget and expenditure of the revenue sharing funds. This, he said, made it possible to use the 1982 sum of $9,100 for the purchase of the new ambulance.

Because the financial planning commission has not given its approval to the borrowing plan for the purchase of the vehicle, it is in limbo.

Hedeen said Ernst and Whinney, the Cleveland accountants who are managing the village's finances under the state mandated financial emergency, have said there is a good possibility that money for the ambulance is available without borrowing from a bank.

Somehow a sum of about $10,000 is appearing from nowhere, which the council apparently was not aware existed.

Hedeen and James C. Root, village administrator, told the council the communities that united to fight the proposed Ohio Power rate increase had come to an agreement with the company that an increase of seven per cent in August would be put into effect, and an additional two per cent next year.

This is almost half of what the company had asked for in the beginning.

Its first proposal was for a 13.6 per cent increase.

The two highly recommended the council approve the proposal and said it would be cheaper in the long run, rather than ending in a costly and time-consuming legal struggle.

The proposal is for two years, which is a goodly amount of time, they said.

Most likely it will be presented to the council at the next meeting.

Councilman Ronald Predieri and the mayor hope to arrange a meeting with officials of the B&O railroad concerning the repair of the West Broadway bridge, which has been hanging fire for years.

Because the clerk was absent, although she had not notified the mayor she would not be present, and he said he heard it in a "round-about way", minutes were taken by Councilman Terry Hopkins.

Hopkins may possibly be doing this for the next nine months.

The money is to be spent on street repair.

Shilohans give to 'Jaws of Life'

A donation to the Jaws of Life of the Plymouth Fire department has been received from Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hauiston, Jr., Shiloh.

A fire had started in a chimney and damage was minor.

Radios stolen at Shiloh

Citizens' band radios taken from Shiloh schools July 7 were recovered that day at 69 South Walnut street, Mansfield, by Richland county sheriff's deputies.

An 18-year-old suspect has been arrested.

Accused kidnapper attempts suicide

A 19-year-old Willard man held in Huron county jail on a charge of felonious assault June 27 of an 18-year-old Plymouth girl at Wright Way Inn, New Haven, sought to hang himself Friday night.

Allen D. Stover was taken to Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital, Norwalk, and later to Toledo Mental Health center.

Stover is also indicted for damaging the police vehicle in which he was conveyed to the jail.

His victim was identified as Sherri Nester, Brooks court.

Mrs. Stroup, 70, ex-teacher, dies at Shelby

An alumna of Shiloh High school and sister of its former mayor, Mrs. Ross Stroup, 70, Shelby, a retired teacher, died Sunday in Mansfield General hospital.

She was ill a month.

Born Greta Russell in Shiloh Jan. 6, 1912, she lived in Shelby 42 years.

She was an alumna of Ashland college.

She retired in 1974 after 16 years on the staff of Dowds Elementary school at Shelby.

She was a member of First Lutheran church at Shelby, a 50-year and past matron of Angelus Chapter 322, OES, at Shiloh, of the Past Matrons club, Shiloh, and of the Retired Teachers' association and the Shelby AARP.

Her husband died in 1965. A sister, Donna, then Mrs. Roscoe Hamman, died in 1966.

She is survived by a son, Gary, Tiffin; two brothers, Leo, Shiloh, and Harold, Rotonda West, Fla., and two grandchildren.

Her pastor, the Rev. Dr. James Lumadue, will conduct services at Shelby today at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery there.

One bidder on streets, gets job

Abel Materials, Inc., was the only bidder for street repairs Monday when the bids were due in the village office.

Its bid was $36 less than what James C. Root, village administrator, had estimated for the resurfacing of eight streets and the entrance to the fire department. The total cost is $32,639.

Work will begin in several weeks.

Streets to be resurfaced are Brooks court, Fen-Forquer court, Railroad, Bell, Wall, East Mill, Mulberry and Willow drive.

Indicted

An indictment for trafficking in narcotics was returned by a Richland county grand jury against Jerome Greathouse, North street.

Justice put on probation

Randy Justice, Riggs street, pleaded no contest in Willard mayor's court to a charge of disorderly conduct and intoxication. He was fined $50, which was suspended, and given a year's probation.

Gibson quits; rumors rife on successor

Finally it is official.

Police Chief David Gibson has resigned.

His written resignation was received by Mayor Dean A. Cline July 6 and members of the council were informed when they gathered for a budget hearing.

Gibson returned to work at Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Rumor has it that a petition is being circulated in the village to name Frank Hodge chief. Another rumor is that another member of the department has applied for the position. A third rumor is that the village may seek to replace the police department with sheriff's deputies, whether from Huron or Richland counties.

New building permits issued

Two building permits have been issued in the village so far this year.

One is for a church in Trux street and the other for a two car garage in West Broadway.

Two absentees stop planners in zoning

Village planning commission met July 5 to go over zoning plans with representatives from the Richland county regional planning commission and North Star commission which covers a five county area including Huron county.

Because two members, Bill Taulbee and Roy Barber, were absent, no concrete results were made concerning the proposed ordinance, which the commission has been formulating for several months.

Village budget to end in black

No red ink is predicted in village finances during 1983.

Mayor Dean A. Cline completed work on the budget this week, assuring that it will be forwarded to the Richland county auditor by the deadline of Tuesday.

He shows the general fund to have receipts in 1983 of $204,400 with a balance carried over from this year of $20,246.22, making a total of $224,646.22.

Of this sum, about half, $100,600, is earmarked for the police department.

The salaries will total $65,800 and operation and maintenance $34,800.

Remainder of the general fund will be used for general operation of the village, including office expenses, part of the administrator's salaries, salaries of elected officials and for legal work.

Total expenditures will be $213,500.

It is anticipated that at the end of 1983 there will be a balance of $11,146.22.

The street fund anticipates $31,280.04 in receipts with planned expenditures of $31,000. Funds in the state highway fund will total $3,268.47 with expenditures of $1,500.

Fire department will carry a good balance into 1984. Its receipts are estimated at $42,500, with spending set at $20,000.

Cemetery fund will receive $39,126.20 and expend $24,400. The park fund is $8,317.14 and expenditures are set at $5,000.

Receipts in the water fund are set at $176,199.37 and expenditures at $164,680.

Electric fund will generate $448,439.03 and spend $412,240. However, these figures will most likely change because of the anticipated raise by Ohio Power Co. of its rates to the village and the subsequent raise of local rates to compensate for it.

Sewer fund will have revenues of $107,067.91 and expenditures of $101,480.

Income to the ambulance fund is set at $24,357.51 and spending at $24,000.

Fire pumper fund will have a balance of $126,464.51 as of Dec. 31 and $143,537.22 at the end of 1983.

31.55% boost in valuation to take effect

A 31.55 per cent average increase in tax valuation of property in the Huron county portion of the village will result in higher tax bills for freeholders there.

The routine revaluation of property, required every sixth year, will result in a windfall of about $2.100 for the village coffers.

C. B. Roscoe, Huron county auditor, says local taxes will not advance by that much, because voted millage will be adjusted to produce against the adjusted tax duplicate what it produced against the previous duplicate.

Freeholders may inspect the new valuations by calling at the auditor's office at Norwalk. It's in the basement of the courthouse.

Inspection is for the purpose of correcting clerical errors. If the freeholder disputes the judgmental decision of the appraiser, he must file a complaint with the county board of revision.

Commercial property in the village will be subject to a 26.37 per cent increase in valuation.

Family hurt in collision

A Plymouth route 1 family was severely injured Monday at 10:20 a. m. when it was struck by a truck at Routes 103 and 224 at Willard.

Patricia L. Wilson, Opdyke road, driver of the car, and her children, Steven, 13; Mark, 10, and Rita, nine, and the truck driver, Keith M. Lajoness, 21, Lana Park, Mich., were injured.

Mark Wilson was taken to Mansfield General hospital with injuries. He was trapped in the rear of his mother's van. About 30 minutes were required to free his brother from the passenger side of the front seat. He was also admitted at Mansfield.

His mother and sister were admitted at Willard.

Lajoness, who will be summoned for failure to yield at a stop intersection, was treated at Willard and released.

PJVS expects to raise costs of luncheons tonight

PJVS Board of Education, which meets tonight, will review the budget for 1983 and approve requests for advances of tax money.

Another item on the agenda is the increase in school lunches.

The proposed riase is to $1.10 for pupils and $1.45 for adults.

All milk will go to 25 cents.

Larry Regula, an academic instructor, is submitting his resignation.

Approval is expected to assign Mrs. Jeri Vernon as a dental assiting instructor.

EAS certain, GenTel agrees

EAS to Willard is a certainty.

General Telphone Co. of Ohio announced July 7 it will not oppose the recommendation of a PUCO examiner that EAS be established.

GenTelCo said it believes the PUCO will decide in Plymouth's favor because of the relatively high frequency of calls between the two exchanges. The hearing officer said 6.8 calls a telephone a month are made between Plymouth and Willard.

GenTelCo estimates cost of installing the service at $100,300 and annual maintenance at $36,341.

Plymouth subscribers will pay about 30 cents more a month. Business telephones will pay 90 cents a month more. Willard subscribers will not pay an additional fee.

Remember Sig. M. F. Corne! He proved tomatoes safe

By AUNT LIZ

As a country of a lot of people, we are a little slow about some things.

Mostly foods.

It really wasn't until after World War II, when everyone came back from here and there, and travelling became cheap and more available to everyone, that new foods were added to everyday eating.

If you lived in an area where what is called ethnic foods were made, then your diet was a little more varied.

I never had a pizza and never even heard of one until 1946, when a new husband said one night, "Let's go to Bound Brook for a pizza.

Mexican foods were unheard of in this part of the country, pasta dishes were something like macaroni and cheese on Friday nights, curry was a non-existant word, and none of our mothers thought about making a tasty sauerkraut ball. You simply ate the sauerkraut bare.

This is nothing really new to my life time, granted it stretches over a lot of time.

I really cannot remember if back in the early 1800's if tomatoes were thought poisonous or made one a little oversexed. Whatever it was, it was bad, bad, bad and to be avoided.

Then a nice young Italian artist by the name of Michel Felice Corne arrived.

He was a Neapolitan and had been eating tomatoes his whole life.

Somehow he was drafted into the Italian army and made friends with an American general who liked him and offered him a free ride over here. In return he painted a lovely picture of the general's ship, which started him on a real career of marine paintings.

He settled in Newport, R. I., and built himself a lovely house and planted a nice garden, mostly tomatoes, which he ate everyday.

His neighbors, being friendly people, watched him like a hawk, for the bad effects. Nothing happened, he simply thrived and kept on painting.

By the time he passed on at the age of 88, all his neighbors were enjoying those reddish tidbits.

He is buried in Newport and there is a marker on his house which says, "Corne House, Home of the Artist Michel Felice Corne, Who Introduced the Tomato into This Country".

He really is one of our greatest heroes and hardly anyone has even heard of him.

So far, this is plain factual, but this I am kind ofmaking up.

I think perhaps this Father of Tomatoes might possibly have enjoyed this. It is an old Dutch recipe, and the Dutch were here when he was and so were bees.

It is Honey Bread.

Grease a bread pan, turn the oven on to 350.

When those chores are done, the rest is easy.

Mix two cups of flour, three fourths of a cup of brown sugar (dark), a tablespoon of baking powder, two teaspoons of cinnamon, a fourth of a teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg and salt.

Add a cup of buttermilk, a fourth of a cup of honey and a well-beaten egg.

Mix thoroughly and bake for about an hour until a toothpick comes out clean.

The spices perk it up, and if you have some stray raisins around, toss them in too.

The fun begins at 1 p. m. in the branch library.

Class of 1962 sets reunion

Class of 1962, Plymouth High school, is planning a 20th reunion Aug. 1.

It will be a picnic at Seltzer park, Shelby.

Solicitation for festival on next week

They are asking for pies, cakes or money donations.

Anyone wishing to work at the festival is asked to call Mrs. Wayne E. Strine.

Did you know that shoplifters cost your family $150* last year?

TAKE THIS FIVE-QUESTION QUIZ AND FIND OUT HOW MUCH YOU KNOW ABOUT SHOPLIFTING.

True or False

1. Shoplifting accounts for very little crime in Ohio. It is of minor importance and the stores absorb the cost.
   True _____ False _____
2. Generally, poor people who are uneducated do most of the shoplifting. They steal because they don't have money to buy what they want.
   True _____ False _____
3. More men than women shoplift.
   True _____ False _____
4. Suburban stores are shoplifted more often than downtown stores.
   True _____ False _____
5. Ordinary citizens cannot do much about the shoplifting problem.

Answers:

1: False. Shoplifting accounts for $3.5 billion in lost merchandise nationally, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Ohio's shoplifting tab is estimated by the Attorney General to be $488 million for 1973. Shoplifting is the fastest-growing white collar crime in America. Between 1963 and 1973 it increased at a faster rate than any other crime.

People pay the shoplifter's way. People pay over $35 individually per year or $150 per family on increased cost of goods they purchase.

2: False. People who shoplift are not generally poor. They often have sufficient cash with them and can afford to pay for what they steal. But you pay for them through higher prices.

3: False. More women than men shoplift. The Mass Retailing Institute conducted a survey in 1972 in 1,188 of the nation's largest discount stores and discovered that 58 percent of the apprehended shoplifters were women.

4: True. Eighty percent of all shoplifting is done in suburban outlets of retail establishments.

5: False. You can do something about shoplifting. If you see someone shoplifting, quietly mention it to the nearest sales clerk. You need not become involved. The thief will probably steal somewhere else before leaving the store, and the store detective will be there to see it happen.

CARD OF THANKS
There was no immediate understanding by me of how close I came to leaving the hospital feet first. I am now told there were some occasions when all but a few, and rightly so, despaired of my life.
I am grateful to them, and to those who so freely supported my wife during the 41 days I was hospitalized. Most especially to Dr. Liem, John Hedeen, Charles Hanline, John Fazzini and the Rev. Julian Taggart, to whom I express profound thanks. I shall try to make up to them, and to my wife, what they did for me when I was unable to either realize or appreciate it.

COME UP TO Goodyear QUALITY & INNOVATION

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Open covenants

A little girl who's near and dear to us observed her fifth anniversary July 19. She's a stockholder in the only manufacturing company in her grandfather's home town. Her holdings aren't large. Matter of fact, it would take 300,000 like her to band together to vote out the management and take over.

The point is, though, that no matter how small her holdings, she's never forgotten by the management. Every time the management is required to make a report, she gets told about it. Of course, she's too young to read what the report says, or even to make sense out of it. What's important is that she gets the report. That report and anything else that rule and custom dictate ought to be shared with stockholders.

Her grandfather, and her grandmother, are stockholders in the Corporation of Plymouth. As such, they're entitled to know what's going on in that corporation. They're entitled to receive regular, recurring reports on the status of the corporation, what it's doing and how it's being done.

They got told last week, and again this week, that they're not entitled to know some things that concern the corporation in which they've invested 28-plus years of hard work, due care, and a very hard work, due care, proper devotion and a very considerable sum of money. And this makes them mad.

In its wisdom, the General Assembly passed, and the governor signed, what has come to be called the Ohio Sunshine law.

Basically, what it does is say that public business is the public's business and the public has a right to know it.

There are some limitations on that right.

Nobody objects to that.

But the law is careful to state that the public (read new media) must be notified in advance when there is a special meeting of the legislative body, its time and place, the purpose for which it is called, and whether executive session will be availed of.

It is this failure that was protested so vigorously Friday night by our colleague, Mr. Russell. The public (read news media) is entitled to advance notice, in strict compliance with the law.

No advance notice in such compliance was given to anyone at any time. The representatives of three print media and one radio medium were present. Had they known the committee would go into executive session (and bear in mind, the Sunshine law says when three or more members of the legislative body meet, at any place, at any time, for whatever purpose, even to play cards, it's a public meeting and anybody has a right to horn in) they wouldn't have wasted their time.

We could inveigh for days about that it's better to let it all hang out. The best reason is that by doing so, those who do the hanging out show they've absolutely nothing to hide.

It's understandable that some, owing to relative inexperience, are not fully aware of the requirements of law. We can and do forgive them for that, so long as it doesn't happen again.

But what galls us is the attitude that the public isn't entitled to know, and that's it's expressed so baldly, and so boldly.

The inference is that the public is too dumb to make proper use of what's said and done.

Mister, we've got news for you: when it's all said and done, it's the public that will decide who sits at the next meeting.

Sergt. Frank Hodge has been offered the position of "officer in charge" of the Plymouth Police department.

He has been offered 50 cents an hour more than his present salary of $7.45 an hour to fill the position until the end of the year.

With the resignation of David Gibson as police chief, the council safety committee, composed of G. Thomas Moore, Roy Barber and Terry Hopkins, realizes there is a savings of $8,800 on his salary until the end of the year.

Budgeting carefully, they believe the raise offered Hodge will leave enough for the village to hire two part-time officers to fill the open shifts, for vacations of the two present members of the department and stay within the money appropriated for the year.

The committee is making every effort to see that police protection is adequately spread out during the week, which leaves "open shifts" but with an officer on call.

The difference in Hodge's present salary and the chief's is $1.01 an hour and now it will be 51 cents.

Since Gibson submitted his resignation, William Hodges, a part-time patrolman, has also resigned, which leaves Hodge and Ronald Croxford as the only two members of the department along with a full-time dispatcher.

Since the resignations last week, both are alleged to have said that they resented what they termed as interference by council members in the department.

The council committee met Friday in a closed session to discuss what would be done about police protection and although there were no firm figures from the Huron county sheriff's office, it was determined the cost would be too great for the service and time rendered.

The committee was influenced by the informal petition signed by Plymouth residents (and non-residents) urging it to keep a local department.

Apparently no firm decision was made Friday, and another meeting, an open session, took place Monday evening, when it was agreed to offer Hodge the position.

Nielsen names local woman as participant in ratings

Little did Marilyn Winkler think, when she was graduating from high school at Huron in 1944, that 38 years later, twice a grandmother, she would be helping to make decisions that directly affect over 200 million Americans.

Her name now is Mrs. James C. David, and she lives at 347 Willow drive. Her husband is an officer of and manager of First Buckeye Bank, N. A., here. She is the mother of two sons and a daughter. The sons live in Atlanta, Ga., where one of them, the elder, Randy J., is married. The other, Robert M., has intentions. The daughter, Constance, is married to William R. Miller, a certified public accountant in Mt. Vernon. She has two children.

What is it that Mrs. Davis does that affects every man-jack of Americans? She's a correspondent of the A. C. Nielsen service, the television rating operation that determines the size of the audience of TV programs on a weekly basis.

She completed Tuesday morning, while stoutly refusing to be photographed, her weekly report.

First of all, does she get paid? "Yes, 75 cents for each one!"

Second, how did she get her appointment. "The telephone rang one night, it was kind of late, about 10 o'clock, I suppose, and this man asked me to participate. I usually don't pay attention to this sort of call but this one intrigued me and I said I would do it."

Third, what is it that Nielsen wants to know? "They want to know what programs I watched over what channels at what times."

Is that all? "No, there's a lot of biographical and other information they want, and they want it every time I fill out the questionnaire."

Such as? "Are we connected to a cable television system? Yes, we are. How many sets do we have? We have four. How many are working? Three. Do we pay a monthly fee for a special movie channel. No. Do we own a video cassette recorder. No.

"What channels do we get. We get 3, 5 and 8 out of Cleveland, 11, 24 and 13 out of Toledo, 9 out of Windsor, Canada, 43 out of Lorain, 23 out of Akron, 25 out of Cleveland and an in-house channel out of Willdrd.

"How many persons are in the household. Just two. The questionnaire asks the age of the male and female head of the household and whether either is of Spanish-Hispanic descent, and if so, what sort of descent, such as Cuban, Mexican, or whatever. It seeks the racial origin of the respondent and spouse, the amount of formal schooling and where the TV is located."

Then what? "Then I put down the names of the programs I watched and the times when and channels over which I watched them. All this is put down so they can make quick statistics."

Any other questions? "Yes, there's room, some room, anyway, for personal opinions. I'm going to think about that and maybe I'll put down some thoughts."

Mrs. David confesses to a fondness for television. And she's as angry and upset as anyone when one of her favorites is taken off the air.

But she's resigned to the impending departure of "M.A.S.H.", which has been running five years.

Next time your favorite program disappears, perhaps you can blame the Nielsen ratings. And if you can, then Mrs. James C. Davis may or may not be a part of the unfavorable Neilsen response.

Who'd want to go on cruise with broken-down ex-officer?

By AUNT LIZ

We got something in the mail the other day that is unbelievable.

Still it confirms my hope in mankind that no one is letting any kind of opportunity slip past.

This is a brochure, an 11-day really deluxe cruise through the West Indies and the Panama canal. You start in Miami and end up in Acapulco, and if you have anything left, you can fly home, otherwise you walk.

Most cruises advertise the fun they have playing games all day, doing some sightseeing and lots of shopping.

This one has a new twist. There is an old army song which has a line, "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away. That is the one General McArthur made so famous.

It simply is not true anymore.

They have pleasant jobs waiting all over for them.

The big highlight of this cruise is the "special hosts". This is what is said about them: "Distinguished retired military officers will enhance shipboard life as partners on the dance floor, card room, dining and parties".

This I would like to see in action. We know a lot of such guys who can hold their own at most of it, but have not learned a new dance step since their high school days.

Is this a real come-one to attract rich widows, who are about the only ones who can afford such an 11 day binge?

Credit must be given to whomever thought this up, because I bet it will attract the gals. It apparently was sent to the alumni of a large, Big Ten state university, which out of kindness will be left unnamed. The state though is bordered by Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska, South Dakota and Missouri.

Cruises are really for eating. The cooks are not stuck with just a couple of grocery stores to do their shopping, they have just about the whole world.

Some friends went on a lovely cruise this summer and brought back miniature menus of each day. And each day has a special recipe on the back.

But what is a nice cruise without coq au vin? It is a nice way to do a chicken and takes little time.

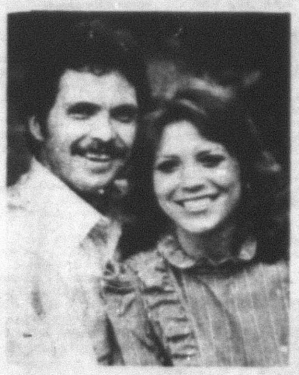

What you want is about a four or five pound cut-up roasting chicken.

Flour the pieces and brown.

Move it all to a baking dish, and sprinkle all this around: 10 small whole peeled onins, a chopped clove of garlic, a fourth of a teaspoon of thyme, a bay leaf, some parsley (fresh is best) and some whole mushrooms.

Pour a cup of dry red wine over it all. Cover and bake until the meat is tender.

This is really a French peasant dish and you can easily eat it at the kitchen table, but if you feel cruise-like, just light some candles and plunk a nice bunch of flowers in the middle of the table, and pretend that the shirt-sleeved guy at the other end is one of those 'special hosts".

Get Information On Medicare Facilities

Information about health facilities taking part in Medicare is available at any social security office, a social security spokesperson said recently.

These health facilities—hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, and independent laboratories—must meet certain health and safety standards to take part in Medicare. They are inspected before they take part and are reinspected periodically to assure that they continue to meet the standards.

A report of any deficiencies of Medicare facilities and the facility's plan for correcting them are available for inspection at the local social security office. This information is not available by telephone.

The report shows only the shortcomings found during the most recent inspection and the facility's plan for correction. Positive findings of the inspection, included in the full report, are not immediately available but can be obtained through the social security office.

The fact that a facility has shortcomings does not mean there is any danger to the health and safety of its patients, the representative said. If that were the case, it could no longer take part in Medicare.

In addition, the corrections may have already been made by the time the report is available in the social security office.

More information is available in the leaflet, "Your can get information on Medicare facilities," which can be obtained free at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Make the most of your youth.

Council accepts police dispatching by Willard

A meeting Monday night of Mayor Dean A. Cline, Councilman Terry Hopkins and newly appointed Police Chief Robert Conley with the Willard police department paved the path for dispatching services when Plymouth does not have a dispatcher on duty.

It will cost the village $2,100 annually for 128 hours a week plus the cost of the special telephone line between Willard and Plymouth.

Hopkins is to have the actual figures for the next meeting.

Councilman John E. Hedeen severely criticized the media for stating that an offer by the Huron county sheriff for police protection in the village had been received with a price tag on it.

No such offer was ever transmitted, Hedeen said. Sheriff John Borgia was upset about the false information, Hedeen added.

The mayor suggested the council consider a levy on the November ballot for the police department.

He said that now the department is receiving about $40,000 annually from income tax funds, and if a levy could provide the same amount, then the income tax money could be used for capital improvements, which were intended in the first place.

Conley will be paid $16,600 annually, the council agreed.

A light note was added to the meeting when Mrs. Joan Thompson, Richland county commissioner, presented Conley, an old family friend, with a special gift, a bullet.

The resignation of Mrs. Sidney Ream as clerk-treasurer was read by Hedeen.

It will take effect Aug. 6.

If a new clerk has not been appointed by then, the village must work out a method of responsibility for signing checks. The mayor said he has asked the solicitor to research the problem.

Another problem was mentioned, that of retaining the help of the state-appointed accounting firm of Ernst & Whinney to train the new clerk. It has indicated it is not interested in training another clerk.

There is a chance that their work in the village will take almost another month to complete, and the mayor said that he plans to interview applicants this weekend and thinks the position could be filled quickly.

Legislation was enacted as an emergency measure to borrow $5,000 at 10.25 per cent interest from First Buckeye Bank, N.A., for one year to supplement available funds for the purchase of a new ambulance, which will be delivered Monday.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

A new slate

With the resignation of the police chief and of the clerk-treasurer, all vestiges of the administration chosen by the electors in November, 1978, to serve from and after Jan. 1, 1979, have disappeared.

Police Chief Gibson was the hand-picked successor to W. Robert Seel, who was summarily fired (although it was couched as a resignation) because he was so indiscreet as to speak his mind, and incidentally the truth, to an out-of-town newspaper. It is for the people to judge whether Gibson's service was worth what he was paid. For our part, we have searched until we are blue in the face, looking for evidence of one summons issued by him. There may have been some, but we can't find them.

Clerk-Treasurer Ream was appointed to succeed another appointee, Mrs. Montgomery, who resigned for reasons of health. Mrs. Montgomery, in turn, was hand-picked to succeed Raymond L. Brooks, summarily fired because he did not conduct the affairs of his office to suit his immediate supervisor. It is for the people to judge whether Mrs. Ream's service has been satisfactory. It is patent that the cemetery sexton and two trustees of the cemetery board don't think so and they said so Monday night. To state the facts, it must be recognized that Mrs. Ream had already decided to resign.

A new police chief, one with considerable experience and much knowledge of the local scene, is on the job. We wish him well and pledge to him our support.

It is for the mayor to choose a new clerk-treasurer and a councilman to fill the seat vacated by Mr. Taulbee, who was himself an appointee.

We would much prefer that public servants be chosen by the public. In the absence thereof, appointers must exercise uncommon judgment and be willing to stand up to the criticism if the appointments don't pan out.

Mrs. Ream quits as clerk

During the monthly meeting Monday night of the cemetery board Mrs. Sidney Ream, clerk-treasurer, announced that she is submitting her resignation to the village council.

Visibly upset because the cemetery trustees questioned her about not paying several bills they had approved last month, saying the money was available, she made her emotion-ridden announcement.

One of the bills she told Carl V. Ellis and J. Harold Cashman, the two trustees present, was being checked by James C. Root, village administrator.

The two trustees saw no reason for Root to check what they had already approved, and Mrs. Ream said the bills would be paid immediately.

Car wash? Call 687-2125!

Telephone 687-2125 and if a woman answers, offer to have your car washed.

There will be a cackle at the other end of the line because Mrs. William C. Enderby has a sense of humor.

It al happened Thursday.

The Enderbys live in Plymouth street at the south edge of the village. They agreed to sell a pick-up truck filled with firewood to Robert Hall, whose truck was driven to their premises for the purpose.

Mrs. Enderby loaded the truck and prepared to drive it to Hall's house in Springmill road. The battery wouldn't start the motor. She tried again without success. Engaging low gear, she allowed the truck to roll for a distance, hoping it would start. It did not. So she left it in gear and raised the hood, ready to go to the barn and get her husband's truck so that power from its battery could be "jumped" via cable.

When she returned from the barn with her husband's truck, Hall's truck was gone.

Her grandchildren said, "Look, Gramma, at all the ducks in the pond."

Mrs. Enderby looked and saw at once what had occurred.

Hall's truck had coasted down the slope and gone into the pond. Only its roof and the upraised hood could be seen.

She obtained the help of her nephew, Randy Adams, and of Richard Paulo, proprietor of the Sunoco station, and the truck was extricated.

Her grandchildren helped her to retrieve the wood.

Skin flicks cost bar seven days

Convicted of showing skin flicks on Dec. 31, 1981, Joe Deskins, proprietor of Bob's Cafe, 8 East Main street, was sentenced to a seven day suspension of his alcohol vending privileges by the Ohio Liquor Control commission.

The suspension begins Aug. 15 at noon.

Gurney set free by judge

A 24-year-old Plymouth man was accorded shock probation in Richland county common pleas court July 19 by Judge James Henson.

Ronald R. Gurney, 213 Sandusky street, had been sentenced to one to five years in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield on conviction of theft.

Judge Henson ruled "the character of the defendant and the circumstances of the case are such that he is not likely to engage in an offensive course of conduct."

He was put on probation for three years.

Mrs. Smith 'innocent' in drug case

The senior GOP member of the staff of the Huron county board of elections has been cleared by a lie detector test of any suspicion that she was involved in the growing of marijuana at her home in Prarie street, New Haven.

Mrs. Donald Smith submitted to the two hour investigation voluntarily. Huron county prosecutor said the test showed she had no knowledge that marijuana plants were growing at their home.

Her husband forfeited $50 bond in Norwalk Municipal court on a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana.

19-year-old graduates: she's a cop!

A 19-year-old Plymouth girl is among graduates of the Willard Police academy.

She is Valerie Parkinson, 68 Sandusky street, who hopes to combine her police training with nursing instruction at Mansfield so she can work for the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

She is a 1980 graduate of Plymouth High school and attended Ohio State university, Columbus, for a year.

She was queen of the Plymouth Fire department while still in high school.

Slagle outspent opponents

An unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination to seek the Ohio Assembly seat from the 90th district was the biggest spender during the primary.

Gene Slagle, Galion, former representative and former senator in the Assembly, spent $6,145, most of which he or his wife contributed.

John Allton, who won the nomination, spent $6,085.

Pauline Ritchey, Galion's mayor, spent $3,884.

Robert Casey, Galion, a teacher, spent $2,576.

Among Republicans, Marian Moyer, Bellevue, spent $5,064.

The successful candidate, Richard Rench, Milan, spent $3,211.

Paul Capelle, Willard city manager, laid out $3,537. The board of elections has ruled that he must refund $200 of the contributions to his campaign because the funds were given by corporations, which is contrary to Ohio law.

Robert Morrison, principal of Colonel Crawford High school at North Robinson, spent $1,670.

Trina White, Norwalk, spent $468.

Walter Wilhelm, Jr., North Fairfield, defeated William Ommert, Norwalk, for the GOP nomination for Huron county commissioner, although he was outspent, $686 to $1,868.

Council names Conley new police chief

Once a cop, always a cop. So goes an old saying.

Plymouth's new police chief, Robert Conley, is a good example.

Appointed to the position by Mayor Dean A. Cline Monday, Conley is back working as a full-time law enforcement officer after working a year in private business.

Conley, 35, was born in Arthurmable, Ky. The family moved to Fitchville when he was six years old and shortly after to Shiloh, where he and his three brothers and one sister grew up. His parents are Mrs. Josephine Conley and the late Joseph Conley.

He graduated from Plymouth High school in 1965, where he was active in athletics.

His first job was in Willard before he entered the Army. He served in the military police at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and later was assigned to a transportation unit at Ft. Eustis, Va.

He began as a full-time deputy sheriff in Richland county Nov. 1, 1971 and left the department Sept. 1, 1981.

During his 10-year career in the sheriff's department, he chalked up an impressive record.

During his last year he was the patrol bureau commander of all three watches.

His specialized training has included driving courses, liquor law enforcement, breathalyzer testing, civil disturbance, orientation, auto larceny investigation, combat pistol training, anti-terrorism training, domestic violence, hostage negotiation, bank robbery and explosives and police training schools.

He has worked as a plain-clothes man and assisted in drug problems.

He and his wife, who live in Mansfield, will move to Plymouth.

A six month probationary period for the position is required and he has six months to move to the village.

His salary will be slightly less than that received by former police chief David Gibson because Gibson had about 14 years of service with the local department and was receiving longevity pay.

Before the appointment of Conley, Sergt. Frank Hodge was offered the position of "officer in charge", which he declined because of the additional hours and responsibility and the fact that he said there was not adequate compensation for the work.

Eighth grader 'outstanding' basketballer

An eighth grader in Shiloh Junior High school was named outstanding player during the annual summer basketball camp at Willard.

Coach Robert Haas observed that Steve Hall is "an outstanding talent and an unanimous selection of the coaching staff."

Amy, seven, and Lori, five, are the daughters of the Lawrence J. Roots, 25 Brooks court. Father is high school golf coach and junior high school athletic director. The girls are the granddaughters of the John F. Roots.

OSU honors 1982 alumnus

A 1982 alumnus of Plymouth High school is among freshmen recipients of the Admission Scholar award given by the Ohio State campus at Mansfield to graduates in the top five per cent of their class who made a composite score of 25 or better on the American College test or graduated in the top 10 per cent of their class and made a composite score of 21-25 on the ACT.

He is Robert Smith, son of the Robert Smiths, Park avenue.

Collision rate: 4% of total registrations

Automobile registrations in Richland county number 109,541, of which 45,299 are Mansfield-owned.

During 1980, 4,793 of these vehicles were involved in collisions, 2,323, or one in 19.5, in Mansfield, 2,470, or one in 26 in the remainder of the county.

Automobile registrations in Huron county number 44,564, of which 11,578 are Norwalk-owned.

During 1980, 1,564 of these vehicles were involved in collisions, 417, or one in 27.8, in Norwalk, 1,147, or one in 28.8 in the remainder of the county.

Planners to meet Tuesday night

Village planning commission will meet Tuesday at 7 p. m., in the village hall to complete work on the zoning map.

It is hoped it will be completed in time to be presented to the council Aug. 10.

Brumback kin succumbs at 82

Brother of Mrs. Leroy Brumback, Kelvin Heiman, 82, died suddenly at his home in Tontogany July 16.

He had never been ill in his life. Death was caused by heart seizure.

He is also survived by his wife, a son and a daughter and two grandchildren.

Mr. Heiman was a member of the Tontogany United Methodist church and was a retired school bus driver.

Funeral services and burial were in Tontogany July 20.

Resident dies at 59 of cancer

Mrs. Victor A. Walters, 59, Willo court, died of cancer in Willard Area hospital Thursday.

Born in Northern Ireland, she came here from Chicago, Ill., to live in 1971.

She was a member of Plymouth Brethren church, Mansfield, whose ministers, the Revs. Paul Hoffman and Charles Vaughn, conducted services from McQuate-Secor Funeral home Monday at 11 a. m.

She was born Vida McIlveen.

Her husband, two brothers, Eric McIlveen, Chicago, Ill., and Jim McIlveen, Tacoma, Wash., and two sisters, Mrs. Lilly Ives, in England, and Mrs. Pauline Speery, in Ireland, survive.

Interment was in Greenlawn cemetery.

Hodge refuses to serve as head of police

Frank Hodge flatly refused the offer of village council to become head of the police department at an additional 50 cents an hour on July 20.

Mayor Dean A. Cline carried the council's offer to him.

Hodge said he won't accept the appointment because the amount of additional pay – $480 for the remainder of the year – "isn't worth the headache involved. If I'm going to be police chief, I should have the police chief's salary."

To do so would cost the council an additional $1.01 an hour.

Administrator James C. Root has been instructed to advertise an opening for a police chief. Media in Sandusky, Willard, Shelby, Mansfield and Plymouth have carried the village's advertisement for the position.

The safety committee's reasoning is that Hodge would be required to serve an additional 105 hours during the period through Dec. 31. Hodge says the committee failed to take into account the additional hours required by police to serve the firemen's festival and the ox roast and when other officers are on free time.

The committee believes the money saved by not paying the salary assigned to the departed chief, David Gibson, can be used to pay extra police and to reimburse present officers for additional service so that open shifts won't be necessary.

Mrs. Robert Reed, dispatcher, resigned July 19.

Her husband delivered her badge and her letter of resignation to Mayor Cline at that time.

She said she anticipated the appointment of Hodge as police chief and she cannot "work with him". Mrs. Reed has complained repeatedly that she was required to prepare typewritten documents for the police department, which she claims is not a part of her job description.

What folks here did 25, 20, 15, 10, five years ago

25 years ago, 1957

Brother of Mrs. Jake Holtz, Hatt Brown, 78, died at Willard.

Four councilman declined to seek relection. These are Charles Vanasdale, Omer G. Burkett, Clarence Ervin and Ira D. Brougher.

Mrs. Samuel Robertson was chosen president of the Legion auxiliary.

Unique experience: Ohio garment exchanged in Colorado

By AUNT LIZ

Every day some one has a really different, unique experience.

Our family has had one.

To me it is simply unbelievable, but it happened.

Can you imagine buying something in a store, then having another store 1,500 miles away exchange it?

Being a typical grandmother, I wanted to leave some kind of a mark on the first day of kindergarten, which is one large step for a five-year-old. So I figured I would send a dress for that special day.

Having been told by young mothers and assorted grandmothers that one large chain store was the place to shop, inexpensive and good things, I trot to the nearest one.

They did have nice things, but no way would I pay a large sum for a size five, which was only going to be outgrown in about three months. I did find something cute at a third of what the first one that I looked at cost.

I was really pleased with myself, and off the package went.

The young mother involved is very practical, and she took one look and decided it was a small version of a size five and would not be wearable for more than a couple of weeks.

So she marched it right back, explained it had been bought in Ohio by a dumb grandmother who really does not understand little sizes, and the clerk nicely let her pick out something else.

Other nice things have been happening to us too, like beautiful fish filets newly caught in Lake Erie, homemade apple sauce from tasty early apples, beautiful crisp lettuce. Anything that grows, we are getting and eating.

One gift last week was a very large head of cabbage, and by a real quirk we were eating the best cold slaw I have tasted, and I threw it together alone.

Just try this gourmet method. Chop it up in a processor, spoon several large globs of mayonnaise on it then throw on some horseradish.

It is really good.

Since I try to act like a good cook, I should not give out trade secrets, but this one is great and I dreamed it up alone.

With all the growing things there are now which you might dip in egg, then bread crumbs then saute, this gives more of a flavor without having to think of what to add to make it more flavorful.

Don't use ordinary bread crumbs. Invest in some packaged herbed stuffing, and make your own crumbs from it.

It works great with zucchini, but then if it is just steamed and buttered with a little grated cheese, you really get something with real flavor.

We treat broccoli the same way, even though there are millions of ways to prepare it, from soups to souffles.

It is such beautiful stuff that it seems almost sinful to disguise it.

Leanne, eight, and Scott, nine months, are the children of the Christopher Zaras, who live on River Hill farm, Plymouth East road.

What the good neighbor did when Charlie's house blew away.

A hurricane strikes, and many a family, rich or poor, is left with nothing but the pieces.

What would you do?

Here's what The American Red Cross — America's Good Neighbor — does.

We move into the area to help. To feed people. To provide them with the necessities of life.

As a gift from You, the American people.

Now maybe you live in an area where hurricanes seem pretty remote.

Yet Red Cross is at work where you live, too. Helping the aged, the desperate, the sick — anyone in need.

Because the Red Cross is a home town affair. We do what needs to be done — whether it's pick up the pieces of a hurricane . . . or find the right blood donor . . . or teach a blind kid to swim. We're what you need us to be. Whoever you are. Wherever you are.

And isn't that what a Good Neighbor is all about?

Be a good neighbor. Help The Good Neighbor.

+ the good neighbor.

Is ignorance an excuse?

We do not profess to clairvoyance. But there is one statement about the big parade in Plymouth come Saturday that we do not fear will or can be contradicted.

It is that the proper and lawful respect due the flag will not, repeat not, be shown.

A veteran who participated in a color guard during the parade at the Shiloh ox roast Saturday said this: "When we marched down that street with the colors, I didn't see more than five persons who stood at attention with the right hand over the heart until the colors passed, as required by law."

Consider that attendance during the parade was somewhere over 4,000 persons, adults and children, and the crime -- make no mistake about it, it is a crime -- is magnified.

We made a survey of our own. We watched carefully only a segment of the throng that attended the parade. In it were some public office holders, past and present; some teachers, some civil servants and a number of honrably (?) discharged veterans. This last lot particularly ought to know better.

Know better about what?

Know better about the obseisance due the flag.

It derives from a joint resolution of the Congress during June, 1941. The nation was in peril. Before the year was out, Japan attacked at Pearl Harbor and the United States was plunged into war.

What the resolution says, in effect, is this:

The colors of the United States shall consist of its flag bordered with gold braid. The colors may be displayed from a staff, in which case the pole must be surmounted by a golden eagle. All persons resident in the United States, whether citizen or alien, are required to rise to attention and place the right hand over the heart until the colors have passed or been retired. The rule of thumb is that the stance shall be taken when the colors approach within five paces and it shall be maintained until the colors have passed by at least five paces.

It is but a simple ritual, honored more in the breach than otherwise. This is a great pity.

And it has a corollary. When the national anthem is played, it is the duty of the resident of the United States, whether citizen or alien, to rise to attention and place the right hand over the heart.

Count the number of spectators at a high school football or basketball game that you've seen performing correctly. No even those who ought to be expected to know better -- the professional educators and those who manage and direct them, including elective personnel -- do it.

Whose fault is it? Is it the fault of the service organizations that they do not organize instructional classes? Not really, although some of them have certainly been lethargic.

Is ignorance an excuse?

Assuredly not, period.

What are we going to do about it? What should be done about it?

For our part, we will perform as the law requires, invariably, always, everywhere. We will take care to note who doesn't perform. If he is a public official, he won't get our vote next time around. If he's a public employee, we'll complain to his superiors, in writing. And we'll strive to educate by example.

Will state audit end in release of fiscal oversight?

An audit by the examiner of the office of Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson may result in Plymouth being released as an Ohio community under state fiscal control.

Plymouth and two others, Niles and Norwood, are now undergoing such audit to determine if the state can, as of June 30, release its hold on municipal finances.

No state money has been paid to Plymouth to meet its obligations, but state funds of about $155,000 have been paid to Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants, to oversee the village books and establish a modern system of record-keeping.

Niles became in 1980 the first community in the state to be put under Ohio fiscal control. Cleveland was the second. Plymouth was third, early in 1981. There followed Norwood, Freeport, Ashtabula, Ironton, Lincoln Hts. and East Liverpool.

Cleveland has since overcome the proscriptions of state control.

Dog day gripes aired at Shiloh

Charge it to the humidity or to the approaching dog days of August.

Citizens of Shiloh descended July 28 upon its village council to complain of:

1. Barking dogs.
2. Domestic disturbances resulting in alleged threats to rape a young girl.

To the first complaint, Mayor Francis Gowitzka said, "The present village laws don't comply with the Ohio Revised Code".

In addition to their barking, the council was told, the dogs leave offal, particularly in the Prospect street area.

The mayor said he will take action when he learns from the solicitor what action he can take.

To the second complaint, Gowitzka again said he'd have to take it up with the solicitor, the complainants having reported that telling it to the deputy sheriffs resulted in no action being taken.

Ralph Hawkins was named trustee of public affairs.

An area of 6.976 acres at the east edge of the village was rezoned to industrial.

A speed bump will be placed in Noble road to deter fast driving where there are children.

Warning: dirty water!

Fire hydrants will be flushed next week.

Those on the Richland county side of the village will be flushed Monday.

The Huron county side will be done Tuesday.

Householders are warned that the water will be slightly discolored for a short period of time.

There were no injuries.

McKinney, who was active in the high school band when he was a pupil here, is a former deputy sheriff of Richland county. He serves as auxiliary patrolman here.

Possession, not showing, was charge

Arson trial of Vanderpool postponed

Postponement to next month of the trial of Charles Vanderpool, 40, accused of arson in a fire at his home at 66 Trux street, was announced this week by the Richland county prosecutor.

Vanderpool is free on $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

The prosecutor says Vanderpool was leasing the house from Mrs. Clinton J. Berberick when the fire broke out on Feb. 4.

The prosecutor is said to believe he has a strong case against Vanderpool, who was on diversion probation at the time of the fire. He was convicted of carrying a concealed weapon in April, 1981.

Maintaining a good image important for cook, too!

By AUNT LIZ

One thing is universal in this world.

Everyone of us wants to be loved and liked by everyone.

Maintaining a good image publicly is not new. For years screen stars, some of the very rich and other famous people courted newspaper columnists and radio commentators to say kind words about them.

Large industries all have a public relations department which certainly could be called "The Please Love Us Department".

The first and only job I ever had was just that. When someone loudly complained that if there were two telephone companies in the city, such things they were unhappy about would never have happened, it was might job to cool them off.

I think if I had readily agreed with them, I would have been out looking for a new job.

No one has ever objected to private people nor businesses spending their money for this sort of thing, but when something really public tries it, that is for the birds.

The United States Postal System has just forked out over a half a million to find out why people hate it.

I could have told them for nothing, and maybe postage rates would not have zoomed up.

It is large and has problems that really cannot be helped. We all love our local ones. The people are nice and many, many times go out of their way to do favors over and above what they should be doing.

Many of the problems most of us have had over the years with mail are not local, but in the very large centers where it goes to be sorted.

Maybe it has gotten simply too big and it is not important that something mailed to a nearby town of maybe six miles away must go about 25 miles each way before it gets delivered.

One thing can be said. Things really do not get lost, just a little misplaced, and will surface a week later. That has happened to me. It can be irksome, especially when you have paid extra for special handling, but then every penny counts when special surveys are paid for to make something look good.

One thing I must say. Over the years very important things have been mailed, and they get where they are going, for which everyone should be grateful.

For the most part the most valuable things we seem to get are good recipes that a friend of our kids have thought we should try.

This came from a large family picnic in Topeka, in two days, with a note, "Sorry you were not here, but try this and pretend you were."

It is simple and probably one of those recipes that has been passed over the whole country because it is national and not regional.

Grease a square baking dish.

Mix in a bowl three fourths of a cup of flour, one cup of sugar, a fourth of a teaspoon of baking powder, a dash of salt, a half cup of cooking oil, two unbeaten eggs, a half teaspoon of vanilla, a cup each of chopped nuts and dates.

Mix it with a sturdy wooden spoon. Bake at 350 for a little over a half hour.

It will keep nicely if properly wrapped, and is great for those carry to school lunches.

Bug spraying planned here

Fire department have arranged for mosquito spraying in the village.

The area for the chicken barbeque is included, and arrangements are being made with the Richland county health department to spray the southern section of the village. Traps set out last week indicate the spraying is warranted.

ORDINANCE NO. 12-82
AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE ISSUANCE OF NOTES IN ANTICIPATION OF THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS FOR THE PURPOSE OF ACQUISITION OF AN AMBULANCE FOR THE AMBULANCE DIVISION OF THE VILLAGE OF PLYMOUTH; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, pursuant to Ordinance No. 9-82 passed June 22, 1982, this Council authorized the purchase of an ambulance, for the Ambulance Division of the Village of Plymouth, and it appears advisable in lieu of issuing bonds for said purchase at this time, to issue notes in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds; and

WHEREAS, the Clerk as fiscal officer has certified to this Council that the estimated life of the aforesaid acquisition is at least five years, and that the maximum maturity of the bonds hereinafter referred to is twenty-five years, and the maximum maturity of the notes hereinafter referred to, to be issued in anticipation of said bonds is August 2, 1983; now

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the Village of Plymouth, State of Ohio, 4 members thereto concurring:

Section 1. That it is hereby declared necessary to issue bonds of the Village of Plymouth in the aggregate principal amount of $5,000 for the purpose of acquisition of an ambulance for the Ambulance Division of the Village of Plymouth.

Section 2. That such bonds shall be dated approximately August 2, 1983, shall bear interest at the estimated rate of Ten and one quarter per centum (10.25%) per annum, payable in twenty-five (25) substantially equal annual installments after their issuance.

Section 3. That it is necessary to issue and this Council hereby determines that notes in the aggregate principal amount of $5,000 shall be issued in anticipation of such bonds. Such anticipatory, notes shall bear interest at a rate of ten and one quarter per centum (10.25%) per annum, such interest to be payable at maturity, or at any date of earlier redemption; with provision that if requested by the purchaser, such notes shall bear interest after maturity at such rate of interest not to exceed eight per centum (8%) per annum as may be required by the purchaser until the principal sum is paid. Such notes shall be dated August 2, 1982, and shall mature on August 2, 1983, but, if agreed to by the purchaser thereof, shall be issued subject to redemption prior to maturity at par and accrued interest, and shall be issued in such numbers and denominations as may be requested by the purchaser thereof.

Section 4. Such notes shall be executed by the Mayor and Clerk and bear the seal of the corporation, shall be payable at a depository bank of the municipality to be designated by the Clerk when such notes are awarded, and in federal reserve funds of the United States of America if so requested by the purchaser thereof, and shall express upon their faces the purpose for which they are issued and that they are issued pursuant to this ordinance.

Section 5. Subject to the rejection of such notes by the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund for investment in such fund, such notes shall be and hereby are awarded and sold by the Clerk at private sale at the par value thereof together with any premium and accrued interest thereon and at an interest rate not exceeding that specified in Section 3 of this ordinance; and the fiscal officer is hereby authorized and directed to deliver such notes, when executed, to such purchaser upon payment of such purchase price. The proceeds from the sale of such notes, except any premium and accrued interest, shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose for which such notes are being issued under the provisions of this ordinance. Any premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of such notes in the manner provided by law.

Section 6. The Village of Plymouth hereby convenants that it will restrict the use of the proceeds of the notes in such manner and to such extent, if any, as may be necessary, after taking into account reasonable expectations at the time the debt is incurred, so that they will not constitute arbitrage bonds under Section 103(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations prescribed under that Section. The fiscal officer or any other officer, including the Clerk of Council, having responsibility with respect to the issuance of such notes is authorized and directed to give an appropriate certificate on behalf of the municipality, for inclusion in the transcript of proceedings, setting forth the facts, estimates and circumstances and reasonable expectations regarding the amount and use of the proceeds of such notes pursuant to said Section 103(c) and regulations thereunder.

Section 7. Such notes shall be the full general obligations of this municipality and the full faith, credit and revenue of this municipality are hereby pledged for the prompt payment of the same. The par value to be received from the sale of the bonds anticipated by such notes, and any excess funds resulting from the issuance of such notes shall, to the extent necessary, be used for the retirement of such notes at maturity, together with interest thereon, and are hereby pledged for such purpose.

Section 8. That during the years while such notes run there shall be levied on all the taxable property in this municipality, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually not less than that which would have been levied if bonds had been issued without the prior issuance of such notes. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended uponb levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner, and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before an in preferance to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which, together with the interest collected on the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of such notes or bonds in anticipation of which they are issued, when and as the same fall due, provided, however, that in each year to the extent the income from the Ambulance Service is available for the payment of such notes and bonds and is appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the income so available and appropriated.

Section 9. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things required to be done precedent to and in the issuance of such notes, in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of this municipality, have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form as required by law; that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will have been exceeded in the issuance of such notes.

Section 10. The Clerk of this Council is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the appropriate County Auditors.

Section 11. That it is hereby found and determined that all formal actions of this Council concerning and relating to the passage of this ordinance were adopted in an open meeting of this Council, and that all deliberations of this Council and of any of its committees on or after November 28, 1975 that resulted in such formal action, were in meetings open to the public, in compliance with all legal requirements including Section 121.22 of the Ohio Revised Code.

Section 12. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, property, health, safety and welfare of this municipality, and for the further reason that the immediate issuance and sale of the notes herein authorized is necessary to provide funds for the Village to purchase an ambulance for the Ambulance Division.

Section 13. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Winner!

Mrs. Dean Hamman's entry in Class 2 was chosen best-in-show at Shiloh Town & Country Garden club exhibition Saturday.

Mrs. Hamman winner of best-in-show award

No one was surprised that Mrs. Dean Hamman's entry in Shiloh's Town and Country Garden club's annual show won "best of show".

