MRS. JONES

'66 alumna tax director

Mrs. Paul E. Jones, nee Janet Carey, 226 West Broadway, was named by Mayor Dean A. Cline during the Dec. 28 meeting of village council.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carey, she worked for 16 years as a legal secretary in the office of the late Donald E. Akers and later for his son, the former mayor of the village, Eric J. Akers.

For the last year she has conducted an accounting and tax consulting office in her home.

She will receive $5.45 an hour for 1,000 hours annually plus all benefits accorded other village employees.

Her appointment was confirmed by the council members, with the exception of Councilman G. Thomas Moore, who objected to the ordinance spelling out her position.

It states she will work under the direction of the clerk-treasurer and in his or her absence, under the village administrator.

Moore said this put the position "under two bosses", which he does not consider an efficient way for her to work.

Previously, Mrs. Moore, who served as the tax director, was responsible only to the council and mayor.

The enabling ordinance also states that when the tax work is slack, additional duties may be performed for the clerk of adminstrator.

Mrs. Judith Hedge, village utility clerk, was appointed her assistant to perform when she is not in the office.

$1,483 added to fund

A long dispute over title to funds collected by the Firebelles, a now defunct organization of wives and mothers of firemen, ended last week when they were donated to the Jaws of Life account. They amounted to $1,483.

He is Forrest W. Dent, son of William Dent and the late Mrs. Dent.

'68 alumna back from trip to Manila

A 1... alumna of Plymouth High school now on the staff of University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls has returned from a two-month trip to Manila, Republic of the Philippines, where she attended the nine-day conference and assisted conference chairman Tony Santos and other executives in preparing reports on the proceedings for use in evaluating the conference.

"I returned to Manila this year as an interested IIFYE (International Youth Exchange) alumni," said Miss Carolyn Seymour. She also visited the host families with whom she stayed on her first trip to the Philippines.

Miss Seymour lived in Manila for 14 months as a delegate to the Youth Development Project from 1972-73. She was one of two people selected by the National 4-H Council to travel to Manila to help the Filipino people expand and develop their youth programs.

At this year's conference, over 500 participating delegates from around the world were able to construct a manifesto detailing ways that developed and developing countries could address the problems of world hunger, according to Miss Seymour.

She added that suggestions from the conference were presented to the Philippine ambassador, who may choose to take them to the United Nations for further consideration.

"We spent two days discussing and voting on resolutions dealing with world hunger problems, and the rest of our time was spent visiting schools and youth development projects," said Miss Seymour. "We also visited a refugee camp."

Miss Seymour said it was interesting to see what effects the elimination of martial law has had on the Philippines since her last visit there nine years ago. She cited as example, changes in culture, economic statuses, the transportation system and agricultural pro-

Electric rates rise by 9%; Root gets raise

An electric rate increase of nine per cent was approved by village council at its last meeting of 1982 on Dec. 28.

Sawvel recommended the increase, which enables the village to recover operating expenses, which include the monthly bill from Ohio Power Co., which sells power wholesale to the village. It also includes the cost of capital improvements and ensures that the village's reserve electric balance is maintained for unforseen emergencies, which Sawvel says should be $80,000.

Sawvel suggests that 15 per cent of the income should be set aside.

Residential rates increase several dollars a month. The current charge for 400 kwh is $22. It will increase to $26.

General service rates will increase 15.9 per cent. Large power users will increase three-tenths of one per cent and village charges will go up 4.5 per cent.

Revenue producing departments of the village, such as water and sewer, will pay their share. Non-revenue producing departments, such as the fire, ambulance and street lighting, will be subsidized.

The study pointed out that large power users such as Mack's Market are paying a far greater share for power than smaller users. Sawvel accordingly made an adjustment which results in a savings for those users.

The rate increase comes not too soon, since Ohio Power has raised its rate. James C. Root, village administrator, told the council that without the increase, the village is losing about $3,000 monthly.

The anticipated pay schedule was also approved. It gives village employees a 25 cent hourly raise.

The salary of the village administrator was increased $1,520 from $18,580 to $20,100.

Approval was also given to an appropriation ordinance for 1983, which may have slight changes made later as the clerk-treasurer receives more information from the county auditor as to tax collections due the village.

It was set at $1,264,445, which reflects increased utility rates that went into effect Saturday. Last year's appropriation was $1,099,681.

The third reading to approve the long awaited zoning ordinance was passed. A summary of it is published elsewhere.

Councilman Keith Hebble, chairman of the rules committee, said the next step is to appoint a zoing inspector and set up a schedule of fees. He said the village planning commission would act as the zoning appeals committee.

Bank merger took effect on Dec. 30

Affiliation of First Buckeye Bank with Toledo Trustcorp, Inc., was officially consummated Dec. 30, according to Avery C. Hand, Jr., chairman of the board, and Rex E. Collins, president and chief executive officer, First Buckeye Bank.

Collins said First Buckeye Bank will continue operations under the same name, management and staff. "The merger allows us to have local control in our five county market region but with the added benefit of increased resources and professionalism of Toledo Trustcorp. It provides our bank and its customers significant future opportunities."

Merger plans were first announced in March, 1982, when a letter of intent to affiliate was signed. Shareholders of First Buckeye Bank approved the merger in September and regulatory approval for the bank merger was subsequently received. The approval reqfuired First Buckeye Bank to divest its offices in Plymouth and on Dec. 30 completed a transfer of those offices to First National Bank of Shelby.

First Buckeye Bank was chartered in 1873. With assets exceeding $270 million, First Buckeye Bank is the largest bank within its market area and has 25 offices in Ashland, Crawford, Huron, Richland and Seneca counties.

Toledo Trustcorp is a financial services corporation headquartered in Toledo. With the addition of First Buckeye Bank, Toledo Trustcorp is comprised of five regional banks with 85 banking locations, eight travel centers and a capital management subsidiary, all in Northwest Ohio. With the merger, assets of Toledo Trustcorp at year end are expected to exceed $1.8 billion. Toledo Trustcorp was formed in 1971 with its lead bank, The Toledo Trust Co., which is the oldest and largest bank in Northwest Ohio.

To nobody's surprise, sixth grade Vikings won the holiday tourney in Friendly House, Mansfield.

The Vikes knocked off Haring Meats, 21 to 14; the theretofore unbeaten Mansfield Cavs, 31 to 18, and Sanitary Products in the finals, 22 to 20. Stacey Hall contributed three assists and made eight points.

Dave Hall in seven seasons of coaching the Vikes now has a 157-19 record. This is his last year at the helm of the sixth graders.

Home county designation now on tags

Beginning this month, license plate registration, the Ohio Bureau to Motor Vehicles (BMV) will issue new county identification stickers that must be displayed on all passenger cars registered in Ohio. The required stickers, which will cost an additional 25 cents, will bear the name of the vehicle owner's county of residence.

BMV Registrar Dean Dollison says the stickers must be displayed on the bottom center of both the front and rear license plates and must not be covered or obscured in any way. Failure to use or display the stickers properly is a minor misdemeanor under Ohio law and carries a maximum fine of $100.

Dollison says use of the new stickers is the result of a new law passed last summer. "These county identification stickers are designed to help police officers more readily identify vehicles for enforcement purposes," said Dollison. "It's important that every driver understand that the law requires the use of the stickers and that they be displayed properly along with the other two registration stickers."

Deputy registrars around the state will carry a supply of stickers for all 88 Ohio counties so motorists will not be required to register in their home county.

The new blue-and-white stickers, which are about five inches long and 3/4 inch high, are to be affixed across the bottom center of both front and rear license plates. The stickers will not be required on trucks, trailers, motorcycles, motor homes, handicapped vehicles or any other classification except passenger vehicles.

Issuance of the new identification stickers will be phased in with normal vehicle registration beginning Jan. 1 for persons whose last names begin with A and B.

Pirates scuttle Plymouth, 73-67, despite rally

The Pirates turned on the dimmer switch to illuminate the arena and then they put the quietus on Plymouth's free throw shooting.

As a result, the Big Red went down to its sixth defeat of the season and extended to 20 its losing skein.

The score was 73 to 67.

Plymouth ate up a huge Black River lead to creep within four of the Pirates with 3:34 remaining.

Mike Clifford led Black River to a 16 to 8 advantage after eight minutes and the Pirates held that bulge at the half.

They increased it by four in the third quarter.

Plymouth stormed back. With only 46 seconds left, John Ternes threw in a rebound to restore the Pirate lead to four points and it was all over.

Clifford led the Pirates to victory on the boards, 36 to 19.

New Year not so happy!

While the Gerry Coles were greeting the New Year Friday night with friends, others were "working".

Three television sets, money, jewelry and three guns were reported missing.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Take stock in America.

A grandchild's the berries, for a week, anyway!

By AUNT LIZ

This has simply got to be a better year for all of us.

I am going to erase 1982 from my memories. It was for the birds. Everything went wrong.

But some nice things did come from it. There is nothing like good friends who keep you going, and fed. Never will I look at a zucchini with pure hate again. For a

A son, Nicholas Seth, weighing 9 lb., 9 ozs., was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kimble, Houston, Tex. Mrs. Eugene Roeder is the paternal grandmother. Mr. and Mrs. John Scherer, Shelby, are the maternal grandparents.

A son was born Jan. 1 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bailey.

A daughter, Cara Danielle, weighing 8 lb. 6½ ozs. was born Dec. 22 in Shelby Memorial hospital to the Gregg Fazios. The William Fazios are the paternal grandparents. The Stanley Rosses are the maternal grandparents. Mrs. Ira Ross is the maternal great-grandmother.

while last summer I was not speaking to them; there were too many around, but can you believe they really came in handy?

Like everyone else, we made bread and froze it. When we were packing up the car to go to Iowa for the holiday, I surveyed our refrigerator and grabbed up a loaf and took it.

It saved the day. It was our son's contribution to an office party.

Being grandparents for about a week is real fun. I am not sure if we could handle the other 51 weeks of the year.

We played games like mad. A five-year-old beat us every blessed time. Fisher-Price should dream up stuff that grandmas can win at rather than aiming them to age groups of five and seven.

That little granddaughter was great. She is a one-man clean-up committee for the whole nation. She picks up goods on sidewalks, and I am still emptying coat pockets of this and that. Perhaps there should be more like her. The last thing I found was an inch long nail, which she assured me would come in handy to build something. Our son and daughter-in-law should be very grateful that I did not find it until we got home, or she might have pounded it into a nice wall in their house. You just must never underestimate what a five-year-old can dream up.

So I did say it was a bad year, but another nice thing happened.

We found a long lost friend. You grow up and go to school together in one place, then everyone moves away, meet new people and kind of forget the old ones.

What happened to most of us was World War II. It scattered us. No one married the ones we all thought they'd ones we all thought we would — we went with the winds — all over the globe.

Now we are all that "older folk" stuff. I have news for some of you really young ones — we are still here, and there is one thing we have which you do not — a darn good memory of what has happened for something like 60 years.

It has been an amazing time with all sorts of new things like microwaves, but one thing does remain: the same old recipes that our grandmothers passed down.

Each year I keep telling myself I will be a better cook, and what do we end up with? The stuff I like: meatloaf, baked beans and wieners, sometimes a delicious pork chop.

The next time you have guests or have to take a dish somewhere, try this. It is a beautiful salad mold. It can be done in a loaf pan, but if you own a fancy looking mold deal, use it.

Soften a package of unflavored gelatin in a fourth of a cup of water. Then in a sauce pan heat one and half cups of tomato juice when it is boiling, add the gelatin. Gradually stir it into a cup of mayonnaise. When stirred in, add a teaspoon of lemon juice.

Chill it a little, then fold in a 12 oz. can of corned beef, a cup of nicely cut up celery, a chopped hardboiled egg and about a tablespoon of chopped onion.

When you take it out of its pan after it has set, place it on lettuce or spinach leaves and decorate the top with sliced eggs and a little parsley.

Cashmans hosts

New Year's day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Cashman were the J. Lynn Cashmans, Shelby; Mrs. James H. Cashman, the Kent Knauses, Mr. and Mrs. Harm Krueger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harris Postema and the Richard Murrays, Ontario.

Son of the Leonard Fazios, formerly of Plymouth, Seaman Steven C. Fazio, Bellevue, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training center in Orlando, Fla.

A Plymouth High school alumnus who has served as councilman at Shiloh has completed Unit I of Wittenberg university's management development seminar at Springfield.

Stephen Shaarda, Willard, was best man. Michael Schrader, Lexington, Ky., and Roger Winemiller, Willard, were groomsmen. Mark Hartschuh and Sean Bevier ushered.

Section 7. That any ordinance or resolution, or part of an ordinance or resolution, inconsistent herewith, is, to the extent of such inconsistency, hereby repealed.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Good news

That Huron county has $199,146 more available for 1983 than it reckoned on is good news.

Commissioner Carabin says "it will probably eliminate the need for layoffs and will probably assure that we can provide at least basic services."

Where did it come from? The auditor, C. B. Roscoe, estimated in 1981 that a balance of $220,000 would remain after 1962's bills were paid. It turns out that he underestimated by $199,146.

One should expect the commissioners to set priorities, to publish them, and to stick to them. Road and bridge maintenance, snow removal, law enforcement and a safety net of welfare adequate to meet bare needs are among them, but not necessarily in that order.

First results

Richard Rench no sooner arrived in Columbus, hadn't even taken the oath of office as representative to the General Assembly from the new 90th district, which includes all of Huron and Crawford counties, than he set to work to resolve a troublesome matter.

He went straight to the top, to the outgoing governor, to apply pressure to obtain a reversal of an order by the state welfare department that a young comatose girl under care in a Norwalk geriatric center, only a few steps from her home, should be transferred to a state institution for the retarded.

The girl, only 13, fell into a coma after she was affected by Reyes syndrome. Her medical bills are paid by Medicare and her condition is evaluated periodically by the state, which recently decided the girl can be educated. Her mother disputed this contention. She said her child is comatose, cannot be educated, and ought to be kept near her home, where her family can visit her often.

The effort was successful and Mr. Rench deserves full plaudits for moving so swiftly, and so effectively, in the matter.

But there are some thoughts that occur to us.

One is that neither Mr. Rench nor any of his constituents should expect that what amounts to curbstone justice can be had on another occasion. The time was right. The outgoing governor and the incoming assemblyman are of the same party. The governor was naturally disposed to show what a big fellow he is. And he did that. There's no question but that he unshackled his heavy artillery to bring pressure to bear in just the right place so that girl can stay in Norwalk.

But it won't happen again. No soon, anyway. For one thing, the governor is a Democrat. For another, Mr. Rench is brand new. It's not in the pattern of things that a new representative will win many fights.

For another, the bureaucracy doesn't like to be disturbed. Only a fool would assert that the beaureacracy is not sometimes right. If the child is in a coma, visits by even the president won't help because the child won't recognize who it is that's visiting or know why. Whether the depth of the coma is such that some education, of whatever nature, will benefit the child, and at the same time reduce the state's enormous burden, is more than a layman can assess. It is a fact that in about a month's time, the state will reexamine the girl's case. If Mr. Rench and the family and its neighbors need to go through this drill again, the first one served hardly any purpose. The second one will be more difficult.

We supported Mr. Rench for a number of reasons and we're glad that at least one of them -- that he's a go getter and won't take no for an answer -- proved out. In this instance, at least. But we don't expect him to work miracles. And he shouldn't either.

Moore replaced —

Barber chosen to head council; committees intact

Roy Barber was chosen president pro tempore by village council Tuesday night during the first meeting of the year.

He replaces Councilman G. Thomas Moore, who has served for several years.

Mayor Dean A. Cline reappointed the same councilmen to the committees they have served on previously.

Councilman Terry Hopkins will chair the public service committee, with Councilmen Ronald Predieri and Keith Hebble.

Hebble will again head the rules committee, with Predieri and Councilman John Hedeen.

Moore will head the finance committee with Barber and Hedeen.

Barber will head the safety and planning committee with Moore and Hopkins.

Hebble had suggested Strine, who declined because of the press of other duties.

A meeting of the rules committee will be held Monday morning to discuss a schedule of zoning fees.

The council accepted the bid of $1,175 for the 1947 International fire truck from Peter Govini, Lincoln, N.H.

The other bids were obviously too low to be accepted.

Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard, representing the planning commission, suggested to the council that a stop sign rather than a yield sign be installed coming out of the parking area on the north side of the Square.

The mayor suggested the problem be studied by the appropriate committee.

Four fined by mayor in short session

Mrs. Joseph McClure, Sandusky street, was fined $25 and court costs in Mayor Dean A. Cline's court Tuesday night. She had no operator's license.

Richard Shock, Attica, pleaded guilty to a DWI charge and was fined $300 and court costs. He will attend an alternate program in place of the required three day jail sentence.

Waiver was paid by Charles Shafer, Ontario, for $35. He was charged with speeding.

He was employed by Shelby Salesbook Co. for 20 years until he retired in 1963. He farmed for 70 years.

Higher rates sought in bid by Ohio Power

Ohio Power Co. will file a request with the Public Utilities Commission on or after Feb. 28 seeking $84 million in additional revenues.

"As required by law," said Charles A. Heller, president of Ohio Power, "we are today notifying appropriate public officials of our intent to request rate relief."

Heller said the request, if granted in the full amount, would raise the typical residential customer's bill for 750 kwh by 16 per cent, or $7.38. He pointed out that an increase is unlikely before next November, "more than 16 months after the conclusion of our previous case."

In its previous case, Heller noted, Ohio Power received only two-thirds of the requested amount.

New Haven tavern loses liquor license

The license of Wright Way Inn at New Haven to dispense liquor has been revoked.

Ohio Liquor Control board decided Dec. 28 to revoke the license. It did so after testimony by New Haven township trustees and a petition signed by 35 residents of the township were received.

The petition was filed in August of 1981.

Testimony from both sides was heard during November. The owner, George Wright, was represented by Gordon Blackman, a Shelby lawyer, who says his client will appeal. While the appeal awaits decision, the establishment will remain open for business. This may take several months.

Complaints against the Wright Way Inn:

1. Disorderly and unruly conduct by patrons, including "urinating in the parking lot, noise until 4 a. m., fights and foul language."

2. A resident who asked bar patrons to abate their noise was assaulted and hospitalized.

3. Guns were fired in the parking lot.

4. Numerous complaints to the sheriff's department resulted from conduct at the establishment.

5. Male patrons of the establishment seek to undress female patrons in the parking lot.

6. A Willard Fire department emergency squad refused to enter the place without a police escort.

In its decision, the liquor control board held all these allegations to be true.

First half tax bills in mail

First half real estate tax statements to Huron county freeholders were mailed Jan. 7.

Taxpayers should put the small stub from their statement in with their check or money order so the treasurer's office can process payments rapidly.

If a taxpayer does not receive a statement he should call the treasurer's office at 668-2090. Taxpayers who have questions about their new appraisal values should call or come in to the real estate appraisal office, Tel. 668-8643.

School seeks volunteers

Volunteer assistance to Plymouth High school in executing its educational mission is sought by its principal, Jeffrey Slauson.

Persons willing to assist the school from time to time may notify his office in writing. Name, address, telephone number and a brief statement as to availability of time and capacity of volunteer may be sent to him at the high school.

"All teachers and all departments at one time or another need help with projects that could be worked on at home as well as in the school," he says.

Fire truck bids 'disappointing' chief says

Bids received Monday to sell three vehicles belonging to the fire department were disappointing.

There were only two, and both extremely low.

The other bid was from Peter F. Govini, Lincoln, N.H., who offered $1,175 for the 1947 truck.

Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine, Councilman Keith Hebble and James C. Root, village administrator, opened them at noon Monday in the village office.

Strine said he had received numerous telephone inquiries about the equipment and seemed disappointed there were not more bidders.

Political plum drops in lap of villager

A 1972 alumnus of Plymouth High school has found to be true what he always said was true: that if you show fealty to a political candidate long enough, you'll collect a reward.

David A. Howard has been appointed by his old friend, Sherrod Brown, the new secretary of state, to be a regional field representative for an eight county area surrounding Richland county.

The 28-year-old Howard was a campaign worker for Brown, despite the fact he couldn't vote for his leader, when Brown sought reelection as representative to the General Assembly from Richland county. Howard is a 1976 alumnus of Ashland college, where he majored in political science. He has a master's degree in public administration of Ohio State university and is studying there for a bachelor's degree in education. He is a graduate of Claude Pettit college of law, Ohio Northern university, but has not yet passed the Ohio bar.

Want job? Senator to name a page

Steinbrenner said applicants must be attending college in the Columbus area, be better than average students and be willing to work between 10 and 20 hours a week in the Statehouse.

"Although the work of a page is mostly routine, such as running errands and other basic office chores, it does offer an opportunity to observe the legislature first hand," Steinbrenner said. "It is a valuable learning experience, especially for those students interested in government and politics."

Applicants should send a cover letter and resume to: Sen. Lowell Steinbrenner, Ohio Senate, Statehouse, Columbus, 43216.

Californian says 'thank you' for recipe by sending one for Chili Relleno

By AUNT LIZ

All of a sudden I think I have made a monumental discovery: the difference between men and women (and not the differences which start way back, like boys are blue and girls are pink).

This all happened the other day when a nice letter came from a gal whom I had almost forgotten and really did not know too well. She was older than our kids, got married and moved to California.

Somehow she got hold of one of these columns with the zucchini cookie recipe. She said she had searched and searched for one, and there it was in a small weekly paper that a couple of million people say they do not read.

All I can say is "thank you" to her and I am so glad she has it, because the cookies are very tasty.

I also must say another "thank you" to her for the really tasty recipe she sent.

It is a good sized one, probably too much for just two people. But if you have a microwave oven, it's a good deal to heat it up in sections. Otherwise it would be great for a buffet.

To get back to how this all came about for me to make a great discovery about people is that women pass on nice things like recipes.

Have you ever heard of a man who does? Maybe there are, but I don't know any. They usually pass on some shady stories or where the best fishing is in Lake Erie, but nothing really practical.

Have laid out three 7 oz. cans of whole mild green chilis which are seeded, three eggs, a half pound each of grated Cheddar and Monterey Jack cheese and a 13 oz. can of evaporated milk.

Spread a layer of chilis flat down in the baking dish, mix the cheeses and sprinkle about half over them, another layer of chilis, then the rest of the cheese.

Beat the eggs and mix well with the milk and pour it all over.

Bake for about a half hour at 350 degrees.

I am not sure if this would freeze well. I learned a long time ago that some things with spices or spicy stuff simply will not. The flavor is lost somehow. Pesto sauce can be frozen beautifully, but not curry.

Since we have been riding the gravy train weatherwise, best you get ready for what can come.

Don't overload your freezers too much. There is such a happening of not electricity for hours. This also applies to refrigerators. Buy canned stuff which if necessary you can eat cold, because there may be no gas for a while.

What year was the big blizzard? Something like 1978, when about everything went out, including water because the pumps could not work without electricity. Then that went out for us, but the gas did stay.

Three of us sat down to a real feast of spaghetti. We managed the water to cook the pasta by simply opening a door and bringing in nice white snow to melt. The sauce nicely defrosted on its own, and we always have a can of grated cheese. Sometimes we do not have fresh candles, but a large collection of half used ones. At least we could see, but the house got colder and colder with no heat.

Now we can all look back on those days and kind of laugh, but it was really not that funny. Somehow it should have taught every housewife a very good lesson.

Eagles wallop Plymouth, 97 to 68

Big gun for Plymouth is Rodney Hampton, last in a long line of his family to play for Plymouth. Left-handed all the way, he wears No. 20, plays in the forecourt, shoots well and rebounds adequately. He managed 18 against Monroeville and 14 against Crestview last week.

No. 20 in Eagle uniform is Jeff Stieber, not a starter, but certainly a valuable contributor to Monroeville's cause. He scored 12 against South Central and 12 against Plymouth in successive games last week. An 11th grader, he stands five feet eight inches.

With an awesome display of sharp shooting and tight defense, Monroeville blew Plymouth off the floor Saturday night, proving once again three axioms of basketball: the home floor has advantage, this is a game of height, and the best offense is a shot that goes down.

Monroeville ran from the gun and built a 12 point lead before Plymouth was able to score. The Big Red having scored three, on a basket and penalty shot by Greg Polachek, who wound up with 21 points, with 6:04 remaining in the first period. The Eagles then strung together six more points before Plymouth was able to get another score, this one a rebound by Mike McKenzie. Monroeville scored eight more unanswered points, allowed Plymouth to have two free throws, and then fired in eight additional markers. When the horn sounded, Monroeville had scored 36 points, surely a local record for one period.

The Eagles attempted 27 shots in the first eight minutes and 15 of them went down. Most of them were first shots, but the superior Monroeville rebounding proved effective as well.

In the second period, it was more of the same. Monroeville fired for field goal 25 times and was successful with 12 of them. At the half, the Eagles were so far ahead they couldn't be beaten with a stick. The score was 63 to 29.

Plymouth was respectable in the third period, when it scored 29 points.

scored 29 points. Monroeville managed 16, all of them on field goals, for which it tried 26 times.

For the entire night, the Eagles launched 97 shots and made 42 of them. They missed only six of 19 free throws. They took down 69 rebounds and were charged with only seven turnovers. This was an exceptional night's work.

Plymouth shot 70 times and made 24 of them, average for Plymouth but age for Plymouth but certainly not good enough in this game. The Big Red had 34 free throws and made 20 of them.

Monroeville had five players in double figures and nine who scored. Dan Jordan was tops with 22, Don Farmer had 21, Landoll 15, Ron Farmer 12 and Jeff Stieber 10.

Polachek had a season high for him and for Plymouth. Rodney Hampton scored 18 and Craig Thornsberry 13.

St. Peter's girls humiliated Plymouth here Jan. 5, 51 to 18.

Cougars dump Plymouth

Big second period wins for Crestview

Apologies ought to be extended to those who paid to see Crestview defeat Plymouth, 58 to 51, in Firelands conference play here Friday night.

Neither team played well. Consider: 52 turnovers in 32 minutes, better than three every two minutes. Total output in first eight minutes of play: 12 points. Field goal shooting percentage by the home team: 31. Free throw shooting percentage by the home: 65.

Crestview seized the lead early in the second period and never looked back. It was 10 all when Brian Easterling canned a shot from 16 feet out and the Cougars ran on to a 24-point period and a lead of 30 to 23 at the half.

A six point run by Plymouth with less than two minutes left in the half helped the Big Red to cut into a big Crestview lead.

The home outfit ouscored Crestview by two in the third quarter. Easterling had three field goals to keep Crestview in the running.

Plymouth was within striking distance as the final period got under way.

It was here that Mike Williams went to work. After Craig Thornsberry sank two free throws for Plymouth to cut the lead to three, Williams threw in a 19-footer, then another at the same range from the other side of the key and, after John Kochheiser slipped one in from 18 feet away, he swished the net again, this time from 19 feet out.

This outburst gave Crestview a lead of 48 to 37, which the Cougars built to 50 to 39. Then Plymouth began to score. Thornsberry hit a bucket and Mike McKenzie got four free throws and it was 50 to 44. Kochheiser sank two free throws and Plymouth took off agin, this time for three points. The Big Red used its fourth time out at 1:45, whereupon Crestview ran off four markers and Plymouth called for time once again. The clock read 1:15. The score was 56 to 49. Plymouth was unable to cut the advantage before the buzzer sounded.

Kochheiser led all scorers with 18. Williams had 14, John Kochenderger and Easterling 10 apiece.

For the Big Red, Rodney Hampton had 14, McKenzie 12, Thornsberry 12.

Crestview got off 55 shots at the basket, Plymouth 54.

The visitors won the rebound battle, 28 to 26.

Coach Paul Carleton was visibly upset with the refereeing. He was up at least a dozen times. Plymouth had no business arguing with the officials and did none.

Girls defeat New London

Plymouth overcame a half-time lead and then hung on to stave off a last ditch challenge by New London to win a Firelands conference game here Tuesday night.

The score was 38 to 37. Plymouth won it at the foul line, where it outshot the Wildcats, eight to three. The visitors outscored the Big Red from the field, 17 to 15.

Rhonda Branham scored 17 to lead the winners, who now have won seven against four defeats. Nancy Nirode, New London's big gun, finished with 18. The Wildcats are now 8-and-5 overall and 5-and-4 in league play.

The bigger visitors outrebounded Plymouth and the Big Red was fortunate to win. Its mistakes, both physical and mental, in the last three minutes frittered away a five point advantage.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

A good start: let's go!

The timing may be wrong, the result may be not what is hoped for. But at least a start has been made, and we applaud that.

Elsewhere today we report that the head football coach has told eighth graders, and through them, their parents, that a separate ninth grade team will be organized in August. It will be limited to scrimmages among ninth graders and will play a limited ninth grade schedule, if –

If what?

If, first of all, there are sufficient players who'll turn out.

The coach is quick to acknowledge that at the end of the season in November there was only slightly more than a handful of eighth graders on the junior high school squad. These, under normal circumstances, should be expected to report for the high school team this year. Well, almost all of them.

It's no secret that some parents, perhaps wisely, choose not to allow their sons to take risks with their bodies and minds that need not be taken. There is no law that says a ninth grader must turn out for football; indeed, there is no law that says that any boy need compete in football. Considering that unless he's darned lucky, his football career will be limited to four seasons of peripatetic play in schoolboy competition, the wonder is that he even considers it, in the face of the opportunity to learn cheaply and without embarrassment a sport that he can play his whole life and one that the public is wont to support with its tax dollars in thousands of communitites.

What's good about this decision is that, if it works, it will at long last put the program in the proper perspective . Its implementation will mean that no one can hereafter say that "I'm not going to allow my boy to be cannon fodder for the bigger ones."

There have been verified reports, which were publicized here last season, that some 11th and 12th graders "haze" younger players, probably because they are jealous of their places on the team and wish not to countenance the thought, let alone the reality, that they may be replaced by a puerile ninth grader.

The new proposal puts an end to that kind of nonsense.

It also puts an end to another kind of nonsense, namely, that unequal, and therefore unfair, competition among boys of different ages and stages of physical development militates against success by the younger ones. It may be so. But if the parents of the new ninth graders will consider the facts, they, and we, will soon see what genuine nonsense this is.

There is no reason why the program can't work. All it needs is bodies. But then, cynics that we are, we are constrained to say, "Isn't it true that every proposal advanced here in the last 15 or 20 years needed little more than bodies, of which it was systematically starved and eventually succumbed." Consider the Cub Scouts, the Boy Scouts, the Chamber of Commerce, the 20th Century circle, the Tourist club, the JayCees, the Huron Valley Bowmen, the Plymouth Grange, to name but nine.

The stewardship shown by the coach and his superiors is commendable. We have said before, there are two opinions about athletics in Plymouth High school that prevail in the Firelands conference, in which we are a Johnny-come-lately. One is "I'm from Plymouth and glad of it" and the other is "I'm glad I'm not from Plymouth." To change them is to win a few. To win a few is to adopt a sound program. Let's go!

2.4% pay raise given by schools to administrators

A 2.4 per cent salary increase retroactive to July 1 was approved Monday night by Plymouth Board of Education for administrators and non-certificated personnel.

The raise is identical to that approved on Jan. 3 for teachers.

It comes as the result of a promise made in the spring that if sufficient state support were realized, all personnel would be accorded a five per cent raise.

The increase was approved unanimously.

How local pupil transportation costs compare with state averages was dealt with by Supt. Douglas Stazes.

Plymouth district compares favorably with state data, he said.

Mrs. Amy R. Collins, Mansfield, foreign language instructor, was accorded maternity leave from Mar. 18 for six weeks.

Mrs. Robert D. Forsythe, Sr., recently retired after a generation as cafeteria employee at Shiloh, applied for and received severance pay. Her replacement, albeit on a part-time basis only, will be Sandra Wiley, who lives near the school in Shiloh.

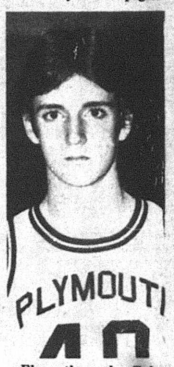

Mrs. Neil McKown, elementary teacher at Shiloh who took maternity leave, has returned to her duties.

Karl Pfaff, 3rd, Willard, high school instructor, was given a supplemental contract as supervisor of an intramural athletic program, in which enrollment exceeds 40 pupils.

At a cost of 75 cents a pupil for the year, the board renewed a contract with Satellite V Film center, Mansfield, by which instructional films are made available. Maynard J. Coon, former superintendent here, is in charge of the program.

Home economics and art instructors showed the board in a brief presentation how the high school is implementing a state grant for nutritional education. Aim of the program is to control weight among pupils and to encourage them to eat sensibly. Plymouth is one of 72 districts in the state to receive the grant. A total of 292 applied. The grant requires, the board was told, that the food service department must become involved. The home economics department is endeavoring to arrange for an offering of a salad bar on

A 1965 alumnus of Plymouth High school was chosen president pro tempore by Shiloh's village council Jan. 12.

He is Charles R. (Rick) Reeder, who was the unanimous choice of his colleagues. That he abstained did not change the outcome; under Robert's Rules of Order, which govern the council, an abstention is counted with the majority.

John Barnhart was appointed zoning inspector and John Shephard as street supervisor. His hospitalization costs, the council was told, are now $2,673 a year.

The new truck's hydraulic apparatus will not operate the truck bed and the salt spreader simultaneously, the council was told. Apparently a mistake was made in preparing the specifications for the truck. The council will seek an opportunity to obtain a new hydraulic apparatus.

The council agreed to pay one-third of the cost of a hose adapter for the Cass-Bloominggrove-Shiloh Fire department.

Company burial at Shiloh

Highest ranking female military person ever discharged to Plymouth Local School district, Miss Eleanor M. Company, 72, Plymouth route 1, died at her home Jan. 11 of an illness of one year.

She was discharged from the Navy Nurse Corps as a lieutenant commander, having served 23 years.

Born in Toledo, she was a 1928 alumnu of Shiloh High school. She was graduated by St. Vincent's hospital school of nursing, Toledo, and held the baccalaureate degree in public health nursing of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. She took the master's degree in education from William and Mary college, Williamsburg, Va.

She retired in 1982 from home services department, Mansfield Memorial homes, where she was employed 10 years.

She was a leader of Shilohettes 4-H club for 10 years. She was a communicant of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church here. Her pastor, the Rev. Frank Eckart, was celebrant of the funeral mass from the church Friday at 12:30 p. m. Burial by McQuate-Secor Funeral home was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township.

She is survived by nieces and nephews. Her parents and a brother, Harold, died earlier.

Zoning fee schedule to be submitted Tuesday

A schedule of zoning fees will be submitted Tuesday to village council.

The council rules committee met Monday night to determine it. Only member present was Councilman Keith Hebble. Councilmen John E. Hedeen and Ronald Predieri were absent. Hebble met with Mayor Dean A. Cline, Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine and Village Administrator James C. Root.

A fee of $5 will be charged for an initial zoning certificate. This will apply to anyone planning to build a structure that conforms to the regulations in which it will be placed. This charge is in addition to the building prmit of $10.

A conditional zoning certificate will cost $25, and an appeal to change from the stated classification of the area will also be charged at $25.

These charges will compensate the zoning commissioner, Jack Laser, who was appointed last week by the council, for the paper work involved to see that any building or changes conform to the zoning code.

The code has been adopted by an index only and never fully approved as a complete ordinance by the council.

Only a few copies of it exist. It was determined that it should be produced in a printed form, which will be available to the public to read.

Laser will undertake a complete study of every structure and its use in the village. It is recommended that he be paid $3.50 an hour for 300 hours work, which amounts to 15 minutes a structure.

Root estimates there are about 800 structures in the village, excluding garages.

Purpose of the study is to determine just what each structure is used for, a residence or a business.

An amendment to the appropriation ordinance will be necessary to pay him, which the mayor suggested could come out of the Federal Revenue Sharing money.

Here's annual report of mayor

By law, the executive officer of this municipal corporation is required to give a report on the affairs of the Village. This will be done as I did in the past in outline form, starting with 1982 and ending with my recommendations for 1983 as follows:

I. Better Communications

Communication has improved considerably between the village officers and other community organizations. I do hope for even better communications in 1983.

II. Zoning

As you all know, our Zoning Ordinance has been adopted by the village at our last meeting. This, in my opinion, is a very large accomplishment. I am very proud of all those persons that were involved. Now comes the difficult and most important part – Enforcement. Like any other law or ordinance, it's only as good as the people behind it; and in Plymouth's case, I feel that we have the right people to do the job.

III. Pay Ordinance

In 1982 our pay ordinance was inadequate as I stated in my report for that year. However there have been some changes to relinquish a few of those conflicting areas. These changes were very good and well-thought-out and implemented by our rules and regulations committee. Perhaps a few minor changes will be needed in the future.

IV. Taxes

The village officers are seeking ways to free-up our village income tax. One way was the tax levy for the fire department, which was voted upon and passed by the people.

For 1983 I will recognize the major areas in which I feel it is necessary to maintain the proper progress that has been implemented in 1981 and 1982 by the Mayor and Village Fathers.

I. Industry

As we all know the major industry in Plymouth is the Plymouth Locomotive Works, subsidiary of Banner Industries. PLW has a number of employees laid off. This directly involves the village as a whole because of the income tax monies that are brought in. Naturally, the monies will be lower than anticipated. For this reason, my personal goal for 1983 is to bring additional industry to Plymouth. As this matter is a complicated one in itself, we will all need to work together for a common goal. We are starting to learn more about what draws industry and what villages can use as bargaining tools to promote such growth. I don't want to make Plymouth an industrial village; I still feel that we should be "residential", not "industrial".

II. Police

There is some controversy over how large our police department should be and what (monies) it should take to run a department adequately. I feel the police department is adequate with the number of personnel it presently has. The next question is how to fund the police department and in fact, do the people of the village really want a police department of the present size. In my opinion, the department is minimum in size, yet costly. Any cut in the present personnel would leave us with inadequate police protection. For this reason, I urged council to put a police levy on the ballot in June, 1982. Such a levy would help fund the police department and release promised tax monies that were whole-heartedly intended for capital improvements. Unfortunately, the general fund is depleting because the main user is the police department. For this reason, I feel we need a police operation and maintenance levy to be placed on the ballot at the earliest possible time.

III. Monies

This is a simple category because this can only be answered by the standards that the people in the village want to set for themselves. In my opinion, the fathers of the village are excellent money managers. They weigh all factors before making a decision. This is what the village lacked for many years. In essence, if the people want a better place to live, they must support their community. Please remember that when the council proposes a levy they are doing it for a just reason, not arbitrarily making a statement.

In summary, for 1983 I foresee some problems due to the present economic status and lower anticipated revenues. Hopefully, we can all work together to maintain our present level of stability. Good luck to us all.

Sincerely,
Mayor Dean A. Cline

Nero Wolfe?

Cooking school murder story affords new recipes

By AUNT LIZ

Have you ever noticed how some things go together like a dream?

Like raspberries and cream, mashed potatoes and nice brown gravy, turkey and dressing?

Then there are some things that simply do not, although some think they are great, like mustard and catsup together on the same sandwich, or brandy in coffee, which can ruin both of them.

There are also people to consider. How many times have you met a couple and wonder why in the heck he married her, and she married him?

For years I loved all the Nero Wolfe detective stories, because he had such a good cook, even though most of the things that Fritz cooked for that great guy were a little far out. I even bought the Nero Wolfe Cookbook one year for a Christmas present, and for the most part what he ate in New York, you cannot possibly find here.

But I polished off a great mystery the other night. It beautifully combined three nice murders, all within a couple of hours, with some practical recipes and an explanation of how to make some of them.

It's called "The Cooking School Murders", and if you never read another book in your life, read it.

The gal who wrote it, Virginia Rich, looks from her picture like some of us grandmothers, only she is better looking and she obviously has a small town background. The story is set in one in Iowa and could be Ohio without any problems at all.

Right off the bat came a beautiful recipe for chicken breasts. Start with four whole ones or eight halves, which will serve eight. It can easily be adjusted to the number to be served. Skin and bone them. (This is kind of where the first murder came in; a nice, sharp boning knife did it.)

Sprinkle them with grated gingerroot. I would think you could use powdered ginger. Soak them in a mixture of a half cup if siy sauce, one cup of white wine and one tablespoon of brown sugar for about six hours, turning them every now and then.

They are to be served cold with peas and stuffed tomatoes, but they sound great on rice.

The next recipe, also chicken, was served at a dinner party to which the heroine, who was trying to figure out whodunit was invited. She went so she could spy on them, since everyone could be guilty.

Fortunately, this family had a darn good cook, and with the big help of the writer, made up Chicken Wellington, which is a lot cheaper than Beef Wellington, and chickens are much more available than a good filet. And cheaper.

Then cut squares of puff paste, which you can simply buy in sheets now and do not have to spend 10 hours making it; dot the breasts with a little butter and spread some pate over them, then wrap up in the puff squares and bake until the outside is golden.

Serve with a little sauce of wine, mushrooms and a dash of thinly cut onion which has been slightly thickened.

Don't let the pate throw you. Every cookbook has a recipe for the mock stuff which is merely liverwurst gooped up a little and very simple. Just mix in a little mayonnaise, lemon juice and brandy and mix to a paste.

Suspension of a reserve player for one game because of unauthorized absence for practice did not occur while the player was on holiday with his family, his coach, John Hart, asserted Jan. 12.

"I would never punish a player for missing practice because he was under orders of his family. The suspension occurred because the player missed a regular practice while he and his family were at home, in town."

Girls defeated in league play

The Roughriders outrebounded Plymouth, 30 to 16, outshot the visitors, 22 to 16, and made fewer mistakes, 22 to 28.

Ann Knoll, a 12th grader who stands five feet 11 inches tall, was the big gun for the winners. She pitched in 13 field goals and scored 11 points in the last period to hold off a Plymouth putsch.

Lisa Daron scored 19 for the Big Red, which missed 12 of 23 free throws, enough to win the game.

Flyers down Big Red for 22nd straight loss

St. Paul's did in basketball what it wasn't able to accomplish in football at Norwalk Saturday night.

The Flyers outclassed Plymouth, 59 to 44, by taking an early lead, building it to an 18-point advantage at the half and simply hanging on the rest of the way. It was the 22nd straight loss for the Big Red.

The home team simply outshot the Big Red, which outrebounded the Flyers, 31 to 26, mainly because lesser players were on the floor for the winners during much of the second half.

Both teams encountered personal foul trouble. Steve Myers and Pat Schnellinger accumulated four apiece during the early stages of the last period and went to the bench. But they had done their damage by this time. Myers completed his efforts for the night with nine and Schnellinger with 16. Schnellinger was the greater loss, for he is a fine rebounder.

For Plymouth, two fouled out, Mike McKenzie and Brian Vredenburgh, and two others hung on with four personals each. These were Craig Thornsberry, who got his third and fourth late in the first half but hung on manfully, and Greg Polachek. For the first time this season, every player on the Red bench saw action.

Plymouth got the first basket and thereafter was outshot and outrebounded. The Big Red managed only five points in the first eight minutes, during which the Flyers scored 14, eight of them by Schnellinger. St. Paul's came back in the second period with 17, including five free throws, and held Plymouth to just eight.

Only a respectable performance by the visitors during the third period, when they put together 18 points on nine field goals, the result of just 16 shots at the basket, saved them from a blowout. Plymouth could manage only three field goals in te only three field goals in the last eight minutes but went tot he line often enough, making seven of nine free throws. The Flyers outscored Plymouth by five in the final period to establish the big lead.

St. Paul's connected with 22 of 61 tries for field goal and 15 of 21 free throws, whereas Plymouth, which hasn't been shooting well lately, scored with 18 of 56 tries and missed half of its 16 free throws.

The Flyers would have had a larger margin, perhaps, but for their turnovers, of which they committed 21. Plymouth was charged with 24, 12 of them in the first half.

For the Big Red, McKenzie and Rodney Hampton, whod and Rodney Hampton, who did not score a point until 3:05 remained in the third period, and who took only four shots at the basket until that point, scored 12 points each.

Roseberry coaching at Dover

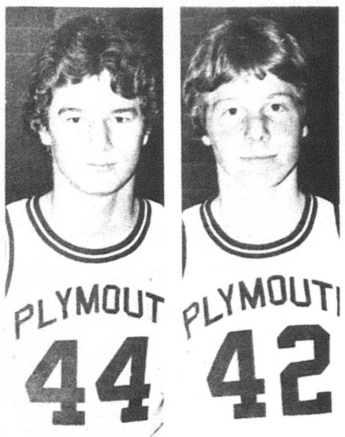

By THE OLD TIMER

Big Red fans who still smart over the needless beating administered by Lexington on the Minutemen's floor some seasons back, when Coach Dan Roseberry kept his hods on the floor until they had amassed 119 points, may take note that he is now head coach at Dover, having held three head coaching spots since he left Lexington. Those who know him say he's something like fish: after a while, he begins to smell.

Prediction: New York vs. Washington in the Super Bowl. It's unlikely Miami can defeat the Jets three times in one season. And on what it showed against Green Bay, Dallas will have to dig deeper than what's available in Texas to defeat Joe Theisman and the Redskins.

Buckeye Central decided early it didn't want to play Plymouth in football again and has lined up a game with Crestline. Seneca East will replace the Bucks in the Big Red slate. Other non-league games will be with Lucas and Northmor.

Some Plymouth fans are upset about a 22-game losing strak. In 1954, when the O.T. came here, the team was in the throes of a streak that ended eventually at No. 47 by defeating the Yellow Jackets of New Haven.

A mainstay of the Big Red reserve team is No. 42, Chad McGinnis, one of two 11th graders on a small squad coached by John Hart that has won seven and lost three (to Clyde, Crestview and St. Paul's), measures five feet 11 inches. He plays point guard. McGinnis is also a letter winner in football.

No. 42, Darrin Branham, is a six footer on the reserve squad. An 11th grader, he's a strong rebounder and a capable floor player but not much of a shooter. He plays football as well and won a letter in that sport. It's helpful, he says, "when you can walk to practice." He lives in town.

Fifth graders win No. 13 in big week

Thrice beaten so far, fifth grade Vikings have reached the halfway point of their season with 13 victories.

Latest: Over Shelby St. Mary's, 25 to 16; over Bucyrus Holy Trinity, 25 to 15; over Mansfield St. Mary's in league play, 20 to 14.

They were defeated by Mansfield St. Peter's for the second time, and again by two points, this time in overtime, 25 to 23.

Sixth graders capture pair

Two victories were recorded by sixth grade Vikings last week.

Record is now 12-and-2.

The Vikes trimmed Shelby St. Mary's Thursday night, 71 to 14.

J. T. Reppert scored eight in the Madison match. All of the Vikes got on the scoreboard in the St. Mary's game.

New London outplays Plymouth for conference victory, 43 to 40

New London outshot, outrebounded and outdefensed Plymouth in Firelands conference play here Friday to send the Big Red to its 22nd straight defeat, 43 to 40.

Plymouth overcame a Wildcat lead by scoring eight unanswered at the start of the fourth quarter and led by two at 38 to 36 before Pen Patrick, who learned his basketball in the Plymouth district, tied it with a 17-footer at 4:19. Plymouth immediately called for time. When play resumed, Patrick was again successful at 2:21 and New London did not give up the lead thereafter.

Plymouth crept to within two at :32 but a free throw by Scott Pheifer with five seconds left put the game out of reach.

New London won because its zone defense kept Plymouth away from the basket. The Big Red's outside shooting was nothing to write home about. Indeed, Plymouth got off 47 shots and was successful with 17 whereas the visitors unloaded 50 times and were on target 20 times.

Both teams were better than average at the foul line. New London missed one of our. Plymouth three of nine.

So long as Kevin Dunn was on the floor, New London's rebounding kept Plymouth away from the basket. During the first period Plymouth had only three rebounds. Overall, the Big Red was credited with 20, New London with 30. Had the Wildcats been more careful on offense, it might have been a wider margin. They committed 19 turnovers, Plymouth only 14.

Dunn was taken out of the game as the result of a dispute at the scorer's table. During the first half, the scorer said Dunn accumulated three personal fouls. The New London bench and some spectators loudly disputed this. They said a foul charged against Brian Vredenburgh, No. 40 in white, was erroneously credited to Dunn, No. 40 in black. And late in the first half, a foul was called against Greg Polachek, the fifth against Plymouth and therefore a penalty foul with a bonus attempt. The scorer did not agree and no shot was attempted, the scorer maintaining Plymouth had committed only four fouls.

With both New London contentions the press table was in agreement.

Curt Cooke led the Wildcats with 12. Patrick had 10. Dunn wound up with eight, but would have had more had he played the third period.

Rodney Hampton did not score a point for Plymouth until 2:07 remained in the first half, when he managed a free,throw. Until that time, he had taken only three shots at the basket.

Deprived of his high scoring efforts, and those of Mike McKenzie, who was held to eight points with three field goals in 12 tries, Plymouth fell back upon Jeff Fenner, inserted as a substitute. He managed 11 points to lead the Big Red contingent.

A promise that a ninth grade football team with scrimmage limited to ninth graders will be organized in August has been made to eighth graders in Shiloh Junior High school by Richard Roll, head football coach.

But there is a catch to it. It is "if there are enough boys who turn out for practice."

Which is the $64 question. At season's end in November, 1982, only eight players of the eighth grade were participating on the junior high school squad.

Is it a question of funding?

"Absolutely not. I am told that if we have enough players to man a ninth grade team we will have a competent coach and an assistant. And there is enough equipment to outfit these players safely and adequately."

It is no secret that some parents are fearful their sons may be injured if they scrimmage with older, larger players. Roll says he hopes this assurance will induce these parents to permit their sons to turn out for a ninth grade team.

Local drivers display anger over truck tax

Local truck drivers met over the weekend to protest the hastily passed legislation by Congress before it recessed for the holidays.

The bill calls for an additional federal tax of five cent a gallon on fuel plus increased taxes on tires, road usage and other items necessary to keep the nation's trucks rolling.

To counteract the legislation, they are proposing a nationwide strike beginning Jan. 31.

The date was set in order to give time for congressional action to change the bill.

Truckers say they can live with the proposed fuel tax but not the other taxes, which they say will increase their annual costs over $5,000 for each tractor-trailer.

They are also asking that the speed limit be increased to 65 miles an hour on all federally funded highways and four lane roads.

Another objection to the bill is that Congress tacked on all sorts of projects to be funded from the revenues of the new taxes. Some of it will go for highways, but each state must produce matching funds in order to obtain federal funds, so there will also be increased state taxes.

A goodly share of the proposed revenue is earmarked for various "pet" projects of the congressmen, which includes a ferry boat survey in the Virgin Islands, for forgiveness of 80 per cent the state of Massachusettes has owed the federal government from a 1976 loan, study of the tax status of religious orders and so on. The list of the "pork barrelling" is lengthy.

It will take a while for the consumer's pocketbook to be hit, but if a trucking cost rise because of the new taxes is forthcoming, prices will also rise.

Locally the increase will lessen local income tax money, since businesses related to the trucking industry will be hit.

History of county in making

If you want to go down in history, you can write your own.

Richland county chapter of the Ohio Genealogical society plans to update local county history, the first time since 1890.

It is soliciting family histories of 500 words or less plus one picture to include in the proposed volume.

Anyone living in the county now or who has lived there in the past in invited to submit his story.

There is no charge for it but it is hoped that those contributing will order the book when it is published. It will be $35 plus sales tax and postage which totals $39.25.

Histories that exceed the 500 word limit will be charged 10 cents for each additional word, and more than one photograph will be $12.50 each.

Since the last volume was published, many new families have become prominent in the county. It is hoped that those families will be part of the book which brings the local history up to date and will be very useful in the future for reference.

All histories and data must be submitted by Mar. 30 to Richland County History, Box 3154, Lexington, Ohio, 44904.

Further information may be obtained from the Plymouth Branch library.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

What's next in health care?

Everybody knows that health costs are out of sight.

Our own experience was excruciatingly expensive.

What can be done about it?

Thirty thousand residents of Polk county, Iowa, the most populous in the Hawkeye state, were sufficiently interested in controlling health costs that they sent their ballots back. Every adult in the county was polled. The organizers figured on 5,000 to 10,000 returns. They were shocked when the number passed 30,000. But it shows how deeply people care and what they want done about it.

Of the 30,000 who responded, 82 per cent said steps should be taken immediately to gain control of rising health costs.

Seventy-four per cent said hospitals ought to coordinate planning to avoid duplication of expensive services.

Seventy-five per cent said home care should be provided for older persons with long-term illnesses, rather than care in hospitals or nursing homes.

Seventy per cent said there should be established health maintenance organizations (HMOs) of similar cost-conscious basic health care facilities.

Sixty-five per cent said hospitals should be compelled to agree to provide medical services for predetermined fees, so they would be forced to operate within fixed budgets.

Sixty-one per cent of the respondents emphatically disapprove of a scheme that would, in effect, ration health care. They said access to "very expensive technology" should not be limited for persons who are very old or who have almost no chance for recovery.

Should patients be required to pay higher deductibles on their health insurance policies? Forty-three per cent rejected that idea, 33 per cent favored it and 20 per cent said it should only be done if the problem gets worse.

Exactly half of those who responded said smokers and others who don't take care of themselves should be required to pay higher insurance premiums, but 35 per cent disagreed.

Exactly half of the respondents said Medicare should not be limited to those who need financial help.

Fifty-five per cent voted to require those of low income whose medical care is paid for by the government to use clinics, HMOs and other facilities to keep costs down.

And how, say the 82 per cent who voted for getting medical costs under control, should this be undertaken?

By encouraging persons to have tests and minor surgery done in clinics and doctors' oficers rather than in hospitals.

Blue Cross, which is the major health insuror in Iowa as well as other states, proposes a new system by which it would guarantee hospitals "prospective reimbursement" for Blue Cross subscribers' care. This means the hospitals would know in advance how much Blue Cross will pay them and would agree, in turn, to care for all Blue Cross patients without exceeding that amount.

It may be too soon, absent a more careful study of the effects of such a plan in Ohio, to say that it ought to be adopted. But make no mistake about it, the infamous TEFRA (Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act) laid down by the Congress and the Department of HHS will force it, in time.

To pass emergency legislation —

Council's hands tied: no quorum, one ill, one on vacation

Hands of Mayor Dean A. Cline and four councilmen were completely tied Tuesday night.

Approval of pending ordinances, planned as emergency acts, were held up, although passage was accorded their first readings.

Two special meetings are planned this week to complete the work in the hope that Moore will be well enough to attend.

The council found it necessary to correc the electric rate ordinance passed this month to state that the new rate is in effect as of Jan. 15.

Another ordinance which authorizes the mayor to make a land trade of eight and a half acres of low-lying swamp land for .0468 acres of the roadway which now belongs to the Donnenwirth family and is essential to any industry locating near the water plant also received its first approval.

An ordinance that states the village income tax money will be divided half for capital improvements and half for the general fund after administrative costs are deducted, which are about 16 per cent of the collections, was approved.

James C. Root, village administrator, asked if a council member would accompany him to the meeting Wednesday of the Richland County Growth Comis-
County Growth Commission.

Councilman Keith Hebble volunteered.

But no one volunteered to attend tonight's meeting in Ontario, during which Ohio Power's rate increase is to be discussed by other municipalities.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said adjustments are necessary in the recently adopted pay ordinance for ambulance personnel. Hebble said it would be necessary to make changes in the appropriation ordinance to take care of the costs of setting up the zoning commission. He also told the council what the proposed fees will be.

The village by resolution will apply for a "litter" grant, which Root says will hover around $2,400. Application is due by tomorrow.

This will help with the village's annual collection of rubbish.

Merger of banks discussed

A merger of Toledo Trustcorp, Inc., and Banc One Corp. may result from discussions now under way.

George W. Haigh, president and chief executive officer of Toledo Trustcorp, and John F. Havens, chairman of Banc One Corp., announced the two bank holding companies are engaged in discussions concerning an affiliation of Toledo Trustcorp with Banc One but they stress than an agreement in principle has not been reached and specific terms have not been determined.

Toledo Trustcorp has assets of $1.7 billion and operates five banks with 94 offices in Northwest, Ohio. Banc One Corp., including its pending affiliates, has assets of $7 billion with 310 banking offices throughout Ohio.

'Tiring, not boring' is Auntie's verdict of jury duty

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing like having a bunch of "experences" hang up on you.

Frankly, I think I am too old for such things that tae me out of my every day life.

But I got it, but good.

It is called jury duty.

Like just about everyone else, I craftily tried to evade it because of the time involved.

It went over like a lead balloon.

On the form to complete before the holidays I put down newspaper reporter for occupation. I couldn't dream up anything shadier.

It got completely ignored, so when it came time for us to say maybe we should not serve because of this or that, I said that I had had some experiences in conducting a court, which was every two weeks for eight years.

It was the defense attorney who pricked that balloon. He just looked at me and said, "You will bring a good background to the jury", so I was stuck.

It was a surprising experience. The 11 I served with were a good cross section of people, and each had something worthwhile to contribute. It truly heartened me to know that we have such people. They listened as hard as I did to two days of a trial, and came forth with some really good thinking. It took us over two hours to agree, and each of us spoke and the rest listened carefully.

One thing really disturbed me. When it was over and our verdict rea, there was a commotion outside the courtroom that really frightened everyone. They were scared of recriminations and bodily harm. It was recognized and we were given a police escort to our cars.

What worries me is whether will a jury actually let someone off scot free because of such fears? (Ed. note: It didn't in Chicago!)

If that starts to happen, this country has had it.

It does take a little courage to stand up and stick to what you think is right.

For years we have been unpopular because we said teach reading, writing and arithmetic in the public schools, but no religion. Some mothers who were simply too lazy to get their kids off to church school have told me how great it was that they did teach it in the classroom and how much they appreciated having their children taken care of with no effort on their part.

It takes a little of this and that to make our world, yes?

And warm means polenta. I think it is Italiano, at least that is where I learned to make it. First, have some spaghetti sauce ready and defrosted.

Actually, it is better if you make it one day. Let it rest and eat it the second day merely warmed up in the double boiler. It gets thicker.

This makes enough for four good servings.

Boil two and a half cups of water in the top of a double boiler. Throw in a dash of salt.

Mix a cup of cornmeal, the yellow is better and prettier, with a cup and half of water. Mix this with the boiling water, cover and cook away until it thickens.

With sauce on it, it is really good, and very filling.

Newsy notes . . .

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

Ohio Power Consumers, please write to Governor Celeste, State Office, 65 South Front St., Columbus, 63215, and protest the rate increase which Ohio Power is asking for again.

Here is an example of my bills:

	KWH Used	Cost
Jan. 1981	6895	$229.91
Jan. 1982	5045	196.98

Even though we used less than half the KWH, the cost was only $57.39 less.

And Ohio Power wants another increase!

Matrimonial Bond

Take stock in America.

Saving energy is easy. Even in the morning. All you need to know is what it takes and follow through.

So start putting them into practice.

Surprised, too, that your lifestyle won't change.

Morning Energy Savers

Starting tomorrow, take short showers.

When shaving, don't run hot water continuously. Fill the sink halfway instead.

If you use an electric razor you actually save energy, using less of it in a year than a hand razor and hot water uses in a week.

Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or a fry pan in place of the large oven or range surface units.

Never use the oven as a heater.

Save breakfast dishes until evening or a time when all dishes can be washed together.

If frying bacon and eggs, surface units can be turned off a short time before food is done. Let the retained heat finish the cooking.

In winter, open the draperies so sunlight will warm your home. Turn the thermostat down.

Turn off all unneeded lights, radio, TV, etc. when leaving the house or no one is using them.

One final tip.

For dozens of additional ideas, call or visit our office and ask for our free series of SAVE* booklets.

After 24 defeats —

Red downs Centerburg with strong second half

Plymouth brought an end to a 24-game losing streak here Jan. 18 with a 70 to 60 victory over winless Centerburg, which has now lost 14 in a row.

It was not easy during the first half, during which Plymouth saw the lead change hands eight times before it went to the dressing room with a two point advantage at 33 to 31. Rodney Hampton, the game's high scorer with 27 points, managed 14 of them in the first half, eight in the first period.

The Big Red went to work at the start of the second half. It scored four unanswered points, watched as Centerburg matched that performance, then strung together six unanswered markers to establish a 42 to 35 lead. The visitors cut it with two free throws but Plymouth got its act together and went to the intermission with a six point lead at 50 to 44.

There was still time and apparently opportunity for Centerburg to win. The Trojans certainly have the equipment. But Plymouth got some scoring from Mike McKenzie, whose cannon has been shackled for a few games. The doughty 11th grader threw in four buckets during the 20-point final period. Hampton had six and Brian Vredenburgh, whose shooting eye returned for this one, four during the same eight minutes.

Plymouth shot well enough on its own floor and that was the reason why it won. The Big Red got off 57 shots at the basket and converted 28 of them, just under 50 per cent. It missed 11 of 25 free throws, which is not so good and which requires improvement if Plymouth is to rise in Firelands conference standings.

The Big Red took down 32 rebounds, 10 fewer than Centerburg, and committed 18 turnovers, seven more than the Trojans, who unloaded 65 times, making 23. They missed seven of 21 free throw.s

Vredenburgh had 14, McKenzie wound up with 13 and Tom Baker 10. Craig Thornsberry fouled out with 6:48 left in the game without a point. Greg Polachek and Vredenburgh played most of the fourth period with four fouls apiece.

After three minutes 21 seconds of play at Collins Friday night, Western Reserve was out in front by 10 points and Plymouth hadn't a point on the board.

When it was all over, the Roughriders had outplayed, outpassed, outshot, outrebounded and outscored the Big Red, 73 to 56.

It was no contest.

The Riders took it to Plymouth from the start. The wonder is they did not use their big man, Todd Robinson, more often and more effectively. He scored only 13 points, took only 12 shots, making six, and was credited with seven assists.

The Roughriders shot extremely well. They got off 63 shots at the basket and converted 33 of them. Fully 60 per cent of the shots were from a range of eight fee or less.

Plymouth was compelled to play catch-up basketball. Once it got to within six points, early in the second period, but Western Reserve put on a splendid shooting display and pulled away easily. At the half the Roughriders led by 14 at 36 to 22.

Western Reserve only outscored Plymouth by eight in the third period, with balanced scoring from six players, and the game might as well have been called after that. For Plymouth never did get into the game again. The Riders allowed the Big Red to score seven unanswered points midway through the fourth quarter but it was too little and too late.

Plymouth did not shoot well in the first half, when it got off 28 shots and made just 10. Neither did it rebound well. It couldn't, with Robinson on the floor, but he was not the only one. Overall, the Riders had 41 rebounds, Plymouth just 29.

And Plymouth made only 23 of 55 tries for field goal, which would not be a bad record on another night, on another floor and against another opponent. Had the Riders not made so many turnovers they would probably have pushed their total into the nineties. As it was, with 15 mistakes in moving the ball, Western Reserve lost that many opportunities to score when Plymouth was desperate to reverse the trend.

Plymouth was charged with only 10 mistakes.

For Plymouth, Rodney Hampton had 17 and Greg Polachek 14. Without Polachek's great efforts, especially in the first half, Plymouth would have been completely out of it. He scored 10 in the first 16 minutes and four in the third period. He got into foul trouble in the fourth, but it hardly made any difference by this time.

Jim Wallace, a starting outside linebacker for the Quakers, received his fourth varsity letter award and was also honored for being named to the first team All Hoosier-Buckeye Central Collegiate conference squad and for receiving honorable mention to the NAIA District 22 all star team.

Wilmington finished at 8-1, shared the Hoosier-Buckeye Collegiate conference crown, and for the second time in three years participated in the NAIA, Division II, national playoffs. The Quakers now have chalked up 12 straight winning seasons, the last 11 under Coach Bill Ramseyer, who coached here 1960-62.

Wallace is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wallace. In addition to playing football at Wilmington, he is a member of the baseball team, serves as a dormitory resident assistant, and belongs to the market management club. He is majoring in marketing and business administration.

'77 alumnus, tennis star, in new post

A 1977 alumnus of Plymouth High school working as a communications systems representative for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., has been given technical support responsibility for one of Southern Bell's largest accounts, Georgia Power Co. After receiving a marketing degree from the University of Akron in 1981, Robert M. Davis, younger son of the James C. Davises, joined Southern Bell. He now designs data networks for remote computer locations in the Atlanta area.

In addition to academic success when he was a pupil here, young Davis excelled in tennis -- he played No. 1 for the Big Red team -- and played basketball.

Miller hurt

He was injured while wrestling.

Sixth graders divide pair

St. Peter's was the winner in overtime, 25 to 19, perhaps because the Vikes' leading scorer, Billy Weiss, was bereaved and therefore did not play and Stacy Hall was sick with influenza.

Vikes defeated Clear Fork, 28 to 12, Monday night. They led by 13 to 2 at the end of the first period.

Vikes are now 13-and-3 for the year.

Plymouth hung close for the first half but was in disarray in the third period, when the Mounties scored 12 and held Plymouth to three.

Plymouth was awarded 36 free throws, Mapleton 19. Plymouth missed 19, Mapleton eight. Mapleton outrebounded Plymouth, 41 to 27.

In the reserve game, there were 51 fouls whistled by the officials, who encountered several disputes ffrom the Mountie bench in the varsity game that necessitated two technical fouls.

. . . and No. 44 is Darrin Branham, just six feet, also an 11th grader, a mainstay of the reserve team that has lost only four games so far. This photograph and that adjoining were transposed last week.

Matmen nip Crestview; Pirates win

Plymouth won one and lost one in a triangular wrestling meet here Saturday, in action marred by injury to Jesse Miller, 132-pounder, who dislocated and fractured an arm.

The Big Red took the measure of Crestview, 38 to 41, despite Miller's default, but fell before Black River, 45 to 18.

Terry Parrigan, who's now 12-and-2, and Scott Ryman recorded the only pins for Plymouth, the former against Crestview, the latter against the Pirates.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Scorecard? How else can you tell which bank is which?

One almost needs a scorecard to keep track of the several changes in the banking scene.

"So what?" says our neighbor. "Why get all excited about one bank selling out to another? They're all in it to milk the customer for all they can get, no matter who owns them. Second National, Peoples Trust – Trust? – ha, that's laugh! A pox on the whole lot."

There are times when we empathize with his attitude. But not often. It is to a bank that we owe a monthly payment, which amounts to a considerable piece of change, before the house in which we live is ours. Ours and the county auditor's, that is.

The bank is the repository of such funds as we can husband and, more or less, it disburses them and accounts for them accurately. Even when we differ, and differ so strongly that we go to sleep knowing we're right, we know that in the long run we will lose and that evil computer has done us in again.

What prompts these observations is the announcement, compelled by the Securities Exchange commission, that Toledo Trust, which has swallowed up six banks, or branches thereof, in this county within the last year or so, with assets of $1.7 billion, is talking with BancOne, a Columbus holding company, with net holdings about four times those of Toledo Trust, about a merger.

Noises to this effect were heard in November. For a time trading in TrustCorp stock was suspended for a time. Too late to prevent the insiders from reaping a grand harvest, but suspended all the same.

That management has come forth and said so now lends support to the conclusion that, barring reentry of the Soviet satellite in Toledo or Columbus, the marriage will be consummated.

That it diminishes competition is what concerns us.

A banker whom we respect immensely said Monday night, "By 1986 or 1987, there won't be but 16 or 17 banks in the whole country."

Which scares us even more.

And the word on the national wire that failure of the oil cartel to agree on a new price for crude and production quotas to sustain the new price may lead to failure of the oil producer states to settle their enormous obligations with American banks, precipitating a banking crisis and a fiscal collapse, frightens us down to our bootstraps.

What happens when local management and control of the banking process is swallowed up into a great conglomerate is that the ordinary fellow, who depends so heavily upon negotiated credit, encounters difficulty of such proportions that he is afraid to tackle the proposition of funding his plans by borrowing money. This destroys the classic American entrepreneurial spirit, which is already under fire from other quarters, not the least of them at either end of Pennsylvania avenue in Washington. Only a fool would fail to see that confidence in the power and glory of, and the opportunity in, our national economy has diminished to the point that we have fewer and fewer folks who are willing to take a chance on America. And this opens another new can of worms that will plague us for the remainder of the century and well into the next.

Collision fatal to Coy Hillis, New Havenite

A prominent New Haven man was killed Friday evening in a collision in Route 103 east of Willard.

State highway patrolmen said he was eastbound in Route 103 trailing two vehicles, which slowed before he was able to stop. His car slid into the path of a westbound car driven by Bobby Patton, 23, Attica. The impact threw Patton's car into a ditch at the north edge of the highway.

Hillis was alone. Patton had three passengers, Teddy Slone, 23, New Washington; Laura Slone, 19, New Washington, and Wayne Dye, 23, Willard, each of whom was taken to Willard Area hospital, where Patton was also admitted.

Born in Richmond township June 20, 1909, Mr. Hilis lived most of his life in New Haven township. He retired after 20 years as superintendent of the Huron county highway department.

He was a member of New Haven United Methodist church, of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, here, and of Superior Chapter, OES, Willard.

A son, Robert Rowland Hillis, died earlier as the result of cancer. He is survived by his wife, Doris; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Who's buried in what plot to be resolved

Records of Greenlawn cemetery will be brought up to date as accurately as possible.

Trustees of the cemetery, Carl V. Ellis, J. Harold Cashman and Cleland Marvin, contracted with Mrs. Dennis Lybarger to do the work Monday night.

She will be paid $3.50 an hour for 200 hours of work and will alphabetize the charting records, which the cemetery has received from the Ohio Genealogical society, Mansfield, along with updating the present records.

Over the years the recordings of burials have not always been made, although cemetery deeds show who bought a lot, but not who is buried in it.

The charting was done late in the summer of 1980, and updating it will be simple. It is realized, however, that there are some graves which do not have stones or a marker.

Mayor fines four drivers

These were Feliz Alonzo, Willard, $17; Janice A. Souter, Norwalk, $14; Marvin Lewis, Fairborn, $17, and Timothy Atkins, Shiloh, $17.

Green Conley, Plymouth, was fined $15 for not having license plates.

Bertine Whatman, charged with having a barking dog, did not appear and will pay a waiver.

Pot charge costs Strong fine of $100

The charge stemmed from the arrest of Strong by Police Chief Robert Conley, who had gone to Strong's apartment above the Plymouth Laundromat to check a breaking and entering.

A neighbor had reported a person was seem attempting to climb the side of the building.

Five posts on ballot here Nov. 8; who'll run?

Political control of the village will be at stake Nov. 8 when electors go to the polls to choose a mayor and four councilmen.

They will also choose a clerk-treasurer.

Cline succeeded Eric J. Akers, resigned as mayor, and ran unopposed to complete the remainder of Akers's four-year term, to which he was elected in November, 1979.

Whether they will seek reelection is unclear.

John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, has several times said he is serving as an interim functionary and has no interest in seeking election, most especially "at the rate of salary paid now". He points out that his net pay is about 40 per cent of what the utility clerk is paid. Fazzini is the fourth clerk to serve since Jan. 1, 1980.

Organization of vamps at Shiloh resolved

How to reorganize the fire department to comply with state law was resolved Thursday by Cass and Bloominggrove townships trustees and Shiloh's village council.

The burr under the saddle of the trustees and the council is a regulation that payments must be made to the Volunteer Firefighters' Dependent fund (VFDF) so that if firefighters are toally disabled or killed on duty, their dependents will receive benefits.

What benefits?

An indemnity of $1,000 to the surviving widow or widower, a monthly indemnity of $100 to the spouse if there is no remarriage, $25 a month for each child under 16 unless the child is in school, whereupon the payments extend to the child's 18th birthday.

Village of Shiloh will be the hiring authority and will pay the premiums to the VFDF, collecting from Cass and Bloominggrove for their shares by individual billing.

Shiloh may not appoint firefighters without the unanimous approval of the trustees of the two townships.

Liver's tasty, easy to cook if gossip column's handy!

By AUNT LIZ

The world is changing, and I have decided to give up trying to change with it.

This great decision was made after a few days of reading a gossip column in a large paper.

Gossip columns are great to read, and I do not miss a one. In fact, I wrote one for our high school paper, not that I had any talent to write.

The English teacher we had in high school was also the journalism teacher, so we all took that course. It was a ball and darn hard work every day after school.

Some of the kids I worked with went on to become very famous in newspapers and writing.

Anyway, I got picked to write the thing because they all figured no one would even suspect that little dumb Betty, who was not the most sought after gal in a high school of 2,000, was the one spying.

It mainly consisted of "why is D. H. not speaking to J. M.?" and that sort of goop. It was for real. That was the first thing anyone read.

What has ticked me off all of a sudden is that newspapers have changed so. They don't hint anymore, just come right out and say it, which is good in a way since too much in government and life gets covered up.

Over the years we have had to ignore so many wedding stories that we considered real news to our readers. It was their bad timing, and we tried to be polite about it all.

There was a time when newspapers, large ones anyway, would have columns of what ladies wore to this and that, who had who in for bridge. That is all changing.

I still think people like to know what someone across town has done, and I do know that every grandmother loves to see her grandchild's name in print.

What has put me in this dumb mod, and no one can really say that I take the attitude of "holier than thou" (I have been known to laugh right out loud at really shady jokes) was to read about the daughter of one of the most famous men of our century. It struck me as simply uncouth.

Everyone knew she drank herself to death, so out comes a story several years later about one of her escapades that makes for readable stuff. It seemed she was staying in the same hotel with famous couple, and late one night, they heard a rap at their door. There she was, in her birthday clothes, asking to borrow a cup of vodka.

I suspect she will be really good "copy" for another 10 years.

So after pondering this problem, I had to get dinner.

There is nothing so nice as good friends. We have one who comes from a large family and they butchered what I think isd a complete herd of cattle, because we got all the liver, which they do not like.

I have been out of my mind thinking up ways to fix it. It is great with onions and mushrooms, but three nights in a row?

Then I discovered something new, and it works. We always soak the liver in milk, which does somthing to it. Do that, flour it a little, dip it in a batter, let it drip off, flour some more, more batter, and deep fry it.

Many people do not like liver, which is so good for you, and this does it because everyone likes fried stuff.

Wariors scalp Big Red, 77 to 54

Big Red basketballers joined the Republican party at Ontario Friday night.

After a good first half, during which Plymouth held the Warriors down to manageable proportions at 31 to 27, thanks to a rare four point play at the end of the second period (Mike McKenzie fired a field goal with 35 seconds left and Brian Vredenburgh converted a free throw and its bonus before the buzzer sounded) and some good defensive work against all of Ontario save one.

That one was Larry Kotterman, six feet eight inches of rebounder (he accounted for 21 of the 40 credited to the Warriors), who scored 19 of his game high of 23 points.

When the third period began, Ontario's defense went to work. Its trigger was Rob Grow, who made five steals in the third period alone, each of them resulting in a basket.

A steal on one side is a turnover on the other and reflects a mistake by one who cannot afford to make a mistake.

The Warriors simply bombed Plymouth in the third quarter. They fired for field goal only 13 times and made 10 of them, only two of the shots from beyond eight feet. Kotterman took three shots and made two. Grow did the damage. Plymouth got into foul trouble early on and Grow went to the line five times. He made each one. And he also shot three field goals.

With a 27-point outcup, the Warriors built their lead to 21 points at 58 to 37 and simply coasted the rest of the way. Even the coach's son got into action. The Warriors finished with 32-of-66, 13-of-19 at the foul line. Plymouth was 21-of-47 and 12-of-19.

Rodney Hampton, who scored 19 for the Big Red, managed seven points on three of four field goal tries in the third period or Plymouth would not have survived at all. Plymouth scored with five of 12 tries for field goal and didn't get a free throw.

During the last period, lesser players were on the court for Ontario and they did well enough against a tired Plymouth team that simply could not rebound with Kotterman. He had 14 of his 21 rebounds in the second half.

KOTTERMAN TORE Plymouth up in the first half. In the second half Plymouth paid attention to the six feet eight inch giant, held him down to a pittance, but watched his teammates kill the Big Red from outside.

Observers at the press table noted that throughout the second half the Ontario defense engaged Plymouth's attack up the floor and often left a broad lane, so broad a light truck could have been driven across the end of the court, under the visitors' basket. But Plymouth did not venture into that lane. Most of its shots in the second half were from greater than nine feet range.

Plymouth was held to 20 rebounds. The visitors made more mistakes by two, 20 to 18. Seven of them came in the third period.

Craig Thornsberry got his fourth personal foul midway in the second quarter and rode the bench until halfway through the fourth period. Greg Polachek, who took only eight shots at the basket, converted half of them and added three free throws.

For the Warriors, it was victory No. 4 against nine defeats. For the big Red, it was defeat No. 12 against one win.

Where the installed or allocated name plate rating of the transformer capacity exceeds 25 Kva per Consumer or where 3-phase service is furnished, Village's General Service Schedule "GS" shall apply.

Where electric service is supplies for combined Residential and Non-Residential use, the General Service Schedule "GS" shall apply for all such single metered service. However, at Consumer's option and at his expense, the wiring may be separated (subject to Village's inspection and approval) and each class of service separately metered and billed in conformance to the applicable schedule.

All applications for service shall be in accordance witht the provisions of Village's Standard Application Form and in accordance with the provisions set forth in this Schedule and also in accordance with the Village's General Rules and Regulations or subsequent revisions thereof on file at the Village's Utility Office, which General Rules are a part of this Schedule as if fully written herein.

If any bill is not paid within 30 days after the payment date specified on bill, service shall be subject to Disconnection as provided in Village's Rules and Regulations. to partially compensate Village for the additional expense involved, any Disconnection or Reconnection of Service shall be subject to Village's Applicable Trip Charge.

BUDGETED TERMS OF PAYMENT: Upon the request of the Consumer who utilizes electric service for heating his home, a Budget Plan for the payment of electric service bills may be elected by Consumer, Based on actual experience (or estimated where actual experience is not available), the Village will compute the annual electric service bill for all purposes and divide same by 12. The result shall be the amount to be paid by Consumer as his "Average Monthly Budget Bill".

The Annual Billing Period ends with the July Regular Meter Reading Date of each year and the difference between the billing for the Kwh acutually used by Consumer and the amount actually paid under the Budget Plan shall be properly reflected in the following August bill, which will be in addition to the regular budgeted billing. Any overpayment will be credited to Consumer's future billing.

OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS:

1. Application For Service & Responsibility for Payment of Bills: Where the premises are occupied by a Tenant, Village reserves the right to reqfuire that the Application for Service be in Property Owner's name, who shall be responsible for the payment of all bills. In such an event, the bill may be mailed directly to the Tenant, with a copy to the Property Owner. In addition, the Tenant may be required to make a suitable Depoit to secure bill payment. However, such Deposit is for protection of the Property Owner and in no manner will such Deposit relieve Property Owner of his responsibility for payment of all bills for the property involved.

2. Application for Temporary Service: For Temporary Service, Village's General Rules and Regulations shall apply. Village reserves the right to require that Applications for Temporary Service be in the name of the Property Owner, who shall pay all electric service bills. Each time that service is established, same shall be subject tot he Village's aplicable "Turn-On" and "Turn-Off" trip charge for such Temporary Service.

3. Character of Service Furnished: The type of service furnished under this Schedule shall be single phase at a nominal potential of approximately 120/240 volts, 3 wire, at sole option of Village, 120 volts, 2 wire service may be furnished.

This Schedule is not applicable for 3-phase service. If 3-phase service is supplied, Village's Schedule "GS" shall apply to all service – both single and 3-Phase.

4. Motor Size Limitations: The size of individual single phase motors shall not exceed 15 HP name plate rating except where written permission is granted by the Village. Village reserves the right to require that all motors 10 HP and larger be equipped with reduced voltage starting equipment so as to avoid unnecessary voltage surges on Village's system.

5. Use of Service: Service under this Schedule shall not be resold or shared with others, except as heretofore provided under "Multiple Dwelling Units".

6. Other Charges For Special Services: See Village's General Rules and Regulations as to charges not set forth herein, applicable for the Disconnection and Reconnection of Service and the Charges to be made for other Special Services furnished Consumers.

SCHEDULE "GS"

All Billings are subject to the provisions relating to: Determination of Billing Capacity, Monthly Minimum charge, Purchased Power Cost Adjustment, and other provisions hereinafter set forth.

For billing where combined single and 3-Phase service is furnished, see Sections 3, 4 and 5 under "Other Terms and Conditions".

DETERMINATION OF KW BILLING CAPACITY: The Kw Billing Capacity shall be the highest measured 15 minute integrated or equivalent thermal Kw Capacity determined to the nearest Kw by means of suitable metering equipment. However, the Billing Capacity shall be not less than: (a) the Kw that is nureically equal to 60% or the total Kva of installed or allocated tranformer capacity or; (b) not less than 60% of the highest Kw Capacity measured during the preceding 11 months or; (c) less than the Minimum Billing Capacity specified in Consumer's Contract with Utility.

Utility reserves the right at any time to install Capacity Metering Equipment. Utility will normally install Capacity Metering Equipment when Consumer's usage in any month exceeds 10,000 Kwh.

Where Capacity Metering Equipment is installed and the power factor at time of maximum measured Capacity is less than 90%, Utility reserves the right to determine the Billing Capacity based on the measured Kva Capacity instead of Kw Capacity. Where Capacity metering equipment is not installed, the Billing Capacity may be estimated by Utility based on periodic tests or other reasonable basis as determined by Utility.

For highly fluctuating loads, such as welders, hoists, and the like, the measured Capacity in Kw shall be increased by an amount that is equal to 80% of any separately installed or allocated Kva of transformer capacity required to supply such fluctuating loads.

MONTHLY MINIMUM CHARGE PER SERVICE: The Monthly Minimum Charges shall be not less than the highest Minimum Charge as determined by any of the following methods:

(a) Where Capacity Metering Equipment IS NOT INSTALLED, the monthly minimum charge shall not be less than $7,000.

(b) Where Capacity Metering Equipment IS INSTALLED, the Minimum Charge shall be the highest of either: (a) $7.00 or; (b) $3.00 per Kw of Billing Capacity as heretofore determined.

(c) For 3-Phase, 3 or 4 Wire Service: The Minimum Charge shall be the highest of either: (a) $30.00 or; (b) $3.00 per Kw of the total applicable Billing Capacity herein determined.

For 3-Phase service, the applicable Monthly Minimum Charge shall apply on a year round continuous 12 consecutive months basis or longer as may be specified by Contract. Therefore any Seasonal Disconnection of 3-Phase service shall not avoid the Applicable Minimum Charge, except under (e) below.

(d) Minimum charge Determination and Metering of Combination Single and 3-Phase Service: Where 3-Phase service is furnished thru a single 3 or 4 wire service drop, in order to ascertain compliance with respect to the single and 3-Phase Minimum Charges specified in (a), (b) and (c) above, Utility reserves the right to separately meter the single and 3-Phase service and add the meter readings together and calculate the bill as though served thru a single meter. However, the resultant combined total billing SHALL IN NO EVENT BE LESS than the aggregated amount of what the billing would otherwise be, based on the separate billing of the single phase metered service and its Applicable Minimum Charge specified under (a) or (b) above, PLUS the Applicable Minimum Charge for the separately metered 3-Phase service specified under (c) above.

(e) For Service Furnished to Activities Such as Athletic Field, Etc.: For Service furnished to charitable, philanthropic, non-profit community activities, (athletic fields, swimming pools, parks, and the like), the Minimum Charge shall be $3.00 per Kw of the total applicable Billing Capacity as determined above but not less than $7.00. The applicable Minimum Charge shall apply to a Minimum Billing Period of not less than 4 consecutive months, each time that service is connected.

For Temporary Service furnished to fairs, carnivals and the like, Consumer shall pay for all of the "Up and Down" installation costs as specified in Utility's General Rules and Regulations and the Minimum Billing Period shall be not less than 1 month.

(f) Special Installations: For installations that are of unusual character as to electric usage requirements and/or investment, the Monthly Minimum Charge and Minimum Billing Capacity will be determined by Utility and shall be set forth in Service Application or Contract with Consumer.

PURCHASED POWER & TAX ADJUSTMENTS: The Rates and Charges set forth in this Schedule are subject to Increase or Decrease in conformace to the adjustments specified in Utility's Rider "A".

TERMS OF PAYMENT: The above rates and other applicable charges are Net as shown and already reflect the Discount given from the Gross Rates if all accounts due and payable are paid on or before the final payment date specified on bill. If all accounts are not so paid, the Gross Rates are Due and Payable which are 10% but not less than $2.00 higher than the foregoing Net Rates.

If any bill is not paid within 30 days after the payment date specified on bill, service shall be subject to Disconnection as provided in Utility's Rules and Regulations. To partially compensate Utility for the additional expense involved, any Disconnection or Reconnection of Service shall be subject to Utility's applicable Trip Charge.

OTHER TERMS & CONDITIONS

1. Limitation of Schedule "GS": When, in opinion of Utility, the system capacity required to adequately supply Consumer's existing and probably future requirements exceeds 150 Kva, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to make the necessary complete substation installation. In such an event all service will be billed under Utility's Schedule "LP" and Consumer shall receive the specified Substation Discount.

2. Character of Service: For new installations, service will normally be supplied through a single set of service wires with all service delivered to a single meter location. Under such conditions a single bill will be rendered for service.

The service voltage shall be specified by Utility. At Utility's option it may be either 120/240 volt Single Phase, 3 wire; 240/480 volt, 3-Phase, 3 wire; or 120/208 or 277/480 volt, 3-Phase, 4 wire. If Consumer desires a voltage that is impractical for Utility to furnish, Consumer shall furnish at his expense the necessary transformers to deliver such voltage.

3. Availability of 3-Phase Service: Normally only single phase service is available. Utility may, at its option, furnish 3-phase service if such service is already available immediately adjacent to Consumer's premises and if it is practical and economical for Utility to furnish 3-phase service, after giving consideration tot he investment required and probable use of 3-phase service by Consumer; also, providing Consumer enters into an appropriate Contract covering the investment involved.

The Minimum Charge and financing of any 3-phase line extension shall conform to Utility's General Rules and Regulations.

4. Single Billing If Service Is Supplied Thru Single Service Drop: Where service is supplied through a single service drop either 3 or 4 wires extending to a single service entrance and meter location designated by Utility, a single bill will be rendered, whether or not Utility elects to use single or multiple metering.

5. Multiple Billing Where Service is Supplied Thru Multiple Service Drops: Where service is delivered at different meter locations thru individual and separately metered single and 3-phase service drops, a separate bill will be rendered for each service drop location.

6. Requirements To Qualify for Single Billing: If Consumer arranges his wiring at his cost so that all requirements can be supplied by means of a single 3 or 4 wire service drop extending to a single meter location designated by Utility and providing that such service can be supplied from a single transformer bank and metered thru a single meter, a single bill will be rendered for such service.

In place of a single meter, Utility reserves the right to use separate single and 3-phase meters in order to determine Minimum Charge compliance as specified in (c) under "Monthly Minimum Charge Per Service".

7. Metering Voltage. Under the Schedule "GS", Utility reserves the right to meter Consumer's requirements in the most practical manner either at Utility's secondary or primary distribution voltage and in either case of the billing Kwh shall be the metered Kwh.

8. General Service Classification For Billing Purposes: In determining Consumer's Classification for billing purposes, any establishment carrying a business, professional, commercial or non-residential telephone directory listing shall automatically be classified as being Non-Residential in character and Schedule "GS" shall apply. However, the absence of such listing shall not be the determining factor in establishing whether or nt the service utilization is Non-Residential in Character.

See Section 9 as to Consumer's option where Combined Service is involved.

9. Combined Residential & Non-Residential Service: Where the premises are used and occupied by a Consumer for both Residential and Non-Residential use as defined herein, all service shall be billed under Schedule "GS" at Consumer's option the wiring may be separated (subject to Utility's inspection and approval). In such an event each class of service will be separately metered and billed under the applicable Schedule.

10. Definition of General Service: Service furnished outside of Utility's Corporate Limits shall be considered General Service in Character where such service is not incidental to Residential Use. Such service includes that used to prepare or process food for other products to the extent that such are substantially in a form that they can be used or can be readily adopted for use by, or for sale to the ultimate Consumer.

In addition, all electric service supplied outside Utility's Corporate Limits for activities, purposes, or uses, that when carried on within Utility's Corporate Limits would be classified as being Non-Residential in character and so billed, shall likewise be considered and defined as Non-Residential in character and Schedule "GS" shall apply to the billing of Combined Service, see preceding Section 9.

11. 3-Phase Service is Required for Unbalanced or Fluctuating Loads: For highly fluctuating loads such as welders and electric melting furnaces and/or unbalanced single phase loads, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to operate such loads at 3-phase, with the loads balanced as far as practical, substantially equal on each phase. As an alternate Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to supply such fluctuating loads by means of 3-phase motor driven generator set.

To avoid voltage disturbances detrimental to the service furnished other Consumers, Utility also reserves the right to install a separate transformer to serve such fluctuating load. In such an event the provisions of "Determination of Kw Billing Capacity & Charge" and "Monthly Minimum Charge Per Service" shall apply.

12. Motor Specifications: Single Phase Service will not be furnished to operate individual motors in excess of 15 HP rating, except where written permission is granted by Utility.

All motors 10 HP and larger may, at Utility's option be required to be equipped with reduced volt age starting equipment or other devices, to avoid unnecessary voltage surges and fluctuations on Utility's system.

Motors designed for full voltage "across the line" starting may, at Utility's option be permitted to operate on Utility's system provided, however, that Utility has determined that such an operation will not be detrimental to service furnished to others.

13. New Line Extensions: All New Line Extensions or the furnishing of additional capacity shall be subject to Utility's General Rules and Regulations covering same.

14. Temporary Service: For Temporary Service the Consumer shall pay all charges specified in Utility's General Rules and Regulations, which include all "Up and Down Costs" and the Consumer shall make a suitable Deposit to cover all of the costs involved.

15. Other Charges For Special Service: See Utility's General Rules and Regulations as to charges for Disconnection and Reconnection of Service and for other Special Services.

16. Use of Service: Service under this Schedule shall not be resold or shared with others.

SCHEDULE "LP"
LARGE POWER SERVICE

AVAILABILITY: This Schedule is avilable to all Consumers located along existing electric distribution lines of Village, hereinafter referred to as Utility, who use Utility's Standard Service and who guarantee the Monthly Billing Capacity specified by Service Application or Contract, but not less than 50 Kva.

Where substation capacity in excess of 150 Kva is required to supply Consumer's existing and probable future requirements, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install the necessary complete substation equipment and this Schedule "LP" shall apply. See elsewhere as to character of service, voltages, metering, discount applicable where Consumer furnishes complete transformation equipment, etc.

Service under this Schedule will be furnished only on a 12-month non-seasonal basis by Contract in accordance with the folowing stipulations and also in accordance with Utility's General Rules and Regulations or subsequent revisions thereof, which are a part of this Rate Schedule as if fully written herein.

A separate bill shall be rendered for each separate service drop and meter location.

NET RATE PER MONTH PER SERVICE OR PER TRANSFORMER INSTALLATION

The toal Monthly Billing shall be the sum of the charges (A), (B) & (C) that follow:

(A) SERVICE CHARGE PER MONTH @ $50.00 per month

(B) CAPACITY CHARGE PER KVA OF BILLING DEMAND @ $8.00 per Kva

(C) ENERGY CHARGE PER KWH OF BILLING ENERGY @ $0.030 per Kwh

All billings under the above Rates shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter set forth relating to: (a) Determination of Kva Billing Capacity; (b) Purchased Power, Special Tax and Assessment Adjustment; (c) Discount For Furnishing of Substation by Consumer; (d) billing Where Utility furnishes Multiple Transformer Banks; and (e) Monthly Minimum Charge, etc.

MONTHLY MINIMUM CHARGE: The Monthly Minimum Charge under this Schedule shall be $8.00 Kva of Billing Capacity as hereinafter determined plus the service charge of $50.00 per month, but not less than the Minimum Charge specified in Consumer's Service Application or Contract with Utility.

Said Minimum Charge shall not be reduced by reason of the Application of the "Discount for Furnishing of Substation," as hereinafter provided for.

There shall be added to the Minimum Charge as determined above, any applicable Purchased Power or Tax cost Adjustment. Said Adjustment shall be applied to the Billing Kwh as hereinafter determined.

The Minimum charge is applicable on a 12-month year-round basis and Seasonal Disconnects will not avoid the applicable Minimum Billins Capacity and resultant Minimum Charge except as provided under (d) of "Determination of Kva Billing Capacity."

DETERMINATION OF MONTHLY KVA BILLING CAPACITY: The Kva Billing Capacity (to nearest Kva) shall normally be determined by measurement, using the highest 15 minute integrated or equivalent thermal Kw capacity and dividing same by the power factor expressed as a decimal.

The power factor shall be determined by means of a ratcheted RKwh meter or by means of 15 minute integrated or therm RKw and Kw capacity metering equipment or by means of other standard metering equipment or by means of periodic tests made by such equipment.

Where highly fluctuating or intermittent loads, welding machines, electric furnaces, hoists, elevators, X-Rays and the like are operated by the Consumer, Utility reserves the right to determine the Billing Capacity by averaging Consumer's total load over a 2 minute period or by increasing the 15 minute Measured Maximum Capacity in operation by the Consumer by 50% of the Kva name plate rating of said fluctuating load equipment.

Where such fluctuating loads require additional or separate transformers or additional system capacity, the Measured Billing Capacity as determined above shall be increased by 70% of the name plate rated Kva capacity of the separate transformer that serves such fluctuating load.

The Kva Billing Capacity shall be determined as above, but in no event shall it be less than 50 Kva nor less than the highest Kva as determined by any of the following methods:

(a) The Minimum Kva Capacity specified by Utility and set forth in Consumer's Service Application or Contract with Utility. In specifying said Minimum Contract Capacity in Kva, Utility will take into consideration the system capacity and companion investment required and/or reserved in order to adequately supply both the Consumer's initial and probably future requirements.

(c) 60% of the Total Kva Installed or allocated Transformer Capacity used to supply Consumer's requirements - whether or not same is furnished by Utility or Consumer.

BILLING KWH & METERING: The foregoing rates are based upon all service being metered at Utility's Secondary Voltage available at Consumer's premises. Utility reserves the right to meter at either the Primary or Secondary Voltage as determined by Utility. If metered at Primary Voltage, the Billing Kwh shall be the metered Kwh multiplied by 0.95.

