

The fair

It is no secret that the Huron county fair board is in fiscal deep water. Water all but over its head.

Two steps were taken in the past fortnight to assuage the problem.

One was to borrow $15,000 from the county commissioners, interest free, until the end of the fair season. This is to settle outstanding bills and to afford the fair board a little maneuvering room in its cash position until it has fresh revenues.

The other was to raise the price of admission to $3.50.

For this price, the fairgoer may ride in all the amusement rides and watch grandstand shows without additional fee.

Only children in the arms of a parent will be allowed through the gates without paying admission.

The fair board will pay $1 of the admission fee to Megerle Shows, Akron, the owner of the amusement rides.

Attendance last year amounted to about 60,000 persons, of whom about 40,000 got in free.

Paid attendance was 22,121 persons.

Under the new plan, exhibitors and some others can enter without paying admission, but to ride the rides or enter the grandstand they will be required to pay the $3.50 fee.

Last year the admission price was $2 a head. Admission to the several rides varied. Admission to the grandstand for harness racing was free but a fee was exacted to sit there for the demolition derby and the tractor pull.

The fair as an attraction for the amusement dollar has gone down hill in recent years. The competition is keen. What was once an agricultural display in a society oriented toward agriculture doesn't draw customers any more.

Perhaps the fair board ought to look at the demographics of the county, and its drawing area, for another slant.

Rides don't interest those over 35. And those over 35 are steadily increasing in Huron county, as the last census data show.

The advent of night harness racing will help. It was a long time in coming, even as pari-mutuel wagering was a long time in coming. The racing secretary ought to bestir himself to obtain funding for richer purses so that better stock can be attracted to racing at Norwalk. People will pay to see the best.

The board needs to sell its product. It did not do so last year.

For example, for the first time since the fair opened, this newspaper did not receive one single piece of publicity material about the fair. A premium book was sent in advance of the fair; reading a premium book is pretty much like reading the telephone book.

For example, save for some understandable emphasis on Norwalk, there seemed to be no effort to spread the word throughout the county. Especially the southern part of the county, where taxpayers meet their obligations to the county treasurer with the same diligence and rectitude as those in the northern part.

For example, save for a Ripley township expert in racing, only a few from the southern part of the county participated in the planning of the fair.

The fair belongs to everybody. It needs to be brought to everybody. That some parts of the county lie within another county's school district should not militate against participation in the fair by the pupils involved.

Christians near 'finest hour'; Seder today

The church will offer communion tonight during the 7:30 p. m. service.

Communion will also be offered in First Evangelical Lutheran church Sunday during the 10:30 a. m. service.

Pease to run for 4th term

Incumbent 13th Congressional District Rep. Donald J. Pease, 50, D-Oberlin, will seek reelection, he said Mar. 30.

The new 13th district includes all of Huron county save Lyme, Sherman, Norwalk and Richmond townships. All of Willard lies within the 13th district, despite the fact that some of it lies within Richmond township.

After service as state senator, Pease was elected to the House of Representatives in 1976. He was associated with the Oberlin News-Tribune for 18 years and served as its editor and co-publisher for 12 years. He is an alumnus of Ohio university.

His district also includes Ashland, Lorain and Medina counties and parts of Richmond and Summit counties.

Bad news — Fire levels Edgeson house

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the dwelling of the Arthur Edgesons at Kuhn and Preston roads early Sunday.

The Edgesons were in Kentucky at the time. A passerby saw the flames and turned in the alarm.

Plymouth apparatus fought the blaze for several hours, handicapped by high winds. Only two chimneys were left standing when the flames died down.

High winds that arose Saturday caused some damage in the village.

An evergreen tree was blown over at the Roy J. Johnson, Sr. house in West Broadway. It punctured a small roof.

A tree blew down in Maple street and cut electric current to the Huron county side of the village, forcing some businesses to close early on Saturday.