She does it every year, and everyone expects it. If she didn't, every one would be crushed.

Her entry in the classification of "Down by the Old Mill Stream" also took the blue ribbon in that division.

Mrs. Florence Yarger was second and Mrs. Frank Dosson was third.

Mrs. Hamman also took three more blue ribbons, which makes her the "greenest thumb" in the club.

Winners in each classification were Mrs. Hamman and Mrs. R. E. Russell, "Everything Coming Up Roses"; Karen Russell, "Country Road"; Mrs. Hamman, "In the Garden"; Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Dosson, "How Great Thou Art"; Margy Hamman, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Yarger, "Little Brown Jug", Mrs. Hamman, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Dosson, "Beautiful Ohio", and Mrs. Thomas DeWitt and Mrs. Dosson, "You Light Up My Life."

This year's theme was "Favorite Songs".

The gladioli in the specimum classes were outstanding with Mary Keesey taking most of the blue ribbons.

Very few roses were entered this year. Franklin Holt, Plymouth, took a first and third place ribbon.

Safety group to meet

Village council's safety committee will meet Monday at 7 p. m. in the village hall.

It will be the first meeting of the committee with newly appointed Police Chief Robert Conley.

The department's inventory will be reviewed, and there will be a discussion of department activities.

Tracie, seven, is the daughter of Mrs. Elaine Tackett, 83 Plymouth street, and the granddaughter of the Robert Tacketts, Wall street.

Aaron, eight, and Teresa, five, are the children of Fire Chief and Mrs. Wayne E. Strine, 70 North street. The Wayne H. Strines, 145 Maple street, and Mrs. James Holloman, 44 Bell street, are the grandparents.

A new title, "I Crossed That River", written by Wade Spencer, is the latest recording by the Spencer family, Shiloh, which has just entered the Gospel Top 40 Circle. Trail Records, Kingsport, Tenn., has issued the 45 rpm disc, which may be bought at Mack's Super Valu.

Color guard

Eighty per cent of color guard, auxiliary, Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, Shiloh: Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. Frank Cline, Mrs. Kenneth Shaffer and Mrs. Fred Bauer.

Tony, eight; Andrew, five, and Amanda, three, are the children of the Larry Classens, 183 Maple street.

Jenny, five, and Michelle, three, are the children of the Joseph Woodmansees, 85 Portner street. Grandparents: the Percy Deans and the Charles Woodmansees.

First citizen of Rome, albeit self-proclaimed, is Thomas J. Cregar, in complete hirsuity and candor, displayed his bashful friend, Pietro, in the sunlight in Main street during Shiloh's ox roast. Pietro delighted customers of the ox roast with indoor activities unsuitable for photography in a family newspaper.

Harry B. Forquer, 148 Trux street, keeps this mule, Shorty, as transportation when he's coonhunting. He also exercises the animal from time to time and Saturday's parade at Shiloh was a fine opportunity to do so.

Orva Dawson, long active in Masonic circles and a past worshipful master of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, drove a T Totaler miniature for the Shriners in the parade at Shiloh Saturday evening.

Together, we can change things.

She made that tiny little part stand out and took her bows to thunderous applause.

Bravos for Aunt Ethel.

I was born in a tough little town where the people worked hard for a living. My family loved to sing and dance and a trip to the theater was a real treat. But the idea of having an actor in the family was something that wouldn't go down easy.

"Listen, Pop, it's what I want to do. I know I can be good at it and I'm not really interested in working in the mill." I was trying to explain to my father why I felt I had to leave home and get some money for acting school in New York.

I'd been bitten by the acting bug in high school and was determined that acting was going to be my career.

My father shook his head and explained in a pained voice, "Now look, son, if you wanted to be a doctor or maybe a lawyer, I could see digging up every cent I could lay my hands on to help you through school and all, but an actor?"

He put his hand on my shoulder and continued, "It's not a job for a grown man. Playing make believe all your life. I wish you'd think about it some more."

Aunt Ethel seemed to be the only one in the family with any interest in the theater at all. She'd been the star of all the high school plays and was big in the local playhouse that had existed before it closed for lack of interest.

She came to see me in every play at school and was very encouraging.

"Tell you what, James," she said, "I've been on the Payroll Savings Plan at work since I was a young girl and I've got lots of Savings Bonds put aside. Now, I'll make you a loan to go to New York and get some training. I know you've got more talent than almost anyone I've ever seen."

I could hardly believe such a generous offer. "Well, the people around here don't agree with that. Besides, I couldn't take all your savings on that kind of gamble."

She shook her head and said, "You won't fail. And when you get where you're going, you'll pay me back in full." Then she smiled. "Maybe you can give me a front row seat to one of your big hits ...as a bonus."

After a lot of arguing I finally agreed and spent some hard years in New York before I got lucky.

And I really did get lucky. Being in the right play, in the right part, at the right time, and all of a sudden I was on my way. All the hard work began to pay off. And I paid off Aunt Ethel.

But that was just money. I wanted to give her that bonus, so I had her flown into New York for a small part in my new play.

Last night we opened to rave reviews. Aunt Ethel still has the magic. She made that tiny little part stand out and took her bows to thunderous applause.

"If you had never returned a cent, but just gave me this night, it would have been payment enough," she sobbed as we sat backstage after the final curtain.

Knowing Aunt Ethel, she probably meant it.

Parties settle Didion suit

A $1.7 million damage suit against the village and other defendants has been settled out of court.

Widow of Mark Didion, who was killed in December, 1976, in Ripley township when a water truck of the fire department overturned, filed the suit against the village, Goodyear Metal Products division, International Harvester Co. and Portersville Stainless Steel Products Co.

Goodyear settled its part of the suit out of court in March, 1981.

All parties to the suit have now agreed to dismiss the case. Costs are paid by International Harvester co.

The suit contended a rim of the truck was defective and Goodyear, manufacturer thereof, was negligent in not issuing a warning.

Fazzini named village clerk

The retired superintendent of Plymouth schools is the new village clerk.

HOMER BEARD

John Fazzini, a 57-year-old grandfather twice over, who lives at 312 East Main street with his wife, Lucille, was appointed Sunday and began his duties Monday. He succeeds Mrs. Sidney Ream, who resigned effective Aug. 6.

Fazzini was one of several applicants for the post but the only male. He is the fifth male to hold the job since Guy Flora was elected to it in 1965.

Fazzini is a native of Clarksburg, W. Va., He dropped out of high school during World War II to join the Navy. He saw service in the battleship USS New Jersey. After discharge, he obtained his high school diploma and a degree from Salem college, Salem, W. Va. He began to teach in Ohio and acquired a master's degree in business administration from the University of West Virginia at Morgantown. He came here from Rosewood school in Champaign county to teach elementary school and be principal in 1959. He retired as superintendent in 1981. Since then he has been engaged in the sale of real estate.

Fazzini is a member of First United Presbyterian church, of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American LEgion, and of Plymouth Lions club, of which he is treasurer.

Planners submit zoning proposal

For the fourth time in about 25 years village council has a zoning ordinance to consider.

It was presented by the planning commission, spearheaded by John Fazzini, Tuesday.

The major change from what exists now in the village is that the commission is asking the council to rescind the present trailer ordinance, which allows one to be placed on 9,200 square feet of land.

It is asking that all trailers be restricted to mobile home parks.

Those in place now may remain, but once removed, another cannot be installed.

The commission proposes an area between Plymouth street and Springmill road be reserved for a mobile home park.

The designations of residential and business areas follow essentially what exists now.

Heavy industry is designated for the area near Plymouth Locomotive Works, light industry for the area at the north end of the village west of the railroad tracks.

Unbuilt areas in the village, which is mostly farm land, is designated as residential, which will preserve the areas that are now purely residential.

The business district will be slightly expanded to take in more of Trux and Portner streets and New street.

Small neighborhood business such as insurance and real estate offices will be scattered as they are now throughout the village.

What the ordinance and the accompanying map is attempting to do is to set up areas so that future annexation will fall into the proper patterns of maintaining designated areas.

Foley files $6.3 million law suit

Biggest law suit ever filed by a Plymouth resident was laid in Cuyahoga county common pleas court July 29 when attorneys for John Foley sued Banner Industries, Inc., Cleveland; Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., Plymouth; Commerical Lovelace Motor Freight, Inc., Columbus; Elite Security and John Douglas Gruber for slightly over $6 million.

The suit arises from injuries sustained by Foley on Oct. 6, 1980, when he was run over by a police vehicle that was pushed by a truck alleged to have been operated by Gruber.

Foley seeks $3 million, his wife $2.5 million for loss of consortium. An additional $750,000 in damages is a part of the suit.

House burns as Mitchells visit here

The Mitchells had left the house about 8 p. m. to come to Plymouth. About an hour later the flames were seen and the North Fairfield Fire department was called.

It is thought the blaze was caused by faulty wiring.

Mr. Mitchell is the brother of Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, village income tax director, and well known as a football referee.

Street repair to be finished this week

The village' street paving project will be completed this week.

The paving of Riggs street, which is dependent on the $10,000 block grant from Richland county should be completed this month.

James C. Root, village adminstrator, hopes the funds will be forthcoming by Aug. 20.

Employer promotes Beard

Husband of the former Jean Carole Carnahan, Plymouth, Homer V. Beard has been elected vice-president of administrative services by directors of Gates, McDonald & Co., a Columbus-based administrator of unemployment and workers' compensation and industrial safety programs.

Beard, a Navy veteran, joined Gates, McDonald 13 months ago as assistant vice president of administrative services. He is a Columbus native and Ohio State university graduate, with a master's degree from Ohio university.

MICHELLE HAMMONS

2,000 watch parade; Miss Hammons queen

A crowd estimated at 2,000 turned out Saturday for the parade that highlighted the Firemen's Festival.

Police Chief Robert Conley acknowledged that some complaints were received objecting to "drag racing".

Conley declined to classify the offense as "racing", but he said no one was given permission to race, squeal tires or do "burn outs". He labelled the complaints as "legitimate". He promised that if another parade takes place, there will be no similar offenses.

Conley also acknowledged that some non-residents complained that Route 61 was blocked. He said he will coordinate with the firemen later to insure that a different route is chosen for another parade.

Michelle Hammons, daughter of the William Hammonses, was named queen of the festival Friday night. Miss Congeniality and first runner-up was Kelly Wilson, daughter of the David Wilsons.

Jeffrey Wade Brown was arrested by Patrolman Ronald Croxford when Croxford was making a routine patrol near Sohigro Service Co. He saw two cans of gasoline and a hose in the back of a pickup truck. He found Brown hiding in the truck.

Cyclist, 22, dies after collision in Route 103

A 22-year-old Bloomville man employed by Warren Turf Nursery in Base Line road was killed Aug. 4 when his motorcycle was forced into a ditch in Route 103 south of Celeryville.

John A. Ball, Sr., died in Mansfield General hospital of injuries received in the collision. It is reported five men were required to remove him from the ditch.

Ball was riding a motorcycle south in Route 103 and approached a bridge over a small creek at the same time as a Holthouse Bros truck operated by Charles A. Shreve, 24, Greenwich.

State highway patrolmen said the truck went left of center and forced Ball off the road.

Born in Willard Jan. 14, 1966, he was the son of the Herbert Balls.

He was a member of St Stephen's Roman Catholic church in St. Stephens.

He is also survived by his wife, nee Janet Myers, whom he married in 1980; two sons, John A., Jr., and Jamie; three brothers, Mark, Chris and Gary, all of Bloomville, and two sisters, Brenda, Upper Sandusky, and Sandra, at home.

Who stole farm tools of Carter?

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the disappearance of a tractor, a lawn mower, an air compressor and some tools from three buildings on the premises of Roy Carter, 31 Bell street, in Willett road, Cass township, Aug. 1-2

Will village seek fresh levy to fund police department?

A special council meeting Tuesday will determine exactly how much new tax and for how long will be placed on the November ballot to benefit the village's general fund.

Looking ahead to the end of the present income tax which expires in December, 1983, the council is faced with the problem of how to continue funding the police department.

Mayor Dean A. Cline suggested at the last council meeting that thought be given to placing a three mill levy on the ballot to benefit the police department.

If passed, this would take the burden off the income tax money, of which about 50 per cent is going into the police fund, and allow more money for capital improvements, such as street repair.

John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, told the council that one mill now is bringing in about $10,000 in tax money. The village does not yet know what the exact millage is since the new property evaluations have been put into effect. An attempt will be made to get an approximation.

The mayor warned the council to carefully consider the pros and cons of a police levy with the renewal of the income tax practically on its heels.

Councilman John E. Hedeen said a levy for the general fund that can be used for any department would be a wise move. Councilmen Roy Barber and Ronald Predieri agreed with him.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said a new levy should be solely for the operation of the police department. The village can afford to take a chance on a renewal of the income tax.

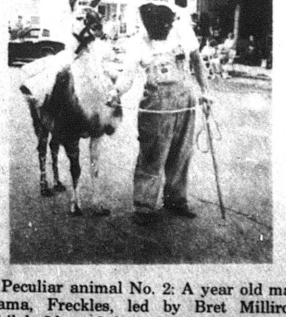

Hedeen said the electorate had once defeated the income tax and thinks it would happen again. Hopkins said the fact that two police levies had been defeated previously was because of the "black eye" the department had at the time.

The mayor agreed with Hopkins and said, "My personal opinion as a taxpayer is I prefer to have police protection rather than to patch potholes."

If the income tax is defeated, the one fund to suffer the most (providing a police levy does pass so that department has funding) is the streets.

Tuesday will tell the tale.

Will the burden of the wage earner paying the income tax be changed so that it is shared by more, the property owners?

Censorship exacerbates Auntie: will promoters give up TV?

By AUNT LIZ

There is one word in our language which can be lived without.

It is "censorship".

Every now and then some good people get the idea that school libraries and others are filled with dirty books.

Books that kind of say things that have been said since the beginning of known history are some of our masterpieces that every child should read.

Our favorite program, "60 Minutes", had a rerun about it all not long ago, and some gal got up and said, "There go the dictionaries." They, of course, are known to print just about everything.

A book you can read privately, but somehow I got to wondering after watching a very well done play on PBS. It was written by one of our well-recognized modern writers and made a real point, the older man taking advantage of a younger woman, then going home to his well-regulated life and wife.

Who got to me was one scene — I screeched at you-know-who and asked "What ARE they doing" — as though I could not see, even though the lights were supposedly turned off in the bedroom scene on the screen.

Will these people who want to clean out every good library give up their TV sets? I doubt it, and most os them have the special programming now so they can see bigger and better than what the ordinary networks do.

The whole idea can really be conveyed with great finesse, with good actors and actresses.

We watched a series also on PBS which had not one shady word nor action in it, and for six weeks, that is a TV record.

There was no question what the hero wanted to do with the heroine, and she looked as though she agreed.

What I would like to know is how these parents who are holier than thou explain to their kids where the kids came from. Even the stork story had to be out in this day and age, because there are not that many left around to be in the delivery service.

Storks may be getting scarce, but cooks are not.

They pop up in some of the most unexpected places. The thing about it all is that you cannot tell by looking at a person if she or he is a good cook. It is a real hidden asset.

No cook in his right mind is going to stand over a hot stove for hours in this weather no matter how much he loves the people he is cooking for.

Mix some sandwich fillings from eggs, tuna, chicken or left-over ham that was cooked before it got so hot and muggy.

A sandwich with a large salad sprinkled lavishly with pieces of cheese and several choices of dressings is almost enough.

Not quite though. You should have something hot to call it dinner.

And since this is zucchini season, fry away. Slice them with onions like you would for fried potatoes. To give them a little tang, add some cinnamon to the frying stuff you are using after it has melted.

Newsy notes . . .

Mrs. Richard Roll and her three children returned Saturday from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harborn, Fairfield. Mr. Roll's mother and father brought them home and spent the night here.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

I wish to protest the irresponsible behavior of some of the drivers of "souped up" cars in the Firemen's Parade on Saturday, Aug. 7. They displayed total disregard for the safety of children sitting on tree lawns along the parade route. I think they should have been removed from the parade and arrested for reckless driving. I resent being more or less a captive audience of such a vulgar performance!

It was the one dark spot in an other wise thoroughly enjoyable weekend. I love a parade and I thank the Firemen and their Belles for bringing us this one along with the other activities they sponsored.

Take the heat off next winter's budget.

These are average monthly payments. Yours may be higher or lower.

Last winter's heating bills are probably the last thing on your mind right now. But August is the time to put a lid on next winter's bills by getting on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan. It averages out your natural gas bills over 12 months, so you pay a manageable amount each month.

To get on the Budget Payment Plan, simply pay the "MONTHLY BUDGET" amount on your August bill. There's no extra charge, and your meter will still be read regularly. And next July, you will be billed your budget amount plus or minus any difference between your total annual budget and the actual amount used during the year.

So, take the heat off next winter's budget by getting on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan now. And while you're at it, ask for a copy of our free "Everyday Energy Saver's Guide." It has hundreds of tips to help you conserve energy . . . and save money.

COLUMBIA GAS

There's a better way to predict your next electric bill.

You don't need a crystal ball.

You need the Equal Payment Plan. A Plan that smooths out the ups and downs of your monthly electric bills. Your bills fluctuate with the seasons. Up in winter. Up in summer. Down in spring and fall.

With the Plan, you'll pay a fixed amount each month, based on your average annual electric usage. It means you can defer part of each winter's heating and summer's cooling electric bills to spring and fall.

The Plan gives you a better, easier way to put together a household budget. Without surprises.

Your account will be reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And, at the end of the twelfth month, you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Now your electric bills can be very predictable. With the Equal Payment Plan. Just send in this coupon for more information.

I would like to have more information on the Equal Payment Plan.

17 lettermen seek starting roles on Big Red eleven

Seventeen lettermen are expected to turn out for the first drills of Plymouth's Big Red eleven next week.

It will be the first season for Plymouth in the Firelands conference and the first season as head coach for Richard Roll, who has served as assistant for several seasons. He succeeds David Coulter, who was fired.

Lettermen are Jeff Jacobs, three monograms; Darrel Hale, Rick Hawkins, Mike McKenzie, Greg Polachek and Brian Vredenburgh, two letters; Ron Baldridge, Tom Baker, Darren Branham, Richard Cunningham, Steve Garrett, Rodney Hampton, Robert and Steve Jamerson, Bill McVey and James Will, single letters.

Up from the reserve squad will be Don Adams, Larry Brooks, David Burkett, Mark and Scott Estes, Todd Fenner, Mike Hawkins, Scott Ryman, Greg Taylor, Todd Weber, Tim Weskins, Mike Compton, Tim Schriner, David Burks, Ron Nease and Jon Strine.

Roll's biggest problem, he says, is "developing a line".

He adds, "We don't have great size but we do have some speed. If we can school our players to play in the line effectively, we can be respectable in our league. But I won't predict a league championship in our first year."

Plymouth has not won a game in two seasons and has one victory and one tie in three seasons.

The Big Red opens with Buckeye Central at Wynford on Sept. 4.

We move into the area to help. To feed people. To provide them with the necessities of life.

Lunch prices retained; teacher, coach sesign

Parents of school children got good news Monday night: price of lunches in the school cafeterias will be the same as last year.

Plymouth Board of Education accepted the recommendation of Supt. Douglas Staggs to hold the line on luncheon prices. These are 75 cents for pupils through grade eight, 85 cents for high school pupils and $125 for adults. Extra milk costs 15 cents a half pint.

The schools adhere to a closed lunch policy, which means pupils either carry their lunch or eat in the cafeteria.

One teacher resigned and a veteran coach quit.

Four teachers were hired.

Mrs. Sondra Carey, who has encountered obstetric problems, resigned. She said she will relocate and resume teaching later in the year.

Douglas A. Dickson, head track and field coach for 14 years and head cross country coach for seven years, resigned for "personal reasons". He also resigned as adviser to the student council.

Mrs. S. Michael Tracey was hired as high school learning disabilities teacher.

Miss Linda Hartschuh, a recent graduate of Bowling Green State university, will replace Mrs. Carey.

Miss Karen Luhring, who taught last year in Springfield City district, will teach learning disabilities at the junior high level.

Wayne Whitehead, who finished last year as a substitute in the business education department, was engaged as a half-time teacher of business education. He has nine years of experience in Mansfield schools.

Assignments for extra-curricular duties were made thus:

Linda Hartschuh, volleyball; Joni Renaldi, high school musical; David Dunn, head boys' basketball coach; John Hart, Paul Gase, Terry Pore and William Flaherty, assistants; Keith Diebler, head girls' basketball coach; Paul McClintock, Linda Hartschuh and Karen Luhring, assistants; Richard Roll, head wrestling coach; Linda Dobney, high school annual.

Bravos for Aunt Ethel.

I was born in a tough little town where the people worked hard for a living. My family loved to sing and dance and a trip to the theater was a real treat. But the idea of having an actor in the family was something that wouldn't go down easy.

"Listen, Pop, it's what I want to do. I know I can be good at it and I'm not really interested in working in the mill." I was trying to explain to my father why I felt I had to leave home and get some money for acting school in New York.

I'd been bitten by the acting bug in high school and was determined that acting was going to be my career.

My father shook his head and explained in a pained voice, "Now look, son, if you wanted to be a doctor or maybe a lawyer, I could see digging up every cent I could lay my hands on to help you through school and all, but an actor?"

He put his hand on my shoulder and continued, "It's not a job for a grown man. Playing make believe all your life. I wish you'd think about it some more."

Aunt Ethel seemed to be the only one in the family with any interest in the theater at all. She'd been the star of all the high school plays and was big in the local playhouse that had existed before it closed for lack of interest.

She came to see me in every play at school and was very encouraging.

"Tell you what, James," she said, "I've been on the Payroll Savings Plan at work since I was a young girl and I've got lots of Savings Bonds put aside. Now I'll make you a loan to go to New York and get some training. I know you've got more talent than almost anyone I've ever seen."

I could hardly believe such a generous offer. "Well, the people around here don't agree with that. Besides, I couldn't take all your savings on that kind of gamble."

She shook her head and said, "You won't fail. And when you get where you're going, you'll pay me back in full." Then she smiled. "Maybe you can give me a hoot now and then to one of your big hits ... as a bonus."

After a lot of arguing I finally agreed and spent some hard years in New York before I got backs.

And I really did get backs. Being in the right play, in the right part, at the right time, and all of a sudden I was on my way. All the hard work began to pay off. And I paid off Aunt Ethel.

But that was just money. I wanted to give her that bonus, so I had her flown into New York for a small part in my new play.

Last night we opened to rave reviews. Aunt Ethel still has the magic. She made that tiny little part stand out and took her bows to thunderous applause.

"If you had never returned a cent, but just gave me this night, it would have been payment enough," she sobbed as we sat backstage after the final curtain.

Knowing Aunt Ethel, she probably meant it.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

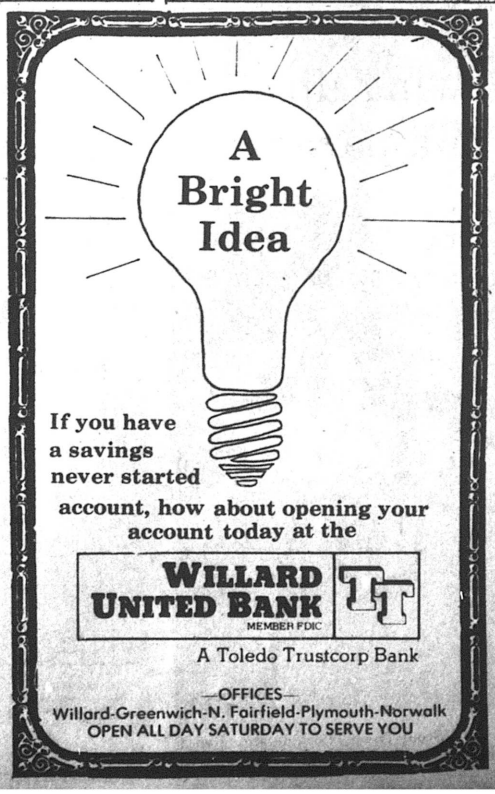

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.

Power rate hike subject to hearing in Washington

Ohio Power Co.'s proposed rate increase is in limbo at the moment.

A hearing has been set for Aug. 27 in Washington, D.C., by the Federal Energy Regulatory commission to hear testimony from several parties, including the local communities that purchase power wholesale for distribution to their municipal users.

Plymouth, Thiloh and Greenwich are part of the group that has hired John Sawvel, Findlay, to represent them in fighting the rate increase.

A meeting was conducted Thursday in Findlay, which Councilman John Hedeen and Village Administrator James C. Root attended.

No positive action was taken pending the Aug. 27 hearing, which Hedeen plans to attend.

To pay for the increase and pay legal administrative fees, Plymouth's share will not be more than $2,856.

The total cost is estimated at over $131,000, which is being pro rated among the 14 municipalities according to the number of kilowatt hours purchased from Ohio Power.

Hedeen said this week that during the five month suspension of the rate increase, which has een filed in Washington and becomes effective Dec. 28, the municipalities have the opportunity for furthre negotiations and that no reasonable increase would be ignored.

Can polar bear swim?

It amounts to public outcry in our case when we receive three indignant letters on the same subject.

Our policy is to ignore those that are unsigned.

The whole world knows that we'll go to the hospital, or the morgue, rather than reveal the name of the author of a letter to the editor. We proved that on Dec. 24, 1957.

Nevertheless, the contents of at least one letter, purported to have been written by a high school pupil, disturb us sufficiently that some comment is required.

Those who have positive evidence of wrongdoing, of whatever nature, should take it to the police department. That the evidence in question involves a former member of the police department is not material; no one can complain of shoddy police work if he does not deliver his proof to the department.

Persons who observe the committing of a felony may make a citizen's arrest. One must be sure he knows what a felony is.

Was what happened on Aug. 7 felonious? We doubt it. Was it unacceptable, inexcusable, deserving of public ridicule? Can a polar bear swim?

No new tax on Nov. 2 ballot

By three to two vote during a special meeting Tuesday night, village council decided not to consider any fresh taxation for either the maintenance of the police department or a tax simply for the general fund, which could be used in any village department.

Mayor Dean A. Cline, who strongly urged that the electorate be given the opportunity to express their desires by voting on a tax, was opposed strongly by Councilman John Hedeen and G. Thomas Moore.

Moore simply said he does not feel the economic condition of the community can tolerate an additional tax.

"The atmosphere is not right now", he said. Although he did admit that fresh taxes will be needed in the future, now the village can hold off.

He pointed out the income tax is in effect and the village has over $300,000 (in bank investments).

He urged no action be taken until the income tax is about to run out, which will be Dec. 8, 1984.

Hedeen, who is opposed to a fresh tax wholly specified for the police department but favors a tax to benefit the general fund as a whole, contended that half of the present income tax money is being used to run the police department rather than used for capital improvements, which it originally had been intended for.

He said the improvements so badly needed now are the result of neglect in the past, and he complimented Moore on the work which had been done by the council since last fall in making some improvements.

He also said the people has talked with do not want any more taxes heaped on them, which is what Moore had said.

Councilman Terry Hopkins, who has been infavor of a new levy solely for the police department, said the petition presented to the council last month urging the appointment of a police chief showed the people do not want to give up the local department.

He said it meant they would be willing to vote for a levy to more adequately finance it.

The mayor had explained that if a police operating and maintenance levy were put on the ballot, it would be continuous, whereas a levy for the general fund could only be in effect for five years, according to law.

Today is the last day any levy can be filed with the board of elections, except for an emergency school levy, to be voted upon in the November election.

The next chance a new tax can be voted upon will be in the June, 1982, primary election.

So with Hedeen's words, "Back off tonight", the vote was taken not to consider any levy now.

Hedeen, Moore and Councilman Ronald Predieri voted yea. Hopkins and Councilman Barber voted nay.

Don't be put off by reputation: garlic is healthy, tasty food!

By AUNT LIZ

In case you are planning a vacation to Spain, a little practice will be very helpful.

The Spanish have a great love throughout their country.

It is called garlic.

The Italians are also very fond of it and it is apparent when you ride a trolley car after lunch.

Medically it is great for stomach disorders. The Europeans may not have ulcers, just liver ailments from too much wine.

Once I had a tummy problem and was given some large black wafer-like pills that were laced with the stuff to the point that I downed them encased in marshmallow, and got cured. I also stopped eating so much strong Swiss cheese and drinking too much strong black coffee which was causing it all.

One of the mainstays of the Spanish diet is garlic soup, and it is good plus being a great way to use bits of leftover meats and vegetables.

Try it, and it might save you a jaunt to Spain.

This is for four servings.

Peel four cloves of garlic and cut in half. Cut crustless day-old bread into bite size pieces. It would be better if you used a sturdy type of bread like home made rather than the store-bought stuff.

Combine the two in a skillet with four tablespoons of olive oil. Cook until they are a nice golden shade. Mash the garlic and half the bread pieces into a paste. To this add a teaspoon of paprika, a little salt and some freshly ground pepper.

Add this to four cups of either chicken or beef broth plus any left overs.

Bring to a boil and simmer for 10 minutes.

Then carefully slide four eggs into it so they poach. To serve, have the egg in the middle of the bowl with the rest of the bread pieces scattered around it.

One of our most cherished recipes has 32 cloves of garlic in it, and you would never know it.

It is supposedly a French stew, and like all stews it is better aged a day.

Peel the garlic cloves and toss into a large pot with four pounds of good stew beef pieces. Pour in a bottle of dry red wine, the cheaper, the better. Cook slowly for at least four hours.

It is great on rice, which soaks up the broth.

This is a large recipe and even though we have never frozen it because we kept right on eating it, it should freeze like a dream.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

Thanks, many, many times for that splendid editorial on, "The American Flag."

We truly are living in a lost culture. One that has few requirements. Something beside war is needed to awaken the many wonderful people that you spoke of. Yet, we see them on television, paid a million dollars a year, more or less, and they are incompletely in disregards of the American flag.

It was nice to know your voice carried weight. How, when and where you would strike. All in the frame work of each citizen and democracy.

Yours was the voice in today's wilderness. Spoken with convictions. It rang with truth! A perfect salute to "Old Glory".

May I again thank you? We are so lucky to be Americans. So very lucky indeed.

Sincerely yours,
Rev. Howard L. Ferguson

She made that tiny little part stand out and took her bows to thunderous applause.

Bravos for Aunt Ethel.

I was born in a tough little town where the people worked hard for a living. My family loved to sing and dance and a trip to the theater was a real treat. But the idea of having an actor in the family was something that wouldn't go down easy.

"Listen, Pop, it's what I want to do. I know I can be good at it and I'm not really interested in working in the mill." I was trying to explain to my father why I felt I had to leave home and get some money for acting school in New York.

I'd been bitten by the acting bug in high school and was determined that acting was going to be my career.

My father shook his head and explained in a pained voice, "Now look, son, if you wanted to be a doctor or maybe a lawyer, I could see digging up every cent I could lay my hands on to help you through school and all, but an actor?"

He put his hand on my shoulder and continued, "It's not a job for a grown man. Playing make-believe all your life. I wish you'd think about it some more."

Aunt Ethel seemed to be the only one in the family with any interest in the theater at all. She'd been the star of all the high school plays and was big in the local playhouse that had existed before it closed for lack of interest.

She came to see me in every play at school and was very encouraging.

"Tell you what, James," she said, "I've been on the Payroll Savings Plan at work since I was a young girl and I've got lots of Savings Bonds put aside. Now I'll make you a loan to go to New York and get some training. I know you've got more talent than almost anyone I've ever seen."

I could hardly believe such a generous offer. "Well, the people around here don't agree with that. Besides, I couldn't take all your savings on that kind of gamble."

She shook her head and said, "You won't fail. And when you get where you're going, you'll pay me back in full." Then she smiled. "Maybe you can give me a front row seat to one of your big hits ... as a bonus."

After a lot of arguing I finally agreed and spent some hard years in New York before I got lucky.

And I really did get lucky. Being in the right play, in the right part, at the right time, and all of a sudden I was on my way. All the hard work began to pay off. And I paid off Aunt Ethel.

But that was just money. I wanted to give her that bonus, so I had her flown into New York for a small part in my new play.

Last night we opened to rave reviews. Aunt Ethel still has the magic. She made that tiny little part stand out and took her bows to thunderous applause.

"If you had never returned a cent, but just gave me this night, it would have been payment enough," she sobbed as we sat backstage after the final curtain.

Knowing Aunt Ethel, she probably meant it.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.
You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.
That's what everybody says.
And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.
And we'll all have more to show for it.
More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.
For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.
Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.
Which brings us back to the original question.
Would you hire you?
America. It only works as well as we do.

Huron county fair seeks public funds

A fresh tax of one-tenth of a mill, amounting to 10 cents for each $1,000 of tax valuation, will appear on the general election ballot in Huron county in November.

Although the ballot language won't say so, the tax is to bail the Huron county fair board out of debt and to provide it with some "walking around" money.

Commissioners voted Aug. 16 to earmark the funds for the fair board. The tax will raise about $40,000 a year for each of the two years it will run.

The fair board owed about $36,000 before undertaking its annual extravaganza last week.

Whatever is collected over and above its debts will be applied by the board to capital improvements, which haven't been specified so far.

The fair board chose the 1/10 mill levy because approval requires only a plurality of the vote, whereas a 2/10 mill levy to run for one year, specifically earmarked for the fair board, would require a majority of 55 per cent of ballots cast.

Zoning given first approval

First reading of the proposed zoning ordinance was passed unanimously by village council Tuesday night.

Councilman John Hedeen suggested the council take this action as a time saving device so that the Justinian Co., which has codified the village ordinances, and the solicitor may study it.

The mayor said it is his fault that the solicitor did not as yet have a copy, but will correct this at once.

This action, the council agreed, gives the village residents and the business community a chance to study its aspects and voice their opinions.

A copy and the accompanying map can be seen in the village office during regular office hours.

Anyone with a question concerning trailers and mobile home parks, which the council feels is the most controversial part of the ordinance, is urged to review it. Persons who own land within the village with adjoining land outside the corporate limits are also urged to study it.

Hedeen's nomination was seconded by Councilman G. Thomas Moore and the council's vote was unanimous.

back to school
Our children are the most precious part of our lives. It behooves us that they get the very best possible to start them on the path of life to be assured that they will uphold the ideals of our churches and our country.
The main tool to give them these qualities is to be certain that they are taught in schools that reflect the best a community can offer them.
We think this is being done, and as the opening day of school approaches, it is with happiness we watch the youngsters, carrying their books, walk up to the school door with the eagerness that only a child can show.

Plymouth downs Lucas in scrimmage, 3 to 1; Red to meet Hillsdale

Saturday's scrimmage with Lucas, which Plymouth won, three scores to one, proved once again an old football adage: at this stage of the season, the defense is ahead of the offense. The corollary is: a good defense is the best offense.

The Big Red defense, which hasn't been much to write home about of late (Plymouth hasn't won a game in two seasons and only one in three), performed creditably against the Cubs, admittedly rusty after a season of no play enforced by budget cuts. Co-Capt. Greg Polachek at defensive tackle was a stalwart on his side of the line. The outside linebackers, Chad McGinnis and Brian Vredenburgh, were exceptional performers. And the secondary, comprised of Tom Baker, Rod Hampton, Darrel Hale and Darrin Branham, was outstanding.

"We still need a good line," said Coach Richard Roll after looking at the films, "and we'll work on that this w ek and at Hillsdale Saturday morning."

Fans wishing to see the Hillsdale scrimmage should proceed east in Route 603 to Route 30, turning east (left) to the school site in the south side of Route 30. Admission is free.

Plymouth will be hard put to produce an acceptable record this season. It's not that the Big Red isn't improved. Save for Edison, a Class III school, Plymouth's isn't overmatched by enrollment. It's that its opponents have improved as much as Plymouth has and coming off a more successful season rightly are accorded the roles of favorites.

The Big Red's problems will be lack of depth, lack of size, lack of speed. But not lack of will. Enthusiasm, says Roll, "is higher than at any time since I came here, and this is my seventh season."

Jeff Jacobs, the other co-captain, scored two TDs on passes, one of three yards and the other covering 40, and Rod Hampton, the passer, ran for a score.

Hampton will see most of the action at quarterback. His backup is Baker.

AEP technology is another reason your rates are below the national average.

Making electricity isn't the only thing we do for you. There's a lot of money-saving research and development being done, too. By the American Electric Power System that we're part of.

Matter of fact, AEP's leadership in cost-reduction research over the last 75 years is one of the things that has helped us keep your electric rates below the national average.

It all started with AEP's commitment to coal as our primary fuel source. Because of its inherent economy and availability.

We led the way in the development of extra-high-voltage power lines. Because they're the most efficient way to deliver your electricity.

AEP also pioneered the energy-saving heat pump. And we're now deeply involved in more complex new technologies, like pressurized fluidized bed combustion, that would result in even more efficient coal usage. (Which will also help keep your bill in line.)

In the last decade, AEP has spent over $70 million in research and development. And, right now, we have more than 100 active projects.

These are just some of the efforts we're constantly making to improve your service, protect the environment and keep your costs in line while we continue to deliver all the power you need, whenever and wherever you need it.

Kimberly Ann Chronister bride of James P. Nadolski

A 1978 alumna of Plymouth High school graduated this year by Ohio State university, Miss Kimberly Ann Chronister was married Aug. 14 in St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Mansfield, to James Paul Nadolski, son of the Anthony Nadolskis, Mansfield.

The Rev. Monsignor Edward Dunn, pastor of the church, and the bride's minister, the Rev. Julian Taggart, First United Presbyterian church, conducted the ceremony.

Baskets of yellow gladioli, white snapdragons and yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

Daughter of the William Chronisters, 328 Willow drive, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of dacron organza over taffeta and netting. It was styled with Empire bodice, Queen Anne neckline with seed pearls and long, full sleeves trimmed with Chantilly lace. The A-line skirt fell into a chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil was supported by a cap of Venice lace and seed pearls. She carried yellow roses, white daisies and gree-tipped carnations.

The bride's sister, Jody Lynn, now Mrs. Charles West, Willard, matron of honor, wore a floor-length gown of maize knit. The bodice was suspended from spaghetti straps and the pleated skirt was styled with a sunburst motif. Her jacket of chiffon matched the color of the gown. It was trimmed with lace at the neck and wrists. She carried a basket of white daisies and green and yellow bridal blossoms.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Woodward, Bellville; Miss Wanda Denig, Mansfield; Mrs. James Enderby, Plymouth, and the bridegroom's sisters, Cathy and Lynn, Mansfield.

Each was attired as the matron of honor.

The flower girl, Bethany Steele, Mansfield, niece of the bridegroom, wore a floor-length gown of yellow with small flower print.

Mark O'Brien, Shelby, was best man. Steven Dropsey and David Weirick, Mansfield, served as groomsmen. Harold Diener, Robert Andro, Mansfield, and Mr. Woodward ushered.

Mrs. Rosemary Lamb was soloist, accompanied by Neil Kraft, organist. Miss Christine Kenyon was guitar soloist.

Mrs. Chronister chose a floor-length gown of light green knit with jacket. She wore white roses and daisies and yellow bridal blossoms.

Mrs. Nadolski watched from the front pew in mint green of floor length knit with pleated skirt. She wore white roses and green bridal blossoms.

A reception took place in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, where the Donald Metzgers catered. Miss Lisa Baker registered guests. Mrs. Robert Whiteman, Columbus, the bride's cousin, and Lori Tolliver served guests.

The bridegroom was graduated in 1978 by St. Peter's High school, Mansfield. He attended Ohio State university and is employed by Tappan Co., Mansfield.

The bride will be a substitute teacher in Richland county schools. She is employed part-time by Service Merchandise Co.

The couple is living in Shelby.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Maud Chaney, Parma Hts., was a special guest. So were Mrs. Eva Lindsey and her child and the Don Woolstemhulmes and children, Mary Lee and Ali, Chula Vista, Cal.

What do we all talk about? The WEATHER, that's what!

By AUNT LIZ

There is one thing we all share, worry about, use to plan this and that and gripe like mad about.

WEATHER.

What is about the most important part of a news broadcast? Especially in the winter?

That is when I am glued to the receiver.

A few weeks ago, ahen there were so many nice things planned for Sunday, it poured rain, and I sat in my favorite kitchen thinking there should be a law prohibiting rain on any Saturday or Sunday.

I really think weather bothers older people rather than the young.

Right now I can vividly remember some of the terrible storms of the last 10 years or so, but the only bad one I remember from way back when was the three days St. Paul was snowed in but good. It actually was the only time I could remember such a deal, and I was then 21. (Ed. Note: And McKinley was president!)

It really snows more up there than it does here, but somehow the people could cope with it much better than now.

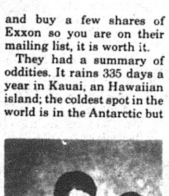

We were very carefree and thought it was great. We were all at a friend's house playing bridge when it started, and it kept coming. None of us could get home, but everyone could get there, with more beer and cigarettes. We had a ball for three days.

Best one start planning ahead. The other day on the radio some gal called in with a really interesting tidbit that I had never heard before. It is pure fiction, but she said it works out.

The first snow is to come so many weeks after the first real frost, and she guessed it would be about Nov. 11. I even wrote it down.

Then we got a very interesting trade publication ion esting trade publication in the mail. You should rush out and buy a few shares of Exxon so you are on their mailing list, it is worth it.

They had a summary of oddities. It rains 335 days a year in Kauai, an Hawaiian island; the coldest spot in the world is in the Antarctic but some people in a Siberian village say they are coldest; the sun shines 97 percent of the time in the eastern Sahara desert, and the hottest place in the world is in Ethiopia, at the end of the Red sea.

Devon, seven; Travis, four; Nicole, four, and Todd, two, are the children of the Larry J. Baileys, 140 Maple street.

Promotion to staff sergeant, USAF, is reported by Randy Waddles, son of the Oscar Waddleses, 90 Walnut street, assigned to Howard AFB in Panama, where he lives with his wife, Pamela, and their daughter, Shelly. Sergeant Waddles is assigned as a plumbing specialist.

I have no idea where Coffeyville, Kan. is, but they had a real experience Sept. 3, 1970. It hailed and one stone was found that was over seven inches and weighed a pound and a half. I would suspect that now the residents go around with steel helmets when it is raining.

Weather really affects what you eat. Soon as it is coolish, on goes our oven (this makes Columbia Gas delirious with joy because gas bills are supposed to go down in the summer).

With berries growing all over the countryside, this is pie time.

A good berry deserves a good crust. It may be a little extra work, but worth it.

Lard is the best answer in a really flaky crust.

The other secret is ice water.

Measure two cups of flour, throw in some salt if you want, then cut in two-thirds of a cup of lard. Mash it around with a sturdy fork. Then add a fourth of a cup of the water. Then get your hands into it all and pull it all together into a ball. You may have to add a speck more water, because you want it a little moist so when it is rolled out on a floured board, it will really roll.

Shilohan convicted of theft

A Shiloh woman was convicted of theft in Mansfield Municipal court last week and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Anita S. Hill, 68 Euclid street, received a suspended jail sentence and was placed on probation for 30 days if she makes restitution.

'68 alumnus wins Ph. D.

A 1968 alumnus of Plymouth High school, Timothy rook received the doctor of philosophy degree in speech when Bowling Green State university conducted its summer commencement Saturday.

Eldest son of the William E. Rooks, Shiloh, he holds the baccalaureate degree of Heidelberg college, Tiffin, and the master's degree of BGSU.

His dissertation was titled "The Role of Divergent Personality Patterns as They Pertain to Viewer Assessment of Minority Characters on Commercial Television".

His wife is the former Sheryl McQuown, daughter of the Norman B. McQuowns. With their daughter, Heather, they live in Tiffin.

Zoning given first approval

given to an ordinance to allow village departments to sell surplus equipment.

The fire department had decided to put its antique 1929 model A truck on the block.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said it is to be advertised in antique trade magazines and should as a collector's item bring in a nice sum.

The mayor said he has had an inquiry about the placing of individual trailers and after searching previous minutes has discovered that no action was taken several years ago to prohibit them, as former Mayor Eric Akers had suggested.

The placing of a trailer on the Enderby property in Route 61 south, which the mayor was referring to, evoked the wrath of Jack Arthur, the property owner to the south of Enderbys.

He claims that placing of the trailer will lower the value of his home and property by $20,000.

Legally, he said, they may be placed where they meet the requirements of the existing ordinance.

Councilman Ronald Predieri told the council Kenneth Reiderman has approached him about changing his electric service from the village's system to Ohio Power Co.

Legally, he said, they may

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.

First Buckeye to terminate all operations in Plymouth

First Buckeye Bank, N.A., will terminate its operations in Plymouth as soon as possible, in any event no later than July 31, 1983.

The announcement was made to stockholders by certified mail Aug. 25.

Efforts to sell the Plymouth operation have been in course for some time, the bank said. These have not so far proved fruitful. If a sale cannot be effected, the bank said on page 7 of its report to the stockholders, it will abandon the banking operation here.

Reason for the action is that the new owner of First Buckeye, Trustcorp, Toledo, fears that the regulating authority will disapprove the merger of First Buckeye Bank, N.A., with Trustcorp unless the combine divests itself of the Plymouth operation which would otherwise give it a dominating position in the banking business in southern Huron county. Trustcorp already controls Willard United bank, with offices in Willard, North Fairfield and Greenwich as well as Plymouth.

When Avery C. Hand, Jr., chairman and president of First National Bank of Mansfield, attended a luncheon for J. Rives Childs, retired American ambassador to Ethiopia and Saudi Arabia, here on Nov. 26, 1975, he told the editor of The Advertiser that negotiations to merge with Peoples National bank had resulted in refusal of the smaller institution to accept First National's offer. Some fresh data were furnished Hand by the editor. On Jan. 5, 1976, the two banks announced intent to merge. This was approved Mar. 30, 1977. At the time, Peoples National had assets of $16,081,617, with a surplus of $531,250 and undivided profits of $375,473.64.

First National paid $25 a share for Peoples National stock. This amounted to $1,265,625. Considering there was $905,723.64 in cash included in the transaction, First National paid only $359,901.36 for the banking business in Plymouth.

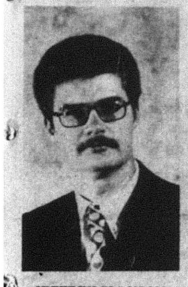

In its announcement to its stockholders of Aug. 25, dated Aug. 20, First Buckeye says assets of its banks in Plymouth amount to $14,041,394, with deposits of $13,887,553 and loans of $5,529,019.

Buckeye says in its report it is "unable to predict at this time whether these offices can be sold before July 31, 1983, the date after which Buckeye or Trustcorp may unilaterally terminate the merger agreement, or the terms on which it may be able to dispose of these two offices. However, Trustcorp does not expect that the effect on the ... net assets of Trustcorp and Buckeye as a result of the proposed disposition will be material."

Under terms of the merger, Toledo Trustcorp's offer provides that stockholders in First Buckeye will receive for each share of common stock of par value of $5 one share of newly issued Trustcorp no par preferred stock paying a cumulative dividend of $2.90 annually. The preferred stock is redeemable after five years at $26.50 a share and is convertible into 55/100 of a share of Trustcorp stock at any time.

First Buckeye had assets of $271 million at the end of last year. Deposits amounted to somewhat over $229 million and loans to about $84.5 million. Net income during 1981 was $3,770,819. Book value of First Buckeye stock was $22.41 on June 30, when the stock was sold for 18½ bid, 19½ asked.

New principal hired to succeed Craycraft

JEFFREY SLAUSON

Jeffrey Slauson, 37, assistant principal of Copley-Fairlawn Junior High school, succeeds James R. Craycraft as principal of Plymouth High school.

He began his duties Monday.

Slauson was hired by the board of education Saturday after it interviewed final candidates for the post Craycraft is vacating to become superintendent of schools in Ridgedale district at Morral, Marion county.

Slauson was graduated by Marion Catholic High school in 1963. He took his baccalaureate and master's degrees from Ohio State university.

He taught in Marion schools as OWA and English instructor and then went to Copley-Fairlawn schools, where he served the last four years as assistant junior high school principal.

He is married and the father of two children, a son eight and a daughter four.

The Slausons plan to move to Plymouth as soon as feasible.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

An idea ripens!

It is 20 years since Plymouth Board of Education was asked to reexamine its policy of authorizing religious instruction during school hours on school premises.

The request was buttressed with written opinions of the Medina county prosecutor, where the question had been raised, and of the Ohio attorney general.

The board declined to change its position. Each year since, the same objection has been raised by the same person. In recent years it got to be more or less of a joke: the board knew the objector would speak up (the objection grew milder as the objector aged and his children were no longer in school) and the objector knew the board understood what it was doing was unlawful, illegal and unconstitutional, yet it would persist it is error.

Now, under threat of legal action by an organization with substantially more legal horses than the objector could muster, and with substantially less to lose in public esteem by objecting, the board has heeded the advices of its legal counselor and withheld approval of the program.

We'll state, once again, for the umpteenth time, our stance: if the board wants to allow the children to put on their boots and leave the school to go to a church for religious instruction, we'll carry the kids on our backs so long as it holds out. But if it wishes to place those children in a public classroom, heated with public funds, swept by personnel paid by public money, nothing doing!

The law is the law.

And there is nothing so proper as an idea that has ripened, a thought that, at long last, has reached its time.

Religion classes put in limbo

Exactly 24 years after it was first asked to do so, on the grounds that conducting Bible classes in the public schools in unconstitutional, Plymouth Board of Education voted unanimously Thursday night to postpone resumption of such classes.

A request to resume the classes filed by North Richland County Council of Christian Education was tabled.

The board acted after a closed executive session with the county prosecutor, John Allen, himself a born-again Christian and the son of a prominent fundamentalist minister in Mansfield.

American Civil Liberties union has filed a complaint against Plymouth Local School district and three others that the classes are illegal.

Gist of U. S. Supreme Court decisions is that released time for religious instruction may be authorized but pupils may not attend classes in public school buildings and the schools may not in any way foster or assist the program.

Induced to quit here —

Sturman seeks $750,000 from Illinois business

The former president of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., has sued the employer that lured him from here for $750,000.

William S. Sturman, Mansfield, who says he resigned from PLW on May 14, charges in his suit that Varlen Corp., Rolling Meadow, Ill., induced him to quit here and then withdrew an offer of a high-paying executive job.

Sturman's petition, filed in Richland county common pleas court, was filed by Terry Kilgore, a Mansfield lawyer. It asserts that J.J. Conner, president and chief executive engineer of Varlen, promised him a position as president and chief operating officer of a newly formed locomotive manufacturing operation, with an annual salary of $55,000, a guaranteed bonus of $15,000, use of an automobile, paid hospitalization, paid life insurance and other benefits.

The 53-year-old Sturman says that, based on Conner's promises, he resigned here from a post that paid him $60,000 a year, plus use of a car, a $100,000 life insurance policy, stock options and a substantial pension. He says he was employed by Varlen between May 24 and June 9, when he supplied Varlen with "valuable information" and perfomed "valuable services" for the development of a locomotive manufacturing plant, including establishment of a 24-month management timetable organized in six month increments, development of a market analysis on the state of locomotive manufacturing, preparation of computer programming information system and the preparation of some work-up process formats.

Sturman says he received two months' salary from the defendant.

Big Red to face Buckeye Central

The question at Wynford Saturday night is this: "Has Buckeye Central been weakened by graduation enough that an improved Plymouth team can win its first game since Oct. 13, 1979?"

Game time is 8 p. m. All tickets at the gate are $2.50. Best route to the stadium: Proceed in Route 98 to Route 30, turn west (right), continue in Route 30 until sighting the Wynford stadium in the north side of Route 30 at the west edge of Bucyrus. Driving time is about 40 minutes.

Plymouth has won and lost a scrimmage. After defeating Lucas here, 3 to 1, on Aug. 21, the Big Red went to Hillsdale Saturday and was handed a 4 to 1 defeat. Coach Richard Roll laid the loss to "mental mistakes, on which we will have to work."

What does he expect Saturday?

"We know that Buckeye Central means to throw the ball. The Buckeye Central coach told us that last February, when we met them in wrestling. We know they've lost a number of players by graduation. The question is how much has the loss of these players hurt the Buckeye Central team. We think we're improved, but whether we have improved enough to beat them won't be known until Saturday night.

"I'll tell you one thing: this team is more eager to play football than any team I've been associated with since I came here in 1971."

Roll's offensive starters will be Co-Capt. Greg Polachek over the ball, Steve Jamerson and Mike McKenzie at guards, Bill McVey and Junior Adams at tackles, Jim Will at tight end, Darren Branham and Tom Baker, who'll carry in the plays, at split end.