For further definition of Primary and Secondary Service and Voltage, see "Discount for Furnishing of Substation Equipment by Consumer."

BILLING WHERE MULTIPLE TRANSFORMER BANKS ARE FURNISHED: Service under this Schedule is based upon Utility furnishing all service at a single voltage thru 1 transformer bank. Utility may, at its option, supply additional voltages thru additional transformer banks.

Where Utility furnishes more than 1 transformer bank, Consumer shall pay a transformer rental charge of $.35 per Kva of the name plate rating of the additional transformer banks furnished by Utility in excess of 1 transformer bank.

The Minimum Billing Capacity where Multiple Transformer Banks are furnished, shall be the total aggregate amount to be determined as specified under "Determination of Monthly Kva Billing Capacity".

Utility reserves the right to meter multiple transformer banks at secondary voltage and to bill each transformer bank separately or to meter and bill all service at primary voltage thru a single meter.

DISCOUNT FOR SUBSTATION OWNERSHIP BY CONSUMER

1. In order to adequately supply Consumer's initial and contemplated future electric power requirements Utility may specify the Nominal Primary Delivery Voltage which shall be either 4,160, 12,500, 34,500 or 69,000 volts.

For billing purposes Utility will determine whether: (a) the metering voltage is to be considered as Primary or Secondary and; (b) if the Substation Ownership Discount specified in (2) below applies.

2. In the event that the Utility determines the service to be furnished to Consumer is Primary Service supplied at Primary Voltage and Consumer furnishes the complete substation equipment, the Discount to be applied to the Applicable Billing Capacity shall be as follows: $.35 per Kva for 4,160 volts service and higher.

The size, capacity and other Substation Specifications shall be determined by Utility and the entire installation shall conform to Utility's Specifications and Standards.

The resultant Discounted Bill for Substation Ownership shall not be less than the Applicable Monthly Minimum Charge as determined herein or by Contract, nor less than $8.00 per Kva of Applicable Billing Capacity PLUS any applicable Purchased Power and Tax Adjustments applied to the Kwh billed.

3. Where individual or unusual substation facilities are required to serve Consumer, or where the required transformer capacity is in excess of 150 Kva. Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install, own and operate at his expense, the necessary complete substation (consisting of transformers, structure, protection devices, etc.) required to utilize service at Utility's specified untransformed Primary Voltage delivered to consumer's premises. In such an event the above Substation Ownership Discount set forth in (2) shall apply.

PURCHASED POWER & TAX ADJUSTMENTS: The Rates and Charges set forth in this Schedule are subject to the Adjustments set forth in Utility's Rider "A" and the same shall apply to the Rates and Charges set forth herein and shall be applied to all Kwh billed.

TERMS OF PAYMENT: The above rates and other applicable charges are Net as set forth. If all accounts due and payable are not paid on or before payment date specified on bill, the Gross Rates shall become payable, which are 10% but not less than $40.00 higher than said Net Rates.

If any bill is not paid within the date specified, service shall be subject to Disconnection and, to partially pay for the additional expense involved, any Reconnection of Service shall be subject to the charges set forth in Utility's General Rules and Regulations.

OTHER TERMS & CONDITIONS:

1. Contract Provisions: A written Contract may be required to cover service furnished under this Schedule, the term to depend upon investment required by Utility, revenue to be received, etc. The Contract shall specify the Minimum Charge, the Minimum Billing Capacity, Contribution in Aid of Construction (if any), and related matters required to protect Utility's Investment and to secure payment of Consumers accounts.

2. Transformer Capacity Limitations: If more than 150 Kva of transformer capacity or an unusual installation is involved, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install the complete substation, in which event the Substation Discount shall apply.

3. Low Voltage Service will normally be supplied thru a single set of service wires. The voltage shall, at Utility's option, be either 120/240 volt single phase 3 wire; 240/480 volt 3-phase, 3 wire; or 120/208 or 277/480 volt, 3-phase, 4 wire. If the voltage requested is impractical for Utility to furnish, Consumer shall furnish at his expense such transformers as are necessary to deliver such voltage. Utility shall specify whether or not the Billing Kwh is to be based on service metered at Primary or Secondary Voltage.

4. Single Billing: If all service is supplied through a single 3 or 4 wire service drop to a single meter location designated by Utility, a single bill will be rendered.

5. Multiple Billing: If service is delivered through individual and separately metered single and 3-phase service drops, separate bills will be rendered for each meter.

6. Multiple Service Requirements In Order to Qualify for Single Billing: If Consumer's wiring is rearranged at Consumer's cost so that all service can be supplied by a single 3 or 4 wire service drop to a single meter location, one bill will be rendered. PURCHAED POWER COST ADJUSTMENT

The overall Purchased Power Cost to be used to determine the adjustment applicable to Village's Rate Schedules shall be determined monthly as follows:

(d) The Rates set forth in Village's Rate Schedules shall be INCREASED or DECREASED accordingly.

(a) Any applicable adjustment shall be applied to the Kwh billed Consumer fo rthe meter reading period that Village determines as most nearly corresponding to the meter reading period set forth in Village's Purchased Power Bill from Ohio Power.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Speak NOW!

Terms of the mayor, the clerk-treasurer and two councilmen will expire Dec. 31.

A general election will be conducted Nov. 8 to choose their successors.

The word is used advisedly. He who is reelected is, in fact, his own successor.

This town has had some stout political controversies over the past 35 or 40 years. Some of them developed into rancor, dividing friend from friend and, in at least one case, brother from sister. It is to be hoped that this sort of thing can be avoided this year.

Which is not to say that we hope that vigorous and contentious discussion of what are perceived to be the issues will be stifled. Far from it. Certainly, it makes good copy, and folks are anxious to read it. Put that aside. What is important is that, as Mr. Jefferson intended, citizens must be encouraged to expose their views, to debate their differences, to capsulize the issues and to resolve them in the secrecy of the voting booth.

Time was, in slightly larger communities, when the two principal political parties organized a village caucus. Republicans chose candidates calculated by them to appeal to the majority of the voters. Democrats did likewise. In some towns, it worked well. In others, it did not, largely because there were, and there are, many voters who cannot bring themselves to vote for one of the opposite political party regardless of his qualifications.

It is our earnest prayer that each of the incumbents who seeks reelection will be opposed. Not because we hope he'll be defeated. Matter of fact, we can't think of any incumbent, as of now, who deserves to be defeated.

It is that we think it is time, it is long past time, that the course of the village in the remainder of the century should be discussed and debated. There occurred Monday night what may have been the first step in doing so. To attract industry here is a commendable enterprise, and we shall support it to the limits of our strength.

But there are other matters to discuss.

Among these are how shall the quality of life in this town be assured, not to say improved, by the conduct of village affairs, how shall the village's investment in an expensive commercial electric and water and sewer system be protected by insuring a profitable return on that investment, how shall the village conduct its affairs so that its best product, its young people, are encouraged to settle here when they've sown their wild oats, served their country, acquired their education, or whatever, so that we can profit by our investment in them, how shall the village render support to such industry as is in place so that it may compete favorably in the national and world marketplace and preserve the investment of time and effort put into it by so many of our fellow citizens.

It is meet that we should expect those who seek to be elected to address these matters, and others as well. For our part, we shall insist, to the point of provocation, if need be, that they be studied and discussed and presented as a platform, so that each voter may decide for himself whether that's how he wants to proceed.

These pages are open to any legitimate presentation of attitudes in respect to these concepts, or to others, by any person residing within the village. Of course, we shall naturally seek to determine if the presenter is a registered voter. Beyond that, which we will make clear, we shall leave to the voter to decide whether the proposals are worthy of support. And we shall not be backward about stating our own opinions thereon.

Ash Wednesday rites next week start of Lent

Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, the 40 days preceding Easter, will be observed next week.

Roman Catholics are requested to fast for the whole day until after mass and blessing with ashes in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church at 7 p. m. Home made soup and home made bread will be served to break the fast.

Methodists have no special service set for Wednesday.

Beginning Feb. 20, there will be successive Lenten services on Sunday evenings.

First service will be in the Plymouth church at 7:30 p. m.

Second service, and each alternate service, will take place in the Shiloh church, the each to be determined later.

Parishioners of First Evangelical Lutheran church are invited to participate in holy communion Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Ronald Atkins will be celebrant.

Presbyterians will serve a potluck supper at 6:30 p. m. and conduct holy communion immediately thereafter, probably at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Julian Taggart will conduct the service.

New patrol by sheriff praised

Efforts by Huron county's sheriff to make do with funds available without diminishing service were praised this week by Commissioner James R. Westerhold.

"I am glad that the sheriff's department has been able to come up with not only one more night patrol for the rural areas, but at no increase in staff members," he said. "This is a great plus for Huron county. I wish to thank Sheriff Borgia and his officers for making this change to solve problem."

Physician coming

A Greenwich physician will open offices in Plymouth for the practice of pediatrics and general medicine at 10 East Main street, in premises formerly occupied by Eric J. Akers, attorney.

He is Avadhut Pai- Dhungat, 13 Tilton street, Greenwich, who seeks accreditation by Willard Area hospital.

He is in the staff of New London hospital.

Bridge repair to close road for seven weeks

Replacement of a bridge on Fitchville River road will necessitate the closing of a little over a mile section of that road, according to Huron County Engineer, Lawrence H. Heit.

Heit announced the section of Fitchville River road between Scranton road to the south and Cook road to the north will be closed for approximately seven weeks beginning Feb. 7.

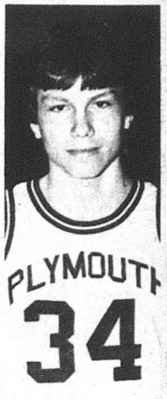

The project, to be completed by county crews, entails the removal of the existing bridge structure and its replacement with an entirely new, wider and more substantial structure.

Heit cited the "continuing deterioration" of the present nine ton structure as one of the major reasons for replacing the bridge. In addition, the improvement will allow the construction of a 24-ft. wide structure with a 20-ton capacity.

Since Fitchville River road is a major north-south county artery with a fair amount of truck traffic, Heit hopes the mild winter weather will allow construction efforts to proceed on schedule.

Tuttles get divorce decree

Glenn L. Tuttle, Route 61, has obtained in Richland county common pleas court a decree of divorce from his wife, Sheila Tuttle, Louisville, Ky., a journal entry shows.

Plymouth's rebounding hasn't been gold star quality this season but such as it is, and sometimes it has been splendid, it's largely the contribution of Craig Thornsberry, a quiet 12th grader who also plays baseball and stretches his six feet to best advantage for the Big Red, which has now won its first Firelands conference game and seeks this weekend to win two more, against South Central there tomorrow and Monroeville here on Saturday.

Blood call sounds again for Feb. 18

ARC Bloodmobile will call at Plymouth High school Feb. 18 from noon to 6 p. m. to receive donations of blood.

Quota is 150 pints of whole blood.

High school pupils directed by Jeffrey Slauson, principal, will assist during the collection, as escorts, babysitters, messengers and tabulators.

Mrs. Close, 75, NHHS alumna, succumbs

A New Haven High school alumna, Mrs. Theodore Close, 75, Inkster, Mich., died Friday in Wayne County General hospital, Detroit, Mich., of a lengthy illness.

Born in New Haven township Dec. 20, 1907, she was the daughter of Richard and Pearl Woodworth Chapman. She was a retired order clerk in the parts department of Montgomery Ward Co., Detroit.

Her husband, a daughter, Joan, now Mrs. William Goff, Inkster; a brother, Frank, Willard; two sisters, Jessie, now Mrs. Frank Schoen, Bellevue, and Evelyn, now Mrs. Walter Buchanan, Sanford, Fla.; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren survive. A son, Robert, died earlier.

The Rev. Charles Naylor conducted services Tuesday at 1 p. m. from New Haven United Methodist church, which Mrs. Close attended as a girl. Burial by McQuate-Secor Funeral home was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

Births fell 20 per cent during 1982

Fewer babies were born and more persons died in Huron county in 1982 than in 1981, according to statistics compiled by the health department.

A total of 626 babies was born in the county in 1982, compared with 789 in 1981. Births in Willard dropped from 236 in 1981 to only 99 in 1982. In Norwalk, 520 babies were born last year, compared to 545 in 1981. Seven babies were born in the county's rural areas last year.

Of the 417 persons who died in the county last year, heart problems were the number one killer, claiming 267 lives. Cancer was second, killing 73 persons. Accidents ranked third, taking 20 lives. In 1981, 365 persons died in Huron county.

Other half of Big Red rebounding combine is Greg Polachek, also a 12th grader, coming into his own as a scorer with the decline of Mike McKenzie. Polachek is a ballplayer's ball player: he leads, says nothing save "excuse me" and "Please" and "look out!" He took a beating under the bucket in the Western Reserve game but his experience in football has inured him to that.

Mrs. Wuthrich, Shiloh alumna, dies of cancer

A 1943 alumna of Shiloh High school, Mrs. Phillip Wuthrich, 57, West Palm Beach, Fla., died of cancer in Good Samaritan hospital there Friday.

Born Joyce Elaine Witchie in Shiloh Sept. 6, 1925, she was a member of First Baptist church in West Palm Beach.

Her husband, two brothers, David (Buzz), Mansfield, and Joseph, Buena Vista, Colo., and four sisters, Dorothy, now Mrs. Michael Spino; Lorna, now Mrs. Ernest Howard, and Carol Sue, now Mrs. Jack Ingram, all of West Palm Beach, and Mrs. Josephine Bauhs, Mansfield, survive.

The Rev. Dwight Adams, First Baptist church, Adario, conducted services at Ontario Tuesday at 1 p. m. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township.

Quroum absence forces special council session

Absence of a quorum compelled Mayor Dean A. Cline to adjourn the regular village council meeting Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Councilmen Ronald Predieri, Terry Hopkins and Keith Hebble appeared to answer the mayor's call to order. Councilmen John E. Hedeen, who is in Florida; G. Thomas Moore, detained elsewhere, and Roy Barber, also detained elsewhere, were absent.

The council will meet in special session Tuesday at 7 p. m.

A finance committee meeting will begin at 6 p. m.

Terms of the mayor, clerk treasurer and two council men expire on Dec. 31.

Clerk John Fazzini is completing the term of Raymond L. Brooks, who was succeeded by Mrs. Benjamin Montgomery, and she by Mrs. Sidney Ream.

Hedeen and Predieri are completing the terms of Mrs. Allen Raymond and Cline, who were elected in November, 1979. Cline's seat was vacated when he succeeded Akers. Mrs. Raymond resigned to join her husband in New York, where he took a college teaching post.

Nominating petitions must be filed with the Richland county board of elections. Each must contain the signature of at least 10 electors of the village. There is no limit on the number of persons who may aspire to any of the three offices.

An Ohio Supreme Court decision in a case involving three Bellville officials may affect the race this year.

A finding was made against the three because they accepted a pay increase during their elected term of office. This was theretofore thought to be unlawful. The recent decision enforces the concept of home rule and permits the pay of incumbents to be raised during their terms.

It is unlikely that the salary of the mayor, which is $1,500 a year, or that of a councilman, which is $240 a year, will be changed. But the salary of the clerk-treasurer, Fazzini has repeatedly said, "is too low for the time required to do the job; I earn much less an hour than the utility clerk, for the work that needs to be done and which I do." The salary of the office could lawfully, by the recent decision, be raised before the electionm if that is the council's disposition.

Whether a salary increase, before the election or with the beginning of a new term, would induce Fazzini to say that he will accept election in his own right is unknown. He is drawing a pension for long service as a public educator but is not yet old enough to qualify for social security benefits.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

Last week's paper gave the account of the Cub Scouts meeting of the Pinewood Derby Race. As Jimmy Isaac's parents we would like to express our opinion about this meeting.

We did not attend this meeting because of personal reasons, but usually we do. We did talk to a den mother and one of the other parents plus Jimmy to get an account of this meeting.

First of all, we would like to express that the Cub Scouts are a great organization for the boys. The den mothers are all great people for giving their time to do this. This is not our complaint.

Jimmy was terribly disappointed about the race. But not because of his car being broken. It was because of the way some of the parents acted at this meeting.

These boys are taught to compete against each other and have fun in the process. But when parents step in these meetings and start having a vote over whether our son or anyone else's son can race, that was too much.

He was terribly embarassed and didn't quite understand what all the commotion was about since at previous meetings they allowed cars that hadn't been on the track to be used. We understand that the Cubmaster wanted to go by the rules, which is fine. No gripe there. But what does an eight-year-old boy understand about adults voting on a race that is for the boys, not the parents? All we can see is that grown adults made a big issue out of a small matter.

When we let Jimmy join Cub Scouts it was under the assumption that the den mothers were the ones with the authority of their dens, not the parents.

We say let the boys enjoy being Scouts, so they will want to return to these meetings instead of wanting to quit. Jimmy was not the only child that lost in these races, there weredfquite a few others. We can honestly say, though, that he doesn't want to be in another right now because of the embarresement the parents put him through at this meeting. We just hope the parents realize from their immature way of handling this situation it was an eight-year-old boy that was hurt by this, not his parents.

Embarrassing moment? Dog dead, no harm done, but she remembers!

By AUNT LIZ

Every now and then my favorite radio station has a deal about people calling in with their most embarrassing experiences.

We all have them and wish they never had happened. Most are really dumb and readily forgotten except for the moment they happen.

We have one I will never forget.

It was downright funny.

But at the moment I could have died a thousand times.

It was a gloomy Thanksgiving day.

We had a very dear friend as a house guest. He had been the American Ambassador to Ethiopia when we lived there. He and his wife likes us, for some reason, so we have been friends over the years since he has retired and we are here.

I will never forget them for what they did the time I came down with typhus fever and they kept me supplied with real murder stories to read. They loved them and subscribed to a bunch of really miserable magazines. There I was, thinking I was going to die, reading about dismembered bodies found in trunks.

He was a widower when he came to visit. I managed a couple of nights, but wondered what I would do about that Thursday. A friend suggested I call two beautiful ladies and invite them. I did, and they accepted.

About then we had a young cocker pup and since I was cooking most of the day and was in the kitchen, that dog went out at least 50 times before dinner.

The first thing that happened was that our happy puppy sat on the floor looking at a beautiful fur wrap. Thank heavens he could not reach it.

Finally we sat down to what I called a darned good dinner. By then it was rather dark and we ate by candlelight.

They all seemed to enjoy it all. Then came the end when we had to have coffee. So I got up to wheel the tea cart to the front room, and what do I see right in its path but a small whorl of what looked like brown Cool Whip.

I could have killed that dog, but he was so innocent.

So I moved the tea cart over it with the hope that you know it with the hope that you know who would not ask out loud why it was there while he helped one lady out of her chair.

None of them realized what terror I had gone through if our happy, carefree host had stepped in it all.

And for a recipe. We were very lucky this year that a friend had planted a plot of the most beautiful parsley you have ever seen. We talked about freezing it, so I took a bunch and stuck it in the top of the refrigerator.

It really does not dethaw and look like anything fresh, but it is great chopped up, mixed with some butter and mushrooms for a sauce over pasta.

If you have any, try it, but be lavish with the butter.

A 7 lb. 12 oz. daughter, Megan Renee, their second child, was born Feb. 3 in Mansfield General hospital to the Jeffrey Sutters. Mother is the former Sharon Glorioso. The Salvatore J. Gloriosos are the maternal grandparents.

A 1967 alumna of Plymouth High school, Linda Sue Washburn is the mother of a son born Feb. 2 in Memorial hospital at Shelby, where she resides.

An lb. 9 oz daughter, Stephani Renee, was born in Shelby Memorial hospital Feb. 4 to the Jeffrey Cronenwetts, Shelby. Mother is the former Kathy Hale, Plymouth. The Ishmel Hales are the maternal grandparents, the Larry Cronenwetts the paternal grandparents.

First league victory ever!

Big Red holds on to defeat Mapleton, 71 to 69

A 12-point surge early in the third period led Plymouth to a 44 to 36 lead over Mapleton here Friday night, an advantage that the Big Red later built to 12 points, and Plymouth hung on in the face of a strong Mountie rally to win, 71 to 69.

It was the second victory of the season for the Big Red and its first ever in Firelands conference competition.

Plymouth outshot the Mounties from the field, 31 to 24, with a percentage of almost 48 in field goal performance, but was outscored at the free throw line, 21 to 9.

The Big Red missed 13 of 22 penalty shots, Mapleton 11 of 32.

It was tied at 32 at the half. The score had changed hands six times and been tied five.

Mapleton drew first blood in the third period with two quick scores, one by Steve Bahr, the game's high scorer at 24, and one by Gil Kuhrt, who wound up with 14.

Then Plymouth went to work. Down by four, it got a shot by Greg Polachek underneath, a missed free throw on the same shot, another basket by the doughty 12-grader, then two successive baskets by Craig Thornsberry, theretofore shut out of scoring. With 2:33 remaining, the Mounties called time out. Mike Wargo missed a free throw for Mapleton and Plymouth continued the pressure. Thornsberry scored again and, at 1:54, Mapleton asked for time. It produced results, for Bahr broke the Big Red string with a basket. The quarter ended with Plymouth in the lead by six at 48 to 42.

Both teams went at it hammer and tongs in the final eight minutes. Mapleton outscored Plymouth by four, 27 to 23, and a last ditch shot by Wargo rolled over the rim, was recovered by Plymouth (Plymouth outrebounded the Mounties, 39 to 35, and made far fewer mistakes, 8 to 18) with six seconds left and Plymouth in heavy traffic in the back court managed to retain possession until the buzzer.

Had Plymouth been able to shoot well on its home floor in the first period, the sparse turnout of fans could have gone home then. Mapleton committed 11 of its turnovers in the first eight minutes, but Plymouth could not convert on its opportunities. The Big Red managed only six of 20 shots. The Mounties, meanwhile, were limited to nine shots and made six of them. The score was tied at 12 after eight minutes.

Thornsberry ignited Plymouth in the third period. His three baskets were the difference. But he got splendid support from Polachek, who scored 20 for the night and four of them in the third period, and Rodney Hampton, who was game high for Plymouth at 21, six of them in the third period.

Polachek came on in the final eight minutes with nine, three field goals and three free throws. He had poor luck at the foul line all night, missing six of 10 tries.

That Plymouth was hot in the third period was reflected in the shooting statistics. The Big Red fired for field goal 16 times and made eight. In the last period, it got off 13 shots and made nine. On this kind of shooting are champions made.

Brian Vredenburgh was shut out on the scorebook but he contributed some important rebounding before fouling out at 4:27 of the fourth quarter. Indeed, Plymouth's rebounding was less than amateurish in the first half and little short of remarkable in the second half, doubtless the result of some locker room coaching.

Girls to play Flyers Feb. 23

Big Red girls will play their first sectional tourney game at Willard Feb. 23 at 6:30 p. m. against St. Paul's.

Among Ohio schools —

Basketball first, baseball second as popular sport

Basketball is the athletic activity that draws participation by more schools in Ohio than any other.

But the number of schools competing in basketball is diminishing.

In 1982, there were 792 schools fielding boys' interscholastic basketball squads. The year before, there were 800. In 1980 there were 796.

Nearest competitor is baseball. There were 756 Ohio schools participating in the national pastime in 1982, 767 in 1981, 765 in 1980.

Football drew 727 schools in 1982, 728 in 1981, 727 in 1980.

There are 751 schools taking part in track and field. In 1981 there were 768, in 1980 757.

Cross country with 624 schools, golf with 597 and wrestling with 567 come next.

Among girls' activities, basketball with 790 is far and away the leader. Volleyball is second with 748, track and field third with 723. Cross country draws only 472 schools.

'Riders stomp Plymouth, 75 to 44

Plymouth never was a factor and trailed throughout, from the opening basket.

For their night's work, the visitors recorded 32 of 68 tries for field goal and 11 of 20 attempts at the penalty line. They took down 42 rebounds and committed only four turnovers.

Conversely, Plymouth was able to make only 20 of 67 shots on the basket and just four of seven tries for free throw. It was charged with 13 turnovers and was held to 35 rebounds.

Plymouth did not shoot well on its own floor, which is the name of the game. In the first period, while Western Reserve was unloading 16 with six on target, Plymouth got off 14 shots and made only two.

The Big Red improved in the second period. It shot 13 times and made six. But the 'Riders were successful with nine of 15.

The visitors tore it open in the third period, which began with the score at 32 to 19, favoring the visitors. The 'Riders shot 19 times and made 10. They continued almost as well in the final period, when they shot 18 times and converted seven.

During this time, Plymouth was doing poorly, only four of 21 in the third period and eight of 19 in the fourth.

Western Reserve got balanced scoring with five players in double figures, including the smallest of the lot, Rob Sommers, No. 10, who replaced the biggest, Todd Robinson, No. 40. Sommers made 12. Jeff Bohn scored 16, Tom Hipp 14, Kevin Mahl 11, Robinson 10.

For the Big Red, Rodney Hampton scored 15 and Greg Polachek 13. For the first time as a starter, Mike McKenzie was shut out.

The fourth period was a travesty, Plymouth taking to fouling the 'Riders in an effort to obtain possession. Western Reserve was awarded 16 free throws in the final eight minutes. It made eight of them.

Jeff Fenner contributed some useful scoring to the Big Red attack, such as it was. He has a sharp eye away from the basket.

Plymouth did not play well away from the ball and it did not attack the Western Reserve defense inside very well.

9th grade underdogs

Ninth graders, with an 0-and-14 record, will compete in the annual Firelands conference tourney today against Western Reserve, which is favored to win. The Roughriders have a slate of 0-and-9.

Plymouth's team coached by william F. Flaherty, is admittedly green. "We have a number of boys who never played before. But take it from me, by the time they're 12th graders, you and the whole area will be hearing from them."

Some players have been called up to the reserve team and one ninth grader, Kevin Taylor, was advanced beyond his peer group to play with the reserves from the start of the season.

To make it in Plymouth athletics it takes some talent and lots of grit. Tom Baker, 11th grader, has both. Which he has shown in three major activities, football (until he was painfully injured), baseball and basketball. In the roundball game, he's a valuable sixth man, a good shot, a steady and unspectacular performer who is dependable and plucky. What's more, he knows the game. How much better he'd be if he were five inches taller and 50 pounds heavier is anybody's guess. A predecessor, Jimmy Hamman, Class of '63, who excelled at Bluffton, was smaller and says he would probably not have been half so successful if he'd been bigger.

Red loses at Attica

Seneca East nipped Plymouth, 55 to 53, at Attica Feb. 2, outshooting the Big Red from the field and staving off a spirited second half rally by the visitors.

Plymouth's shooting was little short of perfect. The Big Red made just half of its tries for field goal, 19 of 38 shots, but missed 12 of 27 free throws. Seneca East fired for field goal 46 times and converted 22, but missed only eight of 19 charity tosses.

Lisa Daron tied it at 36 with 22 seconds remaining in the third period, during which Plymouth canned seven of 12 shots from the field and six of eight free throws.

Plymouth seized the lead for the first time at 50 to 49 with 2:48 left in the game when Rhonda Branham bagged two free throws. The Tigers managed to tie it three times after that and with only 44 seconds left in the contest it was tied at 53.

$6.00 Per Kw of Billing Capacity In Excess of 50 Kw (Utility reserves the right to install a Demand Meter for any load)

All Billings are subject to the provisions relating to: Determination of Billing Capacity, Monthly Minimum charge, Purchased Power Cost Adjustment, and other provisions hereinafter set forth.

For billing where combined single and 3-Phase service is furnished, see Sections 3, 4 and 5 under "Other Terms and Conditions".

DETERMINATION OF KW BILLING CAPACITY: The Kw Billing Capacity shall be the highest measured 15 minute integrated or equivalent thermal Kw Capacity determined to the nearest Kw by means of suitable metering equipment. However, the Billing Capacity shall be not less than: (a) the Kw that is nurecically equal to 60% or the total Kva of installed or allocated tranformer capacity or; (b) not less than 60% of the highest Kw Capacity measured during the preceding 11 months or; (c) less than the Minimum Billing Capacity specified in Consumer's Contract with Utility.

Utility reserves the right at any time to install Capacity Metering Equipment. Utility will normally install Capacity Metering Equipment when Consumer's usage in any month exceeds 10,000 Kwh.

Where Capacity Metering Equipment is installed and the power factor at time of maximum measured Capacity is less than 90%, Utility reserves the right to determine the Billing Capacity based on the measured Kva Capacity instead of Kw Capacity. Where Capacity metering equipment is not installed, the Billing Capacity may be estimated by Utility based on periodic tests or other reasonable basis as determined by Utility.

For highly fluctuating loads, such as welders, hoists, and the like, the measured Capacity in Kw shall be increased by an amount that is equal to 80% of any separately installed or allocated Kva of transformer capacity required to supply such fluctuating loads.

MONTHLY MINIMUM CHARGE PER SERVICE: The Monthly Minimum Charges shall be not less than the highest Minimum Charge as determined by any of the following methods:

(a) Where Capacity Metering Equipment IS NOT INSTALLED, the monthly minimum charge shall not be less than $7,000.

(b) Where Capacity Metering Eqfuipment IS INSTALLED, the Minimum Charge shall be the highest of either: (a) $7.00 or; (b) $3.00 per Kw of Billing Capacity as heretofore determined.

(c) For 3-Phase, 3 or 4 Wire Service: The Minimum Charge shall be the highest of either: (a) $30.00 or; (b) $3.00 per Kw of the total applicable Billing Capacity herein determined.

For 3-Phase service, the applicable Monthly Minimum Charge shall apply on a year round continuous 12 consecutive months basis or longer as may be specified by Utility. Therefore, any Seasonal Disconnection of 3-Phase service shall not avoid the Applicable Minimum Charge, except under (e) below.

(d) Minimum charge Determination and Metering of Combination Single and 3-Phase Service: Where 3-Phase service is furnished thru a single 3 or 4 wire service drop, in order to ascertain compliance with respect to the single and 3-Phase Minimum Charges specified in (a), (b) and (c) above, Utility reserves the right to separately meter the single and 3-Phase service and add the meter readings together and calculate the bill as though served thru a single meter. However, the resultant combined total billing SHALL IN NO EVENT BE LESS than the aggregated amount of what the billing would otherwise be, based on the separate billing of the single phase metered service and its Applicable Minimum Charge specified under (a) or (b) above, PLUS the Applicable Minimum Charge for the separately metered 3-Phase service specified under (c) above.

(e) For Service Furnished to Activities Such as Athletic Field, Etc.: For Service furnished to charitable, philanthropic, non-profit community activities, (athletic fields, swimming pools, parks, and the like), the Minimum Charge shall be $3.00 per Kw of the total applicable Billing Capacity as determined above but not less than $7.00.

The applicable Minimum Charge shall apply to a Minimum Billing Period of not less than 4 consecutive months, each time that service is connected.

For Temporary Service furnished to fairs, carnivals and the like, Consumer shall pay for all of the "Up and Down" installation costs as specified in Utility's General Rules and Regulations and the Minimum Billing Period shall be not less than 1 month.

(f) Special Installations: For installations that are of unusual character as to electric usage requirements, and/or investment, the Monthly Minimum Charge and Minimum Billing Capacity will be determined by Utility and shall be set forth in Service Application or Contract with Consumer.

PURCHASED POWER & TAX ADJUSTMENTS: The Rates and Charges set forth in this Schedule are subject to Increase or Decrease in conformace to the adjustments specified in Utility's Rider "A".

TERMS OF PAYMENT: The above rates and other applicable charges are Net as shown and already reflect the Discount given from the Gross Rates if all accounts de and payable are paid on or before the final payment date specified on bill. If all accounts are not so paid, the Gross Rates are Due and Payable which are 10% but not less than $2.00 higher than the foregoing Net Rates.

If any bill is not paid within 30 days after the payment date specified on bill, service shall be subject to Disconnection as provided in Utility's Rules and Regulations. To partially compensate Utility for the additional expense involved, any Disconnection or Reconnection of Service shall be subject to Utility's applicable Trip Charge.

OTHER TERMS & CONDITIONS

1. Limitation of Schedule "GS": When, in opinion of Utility, the system capacity required to adequately supply Consumer's existing and probably future requirements exceeds 150 Kva, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to make the necessary complete substation installation. In such an event all service will be billed under Utility's Schedule "LP" and Consumer shall receive the specified Substation Discount.

2. Character of Service: For new installations, service will normally be supplied through a single set of service wires with all service delivered to a single meter location. Under such conditions a single bill will be rendered for service.

The service voltage shall be specified by Utility. At Utility's option it may be either 120/240 volt Single Phase, 3 wire; 240/480 volt, 3-Phase, 3 wire; or 120/208 or 277/480 volt, 3-Phase, 4 wire. If Consumer desires a voltage that is impractical for Utility to furnish, Consumer shall furnish at his expense the necessary transformers to deliver such voltage.

3. Availability of 3-Phase Service: Normally only single phase service is available. Utility may, at its option, furnish 3-phase service if such service is already available immediately adjacent to Consumer's premises and if it is practical and economical for Utility to furnish 3-phase service, after giving consideration tot he investment required and probable use of 3-phase service by Consumer; also, providing Consumer enters into an appropriate Contract covering the investment involved.

The Minimum Charge and financing of any 3-phase line extension shall conform to Utility's General Rules and Regulations.

4. Single Billing If Service Is Supplied Thru Single Service Drop: Where service is supplied through a single service drop either 3 or 4 wires extending to a single service entrance and meter location designated by Utility, a single bill will be rendered, whether or not Utility elects to use single or multiple metering.

5. Multiple Billing Where Service is Supplied Thru Multiple Service Drops: Where service is delivered at different meter locations thru individual and separately metered single and 3-phase service drops, a separate bill will be rendered for each service drop location.

6. Requirements To Qualify for Single Billing: If Consumer arranges his wiring at his cost so that all requirements can be supplied by means of a single 3 or 4 wire service drop extending to a single meter location designated by Utility and providing that such service can be supplied from a single transformer bank and metered thru a single meter, a single bill will be rendered for such service.

In place of a single meter, Utility reserves the right to use separate single and 3-phase meters in order to determine Minimum Charge compliance as specified in (c) under "Monthly Minimum Charge Per Service".

7. Metering Voltage. Under the Schedule "GS", Utility reserves the right to meter Consumer's requirements in the most practical manner either at Utility's secondary or primary distribution voltage and in either case of the billing Kwh shall be the metered Kwh.

8. General Service Classification For Billing Purposes: In determining Consumer's Classification for billing purposes, any establishment carrying a business, professional, commercial or non-residential telephone directory listing shall automatically be classified as being Non-Residential in character and Schedule "GS" shall apply. However, the absence of such listing shall not be the determining factor in establishing whether or nt the service utilization is Non-Residential in Character.

See Section 9 as to Consumer's option where Combined Service is involved.

9. Combined Residential & Non-Residential Service: Where the premises are used and occupied by a Consumer for both Residential and Non-Residential use as defined herein, all service shall be billed under Schedule "GS" or at Consumer's option the wiring may be separated (subject to Utility's inspection and approval). In such an event each class of service will be separately metered and billed under the applicable Schedule.

10. Definition of General Service: Service furnished outside of Utility's Corporate Limits shall be considered General Service in Character where such service is not incidental to Residential Use. Such service includes that used to prepare or process food or other products to the extent that same are substantially in a form that they can be used or can be readily adopted for use by, or for sale to the ultimate Consumer.

In addition, all electric service supplied outside Utility's Corporate Limits for activities, purposes, or use, that when carried on within Utility's Corporate Limits would be classified as being Non-Residential in character and so billed, shall likewise be considered and defined as Non-Residential in character and Schedule "GS" shall apply. For the billing of Combined Service, see preceeding Section 9.

11. 3-Phase Service is Required for Unbalanced or Fluctuating Loads: For highly fluctuating loads such as welders and electric melting furnaces and/or unbalanced single phase loads, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to operate such loads at 3-phase, with the loads balanced as far as practical, substantially equal on each phase. As an alternate Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to supply such fluctuating loads by means of 3-phase motor driven generator set.

To avoid voltage disturbances detrimental to the service furnished other Consumers, Utility also reserves the right to install a separate transformer to serve such fluctuating load. In such an event the provisions of "Determination of Kw Billing Capacity & Charge" and "Monthly Minimum Charge Per Service" shall apply.

12. Motor Specifications: Single Phase Service will not be furnished to operate individual motors in excess of 15 HP rating, except where written permission is granted by Utility.

All motors 10 HP and larger may, at Utility's option be required to be equipped with reduced voltage starting equipment or other devices, to avoid unnecessary voltage surges and fluctuations on Utility's system.

Motors designed for full voltage "across the line" starting may, at Utility's option be permitted to operate on Utility's system provided, however, that Utility has determined that such an operation will not be detrimental to service furnished to others.

13. New Line Extensions: All New Line Extensions or the furnishing of additional capacity shall be subject to Utility's General Rules and Regulations covering same.

14. Temporary Service: For Temporary Service the Consumer shall pay all charges specified in Utility's General Rules and Regulations, which include all "Up and Down Costs" and the Consumer shall make a suitable Deposit to cover all of the costs involved.

15. Other Charges For Special Service: See Utility's General Rules and Regulations as to charges for Disconnection and Reconnection of Service and for other Special Services.

16. Use of Service: Service under this Schedule shall not be resold or shared with others.

SCHEDULE "LP"
LARGE POWER SERVICE

AVAILABILITY: This Schedule is avilable to all Consumers located along existing electric distribution lines of Village, hereinafter referred to as Utility, who use Utility's Standard Service and who guarantee the Monthly Billing Capacity specified by Service Application or Contract, but not less than 50 Kva.

Where substation capacity in excess of 150 Kva is required to supply Consumer's existing and probable future requirements, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install the necessary complete substation equipment and this Schedule "LP" shall apply. See elsewhere as to character of service, voltages, metering, discount applicable where Consumer furnishes complete transformation equipment, etc.

Service under this Schedule will be furnished only on a 12-month non-seasonal basis by Contract in accordance with the folowng stiplulations and also in accordance with Utility's General Rules and Regulations or subsequent revisions thereof, which are a part of this Rate Schedule as if fully written herein.

A separate bill shall be rendered for each separate service drop and meter location.

NET RATE PER MONTH PER SERVICE OR PER TRANSFORMER INSTALLATION

(A) SERVICE CHARGE PER MONTH @ $50.00 per month

(B) CAPACITY CHARGE PER KVA OF BILLING DEMAND @ $8.00 per Kva

(C) ENERGY CHARGE PER KWH OF BILLING ENERGY @ $0.030 per Kwh

All billings under the above Rates shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter set forth relating to: (a) Determination of Kva Billing Capacity; (b) Purchased Power Special Tax and Assessment Adjustment; (c) Discount For Furnishing of Substation by Consumer; (d) billing Where Utility furnishes Multiple Transformer Banks; and (e) Monthly Minimum Charge, etc.

MONTHLY MINIMUM CHARGE: The Monthly Minimum Charge under this Schedule shall be $8.00 Kva of Billing Capacity as hereinafter determined plus the service charge of $50.00 per month, but not less than the Minimum Charge specified in Consumer's Service Application or Contract with Utility.

Said Minimum Charge shall not be reduced by reason of the Application of the "Discount for Furnishing of Substation," as hereinafter provided for.

There shall be added to the Minimum Charge as determined above, any applicable Purchased Power Tax cost Adjustment. Said Adjustment shall be applied to the Billing Kwh as hereinafter determined.

The Minimum charge is applicable on a 12-month year-round basis and Seasonal Disconnects will not avoid the applicable Minimum Billins Capacity and resultant Minimum Charge except as provided under (d) of "Determination of Kva Billing Capacity."

DETERMINATION OF MONTHLY KVA BILLING CAPACITY: The Kva Billing Capacity (to nearest Kva) shall normally be determined by measurement, using the highest 15 minute integrated or equivalent thermal Kw capacity and dividing same by the power factor expressed as a decimal.

The power factor shall be determined by means of a ratcheted RKwh meter or by means of 15 minute integrated or therm RKw and Kw capacity metering equipment or by means of other standard metering equipment or by means of periodic tests made by such equipment.

Where highly fluctuating or intermittent loads, welding machines, electric furnaces, hoists, elevators, X-Rays and the like are operated by the Consumer, Utility reserves the right to determine this Billing Capacity by averaging Consumer's total load over a 2 minute period or by increasing the 15 minute Measured Maximum Capacity in operation by the Consumer by 50% of the Kva name plate rating of said fluctuating load equipment.

Where such fluctuating loads require additional or separate transformers or additional system capacity, the Measured Billing Capacity as determined above shall be increased by 70% of the name plate rated Kva capacity of the separate transformer that serves such fluctuating load.

The Kva Billing Capacity shall be determined as above, but in no event shall it be less than 50 Kva nor less than the highest Kva as determined by any of the following methods:

(a) The Minimum Kva Capacity specified by Utility and set forth in Consumer's Service Application or Contract with Utility. In specifying said Minimum Contract Capacity in Kva, Utility will take into consideration the system capacity and companion investment required and/or reserved in order to adequately supply both the Consumer's initial and probably future requirements.

(c) 60% of the Total Kva Installed or allocated Transformer Capacity used to supply Consumer's requirements whether or not same is furnished by Utility or Consumer.

BILLING KWH & METERING: The foregoing rates are based upon all service being metered at Utility's Secondary Voltage available at Consumer's premises. Utility reserves the right to meter at either the Primary or Secondary Voltage as determined by Utility. If metered at Primary Voltage, the Billing Kwh shall be the metered Kwh multiplied by 0.95.

For further definition of Primary and Secondary Service and Voltage, see "Discount for Furnishing of Substation Equipment by Consumer."

BILLING WHERE MULTIPLE TRANSFORMER BANDS ARE FURNISHED: Service under this Schedule is based upon Utility furnishing all service at a single voltage thru 1 transformer bank. Utility may, at its option, supply additional voltages thru additional transformer banks.

Where Utility furnishes more than 1 transformer bank, Consumer shall pay a transformer rental charge of $.35 per Kva of the name plate rating of the additional transformer banks furnished by Utility in excess of 1 transformer bank.

The Minimum Billing Capacity where Multiple Transformer Banks are furnished, shall be the total aggregate amount to be determined as specified under "Determination of Monthly Kva Billing Capacity".

Utility reserves the right to meter multiple transformer banks at secondary voltage and to bill each transformer bank separately to meter and bill all service at primary voltage thru a single meter.

DISCOUNT FOR SUBSTATION OWNERSHIP BY CONSUMER

1. In order to adequately supply Consumer's initial and contemplated future electric power requirements Utility may specify the Nominal Primary Delivery Voltage which shall be either 4,160, 12,500, 34,500 or 69,000 volts.

For billing purposes Utility will determine whether: (a) the metering voltage is to be considered as Primary or Secondary and; (b) if the Substation Ownership Discount specified in (2) below applies.

2. In the event that the Utility determines the service to be furnished to Consumer is Primary Service supplied at Primary Voltage and Consumer furnishes the complete substation equipment, the Discount to be applied to the Applicable Billing Capacity shall be as follows: $.35 per Kva for 4,160 volts service and higher.

The size, capacity and other Substation Specifications shall be determined by Utility and the entire installation shall conform to Utility's Specifications and Standards.

The resultant Discounted Bill for Substation Ownership shall not be less than the Applicable Monthly Minimum Charge as determined herein or by Contract, nor less than $8.00 per Kva of Applicable Billing Capacity PLUS any applicable Purchased Power and Tax Adjustments applied to the Kwh billed.

3. Where individual or unusual substation facilities are required to serve Consumer, or where the required transformer capacity is in excess of 150 Kva. Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install, own and operate at his expense, the necessary complete substation (consisting of transformers, structure, protection devices, etc.) required to utilize service at Utility's specified untransformed Primary Voltage delivered to consumer's premises. In such an event the above Substation Ownership Discount set forth in (2) shall apply.

PURCHASED POWER & TAX ADJUSTMENTS: The Rates and Charges set forth in this Schedule are subject to the Adjustments set forth in Utility's Rider "A" and the same shall apply to the Rates and Charges set forth herein and shall be applied to all Kwh billed.

TERMS OF PAYMENT: The above rates and other applicable charges are Net as set forth. If all accounts due and payable are not paid on or before payment date specified on bill, the Gross Rates shall become payable, which are 10% but not less than $40.00 higher than said Net Rates.

If any bill is not paid within the date specified, service shall be subject to Disconnection and, to partially pay for the additional expense involved, any Reconnection of Service shall be subject to the charges set forth in Utility's General Rules and Regulations.

OTHER TERMS & CONDITIONS:

1. Contract Provisions: A written Contract may be required to cover service furnished under this Schedule, the term to depend upon investment required by Utility, revenue to be received, etc. The Contract shall specify the Minimum Charge, the Minimum Billing Capacity, Contribution in Aid of Construction (if any), and related matters required to protect Utility's Investment and to secure payment of Consumers accounts.

2. Transformer Capacity Limitations: If more than 150 Kva of tranformer capacity or an unusual installation is involved, Utility reserves the right to require Consumer to install the complete substation, in which event the Substation Discount shall apply.

3. Low Voltage Service will normally be supplied thru a single set of service wires. The voltage shall, at Utility's option, be either 120/240 volt single phase 3 wire; 240/480 volt 3-phase, 3 wire; or 120/208 or 277/480 volt, 3-phase, 4 wire. If the voltage redquested is impractical for Utility to furnish, Consumer shall furnish at his expense such transformers as are necessary to deliver such voltage. Utility shall specify whether or not the Billing Kwh is to be based on service metered at Primary or Secondary voltage.

4. Single Billing: If all service is supplied through a single 3 or 4 wire service drop to a single meter location designated by Utility, a single bill will be rendered.

5. Multiple Billing: If service is delivered through individual and separately metered single and 3-phase service drops, separate bills will be rendered for each meter.

6. Multiple Service Requirements In Order to Qualify for Single Billing: If Consumer's wiring is rearranged at Consumer's cost so that all service can be supplied by a single 3 or 4 wire service drop to a single meter location, one bill will be rendered. In such an event, Utility reserves the right to use separate single and 3-phase meters and to arithmetically add the Kwh and Kva Meter Readings.

7. Motor Specifications: In order to avoid the operation and/or starting of motors that are detrimental to service furnished other Consumers, Utility reserves the right to require that such motors be equipped with such reduced voltage and/or other Control Devices as are necessary to avoid detrimental service to Utility's other Consumers.

8. 3-Phase Service Unbalanced or Fluctuating Loads: For highly fluctuating loads, such as welders, electric melting furnaces and/or other unbalanced single phase loads, Utility reserves the right to require that such loads be converted to 3-phase operations so that as far as is practical the load on each phase is balanced.

9. Power Factor and Voltage Control: Where Consumer installs Power Factor Corrective Equipment, Utility may require Consumer to install at his expense, such Control Devices as are necessary to prevent excessive or detrimental voltage variations on Utility's system. In event of non-compliance by Consumer, the Kva Billing Capacity will be determined as though said corrective equipment was disconnected.

10. Temporary, Seasonal or Unusual Service: For such service, the Minimum Charge and Financing of the facilities required, etc., will be covered by a Special Agreement and the Consumer shall pay all of the "Up and Down Costs" involved.

11. Use of Service: Under no condition shall service be resold, submetered or shared with others. Violation of this provision shall be cause of disconnection of service.

12. General Rules and Regulations: For further details as to the rights, responsibilities and obligations of both the Utility and Consumer, see Utility's General Rules and Regulations which apply to service under this Schedule as if fully written herein.

In the event that said overall Purchased Power Cost per Kwh is INCREASED or DECREASED due to changes in said Resale Base Rate, Fuel Cost, Tax, or Other Adjustments, Village's Rate Schedules to which Rider "A" applies will be adjusted as specified below:

(1) MONTHLY DETERMINATION OF PURCHASED POWER COST:

The overall Purchased Power Cost to be used to determine the adjustment applicable to Village's Rate Schedules shall be determined monthly as follows:

(a) The Resale Base Rate (before Adjustments) shall be determined, by applying the Ohio Power charges for that month to an assumed base load of 1600 Kva and 800,000 Kwh:

(b) The Base Power Cost included in Village's Schedules is ..... .$.038880 per KWH

(c) The Purchased Power Fuel Cost Adjustment included in above Base Rate is ..... .000000 per KWH

(d) TOTAL PURCHAESD POWER BASE COST INCLUDED IN VILLAGE'S RATE SCHEDULES .... $.038880 per KWH

(2) DETERMINATION OF PURCHASED POWER ADJUSTMENT

(a) Each month, the Village's total Purchased Power Base Bost per Kwh shall be determined in the manner set forth under (1) above, by applying Ohio Power's actual charges to the assumed above Base Load of 1600 Kva and 800,000 Kwh.

(b) If said Total Base Power Cost is ABOVE or BELOW $.038880 per Kwh (determined to 6 decimal places or $.000000), the Rates per Kwh set forth in Village's Rate Schedules shall be INCREASED or DECREASED in the manner specified in (c) & (d) below.

Bloodmobile seeks 150 pints here tomorrow

ARC Bloodmobile will call at Plymouth High school tomorrow from noon to 6 p. m.

Its president, Ivan Hawk, is general chairman, assisted by Wayne H. Strine, who said Tuesday, "We will appreciate all the volunteers we can get."

High school pupils directed by their principal, Jeffrey Slauson, will assist as messengers, escorts and baby sitters until classes are dismissed.

"The aim is to get 150 pints of whole blood. That's been the aim since the Bloodmobile first came to Plymouth over 25 years ago," Strine said. "We've never reached the quota but we keep trying. Everybody knows that blood is in short supply. One of our fine young men even now is in Cleveland Clinic for radical treatment requiring blood transfusions. We will do whatever seems reasonable, and go beyond that, to accommodate anyone who'll give blood. Those needing transportation may call 687-5516. Those wanting an appointment may call me.

"The rules are that one must be at least 17 years old and not over 66. Those between 17 and 18 must submit a special permission form issued by the Red Cross and executed by a parent or guardian. Those over 66 must submit the statement of a physician that they are well enough to donate.

"This need cuts across all lines of race, religion, marital status, age and whether one has or has not served in the military. We urge everyone to consider giving blood. It's almost painless – I'd be lying to you if I didn't admit that there's a slight prick of the ear and arm involved – and if one does what he's told by the nurse after he's donated, there is no debilitating effect."

Asphalt firm to build here

It is Tri-County Asphalt, Inc.

The principal is Donald Abel, who has operated under Abel Asphalt for several years and has received contracts from the village for street repairs.

By ordinance the company will receive title to five acres of land of the water site property.

In exchange the company will widen and resurface the roadway from Route 61 over the railroad tracks to the water plant.

The council said the deal is to the advantage of both the company and village. The former will have an adequate access way to its plant site. The village will have the roadway, which could lure other businesses to the site.

The village also will lease 15 acres to the company.

Councilman Keith Hebble, chairman of the council rules committee, suggested that his committee meet with the solicitor to work out a satisfactory contract.

There was no mention at the council meeting as to why Tri-County Asphalt, Inc., wished to lease the additional acreage.

Among other legislation passed as emergency measures Tuesday was one amending the newly adopted pay ordinance.

Who made the mistake, if he is known, is unidentified.

The original ordinance was found to have had three errors.

The first one had the head of the street and sewer departments at $5.70 an hour, rather than $6.19.

The second was to pay firemen $4 a fire call, when it was meant to be $4 an hour while on a call.

The third dealt with the ambulance personnel as a whole, whereas it should have read "Emergency Medical Technicians."

Zoning fees, which had been informally approved last month, became official by ordinance.

Resurfacing of Route 603 within the village by the Ohio Department of Transportation was approved.

Cost to the village will be $1,503, from the state highway fund for six-tenths of a mile from the east end of the village to the Square.

These are former councilman Bill Taulbee, five years; Luella Vandervort and Lee Welker, three years; Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard, two years, and Barber, one year.

Police Chief Robert Conley, who has completed his required six month probationary period, was formally appointed as the village's chief law enforcement officer.

Hebble reported that because of the negotiation period among the 13 municipalities that bonded together to fight the Ohio Power Co. request to increase rates by 13.7 per cent and the company, the village saved money.

The sum was $13,303, he said.

It was agreed finally the rate increase will be reduced to 7.5 per cent.

Because the village rates were increased last month in anticipation of the higher rate, adjustments for each electrical user are being worked out.

Hebble said there is a chance, albeit several years from now, there will be further savings. At the moment the village is saving $5,398 annually with the lower increase.

Leasing of village land for farming is to be studied before any action or bids is taken. The current lease is due to expire in several months.

Big Red falls to Col. Crawford

The score was 74 to 22, Plymouth's worst beating of the season.

With powerful Buckeye Central, which has lost only two games, coming here tonight, the big Red is 9-and-9.

So is Colonel Crawford as a result of its easy victory.

Plymouth did not shoot well, made too many mistakes, and was clearly outrebounded.

Budget slash to cost $112,000 in school funds

Budget slashes by the governor and the General Assembly will cost Plymouth Local School district $112,00 of money it counted on a year ago when the budget for this year was prepared.

Supt. Douglas Staggs, obviously angry with the fact, told Plymouth Board of Education Monday night every district is in trouble, but those depending heavily upon state aid are in greater trouble. Plymouth is one such.

Solution? A make-do operation, he counseled. Hold up on preparation of the appropriations until the last minute, Mar. 31. "This is no way to run a school district," he said bitterly, "not knowing the money situation."

"We should know more about what the state intends to do as time goes on and we will have to go from there," he said.

He reviewed previous cuts by the General Assembly and the governor, dating from 1979-80. There was a 7.2 per cent slash the next, then a 5.5 per cent cut, then a 6.18 per cent decrease.

Mark Sheely, principal of Plymouth Elementary school, told the board his building has lately been evaluated by the state department. He implied it was less than thorough. He said the state department is now preparing new standards and these will be enforced during another inspection for October, 1983.

Sheely said the inspector pointed out some text books are too old (he told the inspector the district has been strapped for funds) and that more policies need to be reduced to writing so that staff knows all the time what to do under every circumstance. "The inspection report is positive, but it certainly points to some decificiencies, such as roof repair, which is already in course," he said.

Other criticisms have been dealt with on an immediate basis, Sheely said, and the administrator has been kept informed.

Mrs. Herbert Caudill, bus driver, hospitalized at Cleveland with a severe back problem, requested and was granted an extended leave of absence.

Mrs. David Simpson, nee Sara Kranz, a teacher at Shiloh, was accorded a maternity leave.

Daniel Donoghue, elementary vocal music teacher, was given permission to conduct an exercise on a Sunday. He will take musicians to hear the Heidelberg college choir in a Tiffin church.

Miss Linda Cline, assigned to Shiloh school, reported on development of Right to Read activities, which begin Feb. 28. Theme is "Rainbow of Reading".

The school's policy against possession and use of drugs will be amended to encompass change in state regulations requiring reference to counterfeit drugs.

Village of Plymouth was accorded an easement to lay and maintain an electric line across the armory property.

Three pupils were approved as Neighborhood Youth corps workers. One will be assigned to each building.

Council of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church filed a formal protest against scheduling of activities on Sunday afternoons. The board said it will seek to accommodate the church.

Staggs said such activities "usually amount to graduation and two music concerts plus the school musical." Sheely, a member of the parish, said he believes the protest is "a general thing, the pariah serves three school districts, and it just wanted to get its feelings on the record".

Second and third graders in Plymouth Elementary school visited high school typing classes last week. Tuesday was the day for a program of motivational reading. Today is Western day, when pupils will dress as cowhands. Parents will visit classrooms Feb. 23-24. Second Jump-a-Thon for the Heart fund will be conducted Mar. 14.

No. 22, Rick Hawkins, will make final schoolboy appearance as basketball player here against Black River Thursday, in last Firelands conference game of season, rescheduled to accommodate the Pirates' tourney slate. He hasn't seen much action and hasn't scored much, but save for two players, who has? He's president of the Class of 1983, which shows the esteem in which he's held by his peers.

Power rates up 9% at Shiloh

Village council there voted Feb. 9, four to one, to approve the recommendation of the board of trustees of public affairs, which were outlined by J. Michael Bauer.

The new rates call for a minimum of $4 a month and six cents a kilowatt hour for the first 300 used. Any usage over that level will be billed at five cents each.

These rates mean that one who uses 300 kilowatt hours a month will be billed $22. Those who consume 300 kwh now pay $19.10.

Disconnections will be charged $15 each. Reconnections after service has been dicontinued will pay $15 each.

Bauer said the present rate if four years old and the village absorbed the last two raises by Ohio Power Co. Mayor Francis Gowtizka said "We lost $5,000 in the electric fund last year".

The negotiated rate with the supplier, calling for a raise of 7.2 per cent, was approved.

Mayor and clerk-treasurer were empowered to enter into a fire protection contract with Cass and Bloomingrove townships. The agreement is contingent upon the unanimous approval by the trustees of the two townships.

The agreement calls for payment of $650 annually to the fire chief, $375 a year to his assistant, and $3 an hour to fire and ambulance personnel while they are in actual service.

Mayor Gowitzka said the council will approve a 10 per cent pay increase for two village employees if the trustees of public affairs will share their pay equally. Trustees now pay 60 per cent of the wages of John Shepard.

Councilman Frank E. Cline voted against this notion. He said what Shepard does for the trustees is more valuable than what he does for the village. But Gowitzka's proposal prevailed.

An emergency ordinance regulating the removal of trees was not submitted. Mayor Gowitzka said it obviously needs revision.

Chamber to meet

Paul Capelle, city manager at Willard, will be guest speaker during the monthly dinner meeting of Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce at Hartenstein's Supper club, Willard, today at 7 p. m.

Public is invited.

Oxley to meet constituents

Richland countians are urged to attend an upcoming countywide meeting to be hosted by Fourth District Congressman Michael G. Oxley (R-Findlay).

The countywide meeitng will take place Monday between 7 and 8:30 p. m., in Courtroom No. 1, Richland county courthouse, Mansfield.

"The major purpose of this countywide meeting is to enable Richland county residents to express their opinions directly to me on federal issues of concern to them," Oxley explaines.

"With the many crucial issues confronting congress today, including efforts to restrain federal spending and assure the fiscal solvency of the Social Security system, it is essential that I know what those I represent think so that I can cast my vote accordingly," Oxley says.

A staff member will also be present to assist constituents who have problems with federal agencies.

Persons unable to attend the countywide meeting are encouraged to write to Oxley at 1108 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Data sought on graves

Persons who have information about unmarked graves in Greenlawn cemetery may call Mrs. Ronald Lybarger.

She is available Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays in Plymouth Branch library, where she assists Mrs. J. Harold Cashman.

Molesting? . . . In Shiloh

Was a child molested at Shiloh Feb. 8?

Richland county sheriff's deputies are investigating a complaint by the child's mother. The girl, seven, told police a man sought to induce her to get into his car about 3 p.m.

. . . In Plymouth

A girl carrying papers told police she was accosted Monday at 5:55 p. m. in West Broadway by a man in a car. He drew a knife and demanded a paper. She refused, whereupon he left. She was unable to identify the vehicle.

Alumnus elected hospital trustee

J. Michael Bauer, proprietor of a neighborhood grocery at Shiloh, was unanimously elected by the hospital association in its annual meeting Feb. 9 to serve a three year term as trustee.

He replaces Mrs. Daryl Clemans, nee Demaris Swartz, a trustee until she resigned a year ago.

Todd Caudill is the new owner of Marathon Carry Out at 189 Plymouth street, effective Mar. 1.

He has bought the business from Robert Hall, who will join his father-in-law, Joseph J. Lasch, in management of Woody Ridge golf course and continue to operate the fuel pump station at Routes 61 and 98.

DWI charge result of collision

Both cars went into the right side of the road. Miss Dininger received injuries but refused treatment on the scene. Tash was taken to Shelby Municipal hospital with fractures of the hand, wrist and shoulder and facial contusions.

Another loss, lower sales, Banner reports

Another period of loss is reported by Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Net loss per share during the quarter ending Dec. 31 was 31 cents, compared to a profit of 14 cents a year ago.

Net sales were $31,225,421, down from $53,387,544 in 1981. Net income on these sales was a loss of $1,259,732, compared to a net profit of $564,338 a year ago.

For the six month period ending Dec. 31, loss per share amounted to 58 cents, compared to a profit of 36 cents a year ago.

On net sales of $82,422,299, net loss was $2,350,674. A year ago, the comparable figures were $105,630,179 and $1,432,798.

$19,575 real tax delinquencies reported in school district

It is no surprise that real estate tax delinquencies in Plymouth Local School district have risen markedly.

They total $19,575.42 among Richland county taxpayers alone.

They include Martha Joyce Call, $329.61; Sallie Cantrell, $464.26; Larry and Judy Martin, $187.53; Carl and Ruth Aline Gasparac, $368.40; James and Sandra Huston, $1,226.48;

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

In the short while since returning to Plymouth there have been certain observations that are somewhat deparing, notably the pessimistic attitude of the general public. It seems there is a widespread feeling of dejection and hopelessness amongst the citizenry who quite frequently expres a dim view of the progress the community is experiencing. From most observations it seems their attitude is such that the community is in such a state of regression there is little hope for the future, that the local economy has drastically receded and all hope of improvement is bleak and discouraging.

These are difficult times. The recession has taken its toll, spreading despair and hostility throughout the country, particularly amongst unemployed and the business community. The future certainly looks bleak, but to despair would be to admit defeat and discourage any effort to move in a progressive direction.

I have just returned from an area that is experiencing the same problems as are being experienced here in Plymouth. Businesses went bankrupt and closed, new construction stalled, unemployment increased, and the economy as a whole dipped to a new low. But his did not discourage them. Through a combined effort (the Chamber of Commerce, the Businessmen's associations, the Rotary, other community organizations, and the city officials) new businesses were brought in, new construction continued to progress. They expressed an optimism that reflected in their attitude and efforts to promote their community and develop programs necessary to improve the conditions affecting the business and economic environment.

Attitude and effort are the mitigating factors involved. As in the area I just left, an attitude that exemplifies progress and a combined effort that assures exonomic growth is necessary. With respect to Plymouth, the proper motivation and optimistic views can create an atmosphere that will encourage growth and progress. This is within the realm of reality and must be pursued with vigor.

Potato recipe, return of hats occupy Auntie

By AUNT LIZ

Before another word gets written, I have a "hot" recipe to pass on.

As far as I know it is less than a week old, and practically the whole world knows about it, and I hear it is delicious.

Quarter or cut up potatoes, how many you willneed to feed everyone, or cut them somehow in chunks. Dip each one in milk, then in that stuff in a bag you shake stuff in for a coating. Try the flavorless kind first, or get brave and try your favorite flavoring. It all works.

Oil a cookie sheet, place each piece on it, and bake at about 400 for a half hour.

It is better not to peel the potatoes because you are then wasting the best part, which is smack under the thin skins.

This has been a happy week with such a tasty new recipe.

The other thing that has perked life up is hats. Now the newest rage is copying what Princess Di is wearing.

I have never seen one so unattractive in my life.

But she is on the right path. Maybe she knows and has simply dreamed up her version so she is not a copycat.

Not many will remember the hat that was the rage way back. I must have been in grade school. For several years all hats were the Empress Eugenia models. she was the wife of a French emperor who spent more time buying and wearing clothes than being a good empress back in the late 1800's.

They were really perkly little things, kind of like an Army overseas cap which sat at a jauntily angle over one eye. Sexy is a better word. They made everyone look better. They were befeathered, had seductive-looking veils on them, and everyone wore them.

I can hear the screaming now: "I will not weat a hat, and I am a lady!"

Sure, most of us like to think we are, no matter how we look. People hardly dress up anymore. I shouldn't say this, but only a wedding or a funeral will bring out really well dressed people, but yet a fortune is spent on being and looking casual and comfortable.

A long time ago I realized something that I swear by. When people are really dress When people are really dressed nicely, they act nicely. There is no way to explain my theory but I have seen it work. People who absolutely hated each other during the day could not have been more friendly at night when they had their best clothes on.

But somehow, we all have to fit in with everyone else and not stick out like a sore thumb, like I did one night when I got dressed for a nice party and everyone else had jeans on.

Monroeville annihilates Plymouth, 82 to 52

Monroeville trounced Plymouth, 82 to 52, Saturday night on the Plymouth floor, which is where Plymouth was for most of the night.

The Eagles got off to a rousing start. They scored the first six points, gave up a basket, scored the next six, gave up another basket and then held Plymouth to threee additional points before closing the period with 22.

Plymouth came on somewhat in the second period. It got some scoring from its big gun, Rodney Hampton, who made three buckets and two free throws, and lost only three to the visitors, who led at the half by 36 to 18.

Early in the second half, the roof fell in on the Big Red.

Monroeville got off 22 shots at the basket and converted 12 of them. Five of these were by Don Beck, who wound up with 18 for the night. Chris Ott, Mike Landoll and Don Farmer scored five points apiece in the third quarter.

Plymouth, at the same time, did not score well. It got off 16 tries for field goal and managed to make five of them. It scored only 12 in the disastrous third period.

Leading by 64 to 30 going into the final period, Coach Dan Augspurger rested his starters. With the second nine players on the floor, Plymouth manged 22 points, of which eight were free throws. The Big Red fired for field goal 16 times and converted seven, while Monroeville shot a poor three of 15. Only 12 free throws by the Eagles, who missed four during the fourth quarter, kept Plymouth from cutting the lead to under 30 points.

This is a fine Monroeville team. Not so fine, perhaps, as that which stormed to the regional finals at Canton a handful of years back, but it s nevertheless a splendid team. Its losses in league play were less mechanical than strategic (at South Central, for example, the shot selection was such that the Eagles fired away from outside rather than punch away underneath, which is its forte) and it should do well in tourney action.

Plymouth admittedly is in a rebuilding year. How far it has rebuilt may not be seen until next season. The Big Red loses two starters this year by graduation, and two others among the traveling squad.

Ott, who didn't plav in the fourth period, scored 16 for the Eagles. Landoll wound up with 13. He didn't play in the final quarter, either. Farmer scored 13, two of them in the last period. Kevin Roeder, off the bench, was Monroeville's main scorer in the last quarter with 10, his total for the game.

Trojans outshoot Big Red, 40-26

Big first half, fantastic accuracy prevail

South Central blew Plymouth off the floor with a fantastic exhibition of shooting in the first half at Greenwich Friday night and walked away with an 84 to 65 Firelands conference victory.

The Trojans fired for field goal 33 times in the first 16 minutes and connected 25 times for a lead of 52 to 26. Plymouth was not able to recover, despite the fact it outscored South Central in the second half, mainly because two players whose guns have been shackled of late bame to the fore. Mike McKenzie, who did not start for the first time this year, scored 12 in the second half, 23 for the night, and Craig Thornsberry bagged 15 in the second half, 22 for the game, to make Plymouth somewhat respectable at the final buzzer.

But it was the South Central shooting that was too much.

Don Sweeting scored 10 in the first quarter and four in the second. Jeff Music recorded six in the first period and eight in the second. Jeff Chandler had eight in the first half. So did Tod Walker.

It wasn't so much an exhibition of brute strength or superior floor play. It was simply that South Central shot the cords off the basket and Plymouth failed to do that.

In the first eight minutes, the visitors managed just seven points on 14 shots, three of which went down. In the second period, Plymouth scored 19 points, having tried 17 shots, connecting with eight. Indeed, Plymouth shot exceptionally well during the last three periods, 23 successes in 44 tries, just over 50 per cent, enough to win a dozen games. But it was far from enough in this one.

Only four Plymouth players managed to score. Perhaps this had an effect on the outcome. But it was not that the scoring was limited to four. Those that didn't score missed only nine shots.

The free throw shooting on each side was exceptional. Only one Trojan went to the foul line. He was Walker, who had four tries and who made all four of them. Plymouth had 14 attempts and made 13.

For those who like run-and-gun, this was a pure delight. It is too bad that Plymouth could not find itself until the issue was decided. These classic rivals would have otherwise staged a barnburner.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Whose duty?

What does the ordinary citizen owe to the sponsors of a civic event? Particularly a civic event that is conducted principally for the purpose of raising money?

Obviously, he owes nothing. Legally, that is. If his child participates in interscholastic athletics, which couldn't be conducted without enormous assistance by the Boosters club, he owes nothing to the Boosters club. Not legally. If his sister needs blood and obtains it from the American Red Cross, he owes it nothing. Not legally. If his child plays summer baseball, he owes the league nothing. Not legally.

Any sensible person knows there is no such thing as a free lunch.

There are those among us who've dined off the free lunch, literally and figurately speaking, for almost a lifetime. There are some who marvel at how they do it, and most especially that they do it with no feeling of guilt.

Still, there are those who're understandably bitter about how they've been treated and who do not patronize such events.

One says, "The last time I went there, they took my money but nobody in the whole darned organization so much as spoke to me."

Another says, "If you think I'm going to give those soandsos the satisfaction of dumping on me again by taking my money and my participation without so much as a handshake or a kind word, you're crazy!"

Still a third complains, "When I ask for their help and support, they're always too busy!"

What is the moral duty of the average citizen?

It is to support the home effort, the home talent, the home enterprise, at whatever cost. To fail to so do is to watch the community wither and die.

How to support that effort?

He who is steersman for the controversial Richland county piggyback tax effort inquired the other day if we would support the proposal. When we told him we wouldn't, not now, anyway, he said, "It figures. Most towns that are dying on the vine are against it."

We think his facts are wrong, but what of it? What counts is the attitude.

There are some activities that simply do not titillate the sensibilities or the risibilities. What of these? Ordinarily, let them prosper or fail without your support. But suppose these activities, whether formal or informal, commercial or non-commercial, partisan or non-partisan, religious or non-religious, involve the basic structure of the community, the fundamental ability of what businesses that are left to meet their payrolls and pay their taxes, the basic opportunity of a program to serve the real needs of the community that are not or cannot be met by public taxation? What of them?

The rule ought to be this:

Those in business should support local businesses, even if it costs a little more. To fail to do so is to lose them.

Those who consume should support local businesses, even if it costs a little more. To fail to do so is to raise one's taxes.

Those who seek the fraternal, patriotic or social life and need to rely on public support should remember, at all costs and at all times, you're in business because there are those who believe in you. If you don't treat them right, if you don't speak to them, or speak well of them, they have every right to let you swing in the breeze.

Negligence alleged in $1.5 million suit vs. Holthouse driver

A $1.5 million negligence suit has been laid against the driver of a Holthouse Bros., Inc., truck that struck and killed a 22-year-old Bloomville man Aug. 4.

The suit, which calls for a jury trial in Huron county common pleas court, seeks $1.5 million for the alleged wrongful death and $50,000 for Ball's suffering and pain before his death.

Shreve pleaded no contest to a charge of vehicular homicide in Norwalk Municipal court Oct. 19 and was fined $300 and costs of $35.

He's not all of Plymouth's offense, but how much of it he is in fact was demonstrated at Bucyrus Saturday. Low output from Rodney Hampton, Plymouth was decimated.

This 11th grader and honor pupil, accomplished musician and self-proclaied lady's man, may very well be Plymouth's most outstanding athlete. He excels in football, when he's healthy; in baseball, where he's a lefthanded pitcher and outfielder, and in basketball, where he carried a high double figure average.

He'll see action today against Black River here in the finale and at Ashland Monday against New London in tourney play.

Willard won't review village water rates: Root

Willard has ignored his request to review water rates charged to Plymouth, James C. Root, village administrator, told village council Tuesday night.

"Perhaps this is the time to bring it out in the open," he said.

Plymouth is not using 170,000 gallons of water daily, as called for by the contract.

He said the village used that much during the first six months of the contract in 1981.

Since then, a number of major water leaks have been found and repaired, about 100 faulty meters have been replaced, and users seem to be making a concerted effort to conserve water because of the high rates, Root said.

Root wants Willard to consider reimbursement to Plymouth for water lost by leakage and not used and a reduction of the daily amount billed.

This will be a considerable savings to the village, he told the council.

He also said that because of the extensive street repairs made last summer, the streets are in a good condition and much less patching is needed.

Sawvel and Associates, Findlay, will have a report prepared soon, he said, on the condition of the electrical distribution system.

Jerry Tischer, district manager of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Mansfield, paid one of his "social" visits to the council. He said there have been no rate raises this winter.

Councilman Roy Barber asked him what the position of the company is taking on H.B. 4, which will not allow the company to pass the cost of out-of-state gas to consumers.

Tischer laid the blame on the General Assembly and the governor, saying they simply do not understand nor realize that Ohio does not and cannot supply enough gas to meet its needs.

He also said because the federal government controls 80 per cent of an individual's gas bill, what is done at that level could mean about a 25 per cent increase of rates by the end of the year.

Another item he pointed out is that losses by Columbia Gas because of bills not being paid because the company (and electrical companies) have been prohibited from disconnecting service for non-payment during the winter months must be recovered.

Some people who are able to pay are taking advantage of the state ruling.

Councilman Keith Hebble reported he and Root attended the Feb. 16 session of the North Star Council of govgernments and heard a speaker from the Department of Natural Resources explain what funds are available.

The fire department has already filed for funding for additional equipment and there is a strong possibility the village will receive funding for recreational purposes in 1984.

Planning to fall? Go backwards, there's mre padding there!

By AUNT LIZ

If you are planning to fall down on a little icy and snowy patch, arrange to fall backward.

That is where just about everyone is better padded.

You may bounce a little, but you aren't so apt to break anything.

Falling forward doesn't give you a chance.

The last time was about 13 years ago, then just for traction, so this was really a new happening.

Since then, everyone knows how hospital rates have gone up, but so have their services.

Patients mean employing a lot of people, and a lot of people must have things to do, so they really watch over you.

They have you in their clutches. You can't get out of bed (even if you are mobile) until someone comes along and lets the side of the bed down. You could escape, but it is a difficult climbing maneuver.

Hospital notes . . .

Miss Luella Vandervort has been released from Mansfield General hospital, where she underwent surgery.

ERRATUM

Foot surgery was performed in Willard Area hospital on Mrs. Harry Lee Seaman, not Mrs. Lester Seaman, as reported last week.

For years, when I Gray Ladied, people would complain about being trapped in bed, and I felt sorry for them.

No more. I was downright grateful for those sides. Never have I seen a bed so easy to roll out of, and it must have been a 10-foot drop to a hard floor. Maybe only two feet, but you certainly could have been more badly hurt than what you started with.

And another thing I did not know. If you absolutely do no want to be safe in bed with no bars, you must sign a release. I do not blame any hospital one bit.

Back to the happy around-the-clock services. Taking temperatures, pulses and blood pressure is an indoor sport with them. I finally came to the conclusion tha the on-coming shift simply did not believe one word the previous shift had written down. So they did it all over again. The attention was flattering, but not at midnight, then at 2 a. m., then at 4 a. m. By 6 a. m. you are really awake, so that one was not too bad.

These were all nurses and medical doctors I was dealing with and not a dentist in the crowd.

They took a greater interest in my teeth than our dentist does.

Their problem was trying to figure out if they were in, and if out, where I had stashed them.

Even when I was stretched out on the operating tablem out on the operating table, someone leaned over, glared, and asked, "What did you do with your teeth?"

No one wanted to believe that they were right where they have been all my life, well anchored (I hope) in my mouth.

They all think I was a real odd ball.

It is not easy to be a good patient when you are unhappy about a dumb accident and hurt. I did try. The way I felt, I could have had them running around all night, but I didn't, and they should all be kind of grateful.

The reason was that because I hurt all over, I could not reach the bell on the other side of the bed.

And one more thing: all us gals should keep a bag packed just in case. Men can always depend on some babe to bring a tooth brush. to bring a toothbrush, slippers and other goop.

I did not plan to stay. It took a day to bail a robe from home and two for bedroom slippers, which were sitting right out-loud on the bathroom counter so the dog couldn't get them. I did not attempt to suggest a hunt for a nightie. That would have been too much, so I wore their chic models, which let a large draft in down the back.

Since so many nice friends have kept us eating, cooking has been out. Frankly, we have been dining on what kings and queens have. It has been great.

But we have a great recipe which think would work best for beer drinkers.

Pop three quarts of popcorn, which if I remember correctly from all the caramel corn we made over the holidays is a speck more than one and a half cups of corn.

Melt a half a cup of butter. Mix it with the popped corn.

Have ready a mixture of one teaspoon of chili powder, one-half teaspoons of paprika, a fourth of a teaspoon of garlic powder, a half of a teaspoon of crushed red peppers and a fourth of a cup of grated Parmesan cheese.

Mix it and if you have them throw in one cup of dried roasted peanuts.

This can go in an oven for a bit so it can be eaten while warm.

(Clip and Save.)

Stick these ideas on your refrigerator.
MAGNET GOES HERE
The more you use, the more energy you'll save.

1. Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or an electric frypan instead of your large oven or range.
2. Never use the oven as a heater.
3. Place pans on the surface units of your range before you turn on the heat.
4. Use a small amount of water when boiling eggs and vegetables. Use tight-fitting lids, too.
5. Place the most often used items in the front of your refrigerator shelves so you can get to them quickly.
6. Make sure refrigerator door seals are tight, free of grease.
7. Don't wash your dishes until you've got a full load. That's usually after dinner.
8. Turn off the lights, radio and TV before you leave.
9. Don't let the hot water run while you're shaving. Fill the sink halfway instead.
10. If you can, use an electric razor. It uses less energy in a year than the hot water your hand razor uses in a week.
11. Set your water heater's temperature at a moderate 140°F or as low as possible to allow for enough hot water.
12. Take shorter showers.
13. Wash and dry only full loads of clothes.
14. Keep your thermostat at 68° or less in the winter, at least 78° in the summer.
15. In winter, open drapes and shades to let sun heat your home. When sun sets, close them.
16. In summer, close drapes and shades to keep your home from getting overheated.
17. Don't heat or cool unused rooms. Close them off.
18. Keep the damper on your fireplace closed when not in use.

Cougars edge Plymouth in middle periods, 72 to 66

Crestview outscored Plymouth in the second and third periods on the Cougar floor Friday night and came away with a 72 to 66 victory in Firelands conference play.

Plymouth will play Black River in a return match here today for possession of the cellar. Each team has won only one conference game. The Pirates won earlier, in a dimly lit affair at Sullivan.

It was not that Plymouth was outshot. The Big Red showed good shot selection almost throughout. Its record was 25 successes in 53 tries, certainly enough to win a dozen games. Its free throw performance was less than the best. It missed eight of 24 tries.

But even if each team had managed to score each time it went to the foul line, Crestview would have won. More narrowly, assuredly, but it would have won all the same. The Cougars missed five of 13 tries. They hit with 32 of 65 attempts at field goal.

Where Plymouth was beaten was on the boards. By only seven shots, true, but those seven could have meant the difference. Plymouth could not control its offensive boards.

During the second period, into which Plymouth went with a 15 to 12 advantage, Brian Easterling cut the Big Red into little carmine shreds with five field goals and one of two free throws. He concluded his play for the night with 18, one short of game high, shared by Mike Williams and Mike Kochheiser with 19.

Crestview's output of 24 points in the second eight minutes resulted in a Cougar lead of 36 to 34 at the half.

The Cougars were 16-of-35 at this point, the Big Red 13-of-21.

Crestview maintained the pressure in the third period. Plymouth has not been a strong third period outfit this season and this was no exception. After tying at 38, Plymouth let Kochheiser score from the end line and Williams from 17 feet away with a jumper and never got closer than two for the remainder of the period.

Going into the last eight minutes, Plymouth trailed by six. And that's how it ended. Crestview outscored Plymouth by two field goals but Rodney Hampton and Greg Polachek made three and four, respectively, at the foul line.

Hampton played splendidly in a losing cause. He scored 22, Polachek 18, Craig Thornaberry 12. When he is on the bench, as he was forced to be two third of the way through the third period with a fourth foul, Plymouth does not figure so strongly in the outcome.

Tom Baker's 12 points was high for him this season.

Buck girls explode in fourth quarter, 45 to 23

State-ranked Buckeye Central broke open a tight game in the fourth period here Thursday night and stormed to a 45 to 23 victory over Plymouth.

The Bucks blew Plymouth off the floor early in the fourth quarter and did not let up until the buzzer.

They scored 23 points and held Plymouth to just two.

Until then it was close, just a point separating the teams at the end of 24 minutes.

Eight visitors broke into the scoring column, led by Theresa Luidhardt with 10, Laurie Kehres with 10 and Becky Zoltanski with nine. The Bucks fired 56 times and made 20 and were nearly perfect at the foul line, where they missed just one. They took down 28 rebounds and made only 14 mistakes.

Plymouth managed to put only three players on the scorebook. Lisa Daron led them with 10. The Big Red shot 38 times and made 10 and missed four of seven free throws. It rebounded 22 times and committed 24 turnovers, 15 of them in the last period.

Plymouth ends its season 9-and-10.

Big Red's 'Silent Man' to see action today

The Quiet Man of the Big Red is Tom Baker. Not much for holler, but dependable, a good shot, sound floor player and a team man. He's started some games of late, and those he hasn't started have seen him in action before the first eight minutes have passed. An 11th grader, he also plays football (well) and baseball (equally well).

Bucyrus annihilates Plymouth; reserves lose second in row

The score was 72 to 39.

Plymouth was beaten because it couldn't handle the big man.

He was Ken Tuttle, a six feet six inch giant who scored 12 in the first half and passed off for another 12 and added six in the third period before he went to the bench with four fouls. By this time the Redmen were so far in front they couldn't have been caught with an SST.

Bucyrus intimidated Plymouth from the start. Tuttle made the rebound on the first five shots Bucyrus took and scored with three of them. Todd Brenner, another big fellow, albeit only six feet three, had six in the first period as well. This output and superior rebounding gave Bucyrus a 15 to 9 lead after eight minutes.

The Redmen built on this in the next period. Six players managed to score, a total of 16 points, and Bucyrus went to the intermission in the van by 31 to 19.

After 16 minutes, Plymouth had gotten off just 18 shots at the basket, making eight of them. Craig Thornaberry had five points to lead the pack. He was game high for Plymouth with 13.

The Redmen showed familiarity with their baskets and their varnish in the third period, making half of 14 tries for field goal. Going into the final period, Plymouth trailed by 14 at 44 to 30.

The Big Red managed just one field goal in the final quarter. Bucyrus scored 11 of them. All told, the Redmen outscored the visitors by 19 points, 29 to 9. Second line Bucyrus players peopled the lineup when the fourth period started and shortly thereafter Coach Dave Dunn inserted his reserves.

It was not a satisfying exhibition.

Plymouth succeeded with 12 of 33 shots from the field and 15 of 20 free throws. It was credited with only 18 rebounds, which is why it lost so badly, because Bucyrus rook down 40 rebounds. The Redmen shot for field goal 63 times and scored with 32 of them and missed seven of 15 free throws.

Plymouth was in disarray in the second half. It was charged with 14 turnovers, 10 of them in the final period. All told, Plymouth made 22 mistakes, Bucyrus only 16.

There were seats for half of he population of the county.

Upstairs store helped 240

Twenty-six families with 76 children were from the Plymouth area, 34 families with 104 children from the Shiloh area. Extra clothing was given to 35 of these families in December. Two adults asked for clothing.

Adult clothing has been taken to four area nursing centers. Volunteers of America, Mansfield, have taken several boxes of surplus adult clothing and items unusable for the store's needs. Several bags of rags have been given to individuals. Ivan Hawk has taken bags of unusable items to the dump.

Bedding, sheets, blankets, pillow, towels, as well as kitchen utensils are needed.

Used clothing is brought in almost every week. Clothing is received from the school from lost and found boxes. This is sorted, washed and used for school needs.

A large amount of new clothing ha been given by Fisher's Big Wheel in Shelby. A slight defect is in some, a broken zipper, a broken seam — these are repaired and used for school needs. Clothing has also been donated by McIntire's store in Plymouth.

Several boxes of new clothing were given by First United Presbyterian church in December for the extra December giving. Toys and games were also given.

Funds for the Upstairs store are received from paper drives organized by Church Women United, contributions from six area churches, a sizable check from the Employees' Civic fund of First Buckeye Bank in Plymouth, a check from the Lions club, the Sunshine club, and Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion. Memorial gifts and individual gifts have been received. The sale of adult and other surplus clothing, at a low cost, also is used for operating funds.

Mrs. Harry Sybrandt is chairman.

School records found in order by auditor

A review of school distric accounts for the May 1, 1979-Dec. 31, 1981 period showed only one mistake, the state auditor says.

Examiners found $5,200 in bills due by the food service fund were carried over from 1981 to 1982.

Some management recommendations were listed in the review, which was discussed with the treasurer and the board before it was made public.

Some mistakes of a procedural nature but none of a substantive character were found when state auditors examined the books of the pupil activity funds of Plymouth High school, Plymouth Elementary school and Shiloh Junior High and Elementary school.

The audit was for the period May 1, 1979, to Dec. 31, 1981.

Mistakes were:

1. Pay orders in the three schools did not always have proper documentation to support expenditures. All pay orders should be itemized and invoices attached.

2. Installment purchases were made by the high school.

3. Shiloh did not record payment to the fund and canceled checks in numerical order.

3. Plymouth Elementary school failed to reflect year-to-year totals when closing out ledgers each month.

4. Checks of Plymouth Elementary school were signed before they were drawn.

5. Checks at Shiloh were drawn to cash.

6. Board of education did not formally accept donations to pupil activity accounts.

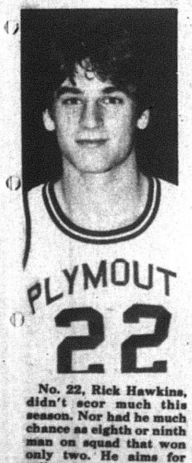

Mayor asks Continental to explain

Mayor Dean A. Cline said he has been trying with no avail to reach Continental Cablevision to receive a clear explanation of charges for expanded services now offered to village viewers.

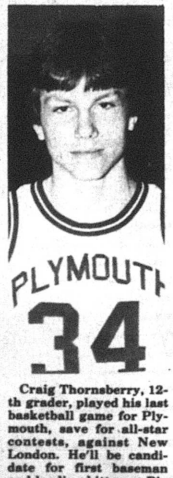

He also said that workmen doing the new installations are "pounding holes in houses without permission."

At the suggestion of Councilman G. Thomas Moore, the yield sign at Route 61 and the parking are in the north end of the Square will be replaced by a regular stop sign.

Police Chief Robert Conley said it is a wise move, since

No. 22, Rick Hawkins, didn't scor much this season. Nor had he much chance as eighth or ninth man on squad that won only two. He aims for college but hasn't decided where.

Craig Thornsberry, 12-th grader, played his last basketball game for Plymouth, save for all-star contests, against New London. He'll be candidate for first baseman and leading hitter on Big Red nine.

Village native back from Illinois speaks out —

What's wrong with Plymouth?

Sir:

This commentary is an extension to the letter written and published in a previous edition of The Advertiser. It is about a small community that in 1971 was similar in size to Plymouth but containing 6,400 inhabitants and which has grown to a population of 23,000 and still growing.

It began as a farming community with open fields, lagoons, and farm lands within the corporate limits some 35 miles from downtown Chicago. Progress was slow in the beginning, similar to that of Plymouth, but the influx of new inhabitants and city officials with progressive notions brought on unbelieveable growth and progress.

The political climate in the area began to change in the late 60's. City officials and organizations within became aware of the resources available and set out to promote them. Schools, churches, recreation, transportation, an dutility systems all became a part of the promotion program. Carl Sandburg High school was one of the leading high schools, scholastically, in the state. Several denominations of the church (Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, and others) existed within the community. Recreation and transportation facilities were more than adequate. The fire department boasted of a full-time fire chief and full-time fire fighters, although primarily a volunteer department. The police department was one to be proud of and all necessary utilities were more than adequate.

The first step in the planing and growth of the village was the development of what they referred to as a PUD (Planned Unit Development) and building and zoning ordinance. This provided for orderly growth and development without a strain upon the services to be furnished. The planning commission and zoning board joined forces with the Chamber of Commerce, businessmen's association and neighborhood organizations to promote commercial, industrial, and residential development. The PUD and zoning ordinance were strictly enforced. Developers were required to submit their PUD's to the Planning and Zoning Boards and although certain concessions by the developer were required and heavily debated the village has grown to its present size of 23,000 inhabitants, two large shopping malls with approximately 200 retail establishments, six shopping plazas with an additional 100 to 150 retailers, sixty three restaurants (family, fast food, and supper club), two large building and loan facilities and five large banks, several industries (light and heavy) a four unit theater building, and many business offices.

It's not to say that Plymouth would experience the same kind of growth, but considering what has been done by this small community, it is worth the effort for Plymouth if only on a smaller scale. One advantage the described community has over Plymouth is the fact it is contiguous to a metropolitan area. But this should not be discouraging and reflect against Plymouth because heavy promotion was required in competition with many other developing communities in the area, all vieing for the same retailers, industries, and consumers. It was a matter of pursuasian, who had the most and best to offer.

It is my firm belief there is potential for this type of economic growth in Plymouth. A tour of the area indicated to me there is considerable area available for growth and a comined effort by all it's inhabitants could bring it to fruition. It will not be an easy task. Although a zoning ordinance was finally adopted and the water and sewer problems were alleviated, there are other factors that must be considered:

1. Various factions within the village working against each other. Most concern themselves only with what will benefit them, with little concern with what will benefit the entire community. In the end, cooperation and a combined effort by all concerned would benefit all.

2. Areas contiguous to the corporate limits which refuse to annex to the village. This refusal hinders and even halts growth and development. The difference of approximately three mils of taxation discourages them to annex without realizing that annexing would mean better services and benefits that would far exceed the extra millage of taxes. Meanwhile, annexation could mean lower taxes since overall property valuation within the village would increase revenues and make it possible to reduce the millage and lessen the burden on each taxpayer.

3. Favoritism toward certain individuals and factions. Favors make friends, but if the favors are not extended to all members of the community then cooperation by others cannot be expected. Services extended as favors should not exist unless it benefits the entire community.

4. Patronage of retailers and other businesses. Consumers are patronizing out-of-town businesses and local retailers and the community as a whole are suffering. Sales taxes that would normally be distributed locally are being distributed to other localities simply because the consumer insists on shopping out of town. Sales taxes are an important source of revenue and many communities thrive on it. As in the case of the described community $2,500,000 in retail sales taxes are returned to the community as a result of it's growth. This adds to their ability to render more and better services without an increase in other taxes. On the other hand Plymouth is losing this source of revenue because it lacks adequate retailing and businesses that meet the consumer demand for goods and services, and the consumer has no choice but to shop elsewhere.

5. Pride and care of personal property. An outstanding selling point for a community is its appearance and the impression it makes on potential inhabitants. A community that is clean and appears to be thriving draws outsiders, creating an interest that encourages them to invest in its future. Property values increase as well.

7. Financial institutions and their participation in the community's growth and development. A rapport with the local financial institutions expressing cooperation and commitment to economic growth and stability must be developed. Financial institutions have a responsibility to the community to provide not only banking service but services that provide the financial assistance that enhances business and residential growth.

8. Salaries of elected officials. Salaries in Plymouth are so low that they serve as no benefit to the community and to anyone who might have an interest in serving the community in an elected capacity. Anyone concerned and interested in serving expects to be and rightfully should be adequately compensated, commensurate with the responsibility and effort inherant of the position. In the past years Plymouth has experienced a shortfall of interested candidates for public office. Moreover, qualified and capable candidates will not avail themselves to the thankless and abusive position of an elected office unless adequately compensated. Plymouth's shortfall of elected officials is evidenced by the present makeup whereby from members of the present council and the clerk-treasurer are serving as appointees. Serving as an appointee is not to imply that the appointees are not just as interested or concerned as if elected, but the fact remains that theee are elected offices and should be occupied by elected officials.

I hope I have made my point that all is not lost and that there is still hope.

Harreses buy drive-in

The third sale of a retail business in Plymouth in 30 days was recorded Tuesday when Mrs. Florence Kieffer, Willard, transferred Curly's Drive In at 199 Sandusky street to Scott Harris, a Plymouth High school alumnus of 1981, now employed by Mack's Super Valu, and his parents, the John Harrises, Bellevue. The elder Harris is a management employee of Center Mfg. Co., Bellevue, now on indefinite layoff.

The Harrises will serve breakfasts and will open at 5:30 a.m. seven days a week.

The closing hour is tentatively set for 7 p.m., "but if business warrants, we'll stay open longer to accommodate diners."

"We intend to upgrade the quality of what has been served, with less thought of price. We will increase the size of hamburgers and we will promote the serving of a full meal. In addition, we'll stock a better grade of ice cream."

Wildcats rip Red, 74-46 in tourney

New London took an early lead in the first round of the Class A playdowns at Ashland Monday night and blew Plymouth off the floor in the second half en route to a 74 to 46 victory.

It was the second time this season that the Wildcats have beaten the Big Red.

It was really no contest after the first three minutes of the second period, by which time New London had opened a lead of 22 to 14. The Wildcats led by 14 at the half, 35 to 21.

Led by Kurt Cooke, who scored 18 for the night, 12 of them in the third period, New London ran off to score 26 points while holding Plymouth to just 14 and as a result, the last period was played merely to make an official game of it.

New London won because it outshot Plymouth, 34 to 20, from the field, it outrebounded Plymouth, 44 to 25, and it made no more mistakes on the floor. Each team was charged with 13 turnovers.

The Wildcats got off 69 shots and missed five free throws. Plymouth fired for field goal 55 times and missed two free throws.

Mike McKenzie scored 12 to lead the Big Red, which had nine scorers on the book but no other in double figures.

The Big Red thus concludes a dismal season of 2 and 19, better than in 1982 but only by a game.

8th grade winner in tourney

Eighth grade boys won the Crestview tourney by downing the Cougars 36 to 32.

Shiloh dumped Black River, 42 to 31, in the opener and downed Mapleton, 46 to 37, in the semi-finals.

South Central and Lucas were also in the tourney.

Shiloh concluded the season with a 14-and-1 record.

The winners came from behind on clutch free throw shooting by Jason Robinson and Mike Lasch. Steve Hall score 15. Craig Baldridge and Larry Trout collected six and five rebounds, respectively.

Pirates overcome Big Red

Plymouth blew a lead that was as much as 12 points in the third period and went down before Black River, 78 to 72, here Thursday in the final game of the season.

It was a fight to avoid the cellar of the Firelands Conference and the Pirates won it with a come from behind performance that was right out of Frank Merriwell.

Black River scored six points in three ticks of the clock at the end of the game to win it.

The contest was tied four times and the lead changed hands twice in the fourth before the visitors prevailed.

