There's no business without show business.

When the curtain goes down for the evening, know what theatre-goers turn into?
Restaurant-goers. Taxi-riders. Shoppers.
Theatre-goers turn into consumers. A lot of consumers. More people go to live theatre performances than to professional baseball, football, and basketball games combined.

New puppy in house wears Auntie down

By AUNT LIZ
Now that spring has arrived and the lifestyle in our house has taken a turn for the better, it is very pleasant.

Since the early weeks of December I was getting up at 5 or 5:30 a. m. struggling into boots and taking one little dog outside.

There I was wandering around in a foot of snow to make sure she knew why we were out. The catch was I had my coat on over a robe and nightie and naturally the hems of both got wet. So then I would come inside and have my turn in the little room, and lift it all up, gad, was it cold and wet.

There is absolutely nothing like a suffering mother of the cutest little dog you have ever seen.

Now I am letting her out with her father, and they are a riot. She sticks right to his side. The catch is that she thinks it is her playtime and does not do what she should.

Eventually, this beast will learn. If she were not so cute and lovable, I would beat her to a pulp.

She has completely changed our way of living. I now end up putting things like underwear on in the living room. She grabs them out of the bathroom, and off she goes. Hopefully, our neighbors are not seeing this.

I try to turn the lights off. There I am half dressed and my girly is in the middle of the living room floor.

If anyone thinks I am worn down at 9 a. m., he is right. I have had about three hours of one pup who never seems to get tired.

Our daughter made the remark that Tuffet would keep me young. Little does she know that I have aged at least 70 years. I cannot even run so fast as she can, and once I was the fastest runner in our neighborhood. I even put the boys to shame, and that is why I always had a chance to play on the neighborhood football team.

This is something kids do not do any more. I grew up with a whole bunch of them.

We played all sorts of silly games, tried baseball and that stuff, of course not really knowing what we were doing, but we did, and it was a ball. If you ate all your dinner, you were allowed when it was still light out to go out and play. This was our life. It is said that this part of growing up has vanished.

Our parents never bothered watching nor supervising. There was simply no need. We knew when we had to come in and that was that.

We did not have television and hardly radio then. Today both are great, but we had to amuse ourselves with hopscotch, jacks and jumping rope, and all three are plain skillful. The things we could do with rope jumping could have put any really good dancer out of business. We were good and very fortunately never did break our necks. It can be a really dangerous little pastime.

So those were the days of growing up when our parents were drinking illegal hooch and homemade bathtub gin.

It was in the 20's and hooch was very illegal.

All you have to do is say, "You cannot have it," and everyone who never even thought about it before decides, "if it is illegal, I must have it."

As an old mother, I say, let it all be available. The kids will try it all for the most part. Let them, and that is where the parents must sit down and really talk. Some can and some simply don't want to mention it.

There is one good way to keep your kids at home. Feed them. Let them know you truly love them by good food. They will go out for a pizza, a hamburger, but give them something really extra.

Right now chickens are about the cheapest thing you can buy. Just boil up one whole one, which will produce a good broth for something else. Take the meat off so you have two cups. This can be doubled.

This recipe came from a nice friend, and it is good and can be great when you have a potluck affair to deal with. Must be kept hot.

This is for a single recipe that will serve more than four desperately hungry people.

To the chick, add a cup of finely chopped celery, a half cup of chopped toasted almonds (that is the big secret to the flavoring), two teaspoons of grated onion and a little dash of salt, which I never add. Try pepper.

Mix it then add a cup of your favorite mayonnaise, the real stuff which is better than the lovely cheap substitutes.

This all goes in a baking dish. Sprinkle it all with about a half cup of grated American cheese and a cup of crushed potato chips. I suggest you buy a bag of the things, and eat like mad until you hit the bottom layer. Who ever heard of a decent size potato chip at the store?

Bake it all at 450 for 10 to 15 minutes so it really gets heated.

To make it look pretty, spread sprigs of parsley on each serving.

Ad Council
A Public Service of The Newspaper & The Advertising Council

Would you hire you?

Of course you would. You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out. That's what everybody says. And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or long-shoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us. And we'll all have more to show for it. More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back into our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question. Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.