Backs will be Rod Hampton, the southpaw quarterback; Co-Capt. Jeff Jacobs at halfback, Richard Cunningham at fullback and Darrel Hale at flanker.

On defense, some of the starters will see double duty. These are Cunningham and McKenzie, inside linebackers; Polachek, McVey and Will at tackles, Hale, Baker, Branham and Hampton in the secondary.

Other starters on defense will be Dave Burkett, middle guard; Rick Hawkins and Chad McGinnis as outside linebackers, and Rick Hawkins, outside linebacker.

There are many good ways to make your money work for you. And some not so good. So don't leap into anything without taking a long, hard look. Especially if you have no savings in reserve.

And if you don't have enough savings, look into U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds do make sense.

They guarantee the interest. They're guaranteed against loss, fire, and theft. And the Payroll Savings Plan is a sure, easy way to guarantee savings. Federal income tax may be deferred and there's no state or local income tax.

A little is set aside each payday for U.S. Savings Bonds. Your savings will grow until you're ready to reap the rewards of regular saving.

Saving is one of the most important financial decisions you'll ever make.

Take stock in America.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or longshoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.

Red to open at home with Columbia Station

A crippled, but, one hopes, not demoralized Plymouth eleven opens its 1982 home season tomorrow against Columbia Station, a tough Lorain county school that took on Western Reserve last week and came away on the short end of a 39 to 20 count.

The game was played on the Lorain county field and the host team didn't do too well. It managed only 125 yards rushing against a team that's figured to place third in its division of the Firelands conference and it got but 25 yards passing.

Meanwhile, the Roughriders were amassing 320 yards on the ground and absolutely none up top in grinding out their victory, put together with 22 points in the first half and 17 in the final period.

Columbia Station nearly tied the game in second period after Western Reserve had taken an eight point lead when Frank Vibonese sprange into the end zone from three yards away. Paul Medvets ran 75 yards with a kickoff return late in the fourth period after Vibonese had scored again from a yard away in the third quarter which closed the gap to 22 to 14.

Plymouth's defense will need to be sharper than it was 'at Wynford Saturday, when it gave up 250 yards on the ground and only 35 in the air. In pre-season drills, it was feared the pass defense would be suspect but that the defense against the running game would be satisfactory.

With Rod Hampton on the sidelines for perhaps seven weeks, Coach Richard Roll needs to look for another quarterback. He may have him in Tom Baker, who spelled Hampton during the pre-season scrimmages.

Plymouth's running game appears to bein good shape so long as its two main guns, Jeff Jacobs and Richard Cunningham, remain healthy.

Game time is 8 p. m. All tickets at the gate are $2.50. Pupil tickets at $1.50 are for sale in the high and the junior high schools today and tomorrow at $1.50.

Here's schoolboy football slate for this week:

TOMORROW:

New London at South Central;

Western Reserve at South Amherst;

Seneca East at Monroeville;

Black River at Keystone;

Crestview at Hillsdale;

Columbia at Plymouth.

SATURDAY:

Margaretta at Edison;

St. Mary's Central Catholic at St. Paul's.

Twelfth grade leadership of Big Red team will come from these lettermen: Rick Hawkins and Co-Capt. Jeff Jacobs, kneeling, and Co-Capt. Greg Polachek and James Will, standing.

A mistrial was requested by the public defender, Russell Leffler, because testimony by the records administrator of Willard Area hospital might suggest to the jury, he said, that Stover had beaten Mrs. Nestor in May, when she was treated in the hospital.

'No abandonment'; First Buckeye ordered to sell

Abandonment of its operations in Plymouth is "out of the question", officers of First Buckeye Bank, N.A., said Friday.

"The Federal Reserve system has ordered us to sell the Plymouth banks and warned us that it will not approve the merger unless we sell the Plymouth operation."

They said overtures to several prospective buyers have been made and that discussions with some of them continue.

Jacob Gaubatz, vice-president of First Buckeye, said, "We don't anticipate any problems in the sale of the branches."

Officials pointed out that First National Bank of Mansfield stock worth about $26 a share was exchanged for Peoples National bank shares at the rate of three for one in 1977, when the two institutions merged. They also insisted that the undivided profits of $375,473.64 reported by Peoples National at the time of the merger "belonged to the shareholders and not to First National".

$14,119 appropriated

Plymouth will receive $14,119 from the local government fund in Richland county, the budget commission ruled Aug. 31.

The commission is comprised of the prosecutor, John Allen; the auditor, Freeman Swank, and the treasurer, George Griffith.

Plymouth's allocation is exactly the same as that for Lucas and Shiloh.

Shelby will get $124,250. Lexington and Ontario will receive $28,239 each. Bellville will get $16,943.

No formula for the division of the funds was disclosed. Huron county's local government fund is distributed among municipalities in proportion to their population, after a sizable chunk is set aside for distribution to the townships.

Federal grant money allocated to Richland county is being temporarily held up, James C. Root, village adminstrator, says.

Plymouth will receive $10,000 from the grant, which will be used to resurface Riggs street.

The major sum of the grant will be used for a sewer project north of Mansfield, which apparently is the stumbling stone.

Root thinks now that it may be another month before the village receives its share.

Last-ditch heroics produce victory over Buckeye Central

Plymouth snapped a 24-game string without a win at Wynford Saturday with a come-from-behind victory over Buckeye Central, runner-up for the Ohio Class A championship in 1981.

The score was 20 to 13. The winning points came with only six seconds left on the clock.

Plymouth played two opponents on this pleasant night. One was Buckeye Central, in itself a formidable foe. The other was the Plymouth team, equally as difficult to manage by its own personnel as was Buckeye Central. Plymouth had five turnovers, three pass interceptions and two fumbles. The Big Red had first down inside the Bucks' 10-yard line on two occasions and inside their 25 on another and could not score.

What Coach Richard Roll, a winner in his bedut as a head coach after six sessions as an assistant, feared proved true in the first period. "I am concerned that we can't handle the big play," he said.

And he turned out to be right. Plymouth took the opening kickoff and pounded from its 46, where it was in possession after a fine runback of the boot, and drove to the Buck 35, only to punt into the end zone.

After gaining five yards, Buckeye Central went to the air. Darrin Branham nailed the throw and Plymouth was in business at the Bucks' 16.

Jeff Jacobs got three and limped off with a slight injury. He was to return two plays later and continue manfully throughout the game, winding up with 124 yards in 14 carries.

Richard Cunningham, who gained 65 yards in 15 tries and who scored the winning touchdown, hit left guard for five. Rick Hawkins got a yard and on fourth down Rod Hampton passed to Hawkins. The play lost a yard.

The Bucks took over at their six.

On the first play, their dought quarterback, Ken Kaple, broke off left tackle and darted upfield. Twenty-two yards later, he lateralled to Randy Payne, who went the rest of the way for the first score. The play covered 94 yards. The place kick for PAT did not succeed and the Bucks led by six.

Plymouth came right back to threaten again. Jacobs gained 44 yards in a burst off right tackle that was halted at the Buckeye Central 11. But Plymouth drew a 15-yard penalty and started out again at the Bucks' 45.

Nine plays later the drive fizzled out. Stopped cold at the 21-yard line, Plymouth sought to break the drought with a field goal by James Will. The kick was wide.

A fumble at the Buck 43 halted the next drive.

Buckeye Central drove to its second score in the ensuing series.

A 21-yard pass play from Kehres to John Michelfelder was the big gainer. From the three, Mary Houston plunged over the goal line. Buckeye Central had covered 57 yards in nine plays. Bill Hinklin kicked the PAT.

Plymouth retaliated with a vengeance.

The Bucks' kickoff went to the Red 36. On the first play Hampton found Tom Baker alone in the secondary and hit him with a perfectly-thrown pass. Baker sped the rest of the way to the end zone. The play covered 45 yards. Will kicked the PAT.

Plymouth was just into Buckeye Central territory in its next drive, only to lose possession by interception on the last play of the first half.

Plymouth kicked off to start the second half and forced the Bucks to punt.

The visitors drove from their 44 to the Bucks' four yard line, only to lose possession on another interception, this one by Steve Nedolast.

Kaple engineered three consecutive first downs and Buckeye Central was in possession at Plymouth's 25 in the next series. On fourth down, the left side of the Plymouth line swarned on the Buck signal caller and stopped the drive less than a yard short of first down.

Plymouth gained handily in the next series, only to lose possession again, this time at the Buck 40, where Darrin Branham fumbled after taking a pass from Hampton.

The third period ended two plays later.

In the van by six at 13 to 7, Buckeye Central disdained to play it safe. Plymouth fans figured the Buck coach wished to run up the score.

Only a Buck fumble, recovered by Plymouth at its 12, stopped the first Buckeye Central possession of the fourth quarter.

But the visitors couldn't advance and were compelled to punt. Co-Capt. Greg Polachek booted 40 yards to the Buck 43. On third down, Branham intercepted Kaple's toss and Plymouth was in business again. this time at its 23. The Big Red couldn't gain, and Polachek sought to punt on fourth down.

The snap sailed over his head and the ball bounced around in the end zone before the punter was able to retrieve it. That he got the ball away was a minor miracle. But the Bucks roughed the kicker and the ensuing 15-yard setback gave Plymouth first down at its 36. Unable to gain, and with less than three minutes left in the game, Plymouth was faced with fourth down and five yards to go at its 41.

The play came in from the bench, as did every play in this contest.

It was a buck over the middle, which Buckeye Central promptly smeared.

At this point the Bucks had the game locked up if they would but stick to a game plan that called for time-consuming ground plays, most of which were gaining good yardage through the Big Red's tired line.

But Buckeye Central elected to go up top. The first two plays were passes. On third down a pitchout gained absolutely nothing and on fourth down the Bucks punted dead to the Plymouth 17.

On first down, Hampton lateralled to Jacobs, another southpaw, and the co-captain drew a bead on the speeding Baker. He found him 22 yards downfield with a bullet throw and Baker raced 77 yards to the end zone.

Will kicked the PAT and Plymouth has a hard-fought tie at 13.

The clock read 1:12 remaining when, from its 31, Buckeye Central set out to win by going up top again. The third throw was nailed by Hampton and he sped 57 yards to the end zone. There were some who thought he stepped out of bounds at about the Buck 17. But the officials said Plymouth was holding and they set the Big Red back 15 yards and handed the ball back to the home eleven.

On the very next play, Kaple threw over the middle, Cunningham tracked the throw and intercepted it. Then he ran right through the bedazzled Buck team for 62 yards and the winning score. There were six seconds left on the clock. Will kicked the PAT again.

Buckeye Central had time for one play and it fizzled.

Only time will tell if Buckeye Central has fallen so far or if Plymouth has improved so much.

The probability is that it is six of one and a half dozen of the other.

Hampton out for seven weeks

Plymouth football hopes received a deadly blow Sunday.

The Big Red's starting quarterback, Rod Hampton, was involved in a motorcycle collision and received a dislocated right shoulder that will keep him out of play for six more games.

His apparent replacement is Tom Baker, who scored two of Plymouth's three touchdowns Saturday against Buckeye Central.

Another letter winner, Darrel Hale, will be absent from the squad.

He did not play Saturday and will not be eligible to play for the remainder of the season.

He has moved to South Central district to live with his natural father and will play for the Trojans.

GAS SAVERS

Looking for ways to save gas and money? One of the simplest solutions is to drive your car a little less. Here are six ideas you can use to keep your foot off the gas and more money in your pocket.

Call ahead to be sure you aren't wasting gas on an unnecessary trip. On the average, a wasted trip costs you a dollar's worth of gas.

Shop, bank and pay your bills by mail. A 15¢ stamp is a lot cheaper than a gallon of gas.

Ride a bike or take a hike. You'll feel more fit, and you'll have more money to spend when you get where you're going — since you didn't waste it on gasoline.

Ride to work with a friend or neighbor just one day a week and you can save at least $100 worth of gas every year.

Take public transportation as often as you can. You'll save gas and help reduce air pollution, too.

This free booklet can show you a lot more easy ways to save gas and money. To get your copy write "Energy," Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830 or mail the coupon below.

At least one expert attests to marmalade's good taste

By AUNT LIZ

After the first week or so after the beginning of school, I have come to the conclusion that it is harder on young mothers than anyone else.

More seasoned mothers love it all. This gives them time to do all the things they had to put off all summer so they could be kind of like a watchdog.

The kids really love it all. There may be a few tears at the kindergarten door, but those gals who teach those classes seem to have caught on about solving that little problem.

I have heard this from several mothers scattered locally and across the countryside.

Their kids had received nice notes from their teacher welcoming them and you know how much a little one loves to get mail, even though he cannot read yet.

I have even heard of one teacher who called all the kids she would be having for the year to tell them how happy she was that they were coming to her class.

And no one can resist such flattery.

The first few years of school are the most important.

What goes right may stick for life, but if it goes wrong somewhere, it can end up in sadness.

Kindergarten is probably the best year of all.

For me it simply was the most outstanding school year I can remember. What other class serves the tastiest paste?

The young teacher I had was a friend of my mother and I overheard her saying that I was the big PROBLEM in the class because I was eating the stuff as fast as she dished it out.

They really never said anything to me about it, probably thinking that pure flour and water couldn't hurt. Today, though, may be different. Most likely the stuff had additives to make it stick, since the flour is not what it used to be.

Our children have almost made me afraid to eat anything. I now look at labels, which I never did before. What really shattered me was a friend who told us that Ohio has let down on its requirements of what goes into a nice looking wiener. Someone, according to our friend, leaned on the state legislature and it did its work and he says never buy a wiener made in this state. I look at them fondly, and wonder if hunger should conquer what I know. I love wieners.

Still you can come up with really pure things to make and enjoy eating.

We just polished off a batch of marmalade which cannot be purer, unless someone laced the sugar with something.

Find some half ripe melons. You need five cups of them, cubed. Peel and slice two oranges. Save the rind, which gets grated up. Combine the melon and oranges with three tablespoons of lemon juice. Bring to boil for 15 minutes, then add four cups of sugar and a teaspoon each of grated orange and lemon peel.

Cook this, stirring away until it is thick and clear. Pour into jars and seal with parafin.

We have only made one batch so far, but the next one will have about a cup of raisins in it. It does not turn out really thickish, rather liquidym and is good on a slice of bread, and I'll bet would be even better on cornflakes.

It is about the purest thing I can think of, and really a pure joy to make, one pan for it all, and one measuring cup will do the trick.

Since we do not have a dishwasher, and I am it, I judge every recipe for how many things must be dirtied. Which is really a lazy attitude for a happy housewife.

If you're not careful, your TV or CB antenna could put you in touch with a lot more than you bargained for.

Like many do-it-yourself projects, installing your own TV or CB antenna can save you money. But unless you take proper precautions, it could put you in touch with our power lines.

And the slighest contact between you, your antenna and our lines, could be fatal.

So, before you put up your antenna, here are a few suggestions you should follow.

First, we recommend you have a professional do it for you.

Okay, if you're determined to do it yourself, look out for power lines. The ones attached to poles. And the ones attached to your house.

If you can't tell a power line from a phone line, don't experiment. Steer clear.

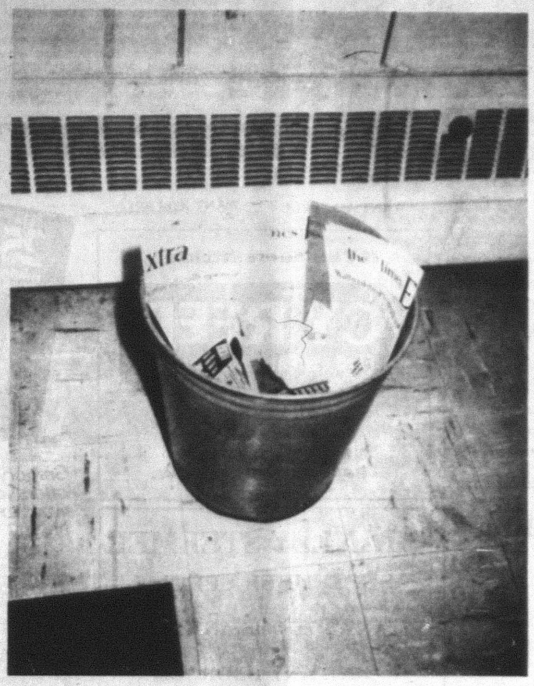

Then make sure you locate your antenna (including supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. Which means, a 30-ft. high antenna should be 45 feet away from all power lines in all directions.

That way, if it falls during construction, or gets blown down during a storm, it won't hit any lines and endanger you or your neighbors.

Wait for a calm day, assemble the antenna where you intend to put it up, be sure to ground the antenna properly and get somebody to help you.

And remember: Ladders don't mix any better with power lines than do antennas.

Hamman resigns

School board president leaving district

After 13 years as member of Plymouth Board of Education, the Rev. Arthur H. Hamman resigned Monday night.

The resignation takes effect at once.

He will leave the school district.

A condition of his assignment as minister of First Wesleyan church at Mansfield is that he reside there.

Hamman is succeeded as president of the board by Mrs. Roger Pugh, who was at once sworn by the treasurer, Mrs. Frederick E. Ford.

To choose a successor to Mrs. Pugh as vice-president, two nominations were made, A. George Miller and Don M. Echelbarger. At roll call, Echelbarger and Mrs. Pugh voted for Miller. Miller and Charles Reinhart voted for Echelbarger. The question will be researched and resolved at the next meeting Oct. 11.

Supplementary contracts were approved for Miss Karen Luhring as assistant volleyball coach, Terry Pore as junior high school cross country coach and Mrs. Carole Kirkpatrick as high school student council and ninth grade cheerleader advisor.

The board approved without dissent applications by several pupil groups to engage in selling projects.

These are sale of popcorn in crystal containers by pupils of Plymouth Elementary school, sale of seeds by fourth and fifth graders, sale of magazine subscriptions by sixth, seventh and eighth graders, sale of Christmas products by student councilmen in the junior high school;

Also, candy by the Class of 1984, candles by the Class of 1985, spices by the Class of 1986, cook books by the FHA, suntain oil by cheerleaders, cheese and sausage by musicians of the band, pizza and submarine sandwiches by the jazz band, citrus fruit by the FFA.

Volleyball pupils will sell dates on a planning calendar and footballers will stage a lift-a-thon.

Robert Bast was employed a tutor for two boys, brothers, who were injured in a collision and cannot now attend classes.

For the first time in history, the high school musical will present a Sunday matinee performance on Nov. 21 at 3 p. m. Choice this year is "The Music Man".

Enrollment figure won't be official until the first week in October. Unofficial figures, Supt. Douglas Staggs said, show enrollment dropped by 23 pupils to 1,223. Enrollment in the junior high and elementary schools is up slightly, Staggs said. That at Shiloh is 635, at Plymouth Elementary 197. He said kindergarten enrollment is over 100 pupils for the first time in several years. High school enrollment is off sharply to 391 pupils.

Volunteers to serve Plymouth Elementary school as teachers' aides and Shiloh Elementary school as nurses' aides were approved.

These are Miss Cheryl Garber, and Mmes. David Felver, Ronald Combs, Leonard Branham, Jerry Julian, Richard Gullett, Robert Hall, James McClure, David Gibson, Bill Young, Johny Scott and Edgar Fletcher, Plymouth, and the Rev. Ronald Atkins and Mmes. Paul Kranz, James Vanderpool, Joan Cornelius, David Myers, Emmett Bond, John Echelberry, Daryl Clemans, Thomas Myers, Jr., Robert Pennell, Richard Adams, Michael Oney, John Ferguson, George Shepherd, Shiloh;

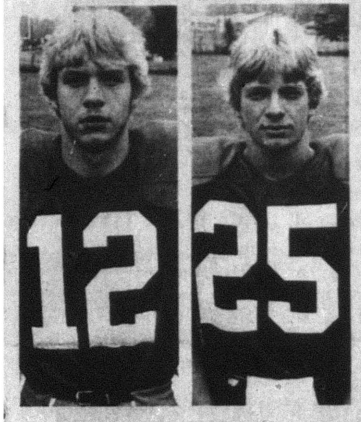

Also, Mmes. Rebecca Armstrong, Linda Gregory, Fred Bauer, Charles Pennell, Francis Gowitzka, Carmela Lawrence, Connie Donnersbach, Clifford Stumbo, Edward Powers, Harold Smedley, Howard Cuppy, John Voldrich and James Wagers.

A policy to participate in the free and reduced price luncheon program with federal subsidy was approved. The federal government will reimburse the district 11 cents for reduced price meals and $1.15 for free luncheons.

Revenues deriving from taxation during the current tax year will be based on 4.4 mills within the 10-mil limitation and 21.3 mills of voted millage, for a total of 25.7 mills, lowest in Richland county, for general fund purposes. Bond retirement taxation amounts to 2.6 mills. When an outstanding issue is settled on Dec. 31, Staggs said, bond retirment millage will drop to 2.1 mills.

Tax base against which these rates are applied is $31,485,940 in Richland

Co-Capt. Jeff Jacobs, 12th grader, twice a letterman, is once again in the quarterback post that he vacated last season when an upstart southpaw, Rod Hampton, came along to do the job. And what did Jacobs do? For one thing, he didn't complain. He went to do his job elsewhere and he did it well. Now that Hampton's injured, he's back at the throttle, which he hopes will call on a more spirited offense than the Big Red showed Friday night.

Tom Baker, No. 25, is Plymouth's leading scorer so far. Not that the Big Red has scored all that much: 20 points in two games, or 10 points a game. He plays at split end on offense and he's a good one. An 11th grader and a letterman, he's willing and coachable. He also plays basketball and baseball. Righthanded all the way, he'll start for Plymouth against Hopewell-Loudon here tomorrow.

Red to face Chieftains here tomorrow

If nothing else, Plymouth takes a better record into tomorrow's independent football game here tomorrow than does Hopewell-Loudon.

The Chieftains went down before Lakota's Raiders, 16 to 6, Friday night for their second defeat.

But Hopewell-Loudon gained 147 yards rushing and 50 by passing.

And it held the Raiders to a total offense of just 136 yards, of which 43 were on the ground.

This does not bode well for the Big Red offense, which hasn't done much so far.

The Chieftains beat themselves. They gave up the ball three times after four fumbles.

The player to watch for in the Chieftain offense is John Myers, an 11th grader. All he did last week was gain 123 yards on 18 carries. He has good speed and made most of his yardage on end sweeps. He gets outside the defensive end and beats the secondary for good yardage.

Hopewell-Loudon's passing game was weak. It suffered five interceptions.

Bill Fries, Hopewell-Loudon coach, said after the game, "This was the worst coached team that I've coached. But I'll say they'll come back."

The Chieftain passer is Jeff Craft. His main target is Bob Jump.

And the Chieftains have a kicker. His name is Steve Hoover. He tried a field goal from the 17-yard line Friday night and missed it.

This is a team that has frittered away its opportunities. Twice the Chieftains were within smelling distance of the end zone and failed to score against Lakota. Once the Chieftains had first-and-goal, late in the third period, and fumbled. With 4:20 remaining in the game, Hopewell-Loudon had third-and-nine to score and fumbled.

Fries feas his team is disorganized. "Myers had a good game but that's what this game was, a lot of individuals and not a team."

Game time is 7:30 p. m.

Zoning ordinance approval strikes snag by solicitor

Second reading of the village zoning ordinance was postponed Tuesday night.

However, a date for a public hearing was set for Oct. 26 at 7:30 p. m. in the village hall.

Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, who is currently studying the ordinance, said he has found some changes are necessary to make it fit into the requirements of the Ohio Revised Code.

The ordinance, which has been on view for almost a month in the village office, has had very few visitors questioning it or inspecting the accompanying map, which indicates what properties are zoned for residential, business or industrial.

Councilman John Hedeen has said he feels the ordinance should be published so people are aware of what it entails. This is contrary to Ohio law. An ordinance is only to be published after it is duly approved by the council and signed by the mayor.

Hedeen, meanwhile, has made arrangements with a Willard newspaper to publish the map.

He reported to the council from Monday night's finance committee meeting that tax money is coming in slower than had been expected, and that work is to be started on the 1983 appropriations ordinance, with department heads furnishing data regarding their needs.

Councilman Terry Hopkins reported most of the street repair is now done, except for Riggs street, which is dependent on a federal grant through Richland county.

He said the village is now using about 160,000 gallons of water daily, and that the old water tower is completely in use while the new tower has been drained so that maintenance work may be done.

He said the new ambulance vehicle has been in use for almost a month.

During August the squad answered eight calls, six in the village and two in Plymouth township. It used 52.6 gallons of gasoline to travel 162 miles.

Police Chief Robert Conley told the council that activity in his department has increased 80 per cent in August over July.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said he has had several inquiries about the appointment of Keith Hebble as a councilman. The inquirers doubt that Hebble is legally qualified to serve.

He sought the advice of the solicitor, who read his opinion. It stated that a person seeking election to the council must live in the municipality for a year, but one appointed need not.

The council was in agreement to pass a resolution top ment to pass a resolution to support the Consumers Council with other municipalities in fighting the rate raise of Columbia Gas of Ohio.

Hedeen asked his colleagues what could be worked out to help village residents obtain food stamps since the local banks no longer handle them.

Because there is no public transportation to either county seat, he said it is a hardship. Those who obtain food stamps in the county seat tend to buy their groceries there.

Sparks outlines head lice care

Head lice continue to be a major public health problem only in Huron county, says Dr. H. C. Sparks, health commissioner. The problem is epidemic in proportion. All members of society are susceptible.

Parents must be involved in protecting their childreh, since there is no immunization against lice and no guarantee that the child will not get them again. Parents can help to prevent their children from becoming infested with head lice. Children's head should be inspected daily for live lice or their eggs (nits). An ordinary shampoo used daily is advised. In addition, children need to be instructed not to use anyone else's comb or brush and not to put on anyone else's hat or cap.

If lice are found, treatment should be started promptly. To treat lice;

1) Purchase an over-the counter product (medicated shampoo) and use as directed. Repeat this treatment in seven to 10 days.

2) Soak combs and brushes in disinfectant solution or ammonia solution.

3) Wash all linen and clothing in hot water; dry on hot setting in a dryer or iron with a hot iron. Also, iron mattress with a hot iron.

4) For any clothing which is not washable, seal in a plastic garbage bag for two weeks.

5) Vacuum all furniture, rugs and carpet.

The health department staff will examine residents of the Huron County Health district in the health department office upon request.

Judge closes estate records

Taxable value of the estate of a decedent in Huron county is not a public record and will not henceforth be disclosed, Judge Thomas Heydinger has ruled.

He acted on the request of the Huron County Bar association.

Heydinger is said to have decided that such tax returns are not a public record because the state's public records law does not require that they be kept by the probate court.

Richard Lynch, a Norwalk attorney, speaking for the association, said in a memorandum to Heydinger the probate court is requested to turn all copies of the tax return over to the state tax commissioner and the probate court has no authority to keep a copy. Because the court is not required to keep a copy of the return. Lynch argued, the tax returns are not public records.

Fire levels Hainline home

Fire destroyed the picturesque home of the Paul Hainlines in Mills road early Saturday morning.

They had worked to convert it from a barn over several years.

Plymouth police received the call at 4:02 a. m. and alerted Plymouth Fire department.

Beforehand the Hainlines' son, John, attempted to call the Willard Fire department, but the call was interrupted. After attempting to rescue a few items from the burning house, he then ran to the nearby Swartz home. Al Swartz then called Plymouth.

Both fire departments fought the blaze for several hours, but it was a losing battle.

Cause of the fire is stull undetermined. The Hainlines had been out for the evening, and after retiring upon their return, their smoke alarm alerted them.

It is thought the blaze may have started in the garage. Fortunately the trailer with their motorcycles, which they had raced earlier, was left out and not parked in the garage.

They only saved a sewing machine and a small dresser. Their Siamese cat was found dead near a second floor bedroom.

The family is staying with the Hainline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hainline.

Persons wishing to donate clothing and household items may do so to Eldean Kessler, Route 224.

Zucchini makes cookie that's cheap, tasty!

By AUNT LIZ

It has got to be within the last 10 years that zucchinis have really been discovered.

They have been around for centuries, but somehow not too many of them and usually they were picked when they were slim and young and usually sauted in butter.

Then everyone started to plant them because they are so easy to grow, and grow they do. Like mad.

So this caused a small revolution in kitchens. Somehow the things had to be eaten, so everyone started devising all sorts of casseroles and ways to use them.

Take a look at an older cookbook under "z". You will find maybe four or five ways to prepare them, but no breads, no pickles, no cookies.

It's the cookie recipe that is new to our kitchen. I just heard this summer about one in Columbus, then happened to discover that a friend had been merrily making them as fast as her family was eating them.

I am sure many do not have it yet, and it is great, but a large recipe which I have been told a small family can polish it off in two days.

Measure the dry things first. That way you save washing measuring cups.

This is it: four cups of flour, one and a half teaspoons of baking soda, two tablespoons of baking powder, a teaspoon of salt, a half teaspoon each of ginger, allspice and cinnamon, a fourth of a teaspoon of ground cloves and two teaspoons of vanilla.

Then cream two and a fourth cups of sugar with three-fourths of a cup of shortening, add two egs, beat well, then add three cups of grated and drained zucchini.

Slowly add the dry ingredients.

When well mixed add two cups of raisins and a cup of nuts.

Drop on a greased cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees.

They can be frosted when they are baked or can be sprinkled with a mixture of sugar and nutmeg before going in the oven.

These keep very nicely, too, so you can make them ahead and hide them.

Over the weekend I learned something else that will bring pure joy to many meals.

What is so dumb about it all is that it is so simple that hardly anyone has thought it up.

It also comes from a friend who had eaten extra special onions in a restaurant, but different from what he had been eating all his life, so he asked the waitress what the big secret was.

Something called paprika! Something every kitchen owns.

Saute the onions until they are tender, then sprinkle on the paprika, which gives them a delicate little flavor plus a little rosy color.

You can't see a natural gas leak but you can look for some common signs.

Unfortunately, natural gas is invisible. And by itself, natural gas is odorless. That's why we add a distinctive smell before it enters your home. For your protection. Although natural gas leaks are uncommon, we add that smell so you'll be able to recognize them should one ever occur. There are other recognizable signs, too. And it's important that you know them, and know what to do should you spot one.

Common signs include: A smell of gas inside or outside. A hissing noise. Blowing dirt. Bubbling water over a submerged pipe. Or dying vegetation around service lines.

If you smell gas in or around your home: 1. First check to see if a pilot light or burner may be out. 2. If not, and you still sense a leak, call your gas company. Be aware the source of a gas odor could be external—gas from service lines or street mains that could migrate into your premises through walls or drain tines.

If you are inside and the odor is strong: 1. Open doors and windows. 2. Shut off gas appliance valves or meter valve. 3. Don't use matches, electric switches or appliances. 4. Leave the house and call your gas company from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

If you are outside in an open area: 1. Eliminate, if possible, potential sources for ignition and leave the area. 2. Call your gas company from another location.

Columbia Gas is concerned about your safety, and we're proud to say calls reporting leaks are few. If you or someone in your family isn't familiar with the smell of gas, call your Columbia Gas office and ask for a scented folder. Together we can keep your natural gas service safe and efficient.

COLUMBIA GAS

Weak defense leads Red to defeat by Columbia

An evanescent haze crept across Robert A. Lewis Memorial field in Mary Fate park Friday night.

It obscured but did not prevent the sharp, clear image of schoolboy football.

It's just as well.

For Plymouth's Big Red seemed affected by the haze and did not play well in a 22 to 0 defeat at the hands of Columbia.

Aside from the first series of downs, Plymouth was never in the ball game.

The plaintive cry of, "C'mon, Dee", was sounded from the Plymouth bench. But Dee never showed up.

For the second consecutive week the Big Red defense was unable to contain the opposition. Having given up 250 yards rushing to Buckeye Central, the defense on Friday allowed 252 to the Raiders, who managed 74 yards through the air.

Sparkplug of the visitors was a 175-pound 12th grader, Frank Vibonese, who had a hand in all of Columbia's scoring.

He climaxed a 61-yard drive in four plays after Plymouth ran out of downs late in the first period with a 34-yard run that produced the first touchdown. The first kick of PAT was not good and Columbia was penalized five yards. The second try was equally as bad.

Plymouth had had two possessions prior to the first Raider score.

With the first, having received the opening kickoff, the Big Red punched to the Raider 33, only to fumble away possession.

With the second, having field a Columbia punt at its 41, Plymouth advanced to the Raider 40 and died at the 39 on fourth down.

Columbia scored with the next possession.

Plymouth did not gain an inch with the kickoff after the score and Co-Capt. Greg Polachek punted 23 yards to the Raider 25.

From this point the green-jerseyed visitors paunched a drive that covered 75 yards in 14 plays, Vibonese squirting home from a yard away. He passed on the halfback option to Rob Garrow for the PATs.

Once again Plymouth was not able to gain an inch. It punted on fourth down in the next series. Polachek's kick carried 39 yards to the Raider 35. The visitors needed nine plays to produce the final score, capping a drive of 65 yards. Vibonese's plunge for the TD came from the one. He took Dave Ritchie's pass for the PAT.

Leading by 22 to 0, the Raiders came out after the half and carried the kickoff in seven plays to the Plymouth'49, whence they punted. Plymouth took over at its 28 and three plays later was at its 26 before punting.

Columbia gained nine yards in three tries and punted again.

Plymouth made its only respectable showing of the night in the next series. Taking over after the Columbia punt at its 37, Plymouth drove in eight plays to the Columbia 22. On third down, Jeff Jacobs, assigned quarterbacking duties in the absence of Rod Hampton, whose availability date is now three games hence (he has a broken collarbone, not a dislocated shoulder), passed over the middle, where Kevin Willis intercepted and ran it out to the 20.

Plymouth never got closer.

Columbia took a 15-yard penalty and was forced to punt from its 20. Plymouth couldn't gain and returned the kick. Columbia began at its 19 and marched to the Big Red seven before running out of downs. There was time left for two series.

Plymouth's effort to crack the scoring column went awry on second down, when Jacobs was intercepted by Eric Juris at the Red 20. The clock read 1:53 to play. Three plays later, mercifully, it was all over.

A good crowd turned out on an otherwise perfect night for this one.

Plymouth's offensive line was consistently beaten by the Columbia defense. And on offense, Plymouth's front wall simply could not contain Vibonese, who gained 137 yards in 19 carries.

Columbia repeated flip-flopped its ends. There wasn't a play that involved either of them but the maneuver seemed to disconcert the Plymouth linebacking corps and Vibonese, Todd Lindstrom and Phil Medvetz repeatedly penetrated the tackles and guards for good yardage.

At the half, when all the damage had been done, Columbia had 10 first downs on 31 plays, with 149 yards rushing and 61 yards passing. Plymouth had managed four first downs, 56 yards on the ground and 23 yards in the air.

Columbia put the ball in play 63 times, Plymouth only 44.

Clerk questions pay ordinances; revision ordered

Plymouth's newly appointed clerk-treasurer asked questions and got some answers from the council's finance committee Monday night.

John Fazzini specifically questioned the current pay ordinance concerning holiday, sick leave and vacation pay.

His biggest problem, he said, is with the pay for the director of the income tax department. The ordinance simply does not adequately spell out her hours and benefits, he charged.

The finance committee agreed to request the village solicitor to rewrite the ordinances, which are now for each department, rather than an omnibus ordinance for all village employees.

Mayor Dean A. cline, who was not present at the meeting, had already said the pay ordinance is inadequate for both employees and taxpayers.

In his annual report of the state of the village to the council in January, he said, "Our next pay ordinance will be more complete", but the council took no action on his suggestion.

Fazzini pointed out the planned income of the village in the 1982 appropriation ordinance is pegged at $138,500 as an average monthly sum. Instead, the village is averaging $86,770.99, based on current receipts in all funds.

Some funds apparently were overestimated, such as the mayor's court, which was set at an annual income of $13,300 but through Aug. 31 has only brought in $6,151.

Estate taxes were set at $5,000 for the year, but $609.56 has been collected so far.

The biggest problem is in the income tax, which was estimated at $96,000. Only $57,469.70 has been collected through last month.

It is unlikely the projected sum will be collected in the remaining four months of the year because of the layoffs at Plymouth Locomotive Works.

Not counting those laid off earlier this year, the last two weeks took a heavier toll when 22 were let out. It is estimated that $50,000 monthly income was lost, which would mean $500 a month to be paid in local income taxes.

Fazzini also said water receipts are down considerably because users are conserving, rather than pay the high rates put into effect when the village joined Willard to obtain water.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said repair of many leaks has helped. So had the installation of new meters. James C. Root, village administrator, said he has systematically put in new meters but still has more to install.

Councilman John E. Hedeen suggested a water consultant be obtained to aid the village in repairs of the water distribution system, which will be considered for capital improvements next year. Doing this, he said, will save digging up streets that have now been resurfaced or will be soon.

He said he has been making his own survey of where water leaks may be, and thinks that where the grass is greener than it should be at this time of the year indicates a leak.

Root did not think too much of his method.

Root told the committee the one department "hurting" financially is the operation and maintenance of the street department, but he had discovered a sum of money, about $1,000, in the materials fund which he did not know could be used for repairing.

Fazzini said the current figures of the village funds actually do not reflect what they actually are, and he suggested waiting until the end of the year to make transfers from the capital improvement funds, which will then give a true picture more efficiently, rather than transferring willy nilly now.

Sisters unwilling hostesses

The Brothers sisters, Helen and Marguerite, were almost hostesses to an unexpected and uninvited guest Friday night.

The truck driven by Thomas D. Kithcart, 25, Ashland, went left of center while northbound in Fenner road about 9:20 p. m. As it came over a small hill, the car driven by Richard L. Stephens, 17, Plymouth, was forced into a ditch.

The Kithcart vehicle continued into the front yard of the Brothers' home and turned off. He was not injured.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated by investigating officers.

Time to cook chicken; here's simple recipe

By AUNT LIZ

For years we have been breaking one of our country's laws and just found out about it all.

Most likely 50 million others are doing it too.

Did anyone know that it is illegal to use one envelope with items from more than on in it?

Very, very often we will write letters and stick them in one envelope, which is only practical.

That is what happened in Maryland and brought the whole matter up.

A city and a county decided to save some money, so they mailed their tax notices out together, which really makes sense, because not only are you nailed for taxes, you also are paying for the stamps.

Right now, someone is trying to change the postal ruling, but meanwhile you can still go on breaking the law because it is illegal for the post office to open first class mail, even though it is dead sure the law is being broken.

Since we are supposedly civilized, some rules and regulations are needed.

Ever since I can remeber half the fun of living has been evading them.

I can remember the prohibition era, when a kind grandfather told me one day that it was a great law, but did not apply to him, and how many really stick to 55 miles an hour when on a freeway?

For years we have listened to friends rant and rage about what they had to go through to build a house, plumbing, electrical inspectors, the works.

The government spends fabulous sums to dream up all these safeguards to protect people.

Somehow, they can overlook some of this when it comes to them.

About 15 years ago a lovely lady gave her family farm to the park department. Not only was it worth a mint because it was just outside Washington, but she threw in a couple of million to help develop it. It became Wolf Trap Farm park, like Blossom Center.

A stage and orchestra shell were built of wood, so it would fit in the rustic setting and was very beautiful.

Then this spring a fire started, and it is all gone. That is when it was discovered that none of the building materials had been properly inspected and treated for fire, which any builder can tell you is a large "must".

That isn't all: not one penny of insurance, so it is going to cost a mere $17 million to rebuild it all, and guess where it is coming from?

Now that it is fall, and THAT season is here again, busy families need something easy and sturdy to eat. This can be a dinner before the game, or a good hot dish afterwards when you need warming up.

You can guess at the amounts, but if a 9 x 13 pan is used, it will serve about eight nicely.

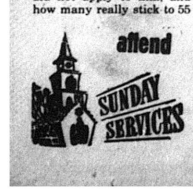

A three pound chicken will do it. Simmer it in water which is spiced with some onions, celery and tops and poultry seasoning.

When cooked, take it apart.

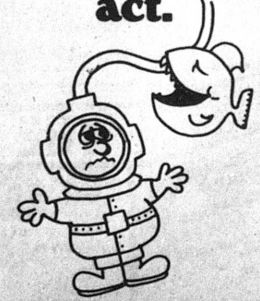

Have a batch of dressing ready, and open two cans of cream of chicken or 'even cream of celery soup.

Grease the pan, start with a layer of dressing, then the chicken pieces, then the soup for a sauce, and keep going until it is all used. Sprinkle with Chinese noodles or fried onions or buttered bread crumbs and bake until it is bubbly.

This is really a bare recipe, and you can add all sorts of your favorite seasonings to it. Mix them in with the soup.

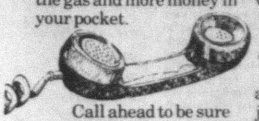

Help as much as you can.

GAS SAVERS

Looking for ways to save gas and money? One of the simplest solutions is to drive your car a little less. Here are six ideas you can use to keep your foot off the gas and more money in your pocket.

Call ahead to be sure you aren't wasting gas on an unnecessary trip. On the average, a wasted trip costs you a dollar's worth of gas.

Shop, bank and pay your bills by mail. A 15¢ stamp is a lot cheaper than a gallon of gas.

Ride a bike or take a hike. You'll feel more fit, and you'll have more money to spend when you get where you're going — since you didn't waste it on gasoline.

Ride to work with a friend or neighbor just one day a week and you can save at least $100 worth of gas every year.

Take public transportation as often as you can. You'll save gas and help reduce air pollution, too.

This free booklet can show you a lot more easy ways to save gas and money. To get your copy write "Energy," Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830 or mail the coupon below.

Get Information On Medicare Facilities

Information about health facilities taking part in Medicare is available at any social security office, a social security spokesperson said recently.

These health facilities—hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, and independent laboratories—must meet certain health and safety standards to take part in Medicare. They are inspected before they take part and are reinspected periodically to assure that they continue to meet the standards.

A report of any deficiencies of Medicare facilities and the facility's plan for correcting them are available for inspection at the local social security office. This information is not available by telephone.

The report shows only the shortcomings found during the most recent inspection and the facility's plan for correction. Positive findings of the inspection, included in the full report, are not immediately available but can be obtained through the social security office.

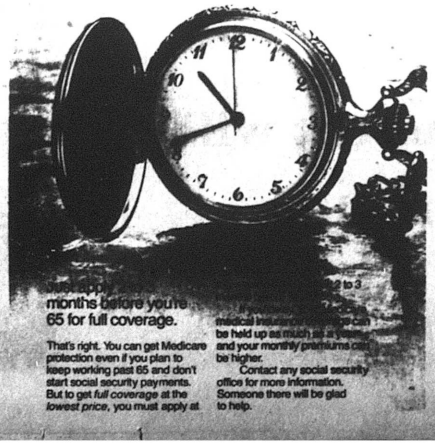

The fact that a facility has shortcomings does not mean there is any danger to the health and safety of its patients, the representative said. If that were the case, it could no longer take part in Medicare.

In addition, the corrections may have already been made by the time the report is available in the social security office.

More information is available in the leaflet, "Your can get information on Medicare facilities," which can be obtained free at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory.

You don't have to retire to get Medicare.

But you must sign up for it.

...months before you're 65 for full coverage.

That's right. You can get Medicare protection even if you plan to keep working past 65 and don't start social security payments. But to get full coverage at the lowest price, you must apply at ... medical insurance ... can be held up as much as ... and your monthly premiums can be higher.

Contact any social security office for more information. Someone there will be glad to help.

New librarian

Children in nightclothing enjoy story hours conducted by 1961 alumna, Beverly Hawk Brosch, in Coral Gables, Fla., library.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Whose duty?

Whose duty is it that word of the opportunity to contribute to the common weal is at hand?

Whose duty is it to merchandise? Whose duty is it to advertise?

It is the duty of the retailer to display his goods in such manner and at such times as will entice the consumer to purchase. In trade, this is called "bringing the goods to the customer". It is the duty of the retailer to notify the public that his goods are at hand, at whatever price, and to instruct the public as to how acquisition of those goods will benefit it. In trade, this is called "bringing the consumer to the goods".

These are established procedures in our society.

Merchandising methods vary as the goods to be merchandised and the character, personality and talent of the merchandiser. Advertising methods are similarly affected.

But in advertising, there is another consideration: what medium shall be used, and how shall it be used, and at what cost, to accomplish the task at hand.

In the case of an opportunity to contribute to the common weal, such as that which occurs here tomorrow, the matter of cost does not arise. All media, whether print or broadcast, are available free of charge to the merchandiser.

Is it the duty of the media to seek out the facts of the opportunity and to circulate them among those most likely to participate?

We think not.

To do so would obligate the medium to perform in like manner in every such instance. Where is the line drawn? How far from the situs of publication or broadcast of the medium should such effort extend? How is it possible for the medium to accord to each such enterprise the same amount of effort to support the activity?

In the past 28 years in the business of one medium in Ohio, we've seen public-spirited enterprises come and go. They emerge like mushrooms after a spring rain and they perish almost as fast.

What makes them perish? We frankly don't know.

How do we know they're perishing?

That's easy. When the merchandiser does not bestir himself sufficiently to bespeak the cooperation of the media. The rule should be, "Don't call us, we'll call you." And the merchandiser should call, and call, and call, and call again.

'61 alumna gets library post

A 1961 alumna of Plymouth High school is the new librarian-in-charge of the circulation department of the main library in downtown Miami, Fla. The former Shirley Hawk, now Mrs. Barry A. Brosch comes to the main library from the Coral Gables Branch library, where she started in 1976 as an assistant in the children's department and was children's librarian from 1978 to 1982. At the Coral Gables Branch library, Mrs. Brosch was a trailblazer whose unique skills and leadership created one of the finest departments for children in Dade county. Mrs. Brosch also served on the joint book committee of Dade County Public schools and the Miami-Dade public library system.

In her new position as circulation department librarian, Mrs. Brosch will have the challenge of planning for the move to the new main library next year. She will have most of the responsibility and huge task of transferring a million volumes to the magnificent new facility which was designed by the world-famous architect, Philip Johnson. The new main library will be part of an exciting new Metro-Dade Cultural center which will include a Center for Fine Arts and the Historical association of Southern Florida.

Mrs. Brosch was valedictorian. She later attended Kent State university, where she received many awards including the prestigious Mary Miles Music award plus a university scholarship.

Mrs. Brosch went on to teach vocal music in schools in Ravenna, Race, Fla., and Champaign, Ill. She obtained her degree in library science at the University of Illinois Library school and worked as supervisor of auxiliary services in Champaign, Ill., before moving to Florida in 1975.

She is married to Barry A. Brosch, composer, business data processing professor at Miami-Dade Community college, South Campus, and systems analyst with Microcomputer Arts, Inc. Their son, Eric, was born in 1972 in Illinois and, of course, is very interested in books, music and computers!

Insulator explodes, 820 without power

A transmission line insulator exploded Thursday and left 820 customers of Ohio Power Co. without service, the company reports.

Interruption of service in Plymouth was brief. It came during the Thursday NFL football game telecast.

Repairs were made about three hours later, on Friday at 2:30 a. m.

Three propective buyers showing interest in First Buckeye branches

Three financial institutions have inquired about buying First Buckeye bank's Plymouth operations, Rex Collins, president of First Buckeye, said Sept. 15, on the heels of a heavy vote by stockholders of the bank to approve merger with Trustcorp, a Toledo banking conglomerate.

Sale of the two offices in Plymouth is a condition of the merger because First Buckey and Trustcorp officers fell the regulatory authority won't approve the merger if First Buckeye appears to have a strong hold on most of commercial banking in southern Huron county.

Avery C. Hand, Jr., chairman of the board and chief operating officer of First Buckeye, will reach his 65th birthday anniversary in Janurary and is expected to retire from active service, although he will remain as chairman of the board and become a director of Trustcorp.

By the merger, each shareholder in Firt Buckeye will receive one share of preferred stock of Trustcorp, which pays a current dividend of $2.90, $1.90 more than what First Buckeye is paying.

Dissenters and those who own 100 or fewer shares may obtain $25 a share for their stock.

It was reported Sept. 15 that 1,064,942 shares were voted for the merger, 11,434 were cast against the merger, a total of 1,082,962. There are 1,499,458 shares outstanding, of which 160,013 were represented at the Sept. 15 meeting.

Income down, Banner says

Diminished income, equivalent to cents a share, were reported for fiscal year ending June 30 by Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

The company said the aviation aftermarket and products for industry groups performed well, showing only slight decrease in earnings despite generally depressed conditions in the industries they serve.

Banner said while domestic sales and revenues were affected adversely by the sluggish economy, international sales generated by the aviation aftermarket and products for industry groups were at record levels and accounted for 42 per cent of the combined sales of the two groups.

Motor freight operations were hard hit in the area served by Banner. Total tonnage moved by Class I carriers in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana was down 13 per cent from a year earlier.

Net sales for fiscal year 1982 ending June 30 amounted to $203,071,380. This compares with $208,768,654 in the previous year. Net income was $429,477, down from $1,423,439, or 35 cents a share, during fiscal 1981.

During the quarter ended June 30, losses amounted to 13 cents a share, as compared to profits of $1.17 a share a year ago.

Net sales totalled $48,121,121, as compared to $56,399,619 a year ago. Net loss for the 90-day period was $537,587, as compared with a net profit of $4,469,798 a year ago.

Man burned in flat fire

Fire reported Monday at 2:20 a. m. by Ray Baldridge, the occupant, in an apartment at 16½ East Main street was dealt with by Plymouth Fire department, assisted by Willard and Shiloh departments, for about an hour before it was brought under control.

The fire, that may have started from a smoldering cigarette, gutted the apartment and resulted in heavy smoke damage to rooms of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, next door and upstairs.

Baldridge was taken to Shelby Memorial hospital with first and second degree burns of the legs and arms.

The premises are owned by Forrest Strohm, Shelby. Water damage to Weber's cafe, which he owns and operates, was heavy. The apartment is directly over the cafe.

The apartment is not insured.

Baldridge, 34, is a 1966 alumnus of Plymouth High school. His condition on Tuesday was said to be good. He was burned over about 25 per cent of his body.

Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine said he thinks the damages will amount to "$50,000 or $60,000".

Neighbors living in the old Sourwine hotel to the east of the site of the fire were evacuated by a police officer to prevent further injury.

Offices of Plymouth's oldest continuing business, the 129-year-old weekly newspaper, The Plymouth Advertiser, were undamaged. Radio and newspaper reports erroneously stated otherwise.

Trifle no trifle: Auntie swears by this dessert

By AUNT LIZ

There comes a time when you simply have to say the heck with it.

All those cookie sheets, dirty pans, a purple kitchen counter from making grape jelly, a stove that has seen cleaner days, it can all wait while you sit down and rest.

One of the better ways to rest, and this has taken years of concentrated research, is to sit with a good mystery.

A book reviewer I am not. No one in his right mind would approve of how I determine what is a good mystery.

I must be able to name the murderer before I get to the last page.

In the middle of making cookies and jelly, I had a really good book.

Not only was it informative — after all the daughter of a president knows Washington and our government a little better than most of us — but it was very well written. That could be because her husband was a New York Times editor, and newspaper writing is different from novel writing; it is crisper, sentences are shorter, and it gets to the point plain fast.

Margaret Truman Daniel's "Murder in the Supreme Court" is without a doubt the best book I have gotten my hands on in years.

There is just one thing about it that I think must be very acceptable among mystery writers: most such books start with rain pouring down. Maybe it sets a mood. I cannot remember, and I could be very wrong, starting a mystery with a snow storm raging on the first page.

Reading can kind of leave you a little on the lazy side.

That is why you should have a little supply of rye bread, sliced ham and Swiss cheese around, so everyone can make his own sandwiches, and you need not lift a finger.

But in all fairness, it would be wise to have something up your sleeve that can be made ahead, and if you make enough, it can last a while.

This is the national dessert of England, and is really the crowning glory of a tasty dinner of roast beef with Yorkshire pudding, but it also goes well with even a peanut butter sandwich.

It's trifle and a good way to use up left over bananas and fruits like that, oranges too, or any frozen fruits like raspberries or strawberries.

Have ready a store-bought pound cake ready and slice it.

Make a custard in a double boiler with two cups of scalded milk, three eggs, a fourth of a cup of brown sugar, a dash of salt if you think you need it.

Beat the eggs, add the sugar, then the scalded milk slowly and stir until it coats the spoon.

In a bowl, make layers of the cake, fruit and custard, and chill.

The custard can be flavored with anything you want from vanilla to sherry, which the English mostly use.