Eric Benson, an 11th grader who stands just five feet eight inches tall, loomed as a giant so far as Plymouth was concerned.

With the count tied at 72, he came up the floor in the closing seconds and fired a 16-footer that swished the net for two points and a lead that Black River never gave up. There were just seven seconds remaining.

Plymouth called for time out, a tragic mistake. Because Plymouth had used its allotted time outs, the referee assesses a two shot technical foul. Benson threw both of them through the hoop. Black River inbounded the ball. Mike McKenzie fouled Mike Clifford, who scored 21 for the winners, and he produced the last two points.

The Pirates deserved to win because they outplayed and outhustled Plymouth in the last quarter. The Big Red led by eight going into the final eight minutes.

The teams exchanged baskets, then Black River scored eight unanswered points. In the middle of this string, Coach Dave Dunn asked for a time out to regroup. This came at 5:47. The Pirates kept firing away and tied it at 66 with two free throws by Clifford at 4:27. Craig Thornsberry converted a rebound to restore Plymouth's lead. Rick Myers tied it again. McKenzie got one home from 17 feet out, whereupon Steve Herte tied it once more.

Herte had two chances to build a lead but failed with a pair of penalty shots. Brian Vredenburgh jammed his way through the middle for a tying basket to offset Herte's next shot, a field goal, and tie it at 72. Vredenburgh was awarded a penalty shot but it skittered off the rim.

From that point on it was all Black River.

The Pirates shot for field goal 73 times and scored with 34. They made 10 of 22 free throws. Plymouth got off 60 shots and made 31, a fine record, but it was not enough. The Big Red also shot 10 free throws. It missed eight.

Sharon Niedermeier's free throws lead to 45 to 37 win over St. Paul

She came in cold off the bench in the fourth period and fired in six free throws without a miss, an output that ignited Plymouth in a 13 point drive without opposition whatsoever in overcoming a lead to win a Class A sectional tourney contest with St. Paul's, 45 to 37.

Down by five at 37 to 32, with 4:33 remaining in the contest the Big Red scored the next 13 points and held St. Paul's scoreless.

Rhonda Branham, the little 10th grader who's been the bellwether of the Plymouth attack all season, also scored six in the last eight minutes, and they were important points. But not so important as Niedermeier's Necessaries.

As it was, the Flyers, who closed their season at 4 and 17, outscored Plymouth from the field, 16 to 13. The Big Red won it at the foul line, where it got 34 chances and converted 19 of them. Not a good record, but enough to win this one.

Plymouth led after eight and trailed by one at the half. The Big Red was down at 30 to 28 going into the last eight minutes.

Teresa Fritz scored two free throws for the Flyers to swell the advantage to 32 to 28, whereupon Miss Branham broke the skein with a bucket. Molly Fritz, who scored 18 before she hobbled from the floor with a sore right leg, threw in one from the end line and Sally Reed got the first of a bonus effort. Miss Branham countered with a rebound and Cecilia Hackathorn threw in a basket to set the stage for the Big Red heroics.

Miss Niedermeier scored the next four, although Molly Frits had a chance to stop the surge. She missed a free throw. Lisa Daron's shot from the free throw line, on a foul by Michelle Smith, who left the gave with five personals, tied it at 37 with 3:03 remaining. Miss Niedermeier's free throws at 2:59 gave Plymouth the lead and it never looked back. Jodi Pitzen converted a steal at 2:33. She was awarded two free throws at 1:23 and made the second and Miss Daron's shot after a driving run at the basket capped the scoring with 49 seconds left.

St. Paul's got off 42 shots at the basket and 13 free throws, missing eight. Plymouth fired for field goal 41 times.

Roughriders oust Red in tourney, 58 to 45

The led by four after eight minutes, by nine at the half.

The 'Riders did so because Plymouth couldn't stop big Ann Knoll, the MVP of the Firelands conference, who scored 10 of her 16 points in the first half, and Carla Mueller, who scored only four but was all over the floor for Coach John Speer's crew.

Plymouth put up a stiff fight in the second half, coming within four of matching the 'Riders point for point, but it was not enough.

Rhonda Branham scored six for the Big Red in the first half. So did Patti Payne.

But Plymouth did not shoot with the Roughriders during the first half. The Big Red went three for nine in the first period, two for 10 in the second. Western Reserve shot six of nine in the first eight minutes and four of 12 in the second.

Only mechanical failures by the 'Riders kept their score from mounting to greater heights. Western Reserve committed 18 turnovers in the first half, when it rebounded only 12 times, and 12 in the second half, when it rebounded 10 times. At the same time, Plymouth was charged with 14 turnovers in the first half and credited with 12 rebounds; in the second half, it was 13 turnovers and 11 rebounds.

Burkett placed fourth in his weight class. He was defeated by Mark Stacklin, Seneca East, 13 to 1 in the consolation finals.

The host team, St. Joseph's, won handily with 210½. Seneca East had 171, St. Paul's 154½, New London 107, St. Peter's 89, Crestview 88½, Western Reserve 81, Wynford 71, Monroeville 68 and Buckeye Central 21.

Car hits train at Shiloh, man escapes

He told police he saw the light flashing and applied his brakes but when he reached to get an ash tray the car continued and struck the moving train.

David Harris, a witness, said two Shilohans pulled Hall from the wreckage of the car, a 1974 Chevrolet Impala belonging to Charles Osborne, Plymouth, which had been repaired in the Hall station.

Harris also said some debris struck the vehicle of Brenda Revira, 12 East Main street, Shiloh, parked unattended in the highway.

There was no arrest, state highway patrol reported.

63 years old, Legion sets annual dinner

Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, will observe its 63rd anniversary with a dinner Thursday at 6:30 p.m

Members of the post and auxilary will prepare the main course. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

The post was organized by 15 veterans of World War I, none of whom is living today.

The late J. Eldon Nimmons, past president of Peoples National bank and the father of Mrs. Earl Cashman, who now lives in Sarasota, Fla., was the first commander.

It was called Ehret post, in honor of Carlton Ehret, the first Plymouth casualty of World War I. He died of a respiratory ailment. The name was changed to Ehret-Parsel post in memory of Capt. Elmer Parsel, who lost his life over the Phillipines.

The post originally met in rooms over Miller's Hardware. In 1946 the post purchased the upper west floor of the old Hamilton building in the northwest side of the Square, which now houses the Upstairs Store.

In 1965, through a gift of land by a teenage group and a strong fund raising drive, the present building in Trux street was constructed.

Ex-merchant, banker here —

J. H. Cashman named 1st National director

J. HAROLD CASHMAN

J. Harold Cashman is a new director of First National bank, Shelby.

His selection is intended to increase representation by Plymouth residents on the board of management of the bank, which acquired First Buckeye Bank, N. A., here at the end of last year.

A 40-year resident of the village, Cashman has served in a number of public and private appointments here.

He was for serveral years a member of Plymouth Board of Education. He served four terms until he resigned 25 years ago. He was a trustee of public affairs for five years.

He is now a trustee of Greenlawn cemetery, a post he has held since 1950.

He owned and operated a shoe store at 5 East Main street for some years, during which he also operated a tax preparation service. He was employed by the Fate-Root-Heath Co. as controller and assistant treasurer. He joined Peoples National bank as a director that year, Eighteen months later, he was appointed loan officer by the bank and remained as an officer and director of the institution until he retired in 1978.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Who's at fault?

The director of the Class A girls' tourney at Willard lamented privately that attendance was less than expected, by him, by the OHSAA, by the teams and by their coaches.

"Not even the parents showed up," he said.

During the first night, there were 118 adults in the house when the first whistle blew.

It is unusual that Willard's gymnasium echoes to the ring of emptiness during basketball games. Why? Because Willard has a winner, in both boys' and girls' basketball.

But is that as it should be?

Not even the most violent Crimson Flash fan would argue that his prides and joys should be deprived of family support and the cheers of friends in, say, music, or dramatics, or, God forbid, academics.

And it's true here. The basketball season just ended was almost a disaster, fiscally speaking. Attendance was poor. Some of it can be blamed on the economy. But much of it can be blamed on us, all of us, those who didn't attend and those who attended who didn't encourage others to do so.

We can correct some of this poor image by supporting the spring activities of the schools. Not only baseball, softball and track and field events, but concerts, assemblies, extra curricular affairs of a non-athletic nature. We can even visit classes! Just call the schools and ask.

A five mill operating levy will be placed on the June primary ballot, village council's finance committee agreed Monday night.

Whether it will be for the general fund or labelled for police protection, will not make any difference as to its use, the members, G. Thomas Moore, Terry Hopkins and Roy Barber, said.

The five mills will bring in over $50,000 annually, which is about the sum now being taken from income tax revenue. to run the police department.

This will then free that money so it can be used for capital improvements.

The general fund in the past could not support the department and the approval of the income tax saved the day. Cost of maintaining the department at its present level has almost doubled in the last three years.

The councilmen feel the levy will be passed because voters wich to retain a local department.

James C. Root, village administrator, said the income tax money is badly needed for street repairs and urged the committee to find another source of general fund money.

It was not determined Monday how long the levy will run. The question is the change in state law allowing a levy to run continously rather than for a stated time.

John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, warned the committee the general fund will be "tight" because collection of income tax money has fallen off excessively.

He said that perhaps by the middle of this year, it can be better dtermined just where the village stands financially, even though his figures for the various funds at the end of February look promising.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said it bothers him very much that no "cushion" in any of the village funds is figured in the 1983 appropriations, as in the past, when the utility funds had reserves set aside each month for unforseen emergencies.

Root with several council members plans to attend a computer demonstration Wednesday.

He said the council should be looking ahead to replace the 1967 model billing machine of the utility department.

Several weeks ago it wen "wild", he said. First it over-billed pennies and finally got up o a $10 error on a utility bill.

A part needed replacing that if the village did not have a service contract which costs $2,500 annuallyt, would have been about $4,000.

He also said that for several months Ohio Power Co. has been overcharging the village for electrical power, which will be remedied, he hopes, on its next bill as a credit.

Members of the village planning commission learned Monday night the first building permit for a house in over a year has been issued.

Bill Collins will build in North street on the lot he acquired from the Akers family several years ago.

Bill Taulbee, newly chosen chairman of the commission, suggested Douglas A. Dickson, a member of the Plymouth High school faculty, be asked to take the place of Luella Vandervort, who is resigning.

The appointment will be made formally by Mayor Cline.

Root inquired about the issuance of building permits, in view of the fact that Jack Laser has been appointed zoning inspector.

His question sent members of the commission, scurrying to their copies of the zoning ordinance. Before the ordinance was passed, all permits were issued by the mayor. Now they apparently will be issued by the inspector.

Lot sold

Lot 107, north side of West Broadway, has been sold by Arthur and Mollie Stephens to Albert and Lulu Sexton, Huron County recorder reports.

Four honored

Four donors received one gallon pins when ARC Bloodmobile called here Feb. 18.

Postmaster to fight Reagan's aim

Plymouth's postmaster, Mrs. Ruth Ann Pittenger, is part of the group of 14 Ohio postmasters who left Tuesday to protest a proposed change in the postal retirement system to federal authorities in Washington, D.C.

The administration is proposing that newly hired federal employees be covered with social security benefits rather than under the present federal retirement system, which gives benefits almost double but also costs double in matching governmental funds.

Postal employees say the higher retirement benefits attract better qualified workers and they fear standards of good service may be lessened.

Waste dump issue dies

A resolution to support other communities in objecting to the proposed land fill for dangerous waste materials in Morrow County died Feb. 22 for lack of a second to the motion to adopt it.

Proposed by Councilman Keith Hebble, the resolution drew no second from other councilmen, G. Thomas Moore, Ronald Predieri, Terry Hopkins and Roy Barber.

Neither did they make any comments.

Later Moore said he feels more information was needed before he can make a decision.

Most of the communities surrounding the Morrow County land fill have formally objected and are giving the drive against it financial support.

Jackson township antenna site chosen for TV

If a request to establish a television station with a Plymouth transmitter is eventually approved and the station is built, the transmitter would be installed at 40 degrees 50 minutes 20 seconds north latitude, 82 degrees 35 minutes 45 seconds west longitude, which falls in Jackson township about 200 yards southeast of Mt. Bethel cemetery, which lies in Myers road west of Springmill road. The transmitter would thus be almost due north of Sacred Heart seminary.

Jay Cees seek revival here

Fifteen years after the first JayCee organization was established here (Ray Kleman was its first president), another JayCee group may be organized.

If so, it will need more participants than turned out Feb. 24, when Shelby's chapter, organizer of the first Jaycee group here, sought to get another going.

Mayor Cline said he will be too busy with business, family and municipal affairs to participate actively.

She has been elected to the Studen Senate for the 1982-83 school year. She is a representative of the school of education. She is a member of the college Home Economics/Human Development club and is serving on the state board of that club for the 1982-83 year.

Electric Thermal Storage works nights so you can save on your heating bills all day long.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day. And because ETS stores heat, it saves on your heating bills all winter long.

Heating coils inside the ETS furnace heat the special bricks throughout the night. The bricks then store heat which the furnace draws from at night, and the rest of the day.

You save because you heat with electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, under special rates available to ETS customers. So you pay lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night.

What's more, the same lower electric rates apply all weekend — for ETS heating and all other electric uses.

ETS heats your water, too. And individual room heaters are available, which let you comfort control any room.

For complete information about the energy-saving and money-saving advantages of Electric Thermal Storage, send us this coupon. It could be one of the best investments you ever make.

Eight lettermen seek Big Red starting roles

Fair weather means Plymouth's veteran - studded baseball squad will get out on the ground sooner than anticipated.

In Jeff Jacobs and Rod Hampton, he has two of the premier lefthanders hereabouts. Jacobs, with a sore knee that's rounding into form, has won two letters, Hampton one.

Jeff Fenner, who also has two letters, has experience at the keystone sack.

Brian Vredenburgh, also worth one letter, has played at the hot corner.

Some reserve players from last season are certain to make it to the starting team.

Among these are Darrin Branham, Steve Brown, Matt McClain, Bill Stephens, Michael Moore and Tom Newmeyer.

Chad McGinnis, a letterman, has an outfield post nailed down.

If Plymouth can get its pitching to perform on the mond as it appears on the drawing board, the Big Red will be tough.

Four candidates who won ninth grade numerals will be back. These are Larry Brooks, Jeff Lasch, Dave Burks and Scott Ryman.

Diebler boys, McClintock girls —

New coaches in track to rely on 15 lettermen

With a new coach for the first time in a decade, Plymouth boys' track and field squad will eschew the indoor season and face outdoor competition with 10 lettermen, headed by three 12th graders who have won seven letters among them.

Coach Keith Diebler has great plans for James Will, winner of three letters, in field events and for Richard Hawkins, chosen as most improved athlete last year, and Mike Arma, each of whom has won two monograms.

Other lettermen, each of whome has won a single letter, include Ron Baldridge, Richard Cunningham, Steve Jamerson and Loren Kranz, with seven letters among them. Kranz has one, the others two.

These are Lisa Daron and Fayette Hudson, each with three monograms and each in the final year of schoolgirl competition; Glenda Will and Kim Daron, winners of two letters, 11th graders; Paula Stephens, 11th grader, Lori Fidler, Pam Ickes, Shelly Root, Becky Endicott, and Buffy Wright, 10th graders, who won numerals last year, and Kyle Sammons, 11th grader, a reserve monogram winner, are also candidates for the squad..

Eight vets to play softball

They're headed by Cheyne McGinnis, 12th grader, who's won three letters; Patti Griffits and Martha Reynolds, who've two letters each, and Julie Ross, Chris Elliott, Rhonda Branham, Jodi Pitzen and Sarah Robinson, winners of a single letter. The Misses Ross and Elliott are 11th graders, the others 10th graders.

6th grade wins title once more

Sixth grade Vikings tied Lexington for first place in the Friendly House league and defeated Lexington in a one game playoff, 26 to 24.

Vikings started slowly and were behind 12 to 8 at the half. The Vikings caught fire in the second half with Billy Weiss scoring inside repeatedly. Weiss scored 21 points and had 12 rebounds. Stacey Hall had five assists.

Vikings play Mar. 22 at 6 p.m. in the Friendly House spring tournament. The Vikes could make it a perfect year, as they also won the Christmas tournament with only the spring tournament remaining.

Editor sees 1,000th game involving Big Red

"It's no big deal, a thousand today, a thousand and one tomorrow," is how a record-setter looked a it last week.

The editor of The Advertiser; by attending the Plymouth vs. St. Paul's girls' basketball game in the tourney at Willard Feb. 23, watched for the 1,000th time a Plymouth team in a regularly scheduled interscholastic athletic event.

No written record shows that any other has exceeded that total.

He said Feb. 24 he is pleased that Plymouth won and he added on Sunday that he's already taken steps to celebrate the occasion with the players and coach.

On the same day, he set another record: he became the senior in service of any editor or publisher of The Advertiser since it was founded on Oct. 23, 1853. He passed the late Peyton W. Thomas in tenure.

The week was not a total failure in other ways. He was notified on Feb. 21 that a national publication has bought a piece he wrote, "The Greening of a Young Man," for publication in June.

And, under pressure, he disclosed he has some fiction and a play "on the stove", which, in his jargon, means editors and/or producers elsewhee are considering his work. Now!

Balanced meal? Try cheeseburger Auntie's style!

By AUNT LIZ

This is National Nutrient month.

It all started back in the 1920's when a bunch of home ec. people got going about how badly people were eating.

From the 1980's, I would say, they certainly ate much better than we are today. Frozen foods were unknown. Heck, no one even had a refrigerator. I can remember my grandmother telephoning her grocery order every morning. The store was two blocks away, and they delivered it all.

Anyway, these happy characters came up with four food groups that they said should be a part of every meal.

If you can tell the difference between a glass of milk, a head of lettuce, a pork chop and a slice of really good, homemade bread, you have it made.

The four are milk products, which include cheeses, natch, meat, which is protein, and peanut buter; cereals, which brings in bread, and those tasty green things called fruits and vegetables.

Each meal should have all four to keep everyone going.

Just take a good look at them, and figure out the shortcuts. All four can be put together at one clip.

It is called a cheeseburger.

Just throw in a couple of lettuce leaves and a couple of sliced tomatoes, and you have a complete meal.

We have all been conditioned that certain meals must have certain foods.

That is for the birds.

There is nothing so tasty on a cold night than a sturdy breakfast-like meal for dinner, pancakes with real syrup, bacon and eggs.

But there are times when you really have to act how most people would say is normal.

Those are the times when you are asked to bring a covered dish to some rather dull, boring affair. Unfortunately, most of us are stuck with such things. It is even worse for those happy mothers who have kids in school and in this and that.

For many years we would take a shrimp salad, which was plain easy to put together and something most people didn't thing of. That day is now over, which I think everyone can understand if they visit a grocery store.

Now we are into chicken. Frankly, it is just as good and more practical.

Just cook a chicken, save the broth, cut it up so you have at least three cups.

Make up a batch of rice, the minute type works like a dream. You want a cup and a half of it.

Cut up two beautiful large apples.

Bring out a large bowl, combine those three things with two tablespoons of lemon juice, a tablespoon of oil, a cup of mayonnaise, half a cup of chopped walnuts, two tablespoons of chopped parsley, some chopped onion to taste and if you like it, two teaspoons of curry powder.

Pupils set to jump for Heart

March is "Jump Rope For Your Heart" month.

Parents and spectators are welcome.

Miss Barbara Schamadan is coordinator.

Seminar explains DWI law

Councilman Terry Hopkins and Police Chief Robert Conley attended a seminar Friday on the newly passed drunken driving law.

It was sponsored by the Ohio Municipal league in Columbus.

Hopkins says the existing law has not been changed by the new legislation but emphasises the penalties, which many courts have not enforced because of the cost to a political subdivision to house violators for their penalties.

A cake baked by Mrs. Earl Fidler, reading "1,000th Plymouth game, Win Over St. Paul's, I Love You. The Voice of The Advertiser —

What should voter do about levy for PJVS?

Electors of Plymouth Local School district will go to the polls – at least, the people at Pioneer Joint Vocational school hope they will – on Tuesday to decide once again whether PJVS is entitled to fresh taxation in the amount of one mill for one year to fund repairs to the complex at the north edge of Shelby.

What the elector needs to consider before he goes to the polling place on Tuesday is this:

1. Has the management of Pioneer Joint Vocational school been such that maintenance of the buildings could not have been provided for from funds already available?

2. Is it important for the elector to know down to the last penny where and how the proceeds of the levy shall be applied?

3. Does the elector have the right to expect the Pioneer board of education, (and not its paid staff), to electioneer throughout the district in a highly visible manner to obtain approval for the levy? (The implication here is that the board has not done so.)

4. Can the average taxpayer afford an increase, any increase, in his real estate taxes at this time? Taxpayers in the village will be asked to support a fresh levy of five mills on June 7. Which is more important? Is either of them important enough to support in these times? Are both of them important enough to support in these times?

Despite statements floated like kites in the spring to the contrary, the school district is not recovering from the national economic slump so fast as claimed. There is no sign that it will do so in the immeidate future. The consumer is not spending. Anybody who doubts it need only count noses at the doors of business and commercial establishments.

When he does, he may support fresh taxation. The guess here is that he won't do so now. The Pioneer levy is apt to be a victim of poor timing and weak promotion. Whether those faults are sufficient to defeat it is the proper concern of each voter.

Every vote counts. Our vote will be no.

Two injured in collision in Route 61

Two High street residents were treated in Mansfield General hospital Friday after a collision involving their car in Route 61, a mile from the Richland-Crawford county line.

Kelly Kilgore, 47 High street, lost control of his vehicle when it struck a patch of snow. It rolled over into a ditch at 4:31 p. m.

Kimberly and Barbara Kilgore, same address, and Sadie Alexander were treated at Mansfield.

Saw blades worth $6,000 said stolen

Theft of three 60-inch saw blades worth $2,000 each was reported to Richland county sheriff's deputies Thursday by K&K Lumber Co., Route 98.

Theft occurred between Mar. 9 at 5 p. m. and Mar. 10 at 7:30a. m., Jeffrey M. Kaple, manager, said.

A timber chute was forced open and two of the blades were uncrated. The remaining equipment was removed from the machinery.

There are no suspects, deputies report.

PJVS seeks levy in special election

A special election Tuesday will deal with the request of Pioneer Joint Vocational school for a one mill levy to pay for building repair and maintenance.

The levy has been defeated before. Its promotion is low key, or at least has been so far far.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

All polling places in Plymouth Local School district, Willard School district and Shelby School district will be open for registered voters.

A simple majority is required to approve the measure, which would run for one year and cost $1 for each $1,000 of tax valuation.

What's right with village? Ask Miss Vandervort!

Sir:

This is not to start an argument in print, but the article about Plymouth's ills a week ago sparked a format of promotion that views the village from a different angle.

Many things are right about our town. To begin with, every town has factions. Differences of opinion are the beginning of knowledge. Now, of course, nothing is gained unless the differences are discussed, provided for, resolved or tolerated. No one wants to live by rigid, one-way rules laid down by one group or faction. But compared to some years ago factions are not as widely separated now. Old lines of demarcation are gone. Fewer people see the world as "Us and Them." Compromise can be reached if specific instances are dealt with under rules and regulations that apply to all. If this is not being done, there is an analogy: Unless the patient tells the doctor where he hurts, the pain is unknown to anyone else.

For another thing, the size of Plymouth is not a problem. Areas outside the village limits should stay green, productive, or wooded, or swampy. Where is it written that a town must get constantly larger in order to be looked upon with favor? The logical extension of "Forever Growing" is unthinkable. You end up with a wasteland of black top, broken pavement, weedy stretches of gravel and forests of telephone poles and wires. No birds sing. No one walks. Everyone is separated by being encased in an automobile. Trees come down to widen streets, and crossroads are four-lane with six-cycle lights.

A third difficulty mentioned was favoritism. This is one problem almost impossible to deal with. Hizzoner the late Mayor Daley used to say in his own ungrammatical way, "If a man can't help his own sons, who can he help, huh?" Spreading a little money around that isn't yours, appointing unqualified–but favorite–people to jobs you are responsible for–Ay, there's the rub. If principled people are elected, they will act upon principle, or so it is hoped. If not, we have the ballot and the courts. Of course these are not immediate and are time and energy consuming. But even Camelot needed a watchful eye. Nothing is free, including freedom.

Patronage of local businesses is increasing in Plymouth. There has been no recent study made on this subject, but there seems to be a growing awareness that Plymouth is not just the town you had no choice but to grow up in. Plymouth is small, no argument; it is one kind of several varieties of communities that make up a very large country. Who would want a completely regulated America? Think: all communities the same size, all growing, or not growing, at exactly the same pace? Having dropped all apologies or necessity for apology, we are more concerned with important aspects of our town: How to keep it clean, solvent, convenient, and self-sufficient. More people are becoming interested in the primary function of the "town". The market place, the exchange of goods, services, and ideas that happens when people come together.

Deplorably, however, education, and the schools suffer an acute lack of interest. That's an aside. That should have been included in the What's wrong with Plymouth? article last week.

Hedeen quits council seat

Hedeen was appointed by Mayor Dean A. Cline to complete the four year term to which D. Douglas Brumbach was elected in November of 1979. Village council was unable to choose a successor to Brumbach within the allotted 30 days.

Hedeen's reasons are personal, he said. He pointed out he has missed four meetings because he is in Florida and thinks another may serve the village better.

He is a retired senior civil servant of the federal government who was graduated by Shiloh High school. He took degrees from Ohio Northern university at Ada and the University of Miami, Fla. He owns a realty firm here.

No objection to the transfer of a liquor license for Weber's Cafe from Forrest Strohm to its new owners, Donald Foreman and William H. Goth, was interposed by the council.

On inquiry by Councilman G. Thomas Moore, Police Chief Robert Conley said "It's no more trouble than any other bar any place else and I see no reason to turn down the application."

Survey of buildings by the zoning inspector, Jack Laser, has not yet begun, the council was told. The survey is crucial to administration of the zoning ordinance, it was said.

Because Councilman Roy Barber was also absent, there were insufficient votes to support a motion to place a fresh five mill levy on the primary ballot. The levy may not be publicly earmarked for police protection, but that is what it is for. The proposal will be dealt with when the council meets Tuesday night.

$2,916,834 earmarked to operate schools here; three coaches appointed

Cost to run Plymouth Local School district this year is pegged at $2,916,834 by its board of education.

The 1983 appropriations were approved Monday night by the board with a special reservation that the general fund of $2,325,905 may be over-estimated because of an unexpected cut in state funds of $11,507.

Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board he has made the "best guess" possible in determining the district's funding because he doesn't know what will be done at the state level on Mar. 31.

Each district is to have its appropriations completed by that day under state law.

He said the general fund, which is the largest part of the yearly budget, is increased about 20 per cent over last year because of higher gas costs for heating and the urgent need to purchase new text books.

He also pointed out the district has lost about $117,000 in state funds in the last year. He showed unhappiness when he told the board about the newest cut. He explained in the past, because the district received two-thirds of its money from state funds, it was not cut so much as the wealthier districts, but that with "politicking", what those districts save, Plymouth loses.

Liability insurance for the board as a whole is to be investigated. The Ohio School Boards association recommends that each district seek legal help before the coverage is purchased.

Member Donald Barnthouse reported the General Assembly is considering a bill that would require all districts to elect board members from specific geographic sections of the district.

President Mrs. Roger Pugh said this is not practical for Plymouth because it is difficult enough to find qualified people to run for election in the whole district, let along from various parts of it.

She urged the board to write to the Ifgialators objecting to the proposal.

Edward M. Kinsel, Shiloh principal, told the board the Right to Read week (which lasted more than a week in his buildings) was highly successful. The program ended with each pupil receiving kites. The fram e ceiving kites. The frame work for 600 was made by the father of Miss Linda Cline, one of the faculty members who planned the activity, Henry Cline, former mayor of Shelby.

Kinsel told the board the PTO is planning to purchase new playground equipment.

High school principal Jeffrey Slauson reported the parents' day brought out 25 who stayed the whole school day. He said he had only one complaint when a parent asked how adults were expected to get through the day without coffee.

Plymouth Elementary pupils will have an Easter parade Mar. 30 and possibly an egg roll, Principal Mark Sheely said.

At the request of the graduating class, former high school principal James Craycraft will be invited to be the commencement speaker.

Approval was given to the FFA chapter to again rent seven acres from Mrs. Richard Horton for farming. Last year the rent was $97 an acre. This year it is $85.

Four fined, one pleads not guilty

A charge of having an open liquor container in his vehicle was reduced by Mayor Dean A. Cline Mar. 8 to one of unlawful possession and Donald R. Deskins, Shiloh, was fined $15 and costs. Deskins was represented by Neil McKown.

Bradley T. Snider, Plymouth, charged with failing to drive with an assured clear distance, was convicted and fined $50 and costs.

Clarence Heminger, Jr., Galion, accused of speeding, did not appear. A bench warrant will be issued.

Larry Justice, Shelby, paid with drunken driving, pleaded not guilty. His case will be heard in Norwalk Municipal court.

Chamber set to resume plaque award

The affair will begin with a dinner at 6:30 p.m. After the dinner the program will be conducted in honor of businesses in the Plymouth area and will reconstitute the Carl M. Lofland award, which was established many years ago and then discontinued with the demise of the Chamber.

Reservations must be made in advance for the dinner by visiting any of the business establishments in the Square or by calling the Chamber of Commerce in the bank building, tel. 687-0425. Tickets are $8 single, or two for $15.

Shiloh increases minimum deposit to get utilities

Deposit to obtain utility service at Shiloh will now be $50, an increase of $18, village council there ruled Mar. 9.

A charge of $15 will be made to discontinue water service or resume water service because of a delinquent account.

Jon K. Burton, Mansfield, was engaged as solicitor until Jan. 31 at $600 plus $40 a meeting and 17 cents a mile travel allowance.

New emergency medical technicians are the Rev. Pauline Atkins, the David Grauers, Lisa Bailey, Philip Gowitzka, Charles D. Huston, Linda Reynolds, Michael Rinehart, James Sloan, Pamela Shaffer and John Wallace.

Bloominggrove township, which owns the two water tankers, wants the fire protection contract rewritten to so reflect, its trustees told Councilman Charles R. Reeder, he said. The contract as now drawn states all equipment is equally owned by the three parties, Cass township, Bloominggrove township and the village.

$500 stipend offered by Willard hospital

The award, created in July of 1982, is funded through donations and was developed for two reasons.

According to James H. Ross, Jr., administrator of WAH, many who donate money to the hospital are reluctant to have it used for equipment. There seemed to be a need for them to contribute to people's lives in some way, he said.

Another reason for the scholarship fund is to encourage students to enter a medical profession.

"We have seen students leave our community who were seeking a medical career. We don't know if anyone was supporting them," he added.

The scholarship's purpose is to show students entering the health field they have community support and sentiment, Ross said. He said it is hoped that some scholarship recipients will eventually use their talents here.

The first $500 scholarship will be awarded in 1983.

"As contributions are received, funds will grow. I'm confident we'll be offering one, may two scholarships by 1984," Ross said.

Competition for the scholarship will be open to pupils in Willard South Central, Plymouth, Seneca East and Buckeye Central school districts.

Students already in college are eligible also. Ross said who gets the scholarship will be decided by the applicant's grades and a 250-word essay. Applicants may also submit financial information if they wish, he said.

Applications are available through the counselor's office of the high school or can be picked up at Willard Area hospital. All applications must be received by the hospital no later than Apr. 1.

FUR BUYING . . .

a family tradition

by MERRILL GILFILLAN

Warren Squires was busy at the counter examining a catch of fur brought in by two trappers. The men arrived in a pickup truck bearing an aluminum boat. They had a red fox, four raccoons, a large buck mink and eight or 10 muskrats.

Warren carefully examined the fur, grading and pricing as he worked. When he was finished, he totaled the lot and handed the men his price. They accepted, so he wrote them a check. Then he transferred the fur to the crowded floor.

In a back room helpers were skinning and fleshing the pelts. It was early in the trapping season and warm weather had been favorable for animals to run, so the fur shed was hanging full. One of the boys came out to carry more work to the skinning room.

A young woman came in. "Will you carry the coons in for me?" she asked. "It's my day off and my husband asked me to sell the coons he caught last night. That's what I get for not working!"

Warren carried the carcasses in, examined them and paid her when she approved the price. Before he was through, a school boy brought in a coon and a large possum, both frozen, for which Warren wrote him a check.

"This is the way it's been since the season opened," he said when the boy left. "We do most of our fur buying in about a month and a half. Most trappers and coon hunters bring fur in on the carcass. Only a few of the larger trappers skin and stretch their furs, and they usually sell by Christmas. In a month and a half we pay out a large bundle of money in our community here in eastern Morrow County, and there are several other fur buyers in the county.

"It's been a hard year for farmers, miners and the like, and they find that selling furs is one way in winter to earn cash for groceries or to pay utility bills.

"Last season (1981-82)," Squires related, "we bought 4,809 coons at an average price of $17.28, 1,682 muskrats at $3.57, 160 red fox at $38, 137 gray fox at $24.07, 313 mink at $15.80 and 262 possum at $1.17. That's just from trappers and hunters. In addition, we bought from several other fur buyers. Yes, we put quite a lot of money into circulation. Fur prices have been high, and it's easy to get a lot of cash tied up in it in a short time. My wife Marilyn keeps books, so we always know just where we stand financially."

In the entire state, 665,590 fur animals were taken in 1980-81 — the last year for which statistics were available — with a total value of $6,298,041. Ohio ranks second to Louisiana in furs taken. The Ohio catch by species is as follows: badger 29, beaver 2,920, coyote 22, gray fox 13,904, red fox 13,638, mink 36,490, muskrat 427,614, opossum 33,252, raccoon 131,890, skunk 5,209 and weasel 622.

The total United States catch for 1976, the last year for which statistics were available, was 10,493,197 fur animals, of the types taken in Ohio. With a total value of $79,395,746, one can see the importance of the American fur trade.

The Squires family started in the fur business in 1918 when Warren's father, Hoy, returned from World War I. They worked in a large two-story building on the square in Chesterville. Hoy Squires stayed in the shop to buy and handle fur and his brother Link traveled five days a week, buying from other dealers. They were one of the biggest fur buyers in the state at one time.

Warren was raised in the fur business. From early youth he was always around it, watching the buying and handling of the catches every autumn. He recalls seeing many strong characters come to the fur house, characters who would have been at home in pioneer America. Young Warren started early to help skin and handle fur.

There have been many changes in the trade since Hoy and Link began more than 60 years ago. Better transportation makes it possible for trappers and hunters to cover much more area than in horse and buggy days. Then, fur takers trapped and hunted near home and they brought fur in regularly or skinned and held it, for there was no refrigeration. Now some trappers and hunters freeze their catch and come in only when they have accumulated a supply. Better equipment has made it easier to take fur, although only the best trappers bring in foxes and mink. The fox callers take some foxes, mostly grays. The reds are too smart to come to an artificial call, Warren explained. Fashion style changes also affect the price of fur.

There have been changes in the fur buying business, too. Four years ago Warren moved from the old family-owned building in Chesterville to his present location a mile south of the village. He built a modern fur house with refrigeration to hold green fur until it can be properly handled, and there is an air circulation system for proper drying. There is a front office where the fur is bought; a room where three helpers skin, flesh and stretch the fur; and three fur storage rooms, including the refrigerated one.

Warren draws on knowledge acquired during a lifetime in the business. He examines a fur animal or pelt for primeness, which shows up most prominently as white leather, and for thick, dense fur — often indicated by long guard hairs. He believes the trapping season opens too early; early-caught furs are usually not completely prime, he said. Yet, if the season opens too late, it is more difficult to harvest the fur crop. "It is a case of balancing one factor against another."

One doesn't need to ask why Warren Squires buys fur. In addition to the profit to be made, he simply likes it. He will tell you that there is real beauty to a good, dark, prime glistening pelt. And it's safe to say the fur buyer experiences vicariously the adventure and excitement of all his clients.

Many fur species, if they become too abundant, can become destructive to agriculture. Managing the population by carefully monitored trapping and hunting is the responsibility of the Ohio Division of Wildlife. Fur buying is an important link in this process.

Catches reflect land use shifts

The trend in fur animal populations, as indicated by the state harvest, varies by species according to land use changes and hunting and trapping pressure. The trend is up for beaver, coyote, gray and red foxes and mink. Muskrats have declined in numbers due largely to drainage of wetlands. The raccoon population is also down from a historic high, although the animals have become increasingly important in the Ohio fur harvest. Skunk, opossum and weasel catches have all declined, due primarily to low fur prices. No one traps or hunts for them now.

Squires reports that the best trappers will bring in 25 to 30 foxes a year and 40 to 50 mink. Top coon hunters will catch 50 to 100 animals a season.

Mink is probably Warren's favorite fur; he often pays above the market price for their pelts. The noted naturalist, Ernest Thompson Seton in his Lives of the Game Animals states that prices of mink pelts were the most stable of all throughout the evolution of the American fur trade, so mink fur has always been popular.

"The fur business is a risky venture," Squires declared. "At present, 87 percent of American fur goes to Europe. The rate of currency exchange has increased the cost to foreign buyers, so they are buying less fur and processing it in smaller lots."

Many buyers sell their fur every week to avoid a possible drop in the market. Warren sends dried furs to New York that often. The Squireses' son, Mike, an Ohio State University senior in agriculture/preveterinary medicine, took a load to New York recently. While there he also bought a good supply of tanned skunk skins at a decent price. He brought them home and mounted them on canes bearing ribbons that read, "Skunk Michigan." Then he sold the unique souvenirs at the Ohio State-Michigan football game.

Other Squires enterprises include roofing, a long-term family business, and wool buying, formerly a thriving enterprise but now in decline because there are fewer sheep in the country.

The Squireses live on a 25-acre farm on Chester Township Rd. 190, one mile south of Chesterville. Morrow Electric Cooperative lines provide the power for their new home and business. They also raise purebred Dorset sheep, keeping 50 brood ewes.

Mike also raises Dorsets and broilers to put himself through Ohio State. "He sold a prize pen of broilers at the Ohio State Fair for $2,500," Marilyn said, "and he helps with the fur business on weekends and vacations."

Fur, fuzz or feather — it all keeps the Squires family very busy.

Who Makes The News...
THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?
YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

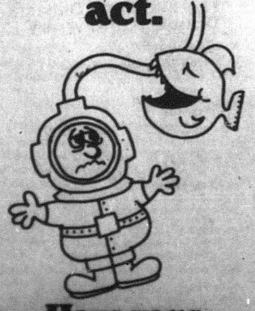

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

It is first and foremost . . . YOUR NEWS-PAPER!

The Voice of The Advertiser —

The comments below are not intended to be definitive. It is hoped that a continuing dialogue can be developed and sustained until Nov. 7, the eve of the general election. There are many issues that need to be discussed. The time to do so is now.

Some FACTS in dialogue about village

That two citizens should think enough of their community that they are willing to spread their ideas so that everybody can see them is reason for applause, and we applaud them.

Each of them can honestly say that, save for causing punctuation to comply with the newspaper's style and for changing two words so they were spelled correctly, the comments were unedited and unchanged.

It is good that public discussion of our problems, and let's face it, we do have problems, should occur. We, for our part, are always willing to go the extra mile to permit such discussion to take place in the pages of The Advertiser, Plymouth's oldest continuing business. Naturally, the rules of libel and good taste must prevail.

Is it the newspaper's duty to draw attention to patent errors in a letter to the editor? Should the material submitted as letter to the editor be withheld until its claims can be verified? To what extent should the newspaper's management present alternative evidence and/or arguments? Should it be simultaneous with the presentation of the first argument? Should it be in juxtaposition with that presentation?

Nobody knows, for certain. Each newspaper deals with the matter differently. The larger the newspaper, the more leeway for the management.

Which is why we published the material, none of which was directly solicited by us (save for the more or less constant reminder in this and other columns that letters to the editor are welcome), with such display. The future of this community, in which we have invested every dime we own, and a lifetime of hard work, means as much to us, perhaps more, by reason of the length of service of the newspaper, as to anyone else.

But we are constrained to make some observations, all of which are simple fact. Facts which could have been ascertained by the inditers in the same way we did.

1. Neither of them has ever earned a dime of wages in Plymouth.

2. Each of them is the beneficiary of a handsome pension paid for, for the most part, by the public.

3. That one should shop at home is an argument we've advanced vigorously for nearly 29 years. But to say that to do so increases the municipal revenue by reason of sales tax collections, as the first inditer did, is incorrect. The piggyback sales tax collected in Huron county goes directly to the county. The village does not share in it at all. Section 5739.21 of the Revised Code stipulates how sales tax money shall be credited. A total of 96.5 per cent of sales tax revenues shall be paid to the general fund of the state and the remainder to the local government fund, in accordance with Section 5747.50 of the Code. Local government funds are distributed by population, not business volume. That such a statement should be made by one who served the village as mayor and who may aspire to that or another office now merely compounds the sin.

4. That the second inditer should say that "patronage of local business is increasing" is erroneous. Consider the tangible personal property tax collected in the village during 1981 and 1982. Since the major retail establishments lie in Huron county, that county's figures are significant. In 1981, there was collected here $2,036.67 in tangible personal property (which means tax on inventories and furnishings, and means that the total amount of such inventories and furnishings was $374,000). The figure in 1982 was $2,072.05, at a time when inflated wholesale prices should have dictated higher shelf prices. Besides, a blind man can see, anywhere in town, that inventories are not what they used to be and have certainly not kept pace, percentagewise, with the advance in prices. That this statement should have come from an officer of the Chamber of Commerce lends more strength to it than its substance warrants.

5. To state that factionalism and favoritism are rampant here, without specifically identifying the instances in which such miscreance is thought to exist, is unfair. Let the first inditer come forward with specifics.

6. To imply that there is no rapport between the village and the local financial institutions is dishonest. The oldest, first as Peoples National, then as First National of Mansfield, then as First Buckeye, and now as First National of Shelby, has always gone more than halfway in undertaking to meet the village's needs. There is no sign that the second bank will not do likewise. So far as we are informed, any bankable proposition consistent with the reasonable ability of the borrower to meet his obligations will be looked on with favor. Documented evidence to the contrary is invited.

Plymouth voters will decide on a fresh five mill levy for the police department on June 7.

Village council Tuesday night formally passed a resolution to send to the election board the request for new taxation.

It will be a continuing levy unless sometime in the future it appears on a ballot and is turned down. To put the issue on the ballot will require referendum procedure.

Had the council worded the resolution that the levy would be for the general fund, it could have been stated for a certain time period. By designating it solely for police protection, it may be a continuing one.

Councilman Roy Barber said those with whom he had discussed it did not object to a levy which would assure a local police department and freeing income tax money, which is now supporting the department for other uses.

Councilman Keith Hebble and James C. Root, village administrator, have met several times with Willard's water committee to discuss a change in the present contract to lower the minimum amount of water billed by Plymouth.

Hebble said, "It is not too optimistic, but they haven't closed the door on us."

The village is required to pay for 150,000 gallons a day. Root says that only about 120,000 gallons are being used.

He has said he calculates the village could save about $20 a day if the change to what is actually being consumed is made.

David Coulter, Plymouth High school science instructor, and two of his pupils, Janet Walters and Jean Manuel, were present to offer help and information to the council concerning the proposed Morrow county landfill for toxic waste.

Their visit was prompted by a newspaper article which said that the council did not fully understand the issue.

Coulter said his pupils had been studying it for several months and following its progress.

Barber said he wonders how it would actually affect Plymouth.

When the issue was raised last month by Hebble to join with other municipalities to object to the landfill, his proposal died for lack of a second. It has not been brought up since then.

The council agreed to the transfer of a liquor license to Todd Caudill from Robert Hall.

To deal with children keep sense of humor!

By AUNT LIZ

Our country has a national game that other countries have not caught on to yet, as far as I know.

It is played by parents who have kids in school.

Some parents, though, do not play it. Perhaps they don't know what it is called. Those who do play will not admit they do know.

One very philosophically write this, which I cut from someplace and carefully stashed in our recipe drawer and just found it while tracking down a French dressing deal.

Humor helps the day along on any job as Duncan Long knows. Writing in the Phi Delta Kappan, a general education magazine, the Kansas educator reminds us how Murphy's Law applied to education. The law that says "If anything can go wrong, it will" has corollaries and related regularities. Among them:

1. Good students move away.

2 New students come from schools that do not teach anything.

3, The teachers' lounge will be in the worst room of the school. Jt will contain furniture and one noisy mimeograph machine.

4. The shorter the working time, the more the mimeograph will malfunction.

5. The clock in the instructor's room will be wrong.

6. Children who touch the instructor will have scabies or bubonic plague.

7. When speaking to the school psychologist, the teacher will say "weirdo" rather than "emotionally disturbed."

8. Disaster will occur when visitors are in the room.

9. The time a teacher takes in explaining is inversely proportional to the information retained by students.

10. Extra-duty nights will occur when the best shows are on TV.

11. The problem child will be a school board member's son.

12. The instructor's study hall will be the largest in several years. The administration will view the study hall as the teacher's preparation time.

13. Students who are doing better are credited with working harder. If children start to do poorly, the teacher will be blamed.

14. Clocks will run more quickly during free time. (This is also known as the Law of Varying Time.)

15. A meeting's length will be directly proportional to the boredom the speaker produces.

16. On a test day, at least 15% of the class will be absent.

17. If the instructor teaches art, the principal will be an ex-coach and will dislike art. If the instructor is a coach, the principal will be an ex-coach who took a winning team to the state competition.

18. A subject interesting to the teacher will bore the students.

19. Murphy's Law will go into effect at the beginning of an evaluation (of the teacher's job performance).

It is so very true.

Another little tidbit that surfaced during my recipe hunt is how to color rice to throw at brides. Rice may be a little out since birdseed is more practical and not work to sweep up, but this just may be what a mother of a bride is looking for.

Put the amount of rice you think you will need in a bowl of cold water and add food coloring. Let it soak until it is the shade you want. Drain it and spread it on a cookie sheet and dry at 200 degrees in the oven.

You know this tricky little idea can also work for rice salads or desserts. Just add the coloring while the rice is cooking.

Johnsons note his anniversary, their marriage

Hawkins wins DAR award

Richard Hawkins, a Plymouth High school 12th grader, was among the group of Huron county school pupils to receive the annual Good Citizens award from Sally de Forest chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution Mar. 16.

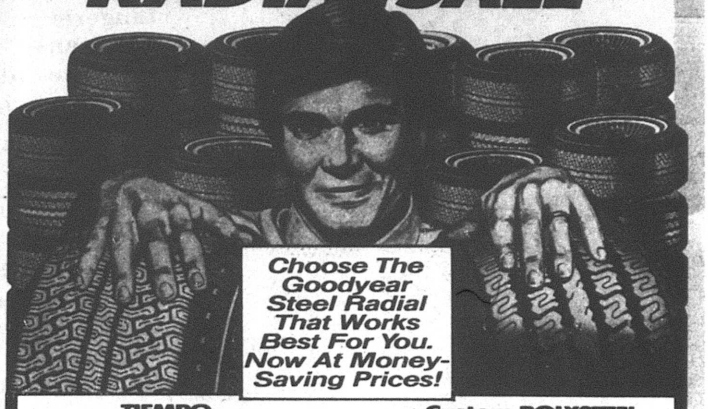

The presentation was made during the afternoon of the chapter's monthly meeting at the United Methodist church, New Haven, by Mrs. Neel Fauber, Norwalk, and Mrs. George A. Landon, Monroeville, former chapter regents.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hawkins, Shiloh.

Young Hawkins's Christian name was erroneously represented to be Richland in last week's issue. The Advertiser relied on data furnished by Heidelberg college.

Whatever your time of life...

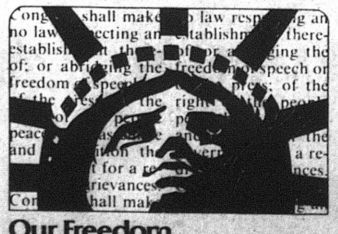

Social Security protects you.

That's why your Social Security Card is important to you. It answers the call in case the alarm rings for four basic needs. If you are disabled, it pays disability benefits. If someone you love and depend on dies, it provides survivor benefits. When you retire, Social Security benefits help you enjoy the things you worked so hard for. And when you reach 65, or you've been getting Social Security disability checks for at least two years, Medicare helps pay the hospital and medical bills.
If you have any questions about your Social Security protection, call your Social Security Office. It's listed in the phone book under Social Security Administration.

TRY TELLING THESE PEOPLE THAT CANCER IS UNBEATABLE.

Through progress in treatment, knowing the risks and early detection, over two million individuals have survived cancer.

But most people don't know that. They still think cancer is unbeatable.

A fact which over two million people would like to dispute.

Brown honored

A 1980 alumnus of Plymouth High school, Christopher D. Brown, Plymouth route 1, has been named to the winter quarter dean's list by Ohio Northern university, Ada.

The dean's list is comprised of students who attain a 3.5 grade-point average or better on a 4.0 grade system.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Florian A. Brown, Willet road, he is a junior civil engineering/public administration major in T. J. Smull College of Engineering. He is vice-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers at ONU.

'52 alumnus, Daniel E. Eby succumbs at 48

A 1952 alumnus of Plymouth High school, Daniel E. Eby, 48, Detroit, Mich., died there Sunday morning.

He lived there 20 years.

Born here Aug. 2, 1934, he was the son of George and Mildred Eby. In his youth he was one of several "Advertiser boys", young men of the community who helped the publisher get the newspaper out on press day and with tiresome chores at other times.

During the Korean Conflict he served in the Navy.

He was a graduate of Bowling Green State university.

He is survived by three sons, Michael, Douglas and Craig, all of Detroit, Mich.; his mother, now Mrs. Mildred Ballard, Columbus, and two sisters, Martha, now Mrs. Walter Akers, Shelby, and Mrs. Donna Hoffman, Columbus.

Graveside services were conducted yesterday at 3 p. m. in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Our family

It is with some special sadness that we record, elsewhere today, the death of one of The Advertiser family.

Daniel E. Eby worked in the press room and the remelt room of this newspaper while he was a schoolboy. He learned to operate the newspaper press, Old Betsy, and the hand-fed folder that has long since followed the press to the scrap heap. He melted lead, purified it by adding flux after scarifying it with a fresh potato, and poured it into pigs that could be used by the typesetting machines. He carried bundled newspapers to the post office after having stamped them with addresses with a nifty device called a wing mailer.

He did his job well and he achieved some local renown for doing so.

We mourn his loss. Even though his visits to his home town -- he was born here in 1934 -- became infrequent of late, he never failed to stop in, when the office was open, to say hello.

It is not that Dan Eby was so special that we mourn. He wasn't any more special than a score of other young people, male and female, who went beyond the pay they got to deliver service to and show loyalty to this business and the community it represents.

With one or two notable exceptions, those who have served The Advertiser since 1926, a mere matter of 57 years, have done well after they closed its door as an employee for the last time. Some of them were children of the management. All four of them have made their parents proud, their communities proud of what they have contributed, here and elsewhere. Some of them became professional people, teachers and educators, bankers and administrators. At least two of them were successful in politics. Neither of them has ever been defeated in an election. The females among them have, without exception, become mothers; their children are a credit to them and to their families.

How did they come to be of that stripe?

Obviously, there was a severe screening applied from the beginning. Those who were considered unlikely to be worth the effort to train them simply were not asked to apply. Those who did apply without some redeeming characteristic that might redound to their benefit and that of the newspaper as well were put off.

And when they reported for duty, they were shown what to do and how to do it, and they were told what was expected of them. When they did it well, they were told about it, and so were their neighbors. When they failed, they were told about it, privately. Those who supervised them -- and there have been just four, two of whom have long since gone to their record -- regarded them as children of their own and steered them with affection and concern.

The Advertiser family stretches a long way, right now to Germany and to the Far East. Its members are substantial people. The work they did, the community they served, the people they did it for, made them that way. For our part, we are proud of them, Dan Eby and each and every one of the others.

Will townships be authorized to lease land?

Steinbrenner said the bill, designated S.B. 148, is the result of a situation in Sullivan township in ASh-Sullivan township in Ashland county.

"Several years ago a question arose over Sullivan township's power to lease land it owns at the corner of Routes 58 and 224 as a gasoline station," Steinbrenner said. "Present law is unclear in this regard, and S.B. 148 is an attempt to specifically grant townships that power."

Steinbrenner said the bill is important to townships across the state since many derive a large portion of their operating funds from such rental properties.

He added the bill is restricted to only the rental of property not needed for township-related functions.

"This bill would only affect property that townships have held for some length of time, or those properties the township acquires through an estate or by means other than an outright purchase," Steinbrenner continued.

The bill has the backing of the Ohio Association of Township Officials, Steinbrenner observed.

Bishop shares priest's bequest of $24,000

Most Pure Heart of Mary Roman Catholic parish, Shelby, the Mission for Accompaniment, a diocesan evangelization effort, and the Priests' Education fund of the Diocese of Toledo, have been named recipients of a $24,000 gift from a priest who died in Shelby in February.

The Rev. Frederick J. Mehling, a priest of the 19-county Roman Catholic diocese of Toledo who died at 80 in Shelby Feb. 21, had deposited the sum in the diocese's "Pooled Gift Income Fund" with the stipulation that it be used at the discretion of the Bishop of Toledo after Father Mehling's death.

The Pooled Gift Income fund is a stewardship tool offered to persons through the diocesan development office. It allows a donor to designate a sum's use after his or her death, but as long as the donor lives, the earnings on the principle of the gift are paid to the donor.

Father Mehling's gift has been distributed by Bishop Hoffman, with $5,000 to Most Pure Heart of Mary parish, in gratitude for the hospitality shown to Father Mehling during his years in retirement. "The people of the Shelby parish community made Father Mehling's final years of ministry both satisfying and fruitful," Bishop Hoffman said, "and the share in Father Mehling's gift is a way for the diocese to express its appreciation."

The Mission for Accompaniment, an evangelization effort of the Diocese of Toledo in cooperation with the Diocese of Hwange in Zimbabwe, Africa, has been given a $5,000 share. Bishop Hoffman noted that Father Mehling always expressed an interest in evangelization and ministry efforts.

The final distribution of $14,000 was made to the Priests' Education fund, in line with Father Mehling's on-going concern about the quality of educational opportunities offered to both priest candidates and to priests.

Father Mehling served St. Joseph's parish at Monroeville from 1958 to 1960 and St. Sebastian's parish at Bismark from 1949 to 1951. He was at St. Bernard's parish, New Washington, from 1960 to 1964 and at St. Francis Xavier pariah, Willard, from 1951 to 1958. He served at Shelby until he retired in 1977.

Additional information about the Diocese of Toledo's Pooled Life Income fund can be obtained from Richard Waring, Diocesan Planned Giving Office, 2544 Parkwood Avenue, Toledo, 43610 (telephones: in Toledo area, 255-1270, within Ohio but outside Toledo, toll free at 160-800-821-8903).

Will council name Taulbee?

Signs are that Billy Taulbee, Curtiss drive, will be appointed to the councilmanic seat vacated by John E. Hedeen.

So far as can be ascertained, no formal or informal meeting of incumbent councilmen has taken place. To do so without public notification would be in violation of the Ohio Sunshine law.

Nevertheless, the sentiment seems to be that Taulbee, an employee of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard, will be appointed to complete the term vacated by Hedeen, which is that to which Douglas D. Brumbach was elected. Taulbee is a former councilman who resigned because of press of other business. He is now a member of the village planning commission and serves as its president.

Vamp sees smoke, stops fire

While driving home from work Mar. 22, he saw smoke coming from a downstairs room and stopped immediately.

It was chimney fire from a stove in the Ecksteins' front sitting room and knowing what to do, Kleman prevented the fire from spreading.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

A special thanks goes to Fireman Ray Kleman for his efficiency in treating our chimney fire on Mar. 22. He stopped his truck, banged on the doors and immediately closed the damper of the stove, which shut down the flames, all in a matter of minutes, which was very helpful in preventing further trouble. Thanks again, Ray.

Many thanks, too, to our police department for its help, beyond the call of duty. The village is very fortunate to have fine policemen.

Sincerely,
Ethel Eckstein

How to use extra yarn? Make a simple afghan

By AUNT LIZ

If you have started your spring housecleaning and have come across batches of odds and ends of yarn which are hardly enough to do much with, there is an answer.

You can make a broomstick lace afghan. Before the days of all the various sizes of knitting needles, it was actually made with a broomstick and there is not a thing now which says you cannot bring your broom out and use it. Otherwise you use a number 50 needle and a K crochet hook.

For an afghan to measure 45 inches by 90, you start with a chain of 190 stitches, but for a practice piece to decide if you are going to like it, chain 25. Then follow these directions.

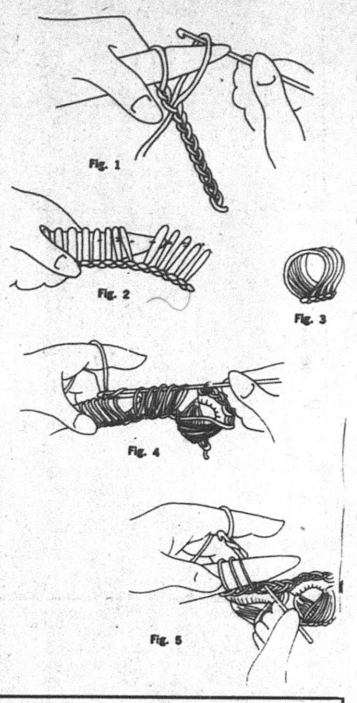

Row 1, Step 1 (see Fig. 1.): Holding knit pin in left hand, slip loop of chain from crochet hook to knit pin. Working from left to right on ch, *insert hook into next ch, draw loop on pin; repeat from * to end of chain – 25 loops on pin.

Changing Colors: Fasten off at end of each row. Begin each succeeding row by drawing loop of next color through back loop of first sc; place it on pin.

Some things require change, observer says of tourney

By THE OLD TIMER

Reflections on the annual madness at Columbus, when the OHSAA conducts the final playdowns for the basketball championships of Ohio:

1. Ohio State university is a vast and important assemblage of scientists and experts in every facet of life, most especially in the physical sciences and technology. Isn't it ridiculous that none of those on the payroll, apparently, can fix the air conditioning system of St. John Arena? Nor can anybody, which is equally obvious, fix the public address system. The acoustics of St. John Arena are not good, to start with. The PA system is a joke.

2. At a time when everybody is tightening his belt, and school districts find it increasingly difficult to obtain approval of levies, not to say bond issues, the obvious expense to the taxpayers of Ohio involved in the attendance of so many public school administrators and coaches at the Thursday and Friday contests was remarked upon by almost everyone with whom The O. T. came into touch during the tournament. Besides, it was argued, the seats for the tourney should be reserved for those who supported the program during the season. Admittedly, administrators and coaches pay their seats. But should not those who paid for seats throughout the 20-game varsity season and into the playdowns be afforded first shot at paid admission to the tourney? Teachers and administrators customarily pass through the doors of games during the regular season without paying the fee. And so do their families. This may be a perequisite of their employment. But the teacher organization ought to be put on notice that many don't like what they saw.

3. The method of choosing referees for the tourney needs revision. It's based on politics, pure and simple. Consider: unless a referee belongs to an association, he can't be considered for selection as a tournament official. The best referee we saw all season does not repeat NOT belong to an association. Members of an association are chosen by their peers to be considered for tourney assignments. How can any single referee pass judgment on another when he hasn't seen him in action, or hasn't seen him in action more than once? Half of the referees assigned to the Class A games on Friday were incompetent; one couldn't move and the other openly pandered to the crowd.

4. Surely any activity under the auspices of the state educational system state educational system, which the OHSAA certainly is, can be expected to observe the fundamental laws, rules, regulations and/or customs of the country. Only in the final Class A game did the cheerleaders pay proper respect to the national anthem. (This should be modified; the O. T. didn't see the Saturday night game.) Functionaries of the OHSAA, rightup to the top, and any number of other public school personnel, were conspicuous by their failure to observe the rules. Couldn't the OHSAA undertake a simple memorandum to obtain compliance not only by cheerleaders but by coaches, players, team hangers-on and other game personnel?

5. Private schools won two of the three championships. One of the winners has only one player who doesn't reside in the sponsoring parish. The other has only three players residing in that parish. Which is not to suggest there were violations of recruitment, for we saw none. But it's patently unfair for a St. Francis de Sales, for example, to recruit throughout the city of Toledo when a DeVilbiss, for example, is limited. Private schools made the semi-finals of each division.

Sixth grade wins in tournament

Sixth grade Vikings whipped Sanitary Products for the third straight time this season, 46 to 42, in the spring tourney at Friendly House, Mansfield.

But the Vikes needed an overtime period to do it.

Down by four going into the final period, the Vikings trailed by two with four seconds remaining. Stacey Hall forced a jump ball and a subsequent violation on the tipoff by Sanitary Products gave Plymouth possession. Billy Weiss took a long half court pass to shoot the tying bucket.

Weiss scored 20, J. T. Reppart 12, Hall six.

Season record is now 21-and-2.

First race a winner for Combs

Competing is his first race, Bryan Combs, a fourth grader, won first place in the beginners' class of motocross racing at Ashland.

He is the son of the Ronnie Combses, Park avenue.

Two get 4ths

Two local wrestlers and a Willard competitor won fourth places on the Midwestern Open Wrestling tourney at the University of Cincinnati over the weekend, where matmen of five states sought awards.

Willard hospital sets laboratory week

To celebrate National Medical Laboratory week Apr. 10-16, Willard Area hospital has set a variety of educational and social events for the hospital staff and the general public.

The events center around this year's National Medical Laboratory week theme, "Laboratory Professionals: Helping to Solve the Diagnostic Puzzle." "We think that the National Medical Laboratory week theme best describes our laboratory staff's contribution to the quality of patient care to the preservation of human life. By participating in the diagnostic process, laboratory professionals are part of the health care team which also includes the attending physician, nurses and all other health professionals," says James Ross, Jr., administrator.

Some of the ways Willard Area hospital laboratory will demonstrate how its role affects the community will be open house Wednesday, Apr. 13, and blood typing Tuesday through Friday Apr. 11-16, from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Newsy notes . . .

The James C. Davises visited their son and daughter-in-law, the Randy Davises, and their younger son, Robert M., in Atlanta, Ga., last week.

First bout tests zoning

The first bout to enforce the newly passed zoning ordinance has started.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Remmy want to replace their present trailer on their property at 181 Riggs street with a newer one.

Because the area is designated residential, once a trailer is moved from the area, even though it is to be replaced, no other can be installed unless a variance to the ordinance is obtained.

The Remmys now must request a public hearing. If the new trailer is not objected to, this will delay their purchase plans.

Because Jack Laser, newly appointed zoning commission, is working a second shift, Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine is taking his place.

Strine feels the ordinance should be strictly adhered to.

Players asked to register

Registration for players, male and female, in T-Ball, Midget league and Lou Gehrig league baseball will be conducted Apr. 13 from 6 yo 7:30 p. m. in Charles Rhine armory.

Fee for T-Ball and PML is $6, for Lou Gehrig league $7. Money will be applied to payment of insurance and to purchase of equipment.

Players must be six and not more than nine before Aug. 1 to be eligible for T-Ball. They must be nine and not more than 13 by Aug. 1 to be eligible for PML. Players must be 13 and not more than 16 by aug. 1 to be eligible for Lou Gehrig play.

Hostler quits after 29 years

For 11 seasons head coach of Plymouth's basketball team, Ronald Hostler brought a 29-year career as high school basketball coach to a close Mar. 23 as mentor of a girls' team in the Ashland classic. He lost.

Hostler succeeded Harold Daup at the helm of the Big Red for the 1961-62 season and gave way to Bryan Neff for the 1972-73 season.

He has lately been head coach of the girls team at Ashland High school. A native of Polk and a former Polk High school star, he was graduated by Ashland college.

LIVING WILL

To my family, my physician, my clergyman, my lawyer: If the time comes when I can no longer take part in decisions for my own welfare and if there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from physical or mental disability, I request that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by artificial means or heroic measures as I fear the indignity of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain more than death itself. I ask that drugs be mercifully administered to me for terminal suffering even if they hasten the moment of death. You who care for my will, I hope, feel morally bound to follow this mandate. This statement is made to relieve you of responsibility and to mitigate any feelings of guilt.

Whatever your time of life...

Social Security protects you.

That's why your Social Security Card is important to you. It answers the call in case the alarm rings for four basic needs. If you are disabled, it pays disability benefits. If someone you love and depend on dies, it provides survivor benefits. When you retire, Social Security benefits help you enjoy the things you worked so hard for. And when you reach 65, or you've been getting Social Security disability checks for at least two years, Medicare helps pay the hospital and medical bills.
If you have any questions about your Social Security protection, call your Social Security Office. It's listed in the phone book under Social Security Administration.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

How should we help youth?

The county's juvenile judge, in the prefare to his annual report, says he thinks one explanation for a decrease of 10 per cent in new complaints against juveniles in that more of their parents are not now working, they have the time to supervise their children, and as a result, the children don't get into trouble.

Some time ago, the No. 2 person in the Chicago, Ill., Post Office told us that when snow falls to a depth of three inches, absenteeism in his facility approaches 70 per cent. Why? "Most of our employees are black females. When the snow is three inches deep, the Chicago schools close. This puts a lot of kids on the street. Our employees stay home to keep their kids out of jail."

We don't question the judge's view, any more than we questioned what the postal officer said. But isn't it a sad commentary on our society that we must experience severe economic (and with it, deep emotional) distress before we get to the point that we will see to our youngsters?

Only last week, we left an evening meeting and encountered three juveniles. Two of them we know quite well. The third is almost a complete stranger. After passing the time of day, or night, we inquired what they were doing.

They gave vague answers. And one of them looked us right in the eye and said, "I'm on my way to the pay phone so I can tell my folks where I'm going and when I'll be home."

We felt good all over. And we told that boy's father that when we saw him again.

"If you hadn't seen him, and if he hadn't known you're such a stickler about these things, he never would have called us. It's the first time he's ever done so. I hope it won't be the last."

One whose judgment we had occasion, once, long ago, to form is wont to say, "If you're going to travel in the fast lane, you've got to expect the scrapes and dents that go with it."

What he's saying is that in this society, when children grow up, or think they grow up, much sooner than we did, and are subject to the peer pressures and media exposures of conduct that tends to be different from the local norm, it's usual for offenses by juveniles to be more frequent, more serious and more damaging, to them, their families and their victims, innocent or otherwise.

Both formally and informally, we seek to apply effort to cope with such conduct, aiming principally to avoid embarrassment, shame and humiliation, and at the same time to channel young energies into useful pursuits, or at least those that do not cost us to deal with.

To do so, funds are needed. And there are as many difference ideas as to how to raise funds as there are needs for them. The capacity of a given society to sustain such free will contributions is governed by size, income and disposition of its members.

How much is enough? Where should it be spent?

The best integer we've seen for quite some time comes from a dissertation, not yet published, by a doctoral candidate. He says this: spend what you can; give priority to expenditures on boys at age 10 and on girls at age 14.

There are perhaps a hundred or so pages of explanation why, and we'll be happy to show them to anyone who's interested. But the figures may be used as a suitable guideline for a society, such as this one, that has limited capacity to support a broad program that meets the needs of everyone.

Feb. 17, 1956!

Chamber conceived in Plymouth street in 1955

Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce is the revival of an organization that first saw light of day at 78 Plymouth street on Dec. 3, 1955, when the editor of The Advertiser invited the late Weldon M. Cornell, the late E. Beryl Miller, R. Harold Mack and the late Elton A. Robertson to share libation for the purpose of discussing a business organization.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle addressed the organization on its fourth anniversary on Mar. 17, 1960.

By this time, Carl M. Lofland, a veteran banker, had died. A plaque in his memory was established by the Chamber to recognize a resident of the village whose contributions in the previous year were judged to be outstanding.

The late John A. Root, president of the Fate-Root-Heath Co., was the first winner. The late J. Elden Nimmons, then president of Peoples National bank, was the second winner, in 1960. Maynard J. Coon, superintendent of schools, won it in 1961. The late Dr. Darrell B. Faust was the winner in 1962.

In the 1950's and 1960's, the Chamber sponsored village bargain days – one of them was Pioneer day – and promoted off-street parking, chiefly the lot owned by Edward O. Ramsey in the rear of the old theater building.

Miss Smith's departure for a full-time paid post as secretary of the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce was the final blow to the struggling organization, which always had difficulty in obtaining attendance at regular meetings.

Two of its organizers became disenchanted in 1959 and did not actively participate in it thereafter.

The Chamber assisted in organizing, and a number of its members were incorporators, of a non-profit group to fund repairs to the Fetters building in West Broadway so that it could accommodate a medical doctor. Dr. Vacys Dragunas was recruited from a state hospital in illinois and he came here in 1962. He left in 1974.

The first Easter egg roll in Mary Fate park was organized by Paddock, appointed to do so by the Chamber. Gold and silver eggs made and painted by his son are still used in the annual event, which is now conducted by Independence Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

Mrs. McQuate succeeded Miss Smith as secretary. She was in turn replaced by Mrs. Donald Fidler, who held the office when the Chamber finally gave up the ghost.

Miss Smith subsequently married Joseph McClure, a veteran chamber of commerce worker, and when he retired, they returned to live in Willard. On his demise, the victim of cancer, she returned to her home town and began to encourage interest in reviving the old organization.

That it has an office, which she staffs, is entirely her doing. The Chamber recognized her in 1960 for "service above and beyond the call of duty" for her activities with the organization.

Never before has the Chamber sought public input into selection of the Lofland plaque winner. Each previous winner was singled out less for contributions during the immediately preceding year than for sustained contributions over several years.

When it conducts Recognition night on Apr. 21 at 6:30 p. m. in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, it plans to single out businesses and business people with long tenure in the village as well as to introduce the 1983 winner of the Lofland plaque.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it. If misused, electricity can be dangerous. So please make sure you and your children follow these important safety do's and don'ts.

Read your family these facts of life.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it, because contact with it can injure or kill. So treat electricity with respect and make sure you follow these safety rules:

1. Never go near any fallen lines. If you see a victim of electrical shock, don't touch him if he's still in contact with the wire.
2. Don't use electrical yard tools when the ground is wet. And make sure they're double-insulated or properly grounded with a 3-wire plug.
3. When using a ladder, make sure it will not come in contact with any power lines.
4. Before installing a CB, TV or ham radio antenna, make sure it's at least one and one-half times its total height away from all power lines.
5. If you're trimming trees, painting a house, repairing a roof or putting up aluminum siding, make sure you're well clear of overhead power lines.
6. Before you do any type of digging, contact your electric company to make sure there are no buried electric cables.

If it's not the right season, make potato salad anyway!

By AUNT LIZ

Don't ever overlook a good spring (or summer, or fall, or winter) bake sale.

The stuff can be out of this world, but it does help to kind of know who made what.

Some people cheat a little. I have, and should be ashamed. A number of times when I had to whip something up, I bought a package mix. I only feel half guilty on that score because I always added nuts, raisins or whatever to it so it would be a little disguised.

So long as I am confessing, I might as well admit that I have gone out to buy pies to donate to something or other, but made sure they came from a trustworthy bakery.

Maybe I have done this about 12 times out of 100, so the score isn't so bad.

One memory I still have from years back was the time I did two truly beautiful pecan pies for an affair.

Afterwards one of our kids came home and said, "Mom, you know what happened to your pies?" My first thought was that he dropped them on the way.

The answer was, "The people doing the serving took one look at them and ate them themselves." So hardly anyone knows that I can bake a pie.

Right now with the world kind of messed up about who has what missile and where, perhaps a good bake sale between us and you-know-who would do much for pure friendliness. The Russians are truly good cooks.

Their standby salad is a real treat. It is merely a mixture of cooked vegetables like carrots, potatoes, turnips and beets cut up in cubes in equal parts plus as many peas as you want to throw in. Marinate them in a little French dressing, drain, and mix enough salad dressing to hold it all together.

In an expensive restaurant this is called Salade Russe, but in any ordinary kitchen it can be called Salad to Use Stuff. Even left over meat can go in it.

Start with a package of scalloped potatoes. Cook the potato slices in about three cups of water until it boils, then cover and simmer until they are tender. Rinse, drain and set aside.

Next, mix the package of sauce mix with a cup of water, heat until it boils, and stir it all the way.

Add a half cup of mayonnaise, a half cup of sour cream, three-fourths teaspoon of dried dill, some salt and pepper.

Divide it in half. With the first half mix the potatoes, two cups of cubed cooked (natch) chicken, two chopped hardboiled eggs and a half cup of chopped dill pickles. Chill this with the other half of the dressing for maybe four hours.

Then shape it into a mound, spread the extra sauce over it and put cucumber and tomato slices around it.

This will not serve 50 people, more like four, but it can be doubled, tripled, or any amount you want to deal with.

ENERGY. We can't afford to waste it.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

D. J. D.

It won't be the same anymore.

It won't be the same because Dominic Dorion won't drive around the east end of the Square, blow his horn, puff on his pipe and wave.

He did it for 29 years, so far as we go. He did for a lot longer, 62 years all told, in this community. If he liked you, there wasn't a thing he wouldn't do for you. And, truth to tell, there was hardly a thing he couldn't do.

A day does not pass but that we marvel at the work he did on our furniture. The number of families hereabouts in which that sentiment is a daily occurrence is legion.

He was a good family man. He raised a large and loving family. Each of his children, he was wont to tell us, sometimes over wassail, when we both were able to do so, "is different. But they're all the same in some things: they need food and they need clothes and they need a place to sleep and they need somebody to kick 'em in the ass sometimes and most of all, they need love. That's what I'm for."

He served this town faithfully. Most of it without pay. His reward? He went to his grave Tuesday with the love and affection of his family, his colleagues in the local industry, his neighbors and friends and the countless folks whose lives he brightened by application of his skills and expertise!

May his tribe increase!

What's real need?

To assist a deserving young man, whose medical and surgical bills look, to him, and to most of us, like the national debt, some of his friends have organized a benefit affair at the high school tomorrow.

The music is donated by one of his many friends. The donation of the music alone is a substantial contribution.

Some have contributed their services. Others have contributed goods.

The core of decency is that when another needs help, it is given, whether one thinks highly of the recipient or not. To deprive one genuinely in need of whatever help one can give is to be indecent.

In a few days, help of another character will be extended to some of our neighbors. In this instance, we all have a share in it. Each of us, in our own way, has contributed to the help that will be given.

Some ground rules have been established. It is right that they should be established. We, for our part, will try to see to it that they are strictly enforced.

Does it serve well to say, "Why help those who aren't really in a bind? The hospitals are equipped to cover the cost of services that patients can't or won't pay for."

And who covers the hospital's out-of-pocket expenses?

Take it from one who knows: we all do. Next time you look at your hospital bill, think about it. A goodly part of it is to recoup what was spent on those who did not, could not or would not pay.

The situation here tomorrow is that a young man, of good character and repute, who has served his school, his church and his community well, and only seeks to be allowed to do so with such strength as he has left or can muster in the days to come, needs help. Let's help him.

Willard man held here for trespass

McKenzie was summoned to appear in mayor's court Tuesday.

Mrs. Theresa Tash, 103 Trux street, accused McKenzie of menacing. She told police he telephoned threats to her and her family.

He was also arrested on that count.

Fiscal crunch foreseen

The gnawing feeling that fiscal doom is impending was evident during Monday night's meeting of Plymouth Board of Education and the frustration of its chief administrator and its treasurer was apparent.

Supt. Douglas Staggs recounted for the board some details of how much less that present administration in Columbus plans to spend for school purposes than did previous administrations, compared briefly two proposals to fund schools, one of them advanced by Gov. Richard Celeste, the other by the state board of education, steered by Sen. Oliver Ocasek, and said he frankly cannot tell the board where it stands, money-wise, until some action is taken by the General Assembly.

The other pressing matter before the General Assembly, Staggs said, is the proposal in Senate Bill 133 to provide for collective bargaining, with the right to strike, for public employees. Staggs said the bill will relate directly to seven per cent of Ohio's school districts, since the others already have collective bargaining agreements. None of these, he said, provides for the right to strike, which is prohibited by the Ferguson act.

Upshot of it all, Staggs said sadly, is that despite public pressure to the contrary, the General Assembly will probably enact appropriations that will reduce the amount of state funding to Plymouth Local School district.

One such proposal, he pointed out in another context, is in the funding of school buses. Plymouth will seek approval to buy a new one. Last time around, the state reimbursed 77 per cent of the cost. Under the new proposal the state will find only 50 per cent of the will fund only 50 per cent of the expense.

A request by the Del Clines, who live in Hazel Brush road, to annex their property to Shelby district so their child, a boy, can attend Shelby schools, where there is day care available, was turned down. The decision can be reversed by the county board, Staggs said, but it is unlikely it will do so.

Mrs. Alta D. McClure, pastor of Rhema Love and Faith Outreach ministry, was accorded permission to rent Charles Rhine armory for Sunday morning and evening services, at a rate to be negotiated with the superintendent.

An opinion by the Richland county prosecutor that public funds may be expended to provide group liability for the board against law suits by individuals or corporations (individual members now have individual protection) having been received, the board opted to provide $500,000 maximum covers for $364 a year with Republican Franklin Co.

A mild winter resulted in some savings in heating bills, Staggs said. Total consumption of the four buildings was 36.6 per cent of the quota allowed by Columbus Gas of Ohio, Inc. But the savings was only about $1,200. Expenditures for the 1981-82 season were $34,-145.36, for the season just closed $32,932.42, despite savings of up to 41.1 per cent on usage in the high school.

A policy to prohibit hazing of any pupil was adopted, to comply with state law.

Continuing contracts were authorized for five teachers. This means they cannot be terminated without a showing of severe cause in a public hearing These are Mrs. Amy Collins, foreign language instructor; C. Michael Follett, Plymouth Elementary school teacher; Mrs. Paul Gase, Plymouth Elementary school instructor; Mrs. Neil McKown, learning disabilities teacher, Plymouth Elementary school, and Carolyn Milligan, first grade teacher, Plymouth Elementary school.

Four year contracts were approved for Mrs. Catherine Anderson, first grade, Shiloh; Mrs. Doris Chandler, fifth grade, Shiloh; Mrs. Thomas Dawson, returning from extended leave, Shiloh school; David P. Dunn, high school EMR; Mrs. Eliza Fugate, sixth grade, Shiloh; Miss Jeannette Hamilton, sixth grade, Shiloh; John Hart, English and social studies, Shiloh Junior High; Leith Johnson, vocational agriculture; Barbara McBride, sixth grade, Shiloh; Terry Pore, industrial arts, Shiloh; Richard Roll, industrial arts, Plymouth; Mrs. Margaret Sloan, fourth grade, Shiloh.

Three year contracts were authorized for Sam Cook, high school physical education; David Coulter, high school English, and Mrs. Kim Stitzlein, business education, returning from extended leave.

Two year contracts will be offered to Mrs. Paul McClintock, second grade, Shiloh; Jane Neuman, learning disabilities, Shiloh, and Miss Joni Rinaldi, high school vocal music.

Mrs. Linda BeVier, part-time business education; Mrs. Karen Luhring, junior high learning disabilities, and Mrs. Lawrence J. Root, kindergarten, will receive one year agreements.

These represent 42 per cent of the certificated staff, Staggs said.

Stricken at what he loved to do most, Dominic J. Dorion, 81, Route 61, was found dead in his workshop Saturday.

He died Friday evening.

Born in Penetanguishene, Ont., Canada, he came here by reason of an act of mercy.

The late Charles Heath, a founder of the Fate-Root-Heath Co., and companions were fishing on a lake near where the young Dorion lived. Their boat foundered and the fishermen were thrown into the water. Dorion heard their cries for help and rowed a boat to rescue them. Heath promised his young rescuer a job if he ever needed one.

That time soon came and he presented himself in 1921 at Heath's door in Plymouth. The rescued industrialist was as good as his word and put Dorion on the payroll. He stayed there 47 years until he retired 15 years ago. At the end of his service, he was chief of the pattern room.

There was hardly anything he could not do with wood. There is scarcely a well-appointed house in Plymouth or in towns around it that is not decorated by furnishings refinished or made from scratch by Dominic Dorion.

When he was president of the board of trustees of Mary Fate park, he made the tables, teeters, swings and shelter there. When the village observed its sesquicentennial in 1965, he conceived and constructed the locomotive float with tender and caboose that appeared in the parade under the banner of the Fate-Root-Heath Co. Later it was turned over to Plymouth Lions club, under whose guidance it has won countless awards for excellence in civic exhibitions across the state.

The sign over The Advertiser door, the sign over McIntire's dry goods store are two that he made, lovingly, himself.

He was a communicant of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church.

In his spare time, he worked a truck garden. He had a green thumb and he kept his own table and that of his friends and neighbors sagging with garden produce in season. His fabrication of sauerkraut in the fall of the year was a marvel; to partake of it with wassail on Christmas or New Year's eve in his company was a highlight of the Yuletide season.

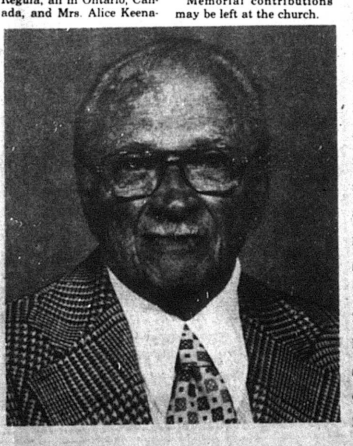

He was a strong Republican. In 1952, when Dwight Eisenhower defeated Adlai E. Stevenson for president, he won a wager from his old friend and colleague, Marshall H. Burns. The winner got a ride in a wheelbarrow around the Square. It was pushed by the loser.

He is survived by five daughters, Marion, now Mrs. Robert Krisha, New London; Jane, now Mrs. Dean Morse, Grafton; Olive, now Mrs. Syvonne Kempf, Galion; Nora, now Mrs. Ronald Lofland, New Haven, and Florence, now Mrs. E. Duane Baker, Plymouth; five sons, Benjamin, Columbus; Francis and Michael, Plymouth; James, Galion, and Patrick, Shelby; seven sisters, Mrs. Nora D'aoust, Mrs. Mary Marchildon, Mrs. Cecile Marchildon, Mrs. Alma Charlebois and Mrs. Elizabeth Regula, all in Ontario, Canada, and Mrs. Alice Keenahan and Mrs. Gertrude Honen, Cleveland; 34 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

His wife, nee Olive Goin, died Dec. 25, 1976. A son, David, and two brothers and three sisters also died earlier.

The Rev. Frank Eckart, his pastor, was celebrant of the funeral mass from the church Tuesday at 11 a. m. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be left at the church.

Color coordinate your undies? Might make you a fortune!

By AUNT LIZ

So spring is here, officially.

It is supposed to be the time that young men turn their thoughts to amorous pursuits, which some poet away back called plain love.

We gals are different.

It is the time to critically look in closets and decide how much more we need to wear.

A real revolution has been going on in the fashion industry that not many of us recognized.

Very accidentally, I discovered I am not with it at all.

The newest thing is that you match up color-wise, which means if you are wearing something black that everyone sees, then you should be wearing all-black where it's not seen.

You are then completely "coordinated".

It can be easy if you stick to certain colors, white, red, even black, but who has ever seen a bra or a pair of panties or a girdle in Kelly green?

Some lingerie manufacturer can make a mint if he gets hold of a fashion designer who can set a color trend.

And since this is the land of great opportunity, I think it just might happen.

Every cook knows that colors are important. There is nothing like a plate of stuff, no matter how tasty it might be, if it has no colors to it.

This is why your should always have parsley flakes handy. They can do wonders about prettying up something that is otherwise dull looking.

Another great thing to have around is a jar of salad olives. The green olives and red pimentoes can make any dish, no matter when it is served, look like a real holiday delight. A few shakes of paprika will also do the same trick.

Bnd it does no harm to have some ripe bananas around. They are one of the true bargains of today in any store.

Banana bread, of course, is a great favorite, but a little oomph can be added to an aging one.

Peel and mash six really ripe pieces of the fruit until it is smooth. Stir in seven tablespoons of powdered tugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice and a teaspoon of vanilla. Mix it well.

Before you start all this, have a souffle dish ready and buttered with a little ordinary sugar sprinkled on the bottom.

Beat four egg whites with a dash of sale (if you like) until they not drip off the beater and are stiff. Gently fold them into the banana mixture, and pour into the baking dish.

Bake it in a pan of water at 350 degrees until it puffs up and is golden-like.

It can be served bare or with a thin chocolate sauce.

There is one catch to this, it should be served right from the oven, but a little waiting won't hurt. Just turn the oven off and leave it for a little while.

A 1969 alumna of Plymouth High school who seeks to become the ninth graduate of the school to obtain a doctorate of philosophy degree has been chosen as a "personality-of-the-month" by Challenge, the North Central Technical college monthly.

She joined NCTC as a full-time faculty member in 1981 and is now an assistant professor of communications. A talented artist, she is a member of Mansfield Art center, the YWCA, Grace Episcopal church and the Society for Technical Communications.

A public service message from the Internal Revenue Service

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Miss Vandervort clarifies point

Sir:

In response to an editorial on Mar. 24, this second "inditer" did earn a dime or two in Plymouth: during high school as a baby sitter, as a collector for The Advertiser, no less, and at the Black and Gold. Then between college years, at the Fate-Root-Heath Co. in 1944.

The pension, it must be said, is far from handsome, is not paid for "by the public" in this state, and is hardly a dole, but earned by honest labor as are other pensions.

One other point of disagreement should perhaps be cleared up. It may have been wishful thinking (or an attempt at a self-fulfilling prophecy – something I've always wanted to attempt) to claim that spending is on the increase in Plymouth. However, it was not spoken as a representative of the Chamber of Commnerce, nor as an officer of same. I would not deliberately misrepresent the Chamber. No, it was spoken as a private citizen who was perhaps ruefully observing some personal bills accrued since returning to Plymouth, vi., doctor's fees for a broken ankle, stitches in thumb, two lost contact lenses (noth both at the same time), installation of sewer and subsequent village fee, one expensive pruning of the orchard, and, to return to 1968-69, the building I'm still paying the mortgage for. Add to that the replacement of one broken partial, and perhaps it should have been stated as the contributions of one person to the cash flow around Plymouth.

Admittedly it would have been better to express the increase in spending as a goal to be achieved by those who want Plymouth to succeed and not as a fact.

L. Vandervort

$100,000 suit filed at Norwalk

A $100,000 suit has been filed in Huron county common pleas court by Bobbie Barnett, 213 Sandusky street, against Joseph Woolever, Mansfield, owner of the apartment building.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

A decent standard

One whose judgment we have in the past trusted implicitly is wont to say, "Pride is what makes one town better than another. There is no better way to show community pride than to keep things looking decent."

A former mayor has stated in these pages that some of us have been deficient in keeping our places tidy, neat and in repair.

It is understandable in these times that some householders simply cannot afford the expense of some repairs. To paint a house these days costs four or five times more than it did 20 years ago. And where the householder of 20 years ago may have been able to do the painting himself, now he's physically unable to swing it. To hire it done is beyond his means.

Nevertheless, there is much that can be done by each of us to bring our town to a decent standard. Indeed, there is much that must be done, whether by one or two of us or by the entire community, to establish a decent standard.

One need only walk the streets and alleys of the village to see what needs to be done.

The community eyesore that splits us from north to south is a disgrace. That which divides us from east to west is only slightly less so, mostly because its use is smaller.

Some years ago, an ordinance was passed to prohibit the storage of disused cars on public or private property. When the ordinances were codified, so far as we are informed, that proscription was omitted. There are a number of offenders. They should be urged to comply.

The village has set two days early next month for the collection of trash. But trash should not be collected once or twice a year.

Time was when the householder could load his car with his trash and drive to the river in Base Line road or to the dump in route 61 or to that behind the sewer lagoons and dispose of it. No more. To do so now requires a trip of several miles to the county landfill and the payment of a fee. Does anybody here use the Richland county landfill? Does anybody know where it is? Our bet is that those who use a landfill at all drive northward to the Huron county site.

What was acceptable one or two generations ago is no longer acceptable. In a day where every marketplace depends for survival upon its impression to the prospective user, and particularly when everyone living in or near that marketplace has a substantial investment in it, that impression absolutely must be the best possible.

Some schoolboy or schoolgirl organization can make a lot of points for itself by offering at a modest sum a clean-up service to householders who cannot undertake it themselves. Washing windows, raking lawns, mowing lawns, trimming bushes, sweeping sidewalks.

The old picture of the small Ohio town with the idle sunning themselves in front of some business or other doesn't wash anymore. We can remember when women of this town objected to the location of a public facility on the grounds that the location forced them to walk through expectorant tinged with tobacco. And they complained of the exposure to inquiring and curious looks. Women have for the most part altered their usual attire to overcome that objection.

But the rule is clear: we must realize that this is 1983, we must put our best foot forward, the stakes are high, the survival of our marketplace is in the balance. We can help it to survive by cleaning it up, from the armory to the theater, from the river to the west end.

Man hurt in alley unknown

An ambulance call to 148 Sandusky street early Apr. 13 resulted in the transport of an injured man to Shelby Memorial hospital, where he refused treatment against medical advice.

Police report says the investigating officer found a man lying in the roadway near the house of Homer McClain.

No identification of the injured man is available in police headquarters. Neither has the hospital an identification.

$702,000 sought vs. Hillises

A damage suit amounting to $702,000 has been lodged in Huron county common pleas court against the estate of Coy Hillis, New Havenite who was killed in January in Route 103 east of Willard in a two car collision.

Bobby and Tammie Patton, Willard; Wayne and Kathryn Die, Willard, and Ted and Laura Slone, New Washington, plaintiffs, allege Hillis was negligent in operating his car.

The Slones seek $380,000, the Dies $170,000 and the Pattons $152,000 against Hillis's estate, Jane Doe, said to be an executrix, and his widow, Doris, also an executrix.

A Plymouth man arrested in Huron county on three charges of probation violation is in Toledo Mental Health center because a prosecutor says he talked about committing suicide.

James Stephens, 25, 213 Sandusky street, is wanted in Warren county, Miss., on two charges of possession of marijuana and in Anderson county, Tex., on charges of hindering creditors.

Taulbee to take post on council

Billy R. Taulbee has accepted the offer of his former colleagues to return as a councilman.

He will replace John E. Hedeen, who resigned last month because of being out of state during the winter and missing meetings.

This is the second time Taulbee has been appointed to the council.

He declined to be sworn in during the Apr. 12 meeting because he is chairman of the village's zoning board of appeals, which is hearing its first request for a zoning variance Tuesday at 6 p. m.

He said he feels obligated to continue in his role of chairman until that request was decided.

Most likely he will be sworn by Mayor Dean A. Cline during the regular council meeting.

Mrs. Joseph McClure, president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, invited the council to attend tonight's chamber dinner.

She said the mayor and Councilman G. Thomas Moore had already made reservations and that she sincerely hoped the others would as well.

She said she hoped the Chamber and council could work together for the betterment of the village.

"We need you and you need us," she said.

James C. Root, village administrator, told the council he has heard nothing from Willard about renegotiating the water contract, which would reduce the minimum gallonage for which the village is being charged and not consuming.

At this point, Moore spoke up. He said the coverage in a nearby weekly newspaper of Plymouth's request was uncalled for.

He vehemently denied that Plymouth had come "begging" for water, then came again "begging".

He said he was part of the committee which had worked out the contract and at that particular time Willard had the water and needed the money and was pleased that Plymouth would purchase water.

Root said he doesn't believe anything will be done this year to make contractual changes because Willard has already set its appropriations and is planning on the set sum of money from Plymouth for the water.

Moore told the council the finance committee has been discussing raising the clerk-treasurer's annual salary because the work is more than full time.

The office now pays $7,500. Because it is an elective post, the holder does not come under the employee benefits for hospitalization.

The present clerk, John Fazzini, Plymouth's retired school superintendent, is covered by the school's retirement and cannot collect twice from the fund.

The council passed on its first reading a resolution to support the objections to the proposed landfull in northern Morrow county of toxic wastes.

No other legislation could be acted upon because of the absence of Councilman Keith Hebble, who is vacationing in Florida.

Root said plans are being made to flush the fire hydrants during the last week in April. The specific times for each part of the village will be announced later so that housewives have a warning about when it is wise to do their laundrying.

He said the village will collect trash on the Huron side of the village May 2 and 3 and on the Richland side May 4 and 5.

Councilman Roy Barber complimented him on how well the Square looks since it has been cleaned up.

Root has had extra help through the welfate department to do the work. He said last year the village received $1,000 of litter control funds through Richland county. He thinks more will be forthcoming this year.

Only one week among 52?

By AUNT LIZ

So someone dreamed up what is called National Library week!

It is for the well-known birds.

Just one week out of 52? It should be every week of the year.

Where would we be without libraries to use so freely? They really aren't that free, but most of us don't pay any attention to that. Public libraries are financed from the intangible tax, which is paid on dividends people receive from their stocks and bonds.

Someone in Ohio is trying to change all that. Frankly, I think it is a painless way to get the moola for our library system. Not everyone owns stocks, which means that a lot of people have the privilege of using the libraries completely free.

What really hits me between the eyes is that so many do not even walk into a library.

You can save a fortune by using one. Most of us read a book once, and that is it, so why try to gather thousands of volumes?

Years back some friends came to visit, and they were dear, old friends, but I was simply shocked when they started to brag about how much it cost to move their 3,000-odd books from the west to the east.

I just quietly thought, "How dumb can you be?"

A house without books (or pictures) is really not a house to me, and there are always a few treasured books you hang on to. I still have a history book on the origins of World War I that I used in school, and a generation later that book was used in two colleges by our kids and friends. No way would I part with it.

And don't dump your old books on the libraries. Ask them first if they would like them, and they will be very nice and frank. Most small libraries do not have the room for them, and they must keep up with current reading tastes.

It is asounding what you can find in them, but some recipes work and some are grave mistakes.

This one isn't, but you have to be a little Oriental to love it.

First, buy a pound of lean pork, which you cut into cubes.

The rest of the ingredients you most likely have around.

Combine a tablespoon of shredded orange peel with a half cup of orange juice, two tablespoons of soy sauce, two teaspoons of cornstarch and a teaspoon of sugar. Mix.