A large limb from a tree in front of the Loehn residence in West Broadway fell on wires and caused an outage of almost five hours to West Broadway. Brooks court and some in Sandusky street.

Restaurant closes, victim of recession

Another Plymouth business closed Mar. 30, bringing to three the number of businesses forced to close because of the recession.

Hi-Ho restaurant, operated by Uris Dillman, Willard, for three years, abruptly terminated operations the night of Mar. 30 and did not open for business Mar. 31.

Dillman also owns and operates the Hi-Ho restaurant in Willard and the Spinning Wheel restaurant in Shelby.

Bridge out

Because a bridge is under repair, New State road between Townline road 131 and Harville Corners road will be closed for about two months, Huron county engineer reports.

Siren to ring for tornado

During the tornado season, the alert system operated from the village hall will consist of one prolonged blast of not less than three minutes as a warning of approach of a tornado. An all-clear blast of one minute will be sounded to end the warning period.

It is understood he sought to extend his lease with the owner, Hugh Washburn, on a month-to-month basis but was turned down.

The restaurant opened in the premises at 11 West Broadway two generations ago. It was first called the Black and Gold. Later aficionados who went there for coffee and community gossip every morning referred to it as "the grill." It was owned and operated by the late Weldon M. Cornell and his wife, nee Gertrude Ford. It was changed to Cornell's restaurant and operated there until styling even after Clarence Mack and Quentin R. Beam bought it 25 years ago.

After Washburn acquired the restaurant from Mack and Beam, he retained the name until a remodeling some years later, after which the restaurant was known as the Frontier Inn.

Washburn gave up the business about five years ago.

E. R. Anderson succumbs at 90, interred here

Interment took place in Greenlawn cemetery last week for Earl R. Anderson, DeQuen, Ark., who died at 90 there Mar. 30.

A World War I veteran, he formerly lived here.

His wife, Hazel, was killed five years ago when she was struck by an automobile.

He is survived by a daughter, Agnes, now Mrs. John McCready, Sun City West, Ark.; a sister, Mrs. Bernice Bush, in California; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in DeQuen.

Trucker sued for $1,447

J. Raymond Willet, Route 98, is defendant in a suit to recover $1,447 filed in Richland county common pleas court by Spector Red Call Freight System and Davis Insurance Agency, Inc., both of Winston-Salem, N.C.

Claim is made that Willet leased a tractor-trailer rig owned by Red Ball and damaged freight belonging to U. S. Steel Co., which was insured by Davis. Raymond Donadio, Jr., Mansfield, filed the suit, which was assigned to Judge James Hanson.

Drugs stolen at night

Drugs on shelves were taken someone between Mar. 30 and 31 at Mack's Market.

The theft was discovered the morning of Mar. 31. Entry apparently was made through a restroom window.

Vandals damage truck

A 1972 Chevrolet pick-up truck belonging to Wilford Postema of Route 558, was parked behind 47 East Main street, Shelby, Sunday when vandals kicked out the grille, his son-in-law, David Williamson, reported to Shelby police.

Youth pays $120.50 for pot

Raising of children easier with recipe

By AUNT LIZ
We are going to have two kindergartners going to school this fall.
One mother is getting very apprehensive about it all and wondering what she will face.

I just wrote and said, "Nothing, just wait until you hit the high school age."

We went through it all. But then we really did not have the alcohol nor drug problems that exist today.

We had endless band concerts to have to sit through, potluck athletic dinners where the kids went first through the line and by the time we got there, the food was all gone. Then there were football games in the rain and snow and the basketball games where there was so much shouting and screaming that you came out of the gym absolutely deaf and thought you were ruined for life.

Someone should give medals to mothers who have gone through this.

My one bit of advice is stay out of the cheerleading deal. One year which involved our daughter, they went wild and bought about $100 worth of costumes. Back then, that was a hefty sum, and I must say that one cheerleader after all these years still is wearing that expensive red sweater.

'Bringing up kids can be for the birds, but it is fun.