Weak offense, defensive lapse lead to defeat by Chieftains

Offensive failures and defensive weakness cost Plymouth a victory here Friday night in its third engagement of the season.

Hopewell-Loudon came fron behind, after leading at the half, to win, 20 to 15.

After dominating Plymouth so thoroughly during the first half that it was a miracle that Plymouth was within striking distance as the third quarter began, Hopewell-Loudon could not get its awesome offense going early in the second half.

In the first series, the Chieftains were forced to punt after five plays, one of them a 15-yard penalty against the visitors.

Then, after Plymouth scored the go-ahead touchdown, Hopewell-Loudon produced two first downs and punched to the Red 48 before punting the ball.

Plymouth took a 15-yard penalty in the next series and kicked, a short one of only 25 yards from its end zone that gave the Chieftains possession at the 22. The Chieftains tried a field goal on fourth down, having gained to the 20, but it was wide.

The Big Red sensed victory and managed to get within inches of a first down in three carries. It was intended to go for the first down and to run the clock down. But Plymouth could not get the play off within the required 25 seconds and was assessed five yards. This forced a punt. But Co-Capt. Greg Polachek was knocked to the ground and the Chieftains drew a 15-yard penalty.

Starting from its 40, Plymouth got seven yards in two plays. On third down, Co-Capt. Jeff Jacobs pitched out to Richard Cunningham. He fumbled. Hopewell-Loudon recovered at the Red 41 and the momentum turned.

But it wasn't noticeable with the first two plays. John Myers, the 11th grader who racked up 109 yards in 19 carries, lost three on first down. A pass on second down did not connect. On third down, Jeff Craft sought to pass. He was swarmed under by several would-be tacklers, but managed to squirm away and dash 44 yards down the east sideline for the winning touchdown. The place kick for PAT was wide.

Plymouth had two more possessions but did not threaten. The game ended on a disputed call. Plymouth having taken a 15-yard penalty for roughing the kicker at a time when the Plymouth bench insisted the ball was dead.

It was all Hopewell-Loudon in the first half.

The Big Red took the opening kickoff and couldn't gain. Polachek's punt gave Hopewell-Loudon possession at its 47. Bryan Schalk scored the touchdown from three yards away at 4:47, the Chieftains having ground it out without a pass. Myers and Bob Jump were the principal gainers in this drive, which took 11 plays.

Steve Hoover kicked the PAT.

Plymouth managed a first down in the next series, then didn't get another until the clock read 7:35 of the second period. But it wasn't enough to sustain a drive and Plymouth punted. Hopewell-Loudon got three first downs in the next series and then punted from its 41. Rick Hawkins fumbled and lost possession on second down at the Red 30.

In four plays, Hopewell-Loudon was in the end zone. On second down Jump went up the middle for 13. Myers got two off right tackle, then Craft rolled out to his right for the score. The play carried 15 yards. Hoover kicked the PAT.

Another fumble, this one by Cunningham, stopped Plymouth at the Hopewell-Loudon 32. The Chieftains fumbled on second down and Plymouth attacked again from the Chieftain 48. On fourth down Polachek booted to the visitors' 29. After gaining nine yards in two carries, the Chieftains fumbled again. Chad McGinnis recovered at the Hopewell-Loudon 38.

On first down, Plymouth went to the halfback pass. Mike McKenzie hit Tom Baker with a pass on the first play and the Red was on the board.

Plymouth lined up to kick the PAT but Hawkins, the holder, rose and fired to Brian Vredenburgh for two points.

The Big Red's touchdown in the third period that sent Plymouth ahead for the first and only time came after a Chieftain punt that carried only 12 yards to the Hopewell-Loudon 35. After racking up a first down, on second down Jacobs passed 23 yards to Darren Branham in the end zone. James Will kicked the PAT and Plymouth led, 15 to 14.

Statistically, Hopewell-Loudon ought to have won by three scores. The Chieftains gained 202 yards on the ground in the first half and 96 in the second. At an average of 96 yards a half, Plyouth was giving up 192 yards by rushing in a game, which is certainly not conducive to winning.

Hawkins plays at wingback on the Red offensive team.

Red to resume Monroeville connection

Plymouth resumes football relationships with Monroeville in Firelands conference competition there tomorrow and should look for a tough contest.

For one thing, the Eagles are big enough and fast enough to hunt bears with a switch.

For another, Monroeville stands two deep in lettermen at every position.

For a third, the Eagles will be angry. Their hopes for an unbeaten season were dashed by Smithville at Monroeville Friday night when the Smithies ripped out a 19 to 0 victory, effectively throttling the Eagle running game.

That running game is in the capable hands of Co-Capt. Tim Pheiffer and Co-Capt. Kevin Roeder.

The quarterback is Dave Keszei, a lefthander, a 10th grader who distinguished himself in that position last season as a ninth grader until he broke his hand, missing the end of the season.

Up front, the Eagles are big. They average 15 pounds more than the best that Plymouth can field. And these linemen, on both offense and defense, are experienced. Monroeville has one player with three letters, 11 with two monograms and 15 with a single letter.

Signs are that Monroeville, capably coached by Steve Ringholz, who in five seasons has won 30, lost 12 and tied one, will stick to the ground and grind it out, seeking to wear down the thinner Plymouth team.

have beaten but for mental mistakes and defensive breakdowns.

Red fans hope that at long last the offense will produce a running attack. To do so, the offensive line must show a reversal of form. Outweighed, it must outcharge. To do this, it must be quick off the ball.

The secondary was suspect at the beginning of the season but has so far performed creditably. If the defensive line could match what the secondary has done, Plymouth's record will improve.

But the signs are that Monroeville is too strong for Plymouth and that Plymouth will have its hands full to keep the score respectable.

Best route to Marsh field in Monroeville:

Proceed north in Route 61 to Route 598, thence north in Peru Center road to Route 20. Turn left, proceed to second street beyond traffic signal and turn half right at octagon house.

Game time is 8 p. m.

Saturday, Sept. 18, was a bittersweet day for the young man.

It was his 18th birthday anniversary. From Saturday on, he takes his place among the manhood of his native place. He is eligible to vote. He can be called to military duty. He must register for the draft. He can't legally buy a drink, but right now that doesn't interest him much. He's in athletic training.

But Saturday was also the first anniversary of the death of his beloved grandfather, James L. Jacobs, Sr., who, a year ago, asked the boy to promise him he would win the Hopewell-Loudon game.

History records that Plymouth did not and James L. Jacobs, Sr., went to his grave without a victory. His only grandson prayed that Friday would be when he could set matters aright.

It was not to be. And starting on Saturday, "It's going to be a tough week."

Why?

"It'll be hard to get the players back on the right track. Many of them want to give up on the season right now. It's too soon to do that. Sure, we've had some injuries, some of them that've hurt us, especially Rod Hampton, who has told us he'll be back in three weeks or so. Which means I'm back at quarterback, whether I like it or not, and whether the players like it or not. We've got lots to do to get ourselves straightened out. And it won't be easy."

What makes it so tough?

"The other students. Not the teachers and not the coaches. Not the coaches especially. They're doing the best they can with what they have to work with."

What is it the 'other students' do that makes it tough?

"They get down on the players after we've been licked a couple of times and it gets the players down. The approval of those who sit in the same classroom is important to a player. It's what we play for."

Why do these people do this?

The answer is a shrug of his shoulders.

Does the attitude derive entirely from these 'other students'?

"No. The younger ones obviously don't have enough experience of their own to know any better. They must get their attitudes from their homes or from the community. And some of them get their attitudes from others in the school."

Are any athletes tarred with the same brush?

"Oh, yes. The second stringers don't want to scrimmage with the first stringers, they're afraid they'll get hurt. Those that don't play most of the games spend their idle time playing pick-up football in backyards and elsewhere. They like the game, all right, but they don't like sitting on the bench. They want to play."

Is there any truth to the charge that there's a "Plymouth syndrome", that "I won't play unless I can start"?

"Yes, there is. And it's also true that there're some boys who ought to be out for football who aren't out. Some of them are big enough to eat hay."

Why aren-t they out for football?

"Some of them have jobs. Everybody knows the economy is down and some families need what the boy can earn. Probably the best thing that could happen to high school football at the level that we play it is to change the law so that you'd have to be 17 to get a driver's license. This would keep many boys involved with football, and other sports, but mostly football, which depends so much on numbers. As it is, there are some boys who prefer to work on their cars. They need money for gas and oil and stuff like that and they have to work to get it. They can't work and play sports, there isn't enough time."

Is Class A football tougher to play than, say, Class AA or AAA?

"Sure it is."

Why?

"First of all, the coach has a more difficult time of it. Instead of dealing with a team of 12th graders with maybe one or two 11th graders, boys that are experienced and somewhat grown up and know what discipline means, he's got to deal with some kids that've not yet grown up, but kids that we need because we don't have any others. Some of the coach's time is taken up with the problems of working with boys of various ages and stages of development. Everybody knows that there are some schools not far from here that've been practicing basketball since school started. These players don't report for football and apparently the football program doesn't need them. In our case, with a rare exception, those who go out for basketball are needed to play football."

When did you adjust to the fact that you're older than the others of your class and therefore expected to react and behave differently?

"When they picked Greg and me to be captains of the team. Then I saw that I am expected to lead the players. And I've been getting on them. But like I said before, some of them don't want me to get on them. They don't want anyone to get on them."

What's the matter with Plymouth athletics?

"It's not the coaching. I've always gotten along with my coaches and I liked them. I like the ones we've got now. There are some boys who wouldn't turn out for football because they didn't like the coach, although I haven't heard much of that so far this year. The coaches have their hands full, believe me."

Then whose fault is it?

"It's the players. It might be easier if we had two full teams of upper classmen so that we could bring the younger players along and let them scrimmage with others of the same age, but it isn't that way and I can't see that it ever will be that way. Some parents won't let their boys play football. I know one family whose son broke a leg in junior high ball and they won't let him or his brother play. But mostly it's the players."

Five years ago this left-handed athlete was named MVP in PML play. Baseball is his chief love and when he goes to college in the fall of 1983, he intends to seek a place on the college baseball team. He has won his share of letters, three in football, two in basketball, three in baseball. God willing, and if the creeks don't rise, he'll be a candidate for the hardcourt team and again when it's baseball season. He's a pitcher who plays outfield when he's not pitching.

He's a B pupil. He works part-time in a super market. He does chores at home. He helps his widowed grandmother.

One feels that he has witnessed the greening of a young man. His name is Jeff Jacobs. Write it down in your little black book. He's a comer.

Are we going down the tube?

It is exactly 25 years since some goading by this newspaper resulted in the establishment of Plymouth Community chest.

A committee headed by John T. Dick inquired into the matter and found that 72 cents of every dollar contributed to the Richland county community chest campaign left the county.

It was agreed to begin a Community chest in Plymouth.

H. James Root, then secretary of the Fate-Rooth-Heath Co., was its first president. He now lives in Arizona.

Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., before, then and since a willing worker in community enterprises, was named first drive director. Aim of the chest was $3,300. A businessman who is now retired offered to bet another businessman, who is now dead, any sum of money that she wouldn't succeed.

History has recorded that she did succeed. In fact, the quota was oversubscribed, in part because she worked at it, but in large measure because a good idea had ripened and the community was ready for it.

Over 23 years, the chest produced useful results for Plymouth. Last year, it fell flat on its face. The solicitation of contributions was late in getting out and hardly anybody knows if any contributions were made to it. In any event, none of the local agencies that classically benefitted from the chest received one penny.

Nor has there been any sign that the chest will get off the ground this year.

Not once in its long history did the chest ever take advantage of the tremendous publicity value of the national community chest drive. Call it United Way or whatever, the national and state and county campaigns receive broad publicity and a local drive can ride its coattails for free.

The failure of the chest last year was laid to a poor economy. Some of those who did the laying were still in three-cornered pants when, their elders recall, the Wilkins Air station at Shelby had just announced it would close its doors. A payroll of $1.7 million a year would be lost to Plymouth residents employed there.

Yet the first campaign succeeded. In times of need, the agencies deeply engaged in meeting the needs of the needy require even more funds.

The history of Plymouth's chest has been that very few dollars were raised to leave the community and only small amounts were earmarked for need programs, such as the Salvation Army. The Scouting programs, the park, the pool (which should be compelled to pay its own way or close up), the Midget league program and some other equally deserving local agencies got the money.

They still need the money. That the chest has come apart is only another sympton that, unless we all hitch our socks up, Plymouth may be going down the drain.

We know what the problem is. The trouble is we can't get anybody to listen.

Homecoming queen and court, to be presented tomorrow when Edison comes to town: from left, Susan Beebe, ninth grader; Lisa Daron, 12th grader; Fayette Hudson, queen; Renee Carter, 10th grader; Kim Wilson, 11th grader.

Five parcels delinquent

Three taxpayers in the village and two in New Haven township are delinquent in payment of real estate taxes, Huron county treasurer reports.

Village taxpayers are Rosella Lybarger Fronts, Lot 161, west side, Portner street, $251.80; Walter S. and Doris Stover, Lot 104, Park avenue, $262.19, and Ruth Farnwalt Wilson, Lot 268, Walnut street, $49.27.

New Haven township delinquencies within Plymouth Local School district are those of Richard L. and M. Kathleen Tallman, Lot 131, $48.89, and Lot 134, $608.47.

False alarm calls firemen

Plymouth Fire department answered what turned out to be a false alarm Sunday evening at Ross's trailer court, Route 61.

During the day Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine, Police Chief Robert Conley and William Burkett attended a session in Bucyrus for firemen and law enforcement officers.

Should village buy more land for expansion of Greenlawn cemetery

Purchase of more land for Greenlawn cemetery was requested by its trustees Tuesday night.

Mayor Dean A. Cline read a letter to village council from J. Harold Cashman, cemetery board trustee, inquiring additional land can be obtained.

Between eight to 10 acres south of the cemetery belonging to Roscoe Hutchinson can be had.

Hutchinson asked if it is possible for the village to make an agreement with him concerning the purchase so that he can reinvest the money paid in other land.

However, no price nor method of financing was mentioned.

Councilman John E. Hedeen said perhaps a demographic study should be made to determine what is needed in the future.

Cemetery personnel have cleared about four acres which had not been in use before plus available plots already planted with grass.

It is estimated there is an average of 30 burials a year.

Hedeen also said the matter should be studied since it is now "a buyer's market" in land.

WANTED: Chocolate chip recipe to make into cookie designs!

By AUNT LIZ

It's that time of the year again.

Lovely catalogues are coming every day.

They are a great way to

New quarters

Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, and Plymouth Chapter 231, OES, will have their regular meetings in the Shiloh lodge until the lodge rooms are renovated.

They received heavy smoke damage during the fire of Sept. 12, which began on the second floor of the building.

A son was born Saturday in Mansfield General hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burkett, 142 Sandusky street.

measure inflation.

Some of them have the same things, year after year. What was within reason for $7.50 is now $15.

They are also a great way to glean ideas of things you can whip up yourself.

One catalogue is featuring the really welcome gift, a pecan pie, the nine inch size.

There is no question a really good pecan pie is not one of the cheaper things to make by the time you add up the nuts and butter which make it so tasty, but $20?

Another catalogue is filled with loaves of date breads and things like that which will last and ship nicely, plus butter cookies, which are something like $12 a pound.

Maybe some of us are in the wrong business or just plain dumb. We make all these things and simply give them away to nice friends or send them to a bake sale for a worthy cause. We have had our share of tasty things over the years, and once I almost considered asking for a special coffee cake and offering to pay for it, but that would have not been decent nor nice. Nevertheless it was the best once I had ever eaten and simply could not duplicate it even though I tried several times and ended up with a globby mess.

It was edible and much better than the pecan pudding we had for a week because vanity got the better of me. I started out to make two pecan pies for something and did not realize that the store bought pie tins had holes in them. It was pure luck that I put them in the oven on a cookie sheet or we would have had to throw out a perfectly good stove.

It is pure joy, to me, anyway, to make something to give away. It is almost in the therapy class. I feel like I am doing something worthwhile.

I've got news for a lot of unsuspecting friends. This year they get dog biscuits.

Just do not ask how or why, but if some store in Dallas can sell them for a small fortune, I can make them. It is a real fun gift, and very edible.

Once I was a den mother because no one could find another, who was very needed. Christmas was coming, and the little fellows had to make something for their mothers, and being one I realize what a real pain it was to have something around that you simply had to keep so there would be no hurt feelings.

Then I got the bright idea, cookies. It took me three solid days of baking, but I ended up with a dozen each of every Christmas cutter we owned for the happy Cube to frost and decorate. They had a ball, and the whole idea was to create a present that would simply disappear in tummies and not have to sit around.

What I really need now is a version of a chocolate chip recipe that can be rolled out and cut into designs. It is a dop cookie and I am afraid that if I toss in more flour so they will roll, the flavor will be ruined.

This is a real plea for help.

Eagles win

Opportunistic Monroeville converts five errors

Opportunistic Monroeville outweighed and outplayed Plymouth in the opening Firelands conference game for both schools at Monroeville Friday night and won an easy 34 to 7 victory.

After the first quarter, Plymouth never was a factor.

The Eagles pounced on Plymouth's mistakes and made something of them every time.

The first one came early in the second period, after a scoreless first quarter during which Monroeville threatened bvt could not produce a score. A fumble broke the Eagles' back.

Monroeville punted 27 yards to the Big Red 36, where Jeff Jacobs was sacked. The Eagles recpvered the fumble 20 yards downfield and set up at the Plymouth 16. They needed just four plays. Co-Capt. Kevin Roeder went over from the three. Tom Roth kicked the PAT.

Monroeville scored the next time it got its hands on the all.

Paul Long intercepted Jacobs's pass at the Eagle 43 and the Gold and Black marched 57 yards in 10 plays to score the second TD. Roger Smith, who like Roeder scored two touchdowns this damp night, got home from the two after an interference penalty against Plymouth on an offense that occurred in the end zone.

Roth booted the PAT again and Monroeville went to the halftime rest with a comfortable 14-point advantage.

Halftime statistics showed how clearly the Eagles were dominant. Plymouth had a net rushing yardage of minus eight and just six yards by passing, whereas Monroeville with 10 first downs had 106 yards rushing and 28 through the air.

Already the zebra influence was beginning to show. Plymouth had suffered six penalties for 37½ yards, Monroeville four for 50. At the end of the game, the Big Red had been penalized 16 times for 94 yards, most of them procedure penalties, and Monroeville eight times for 90 yards.

The Eagles' superior size and talent simply wore Plymouth down in the second half.

Monroeville scored twice in the third period.

The first once came at 5:31, when Smith dashed in from 10 yards away, climaxinga push of 32 yards in four plays after Monroeville recovered a Plymouth fumble. Roth again kicked the PAT.

Less than three minutes later, Monroeville lighted the board again. Jacobs was again intercepted and the Eagles set up at the Red 20, thanks to a 15-yard penalty that was tacked on after Roth's brilliant run with the steal. Monroeville needed only three plays to score, Co-Capt. Tim Pheiffer, who carried 12 times for 80 yards, bolted home from the five. Roth again kicked the PAT.

Roth intercepted again early in the fourth period after Plymouth had put on its best drive of the night. Monroeville set up at the Plymouth 35, Roth having nailed the ball at the Red 23 for a 42-yard return and some shifty open field running. Roeder scored on the fifth play, this time from 12 yards out. Roth tried twice but the kick did not count.

The game was out of reach for the visitors by this time and both coaches substituted freely. Joe Camp shone for Monroeville. But it remained for an unheralded 10th grader, Tim Deskins, who weighs only 115 pounds, to electrify what few Plymouth supporters there were left in the stands. With time running down, Plymouth stopped a push by the Monroeville reserves by forcing a fumble at the Red 25. Plymouth recovered and was helped by a 15-yard penalty that resulted in an expulsion. From the Plymouth 40, on first down, Deskins took the handoff from Troy Keene and whisked 60 yards around his left end, straight down the west sideline, to produce Plymouth's only touchdown. James Will kicked the PAT.

Monroeville's poise and overall strength were dominant in this one. The Eagles will need all of it this week against Crestview, which should decide the conference championship. Plymouth's offense was, as it has been all season, all but completely impotent and its defense, save for the first period, unable to contain bigger, faster, more experienced forwards.

The Eagles wound up with a net rushing yardage of 269, Plymouth with 47. Neither team attacked well through the air.

The not-so-lonely life of punter

His deliberate style carries over into his manner of speech. He is deliberate there, too.

No, the life of the punter is not lonely. "I'm just as much a part of the team when I'm kicking as when I'm playing center on offense or playing on the defensive team."

Take it from Greg Polachek, co-captain of the Big Red football team, that's a fact!

His scintillating average of 41½ yards a kick in the Monroeville game was the only bright spot in the contest, from Plymouth's standpoint, although the 60-yard dash by young Tim Deskins might on another day crowd the punting performance out of the headlines.

On a wet night, when the ball was more often than not soggy, despite the efforts of the officials to keep a dry one in the game, the distance Polachek achieved with his four punts is the more outstanding.

It's a minor miracle that Plymouth hasn't been penalized on fourth down and plenty, when its punting team is in position, because of illegal procedure. Its technique in getting the ball off leaves it wide open for such an offense, especially in view of the number of penalties incurred at Monroeville for illegal procedure.

"I call the play in the huddle," the co-captain says. "We line up and the snapper watches my hands through his legs. When I flex my fingers he snaps the ball. Then I use the three-stop method of punting."

Isn't it risky, this three step method? "Yes, it's risky, but I've tried the one step method and I'm not comfortable that way."

Isn't it risky, the peekaboo method, rather than calling out the signal to snap the ball? No answer. Probably so.

He's not big, by most standards. Although he measures six feet two inches, he balances the beam at 160 pounds, which is not large for a lineman.

He has some definite ideas about where the football program is going, why it's going there and why it hasn't gone farther.

It's the last category that's important.

Man never knows how to improve himself unless he can put his finger on what's wrong.

"We don't have enough bodies out," says Greg Polachek. "Although I'd rather have 20 bodies that come to play football than 50 bodies that're just so-so about the game, it'd be easier if we had more seasoned players.

"Take this team, for instance. We have just five 12th graders. When I was in seventh grade, we had a whole raft of boys out for football. What happened to them? They stayed through junior high school and then when they get to high school they said football didn't interest them any more. I don't know if it was because they were afraid they'd get hurt or what it was, but it happened.

"There are some of these people still around. They come to the games but they won't participate with the team. The graduating class this year is much smaller than it has been but nevertheless we ought to have more of its members out for football.

"Next year's class has 14 or 15 players on the team, which ought to be about the average number in each class."

What are the reasons why they don't turn out?

"One reason is that some of them feel they have to work. Even when economic times aren't bad, the way they are now, they feel they have to work. A boy can't choose his family, he's got to live with what's dealt to him. We have a lot of pupils in the upper grades who're working parttime jobs, like in the fast foods places at Willard. One boy I know, and he's on the squad, works in a filling station in Shelby. Most of these jobs aren't in town and therefore the person who's filling them needs transportation. If it's his transportation, he's got to make enough to pay for the gasoline and the insurance and whatever.

"Another reason is that some of these pupils don't want to be associated with a team that doesn't win. What we need more than anything else is a winning tradition. The only way we're going to get it, in a school our size, is to get more bodies out fot football. But if the bodies won't report because they don't want to lose, what are we going to do?"

He seems satisfied that he's put his finger on at least half of the problem. What's the other half?

"It's true that walking down the halls or down the street with a red jacket with a big white P on it doesn't cut it like it used to."

What does "cut it" mean?

There's a sheepish grin.

"The other pupils (read girls) in the school don't look up to the athlete the way they used to when I was a grade school kid. Now it seems they're more interested in what kind of wheels he has and how much he can spend to make them go."

Would a law to raise the driving age help?

"I'm not sure. If they raised it to past 18, I think it might. But to raise it by just a year wouldn't help much. I don't think."

What's the routine in getting ready for the next game, which is at home tomorrow, in the Homecoming contest with Edison in the first game Plymouth has even played with the Class III power.

"Monday we'll look at the films. We'll go hard Tuesday and Wednesday and we'll work the special teams Thursday."

What does going hard mean?

"It means that we scrimmage that best defense available against the best offense available. If we had more bodies, this would be easier and we'd probably learn more."

What about the player who reports for the first time when he's a 12th grader, for whatever reason?

"He's welcome, of course, but it'd be better if he had the experience that can only come from doing what has to be done over and over again, even as a substitute."

Is it time to roll up the season?

d "Absolutely not. We're going to win some more, but don't ask me which ones. We're not done yet."

Born in Willard, a product of Plymouth schools from kindergarten on up, he admits his first love is baseball, a passion he shares with the other co-captain, Jeff Jacobs. He plays catcher.

And he's available for basketball.

"We won't be big but we'll run the legs off our opponents. We have some experience and some players on last year's reserve squad will play. We'll be all right."

Getting back to football, what of the future?

"I wish I had the answer. We haven't won our share, year in and year out. It's not the coaches' fault, although if I were doing it I would change some of the program at the junior high level. For instance, to rule out the kicking game for seventh and eighth graders doesn't make sense. When I was a junior high kid, if you could kick the ball you got to punt. It wasn't until I got to high school that I got any instruction from the coaches.

"People tend to blame the coaches and they blame others who don't have anything to do with it. If we don't win, it's the fault of the players, those who play and those who don't play but sit on the sidelines and criticize, or don't come to the games at all."

Harsh words? "It's a tough game, and the object is to win."

The miracle of it all is that one such as Greg Polachek can eat, drink and sleep. He has little time for anything else. He carries a full academic load, he practices four days a week and plays one day a week. On offense he centers and punts, on defense he plays in the forward wall and sometimes as linebacker. On top of which, he's co-captain and is ecpected to LEAD, which he does in workmanlike fashion: quietly and by example.

Spartans win over Big Red by 48 strokes

St. Peter's golfers outshot Plymouth, 169 to 217, a total of 48 strokes, at Woody Ridge course Thursday.

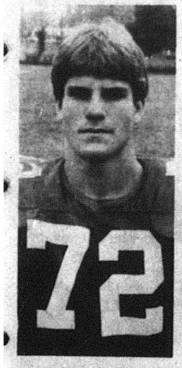

Summary:

St. Peter's: Powell, 41; Seymour, 50; Sweeney, 39; Thompson, 40; Genter, 49.

Reserves tie Monroeville

In a tightly played game, Plymouth reserves tied Monroeville, 6 to 6, Monday.

"Let Mike do it!"

That cry is common in the Big Red camp and Mike does whatever he's asked. He's Mike McKenzie, 11th grader and letterman, who broke into varsity play as a running back, was switched this season to lineman, then when emergency arose went back to running back and passer. On defense, he plays linebacker.

Son of the Perry McKenzies, he stands five feet eight inches and scales 165 pounds. If Rod Hampton is available tomorrow, McKenzie can be expected to play in the offensive line.

The Quiet Man is Bill McVey, 11th grader and letterman, who came from nowhere last season to win a monogram and contribute substantially to a team that, unfortunately, didn't go anywhere. He tips the balance at 185 pounds and as such is one of the biggest Red lineman. He plays at tackle on both offense and defense.

If Plymouth is to make anything of its season, it must start now and it must do so up front. Bill McVey knows that and he's ready to go.

Coaching staff has laid it on the line this week: zero mistakes, a consistent, all-out effort, and the Chargers can be had.

Meet some of our most economy-minded customers.

Columbia Gas employees, like everybody else, are concerned with holding down natural gas costs. Not only because they're our employees, but also because most have natural gas in their homes, so they're Columbia Gas customers, too. And just like you, they pay for the natural gas they use. It's not free, or at a reduced rate to them. They receive a monthly bill just like yours. So obviously, when it comes to holding down costs, our employees are working every day to bring natural gas service to your home (and theirs) as efficiently as possible. Because the more economically they do their job, the more we'll all save.

Willard hospital gets approval of maternity unit

Ohio Department of Health's maternity division has certified Willard Area hospital's maternity unit for the period Aug. 1 to July 31.

James H. Ross, Jr., administrator, said this is an annual function of the Department of Health. Purpose of the inspection is to ensure that the hospital meets the operating standards of the state, so that Willard Area hospital is providing the highest level of professional care for mothers and their newborn children.

Ross said notification of this recertification comes at crucial point in the hospital's long range plans for community development. Speculation about the future of the maternity unit has been voiced.

With the loss of Dr. Jack Wang, the maternity unit has experienced a temporary reduction in the volume of services.

Efforts are still being made to recruit a replacement for Dr. Wang.

With the addition of Dr. David Jump to the medical staff, there are limited opportunities for families to have their children delivered in Willard Area hospital.

Chargers favored tomorrow by 14

It's a weaker Edison team that will wear the orange and blue here tomorrow, but make no mistake about it, the Chargers are tough.

On size alone, Edison deserves to be rated a two touchdown favorite over Plymouth in the Big Red's Homecoming game.

Coach Jim Whittington frankly admits he doesn't have in his stable the tremendous horses that won so consistently for him over the past few seasons. "But we're representative, after all, we play Division III football, and we've got some good players," the veteran coach says.

Prior to this season, when the Chargers were in their glory, they ran up 29 victories and one defeat in three years. The Chargers tackled Norwalk in the first game ever with the traditional rival in other sports and came up a loser. They've won two since, over lesser opponents.

Whittington has two good quarterbacks, Dan Frederick, a letterman on last season's defensive team, a 12th grader, and Joe Taylor, an 11th grader. Dirk Gurtz, a newcomer to the Charger squad, a 12th grader who weighs only 152, is the tailback. Kurt Stoll, a 12th grader, is the wingback. He has good hands, his coach says.

The suspicion is that Plymouth's pass defense will be sorely tested, in part because Edison thinks it may be weak and in part because Edison simply doesn't have the big stud type of running backs as in past years.

Homecoming festivities will begin at 7:30 p. m., the game at 8 p. m.

Local poet tapped for readings, teaching in Springfield program

Terry Hermsen, a poet, Plymouth route 1, is now poet-in-residence for the city of Springfield. From Sept. 8 to Oct. 15 Hermsen will teach classes on poetry writing, do a series of radio programs and conduct readings of his own and others' work.

Classes will be conducted at a local junior and senior high school, several senior citizen's centers, the county jail, the local vocational school and a women's center. Although the classes will do a wide variety of writing exercises, their purpose is to sharpen the writers' awareness of their environment, outer or inner, through the writing of the poem.

The radio programs, aired on a public radio station, will feature an interview with Hermsen, an exploration of Spanish poetry, a look at nature and its relationship to poetry of contemporary women poets, and, finally, poetry written by senior citizens.

A state park, a night hike, and the local historical society will provide a varied focus for Hermsen's poetry on a half-hour TV program as well as speak to a wide variety of clubs and organizations.

A poet for 10 years, Hermsen has worked with the Ohio Arts Council's artist-in-the-classroom series, received an individual artist grant, and done various readings in the state.

Hermsen's residency is jointly sponsored by the Springfield Arts Council and the Ohio Arts Council.

Put a stop to this mischief!

It may be unfair to the new high school principal to saddle him with such a perplexing problem when he's only just arrived.

We are responsibly informed that he tried manfully to deal with the Homecoming mania a couple of weeks before it occurred. Did he succeed? Success if mostly in the eye of the beholder. Some pupils don't think he succeeded in doing anything save rile them up.

"What the kids did," one of them who trusts us said, "was worse than last year, wasn't it?"

Yes, it was, more's the pity.

And it's not the fault of the principal.

He is not the chaperone of high school pupils when clasess are not in session. His responsibilities end when the game is over and when the organized festivities at the school are completed, and for a reasonably short time thereafter, when it's presumed the participants will go home. Straight home.

Nevertheless, the exhibition last week was appalling.

Particularly at a time when there are families going hungry.

Various reports were made of the quantity and quality of the foodstuffs involved. Particularly eggs. It is reliably reported that a whole case of eggs was involved. At current market costs, that amounts to $18, more or less.

The range of mischief was considerably greater this year than last. It extended to the fringes of Greenlawn cemetery. There are those who, in an understandable moment of anger, said those who perpetrated the mischief ought to be in the cemetery.

One woman's car was encrusted with raw eggs. Some of the contents dripped into crevices that defy cleansing and already have commenced to smell.

To our way of thinking, the whole business smells, and smells to high heaven.

It's not the entire pupil population of the high school that's at fault. And doubtless there are some on the fringes of high school, recent graduates and dropouts, to name but two categories, who're involved.

But something must be done to put a stop to this infernal conduct, and to put a stop to it now.

There is an ordinance, or was, before these clowns who codified the ordinances began to apply a selection process that anybody, not even then, understand, that punishes the parents of juveniles who cause property damage. We have a new police chief, a man who grew up in the community but is untainted by debts, both real and imagined, owed to one segment of it or another. If he knows who did it, even just one of them, he ought to cause charges to be filed and punishment to take its course.

We have had coddling of the young up to our ear lobes. Coddling is for eggs, not kids. Bust 'em, punish 'em if they're guilty, and make their parents pay for the damage. Now.

A resolution enabling the village to join other municipalities in a coalition to fight the rates of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., will be introduced Tuesday by Councilman John E. Hedeen, he told his colleagues Sept. 28.

He represented the village at a meeting in Fredericktown Sept. 23.

Other municipalities represented were the host village, Ontario, Lexington, Shelby, Bellville, Mt. Vernon, Shiloh, Mt. Gilead, Creton, and Madison township in Richland county.

Plymouth's two-year contract with the utility was put into effect Nov. 10, 1981, and will expire in 1983.

Delegates to the meeting heard Paul A. Centolella of the Office of Consumers' Counsel explain how Columbia Gas bills are negotiated and how the corporation deals with municipalities.

He said the other utilities for the most part offer their users uniform rates. Columbia Gas, however, deals with over 700 municipalities with varying rates.

He called it a "rake making maze", and said that Columbia averages the second highest rate in Ohio.

He urged the municipalities to band together to deal with the rate structure as a

Land purchase for cemetery in abeyance

Purchase of more land for Greenlawn cemetery was tabled at last week's council meeting, pending a study to be made by the finance committee to determine what funds are available or what financing can be worked out.

Mayor Dean A. Cline told the council the purchase could be considered a capital improvement for the future.

A request by Randy Adams to have Lofland street improved was turned over to the planning commission. He has purchased five acres of land in the area and even though it is a dedicated street, there are no improvements.

The council was advised by Richard Wolfe, vilage solicitor, that it has no obligation to do the street, and if Adams is allowed to improve it himself, it would then become the village's responsibility in the future.

Village Administrator James C. Root recommended that consideration be given to employing a service which can find water leaks through can find water leaks throughout the village. To do the village completely would cost about $5,000.

Root said there have been complaints of malodorous and dirty water in the area between the two water towers.

He said this is the result of switching usage from the towers during the repair and maintenance work and should clear up shortly.

The mayor made a point of publicly thanking Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine and the firemen for their quick response to the fire in the building of Weber's Cafe.

He also thanked the police department for their handling of the shooting episode Sept. 26 morning in the Square.

As a result of these changes, most food stamp recipients will receive a somewhat larger issuance of food coupons.

Anybody who gets cheesecake just plain lucky, Auntie says

By AUNT LIZ

Some people are plain lucky.

That includes us because we are on the list of the Ford Motor Co. for its magazine, Ford Times.

Somehow it comes up with plain interesting stuff that is among the many things we never knew before.

The new issue has an article by Nancy Kennedy, who is about the best food writer I can think of. She knows exactly what she is talking about.

This is devoted to cheesecakes and their history.

To me a cheesecake is something rather new. I think it was when our daughter was in high school that package mixed appeared. That was our speed.

Even though they were not made from scratch, they were tasty and real treat, especially with cherries on top.

I did not know that a cheesecake was the original wedding cake, though.

In ancient Greece it was a custom that a bride baked small ones for the bridegroom's friends to munch on. The Greeks were also feeding them to the athletes before they began the Olympic games.

A Greek author wrote our the first known recipe in A.D. 230, which is a long time ago.

It was simple, "Take cheese and pound it until smooth and pasty; put cheese in a brazen sieve, add honey and spring wheat flour. Heat in one mass, cool and serve".

If it was part of a cookbook, it must have been the best seller of the day.

The recipe somehow spread to the Romans, and they spread it all over the countryside, where their armies were conquering everything in sight.

Naturally it got across the ocean, and it was in 1872 that cream cheese was developed by a New York dairyman. He should be a national hero, and very few even know his name. It's William Lawrence.

Most of us take the easy way out and use an ordinary pie pan, but if you are really creating, use a spring-form pan that every kitchen should have even though you may use it five times a year. They come in handy and help to produce something nice looking.

This is a lemon version that is Nancy Kennedy's favorite, and she has plain good taste.

For the crust roll out six ounces of zwieback so it is very fine. Combine it with a cup of sugar, six tablespoons of melted butter and a teaspoon of cinnamon.

Press it well on the bottom and sides of the pan, which has been well buttered.

For the filling, rub cottage cheese through a strainer so you get two cups, which are dry. To it add four beaten egg yolks, a cup of sugar, three tablespoons of lemon juice and the grated rink of one lemon.

Cook this in a double boiler until heated, then add two envelopes of unflavored gelatin in a half cup of water. Cool it.

Beat the four egg whites with a fourth of a cup of sugar and fold into the cheese mixture and fill the pan. Chill several hours.

What's wrong? No support!

Rich Cunningham seeks answers to questions

No, the fact his father and uncles – three of them – and cousins played for Plymouth doesn't affect him much at all.

What does affect him is a perception of less-than-complete support by pupils, parents and fans of the Big Red.

His name is Richard Cunningham. He is the second son of the Donald Cunninghams to wear the red-and-white. His elder brother, Donald, played for the Big Red a few seasons back. Now he's married and has a family of his own.

He's an 11th grader and a letterman. He plays fullback on offense and linebacker on defense.

He's the penultimate Cunningham. A cousin, Larry Brooks, a 10th grader, who sees some action from time to time, is the last of the Cunninghams for a while. Larry's mother is the former Carol Jo Cunningham, daughter of the D. Guy Cunninghams. His uncles are Guy Junior, James D. and Thomas, each of whom played football at Plymouth, albeit during the six-man era. His cousins are DeWitt, son of Guy, and James, son of James. When all his local kinfolk line up at the cashier's cage, it makes a formidable contribution to the coffers of the athletic department.

But it's the feeling that support isn't all it ought to be that galls this quiet, purposeful young man who doesn't say much and obviously chooses to mull over what the intends to say so it'll sound just as the intends.

"There's some pupil support but not enough of it. Parents of some players are faithful, other parents don't show up at all. And when their boys and girls get out of school, you never see the parents again. People in the town don't support the team the way it ought to be supported." Thus spake Richard Cunningham.

How should the team be supported?

"It's not only coming to the games, especially out-of-town games. It's speaking to the players on the street, encouraging them to do better, telling them abou do better, telling them about the good things they did. There's no need to say anything about the bad things, the players know what they were, even if they didn't have the films to remind them. Or the coaches."

Why don't the pupils support the team Is it lack of transportation ?

"I think about 80 per cent of the 11th and 12th graders have cars or access to cars. It's not that they need transportation to the games. And by the way, players need their own transportation. It's tough after a hard practice to get a shower and then haul your aching bones home. It's easier to jump in the car and get there in time for supper."

So what it is that deflects from pupil support?

"You've said it and you hear it. There are some who either because they don't understand the game or they aren't playing or haven't ever played the game who're bored by it and they prefer to do other things."

What other things? What's ther for a young person to do hereabouts? The nearest movie is in Mansfield, and it costs $3 a head.

"There's roller skating at Willard. There're fast-food places where you can eat and see your friends. There're places to go where you'll find others your own age."

Where are these places? What are these places?

"Oh, I can't tell you exactly where they are because I don't go there. But if I find out, I'll be sure to tell you."

An old hand at interviewing athletes somehow believes he's sincere when he says so.

What's the matter with our program? Why don't we win more games? Is it the coaching?

"It's not the coaching. At least, it never has been as long as I have been on the team. But I agree that somewhere we aren't doing the right thing about holding interest."

Holding interest?

"Yes, holding interest. When I was a seventh grader we had a lot of people out for the team. There were just as many when I was an eighth grader. But when I was a ninth grader, it got down to no more than two handsful."

Why was that?

"I don't know. In my case, it certainly wasn't that my father and my uncles and my cousins had played for Plymouth. I just wanted to do it for myself. But in other cases, I just don't know.

"I agree that there are lots who say, 'If I can't start, I don't want to play.' And there are some more who say, 'If I can't play regularly, I don't want to sit on the bench'".

Where do they learn this attitude?

"I don't think it's there when they're born."

Then where do they learn it?

"I'd guess at home. If I had two choices to make, I'd always choose a good family at home over any other choice."

Is what you're saying that those who have children probably shouldn't have them, because they're not qualified to raise them right?

"I don't know enough about that. I do know that it's good to teach boys and girls to participate, to share, to give what you can."

Would the program be more advanced if we had a ninth grade team in football, as we have in basketball?

"Heck, yes. That's what's wrong. We need more bodies."

Then how do we recruit more bodies?

"When I find out, I'll tell you. It beats me right now."

Young Richard Cunningham obviously has given it some though and he's no nearer the answer than the rest of us.

Richard Cunningham, like June of "Oklahoma", is busting out all over to gain some yardage as running back for Big Red team that so far hasn't produced any creditable offense.

Beaten but unbowed after Friday's outing with Edison, he and his teammates will engage Crestview here tomorrow. The Cougars are unbeaten and favored to win by three scores, unless the Red's defense can throttle the Crestview running game.

Cougars favored

When he assembles equipment for tomorrow's contest with Crestview at Robert A. Lewis Memorial field, Coach Richard Roll would do well to seek out an armorer.

For an armorer deals in the one commodity likely to stop the Cougars' twin offensive threats, Curtis Reed and Jim Them.

It's a machine gun.

Reed, a transfer from Shelby, where he played fullback last season, ran through Monroeville's tough defenses for 156 yards Friday night. He carried the ball 23 times. Then racked up another 79 yards. The Cougars amassed 261 all told, so it's clear most of it comes from Reed and Them.

One can hardly say too much about Crestview's fine offensive line, which repeatedy tore great holes in Monroeville's defenses Friday night.

It's defensive line, which calls on four of the offensive forwards, only held Monroeville to 42 yards on the ground. It harassed Dave Keszei, Monroeville's excellent southpaw passer, so much he could connect with only two throws. Two were intercepted among seven tries.

For its part, Plymouth found its pride Friday night. To have held vaunted Edison, which hasn't been beaten in conference play in four seasons, to only 14 points and to less than 150 yards in total offense, was, indeed, a feat to write home about.

What's necessary tomorrow?

Plymouth's defense must be even stronger than what it showed against Edison and it must put together some kind of offense.

Big Red fans are thirsting for some offensive excitement. The running game has been a big disappointment. It's less a matter of failure of the backs than the failure of the offensive line. Be it said for the forwards, they are willing. But to be willing and not much else is to say "he means well", certainly a pejorative observation. Outweighed and outmanned, the offensive line must somehow find the leverage to wrest yardage from the Crestview defense.

On form – Crestview is undefeated in five outings – the Cougars are a three touchdown favorite. They'd like nothing better than to blow Plymouth out of its own stadium.

Rod Hampton returned to competition Friday night. He showed lack of game experience. His throws were seldom on the mark, although there were three or four that should have been caught. That Tom Baker isn't available – he broke a collarbone even as Hampton did – hampers the Red offense somewhat. Hampton now must rely on the likes of Rick Hawkins, James Will and Jeff Jacobs and Mike McKenzie.

Friday's outing produced some outstanding performances by Plymouth players, even in defeat.

Chad McGinnis and Mike McKenzie were impressive on defense. Each had seven solo tackles. The Plymouth secondary, suspect at the beginning of the season, was not bad.

Game time is 8 p. m.

Red loses, but finds pride

Edison wins in fourth period, 14 to 0

Plymouth's Big Red lost the ball game, 14 to 0, to Edison before a Homecoming crowd in Firelands conference competition here Friday night but made a monumental discovery: it found its pride.

In the finest exhibition by a Plymouth team in four seasons, the Big Red held off the stronger Chargers for three periods before wearing down in the last quarter.

During the first half, Edison could manage only three first downs and 46 yards rushing. It collected only 20 yards through the air. No Plymouth team has matched that performance against any foe in several seasons.

For its part, Plymouth was less productive. With three first downs, the Big Red had managed just 30 yards rushing and six yards passing.

Ball control was the difference. Edison had put it in play 36 times, Plymouth just 24.

The Big Red couldn't gain in the first series after the second half kickoff and Greg Polachek punted 28 yards to the Plymouth 47. In four plays the visitors managed a net of two yards.

Neither could Plymouth advance and another punt ensued.

Edison returned the kick to its 24 and was forced to punt. On second down, Rod Hampton, who returned to the lineup for his first game of the season, was intercepted by Pat Landoll at the Red 31. A 15-yard penalty against the Chargers helped Plymouth and on fourth down Darren Branham intercepted Dan Frederick's pass in the end zone and the threat was halted.

It was during the next series that disaster struck Plymouth.

Unable to gain, Plymouth sent Polachek back to punt. The snap from center was low and skittered along the turf. Polachek couldn't kick and wisely chose to pass it. The ball flew over the sidelines and Edison was in business at the Red 25.

It took nine plays to score, the touchdown coming in the fourth period at 9:05. A five yard setback against Edison interrupted but did not stop its push. Steve Geres, an 11th grader who scales 190 pounds, bucked over tackle from the three for the first touchdown. Tim Bascharow kicked the PAT.

There was plenty of time for Plymouth to win.

The Big Red tried three passes. Each was incomplete. Then it pulled off the best play in football: punt and recover the safety man's fumble.

This is what Plymouth did for first down at the Charger 46. A clipping penalty against Ron Baldridge in a questionable call set Plymouth back 15 yards to the Charger 49. On second down, Hampton was intercepted again.

But Edison couldn't advance and was compelled to punt. A holding penalty against Plymouth forced it deep into the shadow of its own goal posts in the next series. On fourth down, Polachek punted out. Plymouth was downfield like a pack of scalded cats but missed the tackle on the Edison safetyman and was forced to settle for Edison possession at the Red 33. From here the Chargers went into the end zone in five plays, the last one coming at :35 on a 16-yard jaunt around left end by Jeff Springer, another 11th grader. Bascherow's kick was good and it was all over.

Plymouth's defense tired in the second half and gave up 88 yards on the ground, 59 of them in the fourt period. Its impotent offense put more pressure on the defense. Edison recorded 69 plays from scrimmage, Plymouth only 53.

A commensurate improvement in its offense without sacrificing Friday's level of defense will produce some victories for this team yet this season.

'61 grad runs Bowling Green track team

A 1961 alumnus of Plymouth High school, where he excelled in football, Dayton (Hub) Reed is head boys' track and field coach of Bowling Green High school, wehre he was formerly head football coach.

Reed is a graduate of Bluffton college, where he played football for Coach Kenny Mast.

Louis Thomas ran 60 yards for the first Charger TD and 40 yards for the second. Bryan Shamhart scored the important PAT after the second score.

Steve Hall's sneak gave Shiloh its second score after Craig Baldridge ran around end for the first one.

Shiloh is now 3-and-1.

'79 grad linebacker for Wilmington eleven

A 1979 alumnus of Plymouth High school, where he excelled in football, is the starting linebacker for Wilmington college's Quakers.

He is Jim Wallace whose play against Anderson college, when Wilmington rallied to win, was singled out by his coach, Dr. William Ramseyer, as "outstanding".

Ramseyer was coach here for two seasons. He left in 1963 to go to Firelands High school. Thereafter he was head coach at Brunswick, a Class AAA school, before going to Columbia, Mo., to take his doctorate in the University of Missouri, where he was a recruiter for the Tigers.

The Quakers played Taylor at Upland, Ind., Saturday. Taylor has the No. 1 offense among NAIA schools.

One boy too many, Plymouth in Division 4

The numbers have changed. Result: Plymouth's football team is in Division 4, Region 15, with such as Nelsonville, Crooksville, Cadiz (coached by Sam Fornaglio, ousted Monroeville mentor), Glouster Trimble, Belpre, Tiltonsville Buckeye South, Fredericktown, Barnesville, Clear Fork, Heath, West Lafayette Tidgewood, Coal Grove Dawson-Bryant, Caldwell, Lancaster Fairfield Union, New Matamoras Frontier, Albany Alexander, Johnsontown-Monroe, Proctorville Fairland.

Also, Reedsville Eastern, Lisbon David Anderson (where E. Scott Blackburn, former principal here, is in charge), Toronto, Wellsville, Beverly Fort Frye, Columbiana, Johnstown Northridge, Sarahsville Shenandoah, Amanda-Clear Creed, Baltimore Southern, Baltimore Liberty Union, Stewart Federal Hocking, Brilliant Buckeye North, Newcomerstown, Chesapeake, Granville, Hanover United and Wellston.

Save for Clear Fork and Fredericktown, Plymouth has never had athletic experience with any of them and it's not likely this will occur this century.

Western Reserve and New London, also Division 4 teams, are in Region 14. Black River, another Division 4 club, is in Region 12.

The Division 5 schools, St. Paul's, Monroeville, Crestview, South Central and Mapleton, are all in Region 17. Edison, the only Division 3 outfit, is in Region 10.

You don't need to be a weather expert to predict your electric bill.

Every month you get an electric bill. And every month it's different. Because your electric usage varies with the changing seasons.

Usually, it's up in the winter, down in spring, up again in air conditioning season, and down again in fall.

So how can you put together an intelligent household budget if you can't predict what your electric bills will be?

Switch to our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we'll bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average yearly electric usage.

Your account will be reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And, at the end of the twelfth month, you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Want to smooth out the ups and downs in your electric bill and take the guesswork out of your budget? Get on the Equal Payment Plan.

How? Just contact us. We'll take it from there.

Three amendments to the Ohio Constitution are proposed by referendum in the general election Nov. 2.

The first of these, which appears as No. 1 on the ballot, deals with authorizing the state to issue revenue bonds to make financing available at lower than current interest rates for buying, building or improving privately owned multi-unit housing for the elderly and privately owned owner-occupied single family dwellings; authorizing the state to make loans to or through residential mortgage lenders and to purchase loans from such lenders for multi-unit housing for the elderly and for single family housing; and providing that tax money shall not be oligated or pledged for the payment of these bonds.

It would be hard to find fault with such a proposal, which appears to be a life ring to be thrown to thousands of prospective home buyers who otherwise will sink in a sea of high interest rates that preclude their participating in the housing market and, thus, exclude them from the American Dream: owning one's own home.

This proposal has some weaknesses. One of them is that the rules and regulations governing the transactions envisaged are not spelled out yet. The proposed amendment leaves that to the political process.

We've not been pleased with the political process in Ohio of late. There's too much that ought to be done, that isn't done, and there's too much done that shouldn't be done. What's more, the Hidden Government, the government with the clout in Ohio (John Hall, please take note), will get its oar in so that, when the wash is dry, HG will have benefitted more than anyone else.

But we confess we've no alternative solution and reluctantly, we'll cast out vote FOR Issue No. 1. We urge Ohioans to do likewise.

Issue No. 2 is a political reward to a Toledo legislator who sees pie in the sky. He wants high speed rail transportation built and operated in Ohio to serve major population centers. He wants everybody to pay for it, whether they're served or not. And he wants to do it by the most punishing, the most regressive, tax of all, the sales tax. He wants the poor fish who's barely keeping his head above water to pay at the same rate as the comfortably fixed fellow who lives in Maumee and Perrysburg.

Vote No on Issue No. 2.

Whether one is for Clarence Brown or Richard Celeste for governor, he knows that each of them is opposed to Issue No. 3, which calls for a change in the manner of choosing members of the Public Utilities commission.

The amendment calls for the direct election of members of the commission in apolitical balloting, said election to be paid by the taxpayers of the state.

Certainly everyone can see that the PUCO has made some mistakes. These are errors of omission, commission and just plain blundering. The advantages of approval of the amendment, which have been laid before the voters at their expense, don't seem to us to be worth that expense, let alone worth our support at the ballot box.

Tinker with the PUCO? Certainly. Replace it with some political hacks who'll wield more power than the governor and the General Assembly combined? Heck, no.

Vote No on Issue No. 3.

Fackler wins four prizes, cash as poet

"Daddy In The Park And That's Just The Way It Is" sounds like a contemporary poem title, and that's just what won Todd Fackler, 65 Plymouth street, one of three cash awards in the 1982 Ohio Poetry Day association contests. He received two second prizes and a third prize for his entries in the 33-category 45th annual statewide competition.