Either in your best skillet or a wok, if you have one, pour a little oil, then add two good sized carrots that are thinly sliced and a cup of chopped celery. Stir them around until they are slightly crisp. Then take them out with a slotted spoon, and put the pork pieces in the same oil. Cook them until they look done.

This is all to be heated and can be eaten with rice or Chinese noodles, which are easier. All you have to do is open the can.

If you really want to splurge, you can throw in a few nuts like cashews or almonds, but no one will really miss them.

The Equal Payment Plan.

Some household expenses are fairly steady throughout the year. But your electric bill varies from month to month because your electric usage fluctuates with the changing seasons. The bill is usually higher in the winter. It dips a little in the spring months, then, for most people, rises during the air conditioning season, before dropping again in the fall.

We can't do anything about the weather, but we can help you smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill. And that's by offering you our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average yearly usage.

Your account is reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. At the end of the twelfth month you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Many of our customers are already taking advantage of the Equal Payment Plan. If it sounds like a good idea to you, simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

The classic argument of "what's ours is ours, and we want it spelled put" arose Apr. 13 when trustees of Bloominggrove and Cass townships met with councilmen of Shiloh at Shiloh to discuss the fire protection contract.

John J. Snyder, Bloominggrove trustee, said the draft contract states that the village and the two townships jointly own a fire apparatus, whereas there are two such apparatuses. Frank Cline, president pro tempore of the Shiloh council, replied the argument is negated by the statement "and other equipment" in the draft. Whereupon Snyder said the draft contract refers to "other equipment is jointly owned", whereas the townships each own their own water tankers. And his colleague, Charles Bly, added, "We wrote to the prosecuting attorney to be sure there wouldn't be any problem with it stated that way when we actually own the tanker. We received a letter from his saying it could cause a problem with the insurance, depending on how the insurance is set up."

Considerable heated debate ensued. Cline finally said, "Even if one of our firemen was using another fire department's equipment, that fireman would be covered by the insurance if he got hurt."

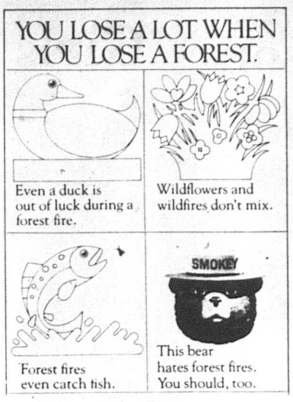

At last, the wording of the draft contract was left as is.

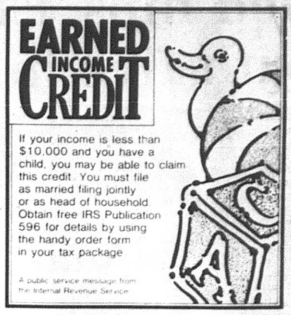

Trustees then inquired if Shiloh is willing to pay for one-third of the cost of the tankers, since Shiloh uses them also. Cline responded, "A long time ago there was a trade-off agreement made verbally that Shiloh wouldn't charge the fire department for the village water put in the tankers which is then used on fires in the townships."

Bly reported all townships in Richland county have united to buy group insurance.

The council agreed to participate.

A mutual aid contract with Butler township will be renewed but on new terms: $100 for a false alarm run, $225 for a fire run, $50 for an ambulance run. The old contract called for $50 for a false alarm and $50 for a grass fire. Butler township's approval is now required.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir,

In last week's paper there was an article on page 4 titled "Benefit set for '78 alumnus." It was the benefit for Martin McKenzie. It was a nice article expressing how the community wanted to help the McKenzie family, but one error was made in the recognition of "one person who has worked hard for the benefit". Mrs. James McClure did not work on the preparation of this event. I do not mind not getting credit for things I do work on, but I do not want to take credit for something I did not do, when the people that worked on it were not mentioned. Mr. Shannon Hamons, Mrs. Julie Metcalfe, Mrs. Cathy Pritchard, Mrs. Nancy Baldridge are the ones who got it moving. But since I did not have any involvement I cannot begin to list everyone who helpted, because I do not know all of the names. However, they all did a super job and deserve a lot of credit.

Respectfully,

Mrs. James McClure

Polar Bears claw Big Red

Craig Gerhold limited Plymouth one two hit at Castalia Apr. 12 and Margaretta's Pola Cears went on to win, 5 to 1.

But it wasn't easy.

Rodney Hampton, Gerhold's mound opponent, pitched creditably but was the victim of shabby support, especially two critical errors by his catcher in the fifth. After Scott Rister singled to drive home two runs and break a 1 to 1 tie, Rister sought to reach second. An errant throw enabled a run to score from third. A moment later, Rister stole third, the catcher's throw went into left field and Rister scored.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

To recognize real merit

What they do tends to be overlooked, in part because the participation in the activity is small by comparison with others. But what they have done is significant and deserves recognition.

Kim Daron will receive the state Homemaker degree for work in vocational home economics and Future Homemakers of America.

Loren Kranz and Jay Adams will receive the state FFA degree for work in vocational agriculture and Future Farmers of America.

Miss Daron is also the 1983 FFA queen. What's more, she received the activities award from the local chapter.

Kranz, whose older siblings distinguished themselves in the same activities, won 12 of the 24 awards presented to vocational agriculture and FFA participants. He's an 11th grader, which means that, barring a calamity, next year he'll be in contention for even more degrees. He has given good reason for his parents, the Thomas Kranzes, and his teacher, Keith Johnson, to be proud of him. As indeed we all should!

Adams received seven awards during the annual banquet Apr. 12. His parents are the Kenneth Adamses. He is a 12th grader.

It has been fashionable to pay little or no attention to activities dealing with agriculture, mainly because, it is argued, unless a young man has wealthy parents or grandparents, he can no more get started in farming than he can fly to the moon. Participation in home economics has been denigrated as an activity for those less academically inclined than others.

It is time that such notions should be put aside. Only last week competent sources pointed out that 57,000 job vacancies in the field of home economics are likely to be unfilled over the next five years.

A long time ago we reflected upon whether it is wise to offer vocational agriculture and home economics training in this high school and in the joint vocational school as well. The supposition was that there is needless duplication.

Whether this exists remains a mystery to us. What is clear, however, is that these young people, and others such as Lisa King, FHA queen for 1983; Carrie Loehn and Shawn Ousley, chapter homemaker degree winners, and 15 or 16 others have achieved splendidly in work that is rewarding to them and to the community that pays for it.

What more could one ask?

First variance OK accorded to bid of Robert Remmy

A variance, the first one since the village zoning ordinance was passed late last year, was granted to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Remmey, 181 Riggs street, that they be allowed to replace their present trailer with a more updated model.

Letters were sent to all residents within 500 feet of the trailer, and there were no objections although a few absentee land owners did not respond.

Members of the planning commission were in complete agreement that the new trailer will be an asset to the street.

Salary of the clerk-treasurer of the village will be raised to $12,500 from the present $7,500 annually, five members of the village council agreed Tuesday night.

Councilman Terry Hopkins was absent. Bill Taulbee, who had just been sworn in as a member, made the five necessary votes with Councilmen G. Thomas Moore, Ronald Predieri, Keith Hebble and G. Thomas Moore.

The salary will not be effective until Apr. 1, 1984.

A change in the state law, which amended HB 139 states that a clerk may be elected during the general election in November but doese office until Apr. 1 of the next year. During that interim period the council is to appoint a clerk to fill the position.

The thinking behind this change of not having a newly elected clerk take office as of Jan. 1 after the general election is that there are too many reports and forms to fill out which an inexperienced person would not be able to handle.

Beginning in 1984 the clerk's term of office will run from apr. 1, 1984 until Mar. 31, 1988.

During a routine session the council approved an ordinance hiring auxiliary law enforcement officers, and amended Ordinance 10-83 which deeded land at the water plant site to Abel Materials Co.

Apparently, there had been a difference in old maps which the village determined where the land was and that of the company. It involved a drainage problem which James C. Root, village administrator, said would be difficult to deal with.

Root told the council there is a slight change that the village will receive a federal grant by which it will rotate for the future. It will start to be used to start a project, it then continues that the private money is then used to generate more federal money.

He said it would be at least July before the village is notified if it qualifies. The qualifications are very involved he said.

Brown sues for $100,000 after beating

A village employee who claims he was beaten on Feb. 5 while he was in a Mansfield tavern seeks $100,000 in damages from the business, its bartender and bouncer and two persons described only as John Does.

Ted Brown, 25 Sandusky street, alleges in a suit filed by Richard Hauser, Willard attorney who also is Huron county prosecutor, that Paul Carroll, the bartender, attacked and assaulted him, causing bodily injury, pain and suffering. Carroll was aided by the unknown persons, Brown claims.

He further asserts that Carroll has a reputation for violent conduct against patrons of Artis Tavern in West Fourth street and of using unjustified force without cause or provocation.

Brown was treated in the emergency room of Willard Area hospital on Feb. 6 and admitted for further treatment.

The Dorion family will be special guests.

Wayne H. Strine, president of the trustees, is in charge.

PJVS sees closing of cafeteria

Cafeteria operations in Pioneer Joint Vocational school may be halted next year, Jerry Payne, treasurer of the Pioneer Board of Education, announced Apr. 18.

Operations are nearly $30,000 in the red, Payne said.

The board is likely to discuss the situation again next month.

Because of the uncertainty, contracts for five cafeteria workers were not renewed at this time.

Conley arrested on assault charge

BULLETIN

Police Chief Robert Conley, 35, was arrested by Mansfield police Monday evening and taken there. On Tuesday he pleaded not guilty to a charge of criminal assault. He was allowed to go free on his own recognizance for hearing later. Failure to appear will require him to post $7,500 cash bond.

Police Chief Robert Conley was suspended from his post Friday at 7:30 p. m. by Mayor Dean A. Cline because he is alleged to have beaten his estranged wife on the steps of her apartment in Mansfield Apr. 22 at 2 a. m.

Mrs. Wendy Conley, who moved out of the family home in Brooks court after a family spat three weeks ago, was said by Mansfield police to have been grabbed by the ankle, thrown off her feet and beaten with a flashlight by a man wearing a ski mask.

She was taken to Mansfield General hospital, treated and released.

Meanwhile, police summoned to the scene were drawn by a speeding vehicle to which they gave chase, often at speed of up to 100 miles an hour, before losing it in traffic in the city. The license tag number was noted. It was traced to Robert Conley and issued to a black Mustang owned by him.

Conley has so far said he was not on the scene, although he hasn't so far said where he was Friday at 2 a. m., and that he has no reason to believe his automobile was involved. He added he does not know why police at Mansfield suspect he has anything to do with the incident, "unless it is somebody who is mad at me for what I am supposed to have done a long time ago (he was a deputy sheriff for a number of years) or is trying to set me up."

Mansfield police say Mrs. Conley told them she bit her assailant on the hand. Conley is reported to have said he has no scratches or lesions anywhere on his body.

Conley is a 1965 alumna of Plymouth High school. He was named chief by Mayor Cline in July, 1982, as successor to David Gibson, who resigned to return to the employ of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Capt. Frank Hodge has been named acting chief by the mayor, whose statement follows:

"Because of the allegations which have been raised alleging involvement in criminal conduct by Chief Robert Conley, I am herewith suspending Chief Conley from active service as chief of police of the Village of Plymouth, Ohio. In order that an internal investigation be conducted to determine the validity of such allegations and the fitness of Chief Conley to conduct himself in the capacity of chief of police. This action is being taken in the best interests of the village and its police department. In the event that the allegations are found to be without merit, Chief Conley will be reinstated without loss of benefits. On the other hand, if the allegations are supported, a determination of the appropriate action to be taken will be made at a later time. Capt. Frank Hodge is herewith appointed as acting chief of police.

Dean A. Cline"

Garage sales good place to help kids

By AUNT LIZ

Garage sales are springing up again.

It is a sure sign of spring and warm weather, and great for bargain hunters.

Great for housecleaning, too.

It really does take a lot of courage to part with something you have saved for years, thinking you just might use it some day.

It can be a good guessing game to play, too.

Just find someone who has kids a little older than yours, and watch for them to put out a nice bunch of outgrown clothes.

There are a few tricks that can be used if the gal you have your eye on for a nice sale isn't even considering one: suggest you have one together, but don't let her know you are going to be her best customer.

With all the bargains you are going to find, you can start living it up like a queen.

And since this is strawberry time, try this cake. It is a prize winning recipe called Strawberry-Pina Colada, which sounds impressive, but is plain easy.

Combine a two layer package of white cake mix with one package of coconut cream instant pudding. Mix in four eggs, a half cup of water, a fourth of a cup of vegetable oil and third of a cup of rum, dark or light.

Mix it well and bake in three eight inch layers at 350 until a toothpick comes out clean.

Cool a little, then take out of the pans.

Mix an eight ounce can of crushed pineapple, juice took, with ao eight ounce container of frozen whipped topping, thawed, and a half cup of rum.

Spread between the layers and on the top.

Are you wondering where the strawberries are?

They come next to decorate the top, which is to be sprinkled with coconut first.

Dip the strawberries in pie filling glaze and arrage artfully.

With such a dessert, all you need is a sturdy vegetable casserole, which is a good way to start finishing up all the things you canned last summer so you are ready to start in again.

That also takes real courage. A few weeks ago, I broke down and dashawed our last load of zucchini bread, which I was saving like mad for no reason at all.

If you have any left, this is the time to bring it out with the end of your jams and jellies.

How about the last couple of jars of pickles that are still around?

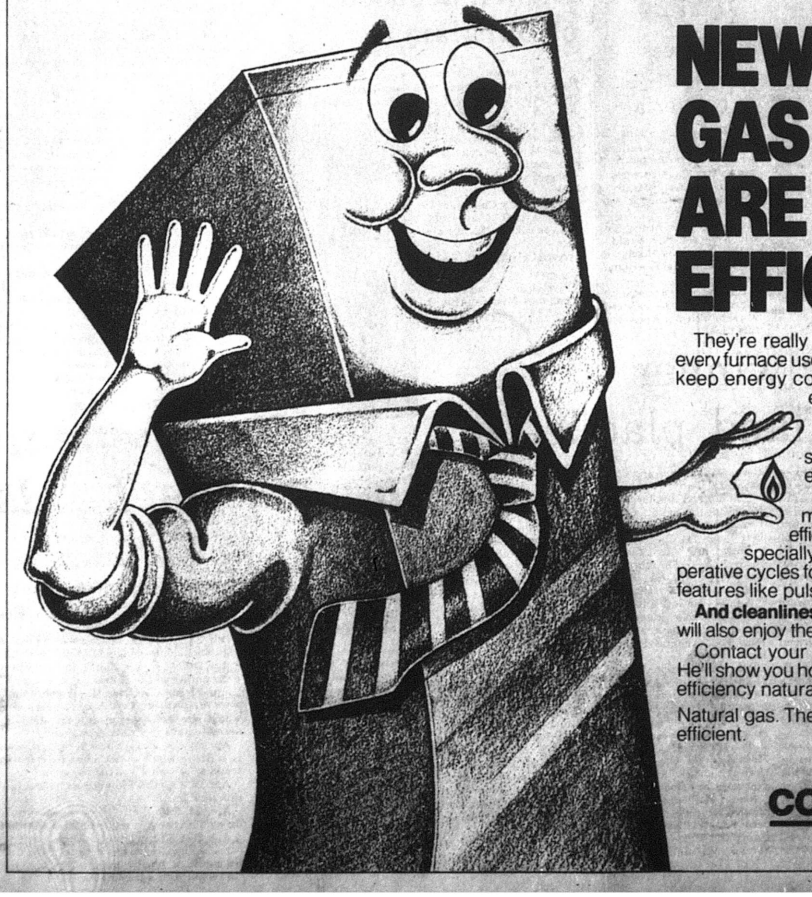

You may have to break down and buy store jars to hold you over until cucumbers are ready, but save the homemade juice you labored over, throw out the juice in the bought jars, and use your own. It is really better. It is amazing how much mileage you can get out of the juice. It can even be used pickling things.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fazio takes exception to editorial of Mar. 24

Sir:

Your editorial comments in the Thursday, Mar. 24 issue of The Advertiser relating to the two letters about "what's wrong" and "what's right" with Plymouth are a little off base. As you indicated, you are constrained to make some observations, based on fact, but I am afraid some of your facts are in error and in need of correction.

First off, to imply that neither of the inditers has ever earned a dime in wages in Plymouth is entirely misleading and wrong. Facts are apparent that you are not aware I was born and raised in Plymouth and during my school days, long before you moved to the area, I did odd jobs to sustain an income that would help defray the expenses of an education and provide a little spending money for my benefit. My folks could barely afford to send eight children to school, let alone furnish a penny for candy or gum that other children were enjoying. To set the record straight, there were numerous jobs I held in Plymouth during my youthful and adult life. While attending school and participating in athletics and other school activities, I was also engaged in delivery of newspapers, care and grooming of lawns and gardens, and under the NRA (National Recovery Act) in the destruction and removal of the old grade school building which entailed the use of hand picks, scoop shovels, and wheel barrows. After graduation from high school my first job was with the then Fate-Root-Heath Co., then shortly after was inducted into the Army to help preserve the peace and liberty of this country. After an honorable discharge from the Army there were few jobs, if any, available in Plymouth or elsewhere so I pursued the only choice I had and that was to apply for work at the old Shelby Depot, later to return to the Fate-Root-Heath Co. for approximately two years. Obviously you ignore the fact that all during this time I am residing in Plymouth, purchased property, regularly paid taxes on two and sometimes three properties, and spent almost entirely all of my income in the village. You ignored the fact that from the year 1960 through 1970 I conducted my own business in Plymouth and served the better part of three terms as mayor.

Secondly, the pension I receive, which you so strongly oppose, was paid for out of my own wages, seven per cent of my gross income for the 31 years as an employee of the federal government, considerably more than the contributions by those covered by social security. The positions I held as a federal employee were not a gift. They were not created simply to provide employment for me. They were positions that would have been occupied by someone else, if not by me, which were necessary to maintain the strength and integrity of this country. To imply that my pension is a gift of the public is an insult. I worked hard for it, contributed to it, and I'm proud to have had the opportunity to serve the public in whatever capacity.

Thirdly, my indictment of factionalism is supported by observation during attendance at activities conducted by different organizations in the community. The fact that members of other organizations were absent from the activities, except for a very few, indicates that each organization or faction is concerned only with their own activity. The attitude tends to be "let the others fend for themselves."

Finally, your comment that I implied there was no rapport with financial institutions was misconstrued. My comments in this regard were to emphasize the importance of a rapport between the village and the financial institutions. What's lacking, however, is public knowledge that the rapport exists.

Making a mockery of the remarks by the "inditers", as you so boldly describe us, is an unwarranted indictment of two citizens concientiously interested in the welfare of the community. Let the facts speak for themselves, without distortion by one who prefers to intervene with unfounded opinions.

William Fazio

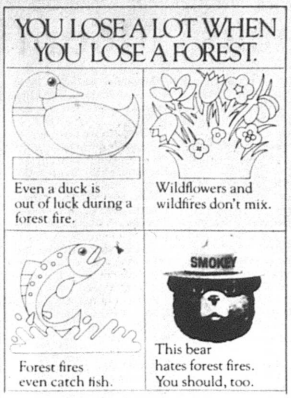

(Ed. Note: To indite means to write. No slur was implied and none should be inferred from use of the word.

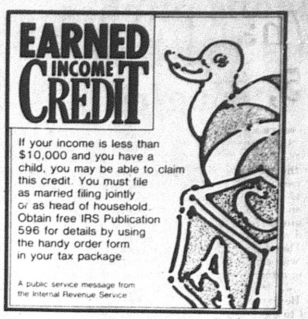

Surely the present inditer, in the face of the public discussion now going on in respect to federal pensions, would not imply that the pension of a retiree is paid wholly by his contributions of seven per cent. Rather, the public, through the general fund of the federal government, is required to pay from $4 to $5 more than the employee into his particular retirement. Whether an employee earns this is for him, in his own conscience, to say. If he considers it a part of his work contract, so be it. Let him take praise for the splendid acheivement he has wrought without benefit of the right to strike that, in this state at least, he now enjoys as a matter of law.

The present inditer's third argument is much shallower than we had hoped or allowed him credit for. "Factionalism" os this sort derives at least since the book of Exodus; Moses encountered it. It's part of human nature, nonetheless, the word has a pegorative connotation that is unfair to the citizenry as a whole.

The safest way to avoid having one's remarks misconstrued is to say what one means, clearly and unmistakably, at the outset.

For the present inditer's information, the editorialist has never repeat never paid less than seven per cent of his net income for a pension.)

Bike-a-thon set May 14 for cystic fibrosis

Central Ohio Cystic Fibrosis foundation will stage a bike-a-thon starting May 14 at 9 a. m. at Shiloh United Methodist church to raise money to help conquer cystic fibrosis.

Chairman of the bike-a-thon will be Dr. C. O. Butner. Dr. Butner will be on hand to welcome participants.

Dr. Butner urges both children and adults to either ride or sponsor a cyclist in the Plymouth-Shiloh bike-a-thon.

"Just come to Shiloh school, Plymouth Elementary, Plymouth Schwinn Cyclery, Dr. Butner's office or call 896-3331 to get sponsor sheets," says Dr. Butner. "Then go to your relatives, friends, neighbors, school mates, and/or co-workers and get them to pledge a certain amount for each mile you ride. The idea, of course, is to get as many sponsors as possible. It's a great way to have fun, and raise money for an important cause."

Registration will begin at 9 a. m. at Shiloh United Methodist church.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

What sort of news does paper like to print?

A reader submitted a piece for publication. We replied, "We really don't like to print material such as this."

To which the reader retorted, "Then what in the devil do you like to print?"

Truth is, we'd like to print news, pieces of information that hardly anybody knows about before publication, of achievement, of award, of honor, of success. Such as this piece below, which we publish today with some pride.

Potatoes, onions given to needy

Again potatoes and onions have been donated to the Salvation Army, Mansfield, for distribution to those in need.

The J. F. Stambaugh Co. gave 300 bushels of onions and Swartz Potato Farm, Shiloh, six and a half tons of potatoes.

But unfortunately, not enough folks acquit themselves by achieving, with honor, by succeeding. Rather, they engage, whether intentionally or otherwise, in activities that bring discredit upon themselves, their families, and the community in which they live. Moreover, these activities often cost the rest of us money. So we're compelled to print that, too.

We hope this satisfies the reader. It satisfies us.

Who Makes The News...
THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?
YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

It is first and foremost . . . YOUR NEWS-PAPER!

The Voice of The Advertiser --

Reasons?

"You are supposed to know what's going on here," the man said Monday night, "so why are there so many houses for sale in Plymouth?"

Response: "There are a dozen reasons, none of which, so far as we can see, is in itself a dangerous trend."

"So what are the reasons?"

"Do you want real reasons or what people perceive to be reasons?"

"If a man who wants to sell his house says he's selling for some particular reason, that's a reason and it's good enough for me."

There followed some time on the telephone, speaking with real estate salesmen, householders whose properties are advertised for sale by realtors, householders whose properties are for sale and not advertised through realtors, and others of experience who ought to know what's going on.

What are the reasons?

"We're getting old, the house is too much to look after, the cost of maintaining it and living in it is more than we can stand on our retirement income."

"The winters are too hard on us any more, we're going to a warmer climate."

"The cost of utilities is too high."

"The time to sell is now, when we can make the most out of a sale. Selling prices will come down as interest rates come down and more houses come on the market."

"Our kids are through school, we've been wanting to move, so now is a good time."

"We have a nice house but we want to have more privacy and not be so close to our neighbors."

"There's nothing here any more. I have to go out of town for what I need or can afford (italics supplied) so I might as well live out of town."

"With the additional five cents a gallon on gasoline, we want to get closer to work and cut down on driving."

Are the reasons valid?

What difference does it make if they're valid, so long as the prospective sellers are prompted by their perceptions to sell?

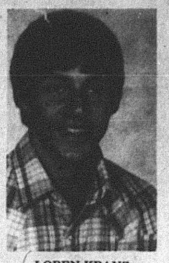

To the statement that "we're going to where there's work," there was no identification of where that may be.

To the statement "the cost of utilities is too high", there was no response to our statement that natural gas costs are beyond local control, by and large, electric costs derive chiefly from the charges made by the manufacturer, and the village is locked in to an expensive water supply contract. Which, of course, does not alter the perception that gas, electric and water costs may be high. Are they higher than anywhere else? It's a question to which we've addressed ourselves for report later.

To the statement that "there's nothing here any more that I need or can afford, there was no response to our question, "Did you personally do anything to encourage continuance or retention of retail outlets that once met your needs?"

We are obliged to add one more "reason": "My kid shows signs of being good in sports and I'm going to get him into a school district where they've got good coaches and a winning attitude."

What can one say?

Truck severs 440-volt line

A light truck driven by Greg A. Fazio, 23, 23 Sandusky street, went out of control at 17 Plymouth street Saturday at 5:55 p. m. and severed a service pole carrying 440-vole current.

The line fell and burned an aluminum storm door.

A tie rod on the truck broke as Fazio was turning from West Broadway into Plymouth street and the vehicle went off course.

$5 rabies shot available Sunday

Reduced price animal inoculation against rabies will be offered Sunday, May 15, in Shelby Fire house and six other Richland county locations by Richland County Veterinary Medical association.

For $5, cats and dogs will be immunized against rabies, cats for one year, dogs over six months but under 12 months for one year, dogs over 12 months for three years.

Dogs must be on a leash and in custody of an adult. Cats must be in a carrying case.

Free pet food for needy started May 1

Effective May 1, Huron County Humane society will inaugurate a program of assistance for the pets of the needy elderly.

The society will purchase dog and cat food to be distributed by the Huron County Services for the Aging, Shady Lane complex, 258 Benedict avenue, Norwalk, Tel. 668-8821.

According to Roselle Ward, humane society president, this is a pilot program, and because the funds of the humane society are derived solely from memberships and charitable donations, Mrs. Ward requests those county residents who wish may make a contribution to this program by sending donations to P. O. Box 631, Norwalk. Because the humane society is a charitable, non-profit organization, any donations are considered tax deductible for federal income tax purposes.

"Our funds are limited," says Mrs. Ward, "and we hope that many citizens will assist us in continuing this program, which we feel is necessary at this time due to the severely impacted economy which Huron county is currently experiencing."

Conley charges to go to grand jury

Is there sufficient evidence to warrant a trial on the issues in the case of Ohio v. Robert Conley, Plymouth's police chief?

A preliminary hearing slated for Friday at 8:30 a. m. before Mansfield Municipal Court Judge Ralph Johns was called off. Reason: Mansfield police aren't quite ready to submit all their evidence before the court. With the acquiescence of the county prosecutor, the evidence will be presented to the June term of the Richland county grand jury.

Some of Conley's subordinates notified Mansfield police on Apr. 22 that they saw Conley's left hand in a contused, bruised and/or lacerated condition on that morning, whereas it was not in that condition the night before, when Conley went off his shift.

On the strength of this word, Mansfield police obtained a search warrant to remove a cast on Conley's hand, applied there on Apr. 22 by a Willard physician after Conley had at 10:10 a. m. reported to the emergency room of Willard Area hospital, which did not treat him. The hospital acknowledges that a Robert Conley sought attention there but declines to state if this Robert Conley was in fact Plymouth's police chief and, since a criminal matter is under study, whether he was injured.

It is understood that the search warrant found Conley's left hand was indeed broken and was in fact contused, and further, that impressions of the wound were taken, together with impressions of the bite of Mrs. Wendy Conley's jaws, to ascertain whether her estranged husband is, in fact, the person who assaulted her; Mrs. Conley asserts she bit the assailant on the hand.

Conley agreed to allow Mansfield police to search his living quarters at 6 South street (he occupies the mobile home formerly occupied by the late Mrs. Alfred Parkinson, Jr.) and his vehicle, a black Mustang, which Mansfield police allege was chased at high speeds through Mansfield on the morning of Apr. 22.

What may have been found, if anything, Mansfield police aren't saying.

The preliminary hearing would have afforded the accused and his attorney, Robert Whitney, Lexington, the county's ace criminal lawyer, an opportunity to appraise the strength of the case against the suspended police officer.

Before the grand jury, testimony favoring the state will be presented under oath. No testimony in support of the defendant will be presented. He will not be present, nor may he be represented by counsel in the grand jury proceedings, which are secret.

Conley is keeping a low profile. He is not much seen in his neighborhood and he does not frequent local businesses.

He is a 1965 alumnus of Plymouth High school, the second of four brothers who were raised in Shiloh.

Conley's successor, Acting Chief Frank Hodge, and the dispatcher, Lisa K. Perdue, told Sergt. James Goldsmith, Jr., Mansfield Police department, on Apr. 22 that they saw Conley's left middle finger bandaged on that day, whereas it was not bandaged the night before.

Hodge's statements to Goldsmith were a part of the latter's request for a search warrant of his hand and premises.

Neighbors are reported to have heard Mrs. Conley screaming on the steps of her Mansfield apartment on Apr. 22 at about 2 a. m. and summoned police. Two officers who responded saw a vehicle in West Straub road near South Main street. They verified through a computer that the vehicle is registered in Conley's name. The car fled at speeds of up to 100 miles an hour, the officers said.

No statement has been made by police as to why Mrs. Conley, who has a young child, was returning to her apartment at 2 a. m., whether the child was attended by another, or where she had been.

Pigeons save transit costs!

By AUNT LIZ

Sometimes this world gets unbelievable.

There are so many odd ball things. Plus people. But what I know takes the cake.

Can you imagine what equipment our country's most important manufacturer of missiles has at its fingertips?

Here they are building things to go out in space for world-wide communicating and for finding any other creatures out there.

Anyone can pick up a telephone, write a letter the ordinary way, but they don't.

Those who work for this outfit most likely are about the smartest people we have around the countryside.

Furthermore, they are being plain economical and have saved thousands.

Unbelievably, they use carrier pigeons to deliver computer printouts and other complicated messages.

The birds fly from Sunnyvale in California to their testing site in the Santa Clara mountains. On time too, no traffic tie-ups.

For years baking and frying were almost the sole methods of cooking, then came the outdoor grills, and broiling was the big thing.

It started with the Chinese whom you must admit must cook with very little, so they had to get as much out of their food as possible.

It quickly spread throughout the Far East and probably the idea reached this country when the Yankee shippers discovered it and came up with the clam bake.

You can just about steam anything. All you need to do is add a little butter and sprinkle some grated cheese over the top when it is finished.

For those who really hate spinach, which is very good for any diet, this is a slightly perked-up version.

Wash and pick over a pound of the stuff. Then mix in a third of a cup of gold raisins, a crushed clove of garlic, a tablespoon of tarragon and a few shakes of ground cloves.

Spinach cooks very quickly with just a little water in the bottom of the pan your steamer sits on, so watch it with an eagle eye.

Attica sets sesquicentennial

(Ed. Note: It seems propotious from time to time to take note of what is transpiring in neighboring towns, both good and bad, or what seems to be good and what seems to be bad. The following is one such effort.)

No public action in Attica or Seneca East Local School district has occasioned such controversy, the consolidation of Attica and Republic-Scipio possibly excepted, as the refusal of the board of education to renew the contract of Deborah Hensley as a first grade teacher. Letters to the editor of the Attica Hub dominate each issue.

On Tuesday, Pioneer Industrial Products marked its 60th anniversary in Attica. It asserts it has always been in the forefront of good industrial relations and cites its record, including: Apr. 13, 1932, adoption of five day work week in place of the old six day standard; Mar. 21, 1946, obtaining priorities to erect 12 houses in Willard and six in Attica to accommodate employees; Jan. 10, 1952, elimination of all time clocks for all employees and adoption of honor system; Jan. 13, 1964, with no reduction in pay, all employees were put on 37½ hour week and 7½ hour wor , day.

New London's hospital, beset by a myriad of problems owing in large part to mismanagement by a term of doctors who engaged in illegal drug traffic (one of them is in a penitentiary in Wisconsin), closed its doors Friday. Reports are the establishment is for sale for $2.2 million.

The Rev. Mark McDonald, director of the MSC center at Shelby, said goodbye. He has been assigned to Columbia.

President Ronald Reagan will visit Ashland college Monday as part of a campaign to raise funds to pay for a library in memory of Rev. John M. Ashbrook, R-Johnstown, who represented this area for 21 years in the lower house.

Editor of the Ashland college newspaper, Theresa Kuhfer, wrote a headline in the Apr. 14 issue which said, "Reagan's coming and we can't even afford the jelly beans". She added, "They don't care if the students are there or not. They want people there who can donate money and bring attention to the school." So far as The Advertiser, no one in Plymouth has received an invitation to dine (at $200 a plate) or hobnob (at $1,000 a head) with the President and Mrs. Reagan on Monday.

That his party needs rebuilding was recognized at Norwalk Apr. 20 by Sen. Paul Pfeifer, R-Bucyrus. He said Governor Celeste quietly restored some cuts to his budget to avoid being embarrassed in July with "a whopping surplus".

A Sandusky man, Bruce Adams, left a pet bird with a Norwalk pet store on Feb. 21 to be bearded for a few weeks. The store lost the bird. The owner sued for $600. He was awarded $200. He's angry.

Toledo TrustCorp, owner of Willard United bank, declared a 45 cents a share dividend and a stock split of 33 1/3 per cent. It is the seventh stock distribution since TrustCorp was organized seven years ago.

Fanny Farmer employees at Norwalk voted to authorize their union to call a strike but they don't plan to exercise the option, they said last week.

Stokely-Van Camp, canners and packers, Norwalk, have agreed to sell their plant there to Oconomowoc Canning co., Oconomowoc, Wis.

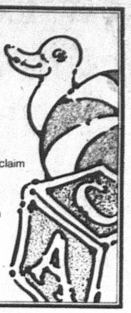

Plymouth's post office was the only federal mail reception place in Huron or Erie county to assure that mail directed to the IRS deposited before Apr. 16 at 7 a. m. would be postmarked Apr. 15.

Lexington Board of Education refused to grant two requests for leaves of absence because, it said, it cannot afford the high cost of unemployment compensation that might have to be paid in 1984 when the substitutes are let go to allow those on leave to return.

The board declined to authorize soccer as a varsity sport at Lexington High school, despite assurances by the Lexington Soccer association that it would underwrite the cost of the coach and referee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

Your article in Thursday, April 28 issue of The Plymouth Advertiser relating to the chamber's recognition dinner has infuriated this writer. Had you attended the recognition dinner you would not have assumed that the recipient of the Carl M. Lofland Award defeated the other two special award recipients. The chamber was not conducting a contest or an election, nor were the recipients in competition with each other. Each is worthy of recognition for having given so much of their time and self for the betterment of the community over a very long period of time. Also, had you been there you would not have ignored the chamber's posthumous awards given in gratitude and appreciation, and so proudly accepted by survivors. It was a night for winners, there were no losers.

Respectfully,

Madeleine S. McClure, President, Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce

(Ed. Note: Mrs. McClure is mistaken.

The Advertiser was represented at the dinner. How else could it have reported the facts?

If it wasn't a contest, why were the votes solicited and counted?

To have recognized those whose contributions in the past were significant, only to be stilled by death, was a noble gesture. There are others who have contributed, including the oldest continuing business in Plymouth, the name of which was significant by its omission, whether accidental or otherwise, and the only flower shop.

Every shred of publicity material submitted to The Advertiser was used in some form, whether during the week submitted or later. It is a fact that the names of the nominees for the Lofland award were published out of town, not even communicated to The Advertiser, Plymouth's only newspaper since 1853.)

A Humanist Manifesto

By CURT SYTSMA

In every age, the bigot's rage
Requires another focus,
Another devil forced on stage
By hatred's hocus-pocus:
The devil used to be the Jew
And then it was the witches;
And then it was the Negroes who
Were digging in the ditches.
The devil once was colored pink
And labeled communistic;
Now, all at once, in just a blink,
The devil's humanistic.

From Bangor, Maine, to Arkansas
To Medflies by the Sea,
The tongues are sharp and hearts are raw
From what has come to be;
A moral chorus sings a song
And strikes an age-old chill:
The humanist is now the wrong
That festers ever ill.

It's hard to prick a bigot's flaws
And that, my friends, is just because
He makes a devil of a group
And then proceeds to wail and whoop
Against the Satan he has made
Until our land is so afraid
Of what he calls the foe
That no one stops to wonder if
The tattler in the sudden tiff
Is not, in point of fact, the taint
Instead of self-anointed saint.
The method is as old as sin,
And yet when sins like this begin,
It's hard to stop the flow.

The humanist must be a fiend
To gall our Falwell so,
But when the diatribes are gleaned
For facts, we still don't know
Just who this "humanist" might be —
A man, a beast or elf.
Indeed, as best as I can see,
I might be one myself.

Since some poor someone always bleeds
When bigots holler treason,
A humanist opposes creeds
And puts his stock in reason;
He holds his faith within his heart,
Where churches ought to be,
And has the strength to know the chart
That maps this complex sea
Cannot be made a simple plan;
Despite the bigot's ravage,
There's gospel in the lowest man
And scripture in the savage.

As best as I can tell, my friends,
The humanistic "sin"
Is nothing but a heart that bends
To let its neighbors in;
It's nothing but a mind that grows
Beyond the cry of treason
To sanctify its sacred chose,
The hallowed gift of reason.

If bending ears to human cries
Or wiping tears from human eyes —
If finding hell in human rot
Or seeking hope in human thought —
If learning grace from human forms
Or spurning hate in human swarms —
Is what is now abhorred,
I'll wear that humanistic creed
Upon my chest where all can read
My dedication to the plan
That man was born to care for man;
I'll wear it proud beneath the sun
And say, when my poor life is done,
That I have served the Lord.

When life becomes a bitter brew
And hatred haunts the air,
There isn't much that we can do
But try to think and care;
it isn't much — it's not enough —
But that, my friends, is why
I'm proud to be a humanist
And will be till I die.

Music, Chandler, Jacobs choose college course

By THE OLD TIMER

Three Jeffs of the Firelands conference are going on in education and in athletics.

His teammate, Jeff Chandler, albeit brutally lamed by a faulty slide into third base in a game against Monroeville that tore the tendons in his knee and out for the remainder of the season, will seek to play basketball at Tiffin university.

Coaching vacancies in the Firelands conference continue to grow in number.

The head basketball job at Black River is open after the resignation of the incumbent, who also has a law suit against the district in prosecution.

The head football job at St. Paul's is open, the incumbent having resigned after some success to go to Lancaster for another post, in part because his wife will be enrolled in Ohio State university.

The athletic director at St. Paul's will join the New London staff. It's understood the job will be assumed by the principal, but there are some coaching assignments filled by the departing athletic director, such as girls' basketball mentor, that will need to be filled.

Will the new NCAA recruiting rules affect the Firelands conference?

Acting out of concern deriving from the Clemson case, among others, the NCAA voted to enforce, after Aug. 1, new rules about recruiting that limit contact with a prospective player to members of the recruiting school's coaching staff. Alumni are specifically forbidden from direct contact with an athlete, although alumna may telephone or write to an athlete.

This may mean a whole new can of worms.

How, for example, can the NCAA guard against a coach who graduated, say, from Tickapooka Tech, seeing an opportunity for his star player to make it on the Tech football or basketball squad, sitting down with said athlete and laying out for him what Tech will do to make his life there easier, more pleasant and more rewarding athletically? Sure, the athlete is as much obligated to reporty the contact as the alumnus. But will he?

The guess here is that he will not.

Of course, it doesn't really matter that much in the Firelands conference because only a handful of athletes, perhaps 10 a year, are involved.

Village escapes damage

Except for a few trees that blew down near Plymouth East road, Plymouth escaped unscathed from the Monday afternoon storm.

A funnel cloud was seen over Celeryville, but it did not touch down. The high winds blew eastward toward Greenwich.

Willard had heavy hail, which damaged parked cars.

Eyesore topic of council

A continuing eyesore behind buildings in the south side of East Main street was discussed Apr. 28 by village council by Administrator James C. Root.

The council was told no occupant of any building will accept responsibility for cleaning up the premises. Occupants are Dr. James Holloway, John Linville, Bob's Cafe, Dr. A. C. Pai Dhungat, Eric J. Akers, The Plymouth Advertiser, Weber's Cafe, Kenneth Springer, David George and Jerry Stackhouse.

Dr. Pai Dhungat and The Advertiser are lessees, the former from Akers, the latter from Richland Lodge 201, F&AM. Stackhouse and George rent to tenants. Springer's building is not occupied.

Mayor Dean A. Cline asked if the businesses could be charged if the village did it.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore suggested the ordinance covering the situation be checked.

Approval wa given at Root's suggestion to hire Charles M. Effinger, Norwalk, to engineer the proposed plans for a new fire house. He will charge $3,412 which was the firmest bid Root received.

Who Makes The News...

THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?

YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

It is first and foremost . . . YOUR NEWS-PAPER!

The Voice of The Advertiser —

What should consumer do now?

In response to other promptings, there is published today a table showing utility rates in 10 communities, including this one.

Every consumer should take note of them.

What should he notice, particularly?

That the water bill here is higher than almost anywhere, for one thing. Whose fault is it? It is everybody's fault. Including this newspaper's, most of all. Because we failed, or refused, or didn't care to, for obvious reasons (because we don't enjoy, at least not any more, being accused of dog-in-the-manger tactics when we disclose improper conduct by elected officials), disclose what was going on before the contract was signed.

Perhaps we wouldn't have been successful, anyway. But the newspaper was told, "You (meaning the wife of the publisher) couldn't solve the problem when you were in charge, now keep your mouth shut while somebody else solves the problem."

And, regrettably, that's what we did.

Much to our regret.

What else should the consumer notice? He should notice that in Willard and Attica, communities served by the same corporation as a vendor that supplies power to Plymouth as a wholesaler, the rate for 640 kilowatt hours of current is only a few cents more tha the rate here. This fact is made the more significant when one considers that the vendor must obtain its capital needs in the open market, at double figure rates of interest, whereas the village, if and when it should need to borrow money, is able to do so at less than double digit rates.

And the consumer should note, elsewhere today, there is published a brief summary of what occurred during the tornadoes of May 2.

Particular note should be taken that some communities were put to great expense to restore electric power.

Twenty years ago, the village was ordered to establish a reserve fund for just such a purpose. Such a fund was indeed set up, although it was never fleshed out with the kind of money needed to keep pace with inflation so that the balance in the fund would always be about 10 per cent of the putative cost of the distribution system. What is that cost? Who knows? It would cost about $6,500 for the village to find out, by hiring experts to survey the system. What yardstick do we have to go by? The last sale of a municipal system in Ohio was that by Caldwell, in Noble county, about 15 years ago. It got 4.2 times the average annual revenue for the three years preceding the sale. What would this mean here? About $2 million. Invested at, say, 10 per cent annual return, the proceeds would more than fund a real police department, for example, but only an example.

What should the consumer do? He should get on the village council collectively and individually to establish such a reserve fund, to raise rates to flesh out the fund, to stand the heat of those who object to higher rates, and to service that is no better than what a private supplier would render, at the same price, and to take steps to do what's best for the village as we approach the 21st century, whether it's to improve the present system at the same or higher rates or to sell it, invest the proceeds, and ease the burden on all of us.

Errata

From time to time, a newspaper makes mistakes. All of them are unintentional. None is more embarrassing than to herald one fave over another's name.

But it happened last week. These two pupils, 11th graders, chosen as alternate delegates to Boys' State by Garrett Riest Post 503, American Legion, were introduced last week under reversed names. The names and the faces are correct now. The Advertiser is sorry this mistake occurred.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Salvatore J. Glorioso was admitted to Shelby Memorial hospital Monday night with chest pains and is under cardiac treatment in intencardiac treatment in intensive care. He umpired a baseball game at Willard Monday afternoon.

Three men at Shiloh indicted

Three Shilohans were indicted by a Richland county grand jury May 3 on charges of aiding and abetting a burglary.

Spat ends in arrest of Shilohan

James Vanderpool was taken forcibly into custody after his spouse, Pamela Vanderpool, told police her husband had been screaming at her and calling her names.

Police said Vanderpool became argumentative and although he was asked to leave five times, he refused to do so. He was eventually taken to police headquarters and there fingerprinted. Police said he then wiped his hands on the back of a Norwalk patrolman, T. E. Jones, the arresting officer. They said Vanderpool had to be forcibly restrained and taken to a cell.

Two get state degree from FFA

Loren Kranz and Jay Adams received the state FFA degree during the annual FFA convention at Columbus Apr. 30.

Kranz, president of the local chapter; Brian Hess, vice-president; Jesse Miller, secretary, Adams and Sherri Bisel, FFA queen, attended. Keith Johnson, adviser, and Mrs. Ralph Bisel accompanied the group.

Kranz played in the state FFA band.

After a half hour executive session of village council Tuesday night, Mayor Dean A. Cline announced that Police Chief Robert Conley is on a "voluntary layoff" as of May 5.

The mayor suspended Conley after an investigation by Mansfield police resulted in a finding of evidence of his involvement in the beating of his estranged wife.

Meanwhile, Capt. Frank Hodges has been named acting police chief.

The council agreed that his salary during this period will be elevated to that of the police chief's.

Councilman Keith Hebble requested members of the rules committee, which he heads, to meet Monday at 7 p. m.

An emergency ordinance which had already been agreed upon to raise the salary of the clerk-treasurer from $7,500 to $12,500 annually was acted upon.

The salary will take effect Apr. 1, 1984, when a new clerk takes office.

Solicitor Richard Wolfe told the council James C. Root, village administrator, has inquired about liability insurance for the village and questioned what coverage is in effect.

Wolfe said a recent decision of the Ohio Supreme Court holds that municipalities are not immuned to happenings that could lead to litigation.

He suggest strongly the council seek expert advice, since it is a rather "ticklish" problem now.

Councilman Roy Barber announced the council was invited to a dedication ceremony in Mary Fate park May 21 at 3 p. m. to name the park pavilions in the name of the late Dominic J. Dorion, who built them.

Barber also suggested to the mayor that someone in the village get going on the paper work required for a number of federal grants which are available.

Utility rates in village in 'middle range'

There are as many reasons for selling a house in Plymouth as there are individual sellers, but a survey conducted by The Advertiser last week shows that cost of utilities can't be an important one.

Utility costs in Plymouth, all of which are controlled by the municipality, fit in the middle to median range among 10 communities surveyed.

Cheapest: Shelby. Most expensive: North Fairfield.

No two communities assess utility rates on the same level or by the same quantity.

For this reason, an average monthly consumption of 640 kilowatts of electricity for a family of four (husband, wife, two elementary school children) was considered as the norm. By the same token, a total consumption of 23,000 gallons of water, which is what such a family in the 10 communities, on the average, consumes in a quarter, was regarded as the norm; but the rates reported in the accompanying table do not reflect the total cost of such consumption oven a quarter because a minimum charge applies either for a month, two months or three months, and usage over that figure is computed on a reduced scale. The figures reported today represent the cost of 23,000 gallons of potable water in one month. Sewer charges are quoted for treatment of 23,000 gallons of water, whether in one month or over a quarter. North Fairfield has no sewer service and no charge.

All of the other nine purchase power from a generating vendor or are served by a private utility.

Willard and Attica are served by Ohio Power Co. North Fairfield is served by Ohio Edison Co. New London is served by Firelands Cooperative Electric. New Washington is served by North Central Electric Cooperative.

Monroeville	$46.63	$43.75	$40.42
Willard	39.33	32.51	47.70
Plymouth	39.10*	63.50	25.60
Greenwich	38.16	53.74	19.40
Shiloh	39.00	10.00	6.00
New Washington	49.81	59.50	2.00
Shelby	31.91	26.36	10.00
Attica	39.33	26.52	39.78
North Fairfield	58.21	34.28	none
New London	48.65	22.65	13.62

Wouldn't you know it? 'Twas woman who finished famous Brooklyn bridge

By AUNT LIZ

This country has a lot of things to see from Niagara to towering mountains.

But one thing, among others, is not a natural sight.

Ross chosen commander by Legion

William L. Van Wagner, a past commander, will serve as first vice-commander, and William Bland as second vice-commander.

John E. Hedeen is the adjutant, Milton E. Mellott the finance officer, James Caudill the sergeant-at-arms, Vance C. Hoffman, Sr., the service officer, Arden Kessler the historian and Glenn Hass the chaplain.

Mrs. Eugene Roeder has been elected president of the auxiliary of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

Mrs. Salvatore J. Glorioso is the vice-president, Mrs. Theodore A. Ross secretary and Mrs. James L. Jacobs, Sr., treasurer.

It took 14 years to build and cost $16 million, which was a lot of money at one time. Now it is a drop in the bucket as such things go.

Probably more people have seen it than anything else we have, and it has probably been "sold" more times than anything else.

It's the Brooklyn bridge, which in its day was called the "eighth wonder of the world". Other bridges have been built, more beautiful, perhaps, and much more elaborate, but when it was started in 1867, it was really something.

Evan a stamp is being issued this month for its 100th anniversary.

There is one little thing about that bridge that hardly anyone knows.

John A. Roebling was the engineer. Somewhere along the line he became completely incapacitated and his wife, who was in on all the planning, actually finished it.

See, women can come in handy at times!

And especially when a family has someone graduating, which will happen soon.

This requires a party for visiting relatives and friends.

It is not too early to start.

There are still a couple of Sundays to plan on, so you have leftovers. Do a turkey one week and a ham the next, and save every little scrap.

They don't have to be used just for sandwiches, they can stuff baby cream puffs, which have perhaps a little more oomph and are so easy.

It doesn't matter which you use, grind it up in a food processor with some celery and onion, then add mayonnaise and any flavorings you want to it. A little mustard with the ham is great, and curry with the turkey.

You want to make that big day as easy as possible for yourself and still keep your kitchen picked up.

There is no reason why you need breakfast and lunch that day.

Put in a single layer in a baking dish.

Mix four beaten eggs, two-thirds cup orange juice, a third of a cup of milk, a fourth of a cup of sugar and a half teaspoon of vanilla (even better if you have the real stuff).

Pour over the bread and refrigerate all night.

When ready to cook the next day, arrange the soaked bread on something for the oven which has a third of a cup of melted margarine on it.

Bake at 400 until golden.

If someone has nicely given you a jar of macadamia nuts, dice a half cup and spread.

Macadamias are a real luxury, and no nut is worth that much. Walnuts or pecans can be used just as well.

"Mom, could electricity hurt you?"

When your children ask about electricity, read them these safety reminders. Let your son or daughter know electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it, or it can injure or kill. Make sure your children know and follow these safety rules:

1. Never fly a kite or model airplane in the rain and never fly one near utility poles. Don't use wire or any metal parts in your kite. If the kite should get caught in a power line, don't try to get it down.
2. Never touch any power line. It could kill you.
3. Don't climb trees near power lines.
4. Don't build treehouses near electrical wires.
5. Don't climb utility poles, towers or other electrical structures.

Who Makes The News...

THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?

YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

It is first and foremost . . . YOUR NEWS-PAPER!

Report card revision set for elementary school pupils

A revised report card for elementary school pupils will be adopted June 13, after Plymouth Board of Education has studied the recommendations of a committee headed by Mark Sheely, elementary principal, and parents and patrons have had input.

The committee's proposal is a mix of the report cards used by Gibsonburg Exempted village and Defiance county districts.

First of all, it takes into account that the schools have adopted a new reader. Progress of pupils with the new series cannot accurately be indicated on the present report card.

Thrust of the proposed card is to provide greater depth of measurement of achievement of pupils, differentiation of measurement for primary (grades kindergarten through three) and elementary (grades four through six) pupils, deeper expression by the teacher of a child's progress and an intermix of attendanace, intermix of attendance, personality and scholastic development in one presentation.

Parents or patrons wishing to examine the proposal or have input into the new report card before it is adopted may call Sheely at his office, 687-6721.

Fly-up set here Monday

Parents and friends are invited.

The Pine Tree troop was organized in the early months of 1923 with Mrs. Earl Heath and Mrs. Harold Jeffrey as leaders.

In April of that year, the Scouts started a local library as a troop project. From the 100 books they collected then, the library has grown to its present size and is now a branch of the Richland county library system.

Bellville school closed by board; wind damage high

To hundreds of Plymouth graduates who followed their teams to Bellville in years past, the Bellville school is sort of a monument.

Because the school can't pass a health and sanitation test, members of the Clear Fork Valley board of education voted, with one dissent, to close the school.

This will result in dual session for the high school, which lies in Route 97 east of Bellville.

The tornado that struck this region May 2 did not alight in Plymouth, giving rise once again to the long-standing contention that "it doesn't ever happen here because we're on the divide". This refers to the fact that the Lake Erie watershed extends to a point about 2.5 miles southeast of Plymouth, although by treaty with Canada it extends to the spire of a Lutheran church in Bucyrus that was blown down by a storm some years ago and never replaced. The village of Shiloh, for example, must have permits to dump effluent into two watersheds, the Lake Erie, through the Black River, and the Ohio river, through the Black Fork.

Whatever other areas were badly damaged. Some automobiles belonging to Plymouth drivers were badly damaged at Willard, where hail the size of golf balls fell for about half an hour. Albert Maki, the head man at Brunswick Defense, told The Advertiser average claim for cars in the parking lot of his establishment is $900. Donald Graham, an insurance agent in Willard, reported he had seven adjusters and over 400 claims within three hours of the storm.

Greenwich was hard hit, requiring overtime by its employees and substantial expense to its utility funds. Which prompted some Plymouth lawmakers to consider what might occur here in the event a catastrophe of like proportions should strike. There is no reserve fund. Although such a fund, equivalent to 10 per cent of the putative value of the distribution system, was ordered by the state board of tax appeals in 1963 as a condition of approval of transfer of funds from the electric to the water account, and indeed such a fund was established, during the Bachrach councilmanic era, the fund was raided and spent to pay other bills.

Heavy damage also occurred in the southern townships of Richland county. The path of the twister followed through Perry, Jefferson and Worthington townships and into the next county.

A tractor trailer rig in Shelby was overturned by high winds, causing about $2,000 in damage.

About 50 electric customers in the North Gamble street area lost service owing to the storm.

The tornado swept across a five mile path in Huron county.

It touched down in Bronson township and moved along Tiger road into Townsend township.

A funnel cloud touched down at Plymouth East and Mills roads and destroyed a trailer at the William Miller property. No one was at home.

Anyone wishing to buy a water tower can probably make a good deal at Shelby, where the council has agreed to sell the tower in Mohican street.

And, as reported elsewhere today, water rates there will rise by 40 per cent on July 1.

Council at Willard, acting under its charter, has acted to restrict rules of access by the public and the media. No longer will the city be required to notify the public or the media of committee meetings. Meetings during which "public disclosure would be detrimental to the city" will be closed to the public and the media. One councilman, Todd Shininger, raised his hackles about the proposal.

City of Mansfield will mark its 175th anniversary next month.

Kim Webber, seventh grader in Ontario school, is the granddaughter of the Thomas J. Webbers and the Francis Millers. An accomplished musician (she plays piano, flute and French horn), she is also an outstanding track and field performer. She's the only member of her class on the junior high school relay squad.

And a 12-year-old Wakeman boy was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way to traffic by state troopers of the Norwalk post. The boy, Shawn D. McCowan, was treated at Oberlin for injuries received when he ran, not drove, into the path of a pickup truck. the truck's driver saw the youth, tried to stop, spun around and hit a culvert.

Hampton throttles Cougars

Rodney Hampton set Crestview down with four hits Monday as Plymouth won a 9 to 1 victory over the Cougars in Firelands conference play.

He struck out 11 and issued six passes.

The Cougars drew first blood with a score in the first and held on until Plymouth tied it in the third and then put together an eight run frame in the fourth.

Guam counted on us.

The rampaging typhoon that smashed Guam on May 22, 1976 isn't on the front pages anymore. But it will be a long time before the people of Guam forget it. And it will be a long time before Red Cross forgets it. Because we were there, too.

Believe it or not, Guam was only one of 30,000 disasters in the last 12 months where we were called on for major help.

Which is the reason our disaster funds are disastrously low. And an important reason why we need your continued support. Help us. Because the things we do really help. In your own neighborhood. And across America. And the world.

We're counting on you.

Harassment claim wins compensation for ex-dispatcher

Mrs. Robert Reed won and the village lost.

A ruling has been made that she is entitled to unemployment compensation from the time she left the employ of the village in July, 1982, until she began working for the Willard Area hospital in December.

She calimed that she had been harrassed on the job as police dispatcher and court bailiff and had been given extra work not connected with her duties.

Judge Vetter, 79, dies at Sandusky

JUDGE ROBERT J. VETTER

Formerly village solicitor here, Robert J. Vetter, retired judge of common pleas court of Huron county, died May 10 in Sandusky Memorial hospital. He was ill 10 months.

The 79-year-old jurist lived in Willard, where he was city solicitor before he was elected probate judge as a Republican in 1947. In 1953 he was chosen judge of common pleas and served in that post until he retired in 1974. His eminent procedure shocked his party. He did so before the end of his term. This permitted Robert W. Smith to succeed to the common pleas judgeship and the Democratic governor, John J. Gilligan, named Thomas Heydinger, a Democrat, to succeed Smith as probate judge.

In later years Judge Vetter served by appointment in Huron county cases and in other courts.

Born in Cleveland, he came to Willard in 1931. He became solicitor there in 1932 and served until 1968. He was mayor there from 1946 to 1947.

A prominent Mason, he was a 50-year member of FOEagles.

He was thrice married. His first wife, Corinne, died in 1970. His second wife, Pauline, died in 1974. His third wife, Myrtle; a son, Jack, Willard; three step-daughters, Mrs. Sally Schenk, Huron; Mrs. Susan Wilson, Carbondale, Pa., and Mrs. Phoebe Cook, Medina; a sister, Mrs. Gladys Flint, Phoenix, Ariz., and two grandsons survive.

The Rev. Arthur E. Pritchep, Hudson, conducted services at Willard Friday at 1 p. m. Burial by Secor Funeral home was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

During the 60 years that the scouting program has existed in Plymouth the scouts have taken an active part in the community.

Their accomplishments include the starting of the public library in 1923, surveying Pioneer Rest cemetery for the Richland County Historical society, planting yellow marigolds, tulips and daffodils at the old water tower for the 50th anniversary of scouting and preparing the original flower beds which are now maintained by the Plymouth Garden club.

They have also made two wooden doll houses and furniture as teaching aids for the Shiloh kindergarten, collected old eye glasses for the Lions club and collected canned food for the ecumenical council of churches for food baskets and toys.

They have cleaned the tennis courts in Mary Fate park, made monthly tray favors for Golden Agers and ornaments for the village Christmas tree. They caroled throughout the village before the holidays.

Their other deeds have been to clean the football field after games, help paint the bleachers, make curtains for the Scout hut, plant flowers at Plymouth Elementary school, sponsor bicycle safety day and making immunization posters for the elementary schools.

As one leader has said, "We do much more than play games, sell cookies and sing."

A small group of past leaders, Mrs. John Hass, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Mrs. Richard Beverly, Mrs. Susan Armstrong, Mrs. Roger Ross and Mrs. Wayne E. Strine, was among the guests for the evening.

The scout program was revived in 1955 by a group of mothers when only one troop led by the late Mrs. David Cook existed.

The program was stronger after World War II for several years before it went into decline. One committee member, Mrs. Robert L. McIntire, is the only one still living here from that era.

She served as treasurer and chairman of the cookie drive and has the distinction of introducing chocolate mint cookies over the protests of some of the other committee members who said they would never sell. Today, along with peanut butter cookies, they are the best-sellers.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

On Saturday

A criticism of small town life is that those who enjoy it seem equally to enjoy tearing down those who try to make it better.

This community has a chance on Saturday to change that pattern. A brief ceremony to dedicate the pavillions of Mary Fate park to the memory of him who built them will be conducted there. It is not so much what is done as that it is done at all, that his friends think enough of him and of his family to make this small gesture to say thank you for what he did.

Does evil come by threes?

There are those who are convinced that evil comes by threes.

And if they're right, he or she who plans the 1984 Memorial day observance had better be careful.

He who planned the 1982 observance was stricken ill on Apr. 27, 1982, and remained hospitalized until June 7. John E. Hedeen substituted for him, arranged a substitute for the guett speaker, who had agreed to come from New York, N.Y., at his own expense as a favor to the planner, and found a replacement for himself to repeat General John A. Logan's General Order establishing Memorial day.

Salvatore J. Gloriosо was assigned to plan the 1983 observance. On May 2 he was taken ill with a corpnary attack and remains in the intensive care unit of Shelby Memorial hospital.

Was short reason for night fire?

Fire of yet undetermined origin destroyed the premises at 39 Bell street occupied by Mrs. Jewell Justice and her two children, who were not at home, Saturday night.

Eighteen firemen battled the blaze from 11:45 p. m., when it was discovered by a colleague, Edward J. Phillips, until 2:30 a. m.

Damage is estimated to be $20,000.

Firemen responded to a mutual aid call with 15 men Sunday at 2 p. m. A defective furnace burner in the residence of David Barnett in Richmond township, near the John F. Stambaugh & Co. farm, caused damage estimated by Willard firemen at $700.

Children playing with matches probably were the cause of a leaf fire at the home of Della Justice, 47 West High street, May 11, police say.

The leaves burst into flame about 11 a. m. A neighbor put the fire out before the fire department could be called.

A neighbor, Ricardo Gomez, who lives at 39 West High street, reported theft of a cablevision box taken from his home between May 10 at 10 p. m. and May 11 at 6 a. m.

Shiloh sets new rules to obtain utility service

Action by an Ohio court requiring municipalities to pay interest after six months on deposits made by utility consumers to obtain service has prompted village council at Shiloh to revise rules for obtaining utility service there.

On recommendation of trustees of public affairs, the council on May 11 ruled that henceforth a new subscriber must:

1. Show a deed to the premises, or

2. Present a guaranty signed by another village subscriber promising to pay any charges for a 60-day period, or

3. Proof of prompt payment of utility charges in the village for the preceding 24 months, or

4. Cash deposit equal to one month's average service, to be repaid to the subscriber after six months.

The council resolved to oppose consolidation of Shiloh's complaint to the Public Utility Commission of Ohio in the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., gas rate case. If Shiloh cannot argue its own case, the village asks that the entire case be dismissed.

John E. Hedeen asked the council why it has not proceeded with storm drainage problems in the vicinity of his property itf Church street. He said his written request to the council had not been acted upon. His intention is to donate the parcel for use as a softball field.

On Tuesday the council and trustees of public affairs met jointly to determine how to proceed against householders not yet connected to the sanitary sewer system.

Shiloh's share of a bill for $3,010 to fight Ohio Power Co.'s rate increase amounted to $24, which was paid.

What words are nasty? Is 'kept woman'?

By AUNT LIZ

We received a listing the other day from the Ohio Newspaper association of words that should never be used in news stories. There are 93 of them.

It has a wide range.

Some of them we all use in our every-day conversation, like dead beat, and peeping Tom; every town has one here and there, and those characters do exist.

What I do not agree about is some of the others, like a "kept woman." Frankly, at the moment I simply do not know one, but if anyone is willing to take one on, I am ready.

There are a few reservations, however, that I would insist upon.

I would want to be assured that I would have crabmeat salad for every lunch and shrimp salad with a dinner, which would be a lovely piece of good beef first sauteed in butter with mushrooms and a dash of onions.

That really isn't too much to ask, but no one seems to be asking, so I am kind of stuck with tasty gooped-up baked beans and wieners. Frankly, I consider them just as good.

Another word that is on this list is brothels. Brothels simply do not exist anymore. Once they were such a part of the social history of this country.

Every town, large and small, had one, and they were rather acceptable because the leading citizens kept them going. Men, of course. The poor wives sat home and, I can kind of guess, carried on out the back door.

These things have never really changed. People are people.

Over the years I have listened to people complain about how the morals of the countryside are going down.

They really aren't.

The same things have been going on for hundreds of years. The characters who settled the Massachusettes Bay colony had their problems. I know of one local family that descended from that colony, and it had one little character who must have been really good looking and got around the countryside back in the 1620's.

He finally settled down with a nice Indian gal, raised a good family and died at about 80. This is all after they got completely thrown out by the Puritans in the Bay colony because he was a bad guy who was living it up on something he discovered called "firewater".

When I read this family history, my first thought was, this guy is great, everyone should be proud of him. He probably did more to maintain peace with the Indians than most and kept his scalp where it should be, on his head.

This is not exactly an old recipe for anything like "firewater", but is different and makes enough for a crowd.

Mix a package of the two quart size of lemonade mix with one cup of sugar and three and a fourth quarts of water.

Add the bananas, then a thawed six ounce can of frozen orange juice concentrate and a 46-ounce can of pineapple juice and chill it.

She has served on the nursing staff of the hospital for 25 years and was presented with a pewter oil lamp.

Who Makes The News...

THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?

YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

It is first and foremost . . . YOUR NEWS-PAPER!

FC star completes season with .250

By THE OLD TIMER

Doug Fidler, certainly one of the Firelands conference's outstanding athletes of the last decade, has just completed his sophomore year in Ashland college. Though felled by serious illness in the winter, he recovered to win a starting role on the Eagle baseball team.

It was a disappointing season for him. He batted .250, about 65 points below his average as a freshman, and his team didn't win so many games.

He plans to report for football practice in August. Meanwhile, he will resume summer employment at Pepperidge Farms.

Mary Lou Briner, perhaps Plymouth's leading girl athlete not competing in track and field in the past five years, is home for the summer from the College of Marietta, where she not only played basketball but started on the softball team. It also was less than eminently successful, but with only a handful of upperclass players, the Marietta team is looking ahead toward better times.

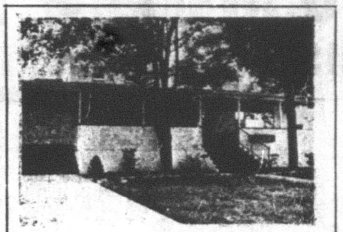

Eric Hedeen will coach a Lou Gehrig team in Plymouth during the summer. The team will play Tuesdays and Thursdays, home and away.

How will court rule on judge?

Whether Judge Robert Smith may continue to adjudicate cases in Huron county common pleas court is a significant question in Norwalk these days.

An alert newspaper reporter found an obscure law that requires a newly elected judge to take his oath of office within a prescribed number of days after election. Apparently Judge Smith did not do so. Clark Hunter, the clerk of courts, who's on the other side of Judge Smith's political fence (the judge is a Democrat, Hunter a Republican), says he delivered notice of the judge's election to him in timely fashion. The judge doesn't recall that this in fact occurred.

What it's come down to is that technically Judge Smith is ineligible to adjudicate cases in the court of common pleas as of Saturday. A law suit has been filed, in which the county Democratic chairman, John Allton, also an attorney, is a party, to seek to resolve the issue.

If the law suit is unfavorable to Smith's contention, it's presumed Gov. Richard Celeste will appoint him to the unexpired term and Smith will need to be elected in his own right next year. Whether he'll be opposed is problematical. Last time around he wasn't.

Joe DeRose, principal at Republic, has resigned to accept the post of superintendent of Evergreen Local School district in Fulton county.

Thirty residents of the Seneca East district attended a meeting May 9 to present petitions bearing 344 signatures expressing disapproval of the board's refusal to rehire Miss Deborah Hensley.

Meanwhile, at Loudonville, a full blown dispute arising from the refusal of the board of education to reemploy a junior high school teacher and coach, also a female, now involves the American Civil Liberties union, which alleges in legal action that teachers who are graduates of fundamentalist Bible college are preferred by the board, that Bibles are distributed to pupils, and that other violations of the Bill of Rights relating to freedom of religion and separation of church and state occur repeatedly. The president of the school board, who is the subject of a recall petition, and the superintendent, J. Clark Lees, heatedly deny the charges.

Sewers in the west side of Ontario moved a step closer last week. Front footage cost will be held to $9. Residents will be assessed at that rate and allowed to pay it off in 10 years.

Problems in Clear Fork district at Bellville continue to mount. The superintendent, Dale Bowman, told the board of education last week that cost of roof repair will be $29,700, that ceilings need to be repaired to the tune of $7,000 and all materials containing asbestos need to be replaced at a cost of about $30,000.

Meanwhile, the board is considering restoration of four athletic activities suspended two years ago. These are boys' and girls' tennis, golf and cross country.

Frank H. Burrma, Celeryville grower and civic benefactor, left an estate of $388,372, Huron county probate court reports.

James S. Lacey, a welfare recipient who lives in Greenwich, figured he wasn't getting his due. So he took the welfare estblishment to court in a class action. It didn't get much publicity at the county seat but he won and a journal entry saying so has been made.

Some have suggested that ESPN, which will film the drag races at Norwalk for subsequent telecast, ought to send a crew to Willard to catch the action when George Gaich, a retired teacher who won election to the board of education, takes on the superintendent, James Salisbury. One would be foolhardy, is the word from Willard, to invite the two to break bread.

Another administrator who is under fire, Philip Slaymaker, managed a raise of $1,000 a year from Norwalk Board of Education, over the stoutest objections of Robert Germond, a board member.

The raise was smaller than the four per cent accorded other administrators.

Slaymaker's contract expires July 31. He came from Wellington. Last year Germond demanded Slaymaker's resignation in a dispute over the hiring of two teachers.

Erie County Medical society has arranged a scheme by which unemployed whose medical and hospital coverage has expired can receive free treatment at Providence hospital in Sandusky.

To be eligible, an applicant must reside in Erie county, have been involuntarily unemployed on or after Dec. 31 and have been out of a job for six months continuously. They must be uninsured for medical expenses and ineligible for public assistance programs such as Medicare, Medicaid or veterans' benefits.

Barber slept, car hit tree, barber woke

Stephen Erndt, Mansfield, escaped injury when his van went out of control Saturday at about 8:30 a. m.

PARENTAL GUIDANCE.

Unfortunately, natural gas is invisible. And by itself, natural gas is odorless. That's why we add a distinctive smell before it enters your home. For your protection. Although natural gas leaks are uncommon, we add that smell so you'll be able to recognize them should one ever occur. There are other recognizable signs, too. And it's important that you know them, and know what to do should you spot one.

Common signs include: A smell of gas inside or outside. A hissing noise. Blowing dirt. Bubbling water over a submerged pipe. Or dying vegetation around service lines.

If you smell gas in or around your home: 1. First check to see if a pilot light or burner may be out. 2. If not, and you still sense a leak, call your gas company. Be aware the source of a gas odor could be external—gas from service lines or street mains that could migrate into your premises through walls or drain lines.

If you are inside and the odor is strong: 1. Open doors and windows. 2. Shut off gas appliance valves or meter valve. 3. Don't use matches, electric switches or appliances. 4. Leave the house and call your gas company from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

If you are outside in an open area: 1. Eliminate, if possible, potential sources for ignition and leave the area. 2. Call your gas company from another location.

Columbia Gas is concerned about your safety, and we're proud to say calls reporting leaks are few. If you or someone in your family isn't familiar with the smell of gas, call your Columbia Gas office and ask for a scented folder. Together we can keep your natural gas service safe and efficient.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

Are data of any use?

Anyone whose interest in who he is and where he lives and how living is there has a proper interest in the returns of the decennial census, which was completed in 1980, almost three years ago.

It is depressing, to say the least, that so much of the data that was assembled at that time has not been made available to the public. Presumably, the Bureau of the Census will in time publish these data so that demographers, planners, economists, community managers and business people can utilize them for the purpose intended. But that does us but little good now.

Nevertheless, we have been active in searching out the data.

Time was when one could obtain for himself, through his Congressman, a free copy of the data. Not very many asked for them, their cost wasn't all that great, and Congressmen were glad to oblige. Some of them even stamped "This document provided by the courtesy of Rep. Soandso" on the cover.

No more, alas. Some repositories of the data have been declared to be open during normal business hours to any resident who may wish to consult the data. The nearest ones are in the libraries of Ashland college, Heidelberg college at Tiffin, Oberlin college and the city of Marion.

Some of what you will find is worth considering at this time of year, when, classically, folks think of moving.

The official population of Plymouth in 1980 was 1,939 persons, a decrease of 54 persons from 1970 but up from the 1,882 persons counted in 1970. During the 10-year period between 1980 and 2980, the Richland county side of the village lost 211 persons (please don't ask us where they were housed in 1970; we frankly don't know!) and the Huron county side gained 157 persons (we know where they're housed). So in 1980, Richland county population was 970, Huron county 969.

Huron county's population had grown from 49,587 in 1970, Richland county from 129,997.

There were 680 households in Plymouth, of which 678 were white and six of Spanish origin. A total of 1,939 persons lived in households as families, of which 1,924 were white and 19 Spanish.

And there were 461 married couple families and 51 families with only a female as head of the household.

As more data become available, we shall seek to interpret what they mean.

What these data mean is obvious.

It will become more obvious when the data respecting income level is applied to the population.

The Census bureau doesn't make it easy for communitites of under 2,500 persons, but it can be done. And we have done so.

We suggested only the other day that this sort of thing ought to be at the fingertips of the village council and those who are engaged in planning, not to mention those whose duty it is to infuse money into the community to provide its needs.

And we were told, "Don't waste your time? They don't want it, and most of all they don't know what to do with it if they do have it."

It is still hard, after 29 years, for us to accept that.

Ohio denies Reed claim for benefits

An order handed down May 2 by Charles W. Kohler, referee, Ohio Bureau of Employment Benefits, contradicts claims by Mrs. Robert Reed, Plymouth route 1, that she will receive unemployment benefits as a result of termination of her employment by the village.

Mrs. Reed represented last week that because of her claim of harassment on the job, an earlier decision of the Bureau on Oct. 26 was overturned and she would receive benefits.

Kohler's findings on appeal state "It is obvious the claimant had other alternatives to quitting her employment. Although the claimant may have had valid personal reasons for quitting her employment, the reason for quitting does not constitute just cause for quitting work within the meaning of Section 4141.29 (D) (2) (a), ORC. The referee must hold that the suspension of benefit rights was properly imposed by the administrator".

Mrs. Reed asserted in her initial claim she performed but did not enjoy searching of female prisoners as ordered by police officers, that taking statements and complaints of individuals was not part of her duties, that she did not like making decisions as police dispatcher as to whether to send a police vehicle in response to a complaint, that her job contained too many responsibilities and did not include pay for overtime, and that she did not refuse to work overtime.

For Judge Smith —

Ruling favors job retention

A ruling by Ohio's Supreme Court reinstates Judge Robert W. Smith as common pleas judge of Huron county.

The ruling was handed down May 17.

His status as judge was challenged by Clark Hunter, clerk of courts, who said Smith failed to take his oath of office within the time period specified by law.

The court said Smith is the duly elected judge of the court and dismissed other parts of a suit filed by Smith's friends that sought to prevent Gov. Richard Celeste from appointing a successor.

Fire quelled

Plymouth firemen answered a call Saturday at 9:20 p. m. to the Bachrach property in Opdyke road.

A bonfire had blazed out of control.

Absentee ballots available

Absentee ballots are now available at the Huron county board of elections, Norwalk, for the June 7 special election for those living on the Huron county side of the village.

The deadline to use the ballot is June 4 at noon.

A registered voter in the village is entitled to vote by absentee ballot for the following reasons:

He is over 62 years of age; he will be absent from the county on election day; he will be confined to a hospital; he is a service man or spouse or on active duty with the organized militia; he is personally ill or physically disabled; he is confined to a jail, under sentence for a misdemeanor or awaiting trial on election day.

All ballots returned to the election board office by the closing of the polls on election day are eligible to be counted.

Footpads make off with cash at Shiloh

Footpads made off with about $200 in quarters from the Shiloh pool hall Friday night.

Louis Lemaster, its owner, told sheriff's deputies the money was taken from eight arcade machines, two pool tables and a juke box. About $39 worth of candy, potato chips, soft drinks and candy bars was also taken, he said.

Entry was made by prying open a rear door.

A sheriff's deputy on routine patrol discovered early May 18 that a lock was pried from a door into the building in East Main street.

A survey showed some money and liquor had been taken, estimated value of which is $900.

Thirty used 12-volt storage batteries were taken from Glen Surplus store east of Shiloh between May 16 at 6 p. m. and May 17 at 9 a. m.

Dog tax device of William Pitt; it's time to think of watercress

By AUNT LIZ

Spring brings out a lot of things besides flowers.

People become a little weird, especially on one of their first really nice Saturday nights.

We have all seen it happen. It also brings out every dog in the neighborhood.

Call it friendliness after being cooped up all winter, they sometimes have that glint in their eye.

Once we had a lady cocker and news got around town and her adress. I would come down in the morning, and there would be about 10 dashing looking fellows lined up in our backyard. Then word got around that she wasn't a real lady after all, and they left her flat, when she really wanted to play with them. This hurt her feelings like mad.

Don't ever underestimate our furry friends.

They pay taxes too.

The whole idea goes back to William Pitt, when he was the prime minister of England.

In 1796 England was carrying on a war with France (as usual) and money was needed badly, so he came up with the idea of taxing dogs. Somehow it stuck.

It not only raised the money but also determined who owned the dog, which was going after sheep and biting postmen.

It has to grow in running water, and if you know where there is some, don't tell anyone except me.

Years ago a bunch of us had a good source, then it vanished. At first I thought someone had simply pulled it out, roots a :d all, instead of cutting it off. Then someone else thought it had been killed by the run-off of nearby ponds, which had been treated with weed killers. Anyway, it's gone, and so are our tasty little butter and cress sandwiches.

It's an apricot gelatin salad that is different.

Drain, cut up and then chill a No. 2½ can of apricots.

Dissolve a six ounce package of orange gelatin in two cups of boiling water, add the fruit juices and let stand until half set. Then fold in the fruits and a cup of baby marshmallows. These are not really necessary but kids love them.

Pour into a large glass baking dish and chill.

Just before serving, a topping can be added if you want. Any kind will work.

You don't need to be a weather expert to predict your electric bill.

Every month you get an electric bill. And every month it's different. Because your electric usage varies with the changing seasons.

Usually, it's up in the winter, down in spring, up again in air conditioning season, and down again in fall.

So how can you put together an intelligent household budget if you can't predict what your electric bills will be?

Switch to our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we'll bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average yearly electric usage.

Your account will be reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And, at the end of the twelfth month, you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Want to smooth out the ups and downs in your electric bill and take the guesswork out of your budget? Get on the Equal Payment Plan.

Shiloh alumni banquet Saturday

Sir:

I am writing in support of the piggyback sales tax. At one of the hearings held in March the question was raised, "How many in attendance would get something out of it?" I feel that all Richland county residents will benefit from the available services.

We live in the country, I want deputies to make road patrols. We are property owners, we want the auditor's office to process our taxes in a timely manner. I am concerned about education, schools need the moneys due them quickly. I believe in the cooperative extension service and the educational programs it makes available to adults and youth. I spend money and, yes, I will be paying slightly more for items.

I feel that we must pay for the services we expect. The permissive sales tax is a fair tax. It does not apply to necessities such as food (except in restaurants), shelter, utilities or gasoline. Much of the tax will be paid by persons living out of the county who use our services. And, most importantly, this is tax money that will remain in our community.

Yes, everyone is affected by this tax. Consider this issue carefully and vote for Richland county.

Sincerely,
A rural resident

CFHS pupil hero on prom night

Philip Hicks is a 12th grader at Clear Fork High school. On prom night, which was May 14, he dressed himself in his finest bib and tucker and set our for the party.

En route, he encountered a car in the southbound lane of Route 13 engulfed in flames. A woman was screaming to draw help to extricate her children from the car.

He stopped. The children's father handed him the children, aged six, five and nine, and he took them to safety. Then he notices a teenager standing at the car who was heavily burned. He assisted the youth and when he was assured that others had the situation under control, he went on to the prom.

Guests there noted there was blood on his shirt.

They asked him why. And he said he had had a little problem but that it didn't amount to much.

Thomas Gaus, head basketball coach and athletic director as well as assistant principal of Mapleton High school, is the new principal of Crestview High school. He succeeds Gale Porter, whose contract was not renewed.

Gary Reynolds, who was assistant superintendent of Ottawa county schools, is the new assistant principal and athletic director at Ontario High school. He was successful among 77 candidates, among whom one local one, who survived until the last five.

Fishermen who use gasoline motors won't be allowed to do so on the New London reservoir. The reservoir control board rescinded an earlier action and voted 5 to 1 to enforce that rule.

New London's library plans a major expansion but doesn't yet have cost estimates or other data until an architect can be chosen. The library board apparently intends to fill some of the void caused by the closing of the hospital by expanding services, including computer orientation, medical programs to encompass blood pressure, CPR and such, senior citizen programs, child care programs and other activities.

Gregory Kibler and S. J. Kibler & Bros. Co. have donated a tract of land at New Washington upon which Buckeye Central Boosters club will raise a new athletic complex. The gift was made in memory of Gregory Kibler's father, Jack Kibler.

Crestline intends to make it possible for tennis to be played at night on municipal courts, but it won't be during 1983. The program may be in place by May 30, 1984.

Mapleton victory result of errors

The Mounties scored two runs in each frame on a safety and two errors.

Whatever your time of life...

Social Security protects you.

That's why your Social Security Card is important to you. It answers the call in case the alarm rings for four basic needs. If you are disabled, it pays disability benefits. If someone you love and depend on dies, it provides survivor benefits. When you retire, Social Security benefits help you enjoy the things you worked so hard for. And when you reach 65, or you've been getting Social Security disability checks for at least two years, Medicare helps pay the hospital and medical bills.

If you have any questions about your Social Security protection, call your Social Security Office. It's listed in the phone book under Social Security Administration.

Graduation? Weaken, not kill three major activities

Baseball will lose the leading batter and pitcher, the first line catcher, the first baseman and the third baseman, but Coach David P. Dunn thinks he can replace them with others who have eligibility remaining.

The basketball team seems least hurt by graduation. Craig Thornsberry and Greg Polachek are the only starters leaving. Jeff Jacobs was injured and forced to retire at the first of the year.

In football, losses are not numerous but cannot be minimized.

Jacobs, when he was healthy, was a suitable running back and quarterback. James Will is the best placekicker Plymouth has had for some time. Plachek was the center, a sound player on defense and the punter. Rick Hawkins played end. Bob Jamerson was useful in the interior line. Plymouth's weakest place.

It won't be easy for the Big Red to be competitive in the Firelands conference right off. The record of the baseball team, in its first season, was 9-and-3, not bad for a rookie. One of the victories was over the league champion, Edison.

JEFFREY SLAUSON

First ceremony for principal here Sunday

First Plymouth High school commencement for Jeffrey Slauson, who succeeded James R. Craycraft as principal of the institution in the beginning of the year, after Craycraft resigned hurriedly to take the superintendent's job in his home district, Ridgedale, in Marion county. will be Sunday.

He approaches the event with some relief: the Slausons have at last sold their house in Norton, whence he came, and can now channel their funds into a single household.

The Slausons live in Willow court.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

What should voter do on Tuesday?

For the fourth time, village council will submit on Tuesday a fresh tax levy to fund police expenses.

When the council opted to do so, it had no idea that a crisis would develop within the department that, until it is resolved, ties the council's hands and paralyzes proper administration of law and order.

Even if an indictment is not returned, there is some question whether the accused ought to be restored to duty.

One would be foolish to conclude that some voters will not go to the polls on Tuesday with thoughts of the conduct of the third police chief in village history fresh in their minds. But it is worth remembering that on two occasions when the first police chief was on the job, voters turned down a levy to fund police protection. It may fairly be argued that voters here do not discriminate against the person of the police chief but rather how he shall be paid, and by whom, and to the extent that they directly control the access to public funds, how much.

And one would be equally foolish to conclude that the economic situation locally will not prompt some voters who go to the polls Tuesday to refuse to support more taxation. Their reasoning is that "we have a tough time as it is, we can't afford more taxes."

That revenues from the village income tax will drop severely goes without saying. It's no secret that no policeman would have been paid in the last several months without allocations of income tax money.

And there are some, among whom count us, who resent that they are required to shoulder two burdens: the local real estate tax and the income tax, whereas our next door neighbor pays one tax only.

The argument is that if the police levy of five mills is approved, producing about $50,000 in fresh revenue each tax year, the capital improvement fund will benefit.

So far as we are informed, no specific requests for capital improvements have been filed with the county board of taxation. Which is not to say that, if the levy should be approved, it would take much time to construct a program involving expenditure of $50,000 in capital improvement funds.

Police costs are budgeted at about $115,000 a year. It is not suitable to compare oranges with apples and it will serve no useful purpose to compare costs of police protection here with those elsewhere. The question of quality, of availability, of area to serve, of population numbers and density of population, of presence of sources of generation of matters requiring police attention arises.

To be fair about it, one could say that Tuesday's issue is chiefly a bookkeeping issue. The quality of police protection won't improve if the levy is approved. The amount of police protection won't improve if the levy is approved. Neither will it diminish if the levy is disapproved.

So the voter needs to consider whether he trusts the council to make the proper decisions, whether in a week, a month or several months, with $50,000 in new money for capital improvements (always assuming the amount of money collected by the income tax does not further decrease, which is in itself a bald assumption) a suitable and viable proposal to spend the funds, and whether the benefits he is likely to derive from the expenditure of those capital funds are sufficient to warrant paying $25 a year more in real estate tax.

Fourth time around —

Five mill levy to fund police on Tuesday ballot

A tax levy of five mills to fund police protection will again be submitted to electors of the village during the primary election Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Signs are that a small turnout will be registered, owing to the absence of other issues on the ballot and no candidacies.

The levy would produce about $50,000 a year.

If it is approved, it will free that amount now diverted from the proceeds of the village income tax for other purposes, chiefly capital improvements, none of which the council has specified nor otherwise identified in budget requests.

The levy has been defeated before, albeit in other forms.

Its defeat on Nov. 2, 1976, by 190 favoring to 336 opposing, was its heaviest. By the time it was submitted again, on Nov. 4, 1980, opposition dwindled. Only 192 ballots were cast against the levy, opposed by 144 ballots favoring.

The present proposal is No. 4.

Whether the levy will receive support on Tuesday's election seems affected by three circumstances:

1. The generally weak situation in the local economy, with relatively high unemployment, many householders facing the prospect of unemployment benefits expiring and no immediate sign of improved turnover in Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

2. The fact that the incumbent chief, Robert Conley, is udner suspicion of felonious conduct in connection with the beating of his estranged wife at Mansfield.

3. A residue of sentiment by taxpayers who are employed locally that they are shouldering an unfair tax load because they are compelled not only to pay real estate taxes but also village income taxes, which the villager who works out of town need not pay.

Councilmen state that if the levy fails, no reduction in police protection will occur.

"We will continue with what we have and seek to finance it as we have been doing," says Councilman G. Thomas Moore.

Campaigning in favor of the levy by village officials has been minimal.

Their request was approved, to the chagrin of Strine, who said that the zoning ordinance and a previous trailer ordinance were not being strictly adhered to.

Village to join consortium to fight ColGas

Plymouth will join other municipalities served by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., to negotiate rates as a group, village council decided May 24.

The resolution introduced by Council nan Keith Hebble was passed with hardly any comment except for Councilman G. Thomas Moore, who said that in the long run Plymouth will be better off if it is part of a larger group in obtaining better rates than trying to do it alone.

"It may be that our rate might be a little high to start with," he said, "but in the future it will pay off."

The only other business discussed at the short meeting, part of which was taken up with an executive session with Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, and John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, was that of the possibility of hiring a person to deal only with obtaining various state and federal grants.

Hebble suggested it because it is time consuming. James C. Root, village administrator, has been attempting to do the work along with his other duties.

The rules committee, headed by Hebble, will investigate the matter further before any action is taken.

One can always rely on USG for good reading matter

By AUNT LIZ

You name it.

Our government prints it.

In all the goopy mail we get everyday, something really nice surfaced: a booklet from the United States Government Printing Office.

For years we were on their mailing list. I would order here and there and had some real gems. Dumb things like history, which I was interested in.

Once they put out one little deal with the history, which I deal with the history of photography, which was terrific.

The things about it all is that these publications are written by real experts, and very cheap for what they have in them.

Subjects range from anything you can think of. The historical ones are really good and should be invaluable to high school libraries.

In this last catalogue we got is something really great for people trying to trace down their families. People are aware that they can write for information about marriages, births and deaths, but simply do not know where or how. This booklet does it by state.

I cannot recommend it more highly, but I do object to one title they ave listed: "Putting Women in Their Place". They really didn't mean it at all, because it is a rather scholarly study of the role of women in our changing economy.

Then there is another one. Of 54 pages, I think they could have saved a little of our tax money and left them out. It is called "Where Have the Farm Lands Gone?"

Everyone knows where, they became popular golf courses.

Someone in Washington will probably slaughter me for this, but his is where you write for their listings: Supt. of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Dept. 33, Washington, D. C. 20402.

They even do cookbooks. One is great for large group cooking. It's the Armed Forces Recipe Service, 18004 of them designed for at least 100 people. They also do one on cooking for two, which is more our spread.

There is something about cooking for two: you simply do not have to worry that kids aren't getting what they should have in a meal. We can have a meal of just pasta and dessert or a bowl of soup and a sandwich. It just could be that we may drop from malnutrition, but it is easy and darn good.

A nice friend keeps me supplied with coupons she cuts out. Of course, I am well aware that her daughter gets first pick, but the other day she included a little recipe booklet about English muffins. I didn't realize how really handy they can be. My idea was to stash them under the broiler buttered, when golden, take them out and plain swear jam on them.

You can put any topping on them, and the thing is that they are much more sturdy than a slice of bread. There is substance, and that is the difference. It fills up tummys.

Sir:

The police chief and members of the department are asking the citizens of the Village of Plymouth to go to the polls on June 7, 1983, and vote in favor of the five mill levy. The levy money that will be generated by the levy will be used to support the police department and to relieve the capital improvement fund.

Approximately nine months ago the citizens of Plymouth showed by the petition that was signed that they were in favor of keeping their own police department. If this is true, then the police department is urging the voters on June 7 to vote Yes in favor of the five mill levy. The police department will try to insure the best protection for all village residents.

Again we urge you to vote Yes.

No decision handed down in Weber case

No decision was taken Tuesday night by the village planning commission on the application of Weber's Cafe to expand.

The cafe had applied for a permit to remodel the adjoining room of the tavern so it could be used as it was in the past. For the last six months or so, it was rented to Councilman G. Thomas Moore for storage space.

After the cafe applied for a permit, it was turned down by Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine, who was then the deputy zoning inspector. Strine listed various reasons, including compliance with state building and fire codes, but mainly that the use of the building was being changed.

Forrest Strohm, Shelby, who is selling the business to Donald Foreman and William H. Goth, contended the space was merely going back to its previous use. Foreman and Goth said their hands are tied so far as any building codes are concerned if the village does not grant the permit.

The cafe may appeal the decision and has turned it over to its attorney.

Foreman pointed out to the commission that another local business opened a game room in a former television store in Sandusky street and apparently did not seek a permit.

Mayor Dean A. Cline suggested that Jack Laser, the zoning inspector, reinspect

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Cheerleader? Not always!

No honest newspaper would be caught dead under the accusation that it was, or is, or will be a cheerleader for its town at any cost. And this one is no exception.

For a little over 29 years we have initiated some programs, fanned them into flame, and when they were burning we turned our efforts elsewhere. Is it our fault that they flickered out? When there were other fires that we thought were worth stimulating, we stimulated them. When there were some that we thought were unworthy of our town, and therefore of our efforts, we never, repeat never, said so publicly, in print. But it's true that we didn't blow as much breath on those fires as on others.

And that's the way it has to be. The easiest way to get the newspaper's support is to treat it like a good neighbor, to trust it with your keys, to rely upon it to call the firemen if your house burns, to serve it the first piece of the fresh pie, or at least no later than another neighbor. Any newspaper worth its salt responds to that kind of treatment. And just once in 29 years we'd like to enjoy it.

A question that's arisen a thousand times in the past 25 years was answered again during Shiloh's village council meeting May 25.

When a householder or resident makes a complaint, particularly to a councilman, who is responsible for resolving it?

The answer: "Complainants who allege wrongdoing should go to the village office and swear to a formal complaint with Mrs. Kenneth Shaffer in the clerk's office," says Mayor Francis Gowitzka. "She will see to it that the deputy sheriff and the accused receive a copy of the complaint. It is the deputy's duty to enforce the law."

The question was broached by Councilman Delmar Nesbitt, who referred to such complaints as repair work on cars parked in the public streets, parking over the two hour limit and such.

Other councilmen pointed out that while some merchants complain about violations of the two hour parking limit, they are among the violators in some instances.

Machine kaput, Mrs. Hedge fills in!

It must have been pure dedication to her job!

When the village billing machine broke down last week, Mrs. Judy Hedge, utility clerk, spent almost a week doing the bills by hand until the Burroughs service man returned from vacation.

She discovered the bills she had already done on the machine had the wrong electric charges on them so she had to refigure each one.

Ants in your kitchen? Take heart! Set a trap!

By AUNT LIZ

It is a real joy to win a battle.

And I think I have.

For the last few years we have had large, black ants roaming around the kitchen counter. Not every day, and maybe just one.

Better housekeepers than I have had them, too. I can understand the little red babes, and what can attract them, and thank heavens, we have their grandparents, which are easier to catch.

Even though we have little cans stashed around which are supposed to polish them off, they are still here and there.

Now I think I have solved it all. And have probably saved a mint.

The other night I opened a new jar of jam, took the paraffin off and put it in a little bowl so it wouldn't leave a sticky mess on the counter and so it could be washed and used again.

The next day, what do I find?

Three nice bodies!

Obviously, the tasty strawberry on the paraffin did it. I watch one that I was trying to capture with a tissue calmly walk right into it.

The catch is that if they find out what tasty traps you have, they just may tell the rest of their families.

Now that I have those characters a little bit under control, I can spread things out without worrying about where they may be hiding.

Out latest venture in "something new a la kitchen" was trying to copy a picture.

About Easter a young friend said she was decorating a cake from a picture she had cut out of something. I said, "More power to you!"

Frankly, I though it was kind of a dumb way to do something that others would eat. Then, while looking for a recipe in my pet kitchen drawer, I found a page I had torn out of one of those Christmas catalogues for fancy fruits and plain expensive things to order.

I guess I tore it out with the idea that if they can make them to sell, I can make them to eat.

They are nothing but little slices of puff paste, maybe about two and a half inches long and less than an inch wide. Then a good twist puts them in shape.

They bake in no time at all. Then you dip them in a glaze that can be about any flavor you want.