The other day we talked to a roommate of our son. He is now a good doctor.

I feel I have a part in his career. He came to the Thanksgiving weekend. We got the kids who did not have the time to get to the east coast and back so they came here, the boys from Hiram and the girls from Wooster.

Anyway, he brought a large, long dead black cat to study. He brought it in from the car wrapped in newspapers and nicely asked where he could do it all.

When I saw it, I was ready to drop, but I put more papers down on the kitchen table and let him go at it. Meanwhile our two Stamens are at the door dying to get in on it all.

I am not sure if I could do it all again, but our poor kids are in for it, and I know they will survive.

You simply have to pitch in, like making baked beans for about 120 for a Midget lounge picnic and stuffing a bunch of turkeys for a Cub Scout dinner. That I will never forget. There were four bids and our oven would hold one, so the other three got stashed around to cook. I know I will get a really nasty letter for what I am going to write next but it is funny. I carried one bird to a neighbor on a cookie sheet all ready to put in a roaster. A couple of months later I got into a cookie making mood and realized I was missing one pan so I called her. She still had it on the back porch but it was not washed because it would not fit in her dishwasher.

I have one really good recipe to pass on to young mothers that is easy and great. I used to make these fudge bars back in the days when I worked in Girl Scout camps on a wood burning stove and it never failed.

This is for a single recipe, but it doubles like a dream. Melt two squares of unsweetened chocolate in a stick of margarine. Add a cup of sugar, two eggs, and a dash of vanilla.

Mix three-fourths cups of flour with a dash of salt and a teaspoon of baking powder. Bake at 375 degrees and frost with milk chocolate.

You can cut them up in little squares and stuff a long way and are plain good. And what is really nice about this recipe is that it can all be done in one pan which saves hours of dishwashing.

Post 503, Shiloh, chose David Gilliam and Thomas Miller for Boys' State and Dianne Russell for Girls' State.
Mark Fidler allowed three bids, Plymouth 6, Buckeye Central 3.
South Central 5, Plymouth 0.
Mapleton 75, Plymouth 52 in a dual track and field meet.
Tim Lewis, Mike Weaver, Luis Gomez, Steve Shaver and the mile relay team won first places for the Big Red.
The Woodrow Smiths marked their 40th anniversary.

10 years ago, 1972
Kenneth Amburgey, Ada, was offered a contract as village administrator.
Robert E. Roberts, 20, Shiloh, admitted his guilt in the robbery of Shelby High school.
Mrs. Paul Andrus, nee Davling, Shiloh, died at Cleveland.
Mrs. Sam B. Fenner, 77, died at her daughter's home.
Grandmother of Patrolman Robert Seel, Mrs. Frank Seel, 86, died at Bellevue.
Theodore A. Ross said the premises at 80 Plymouth street to Bobby L. Tackett and bought the house at 31 Railroad street.

Plymouth scored in the second and third innings.

Tom Baker and Craig Thornberry each had two hits.

Russ Flowers was the winning pitcher for the Chargers. His victim was Steve Mowry.

Girls win, boys lose

Boys' track and field squad opened its 1982 season on a sad note at Shiloh Mar. 30, going down before Lucas, 33 to 40.

But the girls prevailed over the Cubs, 74 to 36.

Jim Jamerson won the shot put and the discus and Plymouth took the two middle distance races, Mike Beck in the mile and Loren Kranz in the half mile.

Becky Turson won the long jump, Jamie Brooks the high jump, Becky Endicott, only a ninth grader, took both the shot put and the discus throw.

Montelle Levering won both distance races, Annette Takos took the 440-yard sprint and Lisa Daron won the furlong dash.

There's no business without show business.

When the curtain goes down for the evening, know what theatre-goers turn into?

Restaurant-goers. Taxi-riders. Shoppers.

Theatre-goers turn into consumers. A lot of consumers. More people go to live theatre performances than to professional baseball, football, and basketball games combined.

Any smart businessman knows: the arts mean business.