Fackler has his grandmother, Mrs. H. H. Fackler, to thank for informing him of the contests, and the Scottish poet George Bruce for encouraging him in his writing, he says. He has been writing poetry about ten years, but the winning poems were originally written as part of his Independent Study in his senior year, 1977-78, at The College of Wooster. His work has appeared in "The College Poetry Review" and 'Pegasus". Fackler's winning poems will be published in the anthology of contest winners, "The Best of 1982", available at the Ohio Poetry day awards luncheon on Saturday at Ohio Dominican college in Columbus.

Fackler has been invited to read from his work tomorrow at the poetry reading sponsored by Verse Writers' Guild of Ohio. the reading will feature 10 outstanding Ohio poets as well as the 1982 Ohio poet of the year, James C. Kilgore.

'Trick' night set Oct. 30, one hour only!

Trick or Treat night will be Oct. 30 from 5 until 6 p. m.

Village council agreed Tuesday night to conduct the amusement here at the same time as in Willard to eliminate children going from town to town.

It is expected Shiloh will follow suit.

Police Chief Robert Conley and Councilman G. Thomas Moore urged that an adult accompany each youngster for safety reasons and attempt to stay in their own neighborhoods.

Randy Adams was given the green light to install a roadway in Lofland street, where he is planning to construct a house. It has been a dedicated street for many years but is disused.

Councilman John E. Hedeen by motion suggested the ordinance spell out Adams's reponsibility now and in any future development so that responsibility of the street would not fall on the taxpayers.

Village Administrator James C. Root said when work is being done in Riggs street, which should be next week, grading can be down to help Adams out.

He will be responsible for installing six to eight inches of stone for the 100-foot length and 20-foot width.

Root said the bids for improvement of Riggs street are due tomorrow, and the village has completed all the necessary paper work plus the advertising to rebid the work in compliance with the federal grant money.

Moore said during Monday night's safety committee meeting the question of open burning was discussed, since this is leaf disposal time.

Under state law it is explicitly illegal and carries a hefty fine.

Root said he plans that village employees can pick up bagged leaves left kerbside on Wednesdays so long as the leaf season lasts.

Moore also brought up another "gripe". This concerned garage sale signs left on trees and utility poles long after the sale. There is also an ordinance with prohibits this.

If warnings do not suffice, either for the burning or signs, the police department can issue a summons.

At the suggestion of the rules committee, headed by Counciman Keith Hebble, an emergency ordinance was passed which corrects Ord. 1-82, the appropriation ordinance for 1982.

It was poorly written in one section, which does not spell out how extra help for the clerk-treasurer is to be paid. The extra money was provided for but in one lump sum under "clerk's salary".

He also discussed the problems with the Chessie System over the West Broadway bridge.

Former Councilman Bill Taulbee spent a year trying to reach the railroad about needed repairs.

He got nowhere, not even an answer to letters or telephone calls.

It was suggested that Root cal the Huron and richland county engineers for their backing that repairs are needed. They referred him to a PUCO attorney in Columbus, saying about the only way to get a reaction from the railroad is through legal action.

Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, will attempt this route.

Hedeen gave the council copies of proposed legislation to enable the village to join a coalition that will work with the Consumers' Council to obtain a uniform rate from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc.

Barnthouse succeeds Hamman on board

A 43-year-old management employee of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., is the successor to the Rev. Arthur Hamman, resigned, as member of Plymouth Board of Education.

He is Donald L. Barnthouse, Class of 1958, Plymouth High school, a PLW employee for about 20 years. Previously he was employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard.

He is married to the former Janice Bowman, Plymouth, and is the father of a son and a daughter, both pupils in the schools. He is a member of Plymouth Lions club and avid golfer.

Donald M. Echelbarger was elected vice-president by the new board on an oral vote cast by his opponent, A. George Miller. Although Ohio law requires that the roll of qualified members of a body politic shall be called alphabetically, Plymouth Board of Education has never followed the law. Its practice is to call the name of the member proposing the action first, the name of the member who seconds the motion next, and then an ad hoc solicitation of views by the others.

The vote for Echelbarger and A. George Miller was tied at two when Miller's name was called. He voted for Echelbarger.

Others who voted for Echelbarger were Mrs. Roger Pugh, the new president, who succeeded the Rev. Mr. Hamman, thus leaving the office of vice-president open, and Barnthouse. Charles Reinhart and Echelbarger voted for Miller.

A dramatic development occurred at the end of the meeting.

It came when Supt. Douglas Staggs, referring to items that were not on the agenda, read a brief letter from Keith Diebler, head girls' basketball coach, resigning that post at once.

Staggs recommended its acceptance without comment.

It is what he didn't say that's the talk of athletic circles.

It is a matter of record that Diebler and his wife, the former Kathy Brown, a Plymouth alumna in 1978, obtained in Crawford county common pleas court at Bucyrus a dissolution of marriage.

Diebler formerly served as head boys' basketball coach. He resigned in 1979 after two years of service.

Mrs. Neil McKown, elementary teacher at Shiloh, was accorded a maternity leave of absence through Jan. 14, 1983.

Enrollment amounts to 1,219 pupils, a decrease of 24, or 1.9 per cent, from last year.

Peak enrollment occurred during the 1972-73 year. Since then enrollment has dropped by 19 per cent.

Staggs said he thinks the enrollment has "levelled off". He added he is encouraged that enrollment among first graders is seven more than attended kindergarten last year. He reported 100 pupils in first grade and 106 in kindergarten.

Additional pay for 16 teachers was approved. Each has completed further instruction in his field. These are Paul Gase, Mrs. S. Michael Tracey, Paul Fazzini, Sam cook, David Coulter, six semester hours; Mrs. McKown and Mrs. Charles J. Briggs, three semester hours; Daniel Donoghue, two semester hours, and Cindy Hornikel, one semester hour.

Lightning Rod Mutual Insurance Co., represented by Tallman agency, Shiloh, was accorded a one year contract to furnish insurance on musical instruments and farm machinery. Cost is $246.

A fee for Biology II was set. It will be $8.

Galion Board of Education will furnish the speech and hearing therapy service on a contract basis for one year.

Baccalaureate and commencement will take place in the high school Sunday, May 29, 1983, at 3 p. m.

Louis Bromfield chapter, National Honor society, was accorded permission to conduct its induction ceremony on Sunday, Nov. 7. This will allow the program to obtain greater public exposure, Staggs said, and enable 12th graders newly raised into the society to participate in its activities earlier.

Mrs. Louanna Hall was approved as substitute bus driver.

The Larry Smiths and David Hall, residents of Brooks court, protested to the board that their children are subjected to unnecessary and insupportable risks by compelling them to walk about a fourth of a mile to the school bus stop, where there is no shelter and they must stand in the rain, wind, cold and snow. They asked for the route to be altered so that the bus will turn around in Brooks court and offered the free use of some driveways in which to effect the turnaround.

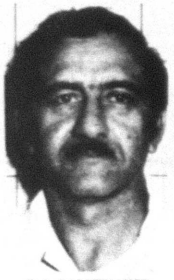

Staggs reviewed Ohio law in the matter and said the board is meticulous in adherance to it. Mrs. Smith accused the administration and board of being narrow: "If a child is abducted or hurt or killed, what does it matter what the legal reasons are?"

The question will be reviewed and will resurface next month when the board approved bus routes for the next year.

To allow Reinhart to attend the Ohio School Boards meeting at Columbus on Nov. 8, the board will meet Nov. 9 at 7:30 p. m.

Classes will be dismissed at 1 p. m. on Oct. 27 and 28 to enable certificated personnel to undertake a required six hours of instruction in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Ohio law requires all personnel having directorial responsibilities over pupils shall be qualified in CPR by the end of May, 1983.

D. L. BARNTHOUSE

Chamber to meet to hear Ross, Jr.

A three day hunting safety course will be conducted Nov. 4, 5 and 6 at the Willard Conservation league, Route 99.

The class, limited to 25, is open to the public.

Registrations are being taken at Hill's Jewelry & Gift Shop and Miller's Hardware.

Cougars wallop Red

Crestview retains unscored-on record, 40 to 0

Crestview preserved its unbeaten and unscored upon record here Friday night with an awesome 40 to 0 thumping of Plymouth in Firelands conference competition.

The Cougars lost 145 yards by penalty, 15 of them having been assessed against the visitors, but even so managed 277 yards on the ground and 170 yards through the air for the worst rout of Plymouth in Cougar history.

It all began in the first period, with the Cougars' third possession of the game. Greg Polachek was the victim of a poor snap from center and he luckily got off a 35-yard punt to the Crestview 25. It took Crestview only four plays to score. The big play, upon which the Cougars relied all night, was a 70-yard pass and run shot from Rod Bernhard, the visitors' quarterback who was himself to score twice, and Mike Williams, a 12th grade split end. This gave Crestview first down at the Plymouth three, whence Bernhard went in untouched. He jumped over Jeff Jacobs for the last yard.

Curtis Reed, the 12th grader transfer from Shelby, kicked the first of our PATs.

Crestview scored again with its next possession. The touchdown came with four seconds expired in the second period. Reed went in from seven yards away, the Cougars having driven 52 yards in six plays after Polachek's punt. The boot carried to the Crestview 37 but successive penalties, of five and 15 yards, gave the Cougars possession at their 48.

Reed again kicked the PAT.

Crestview was to score two more touchdowns before the half ended.

With just under five minutes left, the visitors took a Red punt at their 33 and in just five plays scored, this time on a 52-yard pass-and-run play from Bernhard to Brian Easterling. Reed's kick was again good.

With less than a minute left in the second period, Crestview drove 60 yards in five plays after Polachek's punt. Reed got home with a 44-yard jaunt. The push started at the Cougar 40. On third down, Easterling gained 15 yards on a reverse that completely fooled the Red defense, which up to now hadn't been all that bad, save for failures on the big plays.

The pass from center for the PAT was poor and Plymouth stopped the ensuing run.

Behind 27 to 0, Plymouth sought to regroup.

It held Crestview in the first series of the season half but could do nothing on its own – this was the poorest Plymouth offensive showing of the season: the Big Red rushed for a net of 11 yards and managed, with nine completions in 16 tries by two passers, to gain just 20 yards, for a total of 31 yards overall – and Crestview bided its time.

It was soon coming.

Reed was injured after a 15-yard gain – he managed 116 yards on 18 carried throughout the game – and after the Cougars were penalized five yards because of delay, Bernhard passed 13 yards to Dan Durbin, a wiry halfback with a loud mouth, who taunted the referee and the Plymouth defense. From the Red 27, Bernhard rolled out to his left and sped down the north sideline for the score. While he was still in the Cougar backfield, he went past three Plymouth tacklers who didn't know he had the ball, so clever was the Cougar deception. Reed kicked the PAT.

Crestview scored one more time.

This came in the fourth period, after Crestview had threatened by pushing to the Red five, whence Reed went in again. But it was called back because of holding. Two more 15-yarders, one of them with forfeit of down, put the Cougars back at the Plymouth 43, and on fourth down a pass failed.

Plymouth fumbled away possession on the first play and Crestview attacked again, but two five yard penalties ate up what yardage the Cougars could gain. They punted and Plymouth made its best offensive showing of the night. Jacobs got 12, then six on a pitchout. But a flea flicker play, although it connected, cost Plymouth six yards. Rich Cunningham got 10 yards through left tackle before a mixed signal on fourth down shut off any furthere threat. Plymouth was to get the ball once more, for one play.

Crestview's second stringers were in the game now – there were mutterings among Plymouth fans that Crestview was seeking to make this a showcase for Reed and was equally anxious to get statewide recognition in the polls – and they continued their mastery over Plymouth. A pint-sized ninth grader, Jim Anderson, was the main gun. He ripped off 36 yards for first down at the Plymouth 23. Two penalties set the Cougars back but they capped the 48-yard push with the 12th play when John Tennis banged home from 15 yards away. A poor snap cost Crestview another point.

This was not a creditable showing for Plymouth. If, as some Red fans hope, next year's team will be a superior one, it may breed for a spirit of revenge. But the Cougars have nine 11th graders and five 10th graders on their bench and they may have something to say about it.

It was the largest crowd of the season, indeed the largest crowd in several seasons, some fans didn't get into the grounds until the kickoff, and shows that given a natural rivalry and a winning team, local fans will turn out.

Crestview has a superior defensive line and a stout offensive one. That's where the game was won, in the trenches, and Plymouth is not a trench warfare team. It sought to go up top from the word go. When this strategy didn't work, Plymouth tried only two aerials in the second half, partly because Rod Hampton reinjured his arm.

Plymouth was further hampered because Mike McKenzie, who played his heart out when he was in the game, was taken off the field by ambulance with what appeared to be abdominal injuries.

What's happening in athletics at all levels?

By THE OLD TIMER

Illness prevented this scrivener from completing what would have been his 46th season as an athletic official.

Even if he hadn't been ill, he would have thought twice, maybe three times, about accepting assignments to work summer amateur baseball and softball.

Why?

An account of the season's finale for the Shelby Blues semi-pro football squad spells it out.

Consider:

"The visiting Toledo squad put on a show that tells the story of why the Ohio Football league has been struggling with attendance.

"The Patriots were called for numerous personal foul penalties and had several players ejected throughout the same for unsportamanlike actions and abusive language towards officials.

"The game was terminated with 46 seconds left to play in the contest after the officiating crew finally gave up in trying to call the contest after getting no cooperation from the players."

The account speaks for itself. There isn't enough money in the mint to induce any right-minded, qualified official to give up his Sunday afternoon for such activity.

Which brings to mind the troubles of a young man (?) at Clyde, who went to court to establish his claim that he has a right to play on the Clyde football team. This character, and he is that, quit the baseball team last spring, without the permission of the coach. That's against the ground rules at Clyde. Because he did so, he was barred from competing in football. The judge agreed with the school. His parents got up a petition, which was signed by scored of electors, beseeching the board of education to reverse the decision. The board declined.

The parents argued to deprive the boy of the opportunity to compete would wash out his chances for a "scholarship".

What malarkey!

We worked a game involving this character, the catcher for Clyde in 1982. He threatened to behead the Monroeville pitcher and when the umpire-in-chief sought to restrain him by grasping his middle, he turned on the man in blue and threatened to destroy him, both physically and in court.

A character like this would get a scholarship? What makes him and his parents think there'd be no word of such conduct reaching the college authorities? Who's he think he is, Joe Namath?

That it was the eighth grade B squad from Shelby made not a whit of difference to the Red.

Does Red team feed upon itself?

McKenzie says 'there's some intimidation of ninth graders"

A varmit whose foot is caught in a trap will bite through it to free himself.

Some members of the crustacean kingdom as a matter of course feed on themselves.

It is not uncommon for female mammals that have newly whelped to eat their young.

So it shoud not be a surprise that this syndrome affects Plymouth's football program.

The latest to attest to it is Mike McKenzie, a handsome, 165-pound youngster who's in his third season as a Big Red footballer, having won one letter with another a certainty for his efforts this season.

He threw a shock into Plymouth supporters Friday night. A Crestview player speared him and he was taken off in the ambulance to Willard Area hospital, where he was treated and released. He reported to the hospital again Saturday, for further examination, and was told to take it easy for a day or two, that he'll survive, albeit with some soreness.

McKenzie is no newcomer to Big Red football.

"I like the game, it's my favorite. When I was a seventh grader, I turned out for practice along with the other boys. I played some as a seventh grader and was a starter as an eighth grader. I was sure that if I stuck it out I would get to play as a ninth. After all, Plymouth had won only one game and what else could they do? They had to play me."

There is some convincing evidence, he was told, that older players, principally 12th graders, haze ninth graders, particularly those who show signs of being able to play with the "big Boys".

"What's hazing?"

It's intimidation, he was told.

"Heck, yes, there's a lot of it, but I haven't done any of it. I haven't needed to."

Who does it and why?

"Some of the 12th graders, and maybe some 11th graders, do it. They do it because they're afraid of their positions."

Afraid of their positions?

"Sure, they're afraid they won't get to play because these young kids may be better than they are. So they threaten these kids, try to scare 'em, try to get them to back off."

Does it work?

"Sure it works. But not with everybody. Once some of the ninth graders ganged up and told the older players they wouldn't stand for it. And there was less of it. But you'd better believe it, it happens."

But isn't the problem that we don't have enough bodies available for football?

"Sure, that's our problem. We have five of the 12th grade on the football team. That's less than 13 per cent of the graduating class. If you were teaching physics, which is a tough subject, and I know, because I'm taking it, and you flunked 13 per cent of the kids in the class, don't you think the principal would be on your back?"

If less than 13 per cent of the boys in a particular class want to participate in an activity, is it worth the expense to continue that activity?

"I don't know what the expense it, but you're right, any program ought to attract more than just 13 per cent."

Then why doesn't it?

"Because they don't like getting beat. What we need is a 10-and-0 season, then we'd have so many out for football that you couldn't count 'em."

But if we had a 10-and-0 season, wouldn't that mean that there are a number of experienced players who'd be back for the next season and because of their experience take all the starting places so that the newcomers, whom you've already said want to play or else they'll quit, will ride the bench?

"Look at Buckeye Central. Last year they were in the state finals and this year your sister could make the team."

What can be done to increase the numbers?

"Take my class. We've got 14 players in uniform, enough for a team. That's a little more than a quarter of the class. It'd be better if we had half, but then there are some of my classmates, and some boys in the school, that I wouldn't want on my team."

Why not?

"They don't want to put out. They don't want to play the game like it ought to be played. They don't want to work hard."

An experienced alumnus, who distinguished himself playing here and is now playing college ball with acclaim, said Friday night that Plymouth players are quick to get down on themselves: they lose a game and they conclude the season is lost. Is this true?

"Absolutely."

Where do they learn this, in the school?

"Not so far as I can see. I don't know of any class that teaches that subject."

Do they learn it on the football field or the basketball court?

"Not in my experience."

Then, for Heaven's sake, where do they learn it?

"Where else but at home?"

Then what you're saying is that you can take the player out of the home but you can't take the home out of the player?

"You got that right. And I dont know what to do about it."

What does it take to win?

"We haven't won all that many since I've been playing and I don't have much experience. But what it takes is playing together, doing what's right, making fewer mistakes than the other team, doing what we've been taught."

Surveys show that three other and smaller schools in the Firelands conference produce 10th graders who're no bigger, no faster, no taller than 10th graders in Plymouth. Then how do you account for the fact that Plymouth has been beaten by these schools more often than not?

"I don't know. I'd like to see the statistics, but I take your word for them. It has to be the difference in family life. There's no substitute for a good family. I've been lucky."

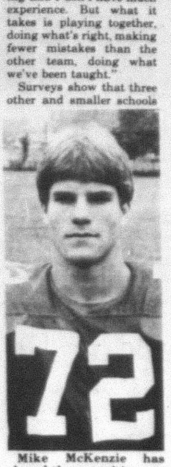

To get back to the recruitment process, would it be desirable to assure eighth graders in May that when they come back to school in August they'll be put on a ninth grade team and made to compete with ninth graders and not run the risk of being beaten physically and browbeaten mentally by older players?

"Of course. Look at Shelby. They only dress 11th and 12th graders. They've got so many out in their football program, of course, it's a football town, where football is almost God to them – they can afford B teams at every level. Their eighth grade B team played Shiloh last week."

Can we do it?

"We've got to do it. If we don't do it we'll, as you said, only feed on ourselves more and more and some day we won't have anything left to eat."

This is a kid whose head is screwed on in the right direction. He is Thinking Man, albeit not yet old enough to vote, in the finest sense.

Mike McKenzie has played three positions so far this season: offensive lineman, running back, linebacker. If there's another that he can do, he's willing. Articulate, handsome, concerned, dutiful, he's a faithful churchgoer, an above-average pupil, anxious to better himself, "but I'm not sure yet just how or at what."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Chest president takes issue, resigns post

Sir:

I would like to make several comments concerning your editorial which appeared in the Sept. 30 edition of The Advertiser.

Several years ago the Community chest investigated the possibility of joining the United Way Campaign as you suggested in your article. We found that a community cannot "ride its coattail for free." You pay and pay dearly for their materials. When you join this organization you give up your right to choose how much money your local organizations receive. All monies go to the United Way fund and they in turn send only a portion of the money back to you. You must remember, we are a community divided by two counties and so we would lose two sums of money instead of one. Shelby and Willard were members of the United Way at one time. Both have since returned to local collection of funds due to the amount of money they were losing for their communities.

Being a person that was "still in three cornered pants" not that many years ago, I cannot speak of the communities attitude at that time. However, I feel that I am qualified to speak of it now. I have been a member of the Community Chest for nine years and have treid nine years and have tried many times in the past to get people to help with our organization. With the exception of a few dedicated people, the response has always been "I don't have the time," or "Let me think about it," or "Maybe next year".

This apathetic attitude seems to be everywhere. Far too many people are sitting back and taking "pot shots" at our community. Many people are making fun of the organizations that are trying to help our community. Many people are making fun of our local government. And there are far too many that sit back and make fun of the academic and athletic programs that our schools have to offer.

People, talk is cheap! Instead of running these programs down why not get involved and support them?

Volunteer your time to the Chamber of Commerce. They are only trying to help YOU. Ask the mayor or council if you can help them in any way instead of ridiculing them. Support your local schools. Volunteer to be an aide or a crossing guard. Support the musicians and athletes of the community. They are trying to do their best for us. Are we doing the same for them?

One thing the editor and I do agree upon is the fact that unless we as citizens of this community get involved in SOMETHING, we may end up "going down the drain."

I have served my time as president of the Community chest. It is time for a change. If anyone or any local organization is interested in running the Community Chest, contact Wayne Strine. I am resigning my post as of Oct. 1, 1982. Please don't let this or any local organization die.

Respectfully,
Mark Ream

(Ed. Note: Reader Ream infers wrongly. There was no suggestion that the chest join United Way. Perish the thought! It was because the editor was tired of how United Way used Plymouth that he pushed 25 years ago for a local chest.

What should be done, nonetheless, is that the chest should "ride the coattails" of the massive United Way-Red Feathers publicity campaign mounted in October in every other community in the country, something it hasn't done since memory recordeth not.)

Mail delivery after H-bomb? Better to think of green rice!

By AUNT LIZ

Everyone knows the old saying, "Rain or shine, the mails go through."

For this everyone should be very grateful. It means letters from your kids and friends, wedding invitations, kind thank you notes and even some really fascinating junky stuff.

When it is really bad outside, you can be sure that one car is creeping along. The rural mail carrier. He is a special breed, and he does more than just drop off something readable. He carried messages for help, and at times has stopped to give aid where it has been desperately needed.

He is truly deserving, but I wonder if he even knows what may be in store for him in the future.

Most of us simply want to ignore that we may be in for a devastating nuclear war where everything and just about everyone will be a memory.

Not the post office, though.

It is setting up plans to have two main points left to distribute mail, just in case. One is in Memphis and the other is San Bruno, Cal., which is just south of San Francisco. I had to look it up, and it is there.

If all this should happen, who would have any stationery to write on, or even a pencil, let alone a stamp? If you are lucky enough to have all this, then will there be anyone working in the local post offices to send your letter on? That is where the rural carriers come in, they have got to be earmarked to survive.

Along with them, it would also be nice to have a few doctors and grocery stores left, too. A gas station would help, and of all the factories we have, those that turn our pet foods should survive.

What it boils down to is that none of us can live without each other.

Even if we do not know each other, each person somehow furnishes something eveh, if it is pure gossip.

Right now I do not know a soul who knows the Queen of England, but we all know what a problem that mother is having with her kids, just like the rest of us. All problems hit everyone, but you would think a queen would be immune.

There is one nice thing though about being a queen. She does not have to dream up what to have for dinner. But I am sure she must tell someone, who will tell five cooks that maybe she would like roast beef for dinner, or even beef and noodles.

If only she would call me, I could give her a really good recipe that is great with any meat. Except wieners, but then some people do not consider them meat.

It is for green rice, and now is the time to make it, while parsley is still growing.

Start with three cups of cooked rice. Mix it with three-fourths of a cup of chopped parsley, a half cup of grated cheddar cheese, a third of a cup of chopped onion, a fourth of a cup of chopped green pepper, a minced clove of garlic, a 14½-ounce can of evaporated milk (no way, they come in 13-ounce sizes, and that little bit makes no difference), two beaten eggs, three-fourths of a cup of cooking oil, some salt and pepper, the juice and grated rind of one lemon.

Put it in a greased baking dish with some paprika sprinkled on top and bake at 350 for a little less than an hour.

This is a large recipe, and can be put in several baking dishes, which you can nicely give to a neighbor.

Gospel singer feted at New Haven dinner

Friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McKenzie, New Haven, Sunday, for dinner after the concert of Web Flemming at the New Haven Methodist church to honor him.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, the William Chapmans, F. Gene Smiths, the Rev. Charles Naylor and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Buchanan.

Mr. Flemming will present a "Sermon in Song" concert Oct. 24 at Willard High school.

A memorial gift to the fire department's "Jaws of Life" fund for Mrs. Lester Shields has been received, Kenneth Echelberry, ambulance head, reports.

It is from Roland Conklin, Montrose, Pa.

Red underdog Saturday vs. St. Paul's at Norwalk

Plymouth resumes football competition with tiny St. Paul's at Norwalk Saturday, underdog by two touchdowns despite a crippling injury to Kelly Amato, the Flyer quarterback, Saturday night, when Edison rallied to defeat St. Paul's, 26 to 13.

The Flyers are favorites becaues they've a better offense than Plymouth's, which has hardly been worthy of the name if you stress the first syllable. Stress the second syllable and you're more nearly correct.

St. Paul's held the Chargers to 211 yards total offense Saturday, 35 of it on the ground. And going into the fourth period, the Flyers were ahead, 13 to 12.

Whether Flyer scouts saw something when Plymouth met Crestview is problematical. Up to now, Crestview has not been a passing team. Yet its aerial game is what broke Plymouth's back. And the Big Red pass defense had been adequate up to Friday night.

Smallest school in the conference, St. Paul's has a deserved reputaion for pluck. Which showed Saturday night. The Flyers went down fighting. With 1:40left in the game, and possession at its six, St. Paul's manfully sought to pull it out.

Amato, its ace passer, was on the bench with at least a shoulder separation, perhaps a collarbone fracture. The Flyers were set back for offsides and two plays later, Pat Landoll, who played so splendidly for Edison against Plymouth, intercepted a pass and ran in untouched for the final score.

St. Paul's stated in the contest and forged its lead because it has two outstanding running backs, Keith Shumate, who racked up 82 yards in 21 carries, and Scott Jaworski.

St. Paul's is an opportunistic team. Its record is superior to Plymouth's. It will be playing before a home crowd, and there is no school in the league that consistently draws the support that is given to St. Paul's.

Directions to Witney field:

Proceed east in Baseline road to New State road. Continue north to Route 13-250 in Norwalk. Cross Route 61 and continue north in Routes 13-250 to League street. Turn right at traffic signal and continue to Milan avenue. Turn right at traffic signal and proceed two blocks. Turn left to field.

Game time is 8 p. m.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Plymouth ambulance squad took Mrs. Angeline Metzger, rural Crestline, to Galion Community hospital Sunday about 7:15 p. m. The Crestline squad had been called, but it was searching for a missing child, so the call was relayed to Plymouth. She received a fractured hip.

Mrs. Bertha Mills was taken to Willard Area hospital Oct. 4, and on Oct. 6 Sharon Rupp, 40 West Broadway, was taken to Sandusky Memorial hospital.

What's black & white and read all over?

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

D. E. Akers, 77, attorney, dies at Mansfield

Donald Eugene Akers, 77, for 30 years Plymouth's only attorney, died Sunday in Woodlawn Nursing home, Mansfield, of a lengthy illness.

DONALD E. AKERS

He had visited his younger son, Eric J., here Saturday to watch the World Series game.

Born Jan. 8, 1905, in Auburn township, Crawford county, he was the son of the Lafayette Akerses. He was graduated by Plymouth High school in 1923 and worked as a postal carrier for a generation until ill health forced him to retire.

On Aug. 16, 1940, he became the last person in Ohio to be admitted to the bar without having attended law school. He had studied in Ohio State university and the University of Akron.

He practiced law full time after his retirement from federal service about 25 years ago.

He served four terms as village councilman, one of them as president pro tempore. In 1955, he was coach of a boys' baseball team in the forerunner of Plymouth Midget league, of which he was a former officer.

He was also a member of the Ohio Bar association.

A stout conservative, he cast his first ballot for president in 1928 for Herbert Clark Hoover. He thereafter supported Republican candidates; for the most part. He was dead set against zoning legislation and was the mainspring in defeating enactment of zoning here 15 years ago.

He was married to Mary Guadaynino, Plymouth, who survives. She now resides in Mansfield, where the Akerses moved after he entered the nursing home. He is also survived by two sons, D. Richard, Macedonia, and Eric J., Plymouth; a daughter, Marianne, now Mrs. Robert Young, Mt. Vernon; two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Chorpening, Ashland, and Florence, Willard, and three grandsons and three granddaughters.

The Rev. Frank Eckart, his pastor, was celebrant of the funeral mass yesterday at 10 a. m. from St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

The family suggests memorial gifts may be made to Plymouth Ambulance service or to the Richland County Lung Foundation.

Two arrested for fighting

Two men were arrested here Oct. 13 for fighting in Plymouth Laundromat.

Richard Poth," 26, and Steven Poth, 25, both of Shiloh, were charged with fighting with Dale Strong.

Four plead not guilty in court here

Four pleas of not guilty resulted in transfers of the cases to Shelby Municipal court by Mayor Dean A. Cline Oct. 12.

Lowell Sexton and Raymond Spangler are accused of aggravated menacing. Ted Brown and Jerry Deskins are accused of assault.

Michael Lawrence was convicted of disorderly conduct and fined $53, which includes costs.

Thomas G. Needs, 148 Walnut street, accused of public intoxication, forfeited bond of $38.

Timothy L. Warren, Shelby, convicted of eluding a police officer and of peeling tires, was fined $153, including costs, in the first insuance and $53, including costs, in the second.

Others who were fined:

Clarence E. Slipp, Jr., Mansfield, speeding, $39; David M. Scheid, Monroeville, speeding, $52; Daniel G. Kraft, Plymouth route 1, reckless operation, $53; Doris E. Newman, Norwalk, speeding, $49; James A. Cross, Norwalk, $43;

Also, John Adams, Plymouth, operating vehicle without air cleaners, $53.

For Pfeifer, Brown, C., Brown, V., Campanella, Rinehart on Nov. 2

This newspaper was the first in Ohio to endorse Howard Metzenbaum when he ran in the primary election to be United States senator. It endorsed him again in the general election.

We said then that his religion should not be a governing factor. Whether a candidate practices an organized religion or does not choose to do so makes not a particle of difference to us.

But Senator Metzenbaum's reaction to the travesty in Lebanon frankly dismays us. He seems to have been unconscionably slow to condemn Israel for proper reason, and God knows, there is proper reason in this instance!

This is not the only time he's dragged his feet. In most cases, the foot-dragging came about because he couldn't or wouldn't see that the mainstream of Ohio life called for a stance that was different from that which he found to be comfortable but was out of date.

We endorse Paul Pfeifer, whom we know and respect, who has served us faithfully and well in the Ohio Senate, whose character and conduct are above reproach, and whose platform suits us right down to the ground. Vote for Pfeifer.

Clarence (Bud) Brown is a long-standing friend of ours. He knows what Ohio is all about and he knows what Washington is all about. What's important, he knows where to go and whom to see in Washington to get what Ohio deserves, at least 99 cents on the dollar for what it sends to Washington. Give him the clout of the governor's office and he'll get it.

His opponent, already beaten once in the race for governor, is an estimable fellow who's trying hard. One argument he's advancing nauseates us. It is that Brown if elected governor would continue Reaganomics in this state.

The argument is nauseating because, for one thing, he doesn't convince us or anybody else, not even himself, that Reaganomics per se is bad. And he doesn't mention that his party, the party with all the clout in Washington, has rolled over like a little teddy bear and gone along with the president's notions, lock, stock and barrel.

Celeste is an Italian word that means blue, which is what Ohioans will be if they choose him. Vote for Brown.

Which is the watchword in the race for secretary of state. Virgil Brown, an experienced, trained election hand in the most populous county of the state, whose career shows that he worked for a living before he became a public servant, is opposed by Sherrod Brown, a young legislator who makes great claims of success in the General Assembly, not of which we've noticed, and who says if he's elected he'll make great contributions to the economic development of Ohio by his expertise. How does he plan to change the Constitution and Ohio law to allow for that? The secretary of state, for the most part, deals with the election process. He also records some documents and licenses some corporations, among other duties.

Sherrod Brown's campaign committee argues that it's about time that Richland county, where he was born and raised, should have a native son in the higher echelons at Columbus, no such figure of the county having served there in this century.

We've got news for that committee. No black man has served there, either. We think it's a darn sight more important to elect a qualified black man to high state office than to choose an opponent from one among the 88 counties that hasn't had a candidate in Columbus for so long.

On competence and experience, vote for Virgil Brown.

The state auditor's office has been characterized by the worst mismash of cheap politics, incompetence, high-binding and chicanery that Ohio has seen for many years. The incumbent seeks reelection. He should be turned out. His opponent, Vincent Campanella, has done a splendid job as auditor of Cuyahoga county, has some genuinely effective suggestions to improve services in the state auditor's office, and is untainted by unsavory political connections. Vote for Campanella.

Dana G. Rinehart, already treasurer of Franklin county, seeks to be Ohio treasurer. He is deserving of election, against a woman who would at another time receive our support. Rinehart is simply the superior candidate.

Anybody for elephants? If not, try Hamburger au poivre!

By AUNT LIZ

The circus is coming again next month to Cleveland.

I cannot urge all families more than to save their pennies and take their kids to see it all.

It might be the only time they will see a real elephant. I got to pet one last year, which admittedly was way beyond anything I ever planned to do in my lifetime. Tigers are native to India, and how many of us will ever jaunt that far to see one? Yet we saw them and charming 10-feet-tall polar bears when they stand upright. Never would I want to be left in the same room with those guys, but they are pure beauty.

Every child should have this experience of seeing it all. When some of us were kids, circuses came to town and were in very large tents, and on the way to your seat, you walked past the animals, the clowns, the lovely looking ladies who later were swinging through the air doing things no nightmare could do justice to. They were part of it all, before the show and during the show, real actors who made you feel that this was really something very special.

It is.

It takes a rare breed of people to be circus people. Their life is simple. They love what they are doing which is the best way to earn a living, maybe not too lavish, but they eat, see the countryside and know that they are giving a dream world to so many.

Perhaps if I had known all this years ago, I would not be here, but there.

But no way do I think I would like to deal with the elephants. Frankly, they may be cute kids, but surely not pretty. Still they are plain smart.

I heard a gal interviewed the other morning on the radio who apparently is the only lady elephant trainer in the country. She left a comfortable home and her husband agreed so he did, too, and they joined up and love it all.

She answered three questions. First, elephants do have a fantastic memory. She cited an incident when in winter quarters a veteran trainer called out a few commands, and within minutes, the kids remembered and went into the routine that they had not done in several years.

Next, they love peanuts. This I often wondered about, how such a large mouth could really savor one little lone peanut.

And thirdly, they are scared stiff of itty-bitty mice, and anything else that may get behind them. That is because they can not turn their heads to look behind them, but must turn their whole bodies around, which is really a big job. So-a noise behind them will cause a little panic. Hopefully, it is no one any of us knows. Don't chance it.

There are all ways you can economize during the week so you can see all these beautiful animals, and people.

Too many think they can not exist unless they have a steak at night. Let them eat them; for the most part they are simply tasteless. A hunk of meat with every forkful and that is it. For years I have thought it was more for status-seeking than nourishment.

This can be done with steak or with one of the most favorite versions of beef, hamburger.

Take two pounds of ment, form into patties. Then take some coarse pepper about four teaspoons, and press into each one. Let them sit for a half hour.

Sprinkle a skillet with salt, turn the heat on, and when the salt begins to brown, add the patties.

Cook lightly on both sides or until done the way you like meat, rare, medium or well done.

After that, put a dab of butter on each with a dash of tabasco, some Worcestershire and lemon juice. At this point, if you wish, you can add two tablespoons of brandy. Take patties out of pan and keep warm, swirl the juices in the pan with a little heat, and pour over the meat.

This is called Hamburger au poivre, translated, means nothing but peppered-up hamburger.

GenTelCo. rates up slightly

Monthly rates for General Telephone Company of Ohio's customers will increase an average of three per cent, the result of a rehearing of the company's last rate case filed in 1981.

Bills for one-party residential customers will go up an average of 35 cents a month. The increase was approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio Oct. 13 and took effect the same day.

C. Michael Crawford, Marion, director of regulatory affairs, says General of Ohio appealed several issues in the 1981 case. It asked the PUCO to reconsider the way it calculated allowances in depreciation, federal income tax and toll revenue.

After studying General's appeal, the PUCO authorized the company $2 million additional annual revenue. This boosted General's revenue received in teh 1981 case from $27 million to $29 million. The company originally had sought $63.3 million.

Jacobs-to-Branham pass ties it, Will's kick wins —

Red recovers fumble, nips Flyers,

Outgained, outplayed and outscored for nearly 46 minutes at Norwalk Saturday night, opportunistic Plymouth capitalized on a break to win a hard-fought Firelands conference contest with St. Paul's, 7 to 6.

The Flyers took an early lead, carrying the opening kickoff 63 yards in five plays to produce their only touchdown. They did so with the sterling work of their offensive line, which simply blew Plymouth off the ball, and the sensational running of Keith Shumate, who carried the ball four times among the five efforts necessary to score. He racked up gains of 19, 15, four and 13 yards, the last one the scoring run, in the drive.

A poor snap from center made the place kick for PAT all but impossible. It got off but only barely.

The Flyers sat on that lead until a tragic mistake late in the game.

Plymouth did not make any headway against an inspired St. Paul's defense.

In its first series, the Big Red had possession for eight plays and punted, this one for 32 yards to the Flyer 29, whence St. Paul's marched to the 42, only to take a 15-yard penalty for holding.

The Flyer bench was irate over the penalty calls against St. Paul's. On another night, and another field, it might have incurred some penalties for this alone.

Plymouth was finding first downs almost as scarce as reeds in the Flyer band.

After St. Paul's punted, Plymouth fumbled on third down and St. Paul's took over at the visitors' 49. Two 15-yard penalties on successive plays offset some big gainers. On third down, a Mainzer-to-Missler aerial got 24 yards, enough for first down.

With first down at the Red 15, the Flyers found a stiffened Plymouth defense. In four plays St. Paul's lost a net of 10 yards and gave up possession after Matt Spriggs was short with a field goal attempt from the Plymouth 33.

Plymouth was to make one grand stab at a tie before the half ended.

The visitors obtained possession at their 44 and swept downfield in 10 plays to reach the Flyer six, where Tim Deskins fumbled on second down. St. Paul's recovered and was in possession at its eight when the half ended.

The big gain in the series came on fourth down from the St. Paul's 40. Greg Polachek dropped back to punt but Steve Jamerson's snap went to Jeff Jacobs, who threw 21 yards to Darren Branham for first down at the Flyer 19.

First half statistics showed how clearly the Flyers had dominated the first 24 minutes. With 41 plays, the Norwalk team had eight first downs and 117 yards rushing. It had connected with four of six passes for 40 yards. For its part, Plymouth had just three first downs in 28 plays, a net rush yardage of 25 and an aerial attack of 30 yards, with three completions in nine tries, having lost one throw by interception.

A 34-yard run by Jacobs through left guard gave Plymouth first down at the Flyer 26 in the next series after the second half kickoff. But Plymouth could not push farther and surrendered possession with an incomplete pass on fourth down.

The Flyers stormed right back, thanks to a 35-yard run by Shumate that resulted in first down at the Plymouth 22. St. Paul's managed only two yards in the ensuing series and Plymouth had thwarted another drive.

From this point, the Plymouth 40, thanks to a face mask penalty against St. Paul's, Plymouth marched to the Flyer 18, where on fourth down a penalty against Mike McKenzie set the visitors back five yards. On fourth down again, Jacobs threw to Deskins but the play gained only a yard.

Shumate went into action at this point. His number was called on nine successive plays and his team drove to the Plymouth 39. A 15-yard penalty ensued. On third down, from the Red 46, Mainzer's pass was intercepted by Branham and Plymouth had another opportunity, from its 45.

Four plays later, St. Paul's was in possession at the Flyer six, thanks to Polachek's splendid 47-yard punt.

The name of this game is football, with the emphasis on the first syllable. Taken on performance this night, Plymouth is the best team in the conference. Polachek's excellence with the punt and James Will's accuracy with the place kick did as much to win this one as anything else.

From the six, St. Paul's got out to its 20. On third down, Shumate was boxed in deep behind the line of scrimmage, but he wriggled free and made 12 yards out of it. This gave the Flyers first down at the 20. On second down, Shumate fumbled, Rick Hawkins recovered and Plymouth set up at the Flyer 19.

A pass fell incomplete. Rich Cunningham's buck over tackle got nowhere. On third down, with 2:15 on the game clock, Jacobs sought to pass. He found Branham in the end zone for the tying score. The clock read 2:09.

What it came down to was the try for PAT.

Will never looked up as his toe met the ball squarely and sent it through the uprights.

The Flyers took the ensuing kickoff, realizing time was running out and only an aerial attack would turn the tables.

Mainzer went to the air on the first play. Chad McGinnis intercepted and Plymouth had a minute and 40 seconds to eat up. With four plays, the Flyers having called two time outs, Plymouth got to the Flyer 25, short of first down. Four plays later, after four passes that produced a net loss of two yards, the victory was in the bag.

A jubilant Plymouth team swarmed upon its coaches and made merry in the center of the field for several minutes.

Only a relative handful of Plymouth fans was present to watch this one, more's the pity. One Red fan recorded his 228th game, an all-time record.

Not ready to put out? Stay home!

Newcomer to Red backfield says transportation a problem

"I don't want to say anything that'll make the players mad."

A reluctant No. 42, Tim Deskins, thus limited the areas about Big Red football.

Sort of a Johnny-come-lately to the Plymouth football scene, he's a product of the sandlots of Shiloh and of the junior high school program who served his apprenticeship as a ninth grader and is now a regular member of the Big Red backfield.

He has one touchdown to his credit so far. That one came in the rout at Monroeville, when he was sent onto the field as a substitute with the game out of reach and he responded with a scintillating run down the west sideline for Plymouth's only score.

He didn't get credit for the touchdown in either county seat newspaper.

Why'd this happen? Doesn't everybody know Tim Deskins?

"I guess not. Especially out-of-towners. And especially when I'm not wearing the right uniform. They gave me another one because I lost mine and they'd already published the program."

Searching questions are out of bounds with this youngster. Either he doesn't know the answer or he doens't want to give answers.

But when he speaks, one listens, because one senses he knows what he's talking about.

"I live in Shiloh, which is four miles from our practice field. Practice ends late in the afternoon. By the time we get showered and dressed, it's almost dark. In a couple of weeks it will be dark. After a tough practice, with scrimmage, walking home is no picnic."

So how do you get home?

"My parents drive me sometimes, or I ride with another player who has a car."

How could a boy who lives a distance from the practice field participate if his family can't drive him and there's no player who lives within shouting distance of his home?

"I don't think he could. I'm lucky. My parents can both drive and the work schedule in my family is so that one or the other of my parents can come to get me if I can't ride with somebody on the team."

He anticipates the next question.

"Raise the legal driving age and you'll kill high school sports."

The official standpoint of this youngster is no, he hasn't been "hazed" or intimidated, not last year nor this, and no, he doesn't know of anybody to whom this has happened. That's the official standpoint.

What's the reason why there isn't a greater turnout of players at the ninth grade level?

"Some of them aren't very big and they don't want to get banged up. It's not that they mind riding the bench so much, because they mostly get to play in the reserve games. But they don't want to get hurt for reasons that they can't control, such as size and how much growth they've shown at their age."

Would it help if there were a ninth grade team, as Shelby has, and perhaps even a 10th grade team?

"You better believe it. But don't ask me how to get one of them because I don't know. I've got enough trouble doing what I have to do."

What does he think of the whole athlete concept?

"What's the whole athlete concept?"

The idea that a football player, for example, should participate in other sports activities as a means of building his body faster.

"A player should have the right to go at his own speed."

Why don't more players in the lower grades turn out for football?

"Some of it is they don't have a ride, their parents won't let them ride with other kids and the parents can't come after them themselves. Some of it is the players are afraid they'll get hurt. Some of it, but not much of it, is they don't want to sit on the bench and watch, they want to play. Some of it is they don't like the coach or the coaches."

How can a player who's never been assigned to the classroom of a coach dislike him?

"It gets around. One guy has a hard time with a coach and he tells another guy and it spreads."

Is that fair to the coach?

No answer save a shrugging of the shoulders.

Can Plymouth win some more games?

"Sure, we can win. (He was speaking on Saturday afternoon, before the St. Paul's match-up at Norwalk.) But we've got to put it all together. We have some injuries that hurt us a lot because we don't have backups who're as experienced as those who're hurt."

What's the formula for success?

"If you don't like the game, and you're not ready to put out what it takes to play the game, stay home."

Which seems to be good advice and may be the most correct appraisal of the Plymouth problem as any advanced so far.

Pirates foe here tomorrow

Black River's Pirates come here tomorrow, favored by two touchdowns in a Firelands conference contest with Plymouth, which has already won more games this season than in the three preceding years.

With 1 lettermen, the Pirates are 4-and-3 overall and 3-and-0 in the southern division of the conference. Obviously, they've yet to meet Crestview. They got past a troublesome opponent, South Central, last week because Rod Haswell led the Black River running game.

The score was close, as close as you can get, 7 to 6. The Pirates drew first blood with a touchdown in the second period. Quarterback Steve Herte went in from a yard away. Haswell kicked the PAT.

The Trojans came back after the half to score their touchdown on a run of five yards by Mike Tuttle but their try for PATs by running fell short.

Neither team was able to mount a good running game. Black River wound up with 163 yards on the ground and its defense limited South Central to 87. In the air, the Pirates tried eight times and connected with five for a total yardage of 44. They gave up 40 yards by penalty.

What will it take to defeat Black River, a Division 4 school?

A stout defense, first of all. Black River's running game must be held to under 150 yards in the entire contest. Its aerial game hasn't been a big threat all season and, while it must not be ignored, the main thrust of Plymouth's attention must go to stopping the running game.

Haswell runs well. So does Herte. But there are others upon whom Black River counts. These include Dave Wilson, a 170-pound fullback, and Jim West, a six foot three inch tight end who scales 190.

On defense, Black River has been better than average in its sort of competition. The defense is led by Joe Ternes, a linebacker who weighs 170, and Bob Thomas, a back who scales 155 pounds.

Injuries to some key personnel are an obvious handicap to the Big Red. Rod Hampton is out for the season. Tom Baker is out for the season. Troy Keene is out for the season. He was a back-up quarterback. Coach Richard Roll has had to make some shifts of personnel to fill the gap. How successful he has been is too soon to tell. Since he made the shifts, his team has won one and lost one.

Game time is 8 p. m. It will be Team Parents' night. Can Plymouth win its third game of the season. The Big Red thinks it can. About 500 fans are expected to turn out to see if it's right.

All about town . . .

Mr. and Mrs. G. Thomas Moore were among the guests at a Masonic banquet in Ashland Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney J. Briggs were Sunday supper guests of their daughter and son-in-law, the Richard Snays, Willard.

The Paul Joneses visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jones, Bucyrus, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carey, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Cashman, Mrs. James H. Cashman and her daughter and Mrs. Burr Knaus were Sunday dinner guests of the J. Lynn Cashmans, Shelby.

Saturday night was Darren Branham night at Norwalk. All he did was catch the pass that put Plymouth brck into the ball game. Earlier he intercepted a pass by Doug Mainzer, the Flyer quarterback, that gave Plymouth possession at its 45-yard line. Unfortunately, the Big Red wasn't ready to roll. A 12th grader with a letter, Branham wears No. 81. With distinction.

Rick Hawkins, an unsung player in the Red backfield, recovered Keith Shumate's fumble at the St. Paul's 19-yard line with time running out Saturday to give Plymouth the opportunity to win. Which it did three plays later on a 19-yard pass from Jeff Jacobs to Darren Branham.

No. 42 hasn't won a letter yet and he may not have enough quarters on the field by season's end to get one this year. But Big Red fans will hear from Tim Deskins in the 1983 and 84 seasons, you can bet your mortgage on it. He has one TD so far and would like to score another. And another. And another.

Pirates harrier champs

Black River won the 1982 Firelands conference cross country championship at New London Oct. 12.

The Pirates scored 82, six fewer than New London, which placed second. St. Paul's was third at 92, Edison fourth at 98, Monroeville fifth at 100, Crestview sixth at 132, Western Reserve seventh at 147, South Central eighth at 183 and Plymouth ninth and last at 164. Mapleton, the defending champion, did not field a team this year.

Dave Poole, St. Paul's, was the winner in 16:06. There followed Bob Burns, Edison, 16:16; Loren Kranz, Plymouth, 16:23; Eric Benson, Black River, 16:29; Ron Farmer, Monroeville, 16:29;

Also, Mike Wentz, Crestview, 16:32; Shawn Tappan, New London, 16:35; Bob Campbell, Black River; John Fisher, St. Paul's, and Bobby Matthews, New London.

Among girls, only four schools competed and Edison won hands down with 36. Monroeville scored 55, St. Paul's 60, and defending champion New London 65.

Kim Yost, Crestview, was the winner in 19:11, followed by Cindy Woods, Edison, 19:43; Tracey Balduff, Monroeville, 19:51; Amy Hendrickson, New London, 19:57; Jackie Darling, Monroeville, 20:54;

Also, Julie Otto, Edison; Regina Missler, St. Paul's; Kara Lasch, Western Reserve; Joanne Rospert, St. Paul's, and Fayette Hudson, Plymouth.

Steve McGinn, Monroeville, won the reserve race in 1959, seven seconds in advance of Eric Spencer, New London. But Edison was the team winner.

Cougars fifth in Region 17 in sixth week

Crestview is ranked fifth in Region 17 after six weeks of rating by computer.

South Central and Monroeville are tied for ninth. St. Paul's is 19th and Mapleton, which is not competing this season, is tied for 29th and dead last.

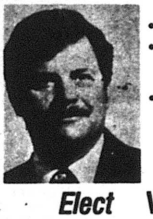

Among Division 4 schools, Western Reserve is tied for 24th and New London tied for 32nd and last in Region 14 and Black River is 27th in Region 13.

Edison, a Division 3 competitor, is ranked 12th in Region 10, where Bellevue is rated first.

Miss Ebel bride of S. C. Root

Miss Karen Elizabeth Ebel became the bride of Steven Craig Root in an early afternoon ceremony Sept. 11 in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Center Ossipee, N.H.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maximilian F. B. Ebel, Center Ossipee.

He is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Root and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Root.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Rheaume. The mothers of the bridal couple read from the Scriptures before the church altar, decorated with baskets of pink and white gladiolas.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Her gown was designed with a low scalloped neckline bordered in lace. Appliques of lace were at her waist. The long lace sleeves ended with a double ruffle. A deep band of lace bordered the hemline of her skirt, which trailed into a train.

A small headband held her bouffant veil, which fell in two tiers edged with lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

For something "old", she wore a string of her maternal grandmother's pearls.

Her sister, Mrs. John May, was her maid of honor.

The new Mrs. Root received a bachelor's degree in biology from Trinity college, Burlington, Vt., and her juris doctorate from Georgetown University Law center, Washington, D. C.

Interest rate drops

First Buckeye Bank, N.A., cut its prime lending rate to 12 percent Monday.

First Buckeye President Rex Collins said the bank's prime hasn't been 12 per cent since Sept. 8, 1980, peaking at 21.5 percent on Dec. 22, 1980. "We feel it's time consumers get the break," Collins said. "I hope it (the lower interest rates) will give the economy a shot in the arm."

First Buckeye also dropped its interest rates on automobile loans for 1982 and 1983 models and earmarked $5 million for new car loans. For deposit customers, the new rate is 12.95 percent for a 36-month loan and 13.95 per cent for a 48-month loan. For non-deposit customers, the rate on a 36-month loan is 13.95 per cent and 14.95 per cent on a 48-month loan.

Interest rates are falling and Collins said he believes the prime could possibly fall as low as 10 per cent before the end of the year.

Did you know that shoplifters cost your family $150* last year?

TAKE THIS FIVE-QUESTION QUIZ AND FIND OUT HOW MUCH YOU KNOW ABOUT SHOPLIFTING.