The first time I tried them was a real disaster, even though they were plain good, but gooey, and after eating one, you had to depart to the bathroom to wash your fingers. I made the mistake of simply melting apricot preserves, but an ordinary recipe of glaze with powdered sugar works beautifully.

Don't try to make your own puff paste. You can buy it if you hunt around a little. It comes in sheets, two to a package, by those good people who make patty shells and turnovers. If you want to make it yourself, be prepared for a whole day and a pound of butter. This is easier.

For the most part, I have found out the hard way that a lot of frozen things are miserable, but this is worth it. You can make all sorts of little tidbits from it.

Electric Thermal Storage.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, a very efficient whole-house heating system that works in a unique way. It stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day.

Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend

ETS not only heats your home, it also heats your water. Individual room heaters are available, too.

Add-On Electric Heat Pump.

Another very modern option to save energy, and money.

An Add-On Electric Heat Pump works with your existing furnace — no matter what kind of fuel it uses — to heat your home more efficiently all winter long.

So an Add-On Electric Heat Pump can actually work year round for you and save you money on your winter heating costs.

Add-On Resistance Heating.

Another add-on option. Your third way to save energy and money.

Add-On Resistance Heating is simply an electric element that's slipped into the duct of your furnace. It takes over for your furnace on weeknights and weekends when the cost of electricity is less. And, as an Add-On Resistance Heating customer, you pay special lower rates for night-time heating — as well as all other electricity you use during those same hours.

For a low initial investment, Add-On Resistance Heating can be a real comfort to your nighttime heating costs.

Economy blamed for woes at Shelby

A sagging economy that stubbornly refuses to improve at the same rate as the national one is the reason why municipal revenues in Shelby are down so heavily, John DeVito, finance director there, says.

He acknowledged on June 1 that income tax collections in Shelby are 16 per cent lower than at this time last year.

General fund and capital improvements moneys are down 18 per cent from 1982.

And because of overtime in the fire and police departments, DeVito said, the general fund may be in trouble. His solution? The same as elsewhere: tinker with the income tax collection appropriations so that the general fund gets more than what the law calls for and the capital improvements fund gets less. Shelby's ordinance calls for a 45-55 per cent split betwee the two funds. DeVito calls for a reversal: 55 per cent to the general fund.

John Harris is the new basketball coach at Lexington High school, which has engaged George Thayer as instrumental music director. Harris comes from Cardington-Lincoln High school in Morrow county. Thayer has been band director at Fredericktown.

Thomas Gaus, assitant principal and head basketball coach at Mapleton High school, was selected to be principal at Crestview High school but he told the board "personal reasons" (read Mrs. Gaus didn't want to leave her happy home) will interfere with his earlier commitment. So the Crestview board went through its weeding out process again and chose the assistant principal at Lucas for the job.

Willard's council tabled a proposal to buy the Holiday Lakes water distribution system for $500,000. It was told by its city manager, Paul Capelle, that annual revenues would be about $94,000 and annual settlement of the debt about $73,000, with full settlement in 10 to 12 years.

Carl Essex, a member of the community development committee, protested to the council that his group was "left out of long-term capital improvements". To which the council president, Wade Eden, who is also a member of the committee, answered, "This was a negotiation to buy something rather than a plan to develop and build."

Gold bars prize of Tamie Berberick

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Berberick, Morrisville, N.Y., spent the weekend with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tunson. They were in Colorado Springs, Colo., to see their daughter, Tamie, graduate from the Air Force academy and be commissioned a second lieutenant. Her two older sisters, Lisa and Wendy, are also serving in the Air Force and are stationed in Hawaii.

They are the granddaughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pitzen and the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berberick.

Celebrating National Garden week, the first time such an event has occurred in the United States, Plymouth Garden club has completed plantings near the old water tower and will undertake additional ones in Mary Fate park, Mrs. Gerald McKown, president, says.

Weber case —

the premises.

H. Lee Welker, a member of the planning commission, suggested it would be better to call the first inspection invalid since the required fee of $25 had not been asked by the village when the application was made, nor was it paid.

He also said the commission should seel a legal opinion before any decision is made.

A remodeling of a house at Mulberry and Trux streets by Richard Tallman, Shiloh, was discussed. He plans to make it into a two family dwelling, where it is zoned single family residences. Also, there is a question of the amount of floor space involved.

Welker said he does not "want to create a hassle" and that any up-grading of a structure will be beneficial to the village.

Laser asked how the commission will stand on decisions which he might make.

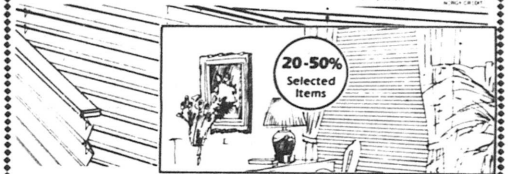

The mayor told him his duty is "black and white", to follow the zoning ordinance to the letter, but that each case is different and it is then a matter for the planning commission to discuss his decisions.

Photographing all village structures will be undertaken if a video camera can be loaned to the commission and the cost will not exceed the commission's budget of doing the work. Douglas A. Dickson may be called if there is one to be loaned.

"What are all those kids out there working for? The majority are not poor . . . They spend . . . half a billion dollars every week . . . one-third of high schoolers hold part-time jobs and about one-third earn more than $200 a month . . ."

As teen-agers work mostly to pay for pleasures, school and family are the losers

By DAN MORGAN

YOU DON'T have to go beyond the neighborhood fast-food outlet nowadays to observe a phenomenon of far-reaching consequences: More high-school kids are working longer hours and making more money than ever before.

That might seem a blessing. The work ethic lives. The kids are learning what it's like to make a buck. But a more careful look raises some troubling questions about the way these young people — especially middle-class youth — are growing up.

What does it say about American priorities when kids spend more time working for big corporations and less time for their teachers? What happens to family life when jobs increasingly draw youngsters away from the home? How much authority or influence can parents hope to exercise over children who enjoy a degree of financial independence undreamed of 25 years ago?

A recent study by the Justice Department attracted attention to another issue on the list: Is after-school or summer work related to juvenile delinquency. The department found that teen-agers who worked after school or on summer breaks had somewhat more run-ins with the police and were involved in more serious offenses than those who didn't.

But that only raises a further question: Given the mixed evidence, why has the Labor Department proposed revisions in child-labor laws that would let 14- and 15-year-olds work longer and later during the school week? That proposal certainly doesn't follow the Reagan administration's rhetoric about strengthening the American family.

Finally, what are all those kids out there working for? The majority are not poor; most are white and middle class. They spend, rather than save, most of the half-billion dollars they earn every week. Does this foreshadow a drift toward a still more materialistic America?

One thing is certain. The high-school workaholic is a uniquely American type. In no other major industrial country are school-children a prominent part of the workforce. Western European, Russian and Japanese teen-agers study, participate in sports clubs and "hang out" rather than toil.

In America, though, at least one-third of high-school students hold part-time jobs in any given week. Of the 30.5 million young people between ages 12 and 19, almost 19 million are employed some of the time, and about one-fourth earn more than $200 a month, according to a study done last year by Simmons Market Research Bureau of New York. Nearly half of the young men put in more than 20 hours a week — the equivalent of all-day Saturday and Sunday and an hour a day after school.

working teen-agers has been increasing steadily since 1964. A 16-year-old male attending school is five times more likely to work part-time than in 1940, and a female the same age is 16 times more likely to work.

The statistics, in fact, point to a two-decade development rivaling in significance the rise of the working mother.

The U.S. economy added 20 million jobs in the 1970s, of which some 7 million were low-paying, unskilled slots in retail businesses and "eating and drinking establishments." Most of those jobs were created not in inner cities, where youth unemployment is highest, but in suburbs, residential areas and towns where middle-class white kids congregate.

When Ohio State University surveyed a representative sample of 12,686 teen-agers for the federal government in 1979, it found that half of the whites attending high school were working, compared with only one-fourth of the blacks. Among all youngsters sampled, 62 percent of those who were not living in poverty were working, compared with 38 percent of those who were poor.

Labor Department statistics tend to bear out these surveys. While employment rates for blacks aged 16 to 19 have stayed fairly constant since the late 1960s, the rates for whites in this age bracket have shot up.

The new jobs were especially suited for these kids, and they have swarmed into them — and out of them — at a dizzying pace. At any given time about 1.5 million teen-agers are employed by fast-food chains. A senior official of one such chain estimates that by the year 2000, about 80 percent of teen-agers will have worked in a fast-food establishment by the time they reach 21.

Given the economic and social dimensions of the teen-age work trend, information about its impact on educational performance, families and teen-age attitudes is surprisingly scanty. But evidence becoming available already has raised warning signals.

Nobody suggests that work is all bad for teen-agers. It does teach the value of money, provide a transition to the adult world and keep kids off the street at a time when both parents spend less time at home. But how much work, and for what purposes?

Many kids from strong, stable families no doubt can handle the extra pressures, the financial independence, the need to juggle schedules and complete homework. But what of other adolescents? Some of the most disturbing data have been collected by two social scientists at the University of California in Irvine, Ellen Greensberger and Laurence D. Steinberg. They interviewed 531 carefully selected 10th- and 11th-graders in California's Orange County to compare working and non-working kids.

"Employment is associated with lower school involvement, diminished school performance, decreased school attendance, increased cynicism about working, acceptance of certain unethical business practices and increased alcohol and marijuana use," Steinberg wrote.

Among other things Greenberger and Steinberg found the students' grades dropped in proportion to the time they worked. Greenberger cautions that research does not prove that work leads to bad grades; it may be that a poor student is predisposed to spending more time on a job than on homework. But the finding does suggest reason for concern and further study.

As for what youths "learn" on the job, in most cases, Steinberg maintains, the skills of communication, courtesy and punctuality can be acquired in a few weeks. After that, the "learning curve" drops off to near zero.

Greenberger believes the work explosion among middle-class teen-agers is part of a broad devaluation of education in America. According to this view, as schools have become less demanding, there has been more time for jobs. Moreover, as college educations have become available to virtually any teen-ager whose family can afford one regardless of high-school achievement, concerns of high-schoolers about spreading themselves too thin may have declined.

One question is what the youths are doing with all their money. Anybody who thinks they're salting it away for future education or helping pay the family bills should talk to some corporate marketing people, who know better. The youths are virtually supporting major sectors of the U.S. economy. The record business, the fashion industry and dozens of other enterprises now tap the pool of loose change in teen-agers' pockets — which is quiet a bit of change.

According to Simmons' 1981 research, 7 million teen-agers earn more than $50 a week, while 5.3 million earn $10 to $49 a week and some 5 million make under $10. All in all, the earnings come to something like $500 million weekly, or $25 billion a year. Allowances add at least $2.5 billion more.

When Steinberg and Greenberger asked the youths they studied why they were working, the overwhelming majority said it was to earn money they intended to spend immediately. Only 2 or 3 percent were saving for a future education, and few were making a direct contribution to family finances (although many made an indirect contribution by buying their own clothes, meals or items that parents otherwise would have bought).

This pattern of work and spending has resulted in what the University of Michigan's Jerald Bachman calls "premature affluence." When the value of free meals, free room, access to the family car and family vacations is added to the earned cash in teen-agers' pockets, the sum becomes even more substantial.

Yet this sense of affluence is misleading, even unreal. Living in these conditions, teen-agers are denied the opportunity to discover the hardships of achieving real material independence, and the later transition to adulthood may actually be complicated by the experience of working in high school.

Consider Charlie, 16, of Gainesville, Fla., who spent several hundred dollars of the money he earned at a Burger King last year on a diamond necklace for his girlfriend. Or take another teen-ager, employed at a Washington, D.C., department store weekends and after school, who spends a good portion of her hand-earned cash on less durable commodities: marijuana and quaaludes.

A relationship between teen-age work and drug abuse, if not actual crime, had been documented before the recent Justice Department study stirred a flurry of editorial comments. The University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, which does an exhaustive annual survey of high-school seniors, has long reported above-average alcohol, cigarette and drug use among seniors with heavy job commitments.

The latest Michigan survey found only 20 percent of the seniors reporting low weekly income said they had used marijuana in the previous 30 days. But the figure reached almost 40 percent for those who reported high weekly incomes. Why? The availability of ready cash, stress and other factors have all been suggested.

The money in teen-agers' hands also creates tensions in families, as most parents can attest. While parents are relieved that children have work and are paying for some of their needs, their financial independence loosens the authority of parents. Youths claim that parents have no right to interfere in financial decisions, and parents often agree.

Greenberger suggests that the time may have come for parents to adopt a different policy, establish alternative values and help youths stave off the material pressures on them. "Rather than lay all the blame on these 'dreadful, materialistic teen-agers,' why not ask parents to exercise some restraints?" she asks.

Given the trends, however, that would not be easy. Some suggest that it may have to be schools and families that adjust to working teen-agers, rather than the other way around. They say schools should face up to the realities of working students, help them identify what is educational in their jobs and what isn't, and try to establish a sense of perspective.

"The social norm in high school now is that you work," says Michael Borus, director of the Center for Human Resources at Ohio State University. "In my opinion, this represents to some extent a change in the social values of the kids. They want money to get independence. But their working may in itself be a function of other changes — their school work doesn't take up all their time, and the whole family is work-oriented now. Mom is out working, and there's nobody around the house to talk to anymore. Instead of hanging out on the corner, you go down to the job at Baskin-Robbins. It isn't necessarily a negative development."

A Public Service of This Newspaper & The Advertising Council

The Voice of The Advertiser —

How come?

For the fourth time, voters of the village have said they do not want to be additionally taxed to fund the police department.

Not that they do not want to be additionally taxed, although there may be some question on that conclusion, but specifically that they do not want to be additionally taxed to pay for police protection.

It has been made on two occasions when the first police chief, one whom many believed could in fact walk on the water, yet who was the subject of ouster proceedings by three mayors, on one of which he escaped dismissal only because he made an abject, public apology for crude speech and untoward behavior, was in service. On two subsequent occasions, voters have said they do not want to be additionally taxed for police services during the incumbency of two police chiefs, one of whom is even now under suspension because he faces trial for felonious conduct.

The village council ought to listen to what has been said. The people simply do not want to be taxed additionally to pay for police protection.

Does this mean they do not approve of the police department? Ask them. Does it mean they've had enough of taxes for whatever purpose? Ask them. Does it mean they might change their minds if the police department is changed? Ask them.

We did so, using the same method that's open to the council. Only 100 voters went to the polls in Precinct A and only 60 in Precinct B. It is fair to say that the expression of opinion is not quite so representative of what the public thinks as it might be.

Ask these voters. How do we know who they are?

The names of those who voted are a matter of public record that may be consulted by any person during office hours at the county board of elections.

The secrecy of the ballot is sacred. But there is no law that prevents asking those who voted why they chose one action or another.

Which is what we did. Admittedly, not all of those who voted. But a representative sampling, all the same. And not specifically on one subject (for Richland countians, there were two other matters of high importance: the piggyback sales tax and the New Hope levy, each of which was turned down, overwhelmingly, by voters of Precinct A).

If one will but listen to what the people are saying, one can conduct their affairs accordingly, so as to obtain their confidence and support.

And what are they saying? Does the council know? Why not?

We assume that if the council is interested in knowing, it will inquire. And if it is not?

For its information, we asked four questions:

1. If you voted on the police levy, did you vote for it?

2. If you voted against it, was the reason that you don't want to pay any more taxes?

3. Or was the reason that you don't want to pay more taxes for the purpose of police protection?

4. Does this reflect on the quality of police services or upon the quality of fiscal management by the council, or both?

It is the fashion these days to shoot the messenger rather than to deal with his news.

No vacation pay for part-timer, Shiloh says

A tie vote broken by the council president, presiding in the absence of Mayor Francis Gowitzka, turned down at Shiloh June 8 a move to grant a week's paid vacation to a village employee.

The question was whether the village should grant such pay to a part-time employee of the street department. Councilmen Delmar Nesbitt and Richard Tallman voted for the ordinance. Councilmen Frank Cline and Daniel Hockley voted against. Councilman Barbara Music abstained, saying she wished more information on the matter.

Under Robert's Rules of Order, which govern the council, an absention must be counted with the majority. In the absence of such, the vote of Charles R. Reeder, president, was crucial. He voted nay.

Nesbitt's argument was that the village should pay the employee for vacation time because he gets only $4.25 an hour. Cline argued that parttime employees don't get vacations.

Tallman and Nesbitt voted nay on first reading of an ordinance establishing rates by which the trustees of public affairs will set sewer and electric service charges for commercial or business consumers who expand or upgrade their services.

Tallman argued the village ought to swallow the cost of such expansion, to encourage new business to establish in Shiloh.

The ordinance did not pass on first reading.

A house at Main and Walnut streets, partially destroyed by fire, is an eyesore, the council said. It told the solicitor, Jon Burton, to take steps to have it razed, preferably before the annual ox roast on July 30.

Can the village pay the part-time street employee at the rate of straight time for weekend work? The solicitor says the village must pay at time and one-half. But there isn't enough money to pay him at that rate. The council said it will leave the situation as it is.

Tallman will seek through the Department of Natural Resources during a conference next month such assistance as may be available and that the village can use. Last year the village obtained trash cans.

Chief Conley enters plea of 'not guilty'

Evidence that a felony was committed and that the accused probably did so was found by a Richland county grand jury June 8 in the case of suspended Police Chief Robert Conley, 36, 6 South street.

Conley is accused of causing or attempting to cause serious bodily harm to his estranged wife, Wendy, 26, on the steps of her apartment at 623 Bailey drive, Mansfield, early in the morning of Apr. 22

She told police a masked man -- she said it was a ski mask -- grabbed her ankle, threw her to the ground and struck and kicked her. Rescuers of Mansfield Fire department said she was beaten with a large flashlight and had other visible injuries.

She was treated in Mansfield General hospital and released. It is reported she had multiple cuts and bruises. On Apr. 26 she was admitted for tests and observation.

After the alleged assault, three Mansfield police vehicles chased a black Ford Mustang said to have been seen leaving the scene of the attack. Police said the car sped away at speeds of up to 100 miles an hour in Middle Bellville road and Cline avenue and through downtown Mansfield before they lost it. They said a check of the license tags showed the vehicle to be registered in the name of Robert Conley.

Mrs. Conley told police she bit her assailant on his hand.

Conley denied he was at the scene and said he was not bitten or scratched. The prosecutor, John Allen, says Conley was treated in the emergency room of Willard Area hospital on Apr. 22.

Capt. Frank Hodge, interim police chief, and Lisa Perdue, dispatcher, told Mansfield police they saw Conley's hand bandaged on Apr. 23, six hours after the assault is supposed to have taken place, and that Conley was not bandaged when he wet off shift on Apr. 22 at 11 p. m.

A search warrant was obtained and impressions taken of the wound on Conley's hand as well as of Mrs. Conley's bite. His residence was searched and so was his car.

The felonious assault charge was first filed in Mansfield Municipal court. It will be dismissed now that an indictment has been handed down.

Judge Max Chilcote heard Conley's plea on Monday.

Bond of $250 was ordered by the judge.

A pre-trial hearing will be conducted later.

Pupil performance exceeds U. S. median, board told

Paul Gase, junior high school guidance counselor, presented the results of testing during the final two months of the school year.

They show that pupils in Plymouth district rank above the national median in all grades measured, grades two, four, six and eight.

Measurement occurred in reading, language, mathematics, reference skills, science and social studies.

Gase cautioned the board and parents not to misread the data. He said the data show that on a particular day and in a particular test a group of children performed at a level substantially higher than the median of children of that age group across the country; the results should not be taken to mean that, say, eighth grade children scoring at 10.3 years in language testing are ready at that time to undertake 10th grade instruction.

The table below shows Gase's findings:

National Ave. (Median)		Total Reading	Language	Math	Battery	Ref. Skills	Sci.	Soc. St.
2.7	Gr. 2	2.9	3.2	3.1	3.1	3.9	3.9	3.8

A request by North Richland County Council for Christian Education to re-establish Bible instruction in elementary grades was approved subject to a suitable arrangement to be worked out by a committee of two board members, the superintendent, and the elementary principals.

To comply with national guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court, pupils will be excused for released time instruction for a 30-minute period, with 10 minutes allowed to dress and walk to the site of instruction. In Shiloh this will be in Mt. Hope Lutheran church. In Plymouth it will be in United Methodist church.

On advice of the county prosecutor, parents of eligible pupils will be asked directly by mail whether they wish their children to participate, a statement of which must be mailed directly by the parent to the council, which is then required to notify the building principal which pupils will participate.

Pupils not authorized to participate will be required to undertake instruction in their classrooms.

Lew Petit Driving school, Mansfield, was awarded a contract at $85 a pupil to conduct driver education in the high school. State reimbursement is $50 a pupil. The remainder will be made up by pupil fees.

Petit's bid was low among three.

Mrs. William Nadolsky, nee Kim Chronister, a certified teacher who does not have a contract in the schools, was hired as ninth grade and reserve cheerleader adviser.

A junior high school wrestling program will be in force in the fall if a qualified coach can be found on the staff. Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board that nine of 10 schools in the Firelands conference field varsity wrestling squads (South Central does not) and six of them have junior high school programs. No additional coaching will be needed; the assistant varsity coach, whoever he is, will conduct the junior high school squad. Staggs said participation in junior high school boys' basketball was so large that teams had to be divided. He said he thinks some boys will wish to participate in both sports while others will opt for one sport or another. There is no reason, he added, under state rules why this cannot be the case.

A request for a one year leave of absence by Mrs. Rose Tovey, elementary teacher at Shiloh, was denied. She plans to move to Denver, Colo., with her husband this month. If his employment there does not succeed, she would wish to return to her post. Staggs said it would be poor public policy to acquiesce in such a proposal and the board agreed.

What to do about asbestos detection and warning procedures occupied the board at some length. Staggs reported on what he has done so far. This the board approved. Maintenance personnel are covering such exposed areas as were found by a professional investigating firm from Erie, Pa., with a good brand of latex paint. Public notice of the possibility of hazard has been complied with, Staggs said.

Annual budget hearing will take place July 11 at 7:15 p. m. Staggs said that until the General Assembly comes up with a new budget, where the schools stand financially is "a shot in the dark". This, he added, "is a heck of a way to run a business."

Routine approval was given to renewed participation in educational television with Station WVIZ, Cleveland, which is federally funded; Chapter 2 (library) funding, amounting to an allocation of $6,551 for 1983-84; participation in Chapter I (remedial reading) funding, amounting to an allocation of $39,300 for the coming year, and to participation in the regional special special education resource center at Galion.

Willard Taxi Co. was rehired to transport two disabled pupils, one to Mansfield at $16.50 a day, and one wheelchair child to Pioneer Joint Vocational school at $24 a day.

New grade cards for pupils in kindergarten through grade six were approved. Principal Mark Sheely, in response to an inquiry by Mrs. Robert Sponseller, said standards for assignment of grades of F, S and U in some subjects for primary pupils are being worked out.

After a long search, officers of Mary Fate Park Pool, Inc., which hasn't paid against its FmHA loan for five years, finally found a manager to succeed Richard Roll, who has opted for more gainful employment this summer as maintainer of the schools.

He is William H. Hudson, Shiloh, Class of 1981, in which he excelled as pupil and athlete. He's now a student in Ashland college.

He's playing semi-pro baseball with a Wooster team during the summer, so until its season has concluded, he can only give limited service to the job.

Three hurt in collision of teenagers

A Plymouth route 1 youth and his juvenile companion were painfully injured Friday when his car left Bullhead road two miles west of Route 103 and hit a ditch.

Roger Stephens, 18, Huron Valley Mobile Home park, was headed east when his car skidded off the right side of the roadway, slid back across the road and struck the ditch at the left.

It turned around and overturned, state highway patrolmen said.

Michelle Dellinger, 16, Bullhead road, and James Allen, two, of the mobile home park, were also injured. The young boy was treated at Willard Area hospital and released. The others were admitted in fair condition.

Crestline developer to speak

Joseph D. Zara, Crestline, successful there in obtaining federal funding to reshape that Crawford county community, will speak Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the depot in Willard park to Willard and Plymouth Area Chambers of Commerce at a catered dinner.

Reservations must be turned in to Mrs. Joseph McClure, Tel. 687-0425, before June 20.

Because Hartenstein's Supper club has been forced to close, the dinner site had to be changed.

Zara will advise the two chambers on how to develop their communities.

Shiloh seeks to enjoin mobile home

An injunction against Victor and Gladys Coffey, 49 Euclid street, Shiloh, seeking enforcement of the village zoning ordinance and building code, which prevents placement of a mobile home on the same lot as a house in a residential area, is sought in Richland county common pleas court by the Village of Shiloh.

Its solicitor, Jon Burton, filed the request in the court of Judge Max Chilcote.

The petition alleges the Coffeys have connected the mobile home to their house.

U. S. marshals arrest man for extortion

Inspector Howard Dolbow and four deputy marshals, Huron county sheriff's deputies and Plymouth police assisted in the apprehension, which was without incident.

Edsel Gayheart was arrested on a federal warrant charging him with extortion, failure to register firearms, making explosives and other offenses.

The warrant derives from a federal indictment handed down June 6 in U. S. District court at Pikeville, Ky., against Gayheart and 18 others. The indictments comprise 86 charges against 19 accused. These include extortion, conspiracy and obstruction of commerce. It is charged the suspects used threats and actual violence on Feb. 17, 18, 21 and 26, 1983, to obtain the property of the Ray Mack Coal Co., including the right to do business in eastern Kentucky.

A total of 42 overt acts is recited in the indictments. These include two instances of shots being fired at a mine site, the bombing of a coal auger and the burning of a coal tipple.

Gayheart, who recently moved to Ripley township from the Ashtabula area, was taken to Portage county jail at Ravenna and was arraigned Monday in U. S. District court, Cleveland.

Six juveniles held for thefts

Thieves as young as eight years have been trapped by local police in a wave of breaking and entering cases.

All of the suspects are juveniles.

Two 17-year-old juveniles have been arrested and charges are pending.

A bicycle belonging to Ruth Zavala, 58 Mulberry street, was reported stolen June 9 at 10:14 a. m. It has been recovered. An eight-year-old and a 14-year-old are accused.

Sonja Chaffins, 42 Trux street, reported on June 9 theft of a sleeping bag worth $100. The property has been recovered and two juveniles arrested.

Which flavor of popcorn? Try salad!

By AUNT LIZ

Who wants to experiment?

The last time I sent out a cry for help, I got it. Some nice young man called to tell me he was loaded with watercress.

So this is worth a try too.

Perhaps it would be a lot simpler to live without reading about interesting things and wanting to do them.

A few months ago I read somewhere about a gal in California who was in the business of making flavored popcorn. She was making a fortune on it, too.

Now the idea is spreading like mad and even some of the nearby malls have it, but I do not know which ones.

There is another couple in Atlanta that is doing it and has just come out with "steamed crab popcorn", which would be great with beer.

I gather from what I have read that the corn itself has the flavor from banana, pizza and even something called Sinfully Chocolate.

I can see putting a flavored glaze over it, but this sounds different.

It seems to me that the kernels get flavored and would then need to be dried before it is actually popped.

Can anyone come up with the answer of how to do it? If you try to dry them in an oven, what if the stuff decides to start popping? Your kitchen would be flooded.

It's times like this when I wished I had learned more chemistry in high school, because it has to be a chemical reaction. I hated the stuff, which was required to graduate.

Right now I am sticking to something everyone can understand, and it is good, easy and a little different. I heart it on the radio the other day, and stopped to write it down. It's Sweet and Sour Cole Slaw.

This probably will make enough for an average family, and if for just two, keep eating it until it is gone.

Chop finely or put into a food processor to start out with a medium head of cabbage. Chop a medium yellow onion, a half of a green pepper (seed it) and two medium size carrots.

In another bowl mix two-thirds of a cup of mayonnaise, a half cup of sour cream, a fourth of a cup of sweet relish, a teaspoon of Dijon mustard, three-fourths of a teaspoon of dried dill (if you use fresh dill, use more), a teaspoon of sugar, a half teaspoon of salt and about nine turns of a black pepper mill.

Keep Red Cross ready.

'A little grass shack?'

Girl Scouts conducted a campout with an Hawaiian theme in Mary Fate park last week. 'Hang on!' formula success (more or less) since 1946

Union station in Washington, D. C., between Christmas and New Year's in 1943 was like the post office lobby on the first of the month. It teemed with folks going to and from.

One of them was a shapely brunette, on leave from her employment at St. Paul, Minn., where she was living with her parents, having graduated from the University of Minnesota three years before and joined Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. She was en route to New River, N. C., to help a friend drive the family car to St. Paul for the duration. The friend's husband was a Marine aviator ticketed for overseas duty.

Another was a young officer of the Army, heading for his station in Kentucky, whence he was sent to teach while his face was healing after an unfortunate encounter with an enemy.

He was seated at the horseshoe counter of the coffee shop, next to a sailor. She passed behind, seeking a place to sit. The sailor was all but finished and the young officer suggested he speed it up so the young woman could sit down.

This was what occurred and she thanked him for his efforts. The conversation led to travel plans. She said she was headed for New River and he said he knew the mayor there. He offered to give her a note of introduction, which she accepted. Naturally, he had to ask her name, which she gave to him.

Two days later, in New River, she asked to see the mayor and recited his name. No one there had ever heard of him.

The trip to Minnesota is itself a saga of America during World War II. When the young woman reached home, she found an apologetic note saying the officer made a mistake, his friend was the mayor of New Bern (he proved it by enclosing some evidence), he was sorry, and would she accept his apologies? He hoped she wasn't inconvenienced or embarrassed.

To this day she doesn't know why she responded. But she did, and on Feb. 14 he sent her jonquils, asking her to be his Valentine.

Shortly thereafter she joined the Marine Corps herself, against his counsel, and went off to boot camp at New River herself. His letters there were the delight of the barracks, she now says, "which is why I kept writing, they would've killed me if I had stopped!"

Eventually, his unit shipped out of Camp Kilmer, N. J. He managed a day and a night of leave and they met in New York. When he left for his post, they were engaged.

Sixteen months later, he returned to the zone of the interior. She was still in the Marine Corps and he was discharged. He joined the Department of State as a foreign service officer. They married at Ft. Snelling, on a promontory overlooking the Mississippi river at St. Paul, on June 15, 1946.

Their first assignment was Genoa, Italy, where they arrived on Thanksgiving day, 1946, having crossed the ocean in a troop ship, he sharing the psychiatric ward with nine priests, she a cabin with five women.

Their son and daughter were born there. They lived in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, for three years, each surviving a bout of typhus fever and an abortive effort at regicide that earmarked him for assassination as No. 4 on the list that fateful July night. They went to Bern, Switzerland, for two years and came to Plymouth in 1954, where they survived a malignancy scare in 1961 and two respiratory collapses in 1982.

Advice to others who aspire to that much marriage? "Hang on, if we can do it, so can you!"

Is it open season on coaches? Three take new posts

It may be open season on high school coaches. And there may be something to the Scandinavian custom that families change their housing during specific seasons of the year and not at other times.

Whatever, Lee Owens, successful football coach at Crestview, has resigned to become the head coach of Galion, which is the second largest school in the Northern Ohio league.

Jeff Diehl, head basketball coach at Mt. Gilead, has quit there to become head coach at Miamisburg.

Val Harris, no kin of John Harris, the new head basketball coach at Lexington, has resigned at New Bremen to become head football coach at Bucyrus, succeeding Bud Ratliff, former head coach at South Central. He is a 1970 graduate of Ashland college, having earlier been graduated at Mt. Gilead.

Port Clinton has had its share of difficulties with high school coaches, giving rise to a reassertion of an old adage: English, French and chemistry teachers may flub their dubs, but coaches had better be careful!

The board of education there voted not to hire William Phillips as head girls' basketball coach. The board took the action after some players and parents said they would rather see the board hire last year's coach, Clifford Hahn, an instructor in Vanguard Joint Vocational school near Fremont.

And the board also voted not to hire Howard Walters as assistant boys' basketball coach (seventh grade) and junior high volleyball coach. Nor did it approve the hiring of Tom Fisher as head wrestling coach nor Mark Worley, assistant, although their principal said he would recommend them later.

Plans to buy a $14 million generator from Ohio Edison Co. were put aside by the council at Shelby, when the company at Norwalk asked Shelby to wave the sceptre or descend from the throne. The council said it doesn't have enough information on which to base a decision now.

George C. Ford, assistant Huron county prosecutor, has quit. He says it's too early to tell if he'll run for the big job next year. His chief, Prosecutor Richard Hauser, a Democrat (Ford belongs to the GOP), says he hasn't decided if he'll seek reelection. He won in 1976 over Michael Fegen and was not opposed in 1980.

Who voted

Here're results of survey of July 8 balloting

Half of the village councilmen did not vote in the June 8 primary election.

None of the regular policemen voted.

Only four firemen voted. The fire chief did not.

The village administrator and the village electrician voted.

Glorioso reelected by umpires' group

Nelson V. Lonz, Monroeville, continues as secretary-treasurer, and representative to the Northwest Ohio District Officials committee.

In addition to umpiring over 140 high school baseball and softball games this spring, members umpired 37 games in the Vermilion round-robin softball tournament that concluded Sunday; and will umpire the home games this summer for the Norwalk Elks team at Monroeville, the Norwalk Kiwanis team at McGuan park, Norwalk, in the Sandusky Elks league; the Monroeville Junior Pony team, and the Monroeville Merchants team in the Sandusky Bay Girls Softball Association league.

Who Makes The News...

THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?

YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

Fire chief resigns nouncement concerning the acceptance was made.

A special meeting to consider the matter will take place Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Strine has headed the fire department the last five years. He was appointed to fill the vacancy of chief when the late Judson A. Morrison resigned.

The mayor said Strine gave no reason for his resignation, which Councilman Terry hopkins, who has worked closely with Strine on the fire and ambulance, also said he knew of no reason.

The council agreed the village should retain the services of Lester H. Poggemeyer, Inc., Lexington, as consultants to obtain state and federal grant moneys.

It was urged by Councilman Keith Hebble, but the mayor thought it should be studied further and tabled until the next meeting. James C. Root, village administrator, spoke up and said Poggemeyer is badly needed because he had a form ready to go to apply for a grant.

By motion, Root was given the authority to hire the firm.

Its fee as retainer will be $520 annually for 12 meetings. Hebble assured the council the money is available in the general fund for contractual services.

Root is obtaining estimates of street repairing, which should be ready for the next meeting.

Councilmen G. Thomas Moore and Roy Barber complained about garage sale signs, which are being posted all over the village on utility poles and trees.

Moore also complained about dogs running loose.

Both were answered by Richard Wolfe, village solicitor, who pointed out that the village has definite ordinances covering such problem. Signs on utility poles are illegal, even under the Ohio Revised Code.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Toot! Toot! Kudos to three!

For 29 years and a bit more, this newspaper has trumpeted, and that's the right word, its aim to encourage young people to obtain the best education that can be had.

And this week our horn is blowing harder than ever. Andrea Robinson, whom we picked out six years ago as a winner, took top honors in the graduating class of Mansfield General hospital school of nursing.

Jay Christopher Haver, who was taken to several college campuses by the editor and decided on the one the editor secretly preferred, got his degree there and now has another at NCTC.

And Shannon Root is the latest of a long line of Roots, to the family's and the community's credit, to achieve a degree in higher education.

The most hateful words . . .

The most hateful words in the English tongue are "I told you so". Nobody wants to hear them, whether rightly or wrongly said. And, truth to tell, there are few who honestly wish to say them.

But when this stretches to public bodies, there should be no reservation. The spirit of republican government is that those who are governed should speak out, and they should be listened to, and where their views make sense, for the common weal, they should be heeded.

It is a matter of record that on June 7, 1961, Plymouth Board of Education was told in open meeting, buttressed by the written opinin of the attorney-general of Ohio, that to comply with guidelines of the U. S. Supreme Court, only released time religious instruction could be countenanced by the law, and any other is illicit.

It took 22 years for that to sink in. Twenty-two years and a threatened court action by the ACLU in another district.

So what we'll have here is what the Court said long ago is compatible with the constitution: instruction without the building, on released time, as requested by the parent in an unsolicited opportunity by the public school.

Those who oppose religious instruction of any kind under any circumstances, which include this newspaper, rely upon the system to die of its own weight: pupils and teachers and volunteers will soon tire of the bother of putting on boots and coats and mittens and participation will diminish.

One more word: anybody who says the instruction is nonsectarian and non-denominational is simply not telling the truth. The Bible itself, and it's the one book on our bed table that is read most often, is sectarian and denominational; were it not, then each denomination would employ the same Bible.

Where now?

Having at hand some communications from recent graduates of the public schools, here and elsewhere, done in their own penmanship, for the most part, we are constrained to observe as follows:

1. Most of the inditers think that syntax is hush money in Steubenville.

2. Hardly anybody can spell any more.

3. Neither can anyone, save a very few, punctuate correctly. (Principal offense: misuse of the apostrophe).

4. Basic rules of grammar, if learned, are long forgotten. (The verb must agree with the subject in number; a pronoun must agree with its antecedent in number, gender and case.)

Methodists send bachelor, 24, to local charge

The Rev. Thomas R. Hoover, a 24-year-old bachelor, will replace the Rev. Robert Barr as minister of Plymouth and Shiloh United Methodist churches.

The Rev. Mr. Barr will leave the Methodist ministry.

The new clergyman comes from Methesco, which is the church seminary. This is his first assignment.

The newly appointed pastor holds a degree in music from Ashland college and has studied in Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., for two years. He is now completing training in Methodist Theological seminary, Delaware, and plans to further his education in theology in Ashland college.

He will preach his first sermon July 3.

Fire queen wins second place

Her response to the question, "If you had one wish, what would it be?" was "If I had one wish, I would wish that for one day everyone would be happy so it could be shared together", and it won for Michelle Hamons, 265 West Broadway, Miss Fire Queen of 1982, first runner-up position in the annual Northwest Ohio Volunteer Firemen's association convention contest at Clyde over the weekend.

Earlier, she was chosen a semi-finalist with nine others. To the question, "Who is the person who most influenced your life?" she answered, "My mother".

Five finalists were selected.

Jill Olmstead, Channel 11, Toledo, was pageant hostess. Judges were from PM Magazine.

A Crestline girl was named queen.

James C. Root, village administrator, who has been a long time member of the fire department, was the official representative for the village and appeared on Channel 11, Toledo, Friday night.

Timothy Redden drove the queen in the parade and Richard Farner drove one fire vehicle.

'64 alumnus sues business vendor for misrepresenting

A 1964 alumnus of Plymouth High school and his wife, declared bankrupts, have filed in Richland county common pleas court a suit seeking $500,000 in damages from the vendor of a Shelby business.

Dennis and Dianne Sammons, 6 Earl avenue, Shelby, and their attorney, Paul Crist, Mansfield, their trustee in bankruptcy proceedings, allege that Lillian and Russell Gutshall, doing business as Gutshall's Hauling, 177 Broadway, Shelby, made false representations when they sold their business to the Sammonses in October, 1980.

The Sammonses claim the Gutshalls falsely maintained the buyers could pay $78,000 for the business and make a $2,600 mortgage payment from income received and that a valuable asset of the business was a contract to collect scrap iron from a manufacturer of bowling equipment, ostensible AMF Corp., Shelby.

Plaintiffs, who are about to lose their home because they cannot meet payments, demand the defendants produce copies of the last five years of their income tax returns to show the real income of the business.

The Sammonses allege that because of "the malicious, intentional misrepresentation of material facts," they have "become destitute" and have been required to seek creditor relief through bankruptcy, which they state has caused them great emotional stress and marital difficulties. The Sammonses seek punitive damages "as punishment to discourage other people in the community from making a similar misrepresentation to innocent prospective purchasers."

Different? Muscularly, sure!

Berry picking escapade cripples cook this week

By AUNT LIZ

For years people have made rather snide remarks to me that I am "different".

I put up a real battle front and say, "Look, I make sure our family is decently fed, clothed and get to school every morning on time unless they are flat on their backs."

Every Sunday it was routine, there was no question about getting up for Sunday school or church. They did because they knew they had to.

Frankly, I thought I was more normal than most people.

Now I realize I am not.

I have more muscles than 10 people put together. I found this out the other day when I handpicked 12 quarts of strawberries. The next day I could not move. Even sitting down was a chore.

Last year I had the nice experience of just picking a couple of quarts and it was fun. Now I have learned. Even if we can save a million, no way again. But I must say the results look good. I still have four more quarts to do. Sometimes I think it might simply be easier and cheaper to just go out and buy the stuff, but you-know-who says "No, it is not the same." He is part of the jam making because for that minute of hard boiling at the end of it all, I need him because I cannot see the minute hand on the clock, so this ends up as a cooperative operation. Sometimes I realize how long a minute can be when one is standing there stirring like mad.

This year we have no way to send any to our kids. Last year we could do it because people took it for us. Once I sent our daughter-in-law a bunch of towels and figured I could wrap the jam in them, which I did, and which she spent hours washing out. I know I can carry some by air, which throws the security check gals in a tizzy when they ask what is in a kitting basket and I tell them. They look at me like I am a real odd ball. I will never forget the time we went through one someplace and I said "moonshine", and I was not kidding. It was the real stuff some one gave us. They all sniffed it and approved that it would not blow up the plane.

So summer is here for good, but why am I wearing my winter slippers and robe yet? Maybe we have to pretend a little.

Salads are so easy, just throw everything you own in a bowl and pour your favorite dressing over it. Fresh vegetables are appearing, and best steamed with butter and cheese on them, although a lot of people like them fried. Anyway, they are plain good.

Desserts should be fresh fruit — preferably on ice cream. We do strawberries with a little powdered sugar and orange juice. It saves calories rather than the shortcake version with cream, and is just as good.

Even with this glorious season coming on, you do need something a little more to add to a meal. This recipe is definitely for an adult household. Never with kids, and I am not exactly a prud

It is for brandied onio soup.

Saute a thinly sliced onion in a little butter, with a teaspoon of Dijon mustard. Add one and a half teaspoons of flour and some white pepper, a third cup of brandy, two 10½ oz. cans of commercial onin soup and one 10½ oz. can of beef broth. Don dilute them. Then adda half of a can from one of them of water. Heat but do not boil.

It can be topped with bits of toasted French bread and cheeses, whatever you have.

That should put your guest in a good mood. They w then say that whatever else you serve is out of this world. Guests should always feel they are well liked and wanted.

This also makes a nice summer salad.

Finely chop a quarter each of a red and green pepper and a medium size onion. Add it to two cups of grated carrots. it is colorful and pretty.

For the dressing mix two tablespoons of salad oil, teaspoon of white wine vinegar, some salt and pepper, and you have it made.

It is great with some raisins or even nuts.

'Best sausage in Ohio'

That's goal of Shiloh grocer-butcher-public servant

"I don't want a big store like Mr. Cornell's at Shelby, I just want a place where I know where everything is, what it cost me, and what I can sell it for, and where I can make the best darned sausage in Ohio!"

In 43 words, J. (for James) Michael Bauer, Class of 1967, Plymouth High school, tells it all.

Press him a little bit and he'll amplify on them.

"I try to be a good family man (he has a wife, nee Sandra Kisaling, Fostoria, and three children, Jason, 11; Jody, six, and Jeremiah, six months; that it's a papa and mama business is manifest by the presence of the baby in his carriage in the store, where a friendly soul with a mind to be helpful can even change the little rascal!) and I try to make my town a better place to live in."

The judgment of his friends and neighbors is that he scores high on both counts: he's a good family man and he goes out of his way to serve his town.

What town? Shiloh, the only incorporated community in Cass township, of which he is a trustee of public affairs, an office to which he will seek reelection on Nov. 8.

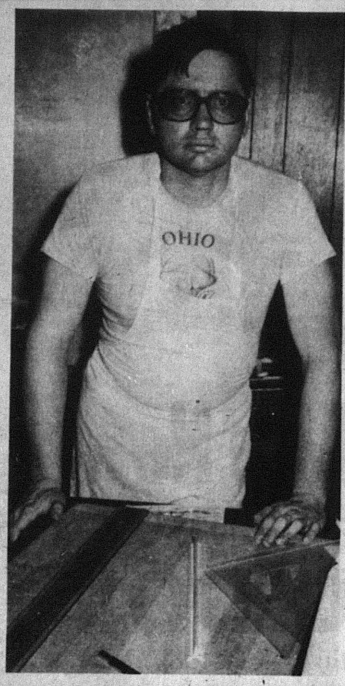

As such, he more or less oversees the operation, on a day-to-day basis, of the water and sewer plants, in part because his fellow trustees aren't available in town all the time, in part because while he was on Navy duty, he learned the techniques of such management (and is angry that Ohio won't allow him to take the qualifying examination to be certified as a water and sewer plant operator without attending a lengthy school out of town for six months or so – he can't afford the time!).

It occupies much of what spare time he has. But he squeezes in some time to be finance officer of Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, and leader of the Boy Scouts, having served his time as Cubmaster while his eldest child was enrolled.

Son of Frederick Bauer and the late Hallie Bauer, Mike Bauer grew up in Plymouth. He started to work for Nevin Border at Border's market there on a part-time basis while he was still a schoolboy, back in 1963, and it was there that he learned the ropes of butchering.

Eldest of three Bauer children, he went into the Navy upon graduation and served 60 days less than two and a half years. Now he's in the Navy Reserve, assigned as Utilityman 2nd Class in the 6th Naval Reserve Regiment of Glenville, Ill., detached to Selfridge, Mich.

He married on Aug. 1, 1970.

And nearly 10 years later, on May 30, 1980, he took over a moribund operation at Shiloh and "laid my blood on the line, with some satisfying results. At least, I've proved to myself that hard work never hurt anybody and it shows in my tax return and my bank balance."

To what extent?

The meat cutting department of Bauer's Market in East Main street at Shiloh is undergoing remodelling, which is planned to be completed by July 15.

Why?

"We've been notified our application to get a hotel, restaurant and institutional service license has been approved so we're changing things around so that we can expand the volume to meet some of the needs of some of that business."

What business?

"We did quite a bit of trade with operators of concessions at fairs, thinking we were in compliance with the law. But we found out we weren't, so we cut that out until now we are able to serve tht line because we're licensed to do so."

Serve that line with what?

"With sausage. When our remodelling is complete, we'll start again to make pork sausage. We make five kinds, basically, chorizo, which is a Spanish-Mexican type; bratwurst, hot Italian, sweet Italian and country sausage."

How much of it is done right here in this shop?

"We don't slaughter here but we supervise it. We buy our own animals on the trotter and then we supervise its slaughter and processing after that until it's ready to put on sale. This includes boning and cutting and seasoning and grinding and stuffing.

"We use only natural casings, which we buy. We have a secret formula for the preparation of each kind of sausage."

Is the formula one that was handed down or bought from an established sausage maker?

"Not on your life. It's our own. Once we made some that was so bad we had to take it to the county landfill. But by trial and error we have produced a formula that the public likes."

"What seasonings do you use and where do you get them?

'We buy seasonings in quantities up to 350 pounds at a clip of each type from an outfit at York, Ill., mostly because we couldn't find a vendor in Ohio. We buy the usual salt, pepper and sage and we buy also fennel, marjoram, coriander, which is hard to come by, allspice, cayenne pepper and one or two lesser spices."

Then what?

"We think we have (wait a minute: who's we? "Why, my wife, Sandy, and I, who else?") a special technique that nobody else pays any attention to. We season the meat and let it stand with the seasonings turned fully throughout the mixture for overnight or a bit longer before we mix it one more time and put it into the stuffing machine to pump into the casing."

In season, he accepts deer carcasses for dressing, but only if he can see the tag issued by the state game protector that the deer was legally shot or killed. He cuts the venison steaks, grinds some of the meat into deer-burger and packages other parts of the carcass for freezing and/or natural curing.

What of the future?

"I came to Shiloh with my wife's blessing because I thought there was an opportunity here. Heck, it had only one way to go, which was up. It could hardly go down any more. If through what I can do, what we can do, we can put Shiloh on the map a little more than the excellent ox roast at the end of each July does for it, then we'll have done our job."

That job is a big one and it takes a goodly amount of his time. And to meet his reserve obligation requires him to be absent for a fortnight or more at a spell. During this period, Wife Sandy and Baby Jeremiah hold the fort.

But no job is too big if it means a chance to do some community service that'll help his adopted place. In February, he accepted appointment to the board of trustees of Willard Area hospital, filling the chair vacated by Mrs. Darrel Clemans, nee Damaris Swartz, who resigned for family reasons.

What's ahead? "I've got this remodeling to see to and that phone call was the clerk, saying if I want to keep my job as trustee of public affairs I've got to file a petition. Now where do I get a petition? Mansfield? I suppose I've got to find the time to go there. Maybe I'll be on a wild goose chase: there're some people here that don't like me or what I've done and they might throw me our in November."

Fat chance.

Attica raises mayor's salary by 60 per cent

Village of Attica has approved salary increases for municipal officers.

Its mayor will henceforth receive $1,200, an increase of $450. Its clerk will be paid $7,500, up from $4,500. Trustees of public affairs and president pro tempore of the council will receive $16 a session, a 100 per cent raise.

The council retained Lester G. Poggemeyer & Associates, Lexington, for $1 a year as consultant in applying for federal grants.

David Getter, Clayton, formerly elementary principal in the Precious Blood school at Dayton, is the new junior high school and elementary school principal at Republic, in the Seneca East system. He will be paid $25,727.29 annually. He is a graduate of the University of Dayton.

Superintendent of schools will receive a pay raise to $34,061.65, an increase of $2,000. Pay for the high school principal is $28,859.-62, for the assistant high school principal $24,161.13, the elementary principal $24,384.31.

Base pay for new teachers holding the baccalaureate degree is $12,500. Teachers with a master's degree and 15 years of experience will be paid $20,887.50.

Don and Tara Granter have bought the Walking Horse Inn at Bellville from Tavo and Bonnie Zenil, who owned it nearly four years.

Shelby's log cabin will be moved to Central park. Shelby Board of Education entered into a lease at $1 a year with the City of Shelby, which then leased the plot to The Friends of the Log Cabin.

Six years after he died, a champion English bulldog was buried in Angel Refuge cemetery at Ontario. Champion Dee-Moe Commander Duffy, known as Billy to his owners, the Frank Nezoviches, died in August, 1977. The animal cemetery wasn't open then. So the Nezoviches bought a child's casket and a 1,600-pound vault and put their 60-pound animal in it, then stored the vault in their garage until a suitable resting place could be found. They didn't want him dumped in a landfill and village regulations prohibit interment in the yard of any residence.

James E. Martin, the controversial police officer at Norwalk, has been fired again. This time it's because he refused to report for duty. His argument is that he wants to work as a policeman bu the chief, Donald Daugherty, who is said to want to break Martin because Martin would score highest in any exam for the chief's job, which Daugherty will soon relinquish (Martin has a college degree), insists that Martin shall serve only in desk work. Since August of last year, the chief has refused to allow Martin to serve on patrol or to carry weapon.

The hearing of Mrs. Frederick Lohmann, suspended teacher in North Fairfield Middle school, on charges that she wrote sexual solicitations to pupils, have stirred up an otherwise tranquil South Central school district.

The hearing is before an Ashland attorney, who will determine within 10 days of its completion whether the school board should or may fire Mrs. Lohmann, 42.

Two persons with local connections are involved.

Jacque Daup, who grew up in Shiloh and graduated from Plymouth High school in 1970, is a teacher in the district. He testified he intercepted a note alleged to have been written by Mrs. Lohmann and handed it to her principal, Mrs. Marie Strayer. Daup said, "I wouldn't want my daughter to read it."

Thomas Baker, formerly village administrator here, now living in Greenwich, where he is employed by the village, rose twice during a hearing last week to complain that his daughter was interviewed by investigators for the county prosecutor and her testimony taped without his permission. He objects to this and threatens a law suit if the child's testimony is publicly exposed.

Who Makes The News...

THIS PAPER CARES ABOUT?

YOU DO!!

Somewhere there's the news of a new citizen or two who's come into our lives, noisy and hungry. To you, it's a baby. To others it's a sister or a brother or a niece or a grandson. But its arrival is an important and happy event worthy of notice.

Somewhere else there is news of losses — grievous ones — and we have occasion to reflect on the sometimes inscrutible nature of life's patterns.

Then there are graduations, and weddings, homecomings and leavings. There are meetings and plannings and projects.. All the efforts expended by you to advance a cause, change a situation, improve our community. There are promotions and advancements and honors and controversies.

There are the exertions of volunteer firemen serving us with their skill and dedication, and of so many others who provide community services.

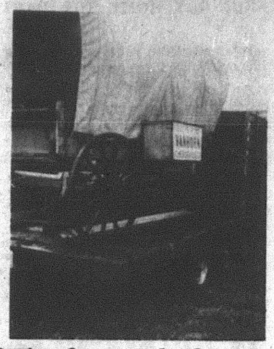

All this — the complexity of community life — is reported and commented on by this newspaper 52 weeks a year.

Basic to these efforts is the realization that this newspaper exists not just FOR YOU . . . but BECAUSE OF YOU.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Who's guilty? We all are!

To put a finger on what's wrong with Plymouth would require a hand such as none has ever seen.

The departing Methodist minister, in what appears to be his valedictory in several ways, says in print, "They often tell me they would like to attend a church in town but they don't know anyone and no one from a church in town has visited them. People don't join a church because the minister visits them, since ministers come and go, but they join because the people invite them and are friendly. Only one out of 10-20 that the average pastor visits ever joins the church, while two out of every three that are invited by lay people join the church."

Amen.

Unfortunately, the dominie doesn't suggest what ought to be done about it, or how the problem can be rectified.

Which brings to mind an occurrence at our dinner table only two weeks ago. Some folks whom we've known for a long time at long last came to break bread with us. During the main course, the conversation stretched to the Soandsos.

"We don't know them," sajd Mrs. Suchandsuch.

"Pardon me," said the fellow at the head of the table, "but you've lived neighbors, only five houses away from them, for longer than I've known you. What do you mean you 'don't know them'?"

"We just don't know them."

It is impossible in print to convey the inflection of Mrs. Suchandsuch's response. But everybody who's lived here for six months or so will grasp it at once. We just don't know them.

There are those who cherish their privacy. And who is there to say they're not entitled to it?

One fellow in this community approached the new occupant next door and said, "We don't visit, we don't borrow and we don't lend. We don't go back and forth. And we don't cotton to people that do."

His frankness is admirable. If he can live with himself, more power to him.

The morning mail last week, delivering a missive from a long time subscriber, shed more light on this matter.

"We've been gone for lo, these 10 happy years. The names of the people in the news have changed. They are people we don't know. . . not know in the sense of being acquainted with them but know in the sense of recognizing the family surname.

"It is a fact, regardless of how much old subscribers dislike it, that times have changed. Where once the village newspaper printed almost a page of who-visited-whom, and The Advertiser did a heck of a good job of it, people don't do that anymore. The growth of TV and the area shopping mall changed that for all time. Conversation as a means of communicating between and among neighbors is less a force than it was when we married.

"When as an old sports fan I study the lineups of the high school and other teams, I see names that don't mean diddly-beans to me; they are names of players from families that are not only strangers to me by face and by occupation and place of residence, but they are complete strangers by their families' names."

No person or group of persons seeking to stem the inexorable tide of Plymouth can succeed without careful study and understanding of its demographics, of which these observations are only a part.

The boys admitted to deputies they stole the motorcycle from a barn at the Milton Ray Brown residence in Ganges-Five Points road and later took the truck from the Michael Lee Coon residence in Fackler road.

The motorcycle was found in a barn at the Coon place and the truck in the wheat field. Deputies said the truck was stolen about 9 p. m. and the boys were arrested before 11 p. m.

Firemen answered a call Monday at 6:30 p. m. to the property of Desmond Finigan, Fenner and Henry roads, where a barn was ablaze.

Whose fire? Tiffany's!

It wholly depends on who you are!

Saturday night Mayor Dean A. Cline and Mrs. Cline built a small fire in their yard so their daughter, Tiffany, and her friends could roast wieners and marshmallows.

When the evening was finished, Assistant Fire Chief Kenneth Echelberry appeared in fire gear to put the fire out.

He walked, however, and did not drive the village pumper.

Despite two nay votes —

New Shiloh utility fees hurdle second reading

Two nay votes failed to prevent June 22 approval on second reading of a Shiloh ordinance establishing electric and sewer connection charges for commercial users.

Councilman Delmar Nesbitt and Richard Tallman again voted nay.

Tallman's argument is the village should pay for such charges to encourage establishment of business there. The ordinance requires customers to pay for materials and labor.

A zoning amendment will be submitted to the village planning commission, composed of Robert Moser, David Harris and Kenneth Huston, which will be seized of the proposal for 30 days. The amendment defines a junkyard as "more than 25 square feet of the area of any lot, whether inside or outside a building, when waste, used or second-hand materials are bought and sold, exchanged, stored, baled, packed, disassembled, or wrecked automobiles or parts, used lumber or other building materials, paper, rags, rubber tires, and bottles or other glass."

Cost of a new door to the village hall is $175, Nesbitt reported. Reason for such high cost: height of the door is unusual. The council agreed a new door is required by will study the savings of reducing the size of the door by installing a lower sill.

Householders not yet connected to the sanitary sewer will be afforded 90 days to comply. Trustees of public affairs recommended such action. They will use a harmless colored smoke to determine if a household is connected properly. Storm drainage may not be channeled into the sanitary system.

Editor named to park board

A. L. Paddock, Jr., editor of The Advertiser, was on June 21 sworn to a new four-year term as trustee of Mary Fate park.

Ohio law requires a board of four members to be equally divided by political party registration. Paddock is a Republican. So is Wayne H. Strine. F. Ellsworth Ford and Eldon Burkett are Democrats.

Locomotive to go to two parades

Saturday it will go to a parade in Norwalk.

It will then come back via Greenwich and be in that parade.

Roots sell to C. D. Mack

Charles D. Mack has bought the premises of Lawrence J. Root at 25 Brooks court and will occupy it upon his marriage next month.

David W. Dick succumbs at 61

He was retired from the Defense Construction Supply Center, Columbus. He was a member of Parkview Presbyterian church.

His wife, Ruth, died earlier.

A son, Larry W., Cadiz; a sister, Mary Helen, now Mrs. Chester Eckstorowics, Philadelphia, Pa., and two brothers, John T. and Charles H., both of Plymouth, survive.

Services were conducted from his church by the Rev. Bob Russell Thursday at 10 a. m. His family received mourners in McQuate-Secor Funeral home Thursday from 2 to 3 p. m. Interment was in the Strauss family plot in Greenlawn cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the church building fund.

Mrs. Seville bakes a pie — five feet wide!

The cook who bakes a pie might consider, next time, the achievement of Mrs. Clarence Seville.

For the 1983 Cherry Festival at Bellevue, she baked a cherry pie, charming Billy! And what a pie! It took 40 pounds of cherries, 12 pounds of sugar, 20 pounds of flour, six pounds of shortening and "lots" of corn starch, and it measured five feet across. So big, it took two people to lift it into an oven.

And an oven big enough to accommodate such a pastry is just what every baker has, or ought to have, in the kitchen!

Museums? This one's just a real doll!

By AUNT LIZ

There must be a museum for just about everything in this world.

And I am willing to bet that this country has more assorted ones than any other in the world, which covers a lot of territory and a lot of people.

States, cities, villages, counties have them, even our federal government, and each is worth a visit if you happen to be nearby, which isn't too hard because no matter which direction you take, there will be one along the way.

However, a great number of them are the result of someone with a pet hobby of collecting a certain thing, and being well-heeled is able to build his own and leave funds to maintain it or he just leaves the money for someone else to struggle with the building and setting it up.

Now I have just read of one in Rochester, N. Y., which opened last year.

It sounds great. Mostly dolls.

They belonged to a gal whom I think must have been part of the Eastman family. She lived in a nice, spacious 30-room house most of her life, but the dolls had 25 of them so she was a little cramped in five rooms. She actually collected other things, bu the dolls were her pets.

There are thousands of them now housed in a real museum that was built with the 60 million she left.

Another part of the collection, which would be reel fun to see, is her 400 doll houses. They have become quite a hobby and are such fun. It is something a little girl can grow up with and keep adding to. It can also become a family project and is great for ideas of what to give for a birthday or Christmas. We have several friends who have started them for their grandchildren, which makes it a nice thing to pass on for the next 10 generations.

If you really do not plan any museum hopping this summer, you can country hop right in your kitchen or back yard.

First try Korea, which is a place some have seen and never want to see again, and some will never get around to seeing it.

This is called Bulgogi and is about the happiest dish you can find.

Slice up two pounds of good steak, cut thinly on the bias, then score each strip with an X, which must do something when it is soaking in marinade.

Make a mixture of three chopped scallions, four crushed garlic cloves, five tablespoons of soy sauce, a fourth of a cup of sugar, a fourth of a cup of beef stock, some ground black pepper, two tablespons of sherry and two tablespoons of sesame oil if you have it, otherwise regular cooking oil works.

Marinate at least two hours, but better overnight, then simply grill it quickly, close your eyes and pretend it is a fancy Korean restaurant instead of your own kitchen.

'77 alumnus takes bride in Amsterdam ceremony

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church at Amsterdam was the scene of the nuptial mass celebrated May 21 at 3:30 p. m. by the Rev. Francis Rothbauer by which Michael Earl Mellott took Miss Barbara Jean Evanosky as his bride in a double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the Joseph Evanoskys, Bergholz route 1, an alumna of Kent State university in 1982. The bridegroom is the younger son of the Milton E. Mellotts, Plymouth route 1, a 1977 graduate of Plymouth High school who received the baccalaureate degree of Kent State university in 1981. He is employed at Mansfield United Telephone Co.

Mary Agnes Rowen, organist, was also soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an original gown by Alfred Angelo, styled of Alencon and Chantilly lace with fitted bodice, A-line ruffled skirt with train of layers of ruffles and bishop sleeves ruffled at the wrists. Her Juliet cap was of matching fabric, from which was suspended a fingertip-length veil.

She carried a single gardenia amidst Sonia roses, pastel carnations and pompom chrysanthemums and stephanotis.

Mrs. Laurie Dye was matron of honor, the bride's niece, Sandy Evanosky; Jana Carson, Kate Stroup and Marian Concheck bridesmaids.

Each was attired in peach chiffon fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt with white lace ruffle at its hem. The same white lace accented the off-shoulder neckline. Each carried a pastel carnation and pompom chrysanthemums and white daisies.

The bridegroom's niece, Amber Lahmon, was flower girl.

Stephen Fenner was best man. Edward Mellott, the bridegroom's brother; Timothy Roberts, Andrew Eddy and Scott Craffins ushered.

After a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the couple is living in Mansfield.

New Washington scene of nuptials uniting scion of Fenner family

Niece of Mrs. Salvatore J. Glorioso and granddaughter of the late Mike Fenners, Plymouth, Miss Cheryl Ann Heydinger, New Washington, was married in St. Bernard's Roman Catholic church there to Luke Anthony Rietschlin, Crestline. The bride is the daughter of the William Heydingers. Her mother is the former Rose Fenner of Plymouth.

The Rev. John Laudick was celebrant of the mass.

Soloists were the bridegroom, his sister, Betsy; Mark Heydinger, the bride's brother, and Mrs. Douglas Shell, the bridegroom's sister.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white bridal satin styled with scooped sweetheart neckline, full pouf sleeves and fitted bodice, featuring Alencon lace and tiny seed pearls. The slightly gathered skirt extended into a chapel-length train.

She made a crown of bridal Illusion with double crown of tiny seed pearls and sequins. Her veil, appliqued with lace, resembled that of her mother at her wedding. She wore her mother's opal necklace and earrings.

She carried pink carnations, yellow roses, stephanotis, tiny pink flowers tied with pink bows and baby's breath and ivy.

The bride's sister, Beth, maid of honor, was attired in soft pink brocade satin with flounce bodice, softly gathered skirt and cap sleeves. Her headpiece was of baby's breath and pink flowers. She carried silk flowers in deep pink, soft pink and yelow with baby's breath.

The bride's sisters, Patricia and Jotonda; the bridegroom's sister, Betsy; the bride's cousin, Vicki Beeson, and Mardha Southern, bridesmaids, were attired as the maid of honor.

James Finney, Crestline, was best man. Douglas Shell, Thomas Rietschlin, the bridegroom's brother; Stephen Heydinger, the bride's brother, and Robert Pofher ushered.

Tricia Sheibley was flower girl.

Mrs. Heydinger chose a street-length dress of mint green with ruffled jacket. Mrs. Rietschlin was attired in mint green of street length with cap. Each wore pink carnations with yellow rosebuds.

A reception took place in the church hall.

Street repair advertisement directed

An ordinance to allow James C. Root, village administrator, to advertise for bids to repair streets was approved by village council Tuesday night.

Root said the repairs are badly needed on Hoffman, Dix, Park, Walnut, Brazilian and New streets. He added that Park should be widened in the area of the Midget League field.

He also said the B&O railroad will assist in repairing the Walnut street crossing and the AC&Y railroad plans to do the same for the Plymouth street crossing.

Approval by resolution was given to Mary Fate park board for improvements which will include more playground equipment and roadway repair.

Root said the village has made application to the Department of Natural Resources for matching funds for the improvements. The village's share, he said, will total about $8,000, which will come from park and federal revenue sharing funds. The deadline for applying for this grant is tomorrow, and with councilmanic approval it can be done.

There was no mention of what occurred a week before at a special council meeting when Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine said he wished to be relived of all ambulance duties and responsibilities.

He said then that he will continue as fire chief for a short period of time.

Also present at that meeting was Kenneth Echelberry, who has been the assistant fire chief in charge of the ambulance squad.

He asked what his status would be with Strine out of the ambulance responsibility, and would he receive more renumeration for the extra responsibility.

The council seemed to want the fire and ambulance departments to stay as they are and was reluctant to make a decision, hoping Strine might change his mind.

There is no question that Strine has become irked with the council. He made two decisions concerning the zoning ordinance when he was acting as the deputy zoning inspector. He had ruled that the replacement of a trailer in Riggs stret by Robert Remmy was contrary to the ordinance. His other decision was that Weber's Cafe should not expand into an adjoining room, which for several months had been occupied by a different type of business.

In both instances, his decisions were overruled.

The council turned the whole problem of Strine over to the safety committee, which will meet July 7 at 7:30 p. m.

Cheers! Cheerers choicest in camp

Varsity cheerleaders were chosen chosen camp champion at the Universal Cheerleading association camp at Bowling Green State university June 13 to 16. Over 50 squads from Ohio, Michigan and West Virginia attended.

The Plymouth squad, coached by Mrs. Bradley Ream, was awarded one red excellent ribbon, four blue superior ribbons and four gold superior ribbons. The squad performed an originally choreographed pompom routine to "Rage in the Cage." The performance received a blue superior ribbon and a gold ribbon as being one of the top three routines at camp. The reserve squad from Plymouth, coached by Mrs. William Nadolsky, received one white good ribbon, two excellent red ribbons and one blue superior ribbon. The two squads combined to receive the UCA spirit stick each day, including the honor to bring it home to display in the school show case.

Members of the varsity squad are Glenda Will, Michelle Hamons and Shelli Mowery, 12th graders, Angie Cole, Lenora Caudill, Renee Carter and Kelly Wilson, 11th graders. Reserve squad is made up of Marilyn Tackett, Karnel Edler and Marla Ousley, 10th graders, and Lana Laser, ninth grader.

Budget hearing set Tuesday

There was no financial committee report because of the absence of Councilman G. Thomas Moore. However, it was again announced the annual budget hearing will be Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the village hall.

Mayor finds Arthur innocent

A plea of not guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, specifically the use of offensive and vulgar language to Mrs. William C. Enderby, filed by her against Jack Arthur, her neighbor, resulted in a finding of not guilty by Mayor Dean A. Cline Tuesday night.

Cline said he heard no evidence from Mrs. Enderby or her husband to substantiate the charge, which he said should not have reached his court for trial, but should have been funneled through the village solicitor, where presumably it would have been rejected.

Arthur called on two police officers to buttress his arguments. He denied all of the Enderbys' allegations and claimed Mrs. Enderby made coarse remarks about the lack of beauty of his children. Mrs. Arthur refuted Enderby's testimony and that of his wife that he was standing within 10 feet of the alleged exchange. She insisted she sat in the Arthurs' car and could not see Enderby any where.

Arthur admitted the core of the dispute is the placement of a house trailer by the Enderbys in close proximity to the Arthur house. The placement was filed with the village and was approved by it as within the governing ordinance.

Neil McKown, the Enderby's attorney, was present but did not participate in the trial.

Charges of resisting arrest, improper passing and no operator's license against Billy A. Sexton, Plymouth, were continued.

John C Stima, Tiro, was fined $15 and costs for peeling tires.

Brian T Carson, Shelby, paid $15 and costs for speeding.

Floyd R. Sexton, Shelby, accused of failure to halt within an assured clear distance, was fined $15 and costs.

Ralph A. Martinez, Shelby, was fined $18 and costs for speeding.

Tuttle no hits Greenwich, 11 to 0, in Teener play

Freddy Tuttle, Plymouth Merchants hurler, threw a no hit, no run game at Greenwich there Monday night in Tri-County Teener league play.

The score was 11 to 0.

He struck out 11 batsmen and didn't issue a pass.

What's more, he collected three hits in four trips to the plate.

Greenwich seems to be easy pickings for Plymouth teams this season.

Plymouth Invaders, junior edition of the Merchants, coached by Eric Hedeen, tackled Dr. Ira Willet's Greenwich nine here Thursday and walked away with a 17 to 2 verdict abbreviated by the 15-run rule.

League rules call for the game to be halted when a team leads by 15 runs.

Plymouth started Jeff Staggs, who gave way to Charlie Beverly, who picked up the victory.

Referendum by OHSAA may allow girls in contact

By THE OLD TIMER

Despite the failure of the ERA to become the 27th amendment to the Constitution, Ohio High School Athletic association will poll its membership to determine if its rules will be adjusted to accommodate girls in so-called contact sports.

The referendum will be submitted in November. It proposes to deleter Section I-7 (a), which says, "In all contact sports: Football, Wrestling, Ice Hockey and Basketball, team members shall be of the same sex" and to replace it with the deleted wording plus "The board of education may, if it decides the overall opportunities for interscholastic competition for girls are limited, adopt a resolution authorizing girls to play on a boys team."

There's no statement as to whether, if the referendum carries, boys will then be permitted to play on volleyball, basketball and softball teams, the interpretation being whether "overall opportunities for interscholastic competition" means affording every boy a chance to play something, even if he's not good enough to make, say not good enough to make, say, the 12-man varsity basketball or 12-man reserve basketball team or the football team as a starter or first line reserve.

'Nam veteran unhappy with cards dealt him by ex-wife, court

Jamie Cuthbert lives only a good No. 2 wood shot from the Huron-Richland county line but he can't afford to play much golf these days. What's more, he's so mad you could light a cigar from the end of his nose.

Jamie, which is not his real name, was especially mad on June 18.

"That was Father's day and by damn, I didn't get to see my kids. Under the court's order, I was supposed to have visiting rights that weekend but I didn't get 'em and it's too late to do anything about it now."

Cuthbert, which is not his real surname, either, figures he's paid his dues and that he hasn't been treated fairly.

"I went to 'Nam and I got my tail shot at a few times and I put up with the miserable conditions and the rotten climate and God knows what else and I managed to keep my sanity, but just barely, despite what happened to me, and when I got home I figured that I'd be left alone and given the opportunity to make it like the rest of America."

He draws on his cigarette and emits a huge cloud of tired, really tired smoke and then he says, "If you believe that's what I got, you're a damn' sight dumber than I figured you for."

The details are a matter of public record.

After he was in 'Nam, his wife left him for another. Without a divorce, and he doesn't know to this day when her allotments stopped, she went to live with a friend, by whom she had a child. She and the child died as a result of poor or no pre-natal care.

He was offered the chance to come home to set his affairs to rights. "But I didn't see that I could do any good if I did come home and I'd probably have to go back to that Godforsaken place again so I stayed on till my time was up."

He was discharged and he went on a five week toot.

"God man, I didn't draw a sober breath for all that time and I went through money like it was goin' out of style. Then my brother got hold of me and he grabbed me by the neck, and I mean, mister, he just grabbed me by the neck, and he said, 'Enough is enough. Get yourself in gear and get over this crap. The time to get going is now.' So I quit the drinking, for a while at least, and I got a job and I was doing all right.

"Then I got to going with Christine. She was working and her family seemed well off and so we got married. After we had three kids, we bought a house, and I worked overtime about a dozen hours a week and worked weekends in that damned bar to make enough so we could pay for the house and she didn't have to work but could stay home and take care of the kids.

"Then, by God, she let me know she didn't want any more of that ———. She said it was up to me to look after the kids as much as it was up to her, and she made up a schedule of nights that I was to stay home and mind the kids. Three nights a week, whether I worked overtime or not, and since one of them was Friday, I had to give up my bar job on Friday nights.

"Well, I tried to live with it, but it wasn't easy. I was still trying to get 'Nam out of my system, I guess, and I found I didn't talk the same language as she did. I got to thinking that most of what she was saying was boring and didn't amount to much; all she talked about was what she saw on TV, these damn soap operas, and what she had bought to wear.

"Finally, one night, I'd had it and I told her that even though it was my night to watch the kids, I was going to go out and work on my truck.

"The last thing she said to me as I walked out the door was, 'You better see that the kids get a bath and get to bed, because I won't!'"

It was observed that he evidently had more trouble than he bargained for.

"What's that you always say, 'You can find enough trouble lying around loose in the street, so don't go out buyin' it'? Well, I guess I bought it.

"Anyway, I worked on my truck and tried to keep the kids quiet and then I went in and gave them their baths and put them to sleep. She came in at midnight or a little after and we had words. She admitted to me she went to bed with some guy.

"And she said she didn't think she owed me anything at all, she had given me three kids and had washed my clothes and cooked my meals and made my beds and swept my house and done my shopping and she didn't think she owed me any more.

"So I asked her if she agreed that I had been a good provider and that I was a good father and if she thought I was out cheatin' on her. She said yes to the first two and no to the third.

"Well, before the month was out, she asked me what I was gonna do. She said she was sleeping with this guy regularly and she wanted something done about it. Then she suggested a no-fault divorce.

"So we went to see a lawyer and after $450 and some haranguing we got a no-fault divorce. The lawyer said that as I couldn't prove she wat guilty of adultery and she couldn't testify against herself, I probably couldn't win if I filed suit for divorce.

"The result of all this is that she got the divorce, she got our car, she got our house, which she sold and pocketed the money after the mortgage was paid off and she got custody of the kids. I've got to pay child support each month. She's got a full-time job and with child support she has more money than I do.

"I have under the court order rights of visitation of the kids: every other Saturday and Sunday, except by arrangement. If my birthday or something like that comes up and the kids want to spend it with me, she's supposed to agree to change the schedule."

Okay, Jamie, does she?

"F——— no she doesn't! She doesn't change a damn thing. All she does is call me up and say the kids need something or other and I must cough up so much to buy it for them or she'll report me to the court. Cripes, it's hard enough to hold a job these days, if the court gets into my job and ties up my paycheck, it'll make the employer mad and the next time he needs to cut back, I'll be the first one to go. So what can I do? I can't do a f————g thing except take it and like it."

He lighted another cigarette.

"I'm taking but I sure as hell don't like it. And don't let these county b——s come telling me they need more money to run their f——g courts, I would't p–s down their throats if their guts were afire."

Jamie Cuthbert is mad, hopping mad, clear through mad, maybe violent mad.

Is there anyone who blames him?

'I can't do a . . . . thing except take it and like it . . . I'm taking it but I sure don't like it!'

U. S. marshal thanks PPD

Gratitude for the support of Plymouth Police department in apprehending a federal suspect in Townline road 111 on June 10 was sent to Mayor Dean A. Cline and Acting Chief Frank Hodge by Howward R. Dolbow, enforcement specialist, acting for Earl L. Rife, U. S. Marshal, Toledo.

A copy of the letter has been placed in Hodge's personnel file.

A daughter was born Saturday in Shelby Memorial hospital to the Paul McKenzies, 41 Trux street.

Bellevue GE, Crestline Conley's close

How competition and change of the public's buying habits affect the market place was shown dramatically last week.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. announced it will close seven stores, those in Toledo, Oregon, Perrysburg and Bluffton. There will be just one A&P store left in northwest Ohio. That in New London was an early victim of A&P's belt tightening, which during 1981 resulted in a net loss of $43 million on sales of $7 billion and last year produced a net of $21.4 million on sales of $4.6 billion.

Conley's, a discount store operating in Crestline, closed its doors. The experienced editor at Crestline, Joseph J. Petti, says in a signed column in the Crestline Advocate the place closed because it was competing against established stores selling the same type of merchandise and concludes the outlet might have succeeded in Crestline if it had sold clothing.

So the complex that housed the operation is vacant. Petti expresses the hope it may be soon filled. "There is room for a new business venture . . . hopefully, it will be something that the community really wants."

No survey of what the Crestline community really wants has so far been made, so far as is known.

Nevertheless, Crestline is pushing ahead with a request for a federal grant of $755,876 to build a new 16-inch water line to the Geauga Plastic plant in the southeast side of the city.

Its highly successful community development director, Joseph Zara, who has obtained millions in federal grants for a city of just over 6,000 in population, says the grant will be sought under the "Jobs Bill" passed by Congress in March. The improvement is said to protect 200 jobs at Geauga and create 100 more over the next four years.

The city would pay $100,000 and Geauga Plastic $88,960.

Bellevue was struck a knockout blow about three weeks before the solar plexus punch delivered to Mansfield by the announcement that Empire Detroit Steel plans to close. General Electric Co. says it will close the light plant at Bellevue, costing the city 440 jobs. The city says closing of the plant will cost it 14 per cent of municipal income. Bellevue School district will lose four per cent of its revenues.

A task force has been organized to recruit a replacement.

Killers of four persons in Morrow county are still undetected and not arrested. Sheriff Tom Harden says. Cathy Conley, 17, Marion, was last seen alive June 1, 1979. Her body was found near a corn field north of Edison June 15, 1979. Rebecca Seaburn, 25, Mt. Gilead, was murdered on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26, 1981. She was a registered nurse in the hospital at Mt. Gilead. Lori Robinson and Annette Huddle, teenagers, both believed to have been killed in or near Morrow county, are also unsolved homicides.

Every incorporated community in Morrow county save one showed a loss of population between 1970 and 1980, although the county increased from 21,348 to 26,480, a total of 5,132.

The facts:

Mt. Gilead, 2,971 in 1970, 2,911 in 1980; Cardington, 1,730 in 1970, 1,665 in 1980; Edison, 569 in 1970, 504 in 1980; Marengo, 330 in 1970, 329 in 1980; Chesterville, 264 in 1970, 242 in 1980; Sparta, 213 in 1970, 219 in 1980; Fulton, 377 in 1970, 378 in 1980.

How about repairing some of the potholes in education?

By DANIEL GREENBERG

STEPHEN AUSTIN, ROTHCO CARTOONS

"I was an architect until I found my true calling in potholes."

IN SUPPORT of his nickel-a-gallon highway-repair tax, that was a touching tale that President Reagan recently told about the bridge that's so decrepit that school-bus drivers insist that the children walk across.

What might have been added was a reference to the potholes in the education system that confront vast numbers of students when they finally arrive at school. Particularly in science and mathematics, subjects indispensable to the economic revival that the administration fervently pursues, the American education system resembles a spreading desert as trained teachers quit for more rewarding jobs in business and industry. The educational ranks are so thin throughout the nation, that it's been wisecracked that, if it were not for out-of-season teaching by football coaches, science and mathematics would disappear from many schools.

Surveys taken by the National Science Teachers Association regularly produce appalling information about the quality and extent of science and mathematics teaching. Last year, more than 40 states reported serious shortages of teachers in these fields. Lured by better pay and working conditions, the teachers are abandoning the schools in record numbers. According to the association, retirees were outnumbered nearly five to one last year by teachers quitting for jobs outside education.

Many school systems have curtailed science and mathematics courses, and, to the extent that they provide them, often rely on unqualified teachers. The National Academy of Sciences reported last year that only one-third of the nation's 17,000 school districts require more than one year of science or mathematics for graduation. The Science Teachers Association found that 51 percent of elementary-school teachers in these subjects never had any training at all in how to teach them. In-service training was reported to be a rarity, one reason being, of course, that immediately upon taking office, the Reagan administration terminated the sole government program designed to keep science teachers abreast of modern science.

The result has been starkly described in congressional testimony by James Rutherford, chief education officer of the American Association for the Advancement of Science: "At the elementary-school level, instruction in science has almost ceased, being no more in most classrooms than a few minutes a week of reading from textbooks." Rutherford added that secondary schools are experiencing "a dramatic and disturbing decrease in the quality of science and mathematics teachers," and warned that "undergraduates are not choosing to prepare for careers in science and mathematics teaching; the schools are not hiring new science and mathematics teachers, and the system is simply winding down."

Remedial efforts taken so far are inconsequential. Over the administration's opposition, Congress has appropriated $15 million to help retrain science teachers, a sum that Reagan's newly appointed director of the National Science Foundation, Edward Knapp, candidly describes as "ridiculous" in terms of the need. Professional science and mathematics organizations are studying how they might assist the schools, both locally and nationally.

But no one believes that the long-running deterioration can be reversed without the kind of strong financial assistance that is available these days only from the federal government.

Reagan recognizes this in regard to crumbling highways. He should extend his vision to something even more perilous: crumbling education.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

What mistakes?

What is worth reflecting upon of a hot evening in early July, the nation not yet sure of whether it's emerging from a dreadful economic slump that has already left inerasicable scars on this town, scars that will become more conspicuous in days to come.

A distinguished American once said, "If we do not learn from the mistakes of history, we are doomed to repeat them."

What mistakes?

Sometimes it's difficult to take one event, or one cluster of events, and devolve from them a lesson that can be laid down in concrete to defy the ravages of time.

But at other times there is something to be derived from a given set of events that can, if we will but consider them, furnish us guidance for the future.

Fifty years ago this week, Plymouth Board of Education formally moved to reduce all salaries by 20 per cent.

Its superintendent, R. R. Miller, having completed six years here, resigned, to go, of all places, to Bloomville, in Seneca county. Plymouth school district survives. Bloomville was long ago swallowed up by Tiffin, probably with a superior brand of education.

Five hundred persons marched on Columbus to try to persuade Governor White to take some action to relieve their distress. About 75 of them reached Norwalk, where county commissioners loaded them in trucks and hauled them to Plymouth, whence Richland county commissioners trucked them to Bucyrus. Kicking distasteful matters under the rug is nothing new.

The local factory got orders for five locomotives. Such an order today would delight its management and this community.

A Plymouth native, Rear Adm. Benjamin Franklin Day, who served under Admiral Farragut after graduating from the Naval academy, and who sat with Fred Kirtland and an unidentified young women from Plymouth in the theatre while Booth shot President Lincoln, died at 92.

On July 6, when The Advertiser was issued, John J. McGraw and Cornelius McGillicuddy, better known as Connie Mack, led the all-stars of the National and American leagues in the Century of Progress game at Chicago. That game was renewed yesterday.

Plymouth Post office was reduced to third class rank. Even then customers complained that the service wasn't worth the cost.

Marsh run drainage was to be improved, provided that beneficiaries would hold still for assessments.

The mayor of Tiffin, John Dreitzler, only 51, died of apoplexy.

And during this week only 13 years ago, the incumbent mayor sought to get rid of the veteran police chief. The controversy raged, and that is the proper verb, for several weeks, with maneuvering that would become an America's Cup yacht, before the chief was permitted to serve until retirement, but not without subsequent efforts to oust him, on the strength of his public self-flagellation and eating of humble pie.

So the present difficulties with the police department, while they may be of a different character than those of 1970 and of 1972 and of 1975, are nothing new. Plymouth has a history of such difficulties and those who by reason of having been around a long time can look upon two or more generations of events will tell you that it is so. And they will say, rightly or wrongly, "What else did you expect?"

It's that notion, that idea, that we need to stamp out.

Reunions filling Mary Fate park until Sept. 15

The season for Mary Fate park began May 8, when the Saunier family from four states reunited.

For years the Sauniers have "opened and closed the park", Mrs. Wayne Gebert, who handles the reservations, says.

"Since the Boy SCout hut is more usable, they are coming earlier and later. Last year they even invited my husband and me to have Thanksgiving dinner with them," she reports.

On May 20-21 the Girl Scouts used the park facilities.

On May 28 the Lykins family reunion took place. Vicky Feeman staged a graduation party.

On May 29 the Roy Edlers engaged tables for a graduation party for their daughter, Nancy. The Tanner family reunited that day.

The Frisby reunion was June 5. June 6-9 was the Girl Scout day camp.

The Crouse and Tackett reunions were June 12.

The Ripley Chapel had its annual picnic June 19 and the Nordyke reunion was that day.

Fly catching? Trigonometry part of baseball skill

Imagine the process of judging a fly ball: As soon as the ball is launched — either batted or thrown — the fielder must examine the early stages of its trajectory, decide where the ball is going to come down, and then run to the predicted landing point at an appropriate speed.

The best outfielders are able to make this judgment so surely that they can turn their backs to the ball, run to the chosen point and wait for the ball to arrive.

One of the unique aspects of this skill is that there is no way to explain it in words, or to teach someone how to do it. There do not seem to be any coaching techniques or helpful hints that could aid the process of learning or improving one's ability to judge fly balls accurately.

If there is no conscious technique for judging a fly ball, then how is it done at all? In particular, what information does the fielder use subconsciously to decide where the ball is going to land?

Peter Brancazio, a physicist at Brooklyn college, addressed this subject at a recent Joint Meeting of the American Physical Society and the American Association of Physics Teachers.

In 1968, Seville Chapman, a physicist at the Cornell Aeronautics laboratory, proposed that a fielder unknowingly uses trigonometry to judge a fly ball. The specific factor identified by Chapman was the angle of elevation of the ball, the angle that a fielder's line of sight to the ball makes with the ground.

Chapman claimed that the fielder sees the tangent of the angle of elevation increase at a constant rate when he is waiting at the landing point.

If the ball is going over the fielder's head, he will see the tangent increase at an increasing rate (Chapman's homer). If the ball is going to fall in front of him, he will see the tangent increase at a decresing rate. Moreover, when a fielder runs forward or backward to catch a fly ball, he does so at a speed that keeps the tangent of the angle of elevation increasing at a constant rate.

Chapman's theory of "trigonometric outfielding" was based on the assumption that air resistance does not affect the flight of a baseball in any significant way. Unfortunately, this assumption turns out to be incorrect.

Brancazio computed the effects of aerodynamic drag on the trajectory of a baseball, and discovered that for the typical speeds and times of flight that occur under game conditions, a batted baseball travels about 60% as far as it would in a vacuum.

Moreover, air resistance distorts the shape of the trajectory of the ball so that it is noticeably different from a parabola. When aerodynamic forces are accounted for, the tangent of the angle of elevation does not increase at a constant rate as seen by a fielder who has judged the flight of the ball correctly.

Having shown that the tangent of elevation is not a useful cue for judging a fly ball, several other geometrical or trigometric features of the trajectory were examined, including the player-ball distance and the velocity of the ball at right angles to the line of sight (the speed with which the ball appears to move against the background of the sky).

None of these seems to show any characteristic variations that would tell an outfielder which direction he has to move to catch the ball. It would appear that the information used subconsciously in judging a fly ball lies at a deeper level than mere geometric or trigometric factors.

The mystery of how a fielder judges a fly ball turns out to be one manifestation of a much larger problem. At the present time, psychologists have only a partial understanding of how an individual determines the location in space of a rapidly moving object, or how he coordinates this information with the movement of his body.

Binocular vision aids in depth perception by providing two slightly different views of the object, one from each eye, as it moves against the background. However, depth perception, with a single eye is also possible; a one-eyed outfielder can, with practice, learn to judge fly balls.

It may well be that the most useful information for the fielder is not even visual information. Whenever an individual follows a moving object with his eyes, he ordinarily moves his head as well, and the motion of the head and eyes must be finely coordinated to keep the eyes fixed on the object.

For example, if you fix your gaze on some stationary object and turn your head from side to side, your eyeballs must move just as rapidly in the opposite direction to maintain their lines of sight.

It turns out that these compensatory motions of the eyes are primarily guided not by visual feedback, but rather by signals triggered by the motion of the head from sensors in the inner ear, the same sensors that enable us to tell up from down and to maintain our sense of balance.

Thus, it is possible that the sudden and rapid motion of the fielder's head as he looks upward to follow the light of the ball off the bat may provide the sensory information that directs the player's body toward the eventual landing point.

This coordination of sensory input with body motion evidently follows a neural pathway that has been established thru the familiar behavioral process of learning by trial and error. We may actually be judging fly balls by ear!

GE closing to rip Bellevue to core: study

In addition to four per cent of school income from local sources and 14 per cent of the city's income, losses would extend to $200,000 in hospital revenues, collapse of one of the three banks in Bellevue, failure of from five to 10 businesses, increase in number of bankruptcies and foreclosures and repossessions and a huge chunk of the United Way collections, to which GE employees contributed as much as 17 per cent in years past.

Bellevue's largest employer is the railroad industry, which now hires about 1,200 persons. Bellevue has no choice, says its mayor, George Smith, than to find a tenant for the GE building.

Consider the lowly umpire.

Clifford "Bud" Hill, Shelby, ejected the pitcher of the BPOElks team in an Industrial league slow pitch softball game because he refused to reduce the arc of his pitches. The player returned after some time and slugged the umpire. Result: Hill filed a charge of assault in Shelby Municipal court.

Crawford county officials don't like the implication of Frankie Williamson, assistant planning director, Ohio Health department, that the county has too many hospitals. Williamson said she is concerned that too many beds are available and there're not enough patients to fill them. She cited low occupancy rates in Galion, Crestline and Bucyrus, the only towns where hospitals operate. All of them are tightening their belts and each of them is losing money. Crestline Memorial reports enormous increase in outpatient services, 300 per cent last year, 40 per cent so far this year. And each of the hospitals is scurrying to obtain state and federal grants to fund winterizing and other energy-saving programs.

Keep Red Cross ready.

Fie upon you, Forbes!

Auntie objects to 's---w'

By AUNT LIZ

Maybe I am more "small town" than I have been thinking.

There is no question that people can be just as nasty and mean in a village as in a large city.

But they are much more polite about it all — I think.

Over the years I have known a lot of characters such as mayors, council presidents and council members and they do try to get along once they realize they are stuck with each other.

Never have I in all these years read in a paper what was said in Cleveland by its council president concerning the candidacy of a former mayor for a council seat.

Frankly, I am really kind of floored that what was said was actually printed. You simply do not use the word "screw" in that context.

In case you do not read the Cleveland paper, Council President Forbes said, "He screwed us for two years, and now we are lining up to screw him."

Kind of sounds like he hates the former mayor, which can happen. Once some people hated me so much, and perhaps they still do, that they printed little tags and passed them out the night before an election. I had almost forgotten it all until I found one way back in a kitchen drawer not long ago.

I must say they probably spent hours dreaming it up because it really was clever: "There is nothing wrong with a good political joke as long as SHE doesn't get elected."

Maybe it should be framed as an example of how to lose an election without really trying.

There is one good thing in this world, you can invite friends to dinner, not the ones you don't like.

There can be a big BUT to that: give them something they like.

We have one friend who hates white fowl meat and eats only the dark. For years I did not know that and tried to remember how many times he got stuck with some of our breast of chicken recipes.

This will be liked by just about everyone because just about everyone likes hamburger in one form or another, and sauerkraut.

Maybe I am the only soul in the world who does not like the latter, but it is kind of disguised this way.

This recipe won third prize in the Ohio Beef Marketing contest. It comes from a gal in Mt. Orab and she estimates that it costs 56 cents a serving and will serve eight, which makes it a nice bargain.

Mix two pounds of ground round with two slices of dark rye bread that have been soaked in water. Throw in one egg, a half of a teaspoon of caraway seed, a half of a teaspoon of pepper and salt if you want it.

Mix well, divide in half, and pat it into a 10 inch skillet like a pie crust.

On top of it, spread three fourths of a cup of well-drained chopped sauerkraut, but don't spread it all the way to the edge of the meat. On top of it, spread a fourth of a cup of Thousand Island salad dressing. Then scatter a half a cup of shredded Swiss cheese.

Pat the rest of the meat over the top.

over the top. Press it gently around to seal the edges.

Cook on top of the stove for about 10 minutes.

Then pop it under the broiler for about five minutes. Sprinkle another half cup of cheese on top, and broil an additional five minutes or so.

Don't you think this should have won first place?

Some people expect soup to be hot, but when it is hot outside, a nice cold cream of leek or even plain potato can be very tasty and what is easier than opening a can, chilling it and eating?

A daughter was born Thursday in Shelby Memorial hospital to the Douglas Tallmans, Greenwich. Councilman and Mrs. Richard Tallman, Shiloh, are the paternal grandparents.

Willard rest home raises objection to one at New London

Efforts by New London to encourage construction of a $1.5 million nursing home that eventually would hire 80 persons have struck a snag.

A Willard business has filed a formal protest against the move.

Here's what happened:

Wayne Trail Nursing center needs a certificate of need issued by the state department of health. This certificate is required to ensure that Medicaid and Medicare patients could be admitted.

Northwest Health Services Corp., operators of Willard Quality Care Nursing center, filed an objection.

It claims that if a certificate of need is issued, Huron county will then have an excess of nursing home beds.

Quality Care is in process of completing a 50-bed expansion.

A public hearing to air both sides of the objection will be arranged later.

And another New London business, London Tiles, Inc., is in trouble. It has filed with a Toledo court for protection from its creditors while it undergoes reorganization.

The firm is one of New London's largest employers. Employment level is now 30 persons.

The firm seeks to reorganize under Chapter 11. It makes architectural title for the construction industry.

Some energy saving reminders for the whole family.
(Clip and Save.)

Stick these ideas on your refrigerator.

MAGNET GOES HERE

The more you use, the more energy you'll save.

1. Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or an electric frypan instead of your large oven or range.
2. Never use the oven as a heater.
3. Place pans on the surface units of your range before you turn on the heat.
4. Use a small amount of water when boiling eggs and vegetables. Use tight-fitting lids, too.
5. Place the most often used items in the front of your refrigerator shelves so you can get to them quickly.
6. Make sure refrigerator door seals are tight, free of grease.
7. Don't wash your dishes until you've got a full load. That's usually after dinner.
8. Turn off the lights, radio and TV before you leave.
9. Don't let the hot water run while you're shaving. Fill the sink halfway instead.
10. If you can, use an electric razor. It uses less energy in a year than the hot water your hand razor uses in a week.
11. Set your water heater's temperature at a moderate 140°F or as low as possible to allow for enough hot water.
12. Take shorter showers.
13. Wash and dry only full loads of clothes.
14. Keep your thermostat at 68° or less in the winter, at least 78° in the summer.
15. In winter, open drapes and shades to let sun heat your home. When sun sets, close them.
16. In summer, close drapes and shades to keep your home from getting overheated.
17. Don't heat or cool unused rooms. Close them off.
18. Keep the damper on your fireplace closed when not in use.

Can village get grant?

Plymouth will seek to apply for a federal grant to help fund the water line requested by Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Larry Carroll of Lester G. Poggemeyer, Inc., met with the council Tuesday night and said the application is being readied a little late, but still stands a chance.

Public hearings are necessary. These will be worked out.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said they could be advertised in any paper which circulates in the village. It will be up to the mayor and solicitor to make that decision although the Ohio Revised code says that such publications must be made in a locally published newspaper if one exists in a municipality.

The application must be received between July 25 and Aug. 22.

When questioned by Councilman Keith Hebble, Carroll said there is a strong chance that 50 per cent of the grant would be in matching funds. But he said that because of the unemployment in both Richland and Huron counties, the funding could cover 80 per cent.

He also told the council Plymouth is on the eligibility list for a number of grants but that private investment is desirable. The idea, he said, "is that each community should attempt to develop its own needs".

The tree trimming program has been progressing, Councilman G. Moore reported. The brush is being hauled away, he said, but the wood is being left for use.

The trees being trimmed are only those with which utility wires might become involved.

After last week's heavy wind, Moore said, he received calls from home owners who wished the village to clear their downed trees.

Kaylors' kin dies at Shelby

He was born at Shelby June 24 to the Todd Wallaces, Shelby.

He is also survived by a brother, Joshua; his maternal grandparents, the Cloyce Lakes, Shelby; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bettie ann Craft, Shelby; his paternal grandfather, Larry g. nal grandfather, Larry G. Wallace, Shelby; his maternal great-grandparents, the Richard Schiffers, Shelby; Emil Dillon, Johnsville, and Mrs. Ida Wallace, Shelby, and his paternal great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Betty Bowman, Shelby.

The Rev. Allen Stamper, First Church of God, Bowman street, conducted graveside services in Oakland cemetery, Shelby, Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Police expenses cut by $10,000 to balance budget

Revenues for the village will amount to $1,313,172.23 in 1984, village budget hearing concluded Saturday.

Expenditures will be $1,288,145.73, which will leave $125,026.50 in year-end balances in all the funds with the exception of the general fund.

That fund will have a zero balance at the end of 1984, John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, says that in order not to have their fund show a deficit, the police costs have been cut to $102,797 from $112,350 for this year.

The general fund's income will be $178,197 with expenditures of the same amount.

The fire pumper fund will have $147,423 with $130,000 earmarked for a new pumper.

The fire department fund will receive an income of $48,643.15 and spend $39,000. Its income is derived from contracts with Plymouth and New Haven townships and four mills in tax money.

Fazzini estimates federal revenue sharing money at $10,000, with that amount to be spent.

Street fund will have $39,167.60 with expenditures of $30,167.60, and the state highway fund will receive $4,423.47 and spend $3,000.

Cemetery fund is pegged at income of $33,508.32 and expenditures of $32,330.

Park money will amount to $6,905.13 with $6,420 to be spent.

Income for the ambulance is set at $17,722.78 with $12,210 for expenses.

Revenues for the water fund will be $192,565.94 and expenses are pegged at $153,908.80; the electrical fund will have revenues of $515,963.01 and expenses of $487,840 and the sewer fund will have an income of $103,572.33 with $98,572.33 to be spent.

It is estimated the security deposit fund will total $15,060.50, with $6,500 to be refunded to depositors who move out of the village.

During the public hearing last week only three councilmen, the mayor, clerk-treasurer and one reporter were present.

Freak crash injures three at New Haven

A freak collision Sunday evening at Routes 224 and 61, New Haven, left the area without electricity from one and a half hours to over five hours until repairs could be made.

Larry Wyandt, New Haven, travelling east in Route 224 made a sudden left hand turn into Route 61. The out-of-state trailer rig behind him was not able to stop in time and slammed into his car, pushing it into one driven by Thomas Cole going west in Route 224.

The impact then shoved the Cole car into the utility pole at the northeast corner, snapping it off in the middle and downing power lines.

The three men were taken for treatment to Willard Area hospital by the Willard ambulance squad.

A two-car collision at Opdyke and Springmill roads Saturday at 1:22 p. m. sent seven persons to hospitals.

John Oberland, 56, Ellis Oberland, 27, and Douglas Oberland, seven, all of Bucyrus, were taken to Willard Area hospital by the Plymouth ambulance squad.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roth and their daughter, Dawnette, and son, Rob, Ontario, were taken to Mansfield General hospital.

The Roth car was headed north in Springmill road. The Oberlander car was going east in Opdyke road. It failed to observe the stop sign, striking the Roth vehicle broadside.

Willard driver, 21, gets continuance of traffic charge

A 21-year-old Willard woman already convicted on three charges in Shelby Municipal court asked for and obtained continuance of her charges in mayor's court Tuesday night.

She is Tina Fay Clemons, accused of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate her vehicle. She was convicted in Shelby Municipal court of having an expired 30-day registration, of having no operator's license and of eluding police after being given a visible signal to halt, for all of which she was fined $130 and costs.

Charges against Billy A Sexton, Plymouth, of resisting arrest and having no operator's license, were transferred to Shelby Municipal court.

Forrest Osborne, Plymouth, charged with resisting arrest, asked by letter to have his case continued. So did Sexton, charged with improper passing.

Convictions were returned in the cases of Robert E. Kidd, Jr., Stow, speeding, $12 and costs; Donald E. Berry, Galion, speeding, $15 and costs; Johnny Bailey, Shelby, no operator's license, $100 and costs; Lawrence W. Bumb, Willard, speeding, $15 and costs, and Scott A. Masters, Plymouth, speeding, $12 and costs.

Shelbian accused of theft

A 21-year-old Shelbian has been bound over to the Richland county grand jury on a charge of aggravated burglary against a former Shilohan. And the accused faces a charge of petty theft against a former Plymouth man.

Daniel Keith Hicks is alleged to have broken into the home of Ivan McQuate in Leslie lane, Shelby, on July 2 at 10:59 p. m.

Police said McQuate and his wife returned to their home to find a footpad running from their family room with McQuate's rifle in his hand.

McQuate said the suspect ran through a screen door and dropped the weapon on the patio as he fled.

Hicks was later apprehended in Shelby avenue.

Earlier, he was accused by Dennis Sammons, formerly of Plymouth, of taking 78 pounds of copper having a value of less than $150 from Sammons's scrap yard.

Hicks was dealt with by Judge Vincent Phelan in Shelby Municipal court on three other charges, two of resisting arrest, for which he was fined a total of $75, and one for disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

$135,853 in red ink by '85 projected in school budget

Red ink in the amount of $135,853 is foreseen by Dec. 31, 1984, Plymouth Board of Education learned Monday night during its annual budget hearing.

The general fund is expected, Supt. Douglas Staggs said, to be that much short of balance.

Revenues and beginning balance are anticipated to be $2,235,584. Anticipated expenditures are $2,371,436. The deficit is the difference.

Overall, because other funds will wind up in black ink, total deficit is estimated at $63,295.

Staggs said there are two main reasons why this situation obtains: "it was difficult to make any type of projection at the time this budget was prepared, in order to comply with the legal deadline, without word from the state as to the size of the appropriation in the biennium budget" and "our carryover balance is lower than for a long time, which means that we can do much less than what we used to do with our funds"

Bonds of $1,130,000 will be outstanding at the end of this year. A total of $80,000 will be paid on the debt during 1984. Interest amounts to $65,025. Bond retirement fund receipts will be $199,872, leaving a cushion of $53,347.

Only other funds projected to wind up with red ink are the lunchroom fund and the Chapter I fund. In the former, a deficit of $1,038 is anticipated. Receipts are estimated at $165,461, or $925 a school day. Expenditures are pegged at $166,499.

Chapter I fund expenditures of $49,000 will probably exceed income of $46,000 by $3,000.

Other fund receipts and disbursements are projected thus: permanent improvement, $14,500 and $14,500; uniform supplies, $11,464 and $11,464; dependent pupil personnel fund, $16,000 and $16,000; farm fund, $11,293 and $8,500, leaving a balance of $2,793;

Also, Chapter 2 fund, $6,700 and $6,700; Title VI B fund, $23,000 and $23,000; teachers' flower fund, $5,556 and $4,700, leaving a balance of $856; principals' fund, $28,562 and $22,000, leaving a balance of $6,562;

Also, pupils' activity fund, $36,381 and $30,000, leaving a balance of $6,381; athletic and music fund, $40,156 and $33,500, leaving a balance of $6,656; special rotary fund, $5,000 and $5,000.

Registration of Mrs. Jay Tovey, third grade teacher at Shiloh, was accepted. She had earlier sought a year's leave of absence, because she and her husband are living in Denver, Colo., but it was turned down.

Goals of the district during 1983-84 were approved. These are:

MAJOR GOALS AT STUDIES FOR THE PLYMOUTH LOCAL SCHOOLS

Theme: "To make Plymouth Local Schools the best in the area"

1. Continue to work on community-public involvement and emphasize positive educational activities with the district.

2. Establish a committee to review the report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education, in relationship to our local school program.

3. Initiate a curriculum study of the mathematics program K-6.

4. Establish local talented and gifted committee to work with County Coordinator.

5. Review the consistency of our educational program K-4.

6. Continue evaluation of the board of education policy handbook.

7. Review new minimum standards for implementation in the 1984-85 school year.

8. Continued positive efforts: Staff relations; Energizing buildings; Keeping district in financially solvent condition.

Fees for pupils during the coming school year will remain unchanged save for two important exceptions: driver training fee will rise to $35, but will be due only if the pupil undertakes driving instruction; if he completes the classroom training without driving, he is not required to pay a fee; and high school art will rise $2 to $10.

A committee comprised of Staggs, two board members, Charles Reinhart and Donald Barnthouse, and the elementary principals met with a three-member delegation of North Richland Council for Christian Education and asked a number of questions for which immediate answers were not available. The council has promised to respond in writing before the August meeting.

Insurance coverage for administrators and board personnel was expanded to cover non-certificated employees at minimal cost. Protection of $500,000 for single incident and $500,000 overall damage will be extended to all administrative and non-certificated personnel for $367.50 a year. Adding the latter group cost only $17.50. The same opportunity will be offered to certificated personnel, with whom negotiations for a new wage contract are under way.

Clarence Gayheart, Melissa Moore, Jimmy Cole and William Corder were approved as National Youth corps workers.

Driver fined

Clovis Sexton paid a waiver of $47 on the same charge.

Krasney's holdings in Banner, parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., now amount to 28 percent of common stock, still more than any other holder and retaining for him effective control and management of the company.

Warburg, Pincus Capital Corp. is an affiliate of E. M. Warburg, Pincus & Co., a New York investment banking venture capital and investment counseling firm.

Two managing directors of Warburg, Pincus, Donald M. Blinken and Sidney Lapidus, have been appointed to Banner's board of directors.

Krasney's agreement with Warburg, Pincus gives the buyer the right to take up to 275,000 shares over the next four years at $10.25 a share plus 55 per cent of any increase in market price above $10.25.

Judge Max Chilcote says he stepped aside because he knows Conley and has worked with him and does not want to convey any impression of favoritism.

A pre-trial hearing will be conducted July 25 in the courthouse at Mansfield.

The 36-year-old officer is under indictment for allegedly attacking his estranged wife, Wendy, 26, on Apr. 22 at 2 a. m. outside her apartment in Mansfield. Conley was suspended by Mayor Dean A. Cline, then placed on leave.

At last! Chinese recipe found by once-foolish diner

By AUNT LIZ

Millions of words have been written about people's frustrations, from very learned books to such as Ann Landers and Dear Abby.

I have had a doozy for something like eight years which has almost driven me out of my mind.

There was only one way to cure it, and I kept trying, without the advice of a psychiatrist. I read every Chinese cookbook I got my hands on, cut recipes out of magazines and newspapers. None of it cured me at all.

I probably went through a dozen good sized steer trying to cure it all.

It started one Saturday night in San Francisco when we had a truly wonderful dinner in Chinatown, in the Empress of China restaurant.

Our daughter-in-law and I shared a dinner for two. One dish was an ordinary sweet and sour deal, and the other was beef that was out of this world. Fool that I was, I ate instead of asking about how it was made or even what it was called.

Now I think I have found it. It is an ordinary, nameless recipe in a new book written by an American. I had the book home from the library when a kind friend gave us some snow peas from her garden, so I looked in the index to see what could be done with them, and that is how I found it.

The gal who wrote this book, Nina Simmonds, comes from New England and decided she wanted to be a good cook. She apparently decided on Chinese cookery. Somehow she got herself to Taiwan to learn. This she did for three years.

When China had its agrarian revolt, which was the official name for revolution, and the takeover of the Chinese mainland by the Communists back in the 30's, those who did not like it sailed away to the island of Taiwan. As a result, the tiny place has Chinese from every province and they brought all their own recipes. It kind of was the "melting pot" for Chinese food.

I had to substitute a few things and I do not think it really hurt it. For Chinese black vinegar, I used come lovely strong homemade stuff, also a gift. For rice wine, I used sherry, and for sesame oil, ordinary cooking oil.

Here it is: marinate a pound and a half of good sirloin in a mixture of two tablespoons of soy sauce, one tablespoon of sherry, one teaspoon of oil, one tablespoon of water and one tablespoon of cornstarch.

Turn frequently for at least four hours.

Meanwhile, dice a medium sizes onion (we had some nice fresh green ones that were great with some of the green part cup up, too), two green peppers and a cup of fresh mushrooms.

Then just before cooking, clean a cup of snow peas and blanche for a few seconds in boiling water.

You can also get ready the beef sauce, which is four tablespoons of soy sauce, two tablespoons of sherry, three tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of catsup (this really surprised me) one and a half tablespoons of vinegar and three cups of good chicken broth.

Heat about a half cup of oil in a wok at 400 degrees or in a good hot skillet, throw in most of the meat and fry it until it is done, then do the rest of it. Take it out and drain. Take the oil out except for about three tablespoons.

Do the onions until they are soft and transparent, then add the peppers and mushrooms and cook them a little. Next comes the beef sauce. When it is thoroughly mixed add a thickener of three tablespoons of cornstarch and five tablespoons of water.

When the sauce is thickened with the vegetables, add the meat and snow peas and a dash of oil, like a teaspoon.

Meanwhile have rice ready, and you have enough for more than six servings.

If you like to really eat, suggest someone gives you "Classic Chinese Cuisine". It is worth 10,000 presents.

Citizens of 21st century

Children of the Richard A. Rolls, 79 Plymouth street, are Nicholas, five, and Heather and Heidi, twins, two. Father is high school industrial arts teacher and head football, wrestling and softball coach.

Tasha, seven, is the daughter of the Wayne Tuttles, 214 West Broadway.

Cougars hire two coaches

Two new head coaches have been appointed at Crestview.

Jerry Marshall, who served 12 years on the Clear Fork staff, is the new head football coach, succeeding Lee Owens, who went to Galion after a 10-and-1 season.

Marshall has a one year contract. He is a graduate of Muskingum college at New Concord with a master's degree from Ohio State.

The new coach must organize a coaching staff. Scott Bailey, who taught the rock-ribbed defense that produced eight shutouts last season, will be back as defensive coordinator.

New head basketball coach is Richard Crooks, who served at Washington Court House as assistant. He succeeds Paul Carleton, who resigned.

15 lettermen ready for football

Strongest letterman contingent since he took charge of the Big Red will turn out next month when Coach Richard Roll begins preparations for the 1983 season.

This will be the 35th year of play in Mary Fate park.

It is also the 35th anniversary of 11-man football in Plymouth.

Keene was injured much of last season. So was Hampton. If they are healthy and can stay that way, Plymouth should be strong at quarterback.

Roll's problem is to develop a forward wall that will be competitive.

He doesn't have much size to work with.

Neither is there great depth, unless development of inexperienced players is faster than it has been in the past.

Plymouth opens a 10-game slate with Seneca East in Mary Fate park on Sept. 2.

Physicals set for girls, boys

Physical examinations for girls wishing to compete in interscholastic athletics will be given Monday at 7:45 a. m. at the high school.

Applicants will be transported to Willard for the examination.

Girls' coaches should report at that hour to assist with transportation.

Boys wishing to compete will be examined at Willard July 25 at 7:45 a. m. They will meet at the high school at that hour.

Coaches of boys' athletics should assemble at the school at that hour.

Examinations for both girls and boys are for pupils in grades seven through 12.

Seasons salts Sunocos, 16-6

All Seasons trimmed Plymouth Sunoco, 16 to 6, Friday night.

The winners broke it open in the third with five scores, then added seven in the fourth.

Jenny Putnam fanned eight and passed eight, Missy Young struck out five and walked 10 for the winners, who got a home run from Amy Beverly, a triple from Rhonda Barber and a double from Miss Young.

Anne Paulo was the victim of the real estate outsit. She fanned eight and walked only three.

All Seasons collected 25 hits and its pitchers gave up only five.

In the other game, Secor's scored seven in the seventh and held on for a 24 to 21 triumph over Woody Ridge.

Jenny Young collected five hits in five trips to the plate to pace the winners, who got a homer by Stacey Branham and a triple and a double by Lana Laser. Miss Laser allowed 12 hits, fanned seven and walked a dozen.

Jodi Putnam and Lavonne Branham homered for Woody Ridge. Kathy Welker and Michelle Collins got three base blows and Miss Collins two doubles.

Line scores:

S	100	203	–	6
S	100	203	–	6
A	225	72x	–	16
S	022	715	7	–	24

Mike McQuate smacked a home run for the Cubs.

Mayor, 78, to run again; depot site bid low

Mayors, like wine, improve with age. Or so thinks Howard Smith, chief executive at Bellville. He will seek another term as mayor, having already been in that job 24 years. He was a councilman for 10 years.

Only one serious bid, by Cooper Tire & Rubber Co., Findlay, for $1.25 million, was submitted July 1 when General Services administration sought to sell its huge building on the site of the former Wilkins AF station at Shelby.

There were two other bids, one more ridiculous than the other. About 800,000 square feet of space is involved.

GSA said the bid by Cooper was "substantially below" its appraisal value but it wouldn't say what that value is nor why it won't disclose the figure.

The furor at Pt. Clinton about appointment of athletic coaches has come to a head and been treated, but not to everyone's satisfaction.

Its board of education, under considerable pressure from parents and players, reengaged Clifford Hahn as head girls' basketbal coach.

William Phillips, a junior high school teacher, is angry. He coveted the job. And he argued that by contract with the Pt. Clinton Federation of Teachers and under state law, the board is obligated to offer contracts for supplemental activity to teachers already under contract to the board before a lay person or a teacher outside the district is considered. Hahn teaches in Vanguard Joint Vocational school, Fremont.

Too much competition has forced the Burger Chef at Norwalk to undergo a change in thrust. It will change its name, to Rax's restaurant, and it will serve ham and cheese, turkey and chicken, a salad bar and baked potatoes with a variety of toppings.

Reason? "Milan avenue in Norwalk has too many hamburger places."

Jay and Ross Moser

Old-time hardware survives in Shiloh

Man and boy, Ross and Jay Moser have spent three-quarters of a century in the hardware business.

Now, in the twilight of their lives, when they're tapering off, they still open their store in Shiloh at eight o'clock in the morning and they close it promptly at four, unless -- unless somebody they know steams into the yard and hops out to get an item that he's put off, can't find anywhere else, or just plain must have to keep going.

And the hardware business has changed, Ross and Jay Moser say.

Has it changed for the better?

These two brothers seem to have it worked out by tacit agreement: they deal with questions directed at the two of them, or at one of them, alternatively, with no particular regard to the direction of the thrust of the question unless it relates to a personal matter, such as the fact that Jay was a POW during World War II. He served in an armored unit and was taken prisoner by the Germans.

Their business is styled A. W. Moser Hardware. It takes the name of their father, Arthur W. Moser, who died in 1936, when Ross was 18 and Jay was rising 16.

The elder Moser opened the business in 1911. It was then located in the building at East Main and Cleveland streets, and it stayed there until 1979, when the proprietors lost their lease.

Unwilling to build new quarters, loath to undertake fresh obligations at that stage of their lives, they occupied a building with the official address of 12 Mechanic street. Their house faces what used to be called the Big Four, after the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati & St. Louis railway. There isn't a street there and if Shiloh should have house-to-house mail delivery sometime in the 21st century, the powers-that-be will have to come up with an address for that handful of dwellings facing east toward the right-of-way.

There wasn't enough room in the building to accommodate their stock-in-trade, either. The building to which they moved was once a hatchery, and on these hot July afternoons, one might think it could be used for that purpose again: there's no air conditioning, and "the windows don't open," Jay explains.

They conducted a public auction sale to dispose of impedimenta and goods that they couldn't accommodate in their new, smaller quarters without divesting themselves of the items "that our customers over the years taught us they would need on an every day basis".

And this is what they did.

So A. W. Moser Hardware remains a country hardware.

You can't buy a vacuum cleaner there. Nor a hair dryer. Nor a baseball bat.

But you can buy bolts, screws, nuts, nails, pliers, saws, saw blades, glue, paint, wire, pipe, light bulbs, fuses, sockets, switches, screwdrivers, hammers, levels, compasses, rulers, measuring tapes, jack-knives, screening, and several hundred other items in the pure hardware line. Including, in season, tomato, pepper and cabbage seedlings and onion sets.

And take it from customers of long standing, some of them successors to their mothers and fathers and in some cases their grandparents, "If the Mosers have got it, you can bet it'll be as cheap as or cheaper than what you'll find anywhere else."

They use that word "cheap" in its strictest sense. They mean "not of great price", rather than "not of great value".

A woman went there only last week to look for an electrical device. Ross Moser fetched it fron their stock and showed it to her. She asked a question or two, then "How much?"

"I told her," the tall, bespectacled, balding elder brother says, "and do you know what she said to me? She said, 'You've got to be kidding!' I thought she was complaining it was too high and I said, 'Gee, I'm sorry, but the price of these things has gone up over the past couple of years.' Then she said, 'My God, Ross, that's not it, it's your price is so darn low I'd be a fool not to buy three of 'em!' Trouble is, we didn't have any more to sell."

The Mosers grew up in the hardware business.

There were four of them to start with. Four of them and their parents. The eldest, Lawrence, was a half-brother. Eldon, another brother, has also died.

Village seeking $42,400

Plymouth has applied for 1984 Community Development Block grants of $42,400 through Richland county commissioners.

Administrator James C. Root said if the grant is obtained, the village wil spend $26,400 to repair 3,600 feet of West Broadway, $8,000 to fix Maple street and part of North street and $8,000 to repair 1,100 feet of Portner street.

Footpads active at Shiloh

Another burglary has been reported by Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, at Shiloh.

Legion spokesmen said some cigarettes and some loose change were stolen July 11 between 3:30 and 4:25 a. m., entry having been gained by prying a rear window.

Villager arrested at Willard

A 23-year-old former Shiloh woman was charged with disorderly conduct at Willard July 13 after she was found only partially clad in a ditch along Main street near the railroad tracks there.

Henrietta Sexton appeared in mayor's court at Willard last night.

So did Johnny Ray Hall, 22, 420 West Broadway, arrested after a disturbance at 210 Woodbine street July 13 at 1:30 a. m.

Council studies revision of fire regulations; 1984 budget approved

One member, Councilman Roy Barber, of the village safety committee met with Mayor Dean A. Cline and Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine to revise fire department regulations Monday night.

During the four hour session they up-dated and simplified existing regulations written by the late James H. Cashman when he served as councilman.

They also incorporated some of the items of police department regulations, which were presented to the council by former Mayor Eric J. Akers in 1980.

Strine asked the mayor that, once the new regulations are put in order and typed properly, they be presented to the council for approval.

He also requested that a copy be signed by each member of the fire department (which also includes the ambulance squad) and a record placed in the personnel file of each so that a record is maintained that he is aware of his duties and departmental regulations.

The other two committee members, Councilmen G. thomas Moore and ronald Predieri, did not attend the meeting.

The council officially approved the 1984 budget which had been studied last week.

Both Mayor Cline and John Fazzini, clerk-treasurer, admitted the village solicitor's salary will hover around $7,000 next year. When a reporter questioned how much was budgeted for the salary last week, she was told it was simply included in administrative costs of the general fund.

Another problem was also cleared up when it was determined that three trailer permits were issued last year before the zoning ordinance was passed in anticipation of their prohibited use in various areas of the village.

The planning commission innocently ran into one of them Monday night in complete ignorance that it had been approved. It is the trailer of John Noble installed in East Main street just above the bridge. Apparently, it realized it was there without being told it was there legally.

Tank leaks

Firemen were notified Sunday afternoon that an ammonia tank was leaking at Sohigro Service Co., Shoup road.

They found that it was of a minor nature and no damage being done.

'73 grad in new job at Shelby

A 1973 alumnus of Plymouth High school is the new assistant principal of Shelby High school, where he joins his old mentor, E. Steven Rhodes, who is principal.

He is J. Wayne Blankenship, Skinner road, who was hired Thursday.

He formerly taught at Shelby but was released in a cost reduction move. He went to Galion but retained his enthusiasm for Shelby. Those who watched the Ohio Class AAA girls' basketball championships on television saw Blankenship, resplendent in cardinal and gray, leading the Shelby cheers.

Rhodes was principal here after he left Crestview High school. He went to Fostoria from here to serve as assistant principal.

Superintendent at Shelby is Terry Russell, son of the Leo Russells, Shiloh, an alumnus of Shiloh High school, married to the former Karen Huston, Shiloh, a Plymouth alumna. His salary was raised to $42,012, up from $40,000, effective Aug. 1. His contract, which was to expire this year, was extended for two years.

Dr. Butner in hospital

BULLETIN

Condition of Dr. Charles O. Butner, 72, Shiloh, seized in his office Tuesday morning, was reported by Willard Area hospital later to be "good . . . he is sitting up, joking, his color is good, he seems alert and comfortable, he doesn't have any pain now."

Dr. Butner, who has previously been a cardiac patient in Cleveland, experienced some difficulty in breathing and some discomfort Tuesday morning. As a precaution, he was taken to the hospital by ambulance. He was placed in the intensive care unit, "but that's a precaution," a hospital spokesman said, "he really isn't in bad shape and we're thankful for that."

114 survive George M. Jewell

Burial took place Saturday in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township, for George M. Jewell, 68, Bucyrus, who died in Upper Sandusky hospital July 13 of a lengthy illness.

He was a minister for 56 years and was a member of Harvest Time chapel, Vanlue.

He was born in Beatyville, Ky., and is survived by his wife, Sarah; three sons, Robert Paul, Newark; Charles Richard, Bucyrus, and William Leon, Jacksonville, Fla.; five daughters, Hazel, now Mrs. Harold Amburgy, Greenwich; Gertrude, now Mrs. James Pruitt, Bucyrus, and Nora Lee, now Mrs. Dewey Rice; Naomi, now Mrs. Chalmer Holiday, and Leona, now Mrs. Virgil Holiday, all of Wichita Falls, Tex.; a sister, Mary Mary Morris, Howell, Mich.; two brothers, Victor and Kean, both of Winchester, Kt.; 46 grandchildren and 66 great-grandchildren.

A son, James, and a daughter, Judith Ann, died earlier.

The Rev. s Ray Fischer and Carlos Dyer conducted services from McQuate-Secor Funeral home Saturday at 2 p. m.

New utility services to be paid for: Shiloh

Diehard opposition to an ordinance setting fees for expansion of commercial electrical and sewer service at Shiloh notwithstanding, its village council approved July 13 on third reading a measure to charge customers costs of material and labor.

Councilmen Delmar Nesbitt and Richard Tallman voted nay.

Budget for 1984 amounts to $321,000, down from the total of $388,094 for 1983.

Councilman Charles R. Reeder said he wants Shiloh to "follow in the footsteps of Plymouth and go after some federal grants".

He added he himself doesn't have the time to "go after these grants".

Councilman Frank Cline said Richland county sheriff's department has agreed to furnish a minimum of 10 hours of police coverage each day, in two shifts of five hours each.

The village has collected $216 so far this year for traffic violations on fines in the mayor's court, Mayor Francis Gowitzka said.

Mrs. Barbara Music, another councilman, said she is disturbed about a rumor that a 9 p. m. curfew will be enforced during the summer months. She said the ordinance governing a curfew calls for a 9 p. m. deadline in winter months but a ater one in the summer.

Walter Porter, who lives in Prospect street, asked the council to level the edge of the street in front of his premises to prevent surface water from running onto his property.

Gunter Siebert, 12 Superior street, asked for guidance about mowing an alley behind his property. He said his mowing schedule differs from that of his neighbors and the result is that grass is at different heights. Gowitzka will look into the problem.

Theodore Rook, 42 West Main street, asked the alley beside his home be oiled.

Invasion? Two make big smell!

The village may be facing an invasion of a real enemy.

Two skunks have been hit by cars in the vicinity of Plymouth and East High streets and one was sighted walking on a front porch in Sandusky street.

Cafe expansion wins approval

Appeal of Webber's Cafe to enlarge its quartera was approved July 11 by the village planning commission.

Donald Foreman and William H. Goth, who have purchased the business, wished to move back into an adjoining room, which had been in use at one time by the cafe and was later rented for storage space.

Several neighbors on the Square and nearby had been vehement about its proposed usage, saying it would be noisy and a nuisance. The property is zoned as business so there was not much the commission could do but to grant their request.

It had been previously denied by Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine, acting deputy zoning commissioner, who said it was a change of a type of business.

Bean salad fine when heat drives cook out of kitchen

By AUNT LIZ

Since no one really wants to eat, let alone cook, in this weather, everyone should lose weight.

But I am willing to bet no one does because of the snacks there are around and so easy to munch on.

And those who do not indulge in such stuff say they are eating salads like mad.

Still, you cannot exist forever on what rabbits eat nor remain fairly healthy on plain goop. There comes a time when you need something more substantial, but easy to do without heating up the whole house.

Soak a pound of small white navy beans over night. Just follow the package directions. Then cook them in new water, but not too much because you want edible and nice looking, not mushy results.

Then they go in a large bowl with all this: three-fourths of a cup of olive oil, a half cup of lemon juice, a fourth of a cup of white vinegar, one and a half cups of finely chopped celery, a half cup of chopped green pepper, a fourth of a cup of chopped fresh parsley, two tablespoons of chopped onion, a fourth of a teaspoon of thyme and some salt.

Marinate the beans tightly covered for at least eight hours.

Not only does summer bring some miserable weather, it also has its good side, like lots and lots of zucchinis, which seem to grow just anyplace.

They have become so popular the last couple of years that people have actually written cookbooks on them alone.

Of all the vegetables I know about, they seem to be the most versatile. You can make anything with them from cakes to pickles.

So get ready for them. You can eat them in a different form for weeks on end.

This is a top of the stove deal. . . No ovens.

Chop a cup of walnuts, then divide it in half. Cut six medium zucchini in half inch pieces.

Saute them in two tablespoons of butter and two of olive oil until tender, but not crusty (which is the way I really like them, and I don't think it would ruin them at all). Drain the butter and oil and add part of the nuts with a little salt and a half teaspoon of ground pepper. When the walnuts seem to be done and heated up, move them to a serving dish and sprinkle the rest of the nuts on top.

This should be enough for four or two large servings for a meal with a salad.

The best part is that you will be eating the right things and not feel overly stuffed. And it only takes a couple minutes to cook.

Recipes from any who may read this are most welcome. If you have found something real good, share it. That's what life seems to be all about, and there is nothing like good friends who share their red raspberries. Three quarts appeared at our door, two will go into jam and one we are eating, but right now doing neither. Just looking at them because they are true works of art.

Ob-Gyn specialist opens

Dr. Woo Hyun Paik, who moved to Willard June 27, began his practice last week, filling a void in health care services created when Dr. Jack Wang left early in 1982.

In his practice, Dr. Paik will provide pre- and postnatal care for newborns, and assist families with the entire birth process.

Gynecological exams and corrective gynecological surgery will be a strong part of his practice. Willard Area hospital will offer gynecological surgery services to women who, until now, had to get them elsewhere.

"A third part of his practice is going be oncology, the investigation, early detection, and corrective measures associated with avoiding or eliminating female cancer," James H. Ross, Jr., administrator, says.

Dr. Paik received his medical training in Korea. He came to the United States in 1976 to enter a surgical internship and residency program in New York, N. Y., at both Jewish hospital and Brooklyn-Cumberland hospital.

He took a year out in 1978 to open a family practice in Pottsville, Pa., and to decide if surgery were his calling. In 1979, he began a four-year residendy in obstetrics and gynecology at St. Agnes hospital in Baltimore, Md. He was chief resident in 1982-83, which means he was the highest ranking clinical officer in the obstetrics department, excluding faculty. There were 30 resident physicians under his direction.

During his third year of residency in Baltimore, Dr. Paik took a clinical fellowship at John's Hopkins hospital in oncology.

Dr. Paik's wife, Sung Jin, holds a master's degree in sociology, which she put to use at Temple university, Philadelphia, Pa., coordinating the activities of the medical and sociology departments to provide extensive education to diabetic and stroke patients. "We hope she will be able to provide us with some of her knowledge in helping us to expand patient education and social services to our residents," Ross says.

The couple and their yound daughter, Jennifer, will take up temporary residence at 830 Maplewood until they decide on permanent housing arrangements. Dr. Paik expects to open his practice Monday. His office will be at 635 Park street, where Dr. Wang practiced.

Local doctors have been taking on pre-natal work in anticipation of Dr. Paik's arrival, Ross says. Dr. David Jump, who has delivered most of the babies born in Willard Area hospital since Wang's departure, will continue to deliver children because he wants to maintain that aspect of his practice.

Patients can schedule appointments on or after July 25 by calling 935-0187.

Old-time hardware survives in Shiloh

"In the old days, on Saturday nights in the summer there was a band concert and we stayed open until 10 or 11 o'clock," Ross says. 'Everybody and his brother came to town on Saturday and most of them stopped in the hardware store."

How has the hardware business changed over, say, 50 years?

"It'd be easier," offers Jay, "to tell you how it hasn't changed. People still come in and ask for the darnedest things just when you're ready to close up and when you've had a hard day."

"Yeah. I'll tell you about one of 'em, once, a long time ago." Ross's eyes twinkle. "I can't remember if the lady is still alive or not. If she is, she'll remember. It was a hot day and we'd been busy. Then just at closing time this lady came in and wanted five feet of chicken wire. She was going to train her plants on it.

"The whole sale couldn't have amounted to 50 cents. And you could have bought my temper for a lot less than that."

On Tuesday, an old friend who's long past the retirement age came in to sit and swap stories. And to talk about his, and their, golf game.

"Did you get her pump situation straightened out?" Jay asked.

"No," was the response. "I can't find the parts or a replacement pump. You can't find those old chaim pumps any more."

Later, the brothers Moser alluded to that conversation.

"You ask how the hardware business has changed? That's how it has changed. There are lots and lots of things that people used to buy because they needed them that you can't find any more. So they have to replace what they've got with some new thing, something that probably won't last as ong as the thing they're tearing out.

"A lot of stuff these days is plastic, whereas it used to be metal. Now that's not to say that plastic isn't all right, some of it is good. But if it breaks, you can't fix it, you've got to replace it.

"Now take the power tool line. After a while the manufacturers produced, say, a cheap power saw for $9.95 and the people that bought it thought you could use it like one of the old timers. Well, you can't. It won't stand up. The saw for $9.95 won't do what the expensive stuff did, it wasn't made to do it, and it's too bad the buyers can't or won't realize it."

There are some precepts of the hardware business, in fact, the Mosers, say, any business, though they've had no direct experience with other than hardware, that obtain as they always did.

"One of 'em is that you've got to give people what they want when they want it at a price they can afford.

"And looks don't make you any money. If it's a little dusty, blow the dust off or wipe it on your shirt and sell it for its right value."

Shiloh's annual blowout, the end-of-July two day festival staged by its successful and efficient fire company, is coming up next week.

"It'll bring some people to town. Maybe some of them, folks who've lived near Shiloh all their lives, will find our where we are. Only last week somebody came in here and said he didn't know we were still in business."

Yes, A. W. Moser Hardware is still in business. Not on so great a scale as in its heyday. But neither of its proprietors pretends to that scale, personally, either. Neither ever married. Each is wedded to the business, to his household and to his golf game. They get along famously more than infamously, which is not to say there aren't or haven't been disagreements.

"Don't you and your wife disagree on some things sometimes? In a business way, that is?"

The Voice of The Advertiser —

RTP!

It is nearly 43 years that a grizzled major of the Army taught us the best lesson we ever learned: "The secret to it all is RTP--read the paper".

He was referring to success as an officer of the Army. Read the regulations, read the orders of the day, read the instructions, and one will succeed.

That lesson applies elsewhere, as well.

What a pity it is that nobody hereabouts pays it any mind.

The latest fiasco, which brings more embarrassment upon a community that already is something of a joke in the courthouses at Norwalk and Mansfield, chiefly because it gives the impression that nobody has a handle on what ought to be done or what's going on, need not have occurred.

In 1979, on Feb. 13, to be exact, a young woman was appointed by the council to succeed another. After a week, and with considerable publicity, both here and elsewhere, it was discovered she couldn't serve because she wasn't qualified by law. She wasn't registered as a voter of the village. And when she did register, it was found that she had not resided in Ohio for one year, having taken up residence here on May 13, 1978. So her appointment was nullified.

The masterminds who ran (?) the council in those days might have spared the young woman the embarrassment, and the village the same kind of red face, if they had done their duty, if they had read the paper. In this case, the Revised Code. One of them, even then a candidate for the bar, said publicly, "The Ohio Revised Code is out of date; anybody who pays it any attention is a fool!"

On Sept. 1, 1981, another young woman, less than two weeks after Mr. Predieri was seated a councilman, was ruled off the ballot because she was not a citizen elector of the village. The Huron county board of elections ruled that she was not domiciled in Ohio for one year prior to the date of filing her petition.

So far as we can ascertain, every person serving on the village council in 1981, when Mr. Predieri was appointed, knew about the first young woman's problems. Yet they did not even look into the qualifications of their membership.

The records of the village during that period of 1980-81 are a poor thing. The clerk was incompetent. There is no record whatsoever in the bound volume of minutes of council proceedings that Mr. Predieri was appointed to his post. There is note that Mayor Akers resigned and that Councilman Cline acceded to the mayorship. Then there is note that, two weeks later, Councilman Predieri was present for a meeting.

But, alas, there is no record that he was ever appointed.

Nobody denies that he, and we, thought he was serving legally. The doctrine of sui juris will apply: so long as he, and we, thought he was appropriately seated in his office, his acts carry the full force of law and must be respected and obeyed as such.

What's the point to all this?

Set aside the fact that the village has, once again, been pitiably embarrassed by its own stupidity. Laughing stock that it has been, it will be even more so now, despite the efforts of a few sensible, dedicated souls who have labored long and without recognition to see to it that things are done right.

Set aside the fact that the records are so poor that even a Houdini couldn't make use of them to prove the point at issue.

What's important is that folks who aspire to our confidence, who seek our approbation, who want to be elected and elected and elected again, are as guilty as all get out of the fundamental failure of government: they failed to RTP.

Citizens of 21st century

Stephanie, six, and Megan, three, are the daughters of the George Wilcoxes, 233 West Broadway.

Heather, 14, and Heath. 11, are the children of the Lionel (Ike) Howards, 319 Willow court.

Will Predieri be reappointed?

A legal opinion by the village solicitor was read to village council Tuesday night to guide it in the matter of Councilman Ronald Predieri, who was absent.

When the mayor concluded, he asked the council for its thoughts.

Councilman Billy Taulbee asked the other two members present, Keith Hebble and Roy Barber, if they would agree to reappointing Predieri to finish his term, once he is an officially registered voter.

Their response, wordless, seemed lukewarm.

The paper work required to obtain a federal grant was discussed. Two representatives of Lester O. Poggemeyer & Associates, engineers, Dennis cox and Robert Brancheau, explained one essential requirement.

It will be necessary to make a survey of at least 20 per cent of the houses on the Richland county side of the village as to number of persons residing in them and

Here's solicitor's opinion —

Revised Code Section 731.12 provides that "any member (of the legislative authority) who ceases to possess any of such qualifications . . . shall forfeit his office." One such qualification is that the member must be an elector of the Village. Therefore, the Council position heretofore held by Mr. Ronald Predieri must be declared vacant and the vacancy may be filled in accordance with the provisions of Revised Code Section 731.43.

With regard to all actions taken by Council, from the time of the appointment of Mr. Predieri until now, it is my opinion that all such actions are valid, despite the fact that he failed to meet all the requirements qualifications for the taking of office, for the reasons that the failure to satisfy the requirement of being an elector was not heretofore realized and there was no apparent intention, on anyone's part, to circumvent the statutory requirements. Furthermore, while Mr. Predieri was not fully qualified by law, he did perform the functions and duties of a member of Council and, therefore, must be considered to have been a councilman de factor (in fact) and that all his actions while serving in such de facto capacity must be considered lawful and valid.

Fazio to seek election as mayor

Former Mayor William Fazio will circulate a nomination petition to run for mayor on Nov. 8.

Fazio was elected to two terms as mayor, the first in 1958, during which he served the four year term, and the second in 1968, when he served only three years. He resigned in 1971 because his employer transferred to the Chicago, Ill., area.

He was succeeded by Hugh M. Washburn, who was then the president of the council, who completed the term.

He has said he hopes he can help revitalize the business district of the village, "which is desperately needed and bring new businesses here."

Mrs. Terry Jump is circulating a petition to be councilman.

There are no others to seek any village posts.

The mayorship, two councilmanic seats, the clerk-treasurer's post, one township trusteeship and two seats on the board of education need to be filled.

Thomas Shaarda, Jr., incumbent New Haven township trustee, will run again.

Charles Reinhart, incumbent member of the board of education, will seek reelection.

Charles Miller, Shelby route 3, aspires to be trustee of Plymouth township, where incumbent clerk Joseph J. Lasch faces the challenge of Richard Russell.

Forest Peters, Latimer road, seeks to be trustee of Blomminggrove township.

Not citizen-elector —

Predieri ineligible to be councilman

One member of the village council has been serving illegally for two years.

He is Ronald Predieri, who was appointed by the council in August, 1981, to take the seat of Dean A. Cline, who became mayor when Eric J. Akers resigned.

He is not listed as a registered voter in Huron county.

The Ohio Revised Code states an officer of a village must be an elector thereof.

The residency requirement is one year in Ohio and 40 days in one's precinct.

Kin of Keiths dies at Oberlin

Sister-in-law of Lowell E. Keith, Mrs. Albert Keith, Wellington, died Sunday morning in Allen Memorial hospital, Oberlin, of a lengthy illness.

She has willed her body to scientific study.

A memorial service was conducted in First United Methodist church, Wellington, Tuesday evening. The Keiths attended.

When the filling of the seat was discussed openly at a council meeting, Councilman D. Douglas Brumbach said he favored Roy Barber, who has since been appointed to the council. Councilman Bill Taulbee suggested Predieri's name.

Apparently he was decided upon, although his name was never formally acted upon at a council meeting. It should have been presented, seconded and voted upon, according to the Ohio Revised Code.

Somewhere, within a few days, he was sworn.

The discrepancy was discovered when a prospective candidate asked for the voter registration list from the Huron county board of elections and found his name missing. Upon checking with the Norwalk office, the candidate was told there was no record of him having voted at all.

Members of the council serving at the time, besides Brumbach and Taulbee, were Ervin Howard, G. Thomas Moore and Michael R. Taylor.

24 items sold for $67.9 million! But what's effect on rush dinner?

BY AUNT LIZ

Books have been written on how to make money easily with no sweat.

It really is simple.

Just have an auction and all you need are a handful of things, make it 24 different items, and you have it made.

That's what has happened in Lexington, Ky., just 24 items and they made $67.9 million in a few hours.

There is not a thing wrong with the economy if this can happen.

Just offer what people want and they will buy.

Those 24 items just happened to have four legs, and a genealogy that is more impressive than people have.

One of the 24 sold for a mere $10.2 million, and the very cheapest was a flat $1 million. To be specific, they averaged $2.8 million each.

That must have been a real fun evening, and I bet you had to show your bank statement to get in,rather than a driver's license.

Most of us can't have that much fun and have to think up another way.

There is one just have an old friend call say, I'll be there in an hour on my way to Cleveland."

What makes that sort of thing fun is that it is 95 degrees, 4:30 p.m., and nothing to eat except four wieners, two buns, enough bacon for two sandwiches and one lone tomato.

The fun is scurrying around like mad. You almost forget how hot it is under such circumstances.

We did it, and had a great picnic supper, and I discovered a really good kitchen hint to pass on. Next time you make potato salad, throw in a little Thousand Island dressing. It adds something. You know, of course, that a little sweet pickle juice should go into it too. Never, never, throw away the juice when the pickles are gone. It saves.

Efficient cooks will have something all prepared that just needs heating up, I have learned.

There are all sorts of things you can make ahead and freeze. Meatballs head the list, because you can do so much with them at the last minute.

You can make sauces for them at the last minute, but be sure you have the stuff to make them.

There are spaghetti sauce, sweet and sour, cheesy ones, and even cans of gravy mix in which you can heat them. It always is handy to keep a few noodles and rice around.

The meat will last up to at least four months frozen, and if no one drops in during that time, bring it out and eat it yourself. And when you make the meatballs, deal with three pounds of ground meat. That is more than enough for almost six.

Ex-Red foe gets Mt. Gilead post

Daniel D. Swagerty, who brought the basketball program of Mansfield Christian school to respectability, is the new head basketball coach and athletic director at Mt. Gilead.

Swagerty got his bachelor of arts degree from Westmont college, Santa Barbara, Cal., and his master's degree from Axusa Pacific college, Azusa, Cal. He was head JV coach at Westmont colege for five seasons and head coach at Christian for three.

Richard Heath is the new head basketball coach at Highland High school. He was head coach at Washington Court House and served as coach at Mendon-Union and Buckeye Central. He will teach occupational work adjustment classes.

Thomas J. Grine, former quarterback and captain of Iowa's Hawkeyes, is the new head football coach at Clyde High school. He succeeds Leslie Spaeth, who went to Sylvania as head coach.

Grine was graduated at Fostoria in 1973 and at Iowa City in 1980. He was assistant coach at Clyde for two seasons.

Anybody interested in buying an armory? That at Clyde is for sale. After the armory is appraised, the city of Clyde will have 30 days in which to buy the place. If it fails to do so, the armory will be sold at auction, the bid to be not less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

None of the townships in northern Richland county and only one in southern Huron county is large enough to be affected by the new public employees' bargaining bill.

The law requires a population of 5,000.

Some residents objected, but New London's vilage council approved a zoning ordinance that calls for a 50-foot buffer zone between industrial construction and residential property lines at the south edge of that village.

Without the objections, the council was prepared to proceed without any buffer at all. The industrial complex covers 90 acres east of Route 60.

Business and industries in New London are being solicited to learn if they wish to participated in a revolving loan fund. The fund is another step taken by the village to halt erosion of jobs.

Under the plan, projects submitted by specific businesses would be submitted to a state agency for funding. If the projects are approved, up to $350,000 for each community would be authorized by the state. The funds would be loaned to the entrepreneurs and repaid to the revolving fund.

A 2.93 mill bond issue to fund repairs and replacement of school buildings in Clear Fork district will be submitted Nov. 8.

It would provide $1.7 million to be paid in 17 years.

A low bid submitted to the Village of Butler by Mansfield Asphalt was rejected by its council, dissatisfied with the work done by the firm in street repair in 1960. So the bid of Kokosing Construction Co. was accepted.

But Mansfield Asphalt dug into the revised code and found the village had no authority to reject the lowest bid unless it could show just cause, such as poor workmanship. After a special meeting, Solicitor Jon Burton told Mansfield Asphalt Kokosing would get the contract and if Mansfield Asphalt didn't like it, it could sue.

Upshot of this was that Mansfield apologized for alleged shortcomings and promised to cooperate with the village, whereupon by motion the contract to Kokosing was rescinded and Mansfield Asphalt got the job.

A Crestline restaurant that was vigorously recruited to open a new restaurant in Plymouth has been sold at public auction to one of its employees and her husband. The Michael Stumpfs bought Barrel's restaurant in the Seltzer Station Mall. Mrs. Stumpf was formerly a waitress there. Her husband will retain his Mansfield employment. Mrs. Stumpf will be manager.

Sir:

I am writing this letter to the residents of Plymouth in regards to the public hearing concerning the Community Development Block grant which the village is applying for this month. It is important that the citizens of Plymouth attend to give their opinions and advice for these programs.

This public hearing will be on Aug. 1 at 7 p. m., followed by the federal revenue public hearing. The regular planning commission will also meet that evening.

Sincerely,

Douglas A. Dickson, secretary, planning commission

Videotaping to record house patterns

The village will be videotaped by the village planning commission, to furnish records for the future, it was decided by the planning commission Monday night.

Douglas A. Dickson said he wishes to borrow the equipment to do one street to determine how long it will take, so the commission will know approximately how much it will spend.

The equipment can be rented for $20 a day plus the cost of the operation.

Councilman Roy Barber was highly in favor of the idea. So were Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard and H. Lee Welker. They said it will be more economical than a physcial survey.

The commission discussed the installation of a gasoline tank at Portner and Woodland, a residential area. The zoning ordinance does not cover such an item, so the commission will turn it over to the council for action.

An antique shop has opened in a home in Sandusky street, which is zoned residential. The zoning inspector, Jack Laser, will be asked to discuss it with the proprietors.

The conversion of the former Sohio station by Councilman G. Thomas Moore into an automotive parts store is still being studied. It also is located in a residential zone.

Robert Brancheau, representative of Lester H. Poggemeyer, P. E., Inc., discussed federal grant money with the commission.

He urged the members to

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Credibility

The credibility of the village council has been deeply shaken by the events of last month.

The fact of ineligibility of a councilman was discovered by a candidate for village council, who obtained a list of registered voters at Norwalk and did not find Mr. Predieri's name on it. The conclusion was a valid one: no registration as a voter, no service as a councilman.

Only a handful of councilmen attended the meeting on July 26 when the opinion of the solicitor was read and the mayor took action to vacate Predieri's seat.

His preceptor, Mr. Taulbee, who engineered his appointment in the first place, was quick to solicit an expression of opinion from the other two councilmen, Barber and Hebble, that they will support Predieri's appointment once he qualifies by registration to vote.

It is to their credit that they did not speak. And if they had, other than to say, "No, thank you", it would have been to their discredit.

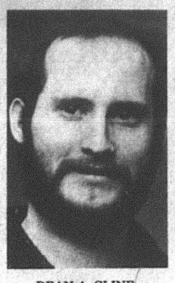

Because it is certainly not decent, nor ethical, nor moral, nor fair to the citizens of Plymouth to appoint one among them who, despite the fact he did so in ignorance of the law, and partly because of the shortcomings of others, served illegally, and therefore improperly, immorally, unethically and indecently, in public office for nearly two years.

Sins against the public morality ought not to be so easily rectified by such a simple gesture as going to the board of elections and signing a statement. He who accepts appointment or election to public office warrants that he understands the requirements of his office, that he is qualified to serve in that office, and that he knows of no impediment to his service, such as that he is under contract with the village. And when he takes his oath of office, he swears that he has no intent to evade the provisions of the Ohio Constitution, which he promises to uphold and defend, nor the ordinances and resolutions of the village, which he promises to enforce without fear or favor and equally to everybody.

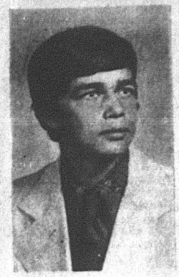

The oath submitted by Mr. Predieri in August of 1981 was deficient in this respect, at least.

He is a fine man. His burdens are manifold. It is too bad that this should have occurred. But it did occur, and he is to blame, and he must suffer for it.

Surely the council can find another to serve the remainder of his term, which expires Dec. 31. If the council wishes a listing of qualified people who are willing to serve, it need only ask.

Mayor, McKenzie win U.S. honors

Two Plymouth men are among selections for "Outstanding Young Men of America."

These were selected from nominations received from senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, state legislators, university and college presidents and deans as well as various civic groups, including the United States Jaycees, which also endorses the Outstanding Young Men of America program.

They are Mayor Dean A. Cline, 92 Sandusky street, and Martin L. McKenzie, 137 Plymouth street.

Mayor fines Osborne $50

One case was transferred to Shelby Municipal court and four cases continued by Mayor Dean A. Cline July 26.

A sixth case, held over from two previous hearings, was dealt with by plea bargaining. Charge of resisting arrest against Forrest Osborne was reduced to orderly conduct, to which he pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

Tina F. Clemons, Willard, accused of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate her car, will be heard in Shelby Municipal court.

Charges of improper passing against Billy A. Sexton, Plymouth; of domestic violence and drunken driving against George Edward Burton, Plymouth, and of criminal mischief against Robert A. Picklesimer, Plymouth, and Todd Weber, Shiloh, were continued to Aug. 9.

Robert E. Roberts, Plymouth, charged with having no operator's license, was convicted and fined $100 and costs. The same charge against David E. Dulaney, Mansfield, resulted in a fine of $50 and costs.

Trailer in court destroyed by fire

A trailer in Happy Hollow court was destroyed Saturday at 3:10 a. m.

Douglas Traxler was not at home.

Apparently the fire started earlier and most of the trailer was destroyed.

Traxler is a truck driver.

The cause is undetermined.

Firemen also answered a call Sunday evening to route call Sunday evening to Route 61 and Shoup road to wash down the road after an automobile collision.

Shiloh limits storm drains

Storm sewers that run into sanitary conduits were banned in Shiloh by its village council July 27.

An emergency ordinance states joint use of sewer lines by sanitary and storm disposal is contrary to regulations of the EPA.

Householders will be required to connect with existing or planned sanitary and storm sewer lines at their expense.

The ordinance enables the village to perform tests to insure compliance.

Councilman Delmar Nesbitt asked the council what will be done about tiling at the end of Church street.

He was told by Mayor Francis Gowitzka nothing has been done because there is no way to determine who owns the tile into which the drainage would connect.

Richland county health department will take action, but not before Aug. 4, on the unsightly situation at West Main and Walnut streets.

How poor is Plymouth?

If 51% is below U.S. minimum, grants will come

The magic number is 51 per cent. If a survey of village residents proves that 51 per cent is living on incomes below the minimum set by the federal government, the village is in a good position to apply for a federal block grant.

Emil A. Diener, a representative of Lester H. Poggemeyer, P. E., Inc., who has been retained by village council to help the village apply for a grant, spoke at a public hearing Monday night about grants.

The main purpose of such grants is to create employment, he said. He used the example of the installation of a water line, which would take fewer workers than road repair.

He pointed out, however, that if a water line such as Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., wants, it would create jobs since it would result in an expansion of the industry.

Villager held on pot charge

A 30-year-old Plymouth man is accused of drunken driving and making excessive noise with a vehicle in addition to possession of marijuana in Willard mayor's court.

Gary McCoy was arrested July 24 in Woodbine street there.

Richard A. Capelle, Plymouth, was convicted in Norwalk Municipal court of domestic violence and fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail. Jail sentence and $50 of the fine was suspended.

David Swartz caught a Plymouth man in his bedroom in Bowman Street road, subdued him and held him, with the help of his wife, until sheriff's deputies could arrive.

The man was taken under handcuffs to the Richland county jail.

Swartz said there was damage to the front door of his home, which apparently was forced by the intruder.

Swartz said he awoke to find the intruder standing near his bed.

He lunged at him and held him until deputies arrived.

Gasparacs threaten law suit

A threat of legal action against a Plymouth policeman was laid July 27 after her son was arrested by him during a scuffle in the Public Square earlier.

Mrs. Ruth Gasparac, Rome Greenwich road, Shiloh, alleges her son, Randy, 23, was beaten by patrolman Ronald G. Croxford after he arrested young Gasparac on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Two others were also arrested. These are Mark Oney, 22, 69 West Main street, Shiloh, and Dewayne G Deskins, 22, 39 High street, Shiloh.

The three are accused of disorderly conduct in Bob's Cafe, whence Croxford was called to quell a disturbance.

Croxford's report says he removed Gasparac with some force because Gasparac objected to removal and handcuffs were applied.

Later Gasparac was taken to the Shelby lockup.

His mother asserts the family was not notified of Randy Gasparac's detention until between 5 and 6 a.m. He was released at 6:40 a.m. A relative posted bond for him.

Mrs. Gasparac claims her son's face was bleeding when he was taken to the Plymouth police station. She says police sought to have young Gasparac wash the blood from his face, but he refused. He demanded hospital treatment. She says sutures were required to close wounds on her son's head.

Oney was charged also with resisting arrest. A Richland county sheriff's deputy took him to the Shelby lockup. His report says Oney first agreed to go to the Plymouth police station then threw chairs and spouted profane language. He was released on his own recognizance.

A 20-year-old Baseline road man was arrested Sunday at 1:30 a. m. by Capt. Frank Hodge on charges of drunken driving, public intoxication and possession of a concealed weapon.

His companion was arrested for public intoxication.

Captain Hodge found a vehicle in charge of Charlie Robinson obstructing traffic at 38 Sandusky street. Robinson and his passenger, Johnny Ray Hall, Plymouth, were all but insensate in the car. A search revealed three knives of lethal length.

Hodge says a warrant will issue this week in the case of vandalism of the U. S. Post Office at 17 Plymouth street, where a window was broken and entry grained to an anteroom at the east side of the structure. Items mounted on the wall were torn from it.

Hodge also expects to issue a warrant in the vandalism of Plymouth High school the night of July 27-28.

Paint of several colors was sprayed on the east, west and north sides of the building, some of it in obscenities, and the victory beil mounted in front of the school was daubed with paint.

Garden look like jungle? Just call Aunt Jane!

BY AUNT LIZ

Back yard gardens seem to be doing great.

I even know a couple that are beginning to look like a jungle, and they are producing beautifully.

And it looks as though the tomato crop will be plain plentiful.

Everyone knows what you can make with them, and they do make. Another thing, everycne has a pet suffing for them.

However, some tasty stuffings are out under the circumstances. There was a time when a hostess could stuff them with lobster for a special diner. Not today. About a hundred years back they were considered "poor man's fare" and sold for a penny — a penny apiece — along the New England coast. Then they became fashionable. I have often thought that when things get out of the reach of most pocketbooks, that does it, and to be part of it all, you eat lobster.

They could also be considered a little exotic since they are so chic to eat.

This is a new recipe, and exotic as all get-out

It is called Tomatoes Bombay and I'll bet they have never been served in the whole country of India.

Cut off the tops of six really plump tomatoes, and scoop them out a little. Drain them for a while.

Then mix two cups of cooked rice with a half cup of raisins that have been cooked in a little butter for a few minutes, a half of a chopped green peper and some diced pimiento.

Mix a dressing of three tablespoons of olive oil, a little lemon juice, about a good tablespoon, a half teaspoon each of curry powder and and a tablespoon of chutney. Mix it all and stuff the tomatoes.

For your first small head of cabbage, this is a good answer.

Shred it and mix with two ripe bananas that are nicely mashed, five tablespoons mayonaise, a teaspoon of lemon juice and a little salt. Chill it.

And for beets, cook, slice and drain three cups.

The next thing is an orange sauce to pour over the reheated hot beets. Mix a fourth of a cup of sugar, some salt and two tablespoons of cornstarch, stir it into three-fourths of a cup of orange juice, and stir until it is thickish. Then add a tablespoon of margine and two tablespoons of lemon juice.

Some of these things combined into a supper can make a nice meal, but throw in something a little more, like Pineapple Sticky Buns.

Grease a ring mold.

Drain a can of crushed pineapple, the pound, four ounce size, but save two tablespoons of the syrup.

Melt four tablespoons of margarine and stir in a half cup of dark brown sugar and the reserved syrup. Fold in the drained pineapple and spoon it over a fourth of a cup of chopped walnuts and some cut-up marachino cherries, which are to be scattered around the bottom of the mold.

Open two eight ounce cans of butterflake biscuits, stand them on their sides around the mold and bake ar 375 degrees until they look and feel done.

No decision yet on revenue sharing

Nothing concrete was decided at the public hearing Monday night concerning the 1984 Federal Revenue Sharing funds.

This year's money, about $15,000, has been used for street improvements.

It was suggested that next year sidewalks be redone, bu the village has its own program. Labor will be furnished if the property owner pays for the materials.

The federal money can only be used for capital improvements and most likely will go to streets again.

How poor is Plymouth?

Diener also said that low income housing can be rehabilitated, such as new roofs and insulation, with grant money.

He was asked by Luella Vandervort if such funds could be used to insulate the fire station, which is costing taxpayers money for high heating bills. He answered that municipally owned structures are not included.

There are three programs under which applications can be made.

Housing rehabilitation and the jobs bill are the most likely for the village, Diemer said, rather than economic development, which would be the hardest to justify. It would be necessary for an industry to put in writing what its expansion and improvement would do toward creating additional jobs.

He also said that obtaining a grant is highly competitive, since every other municipality in the state is going after one.

If the council takes the housing rehabilitation, then 25 per cent of the funds can be used for improvement of water lines, which is what the council has been aiming for.

Only two residents, William Fazio and William Ross, were present for the hearing, along with the council and planning commission members.

The next hearing will be Aug. 15 at 7 p. m. in the village hall.

By then, there will be concrete plans for what the village will apply for. The grant money can total $350,000 maximum.

Miss Metcalf's passengers were her sister, Mrs.Benjamin Montgomery, 27; Benjamin, two, who was unhurt, and Vicki Metcalfe, seven, who was treated at Shelby and then taken to Mansfield General hospital.

Miss Metcalfe was southbound.

She was summoned for speed in exces of road conditions.

Hall hallmark of Ashland nine vying at Toledo

A Plymouth boy plays on an Ashland baseball team that's competing in Toledo this week for the right to enter the American Amateur Baseball Congress tourney at Knoxville, Tenn., in the 13-15 age bracket.

He is Steve Hall, mostly a pitcher but useful elsewhere, who plays for McNeal's Johnny Appleseed Trail Blazers.

The Blazers were 21-and-6 going into the playoff game with the Columbus Comets, seeking the championship of the Central Ohio Amateur Baseball federation Frank Howard league.

Hall gave up only one earned run in 30 innings, an ERA of .30. He was undefeated with six wins against outfits with a combined record of 80-and-14.

But he got arm soreness during the tourney at Northfield and was forced to give way to Ron Hurst, Savannah.

But Hall was active with the bat. How active? Like George Brett, but with no pine tar. He whacked a homer with the sacks loaded in the seventh inning to win one game and clouted a triple with the bases jammed in another to win another. His season's average is .406.

Hall was a co-captain of the McNeal team, which is coached by Don McNeal, whose son, Doug, hit .607 for the season. The McNeals live in Manafield. Hall's father, Dave, is an assistant coach.

He Felt Better, So He Didn't Take All His Medicine. Then He Felt Worse.

It's a familiar story. He started taking the antibiotic the doctor prescribed and within a day or two most of his symptoms were gone. He felt so much better that he decided not to finish the bottle.

"What's the point of taking it all?" he asked himself. "I'm over the worst. Besides, I don't like taking medicine all that much."

But the symptoms came back. With a vengeance.

Antibiotic medications include directions to take the medication until it is used up. Otherwise, the bacteria or other organisms that are causing the problem may not be completely eliminated. And that can mean trouble.

So, when you get any prescription, be sure you know—

- Its purpose—what conditions does it treat?
- How and when to take the drug—and when to stop taking it
- What food, drinks and other drugs to avoid while taking it
- What side effects may result—are they serious, short-term, long-term, etc.?

Second councilman seated in violation of law

Copyright, 1983, The Plymouth Advertiser

Keith Hebble's seat as a village councilman was improperly and unlawfully given to him.

The Ohio secretary of state's office said Tuesday, in response to an inquiry by Mrs. Phyllis Sawyer, Richland county director of elections, that a councilman must be domiciled within a village for one year prior to his election to that office.

Hebble took up residence in Plymouth East road as of Dec. 1, 1981. His utilities were connected at that time. He continued to pay utilities on his home in Shelby, at Box 290 West Main street, through January, 1982.

He took oath as councilman Aug. 24, 1982, only nine months after he moved his domicile to Plymouth, having earlier been elected by the council to that office.

Mrs. Sawyer confirmed to The Advertiser late Tuesday that Section 731.12 of the Ohio Revised Code applies to councilmen and issued a written statement to that effect.

It says that to be eligible to serve in the legislative body of a village, a person must be a citizen-elector thereof domiciled therein for one year prior to his election.

She added that those who serve as mayor or seek to serve as mayor need reside in a village only so long as is necessary to obtain voter registration.

She offered no explanation of why the General Assembly should have made any difference in the two offices.

What the council will do about Hebble's seat is unknown. At press time no councilman had been told of Mrs. Sawyer's statement or the opinion of the secretary of state's office.

Meanwhile, Ronald Predieri, who was ousted as councilman because he did not legally qualify since he was not a citizen-elector, has overcome that disability by registering. He was unanimously reappointed to his seat on Tuesday night.

His appointment was proposed by Councilman Billy Taulbee, his champion in 1981, and seconded by Councilman Roy Barber. On roll call, these two and councilmen Keith Hebble and Terry Hopkins voted yea. Councilman Thomas Moore was absent.

Mayor Dean A. Cline administered the oath of office to him on the spot.

Predieri's term expires Dec. 31. He has not yet said if he will seek election in his own right to an office to which he was appointed. Deadline for filing a nominating petition is Aug. 20 at 4 p.m.

Only Mrs. Terry Jump has so far given any sign of wishing to be elected. She is circulating a nominating petition for councilman.

William Fazio is the only candidate soliciting signatures on a nominating petition for mayor. Whether Cline will run again is not known. He is thought to be disenchanted with his office and wishes to move to Wooster, where is employed.

Some self-styled political experts say John Fazzini "has about convinced himself to run for clerk". Fazzini is also an appointee. He has what appears to be ringing report of approval by a state examiner in his favor.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

A closing

Our friends at Attica closed up shop last week.

The Attica Hub and its companion papers, the Bloomville Gazette and the Republic Reporter, went out of business.

The properties have been sold to two Attica residents and a printer at Greenwich, the last-named of whom has some considerable experience at publishing a weekly newspaper.

It is to be hoped that they can revive the newspapers so they will again become reflectors of the communities they serve.

It hasn't been easy for weekly newspapers over the past 15 years.

The competition for the advertising dollar is keen. Advertisers naturally are looking for the most mileage for their money. They pay no mind, and we've never been able to understand why, to the fact that when a customer pays to read his advertisement he's more likely to buy in his store than if the advertisement is crammed down the customer's throat by the mailman.

The three papers, all printed at Bloomville, were among the last four or five in Ohio to be reproduced by the letterpress method.

The offset technique requires less skill in the back shop and tends to accentuate shortcomings in the editorial and advertising departments. We wouldn't have it any other way.

But it was not so 29 years ago, when we came here.

It is the fashion these days to shoot the carrier of bad tidings, rather than to face up to what news he brings. Pheidippides ran 26 miles from Marathon to Athens to recount the victory and then collapsed in death.

Weekly newspapering is no longer the refuge of the country printer. It demands professional management, professional services, professional attitudes.

No longer should the small town resident expect the cracker-barrel, self-effacing, innocuous reportage that characterized the press of the last generation.

But the professional has a right to be taken for what he is – a professional. To be treated as such, to be patronized as such, to be respected as such. When he fails, he should be told so, and he should be afforded an opportunity to mend his ways, if indeed they can be mended, and to recover what may have been lost because he unintentionally gave offense.

Newspaper people are too frequently cursed for negativism. How they cry out for the merest opportunity to be positive, and to remain honest, decent, moral and upright. Sometimes it's hard as hell!

Will liquor license go?

Two bars encounter dog days heat

Two watering places in New Haven township are in trouble with the law.

Wright Way Inn, Routes 61 and 598, New Haven, lost its license to sell spiritous liquors, wines, beers, and such after a hearing of the Ohio Liquor commission, which acted on complaint of the New Haven township trustees and some neighbors, who alleged public urination by both sexes, loud noises, disorderly conduct, unruly customers.

The proprietors, George and Mary Wright, sought a stay of execution pending an appeal and it was granted by Judge MaxChilcote at Mansfield.

Pullman Inn, Route 103, Willard, is defendant in a suit laid in Huron countycommon pleas court by Huron Realty Co., Norwalk, seeking $13,403 in past due rent and other expenses, such as legal fees, court costs and currnet rent.

Alex Gunaris, the restaurant owner, has a lease that will expire June 20, 1985. The lease calls for Gunaris to pay $850 a month in rent plus $4,200 owed under a previous arrangement.

Plaintiff states no payment has been made since Feb. 1 and says defendant, despite two notices, refuses to vacate the premisies.

Gunaris sought a jury trial, which began Monday.

Pullman Lanes a bowling alley, was recently sold to Douglas Johnson, Wellington.

Earlier, Hartenstein's Supper club Route 224 closed up and its owners, F. Robert Hartenstein and his wife, H Mary, filed for bankruptcy. A Toledo realtor is hawking the premises.

Hearing to decide purpose of grant

A second public meeting will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. in the village hall to discuss the village's application for federal grant money.

If the village qualifies with 51 per cent of its residents living under levels of minimum incomes set by the federal government, it will be in a good position to receive a grant.

It is possible that $350,000 can be applied for, this is the maximum amount.

What the money will be used for will be explored at Monday's meeting.

The main purpose of the grant money is to create jobs and to upgrade living conditions of low income families.

100 won, 202 lost over 34 years

Big Red football squad will undertake its 35th season in Mary Fate park Sept. 2 against Seneca East's Tigers in a non-conference contest.

It will be the 311th interscholastic game that Plymouth has participated in. For the record, it has won 100, lost 202 and tied eight.

Its first game was against St. Paul's at the high school Sept. 17, 1948, and the Plymouth team, then called the Pilgrims, went down to defeat, 25 to 6.

Richard McMullin, who now lives in Mansfield, was the coach. He had seen some service with the Baltimore Colts. A veteran of the armed services, he undertook Plymouth's first eleven.

One of the reasons Plymouth had had no team, and it was just one reason, was that it had no field.

Trustees of Mary Fate park were prevailed upon to make available a tract of land that volunteers of the community prepared in 1950 as a lighted football field. It is now called the Robert A. Lewis Memorial field. For the seasons of 1948 and 1949 the squad played on a field laid out on ground east of the high school.

Lewis, a barber here for three generations until he died suddenly in 1980, was a prime mover in organizing the field and the team. He never missed a home game so long as he lived. Indeed, when he prepared for the surgery from which he did not recover, he sought counsel of the sports editor of The Advertiser to determine what dates the Plymouth team would fill at home so he could enter the hospital, submit to the relatively minor surgery, and be healthy in time to resume attending the games.

He died suddenly after the surgery was performed.

Others who worked on the field were John Helbig, now living in Florida; the late Elton A. Robertson, to whom the team gave its first honorary letter, because he furnished at no charge a public address system for home games for many seasons; the late Francis J. Burrer, the electrician; J. Harold Cashman, John F. Root, Miles Christian, H. James Root, the late Weldon M. Cornell, the Rev. M. P. Paetznick and then Supt. G.R. Dennis.

Outfitting of the team was assisted by Ehret-Parsel Post 447, which gave $250, and the JayCees, who gave $200. Cost of the lights was $1,700.

Players on that club of 35 years ago included the late Hulbert (PeeWee) Metcalf, Jim Burrer, Bill Trauger and Ken Donathan, ends; Dick Lowery, Harvey Wilson, John Root and Tim Burrer, tackle; Joe Kennedy and Louis Root, guards; Jim Shutt and Vale Reed, centers; Bob and the late Larry Schreck, Don Cunningham, the late Dan Eby, Bob Echelberry, Ron Trauger, Dean Grabach and Des Donnenwirth, backs.

Season tickets were $2.25 for adults, $1 for pupils. Single games admission was 60 cents for adults, 25 cents for pupils.

Hoffman Farms, of which the late Burr Knaus was manager, gave the squad some warm-up jackets for the 1949 season. The cost was $250.

The first squad won two games and lost five.

Only once in its 35 year history has the local team won a league championship, and that occurred when it didn't bear the name "Plymouth". In 1956, with Lewis J. Petit as coach, it won seven games and tied one and won the North Central conference. But the team was known as Huron Valley, and its nickname was the Warriors.

That memorable team, guided by A. Ray Einsel at quarterback and with L. Edward Taylor at halfback, defeated Green Springs 45 to 0. Ashland Reserves 49 to 0, Seville 45 to 0, tied Berlin Hts. 7 to 7 (Einsel and Dewey Acord, the all-league fullback of the Tigers, were ejected for fighting), and then won over Lodi 42 to 0, Westfield 44 to 6, Townsend-Wakeman 24 to 6 and Burgoon 62 to 0. The last game was one that Plymouth players and a few hardy fans will remember for a lifetime. The Burgood gridiron was behind the school in the northwest corner of Seneca county. The game was played on a bleak, cold afternoon. It was held up for over 35 minutes because a flight of starlings alighted on the goalposts, the flagpole, the bleacers, the players, the officials and the school. And it stayed there until, mysteriously, it flew off.

Coaches subsequent to McMullen were the late Don Frail, who died of cancer at Marietta, where he was a collegiate mentor; Fred Kreutzfeld, Petit, Dr. William Ramseyer, now head coach and athletic director of Wilmington college, Richard Carpenter, Lawrence J. Root, Michael McFarren, David Coulter and the incumbent, Richard Roll.

None had a winning record, overall.

Plymouth's longst rivalry is with Crestview, which it has played consecutively since 1963, winning 13, including 10 straight and losing eight. With South Central its record is eight-and-nine.

With St. Paul's, its record is a dismal one-and-15.

The Big Red has managed three victories over Monroeville in seven tries, one over Northmor in four attempts, three over Seneca East in five tries, three over Black River in five efforts, and six over Lucas's Cubs in eight games.

Dry herbs now; Auntie tells how

BY AUNT LIZ

If you have good smelling things growing, start drying them for lovely little gifts.

This can be lavender, rose, geranium, rosemary, mint, or even rose petals.

You can always whip up little bags to go in dresser drawers. Or you can get a little more daring, and make usable pillows for sleeping purposes.

You should be a little careful, though, to whom you give such a thing. They may be allergic and spend nights sneezing until they catch on to what is causing it.

Maybe you ought to experiment a little first to see if you like the idea.

Take two men's hankies, sew them together on three sides, then stuff with whatever you have. You need about eight cups, and if you add a drop or two of benzoin the scent is "fixed". Stitch the fourth side closed.

Then cover it with something gay or even a lovely square of patchwork. And since you will want it so it can be easily washed, this can involve hooks or zippers.

Now there is something new. To me, anyway. It's a tape that sticks and readily pulls apart. It can be stitched onto the open side or cemeted on, which is even easier.

Even parsley, which is very fragrant, can be used, but it is almost better to eat.

With a good soup (which comes next) make bread strips with a spread. Soften a fourth of a cup of margarine with two tablespoons of grated Cheddar and chopped parsley, a tablespoon of cream, a teaspoon each of minced green pepper and good prepared mustard.

Spread this on strips of bread. Half slices are a little more practical. Broil until golden.

There are 50 millions of soups to make, but this one should take care of all those green peppers. Maybe not all, but some.

Saute a half cup of chopped peppers with a fourth of a cup of chopped onions in a tablespoon of margarine until the onions are goldish. Add two cups of chicken broth and a fourth of a teaspoon of oregano. Simmer for 10 minutes, then puree it in a blender for a couple of seconds.

In another saucepan melt a tablespoon of margarine and carefully blend in a tablespoon of flour. Some salt, too, if you like. Cook until bubbly, remove from heat and gradually add a cup of warm milk, stirring very carefully until it is smooth and thickish. Never, never, pour the milk in at once.

Mix the two mixtures by adding the pepper one slowly while stirring.

Heat and eat or chill and eat.

Along with your canning and getting ready for winter, this is a good time to try this, which might be ready and great for Thanksgiving.

It is called Florida Champagne.

The only thing difficult about it is finding a widemock jar that will hold about two gallons. A crock should work nicely if you have one.

Mix one and a half pounds of cracked corn, four and a half pounds of sugar and one pound of chopped raisins.

Cut four oranges and two lemons in half and squeeze the juice into something. Throw the rinds in but do not squeeze them.

To all of this, add a gallon of cold water and let it ferment for 21 days. Strain it, bottle it and cork it loosely a month later.

Newsy notes . . .

Teacher quits, one hired; winter coaches named

One teacher resigned, to take a principalship at Crestline, and one was hired when Plymouth Board of Education met Monday night.

John C. Leonard, fifth grade teacher at Shiloh, was allowed to terminate his contract because he was appointed elementary principal at Crestline Monday night. He is the second of Plymouth's faculty to receive an administrative appointment at Crestline and the third of the teaching staff to go there. Lloyd Ray resigned as elementary principal here to go to Crestline. Ralph Thauvette quit here to be coach and athletic director.

Mrs. S. Michael Tracey was hired as Title 6B teacher. She has held this appointment in the past. Offering of a contract to her this year, as in the past, was contingent upon receipt of federal funds.

Carol Kirkpatrick, previously hired on a half-time basis, was raised to full-time because the state has authorized a full unit of support.

Supplemental contracts were authorized for David P. Dunn, head basketball coach, John Hart, reserve coach; Paul Gase, Terry Pore and William F. Flaherty, assistant coaches; Miss Barbara Schamadan, volleyball coach; Bradley Ream, head girls' basketball coach; Mrs. William Nadolsky, nee Kim Chronister, assistant girls' basketball coach.

Also, Paul McClintock and Miss Karen Luhring, assistant girls' basketball coaches; Richard Roll, wrestling coach Mrs. Debra Hudson, annual adviser; Miss Joni Rinaldi, high school musical director.

Bread contract was awarded to Millbrook Bakery, Cleveland, lowest among three bidders. Milk contract went Meadow Gold Dairy, Tiffin, lower of two bidders.

Five bidders sought the fleet insurance contract. Two bids of $1,447 were received from Nationwide Insurance Co., but one of them was submitted by Tom Thompson, with offices in New Haven, so he was designated as the agent.

Jack Stidham Insurance agency, Shelby, will represent the insuror for pupil accident coverage, at $10 for pupil in kindergarten through sixth grade, $14 for pupils in seventh through 12th grades, $14 for teachers, $36 for 24 hour coverage and $48 for footballers.

The coverage is voluntary, save that it is mandatory for football candidates.

Luncheon prices will remain the same, the third year the district has held the line. These are 75 cents for elementary and junior high pupils, 85 cents for high school pupils, $1.25 for adults.

Additional milk will rise by five cents a half pint to 20 cents.

Volume of milk disposed of in the two cafeterias is substantial, Supt. Douglas Staggs said. White milk sales last year amounted to 25,195 half pints, chocolate milk to 163,427 half pints.

Advertisement for a new 65-passenger school bus was authorized. Bids will be opened Sept. 9 at noon. State reimbursement, which in previous years was as high as 78 per cent of raw cost, will be limited to not more than 50 per cent nor less than 40 per cent of raw cost.

High school pupil handbook was approved, with three reservations that unfortunately could not be included in the text when it was printed. These are minor in nature and will be explained thoroughly to pupils during orientation.

Mrs. Herbert Caudill, already on the disabled retired list as a bus driver, formally resigned that position. Her replacement is Clayton Richards, who substituted for her last year when she was taken ill. He will be given a year's credit on the salary scale.

The board entered into an agreement with Crawford county board of education to share the expense of an audiologist.

Donald Barnthouse will be delegate to the annual OSBA convention Nov. 14. Mrs. Roger Pugh will be alternate.

Your energy-saving options are as easy as:

1 2 3

Electric Thermal Storage.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, a very efficient whole-house heating system that works in a unique way. It stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day.

Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend.

ETS not only heats your home, it also heats your water. Individual room heaters are available, too.

Add-On Electric Heat Pump.

Another very modern option to save energy, and money.

An Add-On Electric Heat Pump works with your existing furnace — no matter what kind of fuel it uses — to heat your home more efficiently all winter long.

In summer, it's a central air conditioner, cooling and dehumidifying your home.

So an Add-On Electric Heat Pump can actually work year round for you and save you money on your winter heating costs.

Add-On Resistance Heating.

Another add-on option. Your third way to save energy and money.

Add-On Resistance Heating is simply an electric element that's slipped into the duct of your furnace. It takes over for your furnace on weeknights and weekends when the cost of electricity is less. And, as an Add-On Resistance Heating customer, you pay special lower rates for nighttime heating — as well as all other electricity you use during those same hours.

For a low initial investment, Add-On Resistance Heating can be a real comfort to your nighttime heating costs.

Village to seek $350,000 grant to aid housing

Plymouth will apply for a federal grant of $350,000 under the program of housing rehabilitation.

Plans were detailed Monday night at the second public hearing in the council room by Lester O. Poggenmeyer, who is completing the paper work and engineering.

The target area will include Mills avenue, East and West High streets, Beelman, Nichols, Pine and Riggs streets, with the block of Plymouth street between Mills and West High included.

In that area, which a survey has determined is low income, a total of 45 dwellings is eligible for repairs such as roofing, insulation and more efficient heating systems.

The largest share is in Beelman and Nichols and 10 in Riggs street.

The grant will also have funds for water line improvements up to $75,000. It is hoped that large lines can be installed to provide better fire protection and service to consumers. This will also include some street improvements, except for Mills avenue which is being done this year with village funds.

The application must be completed by Sept. 23 and the funding if received used by December, 1984.

The hearing was attended by two councilmen, Roy Barber and Bill Taulbee, James C. Root, village administrator and two members of the local media.

Anne Paulo, Plymouth Sunoco minor division, was named MVP and to the all-star team. Absent: Leba Boyer, Zanietta Issac, Shari Hixon, Leeanne Hesson, Robin Burks, Genifer Collins, Shaelene Hass, Liz Vittel, Holly Barnthouse, Wendy Risner, Coach Cris Zara and Assistant Coach Billy Collins.

Good news for village!

64% below U.S. standard means grants possible

Good news for the village in applying to the federal government for a federal grant is that 64 per cent of villagers are living on incomes below the minimum federal standards.

Robert Brancheau, representative of Lester O. Poggenmeyer, Inc., village engineers, gave the breakdown of the seven areas in which the village had been divided for the survey. Only one area was below the required 51 per cent. Area 2 showed only 46.2 per cents below the average income. The other six areas ranged from 56 to 75 per cent.

He told the council many of the program will require matching funding, which should be considered carefully.

James C. Root, village administrator, said the request of Mary Fate park for a $16,000 grant, of which 50 per cent must be met by the village, is under study.

He said only $2,000,000 is available in the state for park projects, which is coming from off shore oil taxes, and that so far about $15 million is being requested by 130 other applicants.

He thinks a new pavillion has the best possibility of being approved and that road work and new tennis nets would not.

He said the setting and present facilities of the park, such as the athletic field, pool, and present equipment are a definite asset.

The formal application, which must be sent in, is due Oct. 1. This gives the council time to figure out the local share of funding, which will not come from the merger funds by which the park maintains itself.

Bid of Erie Blacktop, Inc., Sandusky, at $25,900, the low tender of five, was accepted. It quoted blacktoppong at $29.60 a ton.

He said the problem of the installation of a gasoline tank at Portner and Woodland streets is under study by the state fire marshal's office to ascertain that all requirements are met.

The meeting then went into executive session at the request of Richard Wolfe, village solicitor. Acting Police Chief Frank Hodge was asked by Mayor Dean A. Cline to be present.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ousley Plymouth route 1, Shawn Ousley represented Richland county Friday in the Ohio State fair's Health Bowl.

Who's for bicycle licensing? Better opt for salmon loaf!

By AUNT LIZ

Like Mom and Dad, kids just may have to have a vehicle license.

Our nice friend, Dick Rench is furious about it. So are another two or three nice friends.

The happy state has set up a bicycle department with a rather highly paid person to run it. It is supposedly to be federally funded, but they may just end up requiring all bikes to be licensed.

This will have to include those three wheeler types which little ones have a ball with on their black-topped driveways.

One reason for it is that records of types and makes will be available to check on stolen ones.

For years I have suggested that small police departments simply keep a little file with this information, which would be hardly any work at all, so when one is snitched, the serial numbers, color and all that is there.

At the rate people in Columbus seem to be dreaming up new taxes, the day will have to come that such things as stoves, refrigerators and fancy baking and cooking pans may have to be licensed before you can even use them.

Since this has not happened yet, use them like mad.

What could be an ordinary effort of something like a salom loaf can be perked up by plunking it in a fish-looking mold. It can be a real work of art, but spray the pan really well, so when it is turned upside down on a serving dish, it will come out nicely.

If you really want to live it up a little, you can carefully place almond halves over it all. These look like fins. It will take hours, but it is fun.

Once I did this with a special cake for a Christmas card party that a young friend was having. By the time the cake was made, frosted, and the almonds plastered around it, it was midnight, but it was plain beautiful.

It was what was called the $200 red cake recipe, which everyone was making then because it was so special. It really wasn't.

It is basically a chocolate cake doused with red food coloring.

This makes two layers.

Cream a half cup of butter with one and a half cups of sugar. And two beaten eggs.

In another bowl make a paste of one-fourth of a cup red food coloring and two tabelspoons of cocoa. Add to creamed stuff.

Measure two and a fourth cups of flour and alternately add with a mixture of one cup of buttermilk, a dash of salt, a tablespoon of vinegar and a teaspoon of baking soda.

Bake in two layer pans, eight or nine inches, which either are lined with wax paper or well greased.

Bake at 350 degrees for about a half hour, cool, then slice each layer in half with either a piece of yarn or fine wire.

The frosting starts out to be an ordinary white, but it can be green, purple, or a striking pink. Whatever you want with the red cake. Just add a few drops of coloring.

Make a paste of five tablespoons of flour with one cup of milk and cook until thick and clear.

Cream and beat until fluffy a cup of white sugar and a cup of butter. Gradually add the flour paste with a teaspoon of vanilla.

Frost away, doing the sides too. And since there has not been a machine invented yet to stick the almonds on, just carefully place them one by one all over the top and sides.

It is really good and sure as heck impresses everyone.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Take stock in America.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

This is an open letter to parents and friends of Plymouth High school.

This is the second year that we will be competing in the 10-team Firelands conference. Aside from our conference schedule we have added new teams for non-league games. We offer an excellent athletic program to our pupils in Plymouth High shcool and I would hope that each pupil will take advantage of participating in one of our many team sports. Our hope is to be very exciting and competetive in both girls' and boys' athletics.

I hope that you as parents will show your enthusiasm by participating in the Plymouth-Shiloh Booster club. The Booster club has been very instrumental in improving our sports facilities. We can thank them for our new bleachers on the football field, and for the new drainage system at the Shiloh Track. These are just two of the major projects that they have dealt with and accomplished. Our current president is Bob Metcalfe. Bob did an outstanding job last year. Bob needs help to accomplish the goals the Booster club has set for this year. Please call Bob or me to get involved, either as an officer or a Booster club member. You needn't be a parent of an athlete to be a member of our club.

Please come to our next meeting Aug. 24 at 8 at the high school. "Our Meet the Team" night will be Aug. 26 at Robert A. Lewis Memorial field unless the weather forces us inside. Our first home football game is on Friday, Sept. 2, at 7:30 against Senca East. I hope to see all of you at the Booster club meeting and our football games.

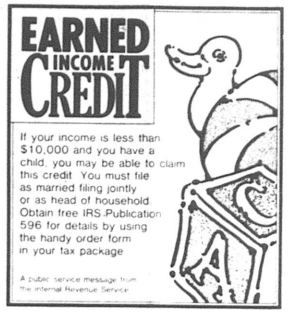

Sincerely,
Sam L. Cook

President Reagan speaks on behalf of Employer Support of the National Guard and Reserve.

"There are more than a million men and women serving America in the National Guard and Reserve. They're a vital part of our nation's defense.

"Duty with the Guard and Reserve is demanding. It requires members to take time off from their regular jobs and takes them away from their families for military training.

"Therefore, I extend the thanks of the nation to those of you who support the Guard and Reserve. Without the backing of employers and families, we could not maintain these essential volunteer forces.

"The security of our nation depends on a strong Guard and Reserve. And, a strong Guard and Reserve depends on us."

What's black & white and read all over?

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Get ahead in your reading— read the newspaper.

OHIO NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION ONA EST. 1933

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Implied warranty

It is axiomatic in American jurisprudence that he who purchases a product commonly sold in the marketplace relies upon a warranty by the manufacturer that the product is safe, will perform as intended and advertised and that if the product is used as intended, the buyer will come to no harm.

Failure of products to meet this implied warranty is often cause for action in the civil courts and damages more often than not are paid, whether by court order or by threat thereof.

It is equally so on the political scene. He who stands up and takes an oath of public office makes an implied warranty that he is eligible to hold the office, that he has complied with the law, and that he has no moral or mental intent to evade the requirements of his trust.

Candidates for public office who circulate a nominating petition are required to swear, or affirm, to such an oath before they may seek a single signature.

For the most part, there is but little difficulty with those who obtain office by this procedure, whether they are elected by the people or by the legislative body to fill a vacancy. It is still true that county boards of election generally do not investigate the claims of the affiant candidates unless there is complaint about them, which complaints generally arise after the deadline for filing a nominating petition and before the names are certified to the ballot. This is what occurred to Mrs. Jump the last time she sought to run.

The recent difficulties of the village, and they are shameful, to say the least, probably derive as much from ignorance and laziness as anything else. Trouble is, there is no excuse for ignorance and laziness. Ignorance of the law is no excuse from its punishment or obedience.

And nowhere in the Revised Code, despite diligent search, can we find anywhere that laziness is countenanced or excused.

There is more to it than simple ignorance and/or laziness.

Two fine men have raised their hands and taken solemn oath that they were qualified under the statutes of the state to serve in the offices for which they had been chosen. It has developed that they have been guilty, or least, of misprision. At most, simple fraud.

Neither of them can escape that guilt. That somebody else told them their qualifications were in order and there would be no obstruction to their appointment is not enough. It is certainly not a reasonable excuse.

Nor can their colleagues escape the same guilt. He who seeks out and hires one who subsequently defalcates, or conducts himself in such untoward manner as to compromise his credibility and that of the institution he seeks to serve, unless he has exercised due and proper care to learn all of the circumstances surrounding the character and person of the appointee before the nomination, is equally guilty. Probably more so.

To have committed these crimes against the citizenry is serious, although it's accurate to say none of the incumbent councilmen thinks so. But we think so. And there are a lot of citizen-electors here who think so, perhaps because we convinced them.

'Get out of Ghana', says visitor, there 21 months

"The people of Ghana are enormously kind and friendly to strangers, including Americans, but their government isn't and we might just as well pack up our effort in that country and get out, lock, stock and barrel." That's the opinion of a Plymouth weekend visitor, Herbert C. Williamson, a graduate of the College of Wooster who was there when Todd Fackler, 65 Plymouth street, was an undergraduate.

Williams has just returned—"almost by request. the American Ambassador told me to get out because the embassy couldn't guarantee the safety of Americans outside the capital city of Accra, and perhaps not there either"—after 21 months in the Peace Corps in Ghana.

He was en route to Champaign-Urbana, Ill., to take up a graduate assistantship in the University of Illinois while working on a master's degree.

Young Williamson served as an agricultural consultant. He was adviser to annual subsistence corps such as tomatoes, some corn, beans, local meal, rabbits and such. Ghana's big cash crop is cacao, the foundation of cocoa, but he had no dealings with it.

"Besides, the government has the system so fouled up that with prices controlled there are a heck of lot of farmers who're burning their cacao stock to make room for other crops and those who are harvesting cacao are smuggling it out to such as Togo, where they can get higher price and in stronger currency."

The foreign exchange situation in Ghana is crtical, Williamson said.

"When we could get the trucks, which are mostly foreign made by Mercedes, rolling—and they didn't roll because there were no spare parts to fix them, because there was no foreign exchange to pay for them—and off to market with tomatoes, the cannery didn't work because it was broken down. And it couldn't be fixed for the reason, no foreign exchange with which to pay for spare parts. So the tomatoes rotted."

Frustration is the name of the game in Ghana. Foreigners have a saying: "WA-WA". It means "West Africa Wins Again". It is alien to the society to proceed briskly with a duty or chore. There seems to be no desire to excute missions promptly, much less correctly.

And the farmers tend to resist foreign ideas. Why?

Will village increase police staff by one four footed trained officer?

Offered of his trained dog to the village if it is wanted to help in tracking suspects way made to village council by Frank Hodge, acting police chief, Tuesday night

Last year the council turned down the chance to have a trained dog since the expense was great. Hodge told the council Tuesday night he will undertake the cost himself because of his interest.

He said he has had Smokey since he was a six-week-old pup. He is now 15 months old His training will mainly be in tracking narcotics.

Details will be worked out later, although the dog will be completely Hodge's responsibility so far as liability is concerned.

The council approved the mayor signing a new agreement between the park board and Plymouth Local School district for the use of the park for athletic events.

An attempt had been made last year to have such an agreement, and because of so many legal problems and reviewing it, this is an updated version which was approval. There had been one in effect in the past, but it apparently cannot be found in the village records.

Councilman Terry Hopkins said the contractor with the low bid for the village street repairs will be able to start the work within a few weeks after completing a contract with the Department of Transportation.

James C. Root, village administrator, pointed out the company has done Trux street and left no kerbing in parts of it, which may cause serious flooding.

Mayor Dean A Cline said such a problem should be investigated to assure this will not happen in the village's work.

Root said he is already receiving inquiries concerning the renovation of housing in the area that is targeted for federal funding He said it is simply too early to even discuss it with property owners.