True or False

1. Shoplifting accounts for very little crime in Ohio. It is of minor importance and the stores absorb the cost.
   True _____ False _____
2. Generally, poor people who are uneducated do most of the shoplifting. They steal because they don't have money to buy what they want.

3. More men than women shoplift.
   True _____ False _____
4. Suburban stores are shoplifted more often than downtown stores.
   True _____ False _____

Answers:

1: False. Shoplifting accounts for $3.5 billion in lost merchandise nationally, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Ohio's shoplifting tab is estimated by the Attorney General to be $488 million for 1973. Shoplifting is the fastest-growing white collar crime in America. Between 1963 and 1973 it increased at a faster rate than any other crime.

People pay the shoplifter's way. People pay over $35 individually per year or $150 per family on increased cost of goods they purchase.

2: False. People who shoplift are not generally poor. They often have sufficient cash with them and can afford to pay for what they steal. But you pay for them through higher prices.

3: False. More women than men shoplift. The Mass Retailing Institute conducted a survey in 1972 in 1,188 of the nation's largest discount stores and discovered that 58 percent of the apprehended shoplifters were women.

4: True. Eighty percent of all shoplifting is done in suburban outlets of retail establishments.

5: False. You can do something about shoplifting. If you see someone shoplifting, quietly mention it to the nearest sales clerk. You need not become involved. The thief will probably steal somewhere else before leaving the store, and the store detective will be there to see it happen.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

For Saxbe, incumbent judges, McCormac, Sawyer, Steinbrenner, Oxley, Pease, Gregory, Rench, Swank, Wilhelm

Chief Justice Celebrezze did not bring glory to the family name by his conduct prior to the gubernatorial primary. That he was permitted to withdraw his resignation, ostensibly because his financier backed out, shows some shallowness of character that would ill become a governor.

It also ill becomes a chief justice of the Ohio Supreme court, but we can't do anything about it now.

But we can do something about two others of his family whose names are on the ballot. One of them seeks election as supreme court judge in what has to be the most callous insult to the common decency of Ohioans in a long time and the other seeks to be attorney-general.

The first, James, is opposed by a candidate who is superior to him in every way. Vote for Mrs. Krupansky, an incumbent. Vote also for Judge Locher, an incumbent, and for John W. McCormac, rated by the bar association as highly qualified.

It wouldn't be proper to have kinfolk of the chief justice operating as attorney-general, to our way of thinking. For this reason we think Charles Saxbe ought to be elected. We have other reservations about Celebrezze, Jr., one of which is he is a graduate of a Trade School, and anybody who's ever been in the military knows what a closed corporation that is!

Richland countians must choose between a 19-year-old novice who's carrying the GOP banner and a businessman who's serving as president of the council in Mansfield for the office of state representative, 64th district.

We think the younger man deserves credit for getting involved when so many of his generation are turned off. We also think he needs to go to school a bit more before he's qualified to represent us. We wouldn't choose a 19-year-old to be our business partner or our marital partner and we see no reason why we should choose a 19-year-old to be out political partner. Frank Sawyer has represented his constituency well. His opponent has no constituency. We think the voters of Richland county ought to leave it that way. Vote for Sawyer.

Lowell Steinbrenner's business expertise and experience in management make him, we believe, the superior candidate for Ohio senate. His opponent is a decent fellow with not much managerial experience and, so far as we can see, even less of a platform. In a region where the very name of Steinbrenner is anathema, owing to George's ownership of the hated Yankees, that name might cost him some votes. It shouldn't. He is far and away the better candidate. Vote for Steinbrenner.

Which applies also to the 40th district candidate for Congress, Michael Oxley. He needs to make himself known in a new district. He's tried manfully to do so. He merits support.

Those who vote in the 13th district ought to opt for Donald J. Pease, a friend of ours for over 20 years, a capable, thoughtful legislator who's people oriented. We feared for a time that his recent heart surgery might damage his ability to serve. We are now assured it will not. Vote for Pease.

The commissioners of Richland county have behaved in less than exemplary fashion. We've thought many times we ought to take them behind a shed with a barrel stave, females included. Particularly females.

Paul White has long experience as a public servant. Most of it has been in give-and-take, pull-and-haul precinct politics, the dirtiest kind. Presumably he would employ these same tactics as commissioner. And they'd probably work.

But we're not sure that we'd like it that way. To piece Bellville off with a sop because Shiloh got something is no way to run a county government. Reluctantly, we favor Mr. Gregory, even though we are distrustful of the police mentality in candidates for political office.

Which brings us to the race between John Allton and Richard Rench. Allton is a lawyer at Norwalk. Rench is a businessman at Norwalk. Rench formerly served as state highway patrolman. He was all but forced out because the powers-to-be felt his use of leisure time consumed too much of his energies. They ignored the fact he was making a better living for himself and his family and building an estate for his children.

When he ran once before, we withheld endorsement because we felt he had something to learn. Now satisfied that he's learned it, we recommend his election. Vote for Rench.

It's a pity that the GOP in Richland county couldn't develop a more vigorous opponent to Freeman Swank as county auditor. That Swank is a long-standing friend of ours is not so important as that there should be a vigorous race for all offices in each election. Mr. Hardy hasn't furnished that vigor. Vote for Swank.

Huron countians must choose among three candidates for commissioner.

One of them is the incumbent, Maurice Smith, a New London Democrat who's campaigned on the status quo.

A second is Walter Wilhelm, Jr., a former Plymouth boy who's in the insurance business. He was narrowly defeated last time around.

A third is James Westerhold, a Norwalk radio station executive, who says he has all the answers.

Westerhold is stimulating and vigorous. Perhaps too much so. So far as we know, the only man who ever had all the answers was crucified on Calvary. Smith, whether for reasons of age or ill health (he has undergone serious hospitalization), seems to have lost touch with the county.

We recommend a vote for Wilhelm, Jr.

Two tax issues appear on the ballot for Huron county residents, two for Richland conty residents. There is a common one for each. It is the request by Pioneer Joint Vocational school for a fresh tax of one mill for one year to maintain buildings.

Our general attitude, particularly in these parlous times, as to say not to all fresh taxation. On the argument that a business, and make no mistake about it, the vocational school is a business, ought to budget for repairs, and that we can hardly afford one cent more in taxes, we shall vote no.

Huron countians are asked to support a levy to benefit the Huron county fair, which needs seed money to get started. The fair is a business, make no mistake about it. A business ought to budget for its repairs and its pre-season expenses. Vote no on the Huron county fair levy.

Richland County Mental Health services seeks 6/10 of a mill in additional money. This would run for five years. On the argument that in these times everybody should live within his budget, not matter how constricted it may become, we shall vote no.

Insurance 'scam' reported

What may be an insurance hoax was reported to police Oct. 20.

A householder told officers a man visited her house and said he wished to collect a premium on an insurance policy taken out by her husband. She did not pay the premium. Inquiry with her husband showed he had not bought such a policy.

She described the man as a white in his 30s with curling, reddish blond hair. He was driving a maroon Chevrolet.

It was later learned the householder is Mrs. John Scott, 85 Mulberry street.

129 years of Advertisers

The Advertiser marked its 129th anniversary Saturday.

The newspaper first appeared Oct. 23, 1853, a Saturday. It was published by James G. Robinson and David R. Locke. The latter later became internationally known under his pen name of Petroleum Vesuvius Nasby. His letters, describing life in a fictitious place called Wingert's Corners, Crawford county, were widely read. In reverse logic he supported the Union. President Lincoln postponed the convening of his cabinet until he had received the latest "from that fellow in Ohio". # Brown sugar, butter on squash? Sure, but try with apple jelly!

By AUNT LIZ

Winter may be coming, and after the last few, no one really wants to see it.

Still, there is one good thing about it all.

Zucchin season is finally over.

Most of us had it in one form or another every day for months.

What it really did, because it grew so well and so fast, was to make the most ordinary housewife who doesn't really like to cook to concoct new ways to make it into something.

There certainly is a vast difference in zucchini bread made with brown sugar versus white, which most recipes call for.

Anyway, it is over, and now we are entering the squash season in earnest. Be sure you save the seeds for next year's crop, and be sure you label them so you know which is which.

You can do a lot with just one, but my favorite is acorn.

I like it with butter but even better with brown sugar and marshmallows.

Then I found a new recipe that is great.

Get the squash ready and in a pan with a little water for baking.

Dice a few apples and mix with some apple jelly, a little softened margarine and some chopped nuts and put into the squash. Cover the pan.

You can omit the jelly because most cooking apples are juicy enough.

Plan quick meals now, so you have time to bake like mad. You will be glad you did when it is time to bring it all out for holiday parties.

One thing that is about the most versatile tidbit is the simple little cream puff. They can be filled so they are a dessert or a canape.

They freeze — unfilled, natch — beautifully. Best you put them flat, though, on a tray before putting them in bags, so they freeze nicely.

Every cookbook has the same recipe for them, which always "works".

And for bookbooks — I treated myself to a new one, and one recipe is worth the whole book — to me anyway.

The catch is that we do not have a microwave, and I am beginning to think we are the only ones in the world without one.

It is for fondue, and compared to my old Swiss one, it is dirt cheap to make.

In a microwave going casserole combine a can of cheddar cheese soup, eight ounces or eight slices of Swiss cheese, a fourth of a teaspoon each of Worcestershire sauce and prepared mustard — Dijon style is best — and an eighth of a teaspoon of hot pepper sauce.

Cook four to five minutes, stirring a little until cheese is melted.

It can be eaten the traditional way with cubed, hard bread dipped into it, and it is not bad just spread on a couple of slices of toast.d

It is a nice, hot, filling dish, and highly recommended to perk up a fireman after he has been out on a cold night and needs warming up.

Moulton to quit Monday after 43 years of duty

H. N. (Nick) Chapman has been named to succeed Charles W. Moulton as manager of Ohio Power Co.'s Willard area operations. Moulton retires Nov. 1 after a 43-year career.

Chapman advances from the position of Zanesville division office supervisor. A native of Fostoria, Chapman joined Ohio Power in 1968 after receiving an associate degree in business administration from Tiffin university. He started with the company as a senior clerk at Tiffin. He was transferred to Fremont in 1971 as senior accounting clerk and to Canton in 1973 as customer contact supervisor. He became office manager in Zanesville in 1977.

Chapman is a member of the United Methodist church at Bascom.

Moulton concludes his long Ohio Power career after serving 17 years as Willard area manager. A native of Ironton, Moulton earned a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Ohio university in 1939 and was hired that year by the company as a transmission and distribution engineer at Portsmouth.

He was promoted to engineer-distribution in 1957 and was named area manager at Crooksville in 1959. He moved to the Willard post in 1965.

Moulton is president of the Willard Area Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Willard Energy commission and the Airport Planning commission. His memberships include the Rotary club, Masons, First Presbyterian church and the Ohio Historical society.

Retirement plans for Moulton include working on computer programming to researching his family history. He also enjoys woodworking, steam train history, photography and studying the skies with a telescope.

He and his wife, Alma, reside at 524 Kennedy drive, Willard.

Pirates scuttle Plymouth, hold Red to 14 yards offense

Black River administered a terrible beating to Plymouth here Friday night in Firelands conference play, 39 to 12.

Plymouth was colder than the weather.

The Big Red wound up with minus 22 yards rushing and only eight yards passing. Its offense couldn't crack an egg.

Just how impotent that offense was was shown in the third period, when Plymouth was still in the game.

The Pirates fumbled at their eight. Plymouth had first down and an opportunity to close the halftime gap of 19 to 6 to just one touchdown. But Plymouth couldn't advance in four plays. Matter of fact, it lost a yard.

It was the Big Red's last gasp on offense.

Plymouth scored 12 points not by offensive action but because its defense, which was mercilessly pummeled by the Pirates throughout this contest – the visitors amassed 342 yards by rushing and gave up 128 by penalty, seven of the 11 assessments coming off long gainers – and subjected to the grossest humiliation by the Black River coach, who kept his strongest team on the field long after the outcome was sealed and Plymouth foundered, managed to convert a kickoff and an intercepted pass into touchdowns.

Behind by 19 to 0, Plymouth took the ensuing kickoff at its 25, where Mike McKenzie caught it and swept to his right 75 yards without a hand laid on him. The try for PAT was a joke. The ball was snapped directly to the kicker in an effort to convert a pass into two points. But the kicker hasn't much experience as a passer.

The Pirates ran the opening kickoff for 11 plays and covered 68 yards for their first score. Mike Clifford took a 38-yard pass-and-run play from Steve Herte for the touchdown. Plymouth is not likely to see another such complete quarterback as Herte this season. The place kick for PAT went awry.

The clock read 6:41 of the first period.

Black River intercepted a pass by Jeff Jacobs in the next series and marched 70 yards in eight plays for Touchdown No. 2.

It did so with the running abilities of John Knorr, a 12th grader who weighs 155 pounds. Unheralded in the Pirate backfield, all he did was carry 24 times for 221 yards net and score two touchdowns and one point after touchdown by rushing.

Three seconds of the second period had elapsed when Rod Haswell bolted home from the four. The kick for PAT was not good.

Black River scored again the next time it got possession. This occurred at its 12-yard line, whence Greg Polachek, who had a splendid record of kicking the ball this cold night, had booted it dead.

The Pirates needed 13 plays to cover the 88 yards to the end zone. Clifford took a pass from Herte for the last five yards. Bob Kost kicked the PAT.

In the third period, after Plymouth had failed to advance from the Pirate eight, Black River intercepted Jacoba's pass on fourth down and ran it out to the 20. Thirteen plays later the Pirates were in the end zone. This time Knorr was the scorer from 13 yards away. The clock read 3:02. The kick for PAT was unsuccessful.

Plymouth managed its second and last first down of the night in the next series, thanks to a 15-yard penalty against Black River, but could not penetrate beyond the Pirate 41. Polachek punted but Black River was penalized 15 yards yet again. On fourth down the run for first down was short.

Taking over at the Pirate 42, Black River got eight yards by Haswell before Rick Hawkins picked off Herte's pass and swept 56 yards for the second score. Once again the try for PATs was a disaster. James Will was swarmed under by a battalion of Pirates about 14 yards upfield.

Neither team did much until the fourth quarter, when the Pirates scored two more times.

With 9:37 on the clock, Knorr climaxed a 48-yard drive in four plays with the kickoff after Hawkins's run with a five yard sprint into the end zone. A pass for PATs was unsuccessful.

With time running out, and Plymouth once again going to the air, Herte snared Jacobs's pass, bounced it off his toe just once and ran 55 yards down the south sideline for the touchdown. Knorr ran the PATs.

It was Parents' night and the crowd wasn't so large as acnticipated. The chilly weather doubtless affected the outcome. Poor football will affect future crowds.

S. A. Shuty wed to nurse at Bucyrus

A 1977 alumnus of Plymouth High school, Steven Albert Shuty was married Oct. 16 in Epworth United Methodist church, Bucyrus, to Miss Rebecca Louise Deitsch, daughter of the Anthony Baumans, Bellville route 2.

He is the elder son of the Albert Shutys, Plymouth route 1.

The Rev. E. Parker West performed the double ring ceremony before an altar lighted by two candelabram lighted by two candelabra and decorated with chrysanthemums and roses with palms.

Mrs. Margaret Koehnle, organist, accompanied Sue and Roy Bauman, who sand "Wedding Song" during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a long white pleated gown of qiana with Venice and Wedgewood lace. The bodice was sleeveless and she wore matching lace gauntlets. The gown was styled in natural fashion with high mandarin neckline and semi-cathedral length train. She wore a derby-style hat covered with matching lace. Veiling was attached to the back of the hat.

She carried white carnations, white tiger lilies, blue roses and baby's breath.

Miss Irene Buchinsky, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, the bridegroom's sister, Sue, now Mrs. Roy Bauman, Galion, and his sister-in-law, Nadine, now Mrs. James Shuty, Shelby, were similarly dressed in long blue gowns in Empire style with spaghetti straps and cape of Chantilly lace. They carried blue chrysanthemums with peach and blue buttercups, tiger lilies and baby's breath.

The bridegroom's brother, James, Shelby, was best man.

Roy and Gary Bauman, brothers of the bride, ushered.

Mrs. Bauman chose a floor-length gown of peach and Empire waist. She wore blue and white carnations with blue buttercups and baby's breath.

Mrs. Shuty watched from the front pew in a floor length gown of lavender chiffon and flowers to match those of the bride's mother, save without buttercups.

A reception took place in the American Legion post at Bucyrus, where guests were served from a four tiered cake decorated in blue and peach. Mrs. Carolyn Awwiler registered guests. Nat Tridico played for dancing.

A grauate of Lexington High school, the bride is also a graduate of Mercy hospital school of nursing, Canton. She is a registered nurse on the staff of DeKalb General hospital, Atlanta, Ga.

The bridegroom was graduated by Tiffin university with a B.S. in accounting. He is employed by Georgia Pacific Corp. in Atlanta.

The couple is living in Decatur, Ga.

Records of pupils privilege of court

Officials of all public and private schools enrolling Huron county children shall provide the juvenile court, upon reqfuest of its probation officers, all school records and information on those pupils who are wards of the court or against whom a complaint is pending in his court, Judge Thomas E. Heydinger has ruled.

He further ordered that each institution enrolling pupils who are residents of Huron county, shall give a general public notice to the parents of their pupils in the order of his court that these records will be available when requested.

"The juvenile court of Huron county has a compelling need for school records information on students who are wards of the court and on chidlren against whom complaints have been filed in court," the judge says. This order by Judge Heydinger is effective immediately.

'81 alumnus wins $1,000 scholarship

A 1981 alumnus is among 44 freshman awarded academic scholarships by Heidelberg college, Tiffin, according to an announcement by President William C. Cassell.

He is Steven Mowry, son of the Keith Mowrys.

To qualify for the scholarship, students must finish in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes, maintain a 3.5 grade-point average or better or have compisites of 26 on ACT or 1050 on SAT.

Qualifying students are eligible for scholarships of at least $1,000. Scholarships are awarded for more depending on need and on the origination of the scholarship.

Ohio Academic scholarships or scholarships awarded by the National Merit society are matched dollar-for-dollar by Heidelberg college. To be an Ohio Academic Scholar, students must have superior ACT or SAT scores and their applications for scholarships must be approved by the Ohio Board of Regents.

Revenues lagging, council warned

A little belt-tightening will be necessary, village council has been told by John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer.

Anticipated revenues for 1982 are not there, he said.

The council had planned on revenues from all sources for the year to be $1,108,000.

Through Sept. 30, the sum of $765,707.32 has been received. It is unlikely that the next three months will produce the $44,000 to reach the amount planned for in the appropriation ordinance.

Of the money already received this year, $664,731.15 has already been spent from the several funds plus what is already encumbered.

Income tax revenue has taken a decided drop.

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, income tax director, reported to the council last week the third quarter collections were $15,093.77.

Last year for the quarter they were $27,181.85.

The largest drop is in the tax collected from businesses. The third quarter of 1981 brought in $11,513.54. This year only $1,101.16 was collected.

Fazzini also said real estate taxes are not measuring up to expectations because of the large number of delinquencies where home owners are unable to pay their taxes.

Medicare rules changed

Changes in federal law have forced Ohio to suspend co-payments in the Medicaid program effective Oct. 19, according to Kenneth B. Creasy, director of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare.

The Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility act passed by Congress changed the guidelines under which Medicaid recipients can be required to pay a nominal portion of the cost of their medical services. These guidelines were clarified to states too late to modify the co-payment system which Ohio implemented on Oct. 1, based on previous federal law and the requirements of Am Sub H. B. 694. It is therefore necessary to suspend all co-payment provisions while the system is redesigned to meet federal requirements.

Since Oct. 1, Ohio Medicaid recipients have been liable for payment of from 50 cents to $1 for chiropractic, dental, pharmaceutical, podiatric, psychological, speech and audiological, and vision care services, physical therapy, and medical supplies. Changes in federal law require exemption from copayment of services to children under age 18, services related to pregnancy, and emergency services. Federal law also prohibits denial of services to a recipient who is unable to pay. It will be necessary to modify the state's computerized billing system to accommodate these exceptions and to make rule changes to bring the system into compliance with federal and state law.

All recipients of medical providers will receive individual notice of this suspension.

Chapmans buy Slessman firm

Slessman Excavating Corp., Willard, has appointed William H. Chapman as its new vice-president.

He is owner and operator of the Lima 45-C dragline. This 30-ton machine is used primarily for conservation work including ditch maintenance and diking, pond cleanouts and steel erection. It is presently working south of Tiffin, Ohio on an improvement of the Honey Creek.

In the first step of the eventual takeover of Slessman Excavating Corp., William Chapman and his wife, nee Beverly Lynch, Plymouth route 1, have purchased this machine.

Within the last few months Harold Slessman has retired from the operation of the Lima and Chapman, previously trained by Harold, has taken over. This notes his formal ownership of this machine.

Slessman Excavating Corp. has been operating in the Willard area since 1950, being solely owned by Harold and Jane Slessman until last week, when the Chapmans purchased the chief piece of equipment of the business. Slessman retains the moving equipment and the bulldozer, which will be used in connection with the operation of the excavating business.

The bodice was styled with high banded neckline of silk Venice lace and a shoulder-to-shoulder ruffle of Wedgewood lace. The long fited sleeves were of chiffon with a wide cuff of matching lace. Wedgewood lace inserts formed tiers on the sides of the A-line skirt, which fell into a full chapel-length train.

She wore a Camelot cap of lace and seed pearls with three tiers of French Illusion finished with a lace edge.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and fern. A strand of pearls was entwined in the flowers.

The bride carried a Rosary that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ann Bauman, Willard, and wore a sixpence in her shoe for luck from her new mother-in-law. Mrs. Eleanor Beasore, Greenwich, grandmother of the bridegroom, was also an honored guest.

Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. James Bond, North Fairfield, who wore a burgundy qiana gown with a short sleeved chiffon bodice.

Fiscal surveillance by state terminated

The village of Plymouth is no longer in a fiscal emergency condition, Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson declared here Friday.

Ferguson told village officials state examiners have determined the conditions that caused the village to be declared in fiscal emergency condition in May of 1980 no longer existed as of Oct. 29.

Ferguson said "the fiscal emergency condition is lifted and the Plymouth Financial Planning and Supervision commission, required to be formed under the state's municipal fiscal emergency law, is dissolved as of today."

Plymouth was declared in fiscal emergency condition by the auditor on May 30, 1980, because of several reasons, including 1979 year-end deficits totaling $141,820 in 10 village funds and the failure of the village to meet payment obligations on two notes, one of which -- to the Farmers Home administration -- was in default, as of Jan. 1, 1980.

In the analysis released Friday, bringing the village out of fiscal emergency condition, state examiners reqorted the village had no deficit fund cash balances on Dec. 31, 1981, the defaulted portion of the FHA loan was paid on December 31, 1980, a $10,000 general fund operating note was paid on Dec. 31, 1980, and vendor accounts totaling $88,301 were paid prior to Dec. 31, 1981.

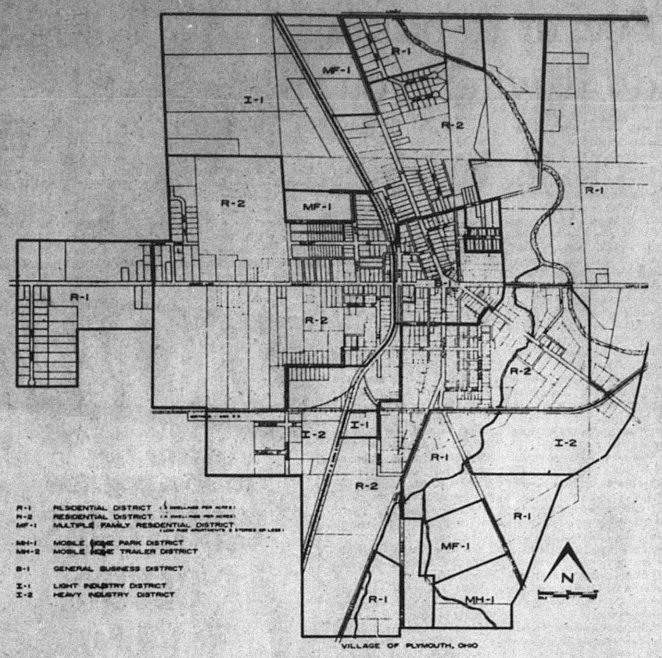

"We feel that if there is no unforeseen drop in revenues, or unexpected increase in obligations, the village of Plymouth should continue in fiscal good health through prudent dollar management into 1983 and beyond," Ferguson said.

However, Ferguson said, "we are recommending that postings to financial records and reconciliations witht he depository be made on a more timely basis. At the time of our review, the journals and ledgers had not been posted for two months. The two month delay was due in large part to a change in clerk-treasurers and John Fazzini, the current clerk-treasurer, has made assurances that the financial records will be posted on a more timely basis."

The Plymouth Financial Planning and Supervision commission on May 11 requested the auditor to make a determination as to the financial condition of the village. In doing so, state examiners looked to see if the village had eliminated deficits, had put into operation -- at least partially -- an effective financial accounting and reporting system and was on course in meeting the objectives of its financial plan, Ferguson said.

Examiners said the village's chart of accounts had been replaced with the Ohio Village Uniform Acounting system, as prescribed by the auditor and the village is in the process of implementing a complete purchase order system. Also, the village's financial supervisor, Ernst & Whinney, prepared an accounting manual for the village.

Examiners recommended that a detailed instructional manual for certain jobs be prepared and that employees be cross-trained to perform other jobs.

Zoning plan

Public hearing will take place Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the village hall on the proposed zoning ordinance. This map shows how the village will be zoned. Any resident of the village is entitled to be heard.

Earlier, a Richland county common pleas court decision given by Judge James Henson held in Stover's favor, on the grounds that Ohio law immunized a police officer from personal liability when he is responding to an emergency call.

Shelby bank to buy First Buckeye's offices in village

Approval by all regulatory agencies has been accorded First Buckeye Bank, N. A., to merge with a subsidiary of Toledo Trustcorp., Inc., Rex E. Collins, president, reports.

The approval is contingent upon the sale of Plymouth branches of First Buckeye and is subject to a 30-day review period by the Justice Department.

Collins announces with J. George Williams, president, First National Bank of Shelby, that upon approval by the Comptroller of the Currency, First Buckeye will sell its Plymouth branches to the First National Bank of Shelby. They said the acquisition of the Plymouth branches will be consummated at the time that Toledo Trustcorp acquires First Buckeye Bank. Estimated date for this is Dec. 27.

Collins said "the reason for First Buckeye divesting its branches in Plymouth is because Toledo Trustcorp already operates an office there." He stressed along with Williams the customers will continue to receive convenient and efficient service under the new management.

Assets of First National Bank of Shelby at the last call statement filed Oct. 5 amounted to $51,834,011.44, including loans of $31,337,103.80. Liabilities included demand deposits totalling $5,205,939.11 and time deposits of $35,946,433.28.

$25 re-connect fee at Shiloh defeated

There is no official sentiment in Shiloh to punish those whose utilities are turned off for lack of payment.

An ordinance calling for an increase of 500 per cent, to $25, was turned down Oct. 27 by the votes of three councilmen, Delmar Nesbitt, Barbara Music and Richard Tallman. Councilmen Frank Cline, Charles R. Reeder and Dan Hockley voted for.

Another tie vote was created when the question of whether the ordinance will be read a second time at the next meeting. Mayor Francis Gowitzka voted yea to break the tie.

Trustees of public affairs reported most of those whose connections are turned off are repeated offenders. Nevertheless, the council felt, to exact such a high payment for reconnection would be more punitive than helpful.

A bid by Mateer Ford, Fredericktown, to furnish a 1983 truck for $10,915 was accepted.

Secret to baking Yule cookies: do it when you're ALONE!

By AUNT LIZ

Now we can get back to a normal existence.

Hallowe'en and the election are over.

Even though I do not know this minute who made it and who didn't, I am grateful to all of them. Their press releases have furnished us with enough scratch paper for months. I am not above using the good side of a piece of paper for this purpose. Face facts, paper can get expensive, which a lot of mothers have discovered when they have to trot out and buy the stuff for their kids to draw on.

We have even sent it to our grandchildren, but after paying something like $3 to mail the stuff, I decided they could scounge for themselves.

What we apparently still have left over from this season is the problem of what to eat.

I took a look at our cupboards the other day and felt that our pre-Tylenol purchases simply had to be safe. If you are going to be scared off from buying items, it is a great way to go on a prolonged diet, which most of us need anyway.

Like many others, including every police department in the country, I have my own theory about it all. It is an old mystery writer's trick. Kill off a bunch to cover up the one you are really aiming for.

There just could be someone who is aiming for me, and for that reason I have decided never to tell anyone that I buy some things very regularly. Like peanut butter, catsup, dark rye bread, coffe, tea bagas, cake mixes, which are better than I can make, plus the frosting mixes. No one will ever know.

Another thing I will never tell anyone is how tricky I can get over potato or macaroni salad. Being plain too lazy to start it all from the beginning, I have discovered how simple it is to buy a container of it and fix it up with more onions, celery and hardboiled eggs. By the time you do this, you have almost doubled it all. Frankly, for two people, it is a great way to have somthing tasty without using 10 pans to make it all.

The one thing I have not conquered is a real shortcut to cookies.

With respect to all the bakeries, it is plain dumb for anyone to pay 10 or even 20 cents for one cookie. Just sit down and figure out exactly how much your favorite recipe costs per cookie.

When you do this, you should not cheat and forget to count the ones you ate to make sure they were just right. My best piece of advice to any cookie baker is to do them when you are absolutely ALONE and can hide them when they are nicely cooled.

This is the date pin-wheel weekend while I listen to Minnesota and Michigan.

That is the best way to bake.

The recipe is easy enough to be able to rush back to the radio so you do not miss a touchdown.

Start with a pound of dates. Cook them with a cup of water and a cup of sugar. Cool them.

This is enough for a double recipe.

As for the cookies, do a single recipe at a clip. It is easier to mix.

In one bowl have two cups of flour, a half teaspoon of baking powder, a fourth of a teaspoon of cinnamon and a fourth of a teaspoon of ground cloves.

In another put a cup of brown sugar creamed with a nice large egg, a half cup of shortening and a teaspoon of vanilla.

Mix the two, chill, then roll into a rectangle, cover with the date mixture, roll up like a jelly roll, wrap in wax paper and chill again. For days until you feel like slicing them off to bake. They bake at 375 for about 10 minutes. They can be baked when your oven is on for something else and you can save gas or electricity.

They are really good dipped in cold milk for munching and even better when dipped in brandy.

Answers:

1: False. Shoplifting accounts for $3.5 billion in lost merchandise nationally, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Ohio's shoplifting tab is estimated by the Attorney General to be $488 million for 1973. Shoplifting is the fastest-growing white collar crime in America. Between 1963 and 1973 it increased at a faster rate than any other crime.

People pay the shoplifter's way. People pay over $35 individually per year or $150 per family on increased cost of goods they purchase.

2: False. People who shoplift are not generally poor. They often have sufficient cash with them and can afford to pay for what they steal. But you pay for them through higher prices.

3: False. More women than men shoplift. The Mass Retailing Institute conducted a survey in 1972 in 1,188 of the nation's largest discount stores and discovered that 58 percent of the apprehended shoplifters were women.

4: True. Eighty percent of all shoplifting is done in suburban outlets of retail establishments.

5: False. You can do something about shoplifting. If you see someone shoplifting, quietly mention it to the nearest sales clerk. You need not become involved. The thief will probably steal somewhere else before leaving the store, and the store detective will be there to see it happen.

Trojans' Tuttle, Music tear Big Red defense, 27 to 12

A big 10th grade fullback who bolted for 239 yards in 32 carries and a 12th grade quarterback but newly returned from the injury list led South Central past Plymouth at Greenwich Friday night.

The score was 27 to 12, much closer than the game itself.

But for Trojan mistakes -- South Central lost three fumbles and one intercepted pass -- the margin would have been greater.

Despite its own mistakes and an offense that couldn't produce anything in the first half, Plymouth made a game of it until the Trojans widened the margin with a third period score.

After 24 minutes of play, Plymouth had three first downs, a net of nine yards by rushing and 32 yards through the air. It had lose one fumble in 31 plays. For its part, with 37 plays, South Central had 10 first downs and a net rushing offense of 171 yards. It had lost two of three fumbles.

The Trojans capitalized on a Plymouth mistake in the first series.

South Central kicked off and Plymouth could not advance from its 30. On fourth down, Greg Polachek's punt was blocked by Tony Tackett. Polachek recovered at the Plymouth five, whence in two plays the Trojans scored the first touchdown, a short shot by Jeff Music, the quarterback. Mike Tuttle kicked the PAT and South Central took a lead it was never to relinquish.

Mike McKenzie gave Plymouth splendid field position with his return of the ensuing kickoff to the Trojan 40, where a face mask penalty gave Plymouth first down at the South Central 33. On first down, Richard Cunningham fumbled, South Central recovered at its 15 and the Plymouth threat was over, for the time being.

But not for long.

Plymouth was in possession two plays later, thanks to a fumble recovery by McKenzie at the South Central six.

Two penalties against South Central gave Plymouth first down at the one and a half yard line. Cunningham bulled into the end zone for the TD.

The snap from center was so poor that the holder could not get the ball down for James Will's kick and Plymouth went upfield behind by a point at 7 to 6.

An interception cost South Central momentum and possession early in the second period but Plymouth could not mount a counteroffensive. Polachek punted, a feat he performed creditably this windy night save for the initial effort, which was blocked.

The Trojans pushed to the Plymouth 10, where on fourth down Tuttle tried a field goal. His boot from the 17 didn't stand a chance.

Plymouth took over at its 20. On first down, Jeff Jacob's pass was intercepted by Darrell Hale, who began the season in a Plymouth uniform, and South Central was back in business at the Red 35, where a personal foul against Plymouth gave South Central first down at the Red 14. Tuttle got four and Music ran the last 10 with 5:23 left on the clock. A pass for PATs did not connect.

It was that way at halftime: South Central 13, Plymouth 6.

The Trojans took the second half kickoff and marked 60 yards in 11 plays, Tuttle bursting home from the two at 7:16. At this point, the burly 10th grader had carried 19 times for 129 yards. Music ran the PATs and South Central had a comfortable lead.

Which it improved upon in the fourth period, but not until after some anxious moments for the Red defense.

After Tuttle's first touchdown, Brad Beasore intercepted Jacobs's pass and gave the Trojans first down at the Red 20. On fourth down, Music's pass fell incomplete in the end zone.

Plymouth came back with its best offensive showing of the game in the next series, racking up two first downs in ground plays to obtain first down at the 50. But Jacobs was sacked and lost 15, whereupon Polachek got off a magnificent boot that carried 61 yards to the Trojan four.

Deep in its own territory South Central showed the stuff of which it is made with a fine 96-yard drive in 15 plays that produced its final score.

Tuttle carried eight times in the 15-play skein and with the last one, good for three yards, stopped the clock at 8:44. South Central now led by 27 to 6 and couldn't kick the PAT.

Plymouth had one more gasp.

In the next series, Plym- lost another interception to Hale. But the Trojans and Plymouth took over at its 48. In four plays, Cunningham got into the end zone. The scoring push was a 35-yard effort that seemed to be a routine no gainer for the Big Red. But Cunningham did not quit and he burst free of four tacklers and sped down the east sideline for the score.

A flea flicker pass play for PATs did not connect.

South Central was at the Plymouth 11, with second stringers on the field, when time ran out.

Steve Adams leads Laker running game

The trial by jury of Danbury v. Plymouth will be conducted on Robert A. Lewis Memorial field tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. and the faithful who attend can be sure of one fact: the defense will never rest.

The defense will be occupied with the testimony of one Steve Adams, a 185-pound 12th grade running back whose testimony is already sought by 200 colleges.

All he's done so far as the Lakers recorded a 4-and-5 season (they were beaten by Ottawa Hills in an upset last week, when Adams was held to just 73 yards rushing) is to carry the ball for over 1,600 yards and a career level of over 3,000 yards.

He racked up 322 yards against Northwood, running for 62, 45 and 28 yards en route to touchdowns.

An all-Lakeshore conference choice in 1980 and 1981, Adams is an honor pupil. His cumulative grade-point average is 3.5.

Adams is also the Laker placekicker. He's booted 14 extra points and a 27-yard field goal.

What's more, he plays defense, where he's a punishing tackler. After nine games he has 125 tackles, 21 more than he had during the entire 1981 season.

In the spring, he's a high jumper, with emphasis on the adjective. How high? Six feet eight inches, that's how high. It was good for only second place in the Ohio Class A championships at Columbus in June.

What's he plan to do now?

"Well, first we have to take care of Plymouth. Then I've got the rest of the year to complete. I've been to some campuses and I like what I see at East Lansing (Michigan State) but I'm going to check out Penn State and West Point and some others. I don't know which it'll be yet but you can be sure it'll be a big one. I want to play big league ball!"

Can Plymouth defeat Danbury? The Big Red recalls with some bitterness the humiliatyion at Danbury in the frigid wind last season.

Injuries have handicapped the Plymouth squad this season. Two starters on offense and a starter on defense, out for the season, paced the sidelines at Greenwich Friday, while the Big Red produced the best second half it's shown in five games.

To contain Adams will be a big order. Does Danbury have anything else? It didn't against Ottawa Hills. Can Plymouth take a leaf from the book of Ottawa Hills?

Weather permitting, a fair crowd is anticipated in Mary Fate park tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. to find out.

Plymouth is again an underdog, perhaps by as much as 18 points.

Assigned No. 18 here, Darrel Hale was given No. 81 at South Central. No. 18 or No. 81, no difference, he played brilliantly against old teammates and recorded two interceptions.

Letterman Steve Jamerson, an 11th grader, is one of the Big Red's lettermen who'll be engaged in the final game of an unsuccessful season against Danbury here tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. He weighs 150 pounds, a bit light for line duty, but that's where he's played most of the season, on offense and defense. Football runs in the Jamerson family, as Big Red fans know.

Eleventh grader Ron Baldridge will see duty in Plymouth's 10th game here tomorrow. He plays at tackle and guard on offense and defense and, owing to injuries, has had to perform there at greater length, sometimes, than is reasonable for one who weighs only 162 pounds. He's a letterman.

Shelby hospital taking steps to improve health care here

Shelby Memorial hospital has taken several positive steps toward addressing the most critical health care need in the Shelby area, additional physicians, it claims.

During the past three years the hospital has embarked upon a multifaceted effort to obtain medical practitioners for the residents of northern Richland county.

Physician recruitment efforts at Shelby Memorial hospital have not only netted at least two physicians for the Shelby service area but have given backing to make changes in the hospital staffing and structures.

Two physicians have come to serve the Shelby community since the beginning of the physician recruitment effort known as the project development committee in early 1979.

J. J. Arntz, chairman of the project development committee, noted, "While working with physicians interested in establishing practices in Shelby we learned that there are several drawbacks here. In taking a hard look at what we had to offer and how we might enhance it, we have made several changes and several additions."

Perhaps the largest of the changes was contracting with a private firm for the 24-hour-a-day/seven-day-a-week physician coverage of the hospital's emergency room. This means that anyone presenting himself in the Shelby Memorial hospital emergency room, no matter what day or what hour of the day, will be seen by a physician who is on hand at the hospital around the clock.

Another obstacle to recruitment, the availability of office space, is being dealt with through the building project launched by Dr. Maul Martin, resulting in the structure in West Main street, which in turn opened a suite of offices in Dr. Paul Curren's office building in Auburn avenue. Additionally, the purchase of the former Kroger building, to be known as the Sotzen Professional Arts center, and its current renovation will make available four more suites of office space. It is estimated that the current exterior renovation will be completed by Dec. 1. Interior walls and mechanical systems will also be "roughed-in" by the end of next month. Final interior work will proceed as each new physician is secured.

"A more cooperative spirit between the hospital, medical community and the residents of Shelby and the surrounding area has been established during this entire program", Arntz added. "A community survey was circulated during the last two years which gave members of the Shelby service area a chance to state the needs and the directions they saw the hospital should be addressing."

With survey results in hand, the hospital administration began work on outpatient services, which were not being dealt with as efficiently as Shelby Memorial hospital executives wanted. Additionally, new areas of needs were addressed, resulting in cardiac stress testing and executive physical program being added to the hospital's list of services provided.

The physician search continues with priorities being family practice, obstetrics, general surgery and orthopedics.

To insure future practitioners for the community, the hospital is also backing a group headquartered at the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo called the preferred placement program. Medical school students seeking financial assistance are matched with communities that will lend that assistance in return for a guarantee that the student, upon completion of his residency, will return to the community and establish a medical practice. At present, the hospital is sponsoring one student and has completed the financial assistance for a second student who is scheduled to begin a practice in Shelby in mid-1985.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Ed. Note: Two schoolboys address themselves to the decoration of the helmets of the Cleveland Browns, apparently in hopes the NFL season will resume.)

Sir:

We think the Cleveland Browns helmets can be changed. Their helmets are plain. Look at all the other helmets. They have designs. Why can't the Browns? At least their name across their helmets. Maybe a design will inspire a better chance to go to the Siper Bowl and we think it will draw more fans and give the Browns more hope.

Do you think the Browns would like their helmet changed: We hope the Browns will want to change the helmet. Maybe this will give them something to think about as the football strike goes on.

School bus stops unchanged, despite pleas of six to do so

A six person delegation from Brooks court seeking a change in the location of the school bus stop serving 18 pupils in that street was turned down unanimously by Plymouth Board of Education Tuesday night.

By vote of 5 to 0, the board accepted the recommendations of Supt. Douglas Staggs for bus stops for the 1982-83 year. That which serves Brooks court is at the West Broadway outlet.

The Larry Smiths and Mrs. Noah Sammons were outspoken in their complaint that topography and weather militate against the safety of school pupils living in Brooks court. They want the bus to turn into their street and collect pupils closer to their homes.

Mrs. Sammons said her high school daughter often walks to the bus stop in the dark.

A. George Miller and Charles Reinhart, board members, stoutly defended the board's position. And the president, Mrs. Roger Pugh, told Mrs. Smith gently but firmly that the board in fact had heard her complaint and those of her neighbors with attention and politeness and now is free to act "in accordance with the law". Mrs. Smith had said "the school sends stuff home with the kids to sell to make the schools look good, but when there isn't anything in it for the schools, they don't seem to care about us."

Supt. Douglas Staggs read from the law and also from a letter from Gil R. Smith, area coordinator of transportation, who said her personal inspection showed no violation of state law by the district. The law says pupils may be required to walk up to half a mile to a bus stop.

Miss Linda L. Hartshuh resigned as assistant girls' basketball coach, citing her unfortunate experience in the volleyball program. It was accepted.

Bradley Ream was named head girls' basketball coach and Mark Sheely and Daniel Donoghue assistant basketball coaches at the boys' elementary level.

Mrs. Mollie Gatoff received a pregnancy leave of absence from Dec. 6 to Feb. 1. She teaches home economics at Shiloh.

Mrs. Robert D. Forsythe, Sr., resigned as cafeteria supervisor at Shiloh. She will retire Dec. 31 after 27 years in the employ of the school system. Her husband will retire at that time also. Her resignation was accepted with regret.

Mrs. Herbert Caudill was accorded a four month leave of absence as bus driver, owing to a back injury, Staggs reported she is investigating whether she can obtain disability for the injury.

Parent-teacher conferences will be conducted for kindergarten pupils Dec. 2 and 3, for grades one through eight the evening of Dec. 2 and all day Dec. 3.

What are painful facts about village?

At the risk of a lynching, it is time to state some obvious but painful facts.

The economy is in serious trouble. The village corporation is in serious trouble. Not so serious, right now, as the economy generally, but it's only a matter of time. The local business community is in very deep trouble.

How deep?

The local industry has cut back employees to such extent that only a relative handful report when the whistle blows at 6:55 a. m. They don't work a full week. One who has been there almost since General Beall plunged through the forests to fight the British says he has never seen things so bleak.

Businesses required by law to make true and accurate statements of profits for the third quarter paid only $1,101.16 into the village income tax fund. Since the tax is one per cent of net profit, including what the businessman took from the till to live on during the quarter, it follows that profits for the quarter were only $110,116. Count the number of businesses in the village. How many of them are there? Not more than 40. By simple division, one can see that the average profit of each amounted to $2,752. Consider that two or three businesses made twice that and it's obvious the other 27 or 28 probably didn't make it in the last quarter.

Overall, the director of taxation has reported, income tax collections for the quarter amounted to $15,093.77, which includes tax withheld from wage and salary personnel. This figure is down from the $27,181.85 collected during the same period last year.

What is the outlook?

The oldest banking institution has been sold, subject to approval by the regulatory agency. The buyer is a reputable and respected business with long experience in northern Richland county and presumably will take a vigorous interest in expanding its hegemony in that region and southern Huron county.

A business has already announced it will close. Two others are on the verge of so announcing. A fourth is considering filing for bankruptcy.

The pattern has been that the big eat the small that can survive. More often, the small find it impossible to survive. Only this week a statewide report showed private pharmacies are in serious trouble, unable to compete, and selling out to chain drug stores or closing up with great rapidity.

The pharmacy business isn't the only one under the gun.

National pundits may and do differ on the extent to which the recent election was a referendum on the federal government's economic policies. We said two years ago, and we repeat it now: the present course makes sense, the only sense, economically, but can it survive politically?

Our guess is that it cannot. Staying the course will take some hard-working and deserving folks down with it. It would seem that a few of these live and work in this town, more's the pity.

We shall address the matter of what to do about it shortly.

One objection to zoning plan submitted to village council

Only one person spoke up at the zoning hearing Tuesday night before village council.

It was Douglas A. Dickson, a Plymouth High school teacher, who lives in Springmill road.

He asked why the area west of his house and the road had been designated for a mobile park unit.

His question was quickly answered by Councilman roy answered by Councilman Roy Barber, who serves on the village planning commission. Under state law, he said, areas must be reserved for mobile home parks of at least 10 acres and that was the only available land of that size within the corporation.

Barber was backed by John Fazzini, now serving as clerk-treasurer, who had previously been on the planning commission and was instrumental in drawing up the proposed zoning ordinance.

The only other query came from Councilman John E. Hedeen, speaking for the Donnenwirth family, which owns property in the west side of Sandusky street at the north end of the village.

A plot of land now being farmed adjoins the old Donnenwirth house, which is zoned R2, which will leave it open for purely residential structures.

They wish it to be B1 for limited business establishments.

For several years it has been rumored that a nursing home is interested in building on the property. This would not be allowed if it remains residential.

The council agreed that no action would be taken to pass the ordinance until another meeting of the planning commission is conducted. This will be Dec. 7, unless a special session is called.

Hedeen, who attended the meeting in Fredericktown Thursday of communities planning to band together to combat Columbia Gas of Ohio's rates, told the council that Plymouth has at least until Jan. 15, 1983, to formally join that coalition.

The village's contract does not expire before then. What the communities are doing is to try to obtain a uniform rate for all, rather than negotiate individually and make some agreement on the gas cost recovery charge, which has not in the past been negotiable through any contract talks.

That cost represents almost 80 per cent of any gas bill. It is the cost of obtaining the gas which the company has passed off on the consumers as a legitimate cost for gas usage.

Councilman Keith Hebble, who heads the rules committee, strongly urged the council to consider extending the contract of Continental Cablevision with the village 15 years beyond its expery date, which is 1988.

He said the company's rate increases to date have been moderate and it would be right to allow it to amortize its investment and at the same time upgrade the system.

Nor formal action was taken nor was a concrete statement made by Joe Helms, the company's representative, to what the franchise fee to the village would be, although the figure of $3,000 annually was mentioned.

Helms said as he had before that the company plans a monthly rate increase in February, 1983, from $7.50 to $8.75.

Hebble also told the council his committee is attempting to set up more explicit rules regarding water regulations, which amounts to who pays for what damages to lines and meters during the winter months.

He also said the present pay ordinance needs to be simplified and that his committee is checking with other communities on how they handle theirs.

Will Polachek make all-district?

An effort to place Co-Capt. Greg Polachek on the all-district Class A football squad chosen by UPI was launched over the weekend by his coach, Richard Roll.

Polachek's selection wovld be based on his skills as a punter. He was the only kicker on the Plymouth team during the entire 10-game slate. One of his boots, a 61-yarder against Black River, was the longest kick ever recorded for a Plymouth punter.

A 12th grader, he is a letterman. He played center on defense and linebacker on defense, two skill positions. He is a letterman in basketball and in his first love, baseball, where he plays catcher.

A committee of radio and newspaper experts, headed by Mike Van Sickel, Mansfield sports writer, will make the selection next week.

One Plymouth fan with 29 years of experience with Pilgrim, Warrior and Big Red teams has been burning up the telephone wires to obtain some support for Polachek's nomination.

His season average was 35.6 yards.

Adams scores only touchdown, Danbury defeats Plymouth

Steve Adams closed his schoolboy career on Robert A. Lewis Memorial field here Friday night with a scintillating 51-yard run for the only touchdown of the game to lead Danbury to a 6 to 0 victory over Plymouth.

Kept on the bench until 8:03 of the second period because of an injury, Adams injected some life into an impotent team and capitalized on an opportunity in the third period.

At halftime he had five carries for 45 yards. For the night's work he was credited with 106 yards in 10 tries. In his career he got 2,931 yards by rushing, 1,473 of them during 1982.

Danbury obtained possession at its 40-yard line toward the end of the third quarter, Plymouth having kept the ball from the second half kickoff for nearly six and a half minutes, during which time it managed two first downs and a drive from its 30.

On first down, Adams, who was a marked man throughout the contest, gained a yard. Don Todd, who carried 96 yards in 22 carries, managed eight with a pitchout over Plymouth's left tackle. From the Laker 49, on third down, Adams hit his left tackle. Two Plymouth defenders bounced off him like a rubber ball and be bowled down the north sideline to the end zone.

His place kick for PAT struck the south upright and fell to the ground.

The Lakers got out of their own territory with their penultimate possession of the game. With 7:03 left to play, Jeff Jacobs's pass flew through Brian Vredenburgh's fingers on this cold, cold night and Plymouth gave up possession at the Laker 24.

Danbury punched to the Red 25, thanks mainly to a 32-yard run by Todd, and on first down fumbled at the Plymouth 23, where the Big Red recovered.

The clock read 1:40 to play, ample time for Plymouth to score if it could mount any kind of offense.

Jacobs connected on third down to James Will, good for 29 yards and first down at Danbury's 48. Four pass plays later, Plymouth was back at its 25-yard line. Jacobs was sacked on third down for a 13-yard loss and a penalty on the next play cost five more.

On fourth down, Jacobs was flagged for intentional grounding. Danbury refused the penalty and two plays later it was all over.

During the first half, it was all Danbury. The Lakers with 35 plays had nine first downs and 141 yards rushing, compared to three first downs in 26 plays for 44 yards by Plymouth. Danbury had 13 yards through the air, Plymouth nothing.

At the final whistle, the visitors showed 14 first downs in 60 plays good for 23 yards rushing. They had given up 90 yards on 12 penalties. For its part, Plymouth in 57 plays had eight first downs for a net of 78 yards on the ground.

Neither team was able to do much through the air. The Lakers tried four passes and completed one. They lost one by interception, that by Darren Branham, and advanced just 13 yards. Plymouth in 14 tries gained a net of 26 yards with two completions, one of them a freak reception by Mike McKenzie after Jacoba's pass was batted into the air. The play netted a minus three yards.

Penalties were nettlesome to the Big Red as well. There was all but constant complaint from the Plymouth bench throughout the second half that the officiating was less than adequate, and some of the complaint was justified. The Big Red lost 65 yards on nine penalties. Twice, on fourth down, 15-yard assessments against Plymouth, both of which were declined, stymied modest advances that might have gone farther had the calls, both of them judgment decisions, and each of them weak ones, gone the other way.

Plymouth's defense, suspect all season, and thinned by injury – Plymouth had three players more than two full teams suited up for this one – held the Lakers in the first half after they had punched to the Red 13.

A short punt by Greg Polachek, who found the ball difficult to loft owing to the cold air, and into the teeth of a stiff west wind, carried only 12 yards.

Here Adams came into the game and the Lakers moved to the Red 11, where on second down McKenzie, who was one of the bright spots on the Plymouth team during the season, recovered Todd's fumble.

The Lakers were back in the shadow of Plymouth's goal posts when the first half ended. On fourth down at the Red 44, Jacobs took the pass from center, ostensibly aimed for Polachek for a punt, and passed. It fell incomplete. The Lakers got 12 yards from Adams in two carries and 10 yards from the quarterback, Dave Mischler, who tried to pass but was forced to run. Adams got 14 yards from the Laker 29, having broken three Plymouth tackles, and Danbury had first down at the 15. But he failed of first down at the 14 and Plymouth took over with 13 seconds left to run out the clock.