The application is due Sept. 2. The village should know by October if it will qualify for a grant. He said that 15 percent of the grant is designated for administration and recommended that the council hire someone to do this work which will be lengthy and time consuming.

Mayor Dean A. CLine will seek reelection, he said Sunday.

He is circulating a nominating petition and will file it before the deadline today.

The lines are thus drawn for a full-scale battle for the mayorship between the first four-year mayor in village history, William Fazio, and the latest one, who's never been elected to such a term.

Mrs. Terry Jump was, at press time, the only declared candidate for village council.

John Fazzini is the only candidate for clerk-treasurer.

Mrs. Robert Sponseller, Donald Barnthouse, Charles Reinhart, David Gillum and Martin McKenzie seek election to the board of education.

Ballonoff has been losing money steadily, its local manager says. It makes metal stamped products for home use, such as bread boxes, canisters, waste baskets and metal cabinets.

Whatever, despite what seemed to be due care with the identification of the photographs sent to the camera last week, two of them landed in the wrong place.

Reborn grandma prescribes rocks and cooking, too!

By AUNT LIZ

Grandmothers can be real pests!

All of the sudden when you become one, your thinking changes, and you really kind of revert backwards to things you liked and did way back.

Now we are redoing, more or less, that Girl Scout rock finders badge I was so proud of as a 10-year-old.

We have one six-year-old who is into rocks, and naturally the best present you can send is a hunk of something.

This is where you become a pest to friends.

Our neighbors went to California last week, and I coyly suggested they bring back a stone. They brought six and from interesting places. I have no idea what they are, but not too many kids in the first grade in Iowa are going to have such things. Nor will they have a piece of whatever is coming out of Mt. St. Helens in in Oregon, which another friend brought back.

In between all of this, I am not only getting the fun of it, but plain learning stuff I never knew. Which I hate to admit.

A few weeks ago I conned a friend into going to a gem show with me. I was dead sure they would be selling pieces of this and that, and they were, so grandma came home with all sorts of interesting little things.

It is over now, but there will probably be another next year. Watch for it. I highly recommend it to all parents, and Scout leaders to take their kids. It was beautifully done and understandable. The exhibits were fantastic and impressive.

Some of them I could recognize without reading the little signs, but one exhibit was something new to me 'black coral'. I knew that it existed in coral shades, pink and white. It was beautifully arranged and explained. It comes from very deep tropical waters where the temperature is cold, which it needs, and hard to get to, about 300 feet, which really isn't too far on straight land, but downward in water is a different story.

The people running the show loved every single stone they had. They were real hobbyists, and I gather thought nothing of getting on an airplane to go thousands of miles to pick up stones.

They were plain nice, too. When I asked one gal to simply pick out some stones from an assorted box, she flatly refused and said, "You pick, and I will put them on a piece of tape and write down what they are. I picked the pretty ones, nine, and we have nine names. The catch is which end of the tape do you start with to know what they are? They are in Iowa now, so they can have the fun figuring it all out.

When grandmothers aren't looking for rocks, they do a little cooking and make really impressive things like strawberry jam, which one

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Officer praised; Why no coverage?

Sir:

At times people take for granted the servants of their safety. I would like to commend one with this letter.

Tuesday morning last a call was placed to the Richland county Sheriffs department of a burglary in progress at the American Legion Post in Shiloh. Patrolman R. Croxford from Plymouth was the first to arrive on the scene. His professionalism of duty and valor may be expected from his job but were very impressive to this civilian.

His knowledgeable handling of a dangerous situation was very supportive of the final outcome: charges filed against all the perpetrators.

I think my feelings are the same as my fellow legionaires: Well Done, Patrolman Croxford.

Respectfully,
J. Michael Bauer

Sir:

This letter is to deplore the lack of coverage of the Plymouth All-Star Little League tournament. The winners over all were the Shiloh Little League All-Stars. Had Plymouth won this tournament, I am sure there would have been extensive coverage. (Ed. Note: Not so. The Advertiser was afforded only thrice any news of Midget league play and no advance news of the tourney.)

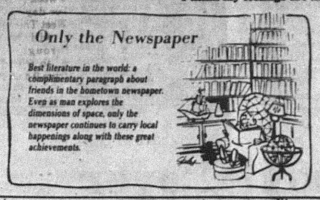

This is the first time in 13 years Shiloh has taken this tournament. All the Shiloh affiliates are extremely proud of this team and their coaches would like to see some recognition for their excellent work.

It may seem trival to some but a lot of hard work and practice went into this win.

There was a quote in Plymouth that there was no competition in Shiloh but I am afraid they have been proven wrong. (Ed. Note: Not by The Advertiser!)

Shiloh Little League All-Stars defeated every team they played in the tournament; capturing the win and I want to commend every player and the excellent games they played.

Two thefts at Shiloh

Two reports of theft, were made by Shiloh residents to the Richland county sheriff last week.

Preston E. Smith, 125 South Main street, reported that four full wheel covers had been removed from a Ford truck in his yard.

Mrs. David Kucinic, 16 Mechanic street, said cassette tapes, a silver cigarette case and a $1 note were taken from her home sometime Thursday or Friday.

Entrance was apparently gained through an unlocked door.

No business last week!

Plymouth Fire department and ambulance squad chalked up an unusual score last week.

Reborn grandma prescribes cooking

four-year-old informed a waitress in a nice restaurant in Denver that her grandma's jam was better than theirs. Then there is the littlest one, who was still two last Christmas and discovered grandma's pickles, which she thought really made a good breakfast. Her mother had to start hiding them.

How much flattery can one stand?

So we eat easy things while pickles and such things get made.

One of the easiest things I have found just now is frozen cubed chicken. Considering it is frozen, it is not bad. A lot of people would sneer at it. I is a mixture of white and dark meat, cheaper than buying chickens, cooking them and taking them apart. So far we have only made chicken salad from one package. With all that goes in besides the chicken like some chopped onion, a couple hard boiled eggs, celery, mayonnainaise, grapes, and flavoring, salad olives, too you can almost clean out your refrigerator. Even small pieces of raw zucchini, peas, carrots, you name it.

Anyway, it made enough for five large servings. The second night, I threw in some curry powder, which made it a new meal.

'We ought to get out of Ghana at once!'

"There are a lot of reasons," Williamson said, "and they all have to do with being able to show them that doing it another way doesn't demean them and works faster and cheaper. But that's easier said than done!"

Ghana has experienced several coups d'etat since Nkrumah was deposed in the late 60's. He was sent to Guinea, where he died. His remains were returned to Ghana for entombment.

The chief of government now is a young air force officer of company grade who plays hand-in-glove with Colonel Khadafi of Libya and fosters an anti-American, pro-Marxist government that makes life for Americans difficult at best.

To live at the official rate of exchange is prohibitive for Americans, but to do otherwise is to court arrest by the Ghanians, who deal harshly with Americans, to whom the U.S. government only promises to see to it that mail is delivered if they are incarcerated.

"West African jails are unspeakable, and that's a mild word," Williamson said.

Is the Peace Corps a success?

"Yes and no. Ghana was the first country to sign up for the Peace Corps and I'd have to say from what I saw of it and know about it the Peace Corps hasn't been a great success. Some of the fault is that of the Corps, but the most of it is that Ghana expected the wrong thing at the wrong time and didn't do its share of cooperating to make the idea work."

His lament is the same as hundreds of Point IV and Peace Corps and similar workers throughout Africa, Asia and Central and South America.

Three bound over in Shiloh burglary

Three accused in the attempted burglary of Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, at Shiloh Aug. 16 were bound over to a Richland county grand jury by Judge Vincent Phelan in Shelby Municipal court Friday.

Thomas Stewart, 19 and Timothy Graska, 18, and their alleged confederate, Miriam Deanna Thayer, 35, Mansfield, were apprehended shortly after the incident.

Thayer was already free on bond on $500 recognizance bail on another offense.

Her companions were present in court Friday to hear Ralph Hawkins, 15 Pearl street, Shiloh, testify he saw Seward enter the Legion building and also saw a window that had been pried open.

Richland County Sheriff's Deputy Dale Rhodes swore he found a fifth of Kessler's whiskey under a window and that he saw clearly the two men had been drinking from it.

Seward and Graska asked for court-appointed attorneys.

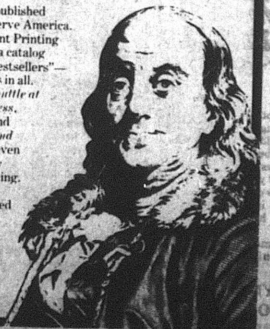

Judge Phelan refused their request to lower their bonds, from $1,000 and $500, respectively. Each was taken to the county jail.

back to school

Our children are the most precious part of our lives. It behooves us that they get the very best possible to start them on the path of life, to be assured that they will uphold the ideals of our churches and our country.

The main tool to give them these qualities is to be certain that they are taught in schools that reflect the best a community can offer them.

We think this is being done, and as the opening day of school approaches, it is with happiness we watch the youngsters, carrying their books, walk up to the school door with the eagerness that only a child can show.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?
We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.
Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. What's black & white and read all over?

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?
Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Woman fined $302 on reduced charge; one case to Norwalk

Three cases were continued and one transferred to Norwalk Municipal court when Mayor Dean A. Cline conducted his bi-monthly court Aug. 23.

A traffic obstruction charge was also continued.

Charges against a woman of drunken driving were reduced to a lesser offense and she was convicted and fined $302.

Charges of resisting arrest and disorderly conduct against Mark A. Oney, Shiloh, will be heard Sept. 13.

Kathy A. Hauprich, Greenwich, was convicted of physical control of a vehicle while in impaired state, a lesser charge than drunken driving.

Charlie Robinson, Plymouth, accused of traffic obstruction, will be heard Sept. 13.

The mayor disposed of other charges thus:

Dewayne G. Daskins, Shiloh disorderly conduct, accused in the same fracas as Oney, plea of nolo contendere, was found guilty, fined $50.

Randy Gasparac, Shiloh, charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, pleaded nolo contendere, was found guilty and fined $150 on each count.

Conley to alter plea, resign as chief here

Robert Conley will resign as police chief of Plymouth and change his plea to the charge that he committed a felonious assault against his estranged wife, Wendy, at Mansfield on Apr. 22 last.

Conley's attorney, Robert Whitney, Lexington, confirmed last week that the chief will plead quilty or nolo contendere (which means he will admit the facts as stated in the indictment) to a reduced charge.

When the plea will be entered in uncertain.

Whitney has notified the court of common pleas that Conley wishes to alter his plea. The move comes after an obvious bit of bargaining. Earlier, those who have in the past asserted "inside information" said Conley stoutly refused to bargin after the prosecution offered it to him. Their information was that Mrs. Conley had become disenchanted with testifying and the whole case had devolved into a vendetta by Mansfield policemen against Conley, a former deputy sheriff under the convicted Thomas Weikel.

The facts are that prosecutors showed Whitney their evidence, as required by law. Most of it centered about the firm indentification of Conley's black Mustang hurrying away from the scene of the alleged assault at great speed, so much so that it outdistanced the hot pursuit of Mansfield police, and that an impression taken of Mrs. Conley's bite matched an impression taken of Conley's left hand, where there was a contusion obviously incurred after Apr. 21 at 11 p.m., when he went off shift. Two of his subordinates, Capt. Frank Hodge and a dispatcher, told the prosecutor Conley had no scar nor mark on his hand when he left the police station at the end of his shift on Apr. 21.

Further, Conley is alleged to have gone to a common place of assembly in the village and there to have stated to several witnesses that he planned "to kill that woman". He had not been drinking when he said to have uttered that statement, witnesses say.

Judge Nelson Kimerline, Crawford county pleas court, is hearing the case because Judge Max Chilcote disqualified himself. Chilcote said he had had dealings with Conley in the past, when Conley was a detective in the sheriff's office, and wished to avoid any suspicion of favoritism.

Bible classes fail to obtain authorization

Resumption of religious instruction for elementary pupils is still down the road a way, Plymouth Board of Education decided Thursday night.

The board said insurance coverage proposed by North Central Council of Christian Religious Education and phrasing of the permission slip to be executed by parents of the children do not meet with its standards.

If and when the council can overcome these objections, religious instruction may be resumed.

The board balked at the phrasing of the permission slips. It wants to have nothing to do with collection of the slips, whereas the council wants the teachers to administer the program by distributing and collecting the slips. And the board wishes not to be a party to permission slips that relate to the Crestview district as well.

An opinion of Richland County Prosecutor John Allen states the council must solicit permission from the parents by mail. Permission must be returned to the council without involvement of the school. The classes must, of course, be conducted off the school premises.

The board had other reservations, none of them sufficient to disqualify the program but requiring further assurances, which may be forthcoming on Sept. 8.

Two others summoned—

Gunslinger arrested after spat

A 45-year-old Nichols street man, already the subject of police activity, was arrested Thursday night on charges of carrying a concealed weapon, aggravated menacing and disorderly conduct.

He is Raleigh Davis, 167½ Nichols street, who on Aug. 11 at 8:45 p.m. was dealt with by police and ambulance personnel after a report he had fallen and broken his neck or back.

He was adjudged too inebriated to transport.

Police went to his address shortly before 7:30 p.m. after receiving reports he was threatening another with a gun.

Police took the gun from Davis.

They also arrested on charges of disorderly conduct Randy Gasparac, 25, Shiloh, who has a warm chair in mayor's court here, and Earnest G. Bradley, 37, 170 Nichols street.

Davis was taken to Shelb's jail. Gasparac was released on his own recognizance. Bradley was issued a summons and handed over to Norwalk police, who produced a bench warrant for him.

Collinses injured in crash in Rt. 61

A three vehicle collision Monday at 3:32 p.m. sent Roy Collins and his daughter, Baseline road, to Shelby Memorial hospital.

A tractor-trailer rig struck a UPS truck in Route 61 at Shoup road. It collided with the Collins' car.

Shelby ambulance squad took them to the hospital. Plymouth Fire department was on the scene to wash down the roadway.

Red leadership

Leadership of Big Red season: Co-Capts. Tom Baker, Mike McKenzie and Richard Cunningham, 12th graders, and Coach Richard Roll, starting his third season with a record of 3-and-17.

Positive!

Unbeaten in scrimmage, Red to meet Seneca East

Positive attitude and positive results are the hallmarks of the 1983 Big Red eleven that undertakes a 10-game slate against a tough Seneca East team here tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Plymouth has won its three scrimmages with a brilliant display of aerial power and a more than satisfactory running game.

But high school football games, and especially those in the Firelands conference, are won by defense. Just how strong is Plymouth's defense? Does it have enough depth? Can it withstand injury? Is it beg enough and fast enough to cope with such a Monroeville, Edison, Black River, South Central and the division champion Crestview?

"Nobody ever has enough defense. Nobody ever has enough depth. Nobody can ever afford injury to his key players."

Coach Richard Roll speaks thus about defense in general.

Specifically, what of the Big Red defense?

For its size of enrollment in the Firelands conference, Plymouth is not heavily peoples with football players this season. The highest total in uniform has been 33. Not all of them have turned out for every practice. There are only six ninth graders on the squad. Only four of them played at Shiloh last season. Of the eight players of the eighth grade who shone at Shiloh last season, the top three declined to report. No official explanation has been offered.

So Roll has to do what his predecessors for 35 seasons—Plymouth starts its 36th season tomorrow, seeking its 110 victory against 202 defeats and eight ties— have done: use his players two ways.

This puts a premium on conditioning. Is the Plymouth team ready to play 480 minutes of football?

Signs are that the answer is more yes than no. Reasons: weight lifting, a generally enthusiastic purpose by players, the feeling of a group of players who've been together for six seasons now that this, at long last, may be their day.

Mike McKenzie, a tough kid who's as coachable as anybody on the squad, will play nose guard. Junior Adams and Bill McVey will play tackle. Chad McGinnis, every bit as good as father, Dennis, was 25 years ago, will play at one end. His counterpart at the other side may turn out to be the most improved player on the squad. He is Brian Vredenburgh, who's put on some weight and has the experience to hold his own on the flank.

Rich Cunningham and Scott Ryman will be the inside linebackers.

Tom Baker and Darren Branham will play at corner back, Rodney Hampton at safety and Steve Jamerson at rover back, or what the local team calls its Viking back.

On offense, Hampton, who was injured in a motorcycle mishap on Labor Day last season and wasn't available, will run the club at quarterback. He has filled out in his body and has filled out in his head and shows signs that he is perfectly capable of competing in a league that has some outstanding quarterbacks, notably Dave Keszei at Monroeville, also a lefthander.

McKenzie will be th main running threat. He scored the first touchdown against Hillsdale here Saturday, after the visitors drew first blood with a sustained drive and a mistake.

Cunningham, who has already shown his spurs as a running back in two previous seasons, could very well be the outstanding ground gainer among all Plymouth fullbacks this season. Jamerson will see heavy duty in the backfield as well.

Up front, McGinnis will anchor the middle of the line as the center. Ryman and McVey will be the guards. Adams and Ron Baldridge will play at tackles.

Vredenburgh will be the tight end. He is a good one. Baker, who may very well be another Ted Fox as a split end, and Branham will divide duties at that position. Baker snared two bond heaves by Hampton for touchdowns against Hillsdale.

McKenzie will be the place kicker.

What of the reserve strength?

"Its not so deep as I would like," says Roll, "but what we have is very good. Dave Burks, who's strong and willing and very coachable, will be my first substitute on offense. He will be used at center and guard when we have the ball and a linebacker when we don't have the ball.

"Terry Mansfield is the No. 1 defensive back-up. He'll play at nose guard, mostly, but he can also play at tackle."

Mansfield and Todd Reed will see action at guard on offense, Rodney Beverly, Paul Mannual and Matt Archer at tackle, Eric Rath at tight end. Ron Nease, when his injury heals, will also be available for tight end duty.

"We are fortunate that we have two skilled quarterbacks. I don't have any fears that Troy Keene can't do the job if Hampton is tired or hurt. He's only a 10th grader and he's going to be a very good player later on.

"I like what I see of Craig Baldridge. He's just a ninth grader but he's as good as some of the players who're a couple years older. He's going to be a fine running back. Mike Hawkins will spell Cunningham."

Jeff Redden and Todd Fenner are available for split end duty and Jamie Brown at flanker.

On defense, Archer will play tackle, Hawkins linebacker, Ron Baldridge, cousin to Craig, and Craig Baldridge at linebacker or corner back.

In the secondary, Roll has Brown, Keene, Nease, and Rath ready to go.

"We don't have any way to go but up," observes Roll, starting his third season. He won one game the first year, two games the second year, expects to triple this year.

What of Seneca East?

The Tigers have an improving team and will be tough. Plymouth scouted Seneca East in its scrimmage against St. Paul's, which it won by two scores. The Flyers are improved over last year, when Plymouth managed to beat St. Paul's for the first time in history.

It will come down to defense. If Plymouth can contain the Tiger running game inside, Plymouth ought to win.

Prediction here: Plymouth 14, Seneca East 8.

Bring plants, inside for drying, freezing

By AUNT LIZ

There's one thing for sure: September means that summer is ending.

But there is still time to get ready for what is ahead.

Start thinking of bringing some plants inside and pot them because they can make great, quick gifts.

This should keep them blooming for months. Mix up a teaspoon each of baking powder, salt peter, epsom salts and ammonia. Mix it in a gallon of water, and dose your plants with it every three weeks.

It will do wonders for them, but keep it away from people.

Another little thing to do about now is to mix up what herbs you have growing or can borrow.

Everyone has seen recipes that call for "bouquet garni". It is merely French for a tasty mixture of herbs.

Traditionally it should have parsley, bay leaves, thyme, basil and tarragon, dried and tied up in a little piece of cheesecloth, to add to stews, soups, casseroles and such. Once they are put together, it is much handier when you want to mix up something, and you must hunt through all your spices looking for this or that.

This can also be a very welcome gift, unless you use them all up yourself.

Small jars of flavored vinegars also come in handy. You use so little at a time, and it saves buying a bottle that can possibly last three years. Just about any herb will work, but use white vinegar. It's just a matter of simply adding the green stuff to it. Guess, there is no need to even measure it.

Some herbs freeze like a dream. The flavors stay, but they simply do not stay nice like they should. We have tried parsley and mint, and they dothaw limp, so it is most likely best to dry them for winter use. When you dry herbs, remember to take the leaves off the stems, don't dry them whole.

Another thing you can whip up from your herbs is jelly.

Measure a cup of fresh herbs, pour two and a half cups of boiling water over them, and let stand, covered, for 15 minutes. Strain and measure two cups of the liquid.

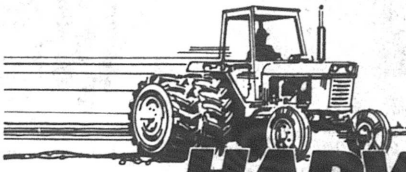

To this add a fourth of a cup of vinegar and four and a half cups of sugar. Cook over high heat until the sugar is dissolved. Add a dash of green food coloring to pretty it up.

When it comes to a boil, add a half bottle of liquid pectin and bring to a hard boil that will not stir down. Boil it one minute, then put it in jars, and that is it.

Only the Newspaper

You, too, can train your dog to "go fetch." It's worth the trouble, for the interesting things you read make you a more conversant and interesting person. The informed reader is the newspaper reader.

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?
We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.
Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.
Take stock in America.

Lucas refuses federal grant now sent here

Because the Village of Lucas is turning down a $10,000 federal grant, Plymouth will be $5,000 richer.

Lucas has turned it down because officials there say it will cost too much to administer and engineer the work the village had planned to do.

A generation and more ago, there was a popular song that went "I'm just a substitute from the institute but she loves me just the same."

Which applies to David Burks, the strapoing 11th grader who's No. 1 substitute on offense and defense for the Big Red forward wall.

The money is being shared with the Village of Butler.

James C. Root, village administrator, says he could use the money for street repair or the painting of the old water tower.

It will have to be decided, however, during public hearings.

Smokey out, Duke in as cops' dog

Police officers pride themselves with being friendly, when possible.

As a pplice chief once said, "We arrest with a smile".

Plymouth's department, however, has discovered that friendliness can be carried too far for the work involved.

Smokey, Acting Police Chief Frank Hodge's shepherd, which he planned to train for departmental work, is simply too friendly.

So he has plain been fired.

His replacement is Duke, a black shepherd, who looks as though he will make a good officer.

Rally in fourth period produces 14 to 7 victory

Plymouth opened its 36th season of 11-player football with its 101st victory here Friday night, scoring a come-from-behind 14 to 7 win over Seneca East before a disappointingly small crowd.

For the second year in a row, the Big Red has begun with a victory.

This one did not come easily and it certainly was no artistic triumph. But a courageous performance by the Big Red defense stirred the passions of the assemblage, and rightfully so, and gave long suffering Plymouth fans some hope that, after five dismal seasons, perhaps the worm has turned. Plymouth's last winning year was in 1978, when it went 7-and-3.

The Big Red was outmanned and outgained by a tough Tiger team but in the end made fewer mistakes and that proved to be a difference.

Plymouth's two scores were the direct result of tragic errors by Seneca East and the visitors' only touchdown and a missed field goal in their first series of this hard contest came about because of Big Red mistakes.

The Tigers kicked off and with possession at its 25, Plymouth sent Richard Cunningham over guard on its first play. The ball jarred loose, the Tigers recovered and Plymouth was already in deep trouble.

Seneca East managed a first down from the Red 23 to the 12 in three shots by Dave Daniel, who ran the ball 15 times for 75 yards and caught one pass for 10 yards in this contest, and one by Joe Reesman. But here the Red defense braced. The unspoken word was that of Marshal Foch in the Argonne: "Ils ne passeront"—"They shall not gain".

And again the Tigers did not. Not much, anyway. Three whacks at the Red forward wall produced just four yards and on fourth down, from the 13, Chip Blum tried a field goal. It failed.

Plymouth came upfield from its 20 in the ensuing series and decided not to punt on fourth down at its 29. The yardage for first down was short and Coach Richard Roll gambled. But a motion penalty set Plymouth back five yards and Darren Branham, who delivered a splendid performance in this opening contest, despite being victim of three motion penalties, kicked. The ball carried only 23 yards and the runback by Reeseman reached the Plymouth 33.

On first down Daniel bulled over tackle for 21 yards and another first down at the Red two, whence he plunged home with 5:57 on the clock for the first score of the night. Blum's kick was good.

The Big Red penetrated to the Tiger 32 in the next series, thanks to two completions in three efforts by Rodney Hampton, the south-paw quarterback. One of them was for 17 yards to Branham, who performed a magnificent juggling act to retain the ball, and the other of 13 yards to the same end.

But Plymouth ran out of downs at the Seneca East 32.

With time running out in the first period, Seneca East was forced tp punt on fourth

Cubs underdog here tomorrow; Red wary of speed, toughness

They've got good speed, one of their boys is a state sprint champion, and they play aggressive football. We have our work cut out for us."

Which is how Coach Richard Roll characterises tomorrow's contest with Lucas as Plymouth sets out to do what hasn't been done since the 1978 season; win two games consecutively.

Lucas was beaten by Mapleton, 2 to 0, Saturday night.

The Mounties returned to interscholastic competition after a year's hiatus owing to fiscal considerations. The Cubs did that two seasons ago.

Lucas was beaten as much by its own mistakes as by any heroicu by the Mounties.

With slightly more than four minutes left, Lucas had first down at the Mapleton 25. On fourth down with a yard to go for first down at the 19, Todd Harless, the quarterback, pitched out to Andy Booth. Mapleton recovered the ensuing fumble and killed the drive.

Mapleton gained handsomely through the Lucas defenses, 50 yards through the air and 215 yards on the ground.

"The films show that our offensive line wasn't as bad as we at first thought," Roll said Sunday, "Sure we made some mistakes, but we can correct those. We got off the ball quite well, I thought, for the most part, that is, but we need to be more consistent and we need to protect our passer a little better".

Ron Gonter is in his second season at the helm of the Cubs, whom Plymouth has played eight times with seven victories. First game was in 1964, which the Big Red won, 20 to 14. Only defeat came in 1980, 16 to 7.

Plymouth's defense will need to key on Greg Myers, a 12th grader who scored three touchdowns last year, and Harless.

Biggest players on the Cub squad are Mark Alt and Eric Wallace, each of whom scales 180. So Plymouth need not worry about being outweighed.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

GSA refuses bid for depot; media plagued by critics

General Services administration turned down Aug. 31 the revised offer of Cooper Tire & Rubber Co., Findlay, to buy the huge building adjacent to Central Ohio Industrial park at Shelby.

Earlier, Cooper bid $1.25 million. It increased its offer by 60 per cent to $2 million. The GSA wouldn't budge and now plans to reappraise the structure and solicit new bids, probably toward the end of the year.

The current fashion is to assault, even to slay, the messenger of ill tidings, rather than to deal with the implications of his news.

Four local examples of this attitude surfaced recently.

A Norwalk entrepreneur took an option on a defunct restaurant at Shelby, intending to examine the potential of remodeling it and installing his son as manager of a new enterprise. He allowed the option to expire. A reporter for the daily newspaper at Shelby interviewed the man and sought his reasons for deciding not to proceed. He told her the cost of remodeling the building and of complying with state and local codes would be high and since it is apparent to him that most of Shelby prefers to go to Richland Mall at Ontario, a mere 12 or 13 minutes down the road, to shop AND to dine, he didn't think he could recoup his investment within a reasonable period of time.

Some folks in Shelby took umbrage to the publication of the statement and have said publicly, whether to the editor of the Globe is unknown, they didn't cotton to such content.

The Plymouth Advertiser published over a period of three issues some factual reports that not one but two councilmen were sewing illegally. In the first instance the report came after the fact: the council met on Tuesday night to declare the seat of Ronald Prediori vacant because Predieri was not a citizen-elector of the village, as required by law. The other was before the fact: Keith Hebble wa said by the newspaper to be serving illegally because he was not for one year a resident of the village at the time of his appointment by the council on Aug. 24, 1982. What the council intends to do about it hasn't been said. Hebble was on vacation. The Advertiser has learned that the village solicitor has acknowledged Hebble's illegal appointment as fact but sendered an opinion to the effect no harm, no foul" and the council may simply overlook the soft impeachment and reappoint Hebble. Which it apparently will do.

The newspaper commented editorially, and adversely, on the council's action in reappointing Predieri and, by implication, in its probable reappointment of Hebble.

Which led one businessman to say to the publisher's family, "You are the reason that Plymouth is going downhill."

The newest of the print media, the Willard Junction, from time to time publishes a column of comment by one B. Cool, whom it has not yet identified, although to an experienced hand it's apparent how and by when the column is prepared. Three weeks ago the column commented adversely about the attire of a woman affiliated with a Plymouth country music ensemble that is popular in these climes and has, indeed, won several state awards.

In the issue of Aug. 31, the editor of the Junction was roundly criticized, and threatened with loss of custom, by some who purportedly reside or do business in Plymouth, but who stoutly refused to allow their names to be published. The editor decently withheld their names and took the heat.

If you're not careful, your TV or CB antenna could put you in touch with a lot more than you bargained for.

Like many do-it yourself projects, installing your own TV or CB antenna can save you money. But unless you take proper precautions, it could put you in touch with our power lines.

And the slighest contact between you, your antenna and our lines, could be fatal.

So, before you put up your antenna, here are a few suggestions you should follow.

First, we recommend you have a professional do it for you.

Okay, if you're determined to do it yourself, look out for power lines. The ones attached to poles. And the ones attached to your house.

If you can't tell a power line from a phone line, don't experiment. Steer clear.

Then make sure you locate your antenna (including supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. Which means, a 30-ft. high antenna should be 45 feet away from all power lines in all directions.

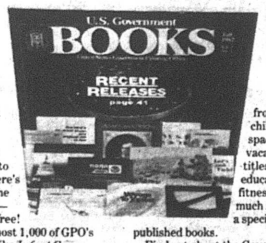

That way, if it falls during construction, or gets blown down during a storm, it won't hit any lines and endanger you or your neighbors.

Wait for a calm day, assemble the antenna where you intend to put it up, be sure to ground the antenna properly and get somebody to help you.

And remember: Ladders don't mix any better with power lines than do antennas.

Chad...

McGinnis view: Red better, support weak, no evidence of favoritism by coaches

The word from N'Jamena is that Chad is about to go under.

One man's Chad is another man's delight.

Which is what Big Red supporters discovered in Mary Fate park Friday night when Chad McGinnis started at center for Plymouth, only two files away from the post occupied so splendidly by his father, Dennis, 25 years ago.

How he escaped being called Casey is anybody's guess. His full name is Kenneth Chad McGinnis. But he's been Chad ever since he was whelped and he answers to it — "and sometimes, but only sometimes, to some other names, and those only in the locker room" — at home, at class and in the community whose enthusiasm for football is, he thinks, weaker than it ought to be and specifically not strong enough to produce a good team in an ordinary year.

But the year isn't an ordinary one, Chad McGinnis hastens to say, when he says anything at all. He's polite, quiet-spoken, responds to inquiry quickly and directly, obivously has more intelligence than he lets on. But he's not the successful salesman type, at least not now, that his father was, and is.

Yet he doesn't lose sight of the facts.

And as he sees them, they are these:

1. With a dozen 12th graders on the squad this season, nine of them starters, Plymouth had better produce a respectable record "or the whole business may go down the tubes." He points out there're only seven ninth graders on the team, not enough for a ninth grade eleven, and only six 10th graders. "If we don't get more players out for football, somebody is going to ask if it's worth the expense in time and money to put a team on the field."

2. Some have said there is favoritism shown by coaches and administrators toward some players at the expense of others. "I've heard it said that it's a question of money, but don't ask me what that means, because I couldn't tell you. Every player has to buy his shoes, pay for his insurance, buy his supporter and his socks and his T-shirt and his shorts. After that the school outfits the player. I don't see where money comes into that at all. But if they mean that it depends on how much money a player's family has, I wouldn't know about that and so far as I can see, it would o't make any differences how much money a player's family has, what counts is if he can play." Nevertheless. Chad McGinnis says, the report persists, "with some players, some pupils and what you hear around town". But you can put it down right now, I don't believe it."

3. The cheerleaders are nice girls and I like them all, a lot, but I don't think cheerleaders contribute much to a football game, at least not ours. It helps a lot to have the people cheering and yelling encouragement, but for organized cheers, cheers that can be heard, forget it. Maybe it's because except for the band the pupils don't sit in one section and there aren't that many anyway. At basketball games the only cheering done by everybody is when they do "Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar'. The adults don't know the cheers and I think they're too complicated anyway."

4. "The players on the team this year shouldn't be made responsible for the failures of the players last year, or the year before, or before that. Maybe we didn't win a lot of games but we get tired of hearing about that. And it doesn't help to have parents and others say 'You won't get to play' and 'Plymouth never wins anything'. It's hard enough to change things without trying to get along with that kind of talk."

5. That players and some coaches don't know the rules well enough is true. "I think it would be a good idea if the rules of the major sports such as football, basketball and baseball were taught in required physical education classes, where we don't do a heck of a lot besides take physical achievements tests, anyway."

6. Some players don't turn out because they don't like the coaches. Some of them have preconceived notions of the coaches without ever having contact with them. Many are deterred from turning out for football because they know, or suspect, they won't get to play much, if at all, whereas they know the same things in basketball and they turn out in droves. "It's because football is tough, we start in hot weather and it's physically tiring and takes long hours and not everybody can score like in basketball."

7. Plymouth is a town that will support a winner, but only a winner. "When we lose a lot, you don't see many people out at the games, only some parents and some teachers and a few others."

8. The policy of the board of education to hire qualified teachers first, and coaches thereafter, is "probably right but it's depressing to a player to think that his coach, no matter how hard he tries or how hard he wants to succeed, is just not a professional coach who has had some success, here or somewhere else."

9. The argument that to excel in athletics will mean a scholarship to further one's education may be valid in a bigger school, where by the rule of numbers there will be some bigger, faster, smarter players, but it's not valid in a small school. "I'm surprised about the figures: over 500 different football players in 35 seasons and only 10 who even played college football, let alone made a letter. That's less than two in a hundred." One of those 10 was his uncle, Jimmy Hamman, pound for pound perhaps Plymouth's best football player since 1960 and on the same basis one of two since football began in 1948.

10. "Players play because they like the game. When my father played, when you played, it may have been different. It may have drawn the girls, or made points in the town, or whatever. It doesn't do that any more. And to slug it out day after day during the season, and not win a lot, means you've got to love the game a heck of a lot. I do and that's why I stay".

11. Chad McGinnis, letterman, team player, dutiful son and grandson (both grandmothers were teachers; Mrs. Kenneth D. McGinnis retired after teaching sixth grade in Plymouth Elementary school for a generation and Mrs. Donald Hamman joined her later) doesn't feel any special pressure because of his family ties. "Everybody knew my grandfathers and a lot of kids went to school to my grandmothers, my father and mother graduated from Plymouth, my father played ball at Plymouth, but I'm me and I am trying to do what's right and best for me."Any takers on a bet he won't succeed?

Red wins No. 101 in rally over Seneca East, 14 to 7

down at its 36. The snap from center sailed over the head of the kicker and rolled to the Tiger seven, where Plymouth recovered.

After one play the horn sounded and Plymouth set up to tie the score early in the second period.

This came on the third down. Mike McKenzie and Cunningham got a yard apiece and then Hampton found Branham in the end zone with a five yard strike. Despite a five yard motion penalty, McKenzie split the uprights and tied the score.

Plymouth spent the remainder of the first half in Tiger territory but could not penetrate to the end zone.

After the kickoff, Seneca East punted 28 yards to the Plymouth 49. Hampton hit Tom Baker for nine but then was forced to eat the ball and lost 11 yards on the next play. A roughing of the passer penalty, however, gave Plymouth first down at the Seneca East 34. On third down, with only inches to go for first down, the Plymouth bench sent in a pass play. Hampton was sacked for five yards and on fourth down, Branham fell just before a reception seemed imminent.

The Tigers got nowhere in the ensuing series and Hampton was intercepted at the Seneca East 33 by Reesman to end Plymouth's next threat.

First half data showed Seneca East with four first downs after 26 plays, 32 rushing, 42 yards passing on one completion, this in the final series of the half on a shot from Denny Shank to Reesman that Hampton's tackle prevented from scoring. Plymouth with 35 plays had 16 net rushing yards and 43 through the air on four completions in eight tries.

Hampton was again intercepted in the second series undertaken by Plymouth in the third period and the Tigers put on a push.

Starting from the visitor's 45, in eight plays Seneca East stayed on the ground and punched to the Big Red 20. On first down, from the 25, a five yard delay penalty having been exacted against the visitors, Shank threw to Rick Ehresman for 20 yards and first down at the five.

Here Plymouth hitched up its socks abd showed the coaching staff and the fans of what it is made.

The defense braced and limited the Tigers to just one yard in four brutal shots.

Staying on the ground, thanks to a strong effort by McKenzie, Plymouth obtained first downs at its 40 but was forced to punt.

And the Big Red profited from the best offensive play in football: punt and recover the opponent's fumble.

Which is what the Big Red did, at the Tiger 44.

There ensued two incidents that could have cost a less poised team dearly.

Bill McVey was socked with a 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty and ejected. Coach Roll disputed the call and drew the yellow flag. The 30 yards of penalty set Plymouth back to it 13, with first down.

Two running plays produced six yards, whereupon Roll decided to kick. And kick is what Plymouth did, Branham's boot carrying 39 yards to the Seneca East 39. On second down Plymouth intercepted at the Tiger 43.

It could not gain appreciably and fourth down Branham punted.

It was right out of Albie Booth, the celebrated Yale punter who developed the coffin corner concept. Branham's boot trickled over the sideline at the Seneca East one.

On first down, Daniel went up the middle for two yards. He was hit by the Red secondary and fumbled. McKenzie recovered and Plymouth had first down at the visitors' three and 2:52 left in the game.

Cunningham got one end and then squirted home for the last two yards. McKenzie's kick was good.

Neither team did anything in the remainder of the game. Baker intercepted Shank on the last play to kill any Tiger hope for a tie or a win.

This was a rewarding victory, despite the failure of the offense to show anything worth shouting about. Plymouth's defense was superb and Scott Ryman, Junior Adams, Brian Vredenburgh, Cunningham, McKenzie, Chad McGinnis, whose interception killed a Seneca East drive with 1:15 left, and McVey deserve full plaudits.

You can't miss the boat with these tasty bars

By AUNT LIZ

These who own or live in lovely old buildings that are now called historical landmarks are truly to be envied.

Best of all, they have restored them to what they were, which can perk up any neighborhood.

Once we sublet a little apartment on a very old street in Alexandria, Va., that I heard later was one of the most desirable streets to live in. Every house was restored except the one we rented, and it not much better than the mud house we were then occupying in Africa.

Now everything, but everything is being restored and reserved.

The latest that I have heard about leaves me with some doubts. Perhaps it really may become something historical in 200 years, but now? The original toll house on the Pennsylvania turnpike is being replaced.

Guess where the old one is being moved to?

The Smithsonian in Washington. Maybe just the people in Pennsylvania are paying for it all since they didn't ask us if we would chip in. Sometimes I wonder about our tax money.

Millions are being spent to but up old homes that could never be sold at all, only to be torn down and the land used again. Again, no one has asked us if we just happened to know of an old house that the government could invest in, at probably more than anyone could pay for it.

This is kind of called "missing the boat".

With this you cannot miss a canoe, a rorboat, a motor boat, yacht on an oceangoing sailing vessel.

Easy and cheap, too, and they will keep about a day because they will most likely be gone by sundown.

Open a package of devil's food cake mix, not the pudding plus kind. Mix it with a third of a cup of softened margarine and one egg. Spread it over the bottom of a nicely greased 13 x 9 inch cake pan.

Have a topping ready. To one can of sweetened condensed milk beat in one egg and a teaspoon of vanilla until well blended. This don't take a few minutes, but you will win. Then stir in a cup of coconut and a cup of chopped nuts. Pour it iver the cake mixture, then sprinkle a little more on top and bake at 350 for a good half hour or so. It will set when cooled.

It makes many tasty bars, depending on how you cut it up.

The other day someone said, "You don't like fish, do you?". (Ed. note: I confess) I really don't, except for a few kinds. Partly because I was simply not brought up in a fish eating family like you-know-who was and hardly know how to cook the stuff, and the real reason is that I am panicked about choking on a bone.

We have had some beautiful filets of this and that which have been dreams to eat. Since you-know-who refuses to eat breaded fried things, wgich I really like, I do them very simply.

Put them in a greased dish under the broiler with a little lemon juice and butter on them, wine if we have it, and broil a couple minutes.

Another way is to broil them and make a white sauce flavored with various things, but mostly xhite wine, with some mushrooms and even a dath of very finely chopped onion. When the fish is cooked, pour the sauce over it, and if you have nice ordinary Lake Erie guys, you will think this is the most glamorous and expensive English sole you have ever tasted.

Let's face it, hardly any calories.

CHURCH NEWS

Rock 'n' roll: aim of Satan?

Jack Spearman will be guest of Wesley Evangelical church, Shiloh, Sunday at 7 p.m.

He will host a multi-media presentation, "Rock 'n Roll, Stairway To Heaven or Highway To Hell?" The presentation consists of nearly 200 slides, examples of backward masking and samples of modern rock lyrics.

"Rock music", he states, "uses the same mind controlling techniques of subliminal suggestion used by commercial advertising agencies and large commercial retailers. The way retailers reduce loss by theft is through an inaudiable suggestion that the listener 'buy and not steal'. The mind is very strange and wonderful in that everything that goes in stays and is not lost. It is influencing the thoughts and helps to mold the personality of the individual.

The presentation was started in March, 1982, in response to the call of the Community Bible church, Williamstown. Backward masking phrases were discovered during an investigation and Spearman says the true goal or aim of certain rock groups became obvious "It is the worship of Satan."

Jack Spearman has attended Lima Technical college and Ohio State university. He has worked in radio and television and is a successful businessman. He has also played in a rock band in the early sixties and has an excellent understanding of the influence of music in young lives.

The Rev. William Kren, pastor, invites the public. The church is in Route 603 at the east edge of Shiloh.

President Reagan speaks on behalf of Employer Support of the National Guard and Reserve.

"There are more than a million men and women serving America in the National Guard and Reserve. They're a vital part of our nation's defense.

"Duty with the Guard and Reserve is demanding. It requires members to take time off from their regular jobs and takes them away from their families for military training.

"Therefore, I extend the thanks of the nation to those of you who support the Guard and Reserve. Without the backing of employers and families, we could not maintain these essential volunteer forces.

"The security of our nation depends on a strong Guard and Reserve. And, a strong Guard and Reserve depends on us."

Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

We could appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you. The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.

Woman dies as car flips west of here

A 26-year-old Plymouth woman was killed and her sister, a passenger, injured early Thursday in a one car collision in Base Line road west of Route 103.

Mrs. Debra Lopez, 47 Trux street, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Her sister, Rebecca Endicott, also of 47 Trux street, was taken to Shelby Memorial hospital in fair condition.

State highway patrolman said Mrs. Lopez was westbound when her vehicle began to slide in gravel. It went off the right side of the road and overturned several times before coming to a rest on its side.

Both occupants were thrown from the car, patrolmen said.

Neither were wearing a seat belt.

Mrs. Lopez's death brings to seven the number of traffic fatalities in Huron county in 1983.

Funeral services were conducted for her Monday by the Rev. Ruth Philippi.

Mrs. Lopez was born Mar. 20, 1957, in St. John, Mich. She is survived by her husband, Oscar; a daughter, Tammy Rose, a son, Phillip Oscar; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Endicott; three sisters, Donna, Rebecca and Rhonda Endicott, all of Plymouth; two brothers, Steven Endicott, Plymouth and David Endicott, Mansfield, and her grandmother, Mrs. Ora Porter, Waco, Tex.

A daughter died earlier.

Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

T. J. W.

Time was when one could not start his workday without responding to classic inquiries by two veteran merchants of the Public Square.

One of them wished to know if the family furnace had lately been fired and the other if that furnace was ready to fire. It was typical of each of these that their interests were genuine. They were raised in an era when the country believed in and encouraged growth.

The first, Edward B. Curpen, is long gone.

The second, Tubby Webber, is whom we mourn today.

Fifty years ago a young boy presented himself in a court of honor of Boy Scout troop 82 at Somerville, N.J. The principal speaker, later to become the state adjutant general, addressed himself to the rank sought by the boy, first class Scout.

A first class Scout. he said. is a first class fellow, one who embodies the 12 precepts of the Scout laws, starting with trustworthy and ending with reverent.

We never thought to ask if he was a Boy Scout, and it really is not all that important now. What counts is that he was a first class fellow. If he addressed one as "Kid", he could count upon being in a select group of folks that Tubby trusted, respected and liked.

He was honest in his dealings with his customers. For-the-run-of-the-mill he would do anything save murder. For a friend, even homicide was not ruled out.

He was a good family man, a loving husband and a responsible son and father.

It was 52 years ago that he played basketball for the Plymouth Pilgrims, one of the first young men to play on the floor in the new high school erected in 1930. He never lost his affection for his hometown and he never failed to give it his full measure of devotion.

Ill health compelled him to retire before his time, a little over five years ago. Yet he continued a vigorous interest in the commercial affairs of the community he served so well from the death of his father to his retirement.

Goodbye, Tubby, we'll miss you terribly.

Fire guts inn at New Haven

A fire of undetermined origin gutted the Wright Way Inn, New Haven, early Friday morning and is being investigated by the arson squad of the state fire marshal's office.

A passing truck driver saw the flames and called the Willard Fire department at 4:24 a.m.

The tavern is owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, Shelby who were in the process of selling it to Carl Blankenship, Galion, who had been managing it.

The loss is estimated at over $60,000.

The tavern, known for many years as the Peek-A-Boo, has been controversial in New Haven township. It is alleged that the tavern causes too many disturbances and there has been a strong drive to have its liquor license revoked.

Fire caused by lightning destroyed a barn and its contents, mostly household goods belonging to the Samuel Sponsellers, but newly moved from Pasadena, Tex., in Plymouth Springmill road Sept. 6.

Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine estimated loss at $120,000.

Sixteen firefighters with two apparatus stayed on the scene for 90 minutes, Strine said. The barn was a total loss.

Some farm machinery belonging to a neighbor, Roger Daron, was also destroyed.

Mrs. Conley's car trashed

Estranged wife of former Police Chief Robert Conley, Mrs. Wendy Conley reported varnish remover was poured on her car.

The car was parked at her home, 623 Bailey drive, Mansfield.

She said she believed it happened between Saturday at 11:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:20 a.m.

Conley admits wife's assault, resigns post

As expected, Police Chief Robert Conley changed his plea of not guilty to guilty Sept. 7 in Richland county common pleas court.

He also submitted his resignation to Mayor Dean A. Cline.

Conley was indicted in June by the Richland county grand jury for felonious assault following an attack on his estranged wife, Wendy Conley.

He pleaded guilty to all charges with no plea bargaining.

The case is before Judge Nelfred Kimerline of the Crawford county common pleas court who was assigned to it when Judge Max Chilcote excused himself because of his close association with Conley who had served as a deputy sheriff for many years before taking the Plymouth position.

Conley remains free on his bond while a pre-sentence investigation is being conducted before sentencing.

Mayor Dean A. Cline does not plan to name another police chief for several weeks, he has said.

He plans to advertise for applications before making a decision.

Approval must be given by the village council to any appointment.

Two protest unsightliness

Two persons complained about apparent hazards that are devaluing their properties to village council Tuesday night.

The first was Jerrole Harrington who said that the property next to his house in West High street had become a junkyard. He showed pictures of how bad it is, including abandoned vehicles, four which have no license tags and are apparently inoperable.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore said that the village has an ordinance covering such a situation. None of the other councilmen seemed to know this.

The village enacted in 1968 an ordinance at the suggestion of former councilman D. Douglas Brumbach, who was then the village administrator. It was enforced for many years as needed.

The council agreed a letter is to be sent to the Davis family, which owns the property suggesting it be cleaned up.

The second protest came from Charles Hall, a property owner in West Broadway. His land adjoins that of Raymond L. Brooks and over half an acre retains stagnant water, which needs to be drained to do away with the offensive odors.

He also said that it is devaluing his property.

He has talked to Brooks, who is willing to have the problem remdied, but does not think he can afford it. Hall suggested it would cost very little if the village can clear it out so water will not accumulate.

Banner records profit

Business is looking up for Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

A net profit for the fourth quarter for fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $806, 997, equal to 20 cents a share. For the same period last year net loss was $537,587, equal to 13 cents a share.

The profit derives from net sales of $26,306,577, down $21,000,000 from a year ago.

Profit record for the whole fiscal year, however, showed a loss of $2,491,926, or 62 cents a share, deriving from sales of $142,276,913. A year ago, on sales of $200,991,300, net income was $429,477 or 11 cents a share.

Improved performance of the company is laid to divesture of Commercial Lovelace Motor Freight and a discontinued operation, Acmit Mfg. Corp., a fastener in Cleveland.

Thomas J. Webber succumbs to heart attack at Mansfield

Death came swiftly and quietly in Mansfield General hospital Friday evening for Thomas J. Webber, 70, who spent a lifetime as a merchant in the Public Square.

Although he had been hospitalized at least twice for cardiac ailment, he was in apparent good health anticipating a forthcoming check up as late as Sept. 7. He was taken ill at his home, 175 West Broadway, Friday afternoon and died later in the hospital whence he was taken by his wife and daughter, Karen, now Mrs. J. Michael Winans, Fremont, a registered nurse who was summoned by her mother.

Born in Plymouth, he was the only child of Karl and Lura Weber. He was graduated by Plymouth High school in 1931 and matriculated in Wittenberg college, Springfield. His father died suddenly and his mother called him home to operate the family business founded by his grandfather, T. J. Webber, in 1881. He sold it to Thomas Johnson, New Washington, in the summer of 1978, after he had cardiac problems.

The business had been part of the Rexall chain, which his father joined in 1928, and sold pharmceuticals, patent medicines, cosmetic supplies, stationery, school supplies, tobacco, confectionary items and photographic equipment and supplies. Webber's Rexall was located at 7 West Broadway.

He was a skilled photographer and operated a stadio in the store for many years.

He was an ardent gardener and delighted in the recreational activities on Lake Erie where the family had a summer residence.

Since retiring, he took up a new hobby — cooking.

He is also survived by another daughter, Gwen, now Mrs. Philip Tomic, Jacksonville, Fla., a son, John E. Webber, Ontario, and six grandchildren. One grandson died earlier. death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday by the Rev. Ronald Atkins, pastor of First Evangelical Lutheran church, at the McQuate-Secor Funeral home.

Burial was in the family plot in Greenlawn cemetery.

McKenzie stars in Red victory

Letterman scores 24 points, Plymouth 26, Lucas 0

Red star

MIKE McKENZIE

Until a better performance comes along, that by Mike McKenzie in Mary Fate park Friday night will stand as the premier effort by a Plymouth footballer.

All he did was score four touchdowns, amounting to 24 of the total of 26 points scored by Plymouth in its rout of Lucas; gain 132 yards in 14 rushes and record three sacks on defense.

Plymouth started sluggishly. Its defense could not contain the Cubs after the opening kickoff and only an interception of the Big Red at the 25 yard line stopped the visitors from what seemed to be a certain score.

Although the home forces in the next series, thanks to a 17-yard pass completion to Tom Baker by Rodney Hampton, advanced to the Plymouth 39, an interception against Hampton put the Cubs back in business at the Red 43.

It was at this point that the Plymouth defense decided to make good on its advertisement; it began to play defense as it seldom has been played in this stadium in 30 seasons. It kept the Cubs away from the 46-yard line for the remainder of the first half and did not permit Lucas to get into Plymouth territory in the second half, save for three plays in the fourth period. After a scoreless first period, during which Chad McGinnis distinguished himself on defense and Scott Ryman and Bill McVey contributed handsomely, the offense began to move.

Having obtained possession after a punt at its 18, Plymouth launched a drive that carried tot he Cub 10, where Hampton was again intercepted. The southpaw quarterback unloaded a shot to Baker that was good for 42 yards to the Lucas 13.

After Lucas punted 31 yards on fourth down in the next series, Plymouth sent Richard Cunningham through the middle for 15 yards in two plays, the first a splendid burst of 13 through right guard, and then after a five yard penalty assessed a gainst Baker, McKenzie got his hands on the ball for the second time. He smacked off tackle for 26 yards and the first score.

The scoreboard clock, which did not function suitably for most of the game, registered 6:56.

After a five yard penalty, McKenzie's kick for PAT was not good.

Lucas disdained the punt in the next series and on fourth down, McKenzie stopped Jerry Niswander, the Lucas halfback, for a one yard loss.

Then McKenzie went to work. He struck off right tackle for five yards and again for eight. With first down at the Cub 35, Baker nailed Hampton's pass deep in the Lucas secondary. Unfortunately, he was out of bounds. So from the 35 McKenzie cracked through the right guard and set forth for the goal line. The grass was not mowed for Friday's game. His cleats caught in the grass at the Lucas three and he fell.

Two plays later he was in the end zone with a one yard poke. The clock read 3:16. Plymouth had marched 48 yards in six plays. Hampton passed to Darren Branham for the PAT's.

Plymouth completely dominated the game thereafter, even as it had in the second period. After 24 minutes of play, with 35 efforts, the Big Red had recorded eight first downs, 127 yards rushing, and 94 yards passing, with six completions in 12 tries. Hampton had been intercepted twice.

He was again intercepted, this time by Todd Harless, at the Lucas 29 to stop the first series of the second half.

Steve Jamerson, a silent partner in the Red attack so far, told the board of directors he would have no more of this. He intercepted Harless at the 41 and ran it to the Cub 27.

On third down from the Lucas 20, McKenzie burst up the middle for the third score. His kick for PAT was not good.

Jamerson gave Plymouth good field position after the next series by running a 29-yard punt by Rick Masters to the 50. Lucas showed a net loss of four yards during the series because of McKenzie, Brian Vredenburgh and the right side of the Plymouth line, which forced a fumble.

McKenzie cracked for 13 yards and first down, Jamerson swept end for eight, McKenzie pushed through left tackle for nine and Hampton threw to Branham for seven to give Plymouth first down at the Lucas 13. The Big Red needed 3 at three plays to produce the final score.

Cunningham struck for four to the nine and McKenzie in two shots had the touchdown.

A pass for PAT's was not good.

By this time each team saw clearly that the end was not in doubt and substituted freely.

McVey and David Burks acquited themselves excellently until McVey went to the bench with the other first stringers. Burks got one sack and one interception.

Plymouth's second string, led by Mike Hawkins, gained a net of 51 yards against the Cubs as time was running out.

Who'd steal a book? Many, Auntie learns, and she's mad

By AUNT LIZ

Stealing something is a great sport in this world.

It isn't anything new to this age, but it is getting a little more refined.

Anyone can break into a house or a store and walk off radios, electronic things, guns or anything that someone else will buy with no questions asked because it is a recognized bargin.

I can remember what happened to one of my dearest friend's father. He was on a business trip to Chicago and somehow someone he met, an executive type because he was one with a large railroad, came up with something he wanted to sell for some reason. It was a very nice sized diamond ring, really impressive and at a real good price, so he bought it by check.

Somehow it was the check that did it. The guy got caught and the police found the check in his wallet. It had not been cashed so he was out nothing except for a nice present for his wife.

Now such things are hitting our very best libraries, which are mainly college ones. No school can exist without a good library and they work hard at building them up.

In every day dealings, libraries, no matter what kind they are, public or school, books vanish. For the most part it is because people misplace them and forget to return them.

I've done it myself and once paid a fine that practically covered the cost of a dumb mystery. College kids, though, are more apt to purposely keep a book forever which saves them having to buy something they must read.

What has now happened is that people who have a great knowledge that is necessary for what they are doing, are looting the really rare books from here and there.

One guy got away with about 400 such things that he managed to sell off to unsuspecting rare book dealers because he could remove all traces of where they came from.

He finally got caught up at Oberlin college and is now reading like mad from some prison library.

You have to give the guy credit. He knew what was what and where.

As a result there is a large meeting in Oberlin that covers libraries, FBI, and everyone else so they can get together to try to figure out how to stop this.

Frankly, to me, it is about the most important meeting anyone in this country has had in years. We all know that stealing is a sin, but stealing a very rare book is about the worse thing in the world. So if you have any overdue library books, sneak them back in the dark of night in their depositores.

But if they are cookbooks, copy out the good ones first.

This is one from an Amish source and is not bad at all. A kind friend gave it to us plus a jar to sample.

It is called Zucchini Jam but should really be called "How To Use Up Those Large Zuchini."

Peel and grate enough for six cups, drain, and boil slowly since it makes its own juice. Keep going until it is clear, which will take a little over five minutes.

Add six cups of sugar, a half cup of lemon juice and a cup of undrained crushed pineapple.

Boil this for six minutes, then take off the stove.

Add a six ounce package of either orange or apricot gelatin, stir until it dissolves.

Then simply put in jars and seal.

A son, Seth Dustin, weighing 7 lb., 3 ozs. was born Sept. 8 in Shelby Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. James Enderby. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Burton. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Enderby.

A daughter, Megan Colleen, weighing 8 lb., 12 ozs. was born Aug. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunagan, Midland, Mich. The mother is the former Nancy Sloan, daughter of Mrs. Harold Sloan and the late Mr. Sloan. The Dunagans are also the parents of another daughter and two sons.

President Reagan speaks on behalf of Employer Support of the National Guard and Reserve.

"There are more than a million men and women serving America in the National Guard and Reserve. They're a vital part of our nation's defense.

"Duty with the Guard and Reserve is demanding. It requires members to take time off from their regular jobs and takes them away from their families for military training.

"Therefore, I extend the thanks of the nation to those of you who support the Guard and Reserve. Without the backing of employers and families, we could not maintain these essential volunteer forces.

"The security of our nation depends on a strong Guard and Reserve. And, a strong Guard and Reserve depends on us."

Join the President in supporting the men and women of the National Guard and Reserve. Protect their future while they protect yours.

Pressure

12th grade quarterback says it comes from home and from pupils (who want winner) but only slightly from school

One who measures what he says before he says it, and apparently takes that approach to his other aims in life, usually makes a good engineer.

And if that's the case here, Rodney Hampton, a 12th grader who plays quarterback for the so far unbeaten Big Red, ought to be a howling success.

He knows what he's about and he thinks before he says what he thinks.

And, with a little prodding, he is wont to talk about pressure.

Pressure among teenagers is a common reason often offered for why they go wrong. The drug scene is constructed of flats made of pressures. Pressures by peers, pressures by parents, pressures by the community, pressures by the need, not to say the desire, to excel.

Rodney Hampton knows what pressure is all about. And he characterizes it in his precise way, methodically, and rationally.

"I get lots of pressure from my Mom to excel academically. I wouldn't want it otherwise. My grandparents apply some, too, but it's not so obvious."

There's some pressure in the school to excel academically but in my case I haven't had much of it because my grades haven't fallen. But if I were to get a C, I'd get static at school long before I got it at home. I will say this for our coaches: they — all of them, in every sport in which I've participated — emphasize grades and school work before athletics. Which is how it should be.

"I felt a lot of pressure in my sophomore year. I was playing where an older, more experienced player had always been and the squad wondered if I could cut it there; there were no bones about it, the players simply figured that the older player ought to be there and who was this smart aleck (he didn't say "aleck") kid who was taking that place?

"But I enjoy pressure. I like it when the game it tied and the clock is running down. Or when we're not so far behind that a reasonable effort can't win.

"Pressure is the name of the game. Those who can't stand up to it go to the showers early."

Is there pressure on the team this season?

"No more than usual, I suspect, but perhaps some, because we've got 12 players who've been together a long time and everybody said they'd be hot stuff one day and that day hasn't come yet. But this is our year and we're going to win 'em all."

Is there a pecking order among players?

"Sure, to some extent. A player who's been around for four years is expected to know more about the game and how to play it than a kid who's brand new or who's had only one or two years on the team. That's why the seniors automatically take what they think is theirs by right and expect the best assignments and the most dependence will be placed on them. But sometimes there's a younger player who shows the older guys what it's all about and shows them he can do the job. So we've got Spanky.

Spanky?

"Yes, sir, Scott Ryman. He does it all and he's a fine player and he's not going to graduate after this season. I just wish we had had him a lot sooner."

He plays three sports, football in the autumn, basketball in the winter, baseball in the spring.

"I've heard it said that Bellville and Butler and Shelby are football towns, Plymouth and Shiloh are basketball towns, maybe Willard, but for only the last 10 years. Nobody talks about baseball, yet if you consider how well or how poorly Plymouth teams have done over the last 10 years, you've got to come up with the obvious answer that Plymouth is a baseball town, and so is Shelby, really. It may be too soon to say that Willard is a basketball town, But what difference does it make, so long as you win?"

Is there pressure to win?

"Yes, sir. The pupils in the high school want to win so badly they can taste it. Notably in the band — of course, you know I'm a member of the band — and there's where you'll find the enthusiasm for the team to win, especially at the pep rallies. Just let us string a couple more victories together and you'll see the pupils turn out. And you'll see other people turn out. That's what they want, is a winner. Just try to buy a ticket at the door to see Willard play basketball!"

How much pressure is self conflicted?

He flashes that sheepish grin for which he is famous.

"Of course there's a lot of it that's self-applied. Take me, for instance. I'm carrying a home economics course because my family thinks it will be good for me, but it's no Mickey Mouse course. And the rest of what I'm taking isn't either."

How so?

"I'm taking English IV, advanced mathematics, which means trigonometry, chemistry, problems of democracy and physical education as well. They're not Mickey Mouse courses."

How much pressure comes from the school staff independent of the coaching group?

"The new principal doesn't seem to care much about athletics, he's interested in academic achievement and I think you'll see some good records along that line. If I had my choice, what I'd choose is high academics and a strong sports program that produces more winners than losers on a consistent basis. Unless we can make things turn around, we won't reach a .500 level in football or basketball for a long, long time, maybe when I've got a gray beard."

You'll find his name in the honor roll and among the musicians who excel in the Ohio Music Educators' association contests each spring. He's a percussionist. A pretty fair Ohio quarterback of some years back was an outstanding musician in high school and college and played in the band in both places. He was even concert master of the Northwestern university band. His name is Otto Graham.

Is there family pressure?

"Not to speak of. My father and my uncles played for Plymouth. My father graduated in 1953 and played some ball here. My uncles Larry, Marty and Mickey (Darrell) played football, and other sports. My uncle Bob was a good basketball player. I've got some cousins, the children of my aunt, the former Patricia Hampton, now Mrs. Powers at Shiloh, who're outstanding in football. One of them is Dave Powers, already big as a horse, and he's only in the eighth grade."

When Firelands conference defenders apply pressure to the Big Red offense, Rodney Hampton knows what it means. He knows what to do about it. And he's willing to stake his reputation that he'll do it successfully.

Northmor next foe

Knights have new coach, two defeats so far

Northmor has a new coach, Mike O'Quinn, and seven starters from a squad that was 8-and-2 last season.

But the Golden Kights, who compete in the Mid-Ohio conference, had not won so far this season. After building a two touchdown lead against South Central in the opener, Northmor went into the dumper before a strong Trojan come back.

Last week, in league play, the Kights fell to Fredericktown, a co-favorite with Crestline for the MOC title. The Freddies completely buffaloed Northmor after a scoreless first period simply poured it on.

Twelve letterman graduated in June. The new coach, a 1975 alumnus of Highland High school, replaces Bob Jenne. O'Quinn was defensive coordinator at North Newton, Ind., High school for the last four seasons.

It was propitious for Coach Jenne to quit, because his son, Paul, the quarterback, was All-Ohio as a place kicker.

The returning lettermen have some size. These include George Boyle, a center, Joe Ruhl, a guard, each of whom scales 190 pounds; Tim Boetick, the fullback, who weighs 160, and Ed Gardner who weighs 175.

The quarterback, Rick Liberti, an 11th grader weighs 160.

The Knights run split backs and also out of the I formation on offense and show 5-2, 4-4 and 4-3 defense with so far a number of variations.

Plymouth is expected to be at full strength and needs to improve its passing game, which was supposed to be its forte at the beginning of the season, and to take some of the pressure off Mike McKenzie. There is no doubt that Richard Cunningham and Steve Jamerson can do it if they are given the opportunity.

Directions to Northmor: Proceed via Routes 98 and 598 to Route 61, Galion, continue to Sims Fertilizer, turn left (east) to Route 19, cross it to school. the crossroads a snort way and can be seen.

Announcing GREAT new place to RAISE CANE also Land that's Not hard to BEET.

A growing country needs lots of growing things.

And the South was a perfect place to raise just about anything.

Feeding the hungry industrial regions to the north, the South helped make a new and struggling country grow strong and prosperous.

Today, America keeps getting stronger every day. Thanks to over 9½ million Americans taking stock in their country by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

They know that as they're working for their future, their Bonds are working hard for America's future, too.

SOME PEOPLE RETIRE WITH MORE THAN JUST A GOLD WATCH.

You work hard all your life and what do you get?

Well, depending on where you work, you could get cancer. Asbestos has been proven to cause cancer. Certain toxic chemicals like formaldehyde and freon are being investigated. If you've worked with radioactive particles or even worked near them, your risk is greater.

And even if you've worked nowhere hazardous, it wouldn't hurt to get a checkup. Because the incidence of cancer after the age of 45 to 50 increases rapidly.

Over the next several years the American Cancer Society will be conducting more research into certain lifestyles and exposures which could increase cancer mortality.

So know the risks.
Don't smoke.
Watch what you eat and drink.
Look for the warning signs of cancer.
And retire not only with a gold ticker.
But a healthy one, also.

How you live may save your life.

Man, 22, held after fight in Fenner road

A 22-year-old Plymouth man, a 1979 alumnus of Plymouth High school, was accused of assault and charged with disorderly conduct after he got into a fight at 277 Fenner road Sunday at 12:35 p.m.

He is accused of attacking Mark Church, 21, Berlin Hts., with a chain. He thereafter is said to have engaged in a fight with Church's brother, Douglas, of the Fenner road address. Both were charged with disorderly conduct by the Richland county sheriff's department.

It is understood the accused went to the scene to retrieve belongings of a sister left there. Occupants of the place objected to their removal.

Skills acquired on the football field of Plymouth High school are said to have stood the accused in good stead during his altercation.

Valuation of district $36 million

Valuation of Plymouth Local School district is $36,212,423, Richland county budget commission says.

Of this sum, Richland county accounts for $29,895,570. The remainder comes from Huron county, $4,949,443, and Crawford county, $1,367,410.

The schools derive their funds from 28.70 mills of taxation, of which 25.70 goes into the general fund and three mills into the bond retirement fund.

There are now two bond issues being settled. One will be paid in 1990 and the other in 2001.

The general fund will receive an income of $720,000 and the bond retirement fund $107,800.

Debts envelop pool

Mary Fate Park Pool, Inc., is in serious trouble.

It hasn't made a payment on the principal of a $90,000 Farmers Home administration loan negotiated in 1968 to run for 40 years for so long hardly anyone remembers when any settlement occurred.

The pool owed FmHA a total of $65,536.39 as of Dec. 31.

31. The debt is increased by the amount due for the season now ending.

Payments at the rate of $4,231 a year are required by the indenture agreement.

Interest due FmHA as of Dec. 31 was $8,262.82.

After depreciation, land and structures of the corporation are carried on its books of $70,311.39. Yet the liabilities are $78,030.26.

The corporation will meet in Charles Rhine armory Thursday at 7 p.m. to discuss what can be done.

What the FmHA wants, and what some officers of the pool want, is for the village to assume liability for the loan and responsibility operating the pool.

For the year ending Dec. 31, 1982, membership revenues were $4,225. Casual admissions amounted to $4,541.84. Concessions netted $3,054.84, so total operating expense was $11,812.68.

Expenses exceeded income by $3,027.20, so no pay-by $3,027.20, so no payment of the principal could be made. Interest payment of $3,000 was effected.

How will village deal with nuisance complaints?

What will the village do about two complaints laid before the council Sept. 13?

One of them was by Jerrold Harrington, who dislikes the disarray of the premises adjoining his house at the west.

The other was by Charles Hall, who said surface water collecting in undrained areas belonging to Raymond L. Brooks stagnate and attract insects that are insupportable. He said the odor arising from the stagnant water is offensive, as well.

He said he approached Brooks to see what can be done about the problem and he reported Brooks to have been cooperative, but loath to spend considerable money.

Village Solicitor Richard Wolfe has written a letter asking Brooks to have the work done.

The council agreed the blue police cruiser, which is the older of the two and ready to be replaced, will be converted to the vehicle for Duke, who is now being trained as the Plymouth canine unit.

The cruiser will only be used by Frank Hodge, acting police chief, who will take the dog with him on his shift. It will cost about $250 to make the conversion.

So far Duke has had eight weeks of training, and has six more to go which will involve being in the cruiser. Cost of the training is being paid by Hodge.

In league opener —

Eagles favored to down Red

Defense is what wins football games. Will Monroeville's defense contain Plymouth's Touchdown Twins, Mike McKenzie and Richard Cunningham? Can Plymouth's defense throttle Roger Smith and Jeff Stieber?

And what of the pass defense? Can the Rig Red hold Dave Keszei, one of the two or three top quarterbacks in the league, to a minimum of completions and relatively short yardage? Plymouth was touted to be a passing team, with a set of remarkable receivers in Co-Capt. Tom Baker, Co-Capt. Darrren Branham and Brian Vredenburgh and an outstanding passer in Rodney Hampton. But the passing game hasn't yet developed to what it was in the pre-season scrimmages. Will the Big Red turn it loose tomorrow?

Knowledgable fans will be watching the duel in the trenches.

For Plymouth, the three leaders are Junior Adams, Scott Ryman and Bill McVey. For Monroeville, they are Darren Masters, Mike Kennedy and Dale Beck.

The three Plymouth performers tip the beam at slightly more than the three Eagles, but the latter have more experience. They have seven varsity letters among them. The Plymouth trio has only five.

This will be the eighth engagement between the two teams. Plymouth has won three. Plymouth fans and players recall with some dismay that Monroeville's coach, after the 1973 season, asked that Plymouth be removed from the Eagles schedule "because Plymouth isn't competitive enough".

The first game was played in 1968 and the Big Red won, 26 to 7. The next year Plymouth prevailed again, 26 to 8. And in 1970 the Big Red whitewashed Monroeville, 34 to 0.

Since then it's been all Monroeville: 20 to 0 in 1971, 26 to 12 in 1972, 22 to 0 in 1973, 34 to 7 last year.

Will it be an aerial circus? Signs are that it won't. Steve Slaybaugh, the highly successful Monroeville coach, believes in the ground game and goes to the air only to loosen the ground defenses. Richard Roll, in his second season with the Plymouth entry, openly admits his affection for "the running game, if we can run well, and do it all right, I don't care if we never throw the ball. But if you've got a passer and good receivers, why not throw it? We'll throw it somewhat."

What it will come down to is which defense is better prepared and which defense attacks harder and faster.

Monroeville is the favorite, despite its resounding defeat at the hands of state-ranked Smithville last week. Only common opponent of the two teams is Seneca East, which went down by the same score in each engagement. Difference between the two games: Plymouth was lucky to prevail against the Tigers, the Eagles ought to have beaten Seneca East more severely.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Under a new director, the Eagle band will be hard put to match the improvement in tone and timbre of the Big Red aggregation under the direction of Jeff Conklin.

McKenzie's heroics spark Red to 35 to 0 rout of Northmor

Taking up where he left off a week previously, Mike McKenzie personally led Plymouth to a stunning 35 to 0 conquest of Division IV Northmor there Friday night.

Plymouth scored the first four times it got its hands on the ball and the outcome never was in doubt.

And McKenzie? All he did was rush for 220 yards in 14 carries, score 23 points, make three sacks and seven defensive tackles all told.

He had help. Richard Cunningham gained 118 yards in 13 efforts, including one touchdown, an 18-yard burst up the middle in the first period, and contributed an outstanding defensive performance.

It was, in fact, Plymouth's defense that was so outstanding. The rock-ribbed Big Red defense contained the Golden Kights so effectively that when the fighting was over and the smoke had cleared away, Northmor had a net of one yard by rushing and only 35 yards by passing.

Only once in the first half did the Knights, who lost their third straight, two of them to Firelands conference teams, put the ball in play in Plymouth territory. And that came after Plymouth fumbled a Northmor punt which the Knights recovered at the Big Red 34-yard line.

The Knights could penetrate only to the 30 and there died for want of a first down.

Plymouth took the opening kickoff and marched 69 yards in six plays to score. Cunningham's shot up the middle for 18 yards reached the end zone with 10:13 on the clock.

McKenzie's kick was off mark.

Indeed, if Plymouth needs improvement on any facet of its game taken from this performance, betterment of the kicking game, whether from placement or on fourth down, is half of it. The other half, to everyone's surprise, is the passing game. The Big Red unloaded 16 times and connected only twice, one of them a miraculous effort that went for 44 yards and a touchdown with one second left in the first half.

In its second possession of the game, Plymouth sustained a drive 14 plays, marching from Northmor's 49 to the Knights' 11, and on fourth down, from the 17, McKenzie split the uprights with a place kick.

The visitors were on a roll when time ran out in the first period.

Starting from its 30, Plymouth drove 70 yards in seven plays and McKenzie cracked over the last line for 10 yards with 10:12 left in the second period. Cunningham accounted for 33 yards of the drive, McKenzie the rest.

His kick for PAT was good.

Northmor was held to no gain in the next series and punted. Plymouth got a first down and bogged down at the Knight 49 and Darren Branham punted 29 yards.

After Northmor punted again, Plymouth attacked from the Knights' 38 but in four plays, three of them aerials, couldn't move. Branham's punt went to the end zone.

In the next series, Tim Bostic, throwing the halfback pass, was intercepted by Rodney Hampton at the Northmor 32.

On fourth down, McKenzie tried another field goal, this time from the 27. It was blocked, Northmor recovered and threw seven passes, a 15-yard penalty against Plymouth sanwiched among them, but could not gain.

Everybody and his brother could see that Plymouth intended to pass. And pass is what Hampton did. He unloaded one deep into the Knight secondary and found Branham along the west sideline for the score. It took Plymouth just one play to score. McKenzie's kick was good and he kicked off as the half ended.

Plymouth clearly was the dominant factor after 24 minutes, with 17 first downs in 48 plays, 196 yards on the ground and 57 yards in the air, whereas the Knights had managed just three yards and a net passing accumulation of minus four yards.

Second halp play was not so crisp.

Plymouth had the game locked up and played that way.

Northmor was desperate and showed it.

Nevertheless, Plymouth managed two more touchdowns.

The first one came on the Big Red's third possession of the half, a punt having ended the first and a fumble by Cunningham the second.

Starting from the Northmor 44, Plymouth sent McKenzie off left tackle for nine and on the next play for 34 yards off right guard. The Big Red needed only two plays to cover 44 yards. The clock read 3:44 of the third period as McKenzie's kick was wide.

In the fourth period, on the Big Red's second possession, it was a classic case of Frank Merriwell. The Knights punted to the Red 30. Troy Keene fumbled on the first play and Northmor recovered. Three plays later Hampton intercepted Ron Liberti at the Red 20. A 10-yard penalty drove Plymouth closer to its goal and three plays produced no yardage. Branham's punt was short, only to the Plymouth 31.

On second down, Hampton again intercepted, this time at the Red five.

McKenzie got four and Cunningham six. Then from the Plymouth 15, McKenzie ran to his left and up the east sideline for 85 yards and the final score.

His kick was wide.

The defensive performance of Bill McVey, Scott Ryman, McKenzie, Brian Vredenburg, Chad McGinnis, Hampton and Junior Adams was worthy of record. Vredenburgh was the target of only two passes, neither of which he could reach, but he played a steady, effective defensive game.

The victory over Northmor will count in the computer ratings. It will count more if Northmor wins some games. Signs are that won't be easy.

But it is a fact that Plymouth has won three straight for the first time in five seasons. Counting its preseason scrimmages, it hasn't tasted defeat this season.

The second string occupied the field for much of the last period and Mike Hawkins contributed handsomely for the second consecutive week.

To analyze this victory, one must give credit where it is due: the offensive line got off the ball smartly and opened good holes for McKenzie and Cunningham. They ought to treat for sodas. The defense was outstanding, but against a team that hasn't found itself offensively. What the defense will do against a more mature club is anybody's guess. The guess here is that it may buckle but it won't bend.

Golden-handed kid seeks more action

'As for drugs, by which I suppose you mean alcohol, this is the cleanest squad I've ever been on. There may be one or two who're drinking, but I haven't seen any of it. For myself, I'm too busy to get involved. Besides, my parents would explode!'

The kid with the golden hands is a little disappointed that he hasn't so far had so many opportunities to show the world how golden they are. But he's certain his time will come, perhaps tomorrow.

"Our passing game hasn't been all it could be or should be," Tom Baker, a co-captain of the Big Red, says, "but give us a little time and we'll show everybody how good it is."

Baker is part of a triumvirate of receivers that very well may be the best in the Firelands conference. The others are Darren Branham and Brian Vredenburgh.

What he says doesn't come quickly or easily. He mulls it over a good bit before he lets it go.

And when it does, it shows signs of sound thinking and a realistic attitude. About attitude he is an expert, but it takes forceps strong enough to detusk a walrus to get it out of him.

"I'm not very big and I probably couldn't play much at a big school. The numbers there would probably keep me on the bench, even result in being cut. Which is why I like where I am pretty well. Plymouth is the right size of school for a little player to have his opportunity."

And opportunity he has had till it comes out his ears.

He has already won two varsity letters in football.

He is a letter winner in basketball, where his skill with his hands both delights and mystifies his coach.

And in baseball he is a sure-handed infielder who plays in the middle of the diamond with confidence and aplomb. Besides which, he is a better-than-fair hitter.

Tom Baker realizes how important it is to have a winning team this year. And he took off on the subject with no prodding.

"We've got to have a winner or we may not have a team at all next year. The kids need a winner. There are a number of boys who ought to be playing but are not because they don't want to be a loser and if we can turn it around, maybe they'll report next year."

Already, some who were expected to turn out but didn't have suited up. And there are others who would be suited up save that they said they'd play too late and they missed the physical exam, according to this sandy haired 12 grader.

So what's it all come down to?

"There are five parts to a good team: speed, size, talent, experience and attitude? I wish I could put my finger on it, now that you've asked. That's the hardest question I've ever had.

"I don't know what it is but I can recognize it when I see it.

"Attitude on our team is the 11th game. The coaches make a point of urging us to make it to the 11th game. The 11th game is for the league championship. What we've got to do to get there is beat everybody else, or at least beat enough of them so that we stand higher than they do and will get to play at Norwalk on Nov. 11."

Is attitude another word for desire?

"Partly, I guess, but it's more than just desire. It includes the approach to the game, the desire to do a good job and to play the game as it ought to be played, so that anybody, whether he's a local fan or whoever, can see how football ought to be."

Of the five elements or parts of a good team, what part does attitude play?

"Oh at least 80 or 85 per cent. You yourself have said, in print, that Class A ball is 85 per cent attitude or desire, I think you said enthusiasm, 10 per cent ability and five per cent luck. I might change those numbers some but not very much."

Whose responsibilty is it to develop attitude?

He turns those blue eyes straight to you and he says quickly, "It's the ball players' duty to develop attitude. If the ball players don't want to make a season of it, they shouldn't suit up for the first practice. To want to win is part of being in school."

Don't the coaches have some responsibility?

"Oh, sure, the coaches must motivate that attitude. They've got to find a carrot to hang on the end of the stick and it has to be a carrot that every player can see and smell and almost taste and it's got to be a carrot that's realistic to the palyer. This is what the coaches have done. And I think we've got a good attitude, a healthy one."

Will it be spoiled by a defeat?

"Not spoiled. Dampened, maybe, but not spoiled. It'd be nice to win them all but if we win all but one or two, it's still a good record and one we can be proud of."

What innovations would be helpful tot he team?

"Your ideas of a student trainer seems right to me. It would be a good idea, I think, if we had a person, whether male or female, enrolled in the school who can go to these seminars and clinics and learn all about how to deal with minor injuries and how to tape legs and ankles and shoulders and such and who could help those who get injured on the field. Besides, it would take a burden off the coaches, who could then do what they're hired to do, teach players and counsel them and talk over how to win."

Two uncles, Robert and Duane, played varsity football. Duane was an outstanding back in the 60's. A cousin, Blane, was a basketball star here. His older brother, Mike, played baseball, and very good baseball, for the Big Red.

Is there pressure because of this?

"None that I know of. Whatever pressure I get comes from me and somewhat from my parents, who naturally want me to do as well as I can do and maybe better than that. They always come to the games and I know I can count on them."

So when the Big Red takes Robert A. Lewis Memorial field against Monroeville tomorrow, one of its starters will be Co-Capt. Tom Baker, the kid with the golden hands, who seeks no more than the chance to show that the glitter is not fool's gold, but the real stuff.

He's never been on a team that's beaten Monroeville in football or basketball and "this is a good time to start".

Your favorite dessert? Try Madeleines!

By AUNT LIZ

Just about every country you can think of has some kind of a famous loved dessert.

Is ours apple pie, toll house cookies or peanut butter cookies?

Germany has its Black Forest cake, which can be really good if you have a good recipe. The only time I tried it, it was worse than a real mess, but people do rave about it. Denmark has its pastries, which are plain good no matter what country they are made in. England has its Trifle, which is darn good tasting pudding. Italy has zabaglione, which is almost the same thing.

France has something everyone loves, madeleines.

I is more like a small cake than a cookie and must be made in special little molds to get the shape. They can be bought just about everywhere and can make a very happy gift, especially if given with little things baked in them.

They have a long history.

One story is that some local king was giving a luncheon and his cook got mad and stomped out without making a desert, so his young helper whipped uo an old family recipe that pleased everyone. They named it ofr her. This was in 1755. The other story is that a queen and her cook made up the whole recipe and also named them for the cook, who was Madeleine.

This recipe will make two dozen, and if you do not have the time to climb on an aripiane and fly to Paris, where they can buy them in just about every pastry shop, try them.

Butter the molds. Then with an electric mixer beat two eggs with a hakf cup of sugar and the grated rind of one lemon. Slowly add a half cup of butter that has been melted, then cooled. To this fold in a cup of flour.

Fill the molds about two thirds and bake at 375 degrees until golden and firm.

Eat immediately when cooled, although they will keep nicely for several days.

And to save a jaunt to Rome, this can be whipped up. The catch is that you must eat it immediately, none of this get-ready-ahead stuff.

Beat six egg yolks and gradually add six tablespoons of sugar two-thirds of a cup of Marsala (ordinary sherry will work too).

Put in a double boiler and keep beating over heat until ti forms a custard and thickens.

Serve as a pudiing or it can be a sauce for fruits or even on a slice of pound cake.

Trifle is a really a sauce to be put over some leftover cake or macaroons.

In a double boiler mix four eggs yolks with a half cup of sugar and three-fourths of a cup of sherry. Add a tablespoon of flour, keep stirring and cook for about two minutes. Cool it, then fold in four stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour it over the leftover somethings and chill. It can all be put onto a large bowl and dished out or into little cups.

As for that Black Forest cake, best you whip to German town for it.

There is one thing about foreign desserts: the flavorings. They simply did not way back have all the flavorings we have had, so they used liqueurs. It can get carried a little too far, exotic as it may sound, but a meal flavored with too much simply wants you to yell. "Stop, and let it be just plain."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fan wants to know why 'we can't be professional'

Sir:

I have attended quite a number of Plymouth games over the past few years.

I have watched the price of admission go up steadily, even though the quality of the entertainment has more or less stayed the same.

I don't particularly complain about that, because the quality of player comes and goes: for a few years we have feast, then we have famine.

But is it too much to ask that we do things professionally?

We get professional coverage in our newspaper and, from what I have been able to find out, by radio, when the station decides to work a Plymouth game.

The public address system is poor and the announcing only slightly better. I am told there is a contract between the schools and the village that prohibits political advertising in the stadium. This is fine. But should it not also prevent advertising for a business, even though the business is merely accommodating young people who may wish to eat or drink after the game?

One need only listen to the announcer of the Ohio State or Bowling Green games, or to the Cleveland Browns games, to learn how the public addreás announcer ought to work. He should not assume that the people who paid their way to get in are dumb. All they need to know is such as "Jones carried the ball, Smith made the tackle, second down, on the Plymouth yard line."

And should we not try to get as many seated as possible? The business of standing on the hill and visiting may or may not be pleasant for the participants. It makes crowd management the more difficult, it encourages the very young to engage in nuisance activity rather than to sit where they belong (and let's face it, at $1.50, the ball game is the cheapest Friday night babysitter in town, and there is a policeman, an ambulance and an adult supervisor to watch over the children!) and it destroys for the player the effect of a massed crowd.

We have a good facility. The Boosters have done a lot to make it better. I am told they plan to do more and I applaud this.

One of the reasons that high school athletics, and other programs, have lost adult support is that it's easy to turn on the boob tube and get professional attention for nent to nothing. The people who manage the football, and basketball, programs ought to wake up and realize things ought to be done professionally.

Because I have relatives involved in the athletic program, please don't publish my name.

Yours for a winning season,
A Red Fan

The Voice of The Advertiser –

What kind of chief of police is needed?

Within a few days, a new police chief, the fifth since this community eliminated the post of marshal.

The appointment will be by the mayor, with the advice and consent of the council.

No one has told us what may be the criteria for choosing a new chief, nor whether official qualifications have been laid down. Once before, a woman applied. She did not get the job, but not because she was female. If a capable woman has applied, she should be given equal consideration with men.

Because it's as plain as plain can be that a community needs a different breed of cat to be police chief these days.

What should be the criteria?

The appointee must first of all be a literate person, which means that he (and when the gender is in doubt, the masculine should prevail, according to the rules of grammar) can read well and write well and can use a typewriter sufficiently to prepare official reports. The principal duty of a police officer in the 1980s is to be able to prepare thorough, lucid, accurate written reports upon which prosecutors, whether at the village or high level, can base a sensible case that, if there is reason to suspect guilt, will result in a conviction. We have not had much of that over the last 50 years.

The appointee must have a thorough knowledge of the Ohio Revised Code and of the village ordinances, which latter he may acquire by assiduous activity immediately after appointment.

He should manifest good judgment and sensible reaction to provocation. So much of the Revised Code and of the village ordinances depends upon the reaction of the law enforcement officer to conduct by the citizenry that may be deemed suitable for punishment and then again may not be. Good judgment in a police officer is essential.

He should be a good manipulator of people. What people? His own staff, for the most part. He must deal with some who have some tenure who may not cotton, at first, at least, to an outsider, if indeed he is an outsider, in the job. If an insider gets it, there is bound to be some jealousy, or resentment, by others. The people are entitled to 100 counts of service for every dollar they pay out.

It is much less important that the appointee can shoot straight or that he measures six feet in height or weighs something over 175 pounds. It is necessary that a police officer be able to manhandle the public. Whenever such a situation develops, as it did at Shiloh last week, assistance is readily available and can be obtained quickly.

Finally, the appointee ought to have his personal situation under control. If he is required to pay alimony or child support in such amounts that his salary as chief is unlikely to cover his immediate needs, the suspicion will arise that he must be on the take. We can't afford that. There has been too much of it in the past. The new chief should have a reputation for prompt payment of his bills (we lived through two generations of different conduct) and should manifest sobriety and perspicacity in his dealings with John Barleycorn and the opposite sex, with both of which problems we have been plagued in the past.

A paragon? It's what we're entitled to and what we should be looking for. Can we get it for what we pay? Who knows?

Shiloh to pave six streets; pay increased

Six Shiloh streets will be paved with $17,000 of village money received from Richland county, village council there ruled Sept. 14.

Streets are North between Euclid and Prospect, South Delaware, Railroad, Scott street (only 550 feet), Pearl (only 51 feet) and Prospect (only 90 feet).

All other streets will be tarred and chipped.

Pay of village officers was advanced.

Councilmen will receive a 50 per cent boost to $12 a meeting.

President pro tempore's pay will be $15 a meeting, a 33 per cent raise.

Trustees of public affairs will get $12, a raise of 20 per cent.

Clerk-treasurer's salary was advanced to $5,500 a 10 per cent increase.

Mayor's pay will go up 50 per cent to $1,500 with a $500 expense account. This was raised from $300.

Utility clerk will be paid $3 an hour, an increase of 20 per cent.

Residents of Main street voiced again a long-standing and oft-repeated complaint: juveniles congregating there make noise and create disturbance after the curfew hour but depart when they see the sheriff's deputy coming. When the deputy leaves, the disturbances resume, they said.

Councilmen observed some of the disturbances are created by persons not subject to the curfew.

Complaints said customers of the two bars are buying alcohol and handing it to those too young to buy it.

John Hedeen asked the council once again to relieve his premises in Church street of surface water. Mayor Francis Gowitzka said a freeholder will not grant an easement.

This owner said at first he would allow the village to connect a new tile to his drain, but thereupon declined, saying he feared the added pressure would blow his tile out.

Hedeen asked the council to investigate its rights under the doctrine of eminent domain.

Councilman Richard Tallman was deputed to investigate at Mansfield whether Cass township may have an easement that will serve.

Gas rates to rise by $5.84 a month, beginning Nov. 10

Everything in the village is not coming up roses, just charges.

Village council approved the new rates of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., as prepared by the Consumers Council, which aided the coalitiore of 22 communities in the negotiations.

The rate increase is in two phases.

Average increase to a residential user will be $5.84 a month, Councilman Keith Hebble said. This will be for the first period, beginning Nov. 10, until April 10, 1984.

Increase for the second period, from April 10, 1984 until April 10, 1985, will be $1.84.

Hebble, who represented Plymouth during the meetings of the coalition, said Plymouth is at a disadvantage because the present contract with Columbia Gas does not expire until the end of this year, so for three months gas users will be paying a higher rate.

Nevertheless, he said, "it is as good a contract as we could hope for, we can't do better."

The utility had originally asked for an increase of a little over eight per cent for the first period but it was whittled down to 7.447 for each 100 cu. ft. of gas.

Hebble also requested a public hearing be called for Oct. 25 at 7 p.m. for the public to express its views on the village purchasing electrical power from small producers.

He explained that in order for the village to do this, the hearing and establishment of a set of rules are necessary.

Although it is a costly procedure and complicated, he told his colleagues, power can perhaps be purchased cheaper than Ohio Power's rates.

The two complaints received by the council at the last meeting were aired.

Charles Hall's problem with the odors from a pond on the Raymond Brooks property is being solved by the draining of the pond.

The other complaint, though, by the Jerrold Harrington, has not been solved, although James C. Root, village administrator, Council-Terry Hopkins said the unsightly neighbor's yard had been slightly cleaned up and "looks better from the West High street side than it did before."

The property owner has already been notified by the village solicitor that he must comply with the ordinance. The solicitor will be asked to pursue it further.

Councilman Roy Barber, who was presiding for Mayor Dean A. Cline, who was busy in the police station with the solicitor over court matters, asked where the village stood with Tri-County Asphalt Co.

Root said the firm had more than fulfilled its agreement with the village to repair and redo the road to the water plant in exchange for five acres.

Councilman Bill Taulbee said it had done a good job on grading the railroad crossing so one can see encoming vehicles.

Root said the property has not been fully deeded to the company because one signature is still needed. Nothing has been done concerning the leasing of 15 acres at the site.

Mrs. John Ganzhorn asked if the alley behind her house in the west side of Sandusky could be resurfaced because of the heavy traffic going back and forth to the bank.

J. F. Roots sell to L. J. Roots

Lawrence J. and O. Elaine Root have bought from John F. Root 7.494 acres Willow drive, Huron county recorder reports.

Jeffrey and Rebecca Slauson have bought Lot 312, Willow circle, from Madeline Edwards.

James R. and Judy Lewis have bought from Chrissie Hughes Great Lot 160, Portner street.

Stolen car hits pole; police seek driver-thief

A car stolen from Raleigh Davis, 167½ Nichols street, rammed a service pole in Railroad street Friday night.

Police could not find its driver.

The collision occurred at 9:52 p.m., some 20 minutes after Davis reported it stolen.

Police said there was no sign that an occupant of the vehicle, which was wrecked, was injured.

Bradley, Gasparac fined $10

Charges laid in mayor's court here were transferred to Shelby in the cases of Ernest Gene Bradley, 37, 176 Nichols street, and Randy Gasparac, 23, Rome South road.

Each was charged with disorderly conduct and each pleaded not guilty.

Judge Vincent Phelan found each guilty and fined him $10 and costs. The fine reverts to Plymouth, the costs are paid to the court at Shelby.

Frances Fletcher, 37, 62 Park avenue, who drove off Route 61, was convicted of failure to control her vehicle and fined $45.50.

May Belt, 76, Gangee-Five Points road, was convicted of failure to yield the right of way and fined $35.50.

Gregory Brown, 18, Shatzer road, Shiloh, convicted of operating an unsafe vehicle, was fined $35.50.

35 in melee at Shiloh bar; three charged

A 28-year-old Shilohan and his brother, 26, a Florida resident, and a 20-year-old Shiloh woman were arrested Friday night as the result of a melee that began in Shiloh Inn and spilled over to Main street, involving 35 persons, 11 sheriff's deputies, five sheriff's cruisers, Plymouth police and the sheriff's dog.

The dog bit Kenneth Deskins, 26, Auburndale, Fla., who was treated in Mansfield General hospital.

His older brother, Donald, Shiloh, was also arrested.

The woman involved is Pamela Machusi, formerly of Willard, once married to Ronnie Akers, Plymouth, before a dissolution.

One deputy was kicked in the groin. His hands and arms were cut. A second deputy's glasses were knocked off. A third's arm was injured.

Capt. Douglas Dombrowski of the sheriff's department said the fight "started over a woman." He did not identify her.

As police reconstructed the incident, Miss Machusi began to shout at the bar maid some time before 9:25 p.m.

When officers arrived, they told her to go home, to 4 Main street. This she did. But she soon returned, accompanied by Kenneth Deskins, who lives at the same address. Both were said to be swearing loudly. The deputy warned them to be quiet.

This they refused to do. Donald Deskins' who also lives at that address, entered and joined the affray.

The deputy arrested the trio.

Miss Machusi kicked a deputy.

She and Kenneth Deskins were placed in sheriff's cruisers. They laid down on the back seats and kicked. She damaged a rear window, he a right rear door.