Plymouth's drive to the Laker 24 in the fourth period was ts only sortie into Laker territory to speak of.

Only five players will be graduated from this Big Red team and if Plymouth fans can constrain themselves to be patient, there may yet be a winner in Mary Fate park.

The couple exchanged their vows before the Rev. Julian Taggart, minister of Plymouth's First United Presbyterian church, in First Baptist church, Shelby.

Mrs. Thomas Dove, the bridegroom's sister, played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" as the bridal party approached the altar. For the processional she played "Trumpet Voluntary" and accompanied Michael McFarren, Rittman, a former faculty member of Plymouth High school, from which the couple graduated.

He sang "Through the Years", "The Wedding Song" and "I Could Never Promise You".

The bride wore an ivory gown that she made.

The Chantilly lace bodice was styled with high neckline and full sleeves. It ended in a peplum with full gathers in the back. The full skirt was of taffeta with an overslip of organza.

Her headpiece was a wreath of baby's breath with small flowers.

They were attired in gowns of ivory lace over fitted rose slips. The bodices were gathered at the waist with ribbon. The sleeves of the gowns were bell-shaped to their wrists.

They carried hurricane lamps decorated with ivory straw flowers, rose carnations and baby's breath which were tied with bows from which rose colored streamers fell. They wore small flowers in their hair.

Kathy Williamson, the bride's niece, flower girl, wore a gown of ivory eyelet with a gathered waistline encircled with rose ribbon. Her headpiece was a wreath similar to that of the bride.

All gowns were made by the bride's family.

Coal Powered.

Most of the electricity that runs your electric appliances is made from coal. Matter of fact, the American Electric Power System we're part of uses more coal than any other utility in the country.

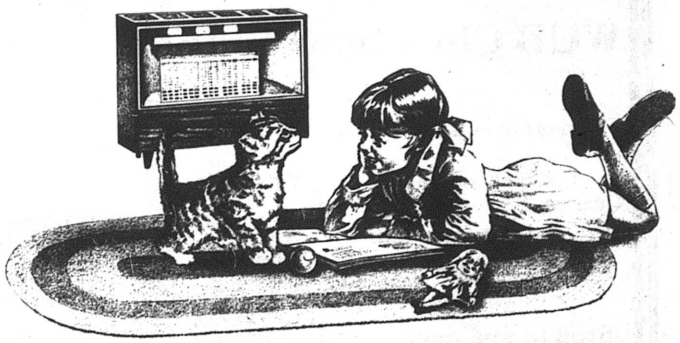

And, since coal is plentiful and more economical to use than other fuels, and fuel is the major factor in the cost of making electricity, that's one big reason why we've been able to keep your electric rates below the national average.*

NEW. NATURAL GAS ROOM HEATERS.

Now! A vent-free natural gas heater that warms you with confidence

If you have natural gas service, now you can bring vent-free heat to any unheated area of your home with an added measure of confidence. Confidence about economy, safety, and cleanliness.

New natural gas room heaters do what other models do, but with a difference.

Economy. Compared to a kerosene unit, you can save at least a third — and as much as a half — in fuel costs with a natural gas model.

Safety. These are the only room heaters offering the added safety feature of a sensor that constantly monitors the air. It will automatically shut off the gas flow if the normal (20%) oxygen level in the room ever falls to 18%.

Cleanliness. You'll never have to be concerned with odor, soot or residue of any kind with a natural gas heater. Nor do you have to go out to buy, then store and handle fuels of any kind.

What's more, a natural gas unit is easy to add, with simple ventless installation.

For model-by-model details, contact a Preway gas heater dealer, or your nearest Sears Store. Your Columbia Gas office can direct you to dealers near you.

Get all the details on this new concept in room heating. Now's a good time, before the frigid cold weather hits.

Then you'll be ready with your natural gas vent-free room heater installed—warming you with confidence.

Here's THAT recipe for holiday turkey!

By AUNT LIZ

Flattery gets to me.

Almost 10 years ago this recipe appeared here, which makes it almost historical today.

For some reason several people have asked me if we still had that "wild" turkey one, so I dug it out with the idea that now there might be some new, young cooks who are adventurous.

Here it is.

Start with a fresh lady bird of about 20 pounds, which I have been told do not come that large and you will not know if it is a boy or girl unless your friendly butcher ties a pink or blue bow on it to indicate just what it is.

Rub it in and out with salt and pepper and let it sit.

Cook up the chopped up gizard, heart and neck in a large saucepan with about five cups of water. Add a bay leaf, a teaspoon of paprika, half a teaspoon of coriander, a clove of garlic and some salt. Simmer slowly.

Then, in a largish bowl, put the following, and best you check to make sure you have it all.

Dice an apple and an orange, add a large can of crushed pineapple, three teaspoons of chopped preserved ginger and a can of cut-up water chestnuts (potato slices can be substituted here, they are the sam principle' Remember that for Chinese dishes, they are cheaper. They must be soaked in ice water first.)

To this add two teaspoons of caraway seed, three of celery seed, two of poppy seed, two and a half of oregano, a crushed bay leaf, one teaspoon black pepper, half teaspoon mace, four tablespoons of parsley (fresh if obtainable), five crushed cloves of garlic, four large onions chopped up finely, four cloves without their heads, half a teaspoon of turmeric, six chopped-up stalks of celery, half a teaspoon of marjoram, half a teaspoon of savory and one tablespoon of poultry seasoning. Throw in a little salt. Mix it all up and let it sit.

In another bowl put in what equals three packages of bread crumbs. Plain, broken-up bread is much cheaper, but you must figure out the amounts. Add three fourths of a pound of ground veal, a fourth of a pound of ground pork and a fourth of a pound of butter. If you can salvage some fat from the bird, render it and add it too.

Take the contents of the pan in which everything was stewing off the stove and add it with the other two bowls and mix very well. Then stuff it into the turkey.

Stuff both ends of the bird, and place it in a really hot oven.

Immediately start the next step but I really think this can be anticipated and should be ready on the spot.

Make a paste of two eggs, one teaspoon of dry mustard, a clove of crushed garlic, a tablespoon of onion juice, a dash of cayenne, a teaspoon of lemon juice and enough flour to make a stiff paste.

After your lady bird has really browned, turn your oven down to 325 degrees, brush the complete bird over well with the mixture, and keep painting it until you have used it all up. This forms a crust which keeps all the good turkey juices inside.

Heat up cider and use it for basting every 15 minutes. Find a good book and sit cross-legged and read next to your oven. Better have two books since the roasting period is about six hours. There are two good books to go with this recipe, "The Loo Sanction", which is very gory, and "The Last of the Southern Girls", which is written by Willie Morris, a former editor of Harper's who carried on a little with a famous Washington hostess, and it is supposedly about her.

This paste will turn out quite black, but do not be alarmed. Inside is that good turkey. Just don't let your guests see it or they will quickly find a reason to leave. Take the crust off carefully, and there will be a dark brown, succulent bird so tender that you should not raise your voice near it, or it may fall off the bones.

W. Kelly Clark takes bride

Miss Dana Walliser attended by sisters at Willard

Miss Dana Ann Walliser and William Kelly Clark were married Oct. 30 in St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church, Willard.

The Rev. James Peiffer was celebrant of the 2 p. m. nuptial mass.

A wide ruffle of imported chantilly lace outlined the sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves. Tiers of lace were gathered from the center of a colonial skirt.

Her ivory lace-trimmed hat featured two silk roses tucked into the rolled brim with a pouff and streamers of veiling at the back.

She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and snowdrift chrysanthemums tinted rose and burgundy, accented with fern.

Her attendants were her sisters, Elaine, Attica, maid of honor, and Mrs. Christine Alt, Bellevue, matron of honor. Their gowns were of dusty rose luster knit, featuring a lace stand-up collar, and a wide embroidery on a point d'esprit yoke and peplum over flared skirts.

The long sleeves were also of embroidered point d'esprit.

In identically designed dresses of sueded pink and burgundy were Miss Kyle Clark, the bridegroom's sister; Mrs. James Clark, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mrs. Charles West and Miss Ann Hopkins, all of Willard. Each carried a colonial bouquet of pink and burgundy snowdrift chrysanthemums accented with fern. They wore snowdrift chrysanthemums with baby's breath in their hair.

Timothy Holmer, Republic, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

James Clark, Willard, was best man. Rodney Walliser, Attica, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Marc Garner, Mr. West and David Marcum, all of Willard, and John Mack, Attica, ushered.

The bride's mother chose a gown in misty mauve with a sheer caplet. Mrs. Clark wore a gown in gray with an over blouse of metallic rochelle knit. Their corsages were white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Tony Holmer, Republic, and Chad Clark, Willard, nephews of the couple, distributed wedding programs.

A reception took place in St. Michael's hall, Marywood, where a buffet luncheon was served, followed by music by The Serenaders.

Sondra DeWitt registered guests.

Sandy Holmer, Republic, sister of the bride and Sue Ott, Willard, served the cake. The center piece of the cake was also that used by the bride's parents 33 years ago. Others serving were Ellen Schwab, Bobbie Bridinger, Barbara Goble and Teresa Roth.

A rehearsal dinner was given by his parents in Plymouth.

The newlyweds have returned from a honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains, Pa., and are living in New Haven.

Honored guests were grandparents of the newlyweds, Leonard O. Walliser, Attica, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Ford, Shelby.

Winner!

This vehicle advertises Plymouth in several states, always with distinction and often as a winner. It belongs to W. Robert Seel.

'Bad Habit' winning for ex-police chief

"Bad Habit" is winning Robert Seel a lot of recognition.

He doesn't always win the top prize, but he makes a good showing and is in demand for invitational pulling events.

The last was at the Coliseum, Richfield, where he took fifth place among 10 entries.

His vehicle is a 1979 Ford F-250.

What is unique is that he did not go out and buy it.

He built it himself by finding a part here and there in wrecking yards, which took almost nine months.

The axles are from a military ambulance with a reenforced frame. The vehicle is powered with an alcohol burning fuel injection 427 cubic inch ford motor with automatic transmission and runs on 34-18-5 tires.

"Bad Habit" has earned a good name for itself. It's dependable.

They were men of rare breed: Donald Akers, Joseph J. Cihla

During the last month, He has seen fit to take from us two citizens who made important contributions to the quality of life in this community.

Donald E. Akers was a product of Plymouth High school who lived here since 1923, served its citizens first as mail carrier, then as attorney and village councilman, with honor and distinction. He was firm in his convictions, slow to accept what he wasn't yet sure would be good for him and his and his neighbors, and stubborn about defending what he conceived to be the rights to which he and his family and his neighbors were born. He didn't own a horn, so far as we know; at least, he never tooted one to claim conquests over those whom he overcame by argument or by ballot.

He raised an honorable family. Its loss is our loss. Toward the end, he failed terribly. His sudden death came as a blessing, to him and his loved ones.

But we shall not soon forget the receipt, when we were sufficiently coherent to recognize such receipt, only last spring of a number of encouragements from him, encouragements that must have been a trial for him to write. May his shadow never diminish.

Joseph J. Cihla was a cheerful fellow of considerable talents whose body included one more organ than any of the rest of us. It was a second heart, a heart he gave to others to use when they needed his help and had no one else to turn to. Night or day, whether he was on duty or off, he never turned anyone down if he understood there was a need for immediacy. His neighbors in Shiloh ought to look often on his many contributions to the quality of life there. He served his country, his family and his community with honor and high capacity. His final days were plagued by intense pain and great suffering, which he encountered with no fear and dealt with in silence.

If monuments ought to be erected, let them be raised in their memory.

Two named to VFDB

At the suggestion of Councilman Terry Hopkins, Barber and Councilman G. Thomas Moore were named as the council members to the Volunteer Firemen's Dependency board.

Approval was given by emergency ordinances to the Lofland street improvements and to the Department of Transportation to upgrade the AC&Y railroad crossing in Plymouth street.

ColGas seeks 2.75% raise

An increase of $1.44 a month for each customer is sought by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., in an application to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

The supplier wants to increase its gas recovery charge by 2.75 per cent.

ColGas says cost of natural gas accounts for 80 per cent of the monthly billing. The remainder pays for service.

ColGas was granted an increase in August and in February. The August increase, which took effect in February, cost the average consumer of 11,000 cubic feet a month $7.59. The February raise, which took effect in March, cost the user an average of $4.07 a month.

Shiloh rejects reconnection fee increase

Three votes killed an amendment to Shiloh's utility rules that would require payment of $25 instead of $5 to reconnect utility service terminated because of failure to pay bills.

Councilman Richard Tallman, Barbara Music and Delmar Nesbitt voted against the measure.

The ordinance was submitted on second reading.

The vote was 3 to 2.

Full-time police protection by the Richland county sheriff's department will begin at once, the police committee was told. Steven Sheldon and James Sweat will join Ed Ernsberger to service the village. The first two will be accompanied by their own trained dog.

Shiloh is likely to join the coalition of communities, spearheaded by Fredericktown, to seek a uniform rate from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. Its Mansfield district manager, Jerry Tisher, said despite advantages of belonging to a coalition, Shiloh is likely to pay more because it is a "below-average user community".

County mulling issuance of ID bonds

A proposal to fund a new shopping mall in Route 250 at the north edge of Norwalk by issuing industrial development bonds lies before Huron county commissioners.

Testimony pro and con was received Nov. 9.

The plan is that the bonds, which would be guaranteed by the county, would provide capital funds for the developer at interest rates lower than the commercial banking rate, since interest derived from the bonds is tax free and therefore they can be sold at lower rates.

The developer is Zeisler-Morgan Properties. The site adjoins the K Mart in Norwalk.

Lincoln myth exploded, but burst's not so big!

By AUNT LIZ

It's true!
And I hate to admit it.
You simply cannot believe everything you read.

What a lot of people have believed for 119 years just isn't the way it was.

The story was that President Lincoln simply whipped up those immortal words he spoke at the dedication of the battlefield of Gettysburg when it became a cemetery.

Supposedly he scribbled it out on a piece of scratch paper while on the train from Washington.

He really did a little scribbling, but he had already written the whole thing before he left home and most likely pondered over it, which was kind of before the days that presidents had a whole crew of speech writers.

He apparently did a little revising and when he stood up to deliver it, he added "under God" after the word nation.

The other story connected with that Nov. 19 is that he was able to say in a couple of minutes what took Edward Everett, who was considered a darn good speaker, two hours to say.

Somewhere there is a moral in this: some people simply talk too long, I guess, and really don't say much.

If only "things" could talk!

Mince meat would have a great deal to say.

With the holidays coming and looking at mincemeat recipes, it is one of the most versatile things to cook with.

Pies, of course, are immortal and no holiday dinner is complete without one, but if you have a little left over, spread it on pork chops as they bake.

It also can make a great sauce for ribs, just add it to your pet barbecue sauce recipe, but be a little careful of the extra spices which normally go in it.

It can also be a bread which is a great present or simply served to your family in thin buttered slices.

Measure one and a half cups of flour, three-fourths of a cup of sugar, two and a half teaspoons baking powder, some salt.

To this add two eggs (should be slightly beaten, but I don't bother, just throw them in), three tablespoons of melted shortening and a teaspoon of vanilla.

Mix well, then add one and a third cups of mince meat and some chopped nuts.

Bake at 350 degrees in an ordinary loaf pan for about an hour.

A son was born Nov. 10 in Mansfield General hospital to the Gary Bisels, 21 South Walnut street, Shiloh.

Douglas Scott, who weighed seven pounds, is their second child.

A son was born Sunday in Willard Area hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hurst.

A son was born Nov. 9 in Willard Area hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hockenberry. Mrs. Charles Hockenberry, Sr., Shelby, is the paternal grandmother and Mrs. Luther R. Fetter, Sun City, Ariz., is the paternal great-grandmother.

The Homer McClains are the maternal grandparents.

The Stephen Hickses, Plymouth route 1, are parents of a daughter born Friday in Shelby Memorial hospital.

Four donate to 'Jaws of Life'

Memorial contributions to the Jaws of Life fund, Plymouth fire department, have been received from Rose Frangella, Shelby, and Cleveland Pneumatics, Cleveland, for Donald E. Akers.

Condon, New Albany, have given for George Farnwalt, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Cashman for their son, James H. Cashman.

Dr. Roy J. Johnson, Shelby, has made a donation to Plymouth Branch library in memory of Donald E. Akers.

The library has also received a donation in memory of Harold Sams from Donna Russell, Plymouth.

ERRATUM

During the 45th anniversary dinner for the Frank Dillons, the Dillons presented each guest with home preserves. In last week's issue it was stated that Mrs. Dillon gave preserves to Mr. Dillon only.

Harris loses at Mansfield

A 1981 alumnus of Plymouth High school, where he excelled in cross country, football and basketball, Scott Harris is trying to make it now as a pugilist.

Fighting with the Pignatelli-Carbetta stable in Mansfield, Harris took on Todd Fuller, Akron, in a contest Thursday and lost a split decision.

Vikes lose first game

Tony Haymond scored seven points but fifth grade Vikings went down for the first opening game loss in seven seasons Saturday.

Springmill Cavs won, 16 to 15.

Vikes will play Saturday at 10 a. m. against Madison Green at Friendly House, Mansfield.

Chargers overcome Cougars for title

Edison won the 1982 Firelands conference football championship in the mud of Whitney field at Norwalk, Friday night, defeating Crestview, 12 to 0.

The Chargers, earlier beaten by the Cougars at Crestview, 21 to 7, applied defensive pressure to the Crestview star, Curtis Reed, and held the undefeated Cougars to 113 yards. Reed gained 86 yards in 18 carries.

Crestview managed only 92 yards on the ground.

Rod Bernhard, the Cougar quarterback, whose passing helped lead the Cougars to 10 straight victories, was the victim of a carefully orchestrated pass rushHe threw 10 times, completed four and lost one by interception. And all of this was good for just 21 yards.

Neither was Edison any great shakes offensively. But the Chargers capitalized on some mistakes to pave the way for two scores, one in the second period and one in the fourth.

On fourth down, with 19 to go for first down, the Cougars sent Jim Them to punt. The snap from center sailed over his head and by the time he corraled it and was thrown by the Edison defense, Crestview had lost 25 yards to its 15.

On second down, Steve Geres having been stopped for no gain, Dan Frederick passed to Joe Taylor for the score. The clock read 1:40.

A try for two points after touchdown fell short.

Edison returned a short Crestview punt tot he Cougar 15.

Six plays later, Frederick bulled over on third down from the Crestview one.

Crestview reached the Edison 24 after 11 plays in the third quarter but lost a fumble to kill the drive.

Should coach be silenced?

By THE OLD TIMER

It is time to respond to a kind inquiry by the regional director representing Ohio and neighboring states on the board of control of the National Federation of High School Athletics.

He says in his letter, "It has come to me that you have been closely connected to high school football over a number of years and may have some ideas as to the effect of the rules and whether they ought to be changed that would be of use to the rules committee. Please complete the enclosed questionnaire and add any comments you may wish to make."

The appropriate responses have been checked. Comment is limited to just one aspect of the schoolboy game. The O. T. well understands his comment won't get off the table. But since it was solicited, he feels obligated to submit it.

It's reproduced verbatim

"The rules as they are drawn, with some slight tinkering, are satisfactory and, so far as I can see, successful. But there is one change that would please me and, I think, in the long run please those who understand the real purpose of schoolboy football.

"It is to restrict communication between a substitute and his team on the field until after a play has been completed.

"Time was when this was the rule. I played under that rule. The game belonged to the payers, then.

"Apparently, when some of us were occupied with other, more important matters, the self-servers got to the rules committee and pushed through a change that remains in the rules.

"Let us suppose that the head football coach is also the mathematics teacher. Does he pass by the desk of each pupil who takes the mathematics test and suggest ways of working an equation?

"No, he does not.

"He hands the test to the pupil and announces the time limit and other rules and turns the pupil loose to show what he's made of. The test is not only a reflection of the pupil's capacity to learn but also the teacher's capacity to teach.

"How can we teach the real merits of football to boys who aren't allowed to make decisions for themselves?

"The present rule is self-serving in the extreme. The coach sends in a play. I cannot recall more than once over 25 years that the player ever changed the call, and he was summarily benched. If the play succeeds, the coach takes the credit. If the play fails, the coach can blame it on sound concept, poor execution. Except, of course, in instances such as occurred at the end of the Stanford-Ohio State game this season, when poor execution was compounded by unsound concept.

"We are trying to teach these players to be men. Some of them are old enough, even during the football season, to be called to the colors and to bleed, perhaps die, for the republic. We have led ourselves to believe over the years that football is an integral part of teaching our young men how to conduct themselves in battle so that they and we will survive.

"I cannot accept that the baseball team watches for the signal from the coach, whether from the bench or the baseline. That's a matter of at most four players on offense against nine on defense. And there is no reason that the captain or another player cannot signal what shall be done, once the general concept of how the game shall be played is laid out.

"In basketball we require coaches to remain seated (though the rule is honored more in the breach than otherwise). One wonders whether coaching from the sideline during a basketball game has any effect on its outcome, anyway.

"It'll be a better game is it's given back to the players."

No height, some speed on Red five

Six lettermen aspire to starting assignments on Coach David A. Dunn's 1982-83 Big Red basketball contingent.

Seven candidates from the successful reserve squad of last season are also among the candidates.

Lettermen are Greg Polachek, who has two monograms so far; Jeff Jacobs, Jeff Fenner, Craig Thornsberry, Bob Jamerson and Rick Hawkins, each winner of one letter.

All are 12th graders.

Candidates who won reserve letters last year are Rodney Hampton, Tom Baker, Darrin Branham, Brian Vredenburgh, Chad McGinnis and Mike McKenzie.

Dunn's team will have better than average speed but no height to speak of. And height is the name of this game.

Plymouth opens a 20-game slate at Clyde Dec. 3 and plays Northmor in Morrow county the next night.

First home game is a Firelands conference contest with Edison Dec. 10.

'79 grad to vie in NAIA playoff Saturday

A 1979 alumnus of Plymouth High school, one of seven Big Red gridders since World War I to letter in college football, will see action Saturday in the first playoff game ever involving a Plymouth graduate.

Jim Wallace, linebacker for Wilmington's Quakers, coached by Dr. William Ramseyer, a former head coach here, will play against Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa., on the Presbyterians' home field.

The playoffs are in Division II, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Quakers knocked off Findlay college, 29 to 7, for the Oilers' first defeat Saturday to conclude an 8-and-1 season.

Findlay was ranked eighth and Westminter seventh in the final poll by the Associated Press.

The Quakers are led by Jim Sposer, a junior from Medina, an outstanding passer.

Red left out of all-FC volleyballers

Plymouth's winless volleyball team was shut out of selections for the Firelands conference team.

Coaches chose Ann Knoll, Western Reserve, and Kim Kochheiser, Crestview, as MVPs.

Others on the first team are Linda Gregory, Susi Hamilton and Lori McCoppin, New London; Carla Mueller, Western Reserve; Patti Nickoli, St. Paul's, and Mitzo Miller, Crestview.

Marilyn Knechtges, Western Reserve, and Sue Subich, Crestview, were selected coaches of the year.

Second team selections are Dolores Butler, Karen Fraelich and Kim Krupp, Western Reserve; Kim Miller and Elaine Sitterly, Monroeville, and Amy Mushett, St. Paul's.

Honorable mention was accorded Jenny Danda, Edison; Nancy Howell, Monroeville; Cathy Kozel, New London; Shari Shinsky, Western Reserve; Pat Nester and Amy Seitz, St. Paul's, and Nancy Ehler and Sandy and Sue Ott, South Central.

Will Mounties get their money's worth in winter sports?

When the Mapleton Mounties engage the home team this season, look upon them with some appreciation.

Each of them is paying $50 to play.

Mapleton Board of Education agreed Nov. 8 to reinstate winter athletic by funding the salaries of the boys's and girls' basketball teams and the wrestling team by charging admission, forcing each participant to pay $50 and relying on the Booster club to make up the difference between receipts and expenses, including coaches' salaries.

County mulling issuance of ID bonds

Zeisler-Morgan would actually sell the bonds and no county funds would be involved, except in case of default.

Arguments for the proposal center upon the stimulus to the building trades that would result from $3.5 million of new construction and the increase in employment. Just how many new jobs would be created seems to be in dispute. Some say "about 150". Others say "less than 40 full-time permanent jobs".

Norwalk Area Chamber of Commerce is in favor of the development and of issuance of the bonds.

One of the new businesses that would be established is a fourth grocery for Norwalk.

A financial analyst with the Cardinal Food chain in Columbus stated Nov. 9 his surveys show a new grocery will require a volume of $150,000 to $170,000 a week. Total grocery market in Norwalk, he said, is $487,500 a week, of which 97 per cent is spent in the city. Only $17,500 to $25,500 a week is spent outside Norwalk by Norwalkians.

Jonathan Jayes added, "the available grocery dollars are obviously far short of what the new store would need to break even." He predicted a price war on some items if a new store entered into competition with the existing outlets, which numbers four stores.

A Norwalk councilman, Robert Williams, said telephone calls to him favor the issue by nine to one. Finance Director Vernis George said construction of the new mall would divert revenues from Sandusky Mall. He added, "If we don't do something, eventually all our business will wind up there."

Commissioner Thomas Carabin pointed out the duty of the commissioners is to decide on the basis of whether temporary or permanent jobs will be created, whether the county's tax base will increase and whether the developer can repay the loan.

ALWAYS SHOP AT HOME FIRST

10 lettermen seek places as wrestlers

Ten lettermen, the largest contingent of monogram winners since wrestling was established as an interscholastic activity here, seek starting places on Coach Richard Roll's 1982-83 Big Red team.

One of them seeks a fourth letter. He is Clarence Moorman. A 12th grader, he is joined by a classmate, James Will, who aspires for a third mongram.

Other lettermen are Dave Burkett, 12th grader; Don Adams, Steve Jamerson, Richard Cunningham and Dan Mumea, 11th graders; Larry Brooks, Jesse Miller and Jon Strine, 10th graders.

Up from the reserve squad, where they won reserve letters last season, are Ron Baldridge and Brian Hess, 11th graders, and Scott Fuller, Jesse James, Mike Plechaty, Scott Ryman and William Waggoner, 10th graders.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. Smith complains 'decision cut and dried'

Sir:

In last week's paper you wrote on how the school board voted unanimously not to let the school bus come down Brooks court. Also you told how we, the parents of Brooks court, were outspoken and the board president was polite.

First of all, I've been to the last two board meetings and anything the board voted on was a unanimous vote, no questions asked, no discussion, just I, I, I, I, depending on Mr. Staggs's recommendations or not. Mr. Staggs was within the law so he did not feel our concerns and complaints were just. He did not have to try to help us, he did not have to try to understand our concerns. Parents would be shocked to sit at one board meeting, a cut dried situation. Mr. Staggs sits with his back to the public. If the board members are afraid to speak up on any issue then it's time someone resigned. No one man should have that much control over a group that is to be made up of the public and for the public.

And Mrs. Pugh could be as nice as pie, the decision was already made before we got there. Yes, she said the board would listen to all our complaints. Well, we could have gotten more response out of a brick wall. She also said the school system was ours, too. You sure wouldn't have guessed it by seeing what went on at those board meetings. It appeared the school system was under one man. What do they call that? "Dictatorship" I believe.

When a child's safety is in question I'm sure any parent would become outspoken. Especially if his point has been completely overlooked. We did not ask for the bus to stop at every house, only to make a couple of stops. Even the mayor and police chief agree the bus stop is unsafe.

If the law says "children may walk up to a half mile to a bus stop," why not make all bused pupils walk a half mile? The board president said neighboring children did not have to walk up to the bus stop because they would have to walk on a main road and there was more traffic. Our children have to walk on the road up to the main road. You know it only takes one car to hit someone. What is right for one should be right for all.

A number of people told us not to go to the school board because they would not help us, it would only be taken out on our children later for voicing our opinion. Let's hope that's only half true. Now how would they be helping my child or yours if that was the case?

Even if the parents took turns going down to the end of the street, no one has a car large enough to hold all the children. In the bad and cold weather who is to determine which child stands out and which child gets in.

Mr. Staggs did say there would be signs posted, but what will they read "Bus Stop Example Children" or "Bus Stop Freezing Children"?

We felt our complaint was important and not unjust. The only answer we got was "You can't make us, we don't have to." Let's just hope and pray nothing happens to any of the children, be it here or any bus stop, before the board really understands what our concerns were all about.

Mrs. Larry Smith

Kerosene

VENT-FREE KEROSENE ROOM HEATER

All the heat, none of the hassle, 40% to 50% savings in fuel costs with gas.

The more you compare the compact new natural gas room heaters with kerosene models, the more sense a natural gas unit makes.

If you have natural gas service in your home, it offers the vent-free "zone" comfort you need for an add-on room, basement, garage or other hard-to-heat space. And it offers the comfort with unique 99.9% efficiency and economy.

Compare for yourself.

You'll find that a natural gas heater saves you as much as a half in fuel costs over kerosene. And the fuel is automatically available. It doesn't have to be brought in, stored or handled at all.

Natural gas is clean heat, too. There's no fuel to mess with. And you'll never have to be concerned about odors or residue.

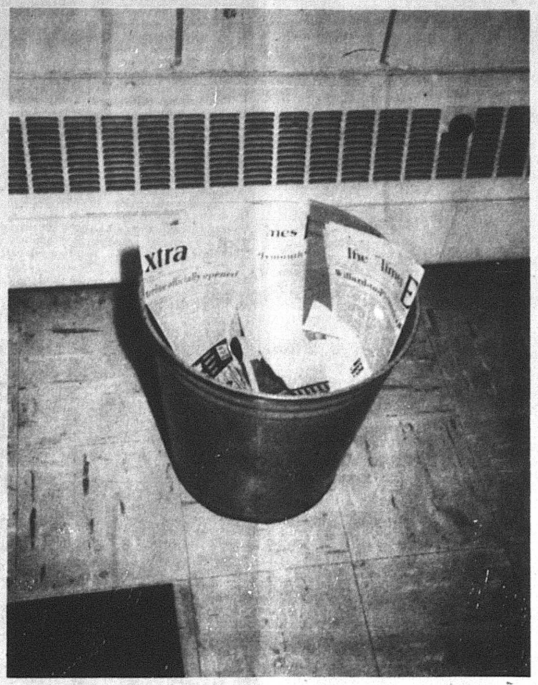

And for safety, a natural gas heater offers a unique, extra cutoff system. An oxygen depletion sensor (ODS) constantly monitors the air. It will automatically shut off the gas flow if the normal (20%) oxygen level in the room ever falls to 18%.

Check into all the features of the new natural gas room heaters. And compare their efficiency and economy with kerosene units.

See the new natural gas room heaters at your Preway dealer, or your nearest Sears Store. Your Columbia Gas office can direct you to dealers near you.

With simple ventless installation, a natural gas room heater can be a quick, easy addition to your home. You'll have the extra "zone" heat you're after — provided with the cleanliness, convenience and economy only natural gas can offer.

In loving memory of our beautiful Grandson Chad whom we lost one year ago November 22.

No further away than a Picture,
A Smile or Remembered Phrase,
Our Darling Grandson Chad live in memory —
So close in so many ways.
For how often does a sunset
Bring beautiful thoughts to mind
Of moments that our Chad shared
In days now left behind!
How often has a Flower
Or a crystal autumn sky
Brought golden recollections
Of happy days gone by!
Memory has a magic way
Of keeping loved ones near —
Ever close in mind and heart
Are the ones (CHAD) we hold most dear.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Right thing, wrong reasons: what's moral?

Huron county commissioners have done the right thing. Perhaps for the wrong reasons.

They have turned down flatly the request by a developer to have issuance of $6.5 million in industrial revenue bonds approvewd by the county so that he can erect an addition to an existing site at Norwalk and construct new retail space worth $3 million and to furbish it for $3.5 million.

The commissioners sent it back to the Norwalk council, which had approved it earlier, 4 to 2.

Presumably, the governing body of the Maple City will wrestle with the details of the funding and make a prompt decision.

What the city of Norwalk does is the business of its residents and citizen-electors. So long as the resources of the remainder of the county are not involved, none of us has any business sticking our noses into the matter. And we shall not do that.

But the commissioners are our commissioners as much as they are Norwalk's. We don't have so many votes as are registered in the Maple City, true, but those of us who have chosen to live outside its boundaries pay our fair share of taxes and are entitled to our fair share of input into the conduct of the commissioners that all Huron countians share equally, despite the fact that come Jan. 1, two of them will be citizen-electors of the county seat.

Matters of this nature are likely to come up again. How should the commissioners be guided?

What they do is, of course, their business. If we don't like it, we can turn them out at the next election.

But these guidelines will, we think, rebound to the benefit of all of the county and meet with the approval of all of its citizens:

1. The county's assistance and ultimately, its credit, should be extended in development matters to enterprises unlikely to compete with what is not extant.

2. Every taxing district wants more ratables. Each school district deeply desires to have a greater manufacturing base with fewer children to educate. Let them compete among themselves. The county should not actively encourage any entrepreneur to choose one among the others.

3. Preference should be shown to proposals that make use of existing road nets, utility services, structures and locations, so far as feasible, unless the entrepreneur is willing to commit himself to pay for construction of new ones.

4. If the commissioners, or anyone in the county's employ, have data relating to the relative competitivbe position of one business district over another, or one location over another, or to any consideration that may result in preference of one against another, those days should be promptly shared with all of the citizenry, on an equal basis, at the same time, to obtain maximum input.

5. Finally, since the request is official, and the pledge of the county to redeem the bonds should the borrower default is equally official and binding, consistent with the practices of the Bureau of the Census, data relating to the ability and willingness of the borrower to meet his obligations here and elsewhere should be shared with the people.

Why not beat drum when you're 82?

How do you celebrate an 82nd birthday anniversary?

It's easy.

You do what you like doing best, play the drums with Wayne Strine's orchestra for a special scholarship dance in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

That is just what former Shilohan Charles Guthrie did Saturday night.

What made it special was that his children were there with a special cake to mark the occasion.

His daughter, Mrs. Edgar Kempf, and her husband, were here from Fairborn and stayed with another daughter, Mrs. John E. Hedeen, and her family, the Harmon Slones came from Shiloh, and his son, Robert, from Shelby.

Water usage averages less than forecast

Consumption of water in the village is averaging much less than what was originally thought needed.

James C. Root, village administrator, attributed this to three factors.

Because of the higher rates, consumers are actively conserving. Faulty meters have been corrected. Leaks have been repaired both in households and in the water distribution system.

In the past usage was as high as 250,000 gallons a day, which was the reason that Plymouth is obtaining water from Willard because the wells could not produce that much.

In August a daily average of 160,000 gallons was pumped. In September, it was 163,000, in October 114,000 and so far this month the daily average is 127,000.

Four 'Jaws' gifts noted

Memorial contributions for Donald E. Akers to the Jaws of Life fund of the Plymouth fire department have been received from Mr. and Mrs. George Fessenmeyer and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fessenmeyer, Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Harold Mack and Miss Joan Daron have also contributed.

Girls defeat Crestline in opener

Rhonda Branham served 16 and Lisa Daron 12 to lead Plymouth past Crestline in girls' basketball here Monday.

The score was 45 to 29.

The Big Red outshot the visitors from the start and led by 23 to 10 at the half.

Plymouth canned 19 of 45 tries for field goal and half of 14 free throws. The big Red was charged with 42 turnovers.

Red reserves prevailed, 21 to 19.

No bonds of county for Norwalk

By unanimous vote, Huron county commissioners turned back to Norwalk's council the question of funding a proposed $6.5 million shopping mart adjoining K Mart in Route 250, Norwalk.

Developers said they will apply to the council for the funding.

Girl, 16, held after collision at Shelby

A 16-year-old Plymouth girl was charged with failure to halt for a stop sign at Shelby Nov. 16.

Sheena R. Tash was westbound in South street and went through a stop sign, colliding with the rear of a vehicle driven by Jeanette Spangler, 50, Taylortown road, which was turned around by the impact.

Utz purchases Willet lot with building

Lot 41, in the east side of Sandusky street, has been sold by Mrs. Donald J. Willet to Richard Utz, Huron county recorder reports.

Cable TV contract extended to 2001

A 15-year extension on the contract between the village and Continental Cablevision of Ohio, Inc., was authorized Tuesday night by village council.

At the urging of Councilman Keith Hebble, who heads the rules committee, which had studied the problem, the council saw no alternative.

During the lengthy discussion before the ordinance approving the extension was passed, Hebble admitted the threat of the company to withhold its new programming had only been made verbally and not put into writing.

Councilman John E. Hedeen said Continental's threats of not extending the new service to Plymouth users could be a "lot of hot air".

Councilman Terry Hopkins pointed out that it is a private service that need not be subscribed to like a utility, and it is up to the people to make their own decisions.

Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, cautioned the council that the present contract has five more years to go and perhaps another company will show an interest in furnishing such a service.

Hopkins said perhaps in five years no one would have to subscribe to such a service, but "simply go out and buy the equipment rather cheaply."

Hebble continued to recommend the contract be extended plus a three per cent annual franchise payment to the village.

He also said Continental had assured him that serving the whole village is being planned. Now some areas are without it.

An ordinance was also passed to adjust the salary of the income tax director.

She is now being paid $5,200, with extra compensation allotted under the clerk-treasurer's salary.

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, the incumbent, will now be paid $6,240. The ordinance, however, does not say if the adjustment is retroactive, or in immediate effect as of Tuesday night, when it was passed as an emergency measure.

Hedeen said the finance committee is working closely with the clerk-treasurer to prepare an appropriation ordinance for 1983.

Mayor Dean A. Cline thinks a special meeting should be called so the council has a chance to review and discuss it before it is presented for passage.

John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, said if the council takes action by the second meeting in December, there will be time enough to allow the councilmen to study it.

Hebble complimented the solicitor on his legwork in getting representatives of the Chessie system to meet with the council committee.

He said they were most cooperative and are studying the problem. They have recommended the safe load should be raised to 15 tons, which is three more tons than the village thinks is proper.

Another suggestion Chessie came forth with was that there is a possibility of 80 per cent federal money available for replacing it, and that it would pay the other 20 per cent, providing from then on, the village takes responsibility for it completely.

KATHY HORNE

12th grader to vie for Junior Miss '83

A 17-year-old Plymouth High school 12th grader will seek tomorrow at Willard to become Miss Junior Miss of 1983.

Kathy Horne, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Horne and granddaughter of Mrs. Sadie Robertson, is one of 12 Huron county competitors. The event is sponsored by Willard JayCees.

Winner will compete at Mt. Vernon Feb. 4-5 for the right to enter the national finals at Mobile, Ala., later.

What to do with turkey leftovers? Here's a new casserole recipe

By AUNT LIZ

Hopefully you will manage to save a little bit of turkey because there are so many happy ways to perk it up.

This came from a kind gal who helped with a luncheon I went to a few years ago in a Norwalk church.

All you need is two cups of diced turkey, and if you ate it all, chicken will also work.

Dice two cups of celery then saute it a bit.

Mix it with two cups of either cooked noodles or rice, one and a half cups of real mayonnaise, and a tablespoon of instant onions; actually you can saute real onions with the celery and kind of guess how much.

Pour into a 9 x 13 baking dish.

It's the topping which really makes it. Mix a cup of crushed cornflakes with a half cup of slivered almonds and two tablespoons of melted butter. Spread over the top and bake until golden less than an hour at 350.

It will serve almost 10, maybe only five if they are still in th growing stage and can be made ahead of time and simply popped into the oven.

No wonder the holiday season is not too good for restaurants when there are so many tasty things to do at home.

We have an interesting study, month by month, of various businesses.

Most of the retail business pak about now except for restaurants and bars. Their busy time is in July when it is too hot to cook.

I was realy surprised at the figures, but then this is the time you ask people to your house.

That is, everyone really does except the Swiss.

They are nice, but strange. When we lived there, we met some lovely ones and actually went back and forth for dinner with our neighbors, and you learned in a hurry that you leave your shoes outside the door, no dirty rugs for them.

They were ordinary people like us with young children. In fact we got to know them through the kindergarten.

But then we also had to deal with some who were plain rich — rich enough to return a dinner invitation by taking us to a plosh eating place we would not attempt ourselves. They, also, did not want to mess up their houses even through they had maids like mad to clean up.

So when someone invites you, relish it even if you really do not like them too much. They are doing something nice.

Just once in all these years in Ohio did we have a bad experience. I had met a lovely couple, a little older than we were, and said let's ask them to dinner. We did, they accepted, and I scrounged around for two more whom I thought would go together nicely, a widow and a widower. The last two came on time, after a while I called to see when the other two were coming.

The answer really floored me — we just aren-t going to be able to make it. This was about seven. Then I discovered they started drinking before noon, and no way could they get to our house.

We had a nice dinner and enough left over for the next day.

Now I can look back and laugh about it since both are gone, but I was spitting mad that night.

Sheriff's deputy — Pistol-packin' mama suspended

A ruckus in a Norwalk bar involving a part-time Monroeville patrolman has resulted in the five day suspension without pay of his wife, a Huron county sheriff's deputy.

Mrs. Lou Ann Gatton was accused by Sheriff John Borgia of wielding a gun while her husband, Rick, was engaged in a shouting match with a customer of the Maple Tree Lounge at 84 Whittlesey avenue in the county seat.

No shots were fired. The weapon was apparently not aimed at anyone.

Uhe suspension, Borgia said, was meted out because Mrs. Gatton violated a department rule: No firearms may be carried by an officer of the department when socializing in a place where alcoholic beverages are served or consumed.

The incident occurred early Nov. 21.

Borgia said the gun belongs to Patrolman Gatton, not the deputy.

Police Chief Jerry Christopher at Monroeville says he was told Gatton didn't handle the weapon but gave it to someone else, not to his wife. Gatton has been verbally chided.

Small industry shows interest, Root reports

A small industry shows interest in a site on village-owned land surrounding the water plant, James C. Root, village administrator, told village council last week.

What type it would be he did not say, except that about 20 persons might be hired.

Friday he reported it to the council finance committee, saying that if the industry does move in, the village would be liable to install a sewer line that could hook into the interceptor line which runs in the east side of Route 61.

Water and electric lines would also have to be installed.

One problem in faced by anyone moving into the site. It is that the access road to the ster plant is owned by the Donnenwirth family. The village has a long-standing easement to use the roadway.

Root said there is a possibility of trading some village land on the east side of the railroad tracks for the roadway.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

A second judge at Norwalk?

Whether Huron county will get another common pleas judge is a question that has simmered on the fire for a long time.

The accession of Richard Rench to the seat in the General Assembly that speaks for Huron and Crawford counties means, apparently, that the issue that previously obtained the support of Mrs. Tansey, when she spoke for Huron county, and Senator Pfeifer, who then as now speaks for Huron county, will be vitiated if not eroded.

Elected on a platform of economy, Rench simply says he doesn't think a second judgeship is economic. But he admits he hasn't alked to the judges involved.

Rench thinks some of the load of the common pleas judge can be assumed by the probate and juvenile judge. He admits he hasn't talked at length with either judge about the matter, and acknowledges that he could change his mind. Which is as it should be, and which is why he was elected.

The senator, perhaps a bit more cautious, having already been buffeted by the thrusts of the General Assembly, says he wants to touch base with the commissioners and the judges as well as the county bar association to be sure that a second judgeship is what everyone wants.

As a lawyer himself, the senator may find that the support of the bar association is not so useful as he or we imagine. The state has only lately taken from the hands of the county bar the uestion of discipline of its members, a much more severe blow than any that Larry Holmes delivered to the poor Texan Friday night.

The people are entitled to swift and sure justice. Maneuvering by attorneys is customary. Wearing down the opposition by delaying the engagement is a common ploy. And the people should recognize this. But it is their duty to provide the administrative forces sufficient to prevent abuse of the practice. A judge and a courtroom should always be ready within a reasonable time for the swift and sure discharge of justice.

How many judges? How many courtrooms? Where and at what cost? That's what we elect commissioners for. The law is drawn so that the controllers of the purse strings – the commissioners – can influence the administration of justice, up to a point. We wouldn't have it any other way.

But the simmering of the pot has gone on long enough. The people are entitled to a decision. The commissioners and the judges should give it their best shot. And despite the arguments of Hiram Rickover that confidentiality of negotiation has merit, this is a matter that cries for public input from the word go.

EAS to Willard to be delayed until June, 1984

Extended area service to Willard's telephone exchange will be in effect in June, 1984, General Telephone Co. representatives told village council Nov. 23.

They said that so far $130,000 has been spent on the inside equipment of the Plymouth exchange and $50,000 has been spent on outside gear.

More expenditures, about $21,000, are anticipated here on the outside equipment.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore asked particulars of a new federal regulation about telephone users owning their own instruments.

He was assured those which had been installed by the company would continue to be maintained and serviced.

How long this will continue is problemattical, because of competition, the representatives said.

Shelbian to head Masons here

Billy Wright, Shelby, will be installed Tuesday at Shiloh as worshipful master of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM.

Max A. Caywood, a past master, will be the installing officer.

Other officers to be installed are Herbert Caudill, senior warden; Bobbie Pugh, junior warden; John T. Dick, treasurer; Norman B. McQuown, secretary; Thomas Adams, senior deacon; Curtis Roth, junior deacon;

Also, Robert Baldwin, senior steward; Joseph August, junior steward; Wayne H. Strine, chaplain; Carl Armstrong and G. Thomas Moore, trustees.

Caudill will serve as education officer.

Ex-USPO chief here assigned

Formerly officer-in-charge of Plymouth post office, Lawrence E. Dunson is the new postmaster at Navarre.

He served here after Raymond L. Brooks retired and before Mrs. Ruth A. Pittenger was appointed.

No pay raises figured in —

$1,134,610 earmarked for '83 by finance committee

Based on income of $1,391,064 from all sources, appropriations for 1983 will allow for expenditures of $1,134,610 and a year-end balance in all funds of $256,454.

These data are reflected in tentative appropriations approved by the finance committee Friday.

They do not take into account any pay raises.

The council has discussed a pay raise for employees of the utilities and street departments and one for the village adminstrator, but has taken no action. The raise is 25 cents an hour for the former and $1,000 a year for the latter.

Police Chief Robert Conley is requesting pay raises for the police department that would total $10,432 over the figures of the clerk, which are $102,900 to run the department next year. This year's figure is $101,200.

Conley wants his salary raised from $17,600 to $21,500, that of the position of police captain from $15,500 to $18,00 and that of senior patrolman from $15,00 to $17,000.

He is also recommending that one dispatcher be raised from $6,968 to $8,000 and the second from $8,000 to $9,500.

A fourth police officer would be paid $14,000 and would eliminate some part-time positions.

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, tax administrator, requests her salary be raised to $8,175 plus $400 she is entitled to in longevity pay. This would represent 1,500 hours annually at $5.45 an hour.

Clerk John Fazzini's figure's show he has estimated it would cost $12,765 to run the department in 1983. This would reflect her present salary of $6,300 annually.

He also included a projected figure in it of refunds totalling about $5,000. This is withholding money paid by employers plus estimated quarterly payments by individuals whose income might have been less in 1982 than had been estimated. Income tax revenues for 1983 are estimated at $70,000.

The cemetery's budget is pegged at $32,500, as its board has recommended. No provision is made for purchase of additional land.

Councilman Roy Barber said he understands the board is contemplating an additional two mill levy in November, 1983, to run for three years, to help purchase the adjoining Hutchinson property.

Trustees of Mary Fate park will have a budget of $7,500. They are requesting an additional $2,500 for improvements, notably new play equipment for children.

The finance committee, Councilman John Hedeen, Keith Hebble and Barber, seemed to consider it a reasonable request.

Fazzini said he has been informed the village will receive federal revenue sharing funds in the amount of $15,165, which is considerably more than in the past. This year's sum was just less than $10,000.

James C. Root, village administrator, said the street and state highway funds are in good shape.

Streets are budgeted at $42,000 for 1983 and the highways at $7,200

He told the committee the Department of Transportation is planning to resurface Route 603 from the corporation line to the Square and that Route 61 is scheduled for 1984. The village will pay a small share of each.

It is hoped the council will take action on the proposed appropriations at Tuesday's meeting.

Unemployment reaches 20.6 per cent

Not everything is coming up roses, but unemployment in Huron county is blooming steadily.

Figures for October show that 20.6 per cent of employable persons is not working. The figure has risen steadily since May, when it was 16 per cent, among the highest in the state. It had by then dropped from January, when

Two charges against Richard Poth, Shiloh, were continued from the Nov. 23 mayor's court until Tuesday's court.

He is charged with assault and aggravated menacing.

Danny R. Hughes, Shelbz, pleaded guilty to having improper license plates and was fined $30.

John Bammerline, Mansfield, charged with speeding, paid a waiver of $14, and Donald Young, Shelby, also charged with speeding paid a waiver of $13.

Santa sets first visit Saturday

Santa Claus will arrive officially at noon Saturday, riding in a Plymouth fire engine throughout the village.

Santa Claus and his dog, Beowulf, made a short stop Friday evening on the Square to help light the tree with two-year-old Tiffany, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Dean A. Cline.

The ceremony was well attended by those who wanted to see him, and they did not mind that a faulty electrical connection failed, and the tree did not light up.

Gifts recorded

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tackett contributed in memory of Donald E. Akers, and Mr. and Mrs. Elden Burkett in memory of George Farnwalt.

Try wine jelly recipe for treat during holiday season

By AUNT LIZ

There isn't too much time left until you-know-when.

So get going and start making little things that will come in handy as last minute remembrances.

Somehow this summer we made jelly like mad, even picked our own berries, and somehow there isn't much left.

While hunting for one thing, I found one of the best recipes we ever had, which was in a pamphlet from the gas and electric company in New Jersey.

It's wine jelly, cheap and easy. It's been a long time since we have made it and when I did, we used grape wine, but you can use any kind except the stuff that you want to save to drink or serve to guests. Just buy the cheapest, no matter what color, but when it is ready to pour into glasses and seal, add a little of the right colored food coloring.

Mix two cups of wine with three cups of sugar in a double boiler, stir until the sugar is dissolved, remove and add a half bottle of pectin.

That's it. Put it in small jars since a little of it at the crack of dawn on toast can go a long way.

I was searching for another recipe because someone asked if I still had it, and never, never do we throw out a good one.

This is something else I have not made in years, but the year it was given to me, I practically had a going business of making it, and I didn't give it away.

We ate it. That was when we had growing kids who considered cake no good if it were a day old.

It's for Gumdrop Fruitcake without fruit. It is good sized and sturdy and should be baked in an angel food pan (that is another idea for a present, it is surprising how many young housewives do not own such a pan), but there is no reason why it can't be divided up and baked in little loaf pans to give away.

Cream a cup of margarine with two cups of sugar. Add four eggs, one at a time.

Measure three and a half cups of flour, and dissolve a teaspoon of baking soda in a half cup of buttermilk.

Add alternately to the creamed mixture.

Have ready some chopped dates, about a half pound, two cups of nuts, a pound of cut-up gumdrops, no black ones. Actually I used oranges slices instead of a mixture of the gumdrops.

Toss them with a little flour and a small can of coconut, and mix in.

It will take almost two and a half hours in a large pan to bake, probably less in smaller ones at 250.

It can be lightly frosted or a glaze of a small can of concentrated orange, undiluted, mixed with two cups powdered sugar pour on when still warm so it sinks in.

Ex-coach of Trojans resigns

By THE OLD TIMER

Long-standing fans of Western conference football (Western conference is its official name; others may call it the Big 10, but its bank account is drawn in the name of Western conference) will be saddened by the death of Benny Friedman, a New York boy who played for Michigan in 1923, 1924 and 1925 and made all-American each year. His coach, the famed Fielding "Hurry Up" Yost, labelled Friendman is "one of the best quarterbacks the game has ever produced."

He was the first professional player of note ever seen in the flesh by the O. T. Friedman played for the New York Giants back when Ken Strong was a rookie.

Allen (Bud) Ratliff, who formerly coached at South Central, has turned in his suit as head football coach at Bucyrus after four seasons, during which his record was 10-29-1. He says he may also resign his teaching job, which is in the field of occupational work experience.

Pat Mrozowski, the 32-year-old head coach at Columbia, a frequent opponent of Firelands conference schools, including Monroeville and Plymouth, quit at Columbia Station after after two seasons, during which he was 10-9-2. Formerly track coach in John Carroll university at Cleveland, he will pursue a master's degree in Kent State university. His team won the Inland conference in 1981. He said he resigned early enough so that a successor can be appointed promptly and he can get going on a weight program.

Formerly a star running back and linebacker at Plymouth, Jim Wallace completed his intercollegiate career with selection to the all-Hoosier-Buckeye conference team as linebacker for Wilmington college, where his coach was Dr. William Ramseyer, former head coach at Plymouth in 1961 and 1962. The Quakers qualified for the NAIA Division OO playoffs but were beaten by Westminster college in Pennsylvania.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ex-pupil sides with Mrs. Smith

Sir:

BRAVO!. Mrs. Larry Smith! You said it all! The school board members don't have to stand out in freezing weather waiting for a bus. And I speak from experience. I had to walk a ways every day while in Junior high and high school. My parents and I talked to the head of buses, principals and the superintendent and nobody would do anything about it! We didn't even go to the school board because we knew they'd ignore us too! You can bet your sweet petunias they wouldn't be caught standing and freezing their tusnes off! In the winter, you never know how long you'll be waiting, especially if something happens to the bus or it hits a ditch or whatever! On certain occasions, I had to wait a half an hour or longer. So I know what it feels like, and believe me, it's nothing like a rose garden!

O. K., school board, think of the kids! Not about yourselves, costs or any thing else! Why wait for something to happen before you change your mind? THINK ABOUT IT! What would you do if they were your own kids?

Peggy Strohm

Funds short, Salvation Army unit reports

Because of the meager return of last year's Community Chest drive and none this year, money of the Salvation Army reserved for local use has hit its lowest level.

The committee has been able to help in a small way with foodstuffs this year.

Persons who need help over the holiday season should call local churches, which have been trying to keep shelves stocked for emergencies.

If that is not wishes, Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., local chairman, may be called. Every attempt will be made by her to see what can be furnished.

Persons living in Shiloh should call the United Way in Mansfield since its fund drive covers the Shiloh area.

Unemployment

it hit 19.2 per cent.

Lorain, Crawford and Adams counties are the only others with a higher rate.

Part of the rise may be caused by plants closing for the end of the year to take inventories, although the holiday season traditionally is when retailers put on extra help. This they do not appear to be doing this year.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Alms and man: what's right?

At a time when we all should pull together, there are some things that are pulling us apart.

During December, the most serious of these is the perception of ingratitude.

The stories are as long as your arm.

Consider:

"My union sent me a basket because I'm laid off. I've found some part-time work and my neighbor is a lot worse off then I, because his unemployment has run out. So I took the basket to him. His wife complainted that the potatoes were fresh and she'd have to peel and cook them, whereas she prefers instant potatoes. He objected because there wasn't any beer nor cigarettes in the box. I brought the box home."

"I saw three little kids on a cold morning without boots. I had some boots in my place so I put them on the children and sent them off to school. Two days later, I saw the same children, without any boots at all. I asked why. 'My sister is wearing my boots today', said the first. Fair enough. 'I don't like red boots', said the second. 'My daddy says if you want me to have boots, give him the money and he'll go out and buy me new boots'."

Perhaps such matters should be left to organized charities, such as the Salvation Army. Hereabouts, the Army is represented by folks who're neighbors of ours, whose sensibilities are raised by such conduct even as those of the rest of us.

Does he who offers alms have a right to expect gratitude?

Perhaps not. We are a proud people. Many of us simply do not wish to countenance the necessity of accepting assistance of others. "I got this far on my own," we seem to say, "and I'll get to my grave that way."

It is no sin to be in want. It is a sin to be in want by misconduct or mismanagement. And it is a terrible sin to be callous about alms, to be ungrateful, to spit upon the decent human emotion and sensibility that delivers the alms.

But it is equally a terrible sin to expect the recipients of alms to grovel, to acknowledge eternal debt, to accept public expressions of pity. And the sin is compounded when those alms (we use the word generically, to cover a multitude of kinds of assistance, specifically encompassing moral, manual and spiritual help) are extended only during the holiday season.

Consider the septuagenarian, enfeebled by age and/or illness, striving to make ends meet on meagre resources, often only social security or an old age pension check. That person requires moral and manual and spiritual assistance throughout the year, probably none of it costing much in actual money but worth a small fortune in timeliness, in essential support of a deserving person, and in the simple expression of decent neighborliness.

"But what," some say, "about kids, who didn't ask to be here and need help?"

He who can solve this question has the answer to much of what ails us: the enormous amounts of money we spend on ADC and on social welfare and other agencies to deal with the problems created by one parent families.

"Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for such is the kingdom of Heaven" is what it says in the Good Book.

A rule of thumb which applies to us, and to us alone: be sure the kids are deserving, and give what kids need, not parents.

Do old soldiers ever die? Or do they just fade away?

By AUNT LIZ

Something has been nagging at me for weeks.

Frankly, I do feel guilty. Because I refused to do anything about it.

I belong to a friendly group of women who help all over the countryside, nation-wide, I might add.

Locally, one member said, "Let us send little things to the Sailors and Soldiers Home in Sandusky."

Some members brought toothpaste, razor blades and stuff like that.

Let us face facts. Certainly they are all veterans from this war or that.

So are we and just about everyone we know.

Right now our bathroom needs a new tube of toothpaste and some soap. And so far no one has given it to us.

Why are most of those men there? Anyone can tell you. For the most part their families want nothing to do with them because of what might have happened in the past.

One member spoke up at that meeting. She had run a travel agency near the home and said many times they would come in to inquire about a ticket here or there.

Money was not a problem, but would they be welcome once they got there?

Those men are living on good pensions with their everyday needs taken care of. No scrounging grocery stores for food, it is served to them.

So there they are with healthy incomes. And where do they spend it? In the local bars, which have to be gold mines.

I really and truly do not think they are real confirmed drinkers, they go there for the companionship, just like Archie Bunker's place.

The state is now going to require some of them to start paying a fee for being in the home, and no way is that going to cut into their drinking habits and have them miss any happy hour anywhere, with people they like.

Once we had a sad case of an elderly veteran without a home. He slept here and there and one night the patrolman saw a snowbank where he did not think there should be one. Underneath was our friend Mike, passed out and covered up.

About 10 telephone calls later, we got Sandusky to accept him. He went via the police cruiser and was back in about four hours via a hired cab. You can imagine what that cost. He was independent and wouldn't stay.

The best thing any of us can do in this age is to give to our kids and friends. It's the little extras and luxuries that count, like a good jar of mustard that can be out of an ordinary budget. Our daughter says Dijon makes the big difference on a bologna sandwich. And don't under estimate a small can of spice.

They are great stocking gifts.

If you feel the urge to make something, try peanut brittle.

In a skillet mix a cup of white corn syrup with two cups of sugar and a half cup of water. Cook until the soft ball stage.

Then add two cups of raw peanuts. Stir and cook to about 301 on a candy thermometer. Stir in one and a half tablespoons of butter, a tablespoon or so of vanilla and two teaspoons of soda.

Pour this into a greased cookie sheet and as it cools stretch it out. When it has cooled, take a large hammer and gently knock it into pieces.

A daughter, Amy Elizabeth, weighing 5 lb., 10 ozs., was born Nov. 30 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Paul McClintock. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beveridge, Kent. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClintock, Garrettsville.

A son, their second child, Brian James, weighing 8 lb., 3½ ozs., was born Nov. 30 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. James Shuty, Shelby. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binion, Shelby. Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Shuty are the paternal grandparents.

A daughter, their fourth child, Julianne, weighing 8 lb., 15½ ozs., was born Nov. 18 in Marion General hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Neff. The father is a former head basketball coach here. Mrs. Neff was a teacher at Shiloh.

Northmor's rebounding leads to 77 to 51 win over Big Red

Northmor outrebounded Plymouth, 44 to 22, and outshot the Big Red there Saturday night to win its fourth straight game without defeat.

The score was 77 to 51. Plymouth led after eight minutes, 18 to 15, but came apart in the second period.

Northmor outscored the Northmor outscored the visitors by 15 in the second quarter, by four in the third and by 10 in the last.

Once again, it was a metter of two excellent players with experience and poise that spelled Plymouth's downfall.

These were Barry Neumeister, who scored 30, and John Loyer, who bagged 21. Loyer fouled out.

Northmor shot splendidly on its own floor. The Golden Knights got off 57 tries for field goal and converted 27 of them. They missed only six of 29 free throws.

Plymouth got off fewer shots, 56, and was much less successful, converting only 22 of them.

It was at the foul line that Plymouth was so badly beaten. The Big Red was afforded 14 free throws and made half of them. Only one free throw was awarded in the first half and only four in the fourth peiod. Meanwhile, Northmor had seven shots in the second period, 11 in the third, 10 of which were successful, and 11 in the final eight minutes, of which eight were made.

Save for the first quarter, when Plymouth got off 15 shots at the basket and made nine, Plymouth was clearly outplayed.

Northmor made more mistakes, 17 to 14, but the difference hardly affected the outcome.

Mike McKenzie had 14, Rodney Hampton 12 and Greg Polachek 13 for the Big Red.

Plymouth used nine players and seven of them scored.

Girls fall to Edison in loop play

Plymouth girls took a one point lead off the floor here Nov. 30 but Edison came on strongly in the second half and the Big Red went down to defeat, 44 to 32, in its first Firelands conference girls' game ever.

Coach Brad Ream blamed the defeat, in part, at least, on the loss of Lisa Daron in the first period. She was injured in the foot.

When she hobbled to the bench, Plymouth led by 10 to 4.

The Big Red was in the van at 17 to 16 at the half.

The Chargerettes then capitalized on some Plymouth turnovers and forged a 21 to 17 advantage. Then the visitors added two buckets and Plymouth was eight points behind with 5:14 remaining in the third quarter.

Even a timeout didn't help. Plymouth cut the lead and went into the final eight minutes trailing by 33 to 25. Edison outscored Plymouth by four in the fourth period.

Plymouth outshot Edison from the floor, by percentage, but the Chargerettes bagged 17 field goals, Plymouth only 13.

Plymouth committed 33 turnovers.

Edison outrebounded the Big Red, 32 to 23.

Clyde outguns Plymouth

Clyde outshot and outrebounded Plymouth there Friday night and walked away with a lopsided 92 to 63 victory.

Plymouth never was a factor.

The Fliers jumped off to a 6 to 0 lead and never looked back. They led at every stop and produced the high scorer in Marc Streeter, who wound up with 38 points.

The new Clyde coach kept his hods on the floor long after the outcome was sealed. Some Plymouth fans wondered what he was seeking to prove, since Clyde does not play Plymouth again this season, perhaps never again.

The Fliers took down 52 rebounds, thanks mostly to the height of Joe Wilken, the giant center. Clyde's starting five outmeasured Plymouth's by 18 inches.

That Clyde should outshoot an opponent on its home floor and before a home crowd was to be expected. But the Fliers did better than par for the course. They got off 74 tries for field goal and were successful with 37 of them, more than two-thirds of them from within four feet of the basket.

The Fliers, for example, bagged 12 of 32 tries in the first half, against 11 of 35 for Plymouth. In the third quarter, Clyde really poured it on, 13 of 20 against four of 16.

Clyde was charged with 16 turnovers, Plymouth with 17.

The better shooting and superior rebounding resulted in the victory, as indeed they do in every game.

Clyde had three other players in double figures, headed by Terry Miracle with 16. The Fliers missed only five of 23 free throws. Plymouth missed 11 of 30.

Before he fouled out late in the going, Greg Polachek contributed 15 points to the Red cause. Three others got into double figures, headed by Craig Thornsberry with 11.

Despite a 20-point performance by Jeff Lasch, who was socked with an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty on the last play of the game, Big Red reserves were defeated, 45 to 36.

Plymouth lost it at the foul line, where Clyde outshot the visitors, 15 to 8. The teams were even in field goals at 14.

Still, there are those who would limit, or stop the right of the nation's merchants to speak to the American public.

Let's stay alert.

Notice of Application of General Telephone Company of Ohio for Increases and Adjustments in Rates and Charges

Pursuant to the requirements of Section 4909.19 of the Ohio Revised Code, General Telephone Company of Ohio hereby gives notice that on October 1, 1982, it filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio an application (PUCO Docket No. 82-886-TP-AIR) for authority to increase and adjust its rates and charges for telecommunications service and to change its regulations and practices affecting the same.

This notice contains the substance and prayer of the application. However, any interested party desiring complete detailed information with respect to all affected rates, charges, regulations and practices should inspect a copy of the application and all attached schedules at the office of the Commission, 375 South High Street, Columbus, Ohio. A copy of the application may be inspected by any interested party at the office of the General Telephone Company of Ohio located at 100 Executive Drive, Marion, Ohio. A copy of the application and the proposed tariff sheets are also available for inspection during normal business hours at any public business office or Phone Mart of General Telephone Company of Ohio. In addition, the proposed tariffs were mailed to the mayors and legislative authorities of all municipalities served by the company on June 29, 1982, as part of the company's notification of its intent to file.

This application affects rates and charges for telecommunications services to all customers of General Telephone Company of Ohio, provided pursuant to its Exchange Rate Tariff, P.U.C.O. No. 6, and General Exchange Tariff, P.U.C.O. No. 7.

Any person, firm, corporation or association may file, pursuant to Section 4909.19 of the Ohio Revised Code, objections to the proposed increases and adjustments in rates and charges, and to the proposed changes in regulations and practices affecting the same. The objections may allege that such application contains proposals that are unjust and discriminatory or unreasonable. Recommendations which differ from the application may be made by the staff of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio or by intervening parties and may be adopted by the Commission.

Usage Sensitive Service

The company is proposing a limited introduction of nonoptional Usage Sensitive Service in Huron, Ohio. Usage Sensitive Service is a billing system that lets the customers pay for what they use. Under the plan, the customer would pay a substantially lower monthly service or "access" charge for the local telephone service. Additional charges will be based upon the type and number of local calls made, the hour, day of the week and duration of each call, as well as the distance to the called party.

Paystation Telephone Service

The company proposes to increase the paystation rate from $.20 to $.25. The concept of a flat rate for semi-public paystation service will not change. The existing credit against the flat rate for coin-in-box revenues generated will be discontinued.

Late Payment Charge

The company proposes a late payment charge of 1.25% on the unpaid balance to be applied on the customer's bill.

Private Line/Interexchange Mileage

The company is proposing to increase its private line-/interexchange mileage charges.

Centrex Service

The company proposes to increase its rates for Centrex Services.

Touch Call Line Charges

The touch call line charges will remain the same; however, the company is proposing a monthly instrument charge of $.75.

Personal Signaling Service

The company is proposing increases on personal signaling services.

Repair Visit Charge

The company is proposing to partially remove the premise visit cost of maintenance from its local service rates. The charge established will recognize the cost of a repairman making a premise visit in connection with a maintenance call associated with single line telephones.

Extended Area Service Supplemental Rates

The company is proposing an extended area service rate additive applicable only to exchanges filing for new extended area service after the effective date of the tariff.

Miscellaneous Products and Services

Increases in rates and charges are proposed for several of the miscellaneous products and services including:

- increases for special billing number;
- enterprise service;
- maintenance of service charges;
- non-published and emergency non-published service and;
- time announcement service.

Key Telephone and Private Branch Exchange Systems and Equipment

The company proposes increases in trunk rates for key telephone and private branch exchange systems. Proposed rates and charges may be found in the Company's proposed tariff sheets.

The prayer of the application requests the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to do the following:

(a) Find that the company's present rates and charges and the regulations and practices affecting the same are unjust, unreasonable and insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the services rendered;

(b) Find that the rates and charges and regulations and practices proposed are just and reasonable and will provide not more than a fair and reasonable rate of return on the value of the company's property actually used and useful for the convenience of the public;

(c) Approve the filing of the proposed schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-1 of the application, modified to reflect such revisions thereof as may become effective, pursuant to orders of the Commission, during the interim between the filing of the application and the date upon which the schedule sheets become effective;

(d) Order that the proposed schedule sheets become effective forthwith;

(e) Approve the withdrawal of the present schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-2 of the application;

(f) Grant such other and further relief as the company is reasonably entitled to in the premises.

The form of this notice has been approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

A failure

It is rate that we agree with the Ohio Education association. This time we do so with no reluctance: the new state minimum standards enacted by the General Assembly are a cruel joke.

They do not come to grips with the real problems.

Consider: One million of the nation's college freshmen, about 40 per cent of the class, read and write so poorly that they take remedial classes.

These classes are costing millions of dollars, $32 million in the state-supported City University of New York alone.

The situation is so serious, a conference in Chicago, Ill., was told Dec. 7, every college applicant should be tested for grammar, reading and writing.

The problem, college instructors say, is that high schools don't assign enough homework and rely on "fill-in-the-blanks" tests, which won't develop writing.

"Everybody is embarrassed," says University of Texas's Dr. John Roueche.

But without change, he said, "colleges will be in the remedial business for 20 years".

How did Ohio's legislature fall down?

It didn't require a fourth year of English.

It assigned the testing of pupils to once between grades one and four, once between grades five through eight, and once between grades nine through 11. What's more, the testing is to be organized, prepared and executed by those whose efforts are to be measured by the testing, the teaching staff of the individual school. Which is about the same as assigning Willie Sutton to lock the bank vault.

It dictated new standards that will cost some districts more money than they have now but didn't appropriate any money to do it.

H'ray, ladies!

The comely young women who lead the cheering (it's Christmastime, and one must be charitable, so please, no remarks about "What cheering?") have, good naturedly but nevertheless persistently, plagued us about the paucity of publicity accorded their efforts.

They know what is the standing attitude of this newspaper toward cheerleading. Some of them know that the management of this newspaper raised a cheerleader, broke bread with her, wiped her tears and praised her efforts, and is so proud of her and her family it's about to explode. Despite these facts, the attitude toward cheerleading hasn't changed one whit.

The young women have been told, "Do something splendid and you'll get some publicity!"

On Friday night they earned this accolade.

The cheerleaders were among 14 Plymouth rooters who paid proper obseisance to the flag and to the national anthem. Deduct eight young women from that total and the remainder is six. Six persons who think enough of themselves and of their country to pay proper respect to its flag and its hymn. One of these, we are happy to say, was a member of the school board.

To the leadership of the cheerleaders, whether teacher or pupil, nice work, splendidly done!

Now please take a little time to teach the other knuckleheads what's what, why, and when. And if you need help, just shout!

New industry parleys 'progressing', Root says

Prospect of a new industry here is improving, James C. Root, village administrator, told village council Tuesday night.

He said negotiations for use of a site adjoining the water plant are progressing.

He said he has been consulting with the owners of the roadway from Route 61 over the Chessie system tracks to the water plant and he is asking for 40 feet on each side to allow for the water line, which is in place, and for the installation of a sewer line.

Root said he thinks the matter should now go to a council committee for study.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said it might be wiser to not take any action until the proposed zoning ordinance has been passed.

That ordinance received passage on its second reading and is scheduled for its third and final reading Dec. 28.

Councilman Keith Hebble recommended the village join the Richland Growth association, which will be helpful in attracting industry to Plymouth. The annual fee is about $250. The council passed an emergency ordinance approving the village joining it.

Root recommended the village also join the Richland County Regional Planning commission again. The village had been a member of it for many years and for the last several years had dropped it. He said it has been much more helpful than the North Star council, which the village now belongs to in Huron county.

Councilman Ronald Predieri reported a new weight limitation allows 15 ton rather than three tons over the West Broadway bridge over the Chessie tracks.

Clean-up work has been done by the village at the Walnut street crossing with the railroad's permission.

Root said he has been asked to furnish more figures to John Sawvel, Inc., so that the new electric rate study can be completed. It has requested a special meeting with the council to go over its proposed new rates.

Root urged one be planned because Ohio Power Co.'s new rates will go into effect next month.

The meeting will be Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Hebble proposed a resolution that was passed to allow some village employees to fill out time cards rather than punch the time clock, which has been moved to the village garage.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore asked about the village's salt supply for icy roadways. Root said it is under control and furthermore, the price of salt has dropped.

The mayor said he had received two complaints of unsafe driving by the firemen to reach the fire station during a fire call. Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine was asked to caution them.

Councilman John E. Hedeen requested the council go into executive session to discuss the requests of Police Chief Robert Conley and Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, income director, for pay raises.

Conley wants his department to receive raises that will put the cost of operating the police department to about $115,000 for 1983.

John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, had planned expenditures of $107,000 for the department in his tentative appropriations.

Hedeen, who met with the finance committee Monday, said this will cut into the capital improvement fund, to which 50 per cent of the income tax money is earmarked, even though the other 50 per cent is already set aside for the general fund for police department costs.

Mrs. Rodman new manager of cafeteria

Mrs. Francis Rodman, a veteran cook in Shiloh cafeteria with 24 years of service, was appointed Monday night to succeed Mrs. Robert D. Forsythe, Sr., who is retiring, as manager of the food establishment.

Recommendation of Supt. Douglas Staggs was accepted without dissent by Plymouth Board of Education in regular session.

She will assume the post effective Jan. 1.

Annual reorganization meeting will take place Jan. 3 at 6 p. m.

Mrs. Kim Chronister Nadolsky, an alumna of Plymouth High school who is a certified teacher, was named assistant girls' basketball coach. She will assist Bradley Ream. Mrs. Nadolsky is not a member of the staff but has been substituting in Plymouth and Shiloh Elementary schools.

Other coaching assignments were handed to Richard Roll, assistant wrestling coach (he is also head coach, but will receive the additional pay because the number of candidates is sufficient to man a reserve team) and head softball coach; David P. Dunn, head baseball coach; Keith Diebler, head boys' track and field coach, replacing Douglas A. Dickson; Jerry Julian, assistant boys' track and field coach; Paul McClintock, head girls' track and field coach, and Paul Gase, assistant girls' track and field coach.

As is customary at year's end, the board was occupied with routine administrative matters of a fiscal nature, shuffling money from one fund to another to meet state requirements and to accommodate the computer.

Jeffrey Slauson, high school principal, reported five pupils and one alternate from the 10th grade talented and gifted class will participate in February in an Olympics of the Mind, staged by the county board of education. The team has chosen "Humor from Homer" as its preparation.

He expressed satisfaction that 15 parents attended a coffee hour organized by him to acquaint parents with the program and to encourage establishment of a parent-teacher organization.

High school chorus will carol in the Public Square Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., he said.

Principal Mark Sheely, Plymouth Elementary school, and Principal Edward Kinsel, Shiloh schools, reported the visit of the state inspector seemed to have gone well. Her written report is awaited.

They said parent-teacher conferences were well attended. Sheely said 94 per cent of parents of Plymouth Elementary pupils participated. Kinsel reported 85 per cent of parents of Shiloh pupils took part.

Effect of the impending shortfall in state funds was dwelt upon by Staggs for a brief period. He frankly stated that "politics has so far influenced what is said about school financing and most of what we hear is rumor. Many temporary taxes expire in February. If the General Assembly doesn't reimpose then, we can expect a cut of from one to three per cent in our state funding in the current fiscal year."

A picnic dinner in December? Why not? asks Auntie. It's easy!

By AUNT LIZ

Are you all getting as tired as I am about all the great things you can cook for the holidays?

Sit back and relax a little.

Plan a picnic dinner that you can get ready early in the day.

Hard boil eggs to get them ready to devil. Open a jar of olives and cut up celery and carrot sticks.

Then make a salad, gelatin like.

It is December but you can make it.

Mix a large package of strawberry gelatin with a six ounce package of frozen strawberries with two cups of hot water. Add a can of crushed pineapple, a small one, and about four sliced bananas.

Start half of it out in a large baking dish, 9 x 13.

The next layer is a mixture of two tablespoons of sour cream mixed with an eight ounce package of cream cheese and two tablespoons of mayonnaise and some nuts.

Spread this over the gelatin deal, and add a little milk to help it spread if you think it needs it. Then put the rest of the gelatin on top.

Just chill it until dinner time.

It might be very attractive looking, but it simply is not enough for a meal.

This is more substantial, and left overs can always be eaten.

Buy a cheap roast, boil it, when cool, slice thinly. Combine it with tomato wedges, a couple of large pickles, any flavor will work, a thinly sliced onion and three sliced boiled potatoes. Toss in some chives and tarragon for flavoring.

Then make a dressing of two tablespoons of vinegar, six tablespoons of salad oil, salt, a dash of prepared mustard and a bit of Worcestershire sauce.

Toss it altogether lightly.

Such a Christmas Eve supper will let you have time to sit down and enjoy it all. There just is no need to have stacks of dishes to wash.

And if you are really smart, you will invest in some nice looking holiday plates so you do not have those to wash.

Some people say (mostly you-know-who) that paper napkins are fo the birds on a nicely set table.

They are not. They are great, all sorts of seasonal things about them, and furthermore they do not have to be washed nor ironed. I am all for them.

The American housewife has really lived through a revolution in the last 30 years or so, and how many realize it?

Everyone wants to say everything is going to pot and is horrible. It is not, it is great. We have things today never did our grandmothers even dream about.

They scrubbed out muffin tins like mad, and what do we do, use little paper cups for them which lift out beautifully.

In your prayers thank the Almighty for all of this. I like to think He is up there saying, we have got to make this and that easier for those downtrodden housewives.

Last ditch Charger shot costs Red first conference game

Plymouth played its first Firelands conference game ever here Friday night and came within two seconds of victory.

A shot by Mark Frankboner with two seconds remaining produced a come-from-behind victory for Edison, 58 to 56.

Plymouth resumed a lead that it relinquished early in the first period during the third quarter, when the Big Red outscored the visitors, 15 to 2. Leading by 44 to 38 going into the final eight minutes, Plymouth couldn't control Bryon Reed, who scored 10, and Frankboner, who bagged eight.

The Chargers shot exceptionally well during the first half. That it was a foreign floor that none of them had ever seen before daunted them not a whit. They got off 32 shots at the basket and made 16 of them. They missed just one free throw.

Meanwhile, Plymouth fired for field goal 30 times and was successful 14 times. The Big Red missed four free throws.

Indeed, had Plymouth done better at the foul line, it would have won.

Trailing by seven at the half, Plymouth went to work in the third period. Classically, it has been a poor third quarter team, but this time it was different. The Big Red got off 14 shots and bagged six. Tom Baker, a capable replacement for the retired Jeff Jacobs, who has a severe knee injury, scored six of his 14-point total for the night in the third canto.

It was a bucket by Greg Polachek that gave Plymouth the lead with 3:20 to go in the third quarter. He got a free throw to go with it and the Big Red led at 38 to 36.

Dan Frederick tied it at 38 with 1:41 remaining in the period and then Plymouth went on another rampage, scoring six unanswered points.

Mike McKenzie got a layup after a steal at 1:04 and Baker emerged from an unbelievable melee in Charger territory with the ball and a shot that connected. He added two free throws before the horn blew.

After the two teams exchanged baskets to begin the final period, Edison got two quick buckets, Plymouth countered with one and Edison called for time with 5:09 to go.

McKenzie shot a free throw, Reed flung one in from 19 feet out and Polachek fired one home from under the basket. Frankboner got a rebound at 3:34 and Pat Landoll another at 3:04. Landoll's shot established the Chargers' lead, which they held until McKenzie's free throw with 35 seconds left. He missed the second shot or Plymouth might have won.

With 10 seconds left, the visitors called time out. They regrouped and moved into the forecourt to spring Frankboner loose for the final shot.

Plymouth called its last time out and set up a play that was intended to produce a tie, perhaps even a three point play. But the final shot by Rodney Hampton didn't come close.

Reed concluded his play with 20 points. He is a fine athlete. Frankboner and Landoll had 14 apiece and Frederick 10.

Hampton scored 13, Baker 14 and McKenzie 12 for the Big Red.

Doug Fidler contributed to title for Eagles

Doug Fidler, Shiloh route 1, helped the Ashland college football team to a first place finish in the Heartland conference and an overall 8-3 mark this season.

Under head Coach Fred Martinelli the Eagles were crowned Heartland conference champions after their 17 to 14 victory against St. Joseph in the 10th week of play. The title game decision came with only 55 seconds remaining in the contest, giving the team a HCC record of 6-1 and their first outright championship.

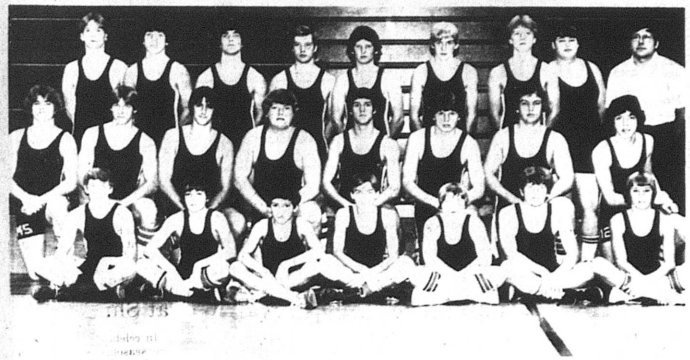

On the campaign, Ashland was nationally ranked 10th among Divison II schools. Fidler was a backup at the tailback position and in being a member of the Ashland offensive side, he aided the team in gaining recognition as one of the top ten colleges in rushing in Division II.

Overall, the team closed out the season with an 8-3 record, producing their most efficient output since 1972 when they finished at 11-0.

Fidler, a sophmore, gained 47 yards on the season and also scored a touchdown. This came in the 56 to 0 rout of Georgetown. Last season in a similar role the 6-1 190 pounder rushed for an 11 yards-a-carry average.

Fidler is an alumnus of South Central High. Among his accomplishments: all-Ohio first team running back, rushing for over 1,500 yards in one of four years he lettered in the sport. He was named the MVP in three sports during his career there and in all won 10 letters.

He is the son of the Earl Fidlers.

Answer by Hesburgh best heard of yet

By THE OLD TIMER

Comes now the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C. S. C., president of the University of Notre Dame, with the soundest solution that we've yet heard in the matter of irregularities in college athletics.

He blames himself and his colleagues, the other university presidents.

He's already on record to this effect: unless other university presidents make a concerted effort to end these irregularities and adopt a code of strict academic standards, Notre Dame will no longer play those universities.

He adds, with some pride, "And if we refuse to play those who won't abide by these standards, the mess will be cleaned up tomorrow morning."

Father Hesburgh, president at South Bend for 30 years, said at the 25th annual banquet of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Dec. 7, "More than 20 institutions of higher learning are presently on NCAA probation for violating rules. There were doctored transcripts. There were credits for courses never taken. There is a long litany of things that have been done that were not right."

Usage Sensitive Service

The company is proposing a limited introduction of nonoptional Usage Sensitive Service in Huron, Ohio. Usage Sensitive Service is a billing system that lets the customers pay for what they use. Under the plan, the customer would pay a substantially lower monthly service or "access" charge for the local telephone service. Additional charges will be based upon the type and number of local calls made, the hour, day of the week and duration of each call, as well as the distance to the called party.

Paystation Telephone Service

The company proposes to increase the paystation rate from $.20 to $.25. The concept of a flat rate for semi-public paystation service will not change. The existing credit against the flat rate for coin-in-box revenues generated will be discontinued.

Late Payment Charge

The company proposes a late payment charge of 1.25% on the unpaid balance to be applied on the customer's bill.

Private Line/Interexchange Mileage

The company is proposing to increase its private line-/interexchange mileage charges.

Centrex Service

The company proposes to increase its rates for Centrex Services.

Touch Call Line Charges

The touch call line charges will remain the same, however, the company is proposing a monthly instrument charge of $.75.

Personal Signaling Service

The company is proposing increases on personal signaling services.

Repair Visit Charge

The company is proposing to partially remove the premise visit cost of maintenance from its local service rates. The charge established will recognize the cost of a repairman making a premise visit in connection with a maintenance call associated with single line telephones.

Extended Area Service Supplemental Rates

The company is proposing an extended area service rate additive applicable only to exchanges filing for new extended area service after the effective date of the tariff.

Miscellaneous Products and Services

Increases in rates and charges are proposed for several of the miscellaneous products and services including:

- increases for special billing number;
- enterprise service;
- maintenance of service charges;
- non-published and emergency non-published service and;
- time announcement service.

Key Telephone and Private Branch Exchange Systems and Equipment

The company proposes increases in trunk rates for key telephone and private branch exchange systems. Proposed rates and charges may be found in the Company's proposed tariff sheets.

The prayer of the application requests the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to do the following:

(a) Find that the company's present rates and charges and the regulations and practices affecting the same are unjust, unreasonable and insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the services rendered;

(b) Find that the rates and charges and regulations and practices proposed are just and reasonable and will provide not more than a fair and reasonable rate of return on the value of the company's property actually used and useful for the convenience of the public;

(c) Approve the filing of the proposed schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-1 of the application, modified to reflect such revisions thereof as may become effective, pursuant to orders of the Commission, during the interim between the filing of the application and the date upon which the schedule sheets become effective;

(d) Order that the proposed schedule sheets become effective forthwith;

(e) Approve the withdrawal of the present schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-2 of the application;

(f) Grant such other and further relief as the company is reasonably entitled to in the premises.

The form of this notice has been approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Income tax chief quits, says pay is too low

Mrs. G. Thomas Moore resigned as village income tax director Saturday night.

An unprecedented Saturday meeting at 7 p. m. was called by Mayor Dean A. Cline "to discuss personnel problems".

The resignation was accepted by Councilmen Keith Hebble, Terry Hopkins, Roy Barber and John E. Hedeen. Mrs. Moore's husband, Councilman G. Thomas Moore, abstained from the voting. Councilman Ronald Predieri was absent.

Resignation is effective Dec. 31.

Her letter to the council gave no reason why she wished to resign.

However, she has said it was about money.

She is requesting a salary raise of $1,935 plus the $400 longevity pay that she says she is entitled to. This would bring her salary to $8,175 annually, more than the clerk-treasurer receives. That salary is $7,500.

The council finance committee has studied the increase with John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer. Fazzini says he has not included the pay of the tax director in the tentative appropriation for 1983, which is being prepared.

Councilman Hedeen, who heads the finance committee, has pointed out the administration of the income tax is now taking about 16 per cent of the collections.

Mrs. Moore received an increase of about $1,000 Nov. 21, when an emergency ordinance was enacted, raising her salary to $6,240.

When the Advertiser was informed by Fazzini that an unprecedented Saturday night session to discuss "personnel" would be convened, inquiries were made of three councilmen as to the subject of the discussion.

Moore said he had no idea. His wife said her husband had not discussed the matter.

Mrs. Moore said all her work is up to date for notices to be sent for the next taxing period. The only matter not completed, she said, is the department's annual report to the mayor and council.

When the local tax was instituted in December, 1979, her brother-in-law, Alvin M. Kelley, North Fairfield, a retired officer of the U. S. Department of the Treasury and experienced in internal revenue matters, was chosen the first director to set the system up. Mrs. Moore was appointed his assistant and worked hand in glove with him. Once the machinery was set in motion, he resigned to become a $1 a year adviser. Mrs. Moore became the director for the part-time position.

Several persons are being considered, although the mayor and councilmen have declined to identify them.

Two increases set by GenTel

Two tax increases on telephone service will raise consumer assessments slightly more than two per cent in January, General Telephone Co. of Ohio reports.

Robert R. Randall, Marion, vice-president-general manager, said the federal excise tax will rise from one per cent to three per cent with the Ohio excise tax surcharge going from .71 per cent to .75 per cent.

The combined additional monthly assessment on a $10 telephone bill, for example, will increae from 17 cents in 1982 to 37.5 cents in 1983, he says.

The federal excise tax will continue at three per cent until Dec. 31, 1985. Congress voted last summer to increase the tax in a measure to fight budget deficits.

A portion of Ohio's trax surcharge, or .50 per cent, is scheduled to expire Dec. 31, 1983. The remaining .25 per cent was added to utilities' permanent gross receipts tax, which stands at 4.25 per cent.

Randall said four per cent of the tax is built into basic service rates. The additional .25 per cent will become a part of the company's rate base in the future.

Winners, losers report costs

Success at the polls costs money.

Statements filed with the Huron county board of elections by both winners and losers on Nov. 4 prove it.

James Westerhold, successful independent candidate for county commissioner, spent $6,473. He defeated the incumbent, Maurice Smith, New London Democrat, who spent $2,712.44.

John Allton, Norwalk lawyer, Democratic candidate for member of the General Assembly from the new 90th district, spent $13,130.87 in a losing cause.

The winner, Richard Rench, Milan Republican, spent $11,410.87.

Lowell Steinbrenner, Wooster, who defeated Charles Scott, D-Mansfield, for the Ohio Senate, spent over $68,000; Scott laid out less than $27,000.

Rex Elsass, R-Mansfield, lost the race for assemblyman. He spent slightly over $23,000. The victor, Frank Sawyer, paid a bit less than $22,000.

Freeman Swank, who swamped Ralph Hardy for auditor, spent a little over $7,300. Hardy laid out just $633.

Paul White, successful Democratic candidate for commissioner, spent about $13,000. The loser, C. Ray Gregory, laid out just over $19,000.

Merry Christmas to everyone!

It is a particularly merry Christmas for an athletic program of which it is too often said, "There're two kinds of athletes in the Firelands conference: those who're from Plymouth and those who're glad they're not!"

A Plymouth player, Co-Capt. Greg Polachek, was chosen by United Press International as all-Ohio Class A punter.

A 12th grader who maintains an honor roll grade-point average while he competes in football, basketball and baseball, young Polachek is described by his teachers and his peers as "a natural leader, one who cares and one who is willing to bleed for the others."

What better encomium can be inscribed under anyone's name.

We cherish his cooperation and his friendship, we wish him -- and his teammates -- well during 1983 and we pledge to him and to them, so long as the flesh remains willing, faithful coverage of their performances that, in 29 seasons, has been absent in only three football games, both home and away, and only 13 basketball games, both home and away.

Merry Christmas, young man, to you and yours. And to everybody!

Three mill levy to fund police seen in June

Councilman John E. Hedeen has been doing his homework.

He bluntly said Monday night during the committee meeting there is no way out but to put a three mill levy on the next ballot to provide for the police costs.

Hedeen also pointed out that with Mrs. G. Thomas Moore's request for a pay raise of about $2,000 annually that over 16 per cent of all income tax money is being paid for administering the tax, in refunds for overpayments during the year. These latter amount to about $5,000.

Last year, he said, almost $20,000 was spent for these two items, which makes a dent in what the village can use for any capital improvements.

During the council meeting Dec. 14 Hedeen asked if the village should join, or suggest to other communities, a coalition similar to that which the village has entered to obtain uniform rates from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., to do something about the rate increases of General Telephone Co.

He took "a dim view of the expense of the page-length legal notice run by the company in every paper which seems to be published."

He also pointed out that the toll-free service to Willard would cost every Plymouth telephone user more and said the coverage of the service is not very good compared to where a user can call.

Mayor dismisses trespass charge

Charges of trespassing against Mrs. William C. Enderby by Jack Arthur were dismissed by Mayor Dean A. Cline Dec. 14.

Mrs. Enderby, who was represented by her attorney, Neil McKown, denied that she had been on Arthur's property. She said that the Enderbys had never objected to his use of their property, which adjoins.

Arthur was not present at the court hearing.

The neighborhood dispute stems from the fact that the Enderbys' daughter has moved her trailer to the property behind the Arthur house.

The mayor issued a legal building permit.

The mayor said he would dismiss the charges now with the provision no further charges would be forthcoming.

Only other case heard in the mayor's court was two counts against Clinus Slone, Shiloh. He pleaded guilty to reckless operation, which was reduced from a DWI charge, and was fined $100.

He also pleaded guilty to possession and was fined $100.

He paid court costs of $23 on each charge.

Patent issued to Robert Root for safety device

A young teacher with Plymouth origins has been accorded a patent for a radio controlled safety device.

Robert Root, son of the Robert Roots, Vermilion, where he lives, and grandson of Mrs. Halsey F. Root and the late Mr. Root, teaches in Lorain County Community college. His metier is engineering computer technology.

He invented a circuit breaker, comprised of a receiving unit that may be mounted anywhere in a room, and a transmitter, so small it may be affixed to the instructor's belt.

"Wearing the circuit breaker allows the instructor to interrupt the main power from any point within the room within two seconds. Getting the power off that fast can avert or minimize a disaster by giving the instructor complete control over all equipment at all times."

Root is an alumnus of Bowling Green State university. He has served on the LCCC faculty five years.

What Christmas was like in 1923, in 1928, in 1935, in 1945

By AUNT LIZ

For years I have been threatening to write my memoirs, but must really wait a little longer or I would be sued like mad for some things I have to mention or nastily hint at.

This is the first chapter, "Christmases I Remember", which is harmless.

The first one was when I must have been going on five. My mother got me to bed rather early on Christmas eve so I could get up early. I wasn't even tired.

She waited a while, also in bed so she, too, could get an early start.

Then I heard her sneaking down the hallway. Naturally I sneaked right after her, and there is everyone in the living room busily putting up the tree and arranging everything. They didn't even notice me.

The next morning she woke me to see what S.C. had brought. He always brought a great deal to an only child, an only grandchild, with a family that had a lot of friends with no kids and used me. Not one doll, something like 10 at a clip.

I took one look and realized that the jolly man had a little help. It took a while, but the next year my family caught on that I had caught on.

Then when I was about eight or nine, my father would give me a couple of dollars to buy presents with on the understanding that what I did not spend was mine to spend on myself. That is the year I gave my mother a beautiful pin cushion, which cost 10 cents.

Always my grandparents gave me gold pieces, which went immediately to the bank and I never saw, but when I got to high school and Grandpa had retired and had time to shop, which he loved, he would come forth with French perfume and all sorts of goodies my monthly allowance ($5 then, which was great) could not do.

Grandma even gave me yarn for sweaters. Dignified she was, but at that point of her life she had made herself into a first class invalid and hardly left the house. But she would walk two blocks to the yarn shop to pick it out and buy the right amount for a sweater.

You could give her anything, and she loved it, especially fancy soaps. She had a real secret vice. The National Geographic always sat on a living room table, but her monthly copy of True Stories was in her bedroom, where it could not be seen. Grandpa also had his little hidden ways. Once she discovered he had gone to New York and did a little carrying on with a chorus girl. She got a diamond necklace out of that escapade.

Then there was the Christmas during WW II when my dearest friend was in WAVE training at Smith college and I was in Washington. Neither of us could get leave to go home, so we met in New York.

I got there first, went out to a dime store and bought a small little tree and a bunch of red ribbon to make bows for it. Ping finally got there and we spent the whole night crying.

The next night we got hold of ourselves. She had a passion for Guy Lombardo, so off we go a la uniform, since we had nothing else to wear to the Rossevelt hotel for dinner. The waiters seemed a little floored about us because they most likely thought we were casing the place to be picked up. When they finally realized that we were enjoying our dinner, and I cannot remember what we had, and the music, they relaxed and were plain nice.

Next year you can read about Christmas with a couple of kis. That can take pages.

For years I considered refrigerator cookies for the birds, but now I have discovered they are great. You can vary them like mad with this and that, roll them up, chill and bake when you feel like it.

This is the basic recipe.

Mix one and a half cups of flour with a half teaspoon of baking soda and some salt.

Cream a half cup of shortening with a cup of sugar (you can use one half each of white and brown), one egg, flavoring like vanilla or almond or orange juice, or lemon or whatever you want.

Mix, chill, then roll out in rolls about two inches in diameter, wrap in wax paper, chill, and bake later.

Depending on what nuts or dates you add, they can be frosted and decorated.

A son, Wesley Alan, weighing 6 lb., 8 ozs., was born Dec. 14 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Terry Fenner. Mother is the former LaCherril Dean. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Dean are the maternal grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fenner are the paternal grandparents.

They are also the parents of a daughter and a son.

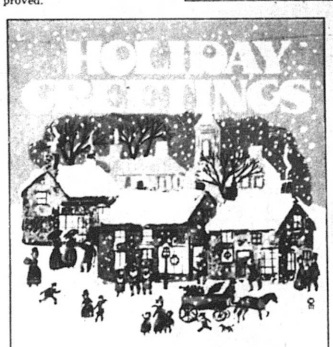

CHRISTMAS CHEER

Holiday tapers glow, lighting this glorious season with our fond thoughts and warm thanks.

Red twice blows 10-point lead, falls to Mapleton, Trojans

An opportunity to win its first game of the season fell off the rim at Nankin Friday night and Mapleton captured a tough 78 to 76 Firelands conference victory in overtime.

With six seconds left, Rodney Hampton went to the line with a one-and-one opportunity to tie the score at 76. He missed the first shot. Craig Thornsberry fouled Gil Kuhrt and the Mountie center sank both free throws. Mike McKenzie's 15-footer just before the bell rang was an anti-climax.

Plymouth saw its chance to win in regulation time go by the boards with the clock ticking down. Brad Johnson threw in two free throws to tie it at 68. Plymouth called time out with three seconds left but could not score.

The Big Red had earlier blown a 10-point lead that it built early in the game. And the Mounties returned the favor in the third period, after they had led by 50 to 40.

Plymouth simply could not contain big Steve Bahr, who outshot and outrebounded the Big Red until he fouled out. Bahr wound up with 30 points. The Mounties took down 42 caroms, Plymouth only 27. Bahr and Jamie Rever, the Mountie playmaker went to the bench in the third quarter with four fouls apiece. They returned with five minutes left in regulation time.

Each fouled out during the overtime.

Plymouth shot well enough to win a dozen games and indeed outperformed Mapleton from the field, 31 to 29. It was at the foul line that the visitors fell short. Plymouth missed eight of 22 tries, Mapleton six of 26. Greg Polachek, Thornsberry and Brian Vredenburgh of the Big Red also fouled out and Referee Carl Felver expelled Mike McKenzie in the overtime.

Mapleton got off 65 shots at the basket.

Plymouth had 25 turnovers, Mapleton 23.

For the visitors, McKenzie scored 19, Hampton 20, Polachek 15 and Thornsberry 12.

Kuhrt had 13 and Dave Chapman 11 for the Mounties, who won their first game of the season.

There are three places, says Al McGuire, the former Marquette coach who won the NCAA tournament and is now an NBC commentator, where you can lose a basketball game: at the beginning, at the end, and at the start of the second half.

Plymouth chose the third method here Saturday, gave up 11 unanswered points just after the third period began,

Usage Sensitive Service

The company is proposing a limited introduction of nonoptional Usage Sensitive Service in Huron, Ohio. Usage Sensitive Service is a billing system that lets the customers pay for what they use. Under the plan, the customer would pay a substantially lower monthly service or "access" charge for the local telephone service. Additional charges will be based upon the type and number of local calls made, the hour, day of the week and duration of each call, as well as the distance to the called party.

Paystation Telephone Service

The company proposes to increase the paystation rate from $.20 to $.25. The concept of a flat rate for semi-public paystation service will not change. The existing credit against the flat rate for coin-in-box revenues generated will be discontinued.

Late Payment Charge

The company proposes a late payment charge of 1.25% on the unpaid balance to be applied on the customer's bill.

Private Line/Interexchange Mileage

The company is proposing to increase its private line-/interexchange mileage charges.

Centrex Service

The company proposes to increase its rates for Centrex Services.

Touch Call Line Charges

The touch call line charges will remain the same, however, the company is proposing a monthly instrument charge of $.75.

Personal Signaling Service

The company is proposing increases on personal signaling services.

Repair Visit Charge

The company is proposing to partially remove the premise visit cost of maintenance from its local service rates. The charge established will recognize the cost of a repairman making a premise visit in connection with a maintenance call associated with single line telephones.

Extended Area Service Supplemental Rates

The company is proposing an extended area service rate additive applicable only to exchanges filing for new extended area service after the effective date of the tariff.

Miscellaneous Products and Services

Increases in rates and charges are proposed for several of the miscellaneous products and services including:

- increases for special billing number;
- enterprise service;
- maintenance of service charges;
- non-published and emergency non-published service and;
- time announcement service.

Key Telephone and Private Branch Exchange Systems and Equipment

The company proposes increases in trunk rates for key telephone and private branch exchange systems. Proposed rates and charges may be found in the Company's proposed tariff sheets.

The prayer of the application requests the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to do the following:

(a) Find that the company's present rates and charges and the regulations and practices affecting the same are unjust, unreasonable and insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the services rendered;

(b) Find that the rates and charges and regulations and practices proposed are just and reasonable and will provide not more than a fair and reasonable rate of return on the value of the company's property actually used and useful for the convenience of the public;

(c) Approve the filing of the proposed schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-1 of the application, modified to reflect such revisions thereof as may become effective, pursuant to orders of the Commission, during the interim between the filing of the application and the date upon which the schedule sheets become effective;

(d) Order that the proposed schedule sheets become effective forthwith;

(e) Approve the withdrawal of the present schedule sheets contained in Schedule E-2 of the application;

(f) Grant such other and further relief as the company is reasonably entitled to in the premises.

The form of this notice has been approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Trojans' rally downs Plymouth, 76 to 64

and fell before South Central, 76 to 64.

The Trojans outrebounded Plymouth, notably on the offensive boards, and they get off more shots than did the Big Red. That they shot two more free throws than did Plymouth was not so important as that they had 16 more opportunities to score field goals. This they did 30 times, whereas Plymouth was held to 25.

The Big Red pulled out to a 10 point lead early in the game and for the second night in a row blew the lead.

It was 38 to 35, Plymouth, at the half, but would have been larger but for splendid work by Jeff Music, the Trojan guard, who scored 10 in the first period and seven in the second. He garnered 28 for his night's work.

Plymouth shot exceptionally well in the first half – 14 of 24 – and overall was 25 of 54. But in the third period it did not keep pace. The Big Red managed only 11 points in the third eight minutes, while South Central, with six by Music, six by Dan Sweeting, and six by Jeff Chandler, was steaming to a 24-point outburst.

South Central held Plymouth more than even in the last quarter and walked away with an important Firelands conference victory.

South Central was credited with 41 rebounds, Plymouth with 33.

In addition to Music, Coach Jacque Daup's team had three players in double figures. These were Chandler with 14, Tod Walker with 16 and Sweeting with 12.

For Plymouth, Mike McKenzie, who was socked with a technical foul late in the game after a temper outburst, and Rodney Hampton divided scoring honors with 17 apiece. Greg Polachek contributed 10. Six Plymouth players made the scorebook.

Plymouth did not shoot well from the penalty line on its home floor. The Big Red got 28 chances and made half of them. The Trojans were 16-for-22.

Darrel Hale, who learned his basketball here, played for South Central from the start of the game but got into foul trouble early. Daup, of course, learned his basketball on Plymouth courts and played varsity ball here before he went on the Spring Arbor college, Spring Arbor, Mich. His father, Harold, was coach of Plymouth 25 years ago.

Holts' chimney afire; Greenwich gets help

A chimney fire Saturday morning was dealt with by Plymouth firemen at the Franklin Holt residence, Plymouth street.

Damage was slight.

On Saturday night the firemen went to the aid of the Greenwich department to fight a blaze that broke out in Bollinger's Drug store in that village's Main street. It threatened the entire Greenwich business district before it was put out.

The building housing the drug store and a doctor's office was destroyed.

The possible cause may be faulty electrical wiring, although the state fire marshal has been called to investigate arson.

Look before you reap.

There are many good ways to make your money work for you. And some not so good. So don't leap into anything without taking a long, hard look. Especially if you have no savings in reserve.
And if you don't have enough savings, look into U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds do make sense.
They guarantee the interest. They're guaranteed against loss, fire, and theft. And the Payroll Savings Plan is a sure, easy way to guarantee savings. Federal income tax may be deferred and there's no state or local income tax.
A little is set aside each payday for U.S. Savings Bonds. Your savings will grow until you're ready to reap the rewards of regular saving.
Saving is one of the most important financial decisions you'll ever make.

In Memoriam Of
William P. Linville, taken from us December 24, 1977

I am home in Heaven, dear ones;
Oh so happy and so bright!
There is perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief is over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in Heaven at last.

Did you wonder why I so calmly,
Trod the valley of the shade?
Oh! but Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade.

And He came Himself to meet me
In that way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely
For I love you dearly still:
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's Will.

There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idly stand;
Do it now, while life remaineth —
You shall rest in Jesus' land.

When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you Home;
Oh, the rapture of that meeting,
Oh, the joy to see you come!

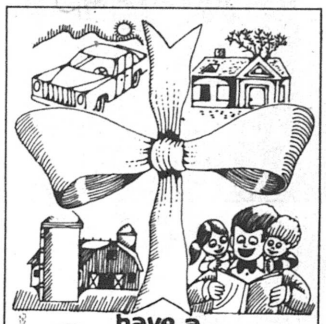

Still sadly missed by your wife, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.