Both were charged with disorderly conduct and criminal damaging. They and Donald Deskins were also accused of public intoxication and resisting arrest.

Can Big Red win at Edison Saturday?

Can Plymouth defeat Edison?

Is it too much to expect?

The Chargers have so much going for them — size of enrollment, size of squad, size of players, experience of coaching staff, tradition of winning, a stiffer schedule — that to even suggest that little Plymouth can be competitive with them is on the bold side.

Bold or not, that's what's suggested here.

But Plymouth will have its hands full.

The Chargers are satisfied that Plymouth is for real. If they had any doubts, these were dispelled Friday night, when a courageous Big Red team came from behind, contained Monroeville and scored a well-earned 17 to 14 victory.

And the Chargers think they can run against Plymouth. Not run over, mind you; the word is against. They did so convincingly against South Central Friday night, 260 yards by rushing in a 42 to 8 rout. The Chargers had all their points on the board before the Trojans managed to score.

Be it said, as well, that South Central ran strongly against Edison. The Trojans accumulated 247 yards by running. In fact, that total was their sum of the night. They connected with one pass of three tries and gained absolutely nothing.

The Edison offense is run by Joe Taylor at quarterback. The big guns are Jeff Springer and Kurt Ostheimer. Ostheimer scored twice against the Trojans, once on a run of 43 yards and once on a pass from Taylor that covered 14 yards. Springer accounted for three scores, all on runs of less than 10 yards.

The victory Friday night was the 100th in the schoolboy coaching career of Jim Whittington.

The Chargers are big and thoroughly experienced.

Two of them are all- conference players. These are Pat Landoll, a linebacker who scales 175. The other is Bob Brant, a center who weighs just 161. He was chosen last year as middle guard.

Ostheimer weighs 207.

Cliff Proseik, 157 pounds; Ron Dabrowski, 266 pounds, Tim Cox, 218 pounds; Pete Peschke, 205 pounds, and Rick Cloward, 206 pounds, are also two year lettermen who'll play Saturday.

Plymouth will be at full strength save for one player, and an important one he is. Richard Cunningham, a co-captain and linebacker and fullback, injured a leg on Friday. X-rays proved negative but he is hobbling, despite vigorous whirlpool treatment. He may see some action. His replacement is Mike Hawkins, an 11th grader, whose brother, Rick, played for the Big Red before he graduated last year.

Best route to the Edison field:

Proceed north in New State road to Route 250, continue north to Milan, turn east (right) in Route 113 and continue to field.

No. 16, Brian Vredenburgh, will start at tight end on offense and just about everywhere in the Red defense at Milan Saturday night, when Plymouth tackles Edison for the second time in history. Chargers won here last year, 14 to 6.

Need to send to a bake sale? Here's recipe for apple torte

By AUNT LIZ

Some weeks are better than others, no?

Just when you think the world has fallen apart, it just perks up somehow.

We had a really mixed up one a few weeks ago. Everything went wrong in one dau flat. Then it all came up roses.

You-know-who ended up in his favorite hospital again, and those people could not have been nicer, but then we have been darn good customers.

They nicely put him in the room I wanted him to be in plus he was in with a charming person who knew some new jokes and right off the bat we were all friends. Mostly because they seemed to be "stuck" with us. When I smashed my elbow last winter, I was in a room with their daughter.

Then a nice friend came to visit, and we were able to make her a bit happy with her family history. It always makes me feel great if we have something someone is hunting for in our back files. She did not come empty handed, either. The had read in this column that Aunt Liz is into rocks. Now we have a large, heavy sack of them from the Grand Canyon and such places in the western states. How to get them to Iowa is the next problem. This ought to make a first grader really the star of the school.

Now I am wondering if it should be mentioned that we are now into 10 caret diamonds.

We also have grated enough zucchini to open a bakery plus cucumber to stock a bunch of grocery stores with pickles. One friend has kept us going all summer with stuff, and so help me I have tried to give something back here and there to just let her know how grateful we are, and she got almost nasty about it. She said I should not knock myself out doing it and would not understand that I love doing it because it kind of makes me feel that I am needed.

Everyone, really, plain yearns to feel that way and the sooner a bunch of people realize that, there will never be any lack of volunteer help for anything.

Now that school has started again, parents are needed like mad for this and that. Thre is usually a handful who do it all beause they want to and for some dumb reason want to plain hog it. Don't. Just ask the others to pitch in.

I can remember years ago suggesting a mother's name to help with something. I was a newcomer and didn't know the people except their names. Immediately, one nice mother snapped, "She thinks she it too good for this."

She didn't, and the poor gal got left out and I do think she really wanted to help.

Also with schools starting, bake sales really get going. And it is apple season again. Hoard them up a little so you are ready to get nailed for your first donation.

This is an apple nut torte.

Beat four eggs, and a cup and a half of sugar, and keep beating until it is light and thickish.

In a measuring cup have ready two-thirds of a cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder and a half teaspoon of cinnamon. You can throw in some salt, but I eliminated that little thing years ago and we do not even miss it.

Fold it into the eggs and sugar. Then fold in two cups of chopped, pealed apples with a cup of chopped walnuts.

Bake in a greased 13 x 9 pan for about a half hour or a little more.

Red upsets Eagles

McKenzie's kick at 1:05 left gains win by 17 to 14 count

A game and determined Plymouth team came from behind before a packed house in Mary Fate park Friday night to defeat Monroeville, 17 to 14, in Firelands conference action.

The Big Red won it with time running out in the fourth period.

Mike McKenzie, who was shackled by the Eagle defense for much of the game — he managed 83 yards in 22 carries — but whose points were the difference between winning and losing, kicked a 22-yard field goal with 1:05 remaining on the clock.

Plymouth drove 58 yards in eight plays after the reception of a short punt. Poorest boot of the night by Dan Jordan carried only 13 yards.

On first down McKenzie got three yards through left guard. Rodney Hampton found Richard Cunningham for 15 yards and on the next play hit his favorite receiver, Darren Branham, for 17 and another first down at the Eagle 25. A five yard penalty set Plymouth back to the 28. Hampton threw to Branham again, this time for 11 yards, and Plymouth set up at the Monroeville 17.

By this time the clock was running down.

Plymouth had second down at the Eagle seven.

Earlier, during the first part of the initial period, McKenzie missed a field goal from the Eagle 15. The Plymouth coach and some players disputed the referee's call, partly because another official standing under the goal posts had signalled the kick was good. But the referee's decision stood.

This time, when the Big Red fans gnawing their knuckles lest Plymouth incur another five yard penalty for delay of the game, caused by the tedious job of tying McKenzie's special kicking shoe, McKenzie booted from Troy Keene's hold and the referee's upraised arms touched off a mighty shout from the Red stands.

The Eagles struck back. A 30-yard pass play from Keszei to Smith helped substantially. So did an 18-yard gallop by Smith.

In 11 plays Monroeville was at the Plymouth eight. On fourth down, McKenzie, equally accomplished as a defensive player, sacked Keszei for a five yard loss.

Plymouth then mounted its own offensive push. It took 18 plays to score, but score was what Ply nouth did.

McKenzie gained 16 yards on the first play. He got 16 more in the next three shots. Cunningham managed two and Hampton threw to McKenzie for five.

Hampton had three incomplete passes in the next 10 plays. But on fourth down from the Eagle five, after McKenzie had gone through the routine of changing his shoe to prepare to kick a field goal, Hampton found Branham in the end zone for five yards and the first score. McKenzie's kick was good. The clock read 8:35 of the second period.

McKenzie sacked Keszei for a second time in the next series. It cost Monroeville 15 yards and the Eagles punted.

Monroeville wasn't dead by any means.

What confounded Plymouth supporters was that Roll elected to kick the field goal on second down, whereas two running plays would have used sufficient time that a field goal on fourth down would, if successful, have shot down Monroeville's opportunity completely.

McKenzie kicked off and Monroeville set out to tie or win.

With 55 seconds remaining, Dave Keszei threw to Jordan for 12 yards. Jordan lay injured until the Monroeville staff administered to him.

On first down, with 51 seconds left, Keszei aimed for Roger Smith, certainly a premier back and an outstanding contributor to Monroeville's performance in this bitter contest. The pass was incomplete.

On second down, Keszei rolled to his left — he is a southpaw — and fired a screen pass to Smith at the Eagle 33. He ran upfield with it until, at the 41, he was hit by three Red defenders. The ball squirted loose and Plymouth recovered.

It was an easy matter to use the remaining 36 seconds. Plymouth ate the ball for one play and then stood in jubilation while the clock ran out.

The first period was scoreless. Each team made a deep penetration. Plymouth's first possession carried from its 19 to the Eagle seven, only to come up short because McKenzie's field goal try was ruled unsuccessful.

Jordan's boot carried 32 yards to the Red 31.

Branham fouled off his punt from the Plymouth 45. It carried only 14 yards and Monroeville set up at its 41.

The key play came on fourth down. Throttled by the Plymouth defense, Monroeville went into punt formation. Jeff Stieber took the snap from center and passed 19 yards to Scott Jones.

With first down at the Plymouth 26, Monroeville needed only seven plays to score. Keszei passed six yards to Smith for the touchdown with 10 seconds remaining in the half.

Chris Pheiffer's kick for PAT was blocked.

It was as close as the gallery of a Pavarotti opera after 24 minutes.

With 39 plays, Monroeville had accumulated 64 yards by rushing and 63 yards by passing, good for nine first downs. Keszei had connected with four of 10.

Plymouth put the ball into play 35 times, scored 10 first downs, managed 69 yards by rushing and had 60 yards through the air, with six completions in 13 tries.

Monroeville produced the go-ahead touchdown with its second series of the second half.

Steve Jamerson's punt carried 41 yards to the Eagle 25. And the visitors promptly went into the air. Keszei found Jordan for 10 and then Smith rounded his right end for 40 yards, to the Plymouth 25. In six plays the Eagles were in the end zone, Steiber punching for the score from four yards out.

Keszei passed to Smith for the PATs.

Plymouth struck back at once.

Jordan's kickoff went to Cunningham, who darted up the middle to the Eagle 42.

Hampton threw to Tom Baker for 32 yards down the north sideline and Plymouth was knocking on the Monroeville door.

It opened three plays later. McKenzie was assessed five yards for delay of the game while he tied his kicking shoe. But this was a ploy. Plymouth apparently did not intend to kick. On third down, Hampton found Branham for the score, with 1:38 remaining on the clock.

McKenzie's kick was good and the score was tied.

This one could have gone either way.

Smith outgained McKenzie on the ground. He is a great performer and certainly in a class with McKenzie. The fans saw two outstanding runners this cold night.

Where McKenzie excelled was on defense and in the kicking game.

Plymouth's forward defense was almost flawless. Bill McVey, Scott Ryman and Chad McGinnis teamed with McKenzie and Brian Vredenburgh to stop Monroeville when it counted.

On the Monroeville side, there were just as many heroes.

The Eagle defense was stout against the run. It keyed on McKenzie and kept his yardage to respectable proportions. It shut down Cunningham almost entirely, save for the run up the middle with the kickoff.

Its pass defense was a bit leaky. Branham found holes in it 12 times, Baker and Vredenburgh once each.

But the down lineman did their job and did it well, Mike Kennedy, Darrin Masters, Bernie Alt, Dale Beck and Steve Smith. On offense Milt Levy opened holes inside.

It was anybody's game. The breaks went to Plymouth. There was a questionable interference call against Tom Schafer of the Eagles that led to Plymouth's first touchdown. It was so questionable that Coach Ringholz called time out and remonstrated with the referee. To no avail, unfortunately. The call against Plymouth's first field goal try was equally suspect.

Those who spent their money to see this one were well rewarded. It was worth twice the price of admission to see.

'Cool Hand Luke'

Branham prefers defense but accepts duties, praise of sound play as pass catcher, punter

DARREN BRANHAM

His given name is Darren. His nickname is Bro ("I got it when I played in Midget league. I was a shortstop and the Cleveland Indians had an infielder named Jack Brohammer, who played shortstop and second base. He was strong on defense and so was I so I picked up that name.") To the likes of Monroeville and other opponents on the Big Red schedule, he's Charley Glue Fingers.

But if he has to have another name, it's got to be Cool Hand Luke.

Because cool, in the modern connotation, meaning unflappable, in control, possessed of much poise, is the right way to describe Darren Branham, the 12th grader who plays wide receiver on offense and defensive back when the opposition has the ball.

All he did last week was nail eight of Rodney Hampton's passes, two of them for touchdowns, and, save for one shanked kick, punt acceptably to hold the vaunted Eagles at bay until Plymouth could strike offensively.

Take it from a cool hand: it's not what you get praised for that counts so much as what you enjoy doing.

And, truth to tell, he insists, he enjoys playing defense more than offense.

"I'm that way in basketball and baseball," he says, quietly, so quietly one has to lean forward so as not to miss what he says. "My strength in basketball is on defense and when I play baseball, and I expect to be out for the 1984 team, although I didn't play last season, I'll be much stronger on defense than on offense. I can hit but I'm better fielding."

The shanked kick on Friday led directly to a Monroeville touchdown, in fact, the go-ahead one. But by and large, his average is in the high 20s and he's getting better distance all the time. What's more, he knows where the coffin corner is. So does Monroeville, because he put two of them there Friday night.

How did he get started in punting?

"First, let me say I got my break when Darrell Hale moved to Greenwich. I took his place. He's a fine player and when we go against South Central we'll have to be on the watch for him.

"Coach (Dave) Coulter noticed that I'm a two step punter and he encouraged me to keep at it. So I'm still a two step punter and I still keep at it."

And why is a two step punter such a useful player? Because it takes less time to get off a kick. A three step kicker, which is the norm, needs about a second more time. And time is important, particularly in Class A football, where offensive players also play defense, tend to fatigue earlier and are likely not to be able to hold off the charging defense so well.

It is an earnest of this young man's charcter that he speaks no evil of anyone. He praises other teams — "Monroeville is a real fine ball club, their players weren't nasty, there was no rough play, their coach came up after the game and congratulated some of us and said how well we played, that No. 34 is a good one, tough to handle, and Keszei is a fine quarterback, as good as they come."

How does it happen that for the first three games he couldn't catch cold and against Monroeville he was a holy terror?

"Hampton passed better Friday night than at any time this year, maybe because he had more time. And I had the flu for a couple weeks. It wasn't enough to stay home but it took some strength and maybe some enthusiasm from me. I feel fine now and I won't make any excuses."

Is the coaching different from what it was?

"It's even different from what it was last year. The coaches are stressing the reasons why things should be done, we got more of the strategy of the game, the purpose for doing something. And they explain more clearly what might happen if we don't do something or other.

"Then there's the Thursday night meeting."

The Thursday night meeting?

"Yes, we take turns going to somebody's house, the whole bunch of us, and we talk over the last game and the practices of the week and what we've got to do on Friday night. It makes for better communication with the players and between the players and the coaches. We're a family."

How does one explain why things have turned around?

"Most of us have been playing together since the seventh grade. We did all right in junior high school, then the bottom dropped out. We got tired of getting beat and we pulled it together and made up our minds we weren't going to take it any more."

And what of Edison?

"They're tough, from what we've heard. But they can't be any tougher than Monroeville, which was well coached and ready to play. It won't be any easier playing on their field but we'll give it the best we've got and hope that'll be enough."

Will there be some special plays installed for the game?

"I wouldn't tell you even if I knew. We don't tell those things, not to anybody. But we have made some adjustments in some plays and they worked against Monroeville. But didn't they key on Mike McKenzie and Richard Cunningham? We're sure that Edison will do the same thing. So we've got to do a better job in the offensive line and we've got to look for opportunities to pass.

"And did you see what a job Bill McVey did? I wish we had 10 more like him. He must have had 15 or 16 tackles. (The right figure is 19.)"

Ambitions?

"I'd like to go to college, maybe to study engineering. And I'd like to play ball there. Trouble is, it's big colleges that have engineering schools and the big colleges have big players, which I'm not. If I ever get to play, it'll probably be at a small school where the players are smaller."

Equipment?

"My grades are As and Bs. I want to make it hard enough, I think. They tell me at school that to want to make it is half of the battle."

Edison, and the teams down the road, are certain to discover that Cool Hand Luke wants to so badly he can taste it. And that, dear friends are gentle hearts, spells trouble for the opposition.

'The kicking game is attended to after the defense and the offense are installed and made to work, more or less. The offense includes the passing game and there must be some emphasis on throwing the ball to the right man at the right time. The kicking game gets only a little attention and after the others are all right. Is this the right way to do it?

Don't ask me —

I've never been a kicker before. But I agree that kicking should be taught earlier and emphasized more. We call it football, don't we? And did you ever see a kick like McKenzie's into the end zone Friday night? If he could do that every time, we'd have a big advantage. And yes, I think we ought to get more of the rules of the sport of the season in required physical edcuation classes, and that includes volleyball.'

You, too, can train your dog to "go fetch." It's worth the trouble, for the interesting things you read make you a more conversant and interesting person. The informed reader is the newspaper reader.

SOME PEOPLE RETIRE WITH MORE THAN JUST A GOLD WATCH.

You work hard all your life and what do you get?
Well, depending on where you work, you could get cancer. Asbestos has been proven to cause cancer. Certain toxic chemicals like formaldehyde and freon are being investigated. If you've worked with radioactive particles or even worked near them, your risk is greater.
And even if you've worked nowhere hazardous, it wouldn't hurt to get a checkup. Because the incidence of cancer after the age of 45 to 50 increases rapidly.
Over the next several years the American Cancer Society will be conducting more research into certain lifestyles and exposures which could increase cancer mortality.
So know the risks.
Don't smoke.
Watch what you eat and drink.
Look for the warning signs of cancer.
And retire not only with a gold ticker.
But a healthy one, also.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

Half-baked

A reader today seeks to justify half-baked activity at the football stadium by applauding a gesture, which is in itself an advertising ploy. We're not against advertising, it's our bread and butter. But he who says it shouldn't be allowed on public property unless all prospective advertisers are accommodated is on sound ground.

The main reason for not doing things in a half-baked way where the young can see and hear is that we don't want to teach them that half-baked is all right.

In 1967 and 1968, we were accused, perhaps rightly, that we dragged our feet in promoting fund-raising for the enterprise. Our attitude then was, as it is now, that it's a fine thing for the village if we can afford it over the long pull. We are satisfied then, and time has proved, that our conclusions were correct; we cannot afford it.

Certainly not the way the pool has been operated in the past.

Excusing this year's management and direction, any sensible observer could see these faults:

1. There was no vigorus recruiting drive for members. There was no reward for early supporters, who should have been entitled to a better rate because they showed their faith early on. After all, the schools sell pupil tickets for half price until a couple of hours before the game, then require even a little child to pay $2.50, don't they?

2. There was no vigorous effort to induce the core target group to participate even more frequently. There was not one effort to develop a competitive swim team, or a diving team, or even a choreographic exhibition outfit. By doing so, events on weekends would have brought out-of-town outfits here, spectators to the pool, greater participation in what the pool has to offer.

3. There was less attention to proper maintenance than there should have been by some managers of the pool. The emphasis is on some. Pool maintenance, any expert will tell you, requires assidous attention and more rigid adherence to standards because the very nature of the pool — treated water against some metal —causes speedy deterioration if it is not promptly attended to.

4. The practice of assigning teen-age personnel as life guards, while it afforded some young people an opportunity to earn spending money, often backfired because they were not mature enough to maintain discipline and, by reason of their immaturity, they were deflected from proper attention to their duties by other impulses, normal in teenagers, thank God, but having no place in sound business management.

5. Many admissions at the pool were less for swimming than for cheap baby sitting. The pool personnel should not be required to attend to the needs of children who cannot attend to their own needs.

By this time, if the original planning had been thorough and if sound management had been applied, we should have been considering how to enclose the pool so that it can be used for its maximum, its absolute optimum, purpose: to teach every boy and girl how to swim, even to require ability to swim of every able-bodied child before he is given a diploma.

Should the pool be fobbed off on the village?

Not without some suitable plan to fund it. The village is strapped for money now. Electors are going to the polls next month to decide if the state, indeed, ought to have an enormous portion of what every man makes. And until such a plan is advanced, the proper stance is this: it's nice to have, but unless it can pay its own way, forget it.

Plymouth second overall —

Kranz wins soil contest

He who excels athletically may also do well academically, and Loren Kranz, 12th grader in Plymouth High school, is a fine example of that fact.

An outstanding runner in cross country, holder of the school record, he also studies vocational agriculture. On Friday morning he competed in the agricultural land judging contest at the Scherer farm in Snake road near Ganges and came away the winner.

Contestants were split into two groups.

In addition to Plymouth, Shelby, Pioneer Joint Vocational school, Crestline, Clear Fork and Lucas were entered.

Clear Fork won the rotating trophy, defeating Plymouth in a 20-question quiz.

Overall trophy was determined by computing the top three finishers from each school in the two soil categories that were judged, urban and rural.

John Carroll and Rod Tresh, Lucas, won first in urban judging. Tom Whatman, CLear Fork, won the agricultural soil judging contest.

About 175 pupils participated.

Two women win divorces

Betty J. Lahmon, Shiloh, has been granted a divorce from Ronald D. Lahmon, Plymouth, by Huron county common pleas court.

Stumbos file $100,000 suit versus Shiloh

Village of Shiloh is defendant in a damage suit for $100,000 laid in Richland county common pleas court by Dennis and Wilda Stumbo, 45 Petit street.

Plaintiffs allege the village has been negligent in maintaining, operating or repairing a santitary sewer, with the result that during the spring and autumn, the Stumbos are deluged by raw sewage backing up into their home.

They want a jury trial. Richard Hauser, Huron county prosecutor, is their attorney. Half of the damages would be for compensation, half for punishment. Judge James Henson will hear the case.

New gas rate accepted at Shiloh

An emergency ordinance accepting the rate agreement with Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., reached by a coalition of 23 communities was approved by Shiloh's village council Sept. 27.

Minimum charge is $4.60 a month, regardless of consumption. Rate is $14.733 cents for each 100 cubic feet consumed from Nov. 10 until Sept. 10, 1984. Thereafter, minimum will remain the same but the rate will advance to 16.449 cents for each 100 cubic feet.

Can Big Red down Cougars?

Each team is coming off a defeat. The Cougars were beaten by Monroeville, 23 to 14. The Big Red was trounced by Edison, 39 to 6.

Until the Eagles prevailed over Crestview, that team had been beaten only once in two seasons, By Edison in the Firelands conference championship game in November of 1982.

If Plymouth is at full strength, and signs are that Richard Cunningham's leg may be healed, it will be the Big Red's passing game and a running attack that was stalled two weeks ago by Monroeville against a stout Crestview defense that stopped Monroeville's running game last week and an offense that hasn't found itself yet.

What it will boil down to is the resolution of these facts:

Monroeville ran against Plymouth; it could not run against Crestview.

Did the Eagle running deteriorate that much? Roger Smith and Jeff Steiber hurl themselves at the Cougar line with great vigor but came up empty. The Eagles won because they profited by Cougar mistakes.

If the Big Red defense can contain Jim Them, and if the pass rush can keep Rod Bernhard off balance, Plymouth can win this one.

The series began Oct. 11, 1963, and Plymouth was victorious by 24 to 8.

The two schools have met each year since them, in the longest continuing rivalry with any school that Plymouth has. The Big Red has won 13 and lost seven. One game was tied.

The Cougars ran up 51 points against the Big Red on Oct. 11, 1974. Plymouth scored 50 against Crestview on Sept. 23, 1967. In each game, the loser was scoreless.

The Cougars are big up front. There is experience and some speed. The new coach, Jerry Marshall, who personally scouted Plymouth Saturday night, has nine lettermen on a squad of 43 players.

In addition to Them and Bernhard, who rated all-conference selection last season, these include John Tennis, a back who also plays middle guard, at 160 pounds; Joe Stewart, a guard and linebacker, who scales 180; Howard Funk, a guard and tackle, weighing 185; Tim Whisler, also a guard and tackle, who scales 185; Matt Lowery, a tackle, who weighs 180, and Ed Leitenberger, an end and halfback, who tips the beam at 155.

Them is strong as a bull. He weighs 200 pounds and is the meat-and-potatoes runner. Bernhard, who scales 190 and measures six feet one, is the classic Class A quarterback.

There are 11 players of the 12th grade on Marshall's squad, eight of the 11th grade, six of the 10th grade and 18 ninth graders.

The two clubs are evenly matched. If Plymouth can run against the Cougars, Plymouth will win.

Game time is 8 p.m.

$100 fine levied at Shiloh

A plea of no contest to charges of public intoxication, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest by Pamela Machiusi, 20, 4 Main street, Shiloh, resulted in fines of $100 on each count in Mayor Francis Gowitzka's court in Shiloh Sept. 28.

Put your mind at ease, automatically.

As the shadows deepen at the end of the day, those dark places in your yard seem to creep closer and closer to the house. Pretty soon you can't see anything at all.

Unless you have an outside Security Light from your electric company.

You can light those dark places and see up to 200 feet away with a Security Light. It illuminates an area of about 11,000 square feet, almost a quarter of an acre, putting the darkness back where it belongs.

The Security Light automatically switches itself on at dusk, giving you protection all night long until dawn when it turns itself off. All the electricity necessary for operation and any maintenance, including replacing burned out bulbs, is covered in just one low monthly charge.

Helpful hints small but oh, so useful!

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing like having one of your long-lost kids visit for a couple of days.

We all live a little too far for Sunday dinner, so it was a real treat, even though we almost caused a panic at 4 a.m. one morning when the alarm went off on his car rented at Toledo. We don't think anyone even was near it, it just went off on its own and woke up the neighborhood.

It was great having a son home, but the best part was when grandma on Sunday morning helped him pack so he could get assorted jellies and jams plus the rocks his little girl is collecting in two suitcases and a briefcase.

United has really no idea that it was carrying part of the Grand Canyon. But he did it. This little collection consisted of some really small rocks plus two really large ones from the Grand Canyon which a nice friend had picked one time, took them home to Delaware, and brought them back to Ohio for us. After seeing the size of the things, I kind of wonder how much is really left of that famous sightseeing place. We have part of it in our homes.

At least we got part of the jams off, but now we are into grape, which leaves our kitchen purple, although some parts are a nice lavender. I have several household hints about grapes. Do not attempt to put them down a garbage disposal after you have drained the juice. It is disatrous. We have a two part sink, it bubbled up purple like mad on both sides and was a real plumbing mess. Outside of that problem, the juice I got looks and smells great. This is thought to be a good grape year.

And now after years of making jelly I have discovered something. Actualfy I read it in an old cookbook. You know how difficult it can be to remove the parafin, sometimes we end up with half of it on top of the jam. This is something so dumb and simple that I never thought of. Just put a little string across the top of the jar, pour on the parafin, then lift it off by pulling both sides of the string.

This sort of thing makes me wonder about myself. A few weeks ago there was a story in one of our papers about how smart you had to be to join something called Mensa, which supposedly is made up of the brightest people around the countryside. They had some sample questions. I knew the answers and thought how dumb are these characters, but yet I was not smart enough to figure out this paraffin deal.

Another little household hint I read in the same book is how to prevent soggy piecrust bottoms. Simple rub some butter or margarine in the pie tin before putting in the crust.

The best one of all has to do with raisins. They have always been a problem with me no matter what I put them in. They sink. They do not weigh that much, but they do not really stay afloat in a mixed batter. If you don't believe me, try it.

Next time they are to go into a cake or bread, roll them in flour, then mix them in, and they should stay well distributed throughout.

Let us face hard cold facts, some of our grandmothers and great-grandmothers were very good cooks with what they had.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fan complains of Edison's size

Sir:

As a concerned parent, I feel it necessary to express my thoughts about the varsity and reserve games with Edison.

Our boys were manhandled and morally defeated by this huge team. I feel our boys had to play a team that should be in another class. Why does Edison want to play in a lower class? So they can be champs every year? Do they like to demoralize the competition with their tactics? This Edison team goes into games like the Marines went into Guam. They punched our boys, kneed them, stomped them on the fingers and legs, head slapped them and tried everything else they could get away with.

I know we lost both games. Ous boys were intimidated from the start. I also know they could have done better. They fell apart because they were playing Edison. But, with all the manhandling and the bad officiating I can sympathize with them. It hurt me, too.

I know they had bad calls against them. I also know that Edison didn't need the officials help to win. We had pass interference that wasn't called, plus a few other things. I'd also like to know where they give 15 yards for holding and being offsides, when the NFL only gives 10 yards. Really!

Also, in Monday's game with the reserves, there wasn't one ninth grader on the team. But the thing that got me the maddest was, as I looked around I saw a majority of their varsity players, playing our reserves. It doesn't seem fair that our reserves had to play almost the same team that the varsity played. I also thought that 12th graders played on varsity, not reserve. But Edison plays 12th graders on reserves.

I know this letter isn't going to change things, but I want to congratulate our boys for the way they conduct themselves. Also, Mr. Roll, you kept your cool pretty good considering you know these things happened.

I would also like to comment on the anonymous telephone interview the editor had concerning the football games. It gripes me for someone to complain about something and not identify themselves. Especially on the note that they have family and friends associated with some of the policies they're complaining about. Secondly, the attitude he compiles about no professionalism. Who does he think plays at Mary Fate field? Certainly not the Cleveland Browns, but Plymouth Big Red Vikings! They're not professionals and they're not getting paid to play. After all, he could not go to a professional game for $2.50. Have a little heart. Third, The idea that griped me the most was the fact that he objects to the Curly's advertisement during the announcing. Has he asked the boys parents is they objected? Certainly not, or he forgot me. Curly's feeds our boys before every game. I think that's very nice of them, considering the high price of food these days. ALso, does this person know how much these boys eat? He can feed mine for a week and then he'd be glad to let Curly's advertise. He'd probably advertise for them. I for one, commend Curly's for doing this and thank them very much on behalf of my son. I think it's only fair to give them credit and advertise for them.

I know I've been long winded, but sometimes things build up in a person and they just have to air them out. I hope you'll print this in text because I know there's other parents who feel the same way. Go Big Red. Thank you.

Will village be saddled with pool?

Fate of Mary Fate Park Pool, Inc., will be decided this week.

Officials of the Farmers Home asministration, Wooster, met Thursday night with village officers and members of the pool's board.

The pool, which was constructed in 1968 with a $72,000 low interest loan from FmHA now owes $75,000, with accumulated interest.

The non-profit organization has not been able to meet its annual payments for the principal or interest practically since it was built.

About five years ago FmHA approached the village to suggest that it take the pool's operation over completely.

At that time, the council could not see its way clear to undertake the financial burden.

president of the pool's board, thinks there are only two choices FmHA can make. One is to completely close the pool down. The other is to turn it over to the village at so much on the dollar.

If the latter choice is made, Tracey thinks perhaps the village may be able to undertake it by negotiating another low interest loan at five per cent over a period of years.

Mayor Dean A. Cline, who attended Thursday's meet-

There was no way that the half mill levy for Mary Fate park could be stretched to include the operation and maintenance of the pool. By law, only a half mill can be voted for recreational purposes.

Grandpops' trek via bike found 'rewarding'

Donald Brooks and James Will left Sept. 25 at 7 a.m. with their camping gear. And their bicycles.

They were headed for the Finger Lakes in New York, but did not quite get that far.

"You have never seen such hills", Brooks says. "They went straight up, then straight down, and even pushing a bike was hard work."

But they had a good time.

The first night they reached Farmington Center, northeast of Akron.

They discovered that some of the villages in that area have dwindled into fewer people because of the freeways that have bypassed them.

There they found a church and a tavern. They thought the church yard would be a good place to camp but perhaps ought to inquire about it, so off to the tavern they went and discovered the name of the minister.

He was very agreeable to let them use the churchyard and invited them to the evening service. They also were welcomed by the small congregation and invited to the party after the service honoring the minister and his wife on their 25th anniversary.

The second day they cycled 87½ miles to Spartansburg, Pa., in Amish country, filled with oil wells and lumber yards. That is where they met up with the steep hills, which slowed them to eight miles an hour.

That night they slept on picnic tables in the local fair grounds.

The third day the headed north toward Lake Chatauqua. They went through a village called Mayville, which sits on a ledge over the lake and is always 20 degrees cooler than the valley below. It was the coldest place they hit.

That night they stayed in Ripley in a motel. "We were getting gamey," they say and needed a good hot, soapy shower.

The fourth day, they started back and spent the night in a game reserve at West Mecca, where the Canadian geese honked all night, thousands of them, and kept them awake.

Thursday they cycled to Dalton, where they had dinner and spent the night with former football coach Michael McFerren and his family, who are old friends.

They were back home Friday at 4 p.m. after 565 miles, one flat tire and one broken spoke.

"The best part of all," they say, "is that we had the wind to our backs going and coming, which is helpful and very unusual."

AND what did they think of America they had not seen before? "It's like here, people are curious when a stranger walks in on a morning coffee drinking time and very friendly."

They agree that bicycling has come into its own, everyone does it, and they were not considered oddballs at all, just a couple of granddads having a good time and doing what they like.

Edison rips Red in last period, 39-6

Hopes for an undefeated season went up in smoke at Milan Saturday night when Edison left Plymouth all but dead after a merciless beating 39 to 6.

It was Plymouth's first defeat of the year.

The Chargers were simply too big, too fast and too numerous for the Big Red, which righted itself after giving up an early touchdown with the hint of a rout in the air and held off the northern division and league champions with some skill for three periods.

But the Chargers erupted for 26 points in the final period and Plymouth averted a shutout only because Coach Jim Whittington put his second and third line players on the field, whereupon Plymouth's second team marched 65 yards in seven plays to score.

The Chargers showed early on that they meant business.

An assistant coach said after the game, "We did what they said we couldn't: we ran inside on Plymouth and we ran whenever we wanted to. Plymouth is a good team but it can't stand up to our big line and our strong backs."

The Chargers proved that with their first possession. Unable to gain with the kickoff, Plymouth punted 26 yards to the Edison 45. Two plays produced 11 yards, then Kurt Ostheimer burst off tackle for 39 yards and first down at the Big Red five. Here a major penalty cost Plymouth half the distance to the goal and on the first crack, Jeff Springer squirted through tackle for the score. Pat Landoll kicked the PAT and Edison led by seven.

Edison spent most of the first half in Plymouth territory but could not produce another touchdown. With its second possession, Edison reached the Red 26, only to fumble on fourth down. Plymouth recovered at the Red 34.

With the next possession, Edison connected with a 12-yard pass to Al Bernardi, who fumbled at the Red 34. Darren Branham recovered and Plymouth mounted its first significant attack of the first half. In 10 plays it reached the Charger 34, but was forced to punt.

The Chargers couldn't get running room and after seven plays they punted. Plymouth took over at its 42 and began to move. Despite two 15-yard penalties, the Big Red sustained its drive to the Charger 24, where on fourth down Rod Hampton's pass to Tom Baker fell incomplete.

Only 4:47 remained in the half.

But it was enough for Edison to score.

The Chargers drove 76 yards in 11 plays and punched it home with 48 seconds left in the half.

Berardi got the last two yards. A pass for PATs was not good.

Neither team scored in the third period, although Edison maintained possession for 21 plays before running out of downs at the Red 31.

Plymouth connected for 24 yards through the air on two passes and on fourth down, Branham punt try was plagued by a snap from center that was yards away from him. By the time he recovered it Plymouth had lost 10 yards and the Chargers were in possession at the Red 44.

But they couldn't move it and punted.

Neither could Plymouth move and it punted, but only out to its 31.

It was at this point that the roof fell in.

The tiring Red forwards could not hold off the big Charger line that opened big holes for Ostheimer and Jeff Springer and in five plays, the Chargers went into the end zone again, this time ona 15-yard shot by Springer with 8:46 remaining in the game.

The run for PATs was short.

Hampton was intercepted in the next series and in two plays Edison had another touchdown. From the Red 14, Ostheimer cracked left tackle for 13. Joe Taylor sneaked the final yard. Landoll kicked the PAT.

A second interception in the next Plymouth possession led directly to another Edison score.

From the Red six, a shot at tackle produced a yard, and on second down Ron Field, whose brothers are playing for Southern Illinois university, hit the middle for five yards and the score. Tha place kick was not good.

With second line players on the field, Plymouth mounted its only creditable drive of the night. Mike Hawkins and Shawn Branham took turns and in huge gains through a green Charger forward wall Plymouth marched to the Edison five, whence Branham went in for the only score.

The place kick was not good.

Edison wasn't finished. It took the kickoff and in three plays covered 55 yards for the final touchdown. This one was contributed by Jim Hall, who ran in from the three. Scott Schwan kicked the PAT.

There was time for only a couple of plays and it was all over.

Plymouth was crippled at the start by the absence of Richard Cunningham, whose offensive thrusts take some of the pressure off Mike McKenzie and whose defensive contributions are significant. He was out with an injured leg.

For the second week in a row, the opposing defense keyed on McKenzie. He couldn't do much. And the pass rush kept Hampton off balance much of the night. Nevertheless, Edison coaches and players were impressed with his skills.

It may be these two teams will meet again this season. Certainly there appears now to be no team in the northern division, unless it be Monroeville, that can contain the Chargers.

If Plymouth can dispose of Crestview tomorrow, a return match may be in the cards.

If so, it will be played at Whitney field, Norwalk.

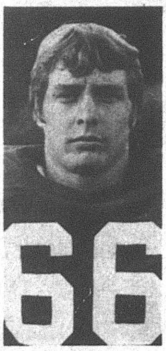

Saturday's engagement at Milan, before a packed house, was the largest gate ever recorded by Edison.

Eagles claw Cougars on first half play

Monroeville capitalized on Crestview's mistakes to build a 15 to 0 lead at the half in Firelands conference play here Friday and stood off a frenzied Cougar effort in the second half to win a 23 to 14 victory.

It was the first regular season defeat of Crestview in two years. The Cougars were 10-and-0 in 1982 and had won four straight this season. Their only defeat over that span was the loss to Edison in the league championship game last November.

The Eagles scored with their second possession of the night.

On fourth down, Mark Hershiser went back to punt from the Cougar 30. The snap was poor and although Hershiser recovered the ball, Monroeville was in possession at the victors' 20.

The Eagles needed only four plays. Crestview's rock-ribbed defense completely shut down Monroeville's running game, as indeed it did throughout this bitterly-fought contest, and on third down Dave Keszei went to the air to Dan Jordan, who caught the ball in the end zone for a 25-yard completion.

Keszei's pass for PATs was not good.

The Eagles got another break with the ensuing kick off. Crestview fumbled and Monroeville recovered at the Cougar 30. But Monroeville was unable to produce a first down and Jordan's kick, delivered from 15 yards farther away from the goal line because of a holding penalty, carried only 17 yards, to the Cougar 32.

Neither could Crestview gain and the Cougars punted.

Setting out from the Eagle 39, Monroeville penetrated to the Crestview 14, where Jeff Stieber's shot over left tackle failed to produce a first down.

After eight yards by rushing, Crestview punted. Keszei took the ball at the Cougar 47 and raced untouched for the score.

Chris Pheiffer's place kick was not good.

On first down after the kickoff, Rod Bernhard, the veteran Cougar quarterback, went to the air.

Jordan batted the ball and then caught it the second time down and gave Monroeville possession at the Crestview 22. But on the third down a critical fumble turned it over and Crestview was out of trouble.

It could not gain and Hershisher's punt carried 23 yards.

Keszei was sacked for 15 and a pass from the Eagle 40 went incomplete. On third down, Keszei found Jordan along the east sideline and the play went for 50 yards to the Cougar 10. On fourth down, with possession at the eight, Pheiffer kicked a field goal that flew 25 yards from the tee. Only 12 seconds remained in the first half.

Monroeville put the ball in play 43 times during the first half, gained a net yardage of zero on the ground but a big 107 through the air, with six completions in 18 tries. The Cougars, with only 24 plays gained four yards by rushing and just 12 by passing, with two successes in five tries.

Crestview came back from the halftime fired up.

It halted Monroeville at its 24, three running plays having produced one yard and forced the punt. Crestview was compelled to return the punt, which Monroeville fumbled at the Eagle 25.

From this point, Crestview needed only four plays to score. Bernhard passed 12 yards to Jim Thein. John Tennis ran the PATs and Crestview was back in the ball game.

Two possession later Monroeville got the winning touchdown.

Roger Smith intercepted Bernhard at the Cougar 25 and ran it in to the Crestview 17.

Smith got three over right guard, Keszei threw to Jordan for 10, then Smith took care of the remaining distance in three shots, the last from a yard away. Just 1:24 remained on the third period clock.

Well aware that it needed two points to freeze the Cougars out, Monroeville elected to try for two points. Keszei threw to Jordan for the PATs.

It was a defensive battle thereafter until, with time running down, Crestview obtained possession at the Eagles 47. The Cougars got only seven yards and were forced to surrender the ball on fourth down at the Eagle 40.

Penalities, one for five and the other for 15 yards, on successive plays, blunted Monroeville's thrust and Jordan punted with 1:09 remaining.

A pass interference call against the Eagles gave Crestview first down at the 30. Bernhard hit Jim Anderson for 24 yards and first down at the nine and then threw to Them for the final touchdown.

The run for PATs was short.

It was not an artistic triumph but it was well earned.

Will village be saddled with pool?

ing, is appointing a committee to study the problem. It will include council members, pool personnel and citizens.

This week a report is to be made by an engineer from FmHA to determine what repairs will be necessary now and in the future.

When the pool opened in May, 1969, it was immensely popular with the village and with those living outside. That year memberships totalled over 300. This year they are just a little over 100.

Although it is an asset tot he park and the village, there has been hardly any local support.

Two presidents chosen by class to finish May 27

For the first time in history, a class about to be graduated by Plymouth High school has chosen co-presidents.

These are Michael McKenzie and Thomas Baker.

Each is an athlete. McKenzie and Baker participate in football and basketball with remarkable success. Baker is a baseball player, McKenzie competes in track and field. Each is an honor pupil.

Amy Adkins is vice-president of the Class of 1984, which chose Glenda Will as secretary and Patti Griffitts as treasurer.

Jesse Miller is president of the Class of 1985, which elected Michael Hawkins vice-president, Jon Strine secretary and Deborah Schrader treasurer.

Class of 1986 selected Kevin Taylor as president, Terry Mansfield as vice-president, Camey Sexton as secretary and Sandi Polachek as treasurer.

Ninth graders, to be graduated in 1987, elected Steven Hall as president, Craig Baldridge as vice-president, Michael Lasch as secretary and Janelle Miller as treasurer.

Board votes opposition to Issues 1,2

Opposition to Issues 2 and 3 on the Nov. 8 ballot is the stance of Plymouth Board of Education.

By unanimous vote Monday night, on motion by a candidate seeking election and with second by another such candidate, the board said it vigorously opposes approval of Issue 2, which would require a 60 per cent majority of the General Assembly to pass a revenue bill, and Issue 3, which would repeal the income tax increase — was it 45 per cent or 90 per cent? — pushed into law by Gov. Richard Celeste.

The action came after Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board no tax revenue bill ever submitted to the General Assembly has ever drawn a 60 per cent majority and that if the issue is approved, it would rob the majority of the people of the right to control their political and economic affairs, in that a minority, or 41 per cent, of the members of the General Assembly could hold up approval of any tax revenue bill.

Staggs added that approval of Issue 2 will result in a major shift in school financing from state support to local support. He pointed out that 65 cents of each operating dollar in Plymouth Local School district comes from outside the district, in state, mostly, and federal funds.

Approval of Issue 3 will revoke, Staggs said, many advantages accorded "to the small person, the small business man and the individual tax payer" previously enacted and reduces local district revenues to such a level that 8.39 mills of new taxation would be required to match the loss.

Charles Reinhart moved the resolution and Donald Barnthouse seconded it. On roll call, each member answered "yea".

After the smoke had died, Mrs. Charles Briggs, representing Plymouth Education association, said it endorses a no vote on Issue 2 and 3. She said "buying and selling of votes will occur is Issue 3 is passed." She added that financial stability of Ohio is closely watched by such as Standard & Poore Corp., the bond-rating firm, which is apt to downgrade Ohio's credit status if Issue 2 and 3 are approved and this would cost the taxpayers "millions of dollars in extra interest when bonds are sold."

(Ed. Note: The technique to which Mrs. Briggs referred is called logrolling, a practice that has occurred in the federal and state legislature since they were organized.)

Staggs said Issue 1, relating to raising the legal age for consumption of alcohol from 19 to 21, concerns the board but made no recommendation as to a stance and the board did not take any action on the issue.

Thrust of the entire meeting was toward the same or higher taxation. Supt. Gale Leimbach, Pioneer Joint Vocational school, argued for the approval of the one mill operating levy sought by its board in the Nov. 8 election.

He presented a chart purporting to show that even with an additional one mill of fresh taxation, the district will be $590,000 in the red in its general fund by 1990.

He urged the board to work for approval of the levy and asked that the local chairman, William R. Miller, be supported in his efforts to obtain a majority.

Staggs presented data compiled by the guidance counselor to refute national coverage given by news media to deteriorating levels of scores by high school pupils on the ACT, or American College test.

(Ed. Note: Most pupils seeking admission to colleges or universities take the ACT, as distinguished from the more rigorous SAT. Only a handful of pupils here have undertaken the SAT in the past 20 years. By far the larger number, perhaps 90 per cent of the candidates for admission to higher institutions, take the ACT.)

The data purport to show that levels of attainment by Plymouth pupils taking the ACT since 1978 have been higher than the national norm.

In 1978, the data show, national level in English was 17.5 and in mathematics 17.9. Plymouth scores were respectively, 18.7 and 18.7. In subsequent years, the figures were:

Year	Nat E	Loc E	Nat M	Loc M
1979	17.5	20.1	17.9	19.6
1980	17.4	17.6	17.9	16.3
1981	17.3	19.2	17.8	20.7
1982	17.2	16.7	17.9	18.9
1983	n.a.	18.0	n.a.	18.5

Commencement and baccalaureate ceremony will take place May 27 at 8 p.m. in the high school.

Louis Bromfield Chapter, National Honor society, will publicly induct new members Sunday, Nov. 13, at 3 p.m. New selections will be disclosed to the pupils Nov. 4.

John Hart resigned as assistant basketball coach. He said he has undertaken graduate studies and his classes would conflict with his coaching assignment. The resignation was accepted on condition that a suitable replacement can be found.

Thirteen teachers received pay increments of $310 because they completed six semester hours of additional training. These are Linda Cline, David Coulter, Karen Luhring, Millie Gatoff, Cynthis Hornikel, Joyce and Paul Hase, Denise Thompson, Dorothy Olewiler, Carolyn Milligan, Sam Cook, Hart and Bathy Anderson.

Mar. 13 deadline to accept pool at village expense

Plymouth will have until Mar. 13 to decide if the village can undertake the operation of Mary Fate Park pool.

Farmers Home administration wants to be rid of it because the non-profit pool has not been able to meet its obligations to pay almost $75,000 in borrowed funds to construct the pool plus accured interest.

Meeting informally Oct. 5, Mayor Dean A. Cline, Councilman Roy Barber, S. Michael Tracey, current president of the pool board of directors, and Miles Christian decided that a study will be made of the pool's finances for the last six years or so to determine if it can support itself and how much might be needed in village funds to keep it going.

They have been told by FmHA repairs amounting to somewhere between $20,000 and $30,000 are needed to make it operable.

This is the result of lack of maintenance because of lack of money, plus the fact it has now been discovered that the original construction was faulty.

FmHA has told the village it will not turn the pool over either to it or any private group until the repairs are made and FmHA has indicated it is willing to undertake them.

When this is done, then FmHA will put a price on it. It will then be up to the village to decide if it can be afforded.

Barber says the problem began "practically the first year the pool was open, when it was a novelty and many individuals bought a number of memberships to help out, rather than just for their own families. The board at that time based its future on those unrealistic figures and then in the following years interest simply dwindled."

Repairs at village expense —

Can pool be bought by village for $15,000?

Purchase of Mary Fate Park pool for $15,000 is a possibility, Councilman Roy Barber told village council Tuesday night.

This would, of course, be without the $20,000 to $30, 000 estimated repairs which the Farmers Home administration says are needed.

A bargain like this is not going to be overlooked, council agreed. It will take more study, but councilmen agreed the swimming pool is an asset to the village and should remain.

They hope they can work out some kind of an arrangement by which the pool can support itself once it is on its feet again. It will take concentrated village effort, they agreed.

During a finance committee meeting Monday night, Kenneth Echelberry's insistence that he needs more pay or he will leave his post as captain of the ambulance service was discussed but no action taken.

Echelberry is paid $750 a year plus his time on each run.

He has served with the ambulance outfit since iys inception.

Neither did the council discuss whether the recent blacktopping of streets meets with its complete approval.

There is general criticism that the work was poorly done.

Principal complaint: excessive amounts of macadam were placed on some surfaces, resulting in the raising of their levels to several inches above the abutting surfaces, onto which motorists drive to rach garages, parking spaces, alleys, and other locations.

James C. Root, village administrator, did not discuss the matter.

Rather, he turned to the problem of tree limbs obstructing electric wires. The village seeks to protect its equipment, he said, but the clearing of the limbs is the responsibility of the householder, Root insisted.

Big Red favored over St. Paul's; first 11-man team to be feted

Homecoming, which for over a generation has been less as assembly of alumni than an excuse for pupils to decorate some floats, build a bonfire and have a dance, will take on a new flavor here tomorrow.

The 1948 football squad, the first 11-man team in Plymouth history, has been invited to return on the 35th anniversary of the first game.

The opponent then was St. Paul's, which will be the opponent tomorrow. The date was Sept. 17, 1948. The Flyers prevailed, 25 to 6. The Flyers have met Plymouth 14 times since, winning 13 times. The Big Red managed a 7 to 6 win last season.

The coach was Richard McMullen. Now retired from a lifetime of teaching and coaching, and a widower, he will be on hand tomorrow.

Four of his players have died. These are Hulbert (Pee Wee) Metcalfe, Harvey Wilson, Larry Schreck and Dan Eby.

Others who have been invited are Richard Lowery, Donald Ray, William Trauger, Duane Wilson, Larry Hampton, Glenn Burrer, Kenneth Burrer, David Sams, John and Louis Root, Joe Kennedy, A. Dean Grabach, H. James Shutt, Jacque and Desmond Donnenwirth, Vale Reed;

Also, Donald Cunningham, Ronald Trauger, Robert Schreck, Robert F. Echelberry, Jr., Roger Daron, Lewis and Denton Steele, Wayne Mathews, Alan Ford and William Chronister.

They will be introduced during a brief halftime ceremony.

Her court is comprised of Michelle Hamons, 22th grader; Barbara Harness, 11th grader; Karen Howell, 10th grader, and Karen Thornsberry, ninth grader.

The Flyers are rebuilding and have not been successful in conference play so far.

What's more, they've a new coach, Wally Zanotti, who had 27 lettermen on a larger squad than usual this season. A new coach always draws wallflowers.

The lettermen include eight starters on defense in the game that St. Paul's lost to Plymouth by a single point last season. These are Scott Nickoli, 168 pounds; Joe Hug, 197 pounds; John Camp, 162 pounds; the brothers Shumate, Kevin and Keith; Dave Hedrick, 215 pounds; John Landoll, linebacker, 179 pounds, and Dave Newcomer, 172 pounds.

Offensively, the Flyers have Brad Akge, an 11th grader, at the joy stick. He stepped into the St. Paul's lineup for the Plymouth game last season after Kelly Amato was knocked out by a shoulder separation.

Keith Schumate, the first 1,000-yard ground-gainer in nine years, is a 12th grader. He is the core of the Flyer running attack. Bob Reynolds, an 11th grader, is the fullback.

Shumate's twin, Kevin, alternates with Charlie Meyer at wingback.

Study of faith classes set

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic parish has joined with 10 other parishes to co-sponsor a free public program, "What Makes Catholics Different."

The program is open to the public but is especially intended to be helpful to those who have questions about the Roman Catholic church and persons with no faith community.

Virginia Robinson, member of St. Joseph's parish Rite of Christ an Initiation of Adults (RCIA) team, says the program is the first of a series of inquiry programs planned by the parishes in Richland and Crawford counties.

"We hope to be able to answer the questions many people have about the Roman Catholic church. We want to share our traditions and to perhaps even share the joy of our faith with our neighbors."

The Rev. Frank Eckart or Sr. Margaret Ann McGuiness, Mansfield-Shelby Religious Education Center, Shelby, route 4, Tel. 747-7017, will furnish additional data.

Voting sacred privilege; 'dumb broad' approach proves successful

By AUNT LIZ

In a few weeks we are all going to do what is a sacred duty in this country: vote.

We are lucky that we do not have guns pointed at us and someone to stand over us and say what places to fill in, which happens halfway around the world.

What kills me is the apathy that so many have. They say, "Who cares, none of them are any good, so why vote?" I have heard those words and so has everyone else.

This is a shame. It is exactly the way some of our modern dictators came into power. Their people got out and voted and the rest didn't care until it was too late. We fought miserable wars for this.

Actually, on the local scene this is not going to happen. Those who are running are ordinary people like the rest of us.

The one big thing this time around is who will be mayor.

Frankly, it is a real below union wage paying job, and will cost whoever wins cold hard moola. Not a great deal, but maybe a few gallons of gas and some stamps here and there. It is the time that does it.

There are just a few things that go with the job. Ordinary meetings, mayor's courts, marrying people and going to all sorts of really dumb meetings where nothing is accomplished. But you must go or you are considered simply uninterested and a bad, bad mayor. Otherwise, a mayor is powerless. It's the council that really makes the decisions.

It can be a real pain, but what makes up for it is that there is so much real respect for the office. That makes you feel good.

I have had a little experience with it all, and I will never forget the judge who offered help when it was needed, and I rather jokingly said that I hardly felt like a mayor, and his answer was, "Wear the title proudly."

Can anyone believe that once I was sitting in a chair acting very ladylike in Bexley with the govenor of the state sitting on the floor at my feet?

I was impressed. All the women mayors were invited for lunch to discuss their communities needs, which we all did, and ended up with words but no moola to do what we needed. That was the day someone in Columbus got mixed up and the caterer who was to do what was to be a beautiful women's luncheon had the wrong day. When that was realized, all the young aides vanished and eventually came back with boxes of Col. Sander's fried chicken. Not even Wendy's tasty hamburgers.

So people want to be a mayor. It can be interesting and fun.

Perhaps it is more fun for a goal. Men are simply accepted by men and there is no question. Men do question the abilities of women, which is plain dumb.

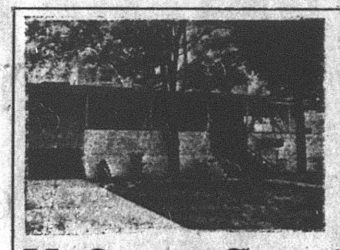

I found the best way to be on a fairly even basis with men with whom I had to deal was to act the role of the "dumb broad". I was really outdoing any role Marilyn Monroe played. It worked, and in most things I simply won because they all felt "sorry" for me.

The one who will get elected will be the one who has the sympathy and feelings to listen to every single little complaint and try to do something about it. It takes time. You are helping, and it is worth it.

This is what our country is all about, helping each other, so more power to the guys who want to take this on. Give them credit for sticking their necks out.

While all the guys are out drumming up votes, I do hope the wives are at home making apple crisp, which is a cinch this season. Grease a pan, slice the apples, sprinkle them with a few nuts and raisins, than add a topping of a half cup of rolled oats, three fourths of a cup of brown sugar, a half of a teaspoon each of nutmeg and cinnamon and a fourth of a cup of butter cut in and sprinkled over the top of the apples.

Bake until the apples are tender. If it has been a really hard day, serve it hot with vanilla ice cream, otherwise use ordinary commercial cream topping.

Red trims Crestview easily, 35 to 8

Cunningham leads Plymouth to fifth victory

Plymouth ran against Crestview at Olivesburg Friday night.

And ran and ran and ran, and when the excitement had died, the Big Red had accumulated 281 yards by running, 157 of them by Richard Cunningham in 10 efforts, and a thumping 35 to 8 victory in Firelands conference play.

By winning, Plymouth retained its place at the top of the southern division with an undefeated record, although it is now 2-and-1 in league play.

The Big Red scored be every method contemplated by the rule book.

It scored by running the ball, it scored by passing the ball, it scored by recording a safety, it scored by kicking a field goal.

And it scored the third time it got its hands on the ball.

The first series, dealing with the Cougar's kickoff, got nowhere. The second produced a first down but no more and Plymouth relinquished possession at the Crestview 18, having got that deep because in its first series Crestview's punter, Mark Hershiser, had to chase the snap from center, which sailed over his head, for a 30-yard setback.

Took over is hardly the word for it. The Big Red sprung Co.-Capt. Richard Cunningham loose over right tackle for 46 yards and the first scores on the first play from scrimmage. Mike McKenzie booted the PAT and at 5:45 of the first period, Plymouth was on the board.

It did not wait long to get there again.

The Cougars fumbled on first down, having punched to the Red 44, and Plymouth recovered.

Rodney Hampton drew out the stops and threw to Tom Baker, who caught the ball at the Cougar 10 and went in for the second TD. McKenzie again kicked the PAT. The clock read 2:09 of the first period.

Neither team did much thereafter until Darren Branham's punt on fourth down of its second series of the second period rolled dead at teh Crestview three.

Jim Themm bucked for four and then a pitchout to Jim Coy last two. A pass on third down went incomplete. On fourth down Hershiser stood alone in the end zone to receive the pass from center for the punt.

The snap sailed over his head and out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

Plymouth was unable to do much with the punt that ensued and Branham kicked 25 yards to the Cougar 14. On secon down, McKenzie, who played as well on defense as anyone can play (there were others: Bill McVey, Scott Ryman, Chad McGinnis, Brian Vredenburgh, Branham, Dave Burks, to mention a few), sacked Rod Bernhard for an eight yard loss. From the six, Bernhard sought to pass. Branham intercepted, one of the six Cougar passes nailed by the Plymouth secondary, and ran it in to the 10.

A five yard penalty set Plymouth back to the 15 and three pass plays didn't connect. So on fourth down, McKenzie kicked a 32-yard field goal and Plymouth retired for the halftime analysis with 19 points. The Cougars had none.

Statistically, the Cougars weren't a part of the game in the first half. With 36 plays, they had produced just three first downs, a net of 14 yards rushing and seven passing, with one connection in nine tries. For its part, with 41 plays, the Big Red had seven first downs, 138 yards rushing, 50 yards through the air, with two completions in 17 tries.

Crestview is classically a better team in the second half and it proved that fact Friday night.

Plymouth blocked a punt on fourth down in the first series of the third period and took over at the Cougar 20. But the vaunted Red offense could not manage a first down, despite McKenzie's heriоc efforts. He gained nine yards in three plays and on fourth down, from the 11, he booted a 28-yard field goal.

Crestview took the kickoff and Jim Anderson, who played splendidly in a losing cause, ran it out to the 26. In 12 plays the Cougars were in the end zone, the last yard gained by Them. The big play was a 34-yard gainer on fourth down from the Plymouth 46. Disdaining the punt, Crestview sent Bernhard on a rollout off right tackle. He optioned to John Tennis, who ran it in to the Red 12. Five plays later, with a six yard pass completion included, Crestview scored.

Bernhard passed to Tennis for the PATs and Crestview was back in the ball game with its tail over the dashboard.

The Cougars kicked off and Steve Jamerson ran it back to the Plymouth 36. On first down, Cunningham burst through the Crestview defense for 49 yards. He would have gone all the way save for a saving tackle by Anderson, a leterman. But on fourth down, from the Cougar 15, McKenzie's try for field goal was wide.

Crestview went into the air with two successive completions, good for 14 yards and a first down at its 34. There were murmurs along the Plymouth sideline, from self-appointed coaches who have crawled from the woodwork now that Plymouth has a winning team, that the missed field goal would come back to haunt the Big Red.

But Branham put a stop to that kind of talk.

He intercepted Bernhard at the Red 36.

On first down, Hampton did what all smart quarterbacks do: after a fumble recovery or a pass interception, throw on first down. He found Baker with another bomb, good for 38 yards and first down at the Cougar 26.

Plymouth stayed on the ground, save for one incomplete pass, and McKenzie smacked home from three yards away. His kick for PAT was good.

He was not through.

Hampton intercepted Bernhard at the Red 41 in the next series. A face mask call against Crestview gave Plymouth first down at the Cougar 21 and Cunningham got six over right guard. On first down, McKenzie broke loose from the scrum and bolted to the Cougar three, where he was tackled.

Everyone and his brother saw it. But the officials, certainly the weakest group in mechanics that Plymouth has seen this season, ruled that McKenzie has scored. Not one to look a gift horse in the mouth, McKenzie lined up to kick the PAT. But it was not to be.

The officials earlier had thrown a yellow kerchief against Hampton for intentional grounding in what even Crestview supporters said was a poor call. And at least eight times the referee decreed a first down that should have been measured. What's more, when he paced off a penalty, its distance did not jibe with the distances between the yard markers.

Both teams inserted second line nlavers at this point. Plymouth was on the move, thanks to some handsome gains by Mike Hawkins, at the Cougar 32 when time ran out. The Big Red had gained possession when Crestview was intercepted at the Red seven, only to fail to make first down. A short punt by Jamerson had enabled the Cougars to aasail the Red goal again but on first down a second interception at its 30. Hawkins gained 36 yards in five shots before the time ran out.

Those who doubt that Plymouth is for real need to see a psychiatrist. When the Big Red is more or less evenly matched, it can hold its own with any Class A team in the state. But its passing game needs attention if it is to prosper for the remainder of the season. St. Paul's and South Central will be gunning for the Big Red.

Gen. Tel. seeking new fee

Gen.Tel. Corp., Stamford, Conn. has filed tariffs with the Federal Communications commission on behalf of its 18 domestic telephone operating companies, including General Telephone of Ohio, establishing charges for "access" to the nationwide telephone network. The tariffs apply to all local customers and long-distance companies.

R.R. Randall, of Marion, state vice-president and general manager, says the monthly charges proposed by General of Ohio are $2 for residence customers and $4.01 for business customers.

The company's action responds to the FCC's orders requiring all local telephone companies to implement access charges effective Jan. 1. Similar tariffs, filed by, or on behalf of other independent and Bell telephone companies this year, when approved, will affect every telephone customer in the United States.

The new charges are based on the fixed costs of connecting customers to the telephone network and the variable costs of local switching and transmission. The charges largely replace the current system of subsidies to local service provided by long-distance revenues.

The federal tariffs also propose charges to be paid by long distance companies such as AT&T, MCI and Sprint — for use of General of Ohio's facilities to place and complete toll calls and provide other customer services.

The long distance companies initially will pay for more than half of the fixed costs associated with providing customer access to the interstate network. Under the rules of the FCC order, these payments will be reduced ach year until 1990, when customers will pay most of the costs of access.

Other pupils are graded thus: 93, 12th grade; 100, 11th grade; 85, 10th grade; 90, ninth grade; 104, eighth grade; 94, seventh grade; 82, sixth grade; 85, fifth grade; 79, fourth grade; 94, third grade; 97 second grade, 107, first grade.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

On the issues

It would be easier to make a sensible decision on the three constitutional issues in the Nov. 8 election if their supporters and their detractors would tell the whole truth.

Ohio law requires that a select committee shall prepare a brief synopsis or arguments favoring and opposing a particular constitutional amendment. Not in 30 years has the job been so shoddily done. Any high school debator can pick holes in the ballot arguments on both sides of each of the issues.

Ohio is entitled to better than this.

What is the whole truth? It is easier to propound an absolute truth than it is to recount the whole truth.

An absolute truth is that the educational establishment is in deep water with a thinking electorate, if that's what we have, by preaching doom if Issues 2 and 3 are approved. Consider: the teacher of, any American history or problems of democracy, who tells his pupils hour after hour of the wonders of the American system and of the constitutional process, and how it works to express the will of the people, then when the bell rings takes up a placard and pickets against the approval of Issues 2 and 3.

We have heard the argument that no revenue bill has ever passed the General Assembly by a 60 per cent majority. Why should any steersman for a revenue bill work for a 60 per cent majority when a 51 per cent one will do? Any steersman knows there are some of his colleagues who, for one reason or another, cannot in conscience support a revenue bill that would heavily impair the ability of a business in his district to compete in the marketplace.

And that very same teacher, representing the educational establishment, preaches the glories of the jury system and of the criminal justice process, requiring an absolute ballot for conviction, yet outside the classroom he argues that when it comes to funding the commonwealth, none but a bare majority is satisfactory.

Is it so bad that approval of Issue 3 might result save from the people? Doesn't it cost mightily to financing? From whom does the state obtain the money to fund schools, and prisons, and state universities, and mental hospitals, and whatever, save from the people? Doesn't it cost mightily to raise the money locally, sent it to Columbus and then stand hat in hand awaiting its distribution, on some formula or other that usually leaves the likes of this area out in the cold?

Is it so wrong that each should be expected to take care of his own?

As we read the proposals, approval of Issue 3 will result in termination of the present taxes at the middle of next year. Does the educational establishment argue that, whether it's an election year or not, those who may seek reelection won't be onto the fact that their neighbors don't want the schools to close, don't want the mental institutions to close, don't want the prisons to open their doors and let the miscreants go free?

Can it be seen in Columbus?

The governor hasn't responded, and he doubtless will not respond, to reports by the principal Columbus newspaper that a huge surplus has resulted from application of the present tax, which the governor and his party intend to divide among the faithful who hold office.

And perhaps there is an explanation of why the most powerful man in the General Assembly, the speaker of the House, sought to obtain approval of a compromise, by which some of the present tax level would be reduced, sharply, in return for a commitment not to upset the whole applecart and to impose conditions that, the next time around, will make it more difficult for sleight-of-hand artists to hoodwink the public and its representatives.

Our suspicion is that the people of Ohio will vote their pocketbooks. Now that a goodly portion of them are working, and have been made to understand by their employer that to pay a fair tax is fair, but to pay an unfair tax will close the company doors, we believe that many of them will cast their ballots for Issues 2 and 3. As will we.

Where we thought the schools would be more active is in an arena where the schools are conspicuously absent, for reasons that are unclear to us.

Issue 1 calls for raising the legal age at which a customer may be served alcohol from 19 to 21. There are reports that voter registration in college towns, notably those where universities are funded by the state, has increased mightly, ostensibly to produce a heavy ballot against the issue.

The ballot language is weak, on both sides. The educational establishment, for whatever reason, has refused to deal with the matter. It is cause for disgust. And we are disgusted.

Voto yes on Issue 1. In the state where age 21 is the dividing line, there is less school absenteeism, less juvenile delinquency, less teenage pregnancy, less teenage divorce, less of just about everything the educational establishment preaches is bad for us.

Can Big Red win over Black River?

Just how important is it that Plymouth should win at Black River tomorrow, in the first game ever played at that school by a Plymouth team?

To get the history out of the way, Plymouth played Spencer, one of the forebears of the Black River district, at Spencer, a couple of times. And the Pirates under the Black River banner have played here five times, twice with victory. These were in 1958, 1960, 1962, 1963 and 1982. Black River administered a 39 to 12 lacing of the Big Red last season.

The Pirates compete in Division IV. When a Division V team defeats a Division IV club, it gains 1.5 points by computer.

Black River's record isn't all that impressive and, taken on form, Plymouth ought to be favored tomorrow night.

But Richard Roll's scouting report says the Pirates are stronger than they've shown, they've recovered somewhat from crippling injuries and they're keen to make a strong showing against Plymouth.

Rod Haswell, who was accorded second team all-Firelands conference honors as a running back last season, as an 11th grader, is back and in full form.

Some of the 1982 teammates, including those who rated all-conference selection, have departed. These include John Ternes, the big tackle; Dean Wright, the capable guard; Rick Myers, the hefty center; John Knorr, the agile defensive back, and Greg Hewley, the big end.

The suggestion is that the Pirates lack experience and the suggestion is probably right. With more losses than wins — they're now 3-and-4, including 2-and-2 in league play — the Pirates are anxious to make a respectable showing.

Only six seasons back, Black River set a state record for consecutive defeats.

The scouting report says "The nose guard is outstanding." Plymouth's offense in the middle, Chad McGinnis, Ron Baldridge, Bill McVey and Scott Ryman will need to cope with him.

And the Black River offense is more respectable than it has been. It scored 13 against the Trojans and 27 against Mapleton.

Best route to Black River field:

Proceed east in Route 224 through Sullivan. Turn north (left) at sign "Black River school" 1.8 miles east of Route 58.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Spanky

'Our problems are that we haven't been winning and we haven't had enough players to play the game at the age level and physical development level of the boys. We ought to have a freshman team and we ought to have a stronger reserve team, with players who don't have enough experience or size or knowledge to play in the varsity game.'

Those who study the race recognize characteristics inherent in the younger of male siblings.

And Spanky has them.

Loyalty to the elder sib, even admiration for him. ("My older brother has seen Western Reserve play and he says they aren't so great, that they can be run on, and I think that's what Monroeville showed them.") Obedience and dutiful conduct at home and at school. ("If I wouldn't be practicing for football, I'd probably be out with my dad shooting deer with a bow and arrow and looking for rabbits and birds with bow and with my 20-gauge, single bore shotgun.") Attachment to rules of the household and to rules of the team. ("It might be the best thing for the people to vote to raise the legal drinking age. I'm not sure of it, but I think so. As far as I am concerned, I don't have anything to do with that stuff and, during the football season, at least, I don't know of any of our players who does, either. But I agree with the argument that most of the teen-age drinking is because the boys want to impress the girls.") A desire to want to counted for what he is, on his own. ("I just want to keep my grades up so I can qualify to go to college. I don't know which one yet, but eventually I want to get into computer science. And I'm taking the subjects that will get me ready for it.")

His name is Scott Ryman. He's the terror of the Big Red defensive line. He's not so bad on offense, either. But the six victims of the Plymouth team so far, and even Edison, which walloped Plymouth, testify that Ryman played in their backfields as much as he played in the Big Red forward wall.

How does it happen that he's called Spanky? "I got it from my brother. He was called Spanky when he was in school and I inherited it."

What sticks out in three seasons of varsity football?

"The coaching is and was very good, even when we didn't win. I don't have any complaints about the coaching. The methods might be improved, but I haven't given much thought to that. When the coaches hand out the sheets with the plays drawn on them, that's a good idea because we can take them home and study them. We have used about 30 plays so far this year and I'd guess we have about 30 more 'in the bank', plays that we could use but haven't so far. There's no point in not using plays that have worked are are working."

Should the proposed referendum to raise the eligibility rules for athletes be approved? "I'm not sure I understand what they want done." The OHSAA is about to poll principals to determine if there is support for changing the academic eligibility rule from passing three subjects with at least a D to passing all subjects with at least a C. "I don't think that's necessary. It would discriminate against a lot of players who, because they are 10 or 11 on one teacher or coach on the football field, can pick up what needs to be picked up a lot faster than in the classroom, where they are 25 or 26 on one. But even if it passes, it wouldn't hurt out team any way, because I can't think of any of our players that're failing anything."

Comparitively speaking, how does Plymouth personnel compare with what you've seen so far?

"Those two tackles of Edison and that big running back — I mean Ostheimer — are the toughest I've seen so far this year. They beat us up but good. The tackles are the Stephens brothers. They're big and hard and mean. (Keith Stephens scales 230, on a six-four frame; his brother, Paul, weighs 228 and stretches six feet three inches.)"

What of the remainder of the season?

"We're just going to do the best we know how and pray that it's good enough to make it to Game No. 11. It sure would be nice if Monroeville could knock off Edison. It's no surprise to me that Monroeville beat Western Reserve, but I didn't think they'd score three touchdowns. Maybe we can beat Edison on a neutral field. I think we can beat Monroeville. But if it's Edison, we'll be ready for them."

Are Plymouth's facilities comparable with what you've seen in other places?

"Of course, I've never been in the girls' locker room, where the visiting team dresses, so I couldn't tell you about that. But where we dress, the changes they've made by putting the lockers against the wall and by making an opening to the rest room and arranging things so there's a lot more room in the center area — that was a good step. We've got room to accommodate 10 or 12 more players if they turn out."

And why don't they turn out?

"In the past, there have been some who wouldn't get to play and they were just as sure that, play or not, we wouldn't win. We don't need people like that. Not unless they're big as a horse and can run as fast. I know of about 10 boys that should be out for football but aren't."

And why not?

"You got it right when you said what the band director said, about it's easy to hold 'em through 10th grade, then cars and sex take over. A car is the best travelling bedroom. There are a lot of boys who think they absolutely must have a car and as soon as they got their license, they want wheels. The only way they can get wheels is to work to earn money to pay for 'em. And they can't work after school and practice football at the same time. So they must make a decision. It's too bad that some of them choose to work."

Where do these teenagers work? Aside from the food outlet here, it's hard to find any teenagers at work in Plymouth.

"Some of them work in the fast food places, like McDonald's at Willard and Shelby. Some of them work in other food places, as bus boys and as waiters and waitresses. There are some girls who work at Curly's, in season, when they must wait on cars that drive in. But we aren't talking about girls, because they don't play football. I don't think our players or our pupils are any different from Edison's. They're all farmers, which is why they're big and strong."

Do you suppose there's any difference between our players and, say, Monroeville's or Edison's in that they come from families that are better off than ours and the parents can afford cars that don't need to be paid for by the pupil-drivers?

"It may be so, I don't have any information about that. But you'd have to show me. Our problems are that we haven't been winning and we haven't had enough players to play the game at the age level and physical development level of the boys. We ought to have a freshman team and we ought to have a stronger reserve team, with players who don't have enough experience or size or knowledge to play in the varsity game."

So how to do that?

He shrugs his shoulders. "I'll have to think about that."

Meanwhile, Black River, South Central and Mapleton, yes, Edison and Monroeville, are, down the road, thinking about how to deal with Scott Ryman.

Plymouth is now 3-0-1. The Flyers are 4-and-2.

Electric Thermal Storage works nights so you can save on your heating bills all day long.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day. And because ETS stores heat, it saves on your heating bills all winter long.

Heating coils inside the ETS furnace heat the special bricks throughout the night. The bricks then store heat which the furnace draws from at night, and the rest of the day.

You save because you heat with electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, under special rates available to ETS customers. So you pay lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night.

What's more, the same lower electric rates apply all weekend — for ETS heating and all other electric uses.

ETS heats your water, too. And individual room heaters are available, which let you comfort control any room.

Red rips Flyers, 39 to 0

Defense produces two scores for sixth victory

Plymouth dealt a 39 to 0 lacing to St. Paul's before a Homecoming throng here Friday night.

The rivalry between the two Class A schools began in 1948, a fact that Plymouth noted during the halftime by introducing the coach and some players of that squad, the first 11-man team in Plymouth history.

St. Paul's won the first 14 games before Plymouth prevailed by one point, 7 to 6, last season.

This victory, the first shutout of the Flyers ever recorded by Plymouth, was discolored by the absence of the best players on the St. Paul's team, sidelined by edict because they were found guilty of misconduct at Whitney field, the municipal stadium at Norwalk, where they are said to have sprayed red and black paint, denoting the school's colors, on the fieldhouse.

Plymouth built a 20 to 0 lead in the first period and it was a piece of cake thereafter.

The Big Red defense performed splendidly in this one. It limited the weakened offense of the Flyers to 92 yards on the ground and to 72 yards in the air. It picked off five passes, two of them leading directly to Plymouth touchdowns and two of them laying the foundation for Red scores.

Plymouth's offense did not need to do much, in the face of the defense's performance, but it did what was necessary. It punched out 143 yards by rushing and it gained 82 yards through the air.

The scoring by Plymouth in the first period was a litany of remarkable application and fortunate defense.

Plymouth took the opening kickoff out to the Flyer 47. On the third play, Co-Capt. Richard Cunningham bolted through tackle, as is his wont, and sprinted 38 yards to the end zone for the first TD. Mike McKenzie, who gained 42 yards in 10 carries for what limited time he was committed to action, booted the PAT. The clock read 10:59.

Less than two minutes later, Plymouth was in the end zone again.

Chad McGinnis intercepted a pass by Keith Mainzer, lateralled to Tom Baker and cut down a Flyer blocker while he watched Baker dash down the south sideline for 38 yards.

McKenzie again kicked the PAT.

To do this, he wears a special shoe, which cannot be applied to the foot quickly. Result: Plymouth was thrice penalized for delay of the game, resulting in a longer effort by the kicker.

Baker was to reach the end zone one more time.

After the next series, which saw the Flyers penetrate to the Red six, only to lose the ball on downs, Plymouth was not able to gain and Darren Branham punted 40 yards to the visitors' 47. On third down, Mainzer sought to pass. Scott Ryman nailed the effort and Plymouth set up at the Flyer 47. Rodney Hampton passed on first down. Baker leaped up between two Flyer defenders, each taller than he, and came down with the ball on the dead run. He went untouched into the end zone for the third score. This time McKenzie's kick was wide.

An interception by Hampton on first down after the Flyers had moved 11 yards to their 43 in the next series gave Plymouth possession at the visitors' 44.

After two first downs, from the Flyers' seven, Hampton threw to Branham in the end zone on the seventh play after the interception. Another delay of game penalty ensued and Hampton passed to Baker for the PATs. Unfortunately, he was out of bounds when he caught the ball.

The Flyers were bottled up in the next series and punted out. It was a poor effort, carrying only 16 yards from the scrimmage line, and Plymouth attacked from the St. Paul 28. A penalty set the Big Red back five yards and three running plays resulted in no gain. On fourth down, from the 34, McKenzie fumbled. The Flyers recovered and on the second down passed, a throw that Branham grabbed and ran in from the 37. The kick by McKenzie, who did not take the time to apply his special shoe, was shanked.

No Plymouth team has ever led by 32 to 0 at the half.

Plymouth clearly dominated the first 24 minutes. St. Paul's got as far as the Red six because it connected on two pass plays, one for nine and the second for 14 yards, and it benefitted from two 15-yard penalties. One of them was for holding. Thoe other was for failure to hold. To hold the mouth still, that is. The Plymouth bench was fined 15 yards for disputing the holding call.

But the defense braced. Would it have been able to do so against the Flyer first team, languishing in durance vile because of its misdemeanors? No one will ever know.

Plymouth outgained the Flyers by 30 yards on the ground and by 42 yards in the air during the first half. What's more, it had 32 points on the board.

The Big Red was to score once more.

And this one came in the first possession of the second half.

Baker intercepted Mainzer's pass and ran it in to the St. Paul 12. In three plays, McKenzie was in the end zone, the last one a shot of five yards. He kicked the PAT.

Coach Richard Roll sent his second line players onto the field at this point, the second time they went there. He eased up midway through the second period, as well.

There was never any manifest intent to run up the score.

St. Paul's advanced to the Red 24 in the fourth quarter but could not do more. A bomb from Mainzer to John Camp, good for 41 yards, gave the Flyers first down at the Plymouth 24. Ron Nease stopped the next play for a six yard loss and on the third down, Jamie Brown, perhaps the smallest player Plymouth has sent onto the field in a dozen seasons, intercepted Mainzer's pass and ran it out to the Plymouth 22.

It was merely a matter of going through the motions to use up the clock thereafter.

Plymouth got splendid performance on defense from its secondary, Baker, Branham and Hampton primarily, and more than suitable effort from the linebackers and the front defense. David Burks, Bill McVey, Scott Ryman and McGinnis made important contributions to the containment of the Flyers.

Brian Vredenburgh contributed a handsome pass reception in a crowd to rescue Plymouth from a succeeds-or-give-up-the-ball situation, and played a sound game on defense.

Ron Baldridge, Junior Adams and Cunningham also played well, the latter two on both offense and defense. Cunningham gained 46 yards in just four carries.

A $2,000 puppy for Christmas?

By AUNT LIZ

Every year a department store that started in Dallas and is branched all over the countryside makes headlines with its special His and Her holiday gift.

They have been really far out for most of us.

This year they have outdone their imaginations and have reached the heart of every dog lover.

It's pups for 1984.

They have four legs, short flappy ears and little tails, just like every other pup.

Their pudgy little faces are so ugly that they are plain lovable, and they would appreciate a nice home.

What makes them so very special, besides the price tag, is that they are plain rare.

They are Chinese and called Shar-Pei. They have pedigrees that go a couple of thousand years back. I suspect there were a lot of them around then, but something happened (They were probably eaten-Ed.) and in the 1950's only 12 were known to exist. Then someone got into the breeding business and today in this country there are not quite 3,000.

Chinese or not, all dogs we have known are pure communist at heart. They believe in the general good for everyone, which means they will gladly share everything you have, but not what they have. We share all sorts of things with a cocker who seems to think that a nice buttery piece of toast with raspberry jam is for her, and every ice cream dish is hers to lick and no one else's.

Every night the two of us trot up the stairs to bed. She follows me up and down, but not long ago someone was eating ice cream, and there was no going to bed until she got the dish, so I went alone. Someday I am going to think a dish which has been so beautifully licked is clean and put it away.

Dogs are plain interesting. Historically they were pets of royalty. Probably the ones who could afford to feed them. Or they were utilized as farm workers. Today they are real pets.

Queen Victoria of England probably did more than anyone to make them part of a household.

She liked kids because she had so many, and everyone knows that kids love dogs.

Back in the 1860's someone gave her Looty, one of the first Pekinese to leave China for the Western world. She loved collies, too, and made them very popular.

We can really thank the Chinese for giving the world such lovable pets. There's the chow, who may weigh over 80 pounds but still considers himself a lap dog, those beautiful Lhasa Apsos, pugs, little as they can be still think they are real watch dogs, and the Shih Tsu, who need their own personal hair dressers to keep them in shape.

So, if you need a happy gift, order a Shar, and if you don't want to share your bed, throw in the special dog house, which is better than most of us live in. The dog is the bargain, only $2,000. The house is $2,750.

To be more practical, this is the season for tasty caramel corn. If you are going to go to the trouble of making it, you might as well do a large batch.

This recipe which comes from a nice friend, is great.

Pop two and a half cups of corn. Better to do it in two batches.

Then boil two cups of brown sugar with two sticks of margarine and a half cup of light syrup for five minutes.

Add a teaspoon of vanilla and a half of a teaspoon of soda.

Spread the corn on cookie sheets. For this amount, four are needed. Pour the mixture over the corn or better yet mix it up in a large kettle then spread it out.

The catch is that you have to "baby-sit" with it while it is in the oven at 250 for an hour. Every 15 minutes stir it up. That seems to be the secret.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Candidate argues 'save the pool'

Sir:

There seems to be considerable consternation concerning the swimming pool in Plymouth and it's dire circumstances. The matter of finances is always a problem, even amongst some of the corporate giants of the nation. There is no despair, however, since they seem to always find a solution to their financial difficulties. Similarly, a solution to the woes of the swimming pool should be sought in order to prevent closing it down.

I don't advocate closing the pool. I maintain that, if properly managed, it can be a tremendous asset to the community. There is enough reason to believe that the pool can become a self-supporting enterprise if the village would assume responsibility for management and maintenance. In reality, since it is a recreational facility, the pool rightfully should be assigned to the village park board to manage, just as it manages the park playgrounds and tennis courts.

The ascertian that the village can't afford it is another freak-out. Because it has failed to meet it's obligations in the past, the concensus is that the pool never will. This attitude gets nowhere. Pessimistic and negative attitudes breed contentment and failure (a condition that has existed in this community for too long and as a result very little is accomplished. The economy is beginning to move upward and as it continues to improve so should village operating revenues, thus providing to a large extent the finances necessary to operate the pool.

Perhaps I am overly optimistic. But I have enough confidence in the citizens of the community to believe that they will lend total support to the village to insure continued existence of the pool.

Health clinics give advice on hypothermia

Huron county health department nurses who hace met monthly with senior citizens in Norwalk, New London, Plymouth and Willard conduct "clinics" to promote wellness, reinforce the family physician and teach the elders about problems which are pertinent to their health, says Dr. Howard C. Sparks, county health commissioner.

With winter approaching, he says, hypothermia is a concern. The high cost of heating the home encourages elders to cut the thermostat below 70 degrees. To protect the body from hypothermia, a person should wear layers of thin to medium weight clothes, sweaters, robes, a cap or hat and thick socks. "Flannel sheets, afagans and snug-sacks are a good investment," he says. Most people think they are cold if they "shiver". An elderly person's body may not respond to this mechanism, hence he is unaware that the body temperature is subnormal."

Any senior citizen desiring information about the monthly counseling sessions may call the Huron county health department or Services for Aging.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

On Nov. 8

After nearly 30 years of faithful attendance at meetings of boards of education, here and elsewhere, we are resigned to the fact that they're misnamed.

They no more deal with education in its pure sense than a Jewish butcher deals in pork.

We cannot recall more than two or three instances, since 1954, when the local board actually came to grips with education as we conceive of it: what shall be taught, when shall it be taught, is it enough, who shall teach it, to whom shall he teach it, how shall his success or failure bemeasured.

We have said at least a thousand times that education is too important to leave to the professionals. We do so out of a long experience with the profession. Our mother taught for 54 years. The woman who keeps this place going trained to be a teacher. Our two children started out as teachers. Theymarried teachers.

None of the candidates for election on Nov. 8 has said enough to satisfy us that we canmake progress.

Which is not to say that progress cannot, or will not, be made. But isn't it reasonable that before an aspirant for a job is appointed or elected to it, he should be expected to not only enumerate his special qualifications for the post but also to state emphatically what he will do in that appointment to improve things.

Not even the most sensitive administrator, and we've had our share over 30 years, would, we think, say that the present system is perfect. The educational establishment and we differ sharply on how to make improvements. We insist that to throw money at a problem is not the way to solve it, although some money may be needed. And it serves no useful purpose to bleat that lack of money paralyzes the program.

This nation was founded on the notion "Make do".

If there isn't enoughmoney, we should make do.

It is depressing to drink one'smorning coffee with adults who don't know where Grenada is. It is more depressing that pupils of the schools have no more concept of where the capital of South Dakota is than what its name is.

Whatever happened to education during World War II and thereafter must be turned around. Everybody and his brother, expert and layman, swears we must get back to the basics. Then let's get back to the basics!

We have insisted for years that no 13-or-14-year-old youngster is wise enough to choose what he should study. That choice should be made for him until he is experienced enough to make that choice sensibly. The establishment that insists we should offer specialized courses in the Western novel or the rise of the black man in America society before the pupil has acquired a reasonable mastery of rhetoric, composition, grammar, mathematics and history should be shown on the door. Now.

The only way to change this is to insist that a start be made somewhere. That start can be made at the local school board level. Do the present candidates want to do that? Will the professionals now under contract want to hold still while it's done?

In principle, we have always urged that a candidate seeking reelection who has done a good job should be reelected. If that's the case now, then reelect Mr. Reinhart. If it's not, turn him out.

Of the others, we think Mrs. Sponseller's candidacy is worthy of support. Either of the two young men whose names also appear on the ballot is a suitable candidate if the voter should wish to turn against the incumbent.

Arson ruled at New Haven

The fire that destroyed Wright Way Inn in New Haven Sept. 9 has been labelled arson.

Officials believe it was set to cover up a burglary. A gun, cigarettes and several hundred dollars in cash were known to be in the bar but could not be found in the rubble afterwards.

A gas can was found inside the building, but it is not known if it had been used to start the blaze.

It is being investigated by the Huron county sheriff and an arson investigator from the Ohio Fire Marshall's office.

Haswell runs for only score, Pirates win

The same fellow who ran 81 yards against the Big Red Friday night, ninth grader Dan Haswell, scored the only touchdown in the reserve game here Monday. Black River won, 6 to 0.

He bolted home from a yard away with 3:02 remaining in the game,

Plymouth's record is now 3-1-2. The Pirates are 3-1-3.

Ex-resident alleges theft by hitchhikers

A 29-year-old former Riggs street resident told Mansfield police Oct. 24 he was robbed of $100 by twomen to whom he offered rides in Main street between Fifth and Sixth streets there.

Creed Reed dead at 77; ill long time

Father of Robert Reed, Creed Reed, 77, 103 Walnut street, Plymouth, was dead on arrival at Willard Area hospital Oct. 25.

He was ill a long time.

A retired mechanic born in Hueysville, Ky., Nov. 21, 1905, he was married to Dollie Prater at Lacky, Ky., May 21, 1927. They adhered to the Regular Baptist church.

She survives. Thieves break into machines, steal coins

Thieves broke into soft drink and candy dispensing machines at Voisard Co., Shiloh, Thursday between 4:30 and 5:40 a.m. and made off with an unknown amount of coins, Keith Sexton, supervisor there, told Richland county sheriff's deputies Thursday.

A torch was used to burn out the locks of the machines, Sexton said. He told deputies he found a rea door unlocked but no signs of forced entry could be found.

Sentencing of Conley set Tuesday

Former Police Chief, Robert Conley will appear Tuesday in Richland county common pleas court for sentencing.

He changed his not guilty plea to guilty Sept. 7 for a felonious assault on his former wife, Wendy, last spring. She was attacked while returning to her apartment in Mansfield. He was identified as the attacker through the investigation of teethmarks on her hand. Mrs. Conley told investigating officers that she had bitten her assailant.

Police officers also saw a car fleeing the scene. It was indentified as Conleys.

During the period of investigation, Conley was placed on suspension from his police duties by Mayor Dean A. Cline.

He submitted his resignation on the morning that he changed his plea.

Immediate cost to village would be $45,000 —

Pool for sale at $15,000, but repairs to cost $45,000

Sale of Mary Fate Park' pool for $15,000, bare, without repairs, is offered to the village by Farmers Home administration, Councilman Roy Barber said Tuesday night.

FmHA says $45,000 in repairs is needed. Some of this can be forestalled but an estimated $30,000 worth must be effected before the pool is "usuable".

If the village decides to take the pool with the repairs, the cost will be about $40,000, depending on the actual repair costs.

This, he said, would then cost the village $2,811 annually for 25 years to pay the debt at five per cent interest.

Barber detailed the necessary repairs, which fall into two categories, original construction and lack of maintenance over the years. He said the pool was losing somewhere near 4,000 gallons of water a day.

Councilman Billy Taulbee asked who would be responsible for the pool should the village take it over. He apparently thinks it should be under the duties of the administrator or a special board.

Councilman Keith Hebble suggested it shouls come under the jurisdiction of the present park board.

Barber thinks a recreational board may be the answer.

The proposal is to be studied by the finance committee and a proposal will be sent to FmHA.

The council by ordinance authorized the advertisement for bids for the firehouse addition, which is necessary before a new pumper can be purchased.

It will be built at the east end of the station at an estimated cost of $65,000.

James C. Root, village administrator, said he has the further information concerning the village's requests for federal grants.

One, the $350,000 Community Block grant, should be known within a few weeks. The second, from the Department of Natural Resources for matching funds for Mary Fate park, will not be known until spring.

Councilman Terry Hopkins asked him what he plans to do with the $5,000 the village will receive from Richland county, part of a $10,000 grant the Village of Lucas has declined. Plymouth will receive a half of it.

Root said it can only be used for specific items, and he has previously asked the county for funding for street repair. He said that with winter coming, much can be done now and he has no specific plans as to how to use it.

Actually, the village does not as yet have the money.

Hopkins said he has become aware there are many unpaid utilities bills from rental properties in the village, although there is an ordinance which requires any outstanding bill to be paid before any reconnections are made.

Root said, "It's a real problem now, worse then I've ever seen".

He explained many property owners feel the deposit required of renters should cover any bill they leave.

Mayor Dean A. Cline read a proclamation declaring Nov. 11 as Veterans' day. He said he was reading it because many villagers have served in the armed forces. He ordinarily doesn't bother with such things because he is "flooded with them, but this has meaning."

Ex-clerk guilty of theft of $2,000

A former village clerk and assistant clerk of the board of education pleaded no contest in Richland county common pleas court Sept. 21 to a bill of information charging her with theft of $2,000 to $2,200 from her employer, O'Neil's store, Mansfield.

Emily M. Wheeler, 45, 156 Poplar street, Shelby, was employed as clerk by O'Neil's between June 24 and July 12.

She was accorded diversion in lieu of a jail sentence. If she completed one year of probation, charges will be dismissed.

She obtained diversion, court attaches said, without being indicted because of a mix-up in policy.

Mansfielder opens business here

A Mansfield businessman has bought the premises at 6 East Main street from William Linville and will open a used furniture and appliance store there.

He is Lee Roy Webb, whose Mansfield establishment is at 169 North Mulberry street at Fifth street.

For almost two generations, the building was owned by Russell Crispin, who operated a 5¢,10¢ and $1 store there with considerable success. After his death, his widow and her sister continued the business for a time, seeking a buyer. Finding none, they closed the business. The premises were occupied by an appliance vendor and thereafter by a furniture and appliance operation and finally as a game room by Linville.

CHARLES REINHART

MRS. SPONSELLER

Five seek three seats on school board; incumbent opposed by four others

Three seats on Plymouth Board of Education will be filled Nov. 8.

One of them will be vacated by Mrs. Roger Pugh, who is retiring after a decade of service.

The other belongs to Charles Reinhart, a 43-year-old purchasing agent for Midwest Industries, Inc., Willard, who was appointed by the board to complete the term of Larry O. Vredenburgh, resigned.

Reinhart is opposed to Issues 2 and 3. "If they pass, our school and every other school in the state is going to be in trouble," he has said.

He acknowledges a relative inexperience as a board member and says he "is listening and learning". He wants more parental participation in pupil academic and athletic activities.

He attended St. Procopius college in Illinois. He is married to the former Carol Ray. They have four children.

He was president of the Boosters club for two years and president of Plymouth Midget league for five.

Reinhart is opposed by two men and a woman.

The woman is Mrs. Robert Sponseller, who has three children in the schools and who has attended almost every meeting of the board of education for the past three years. Her husband, a graduate of Plymouth High school, was an unsuccessful candidate for the board two years ago.

Mrs. Sponseller believes there ought to be more interaction between the schools and community. She would push for open houses and parent-teacher conferences at the high school level, which is not now the rule, and would seek to organize citizen' advisory committees for each school to consult with its principal.

Communication with patrons of the district by the schools is not what it ought to be, Mrs. Sponseller says. She wants more news letters, including "hard facts" about such as class schedules and extracurricular practices and questionnaires that seek the views of parents on school policies. She says a system should be estaliahed so that gifts to the school for scholarships may be made.

The Sponsellers have been strong advocates of dissolution of religious insruction in the schools. She believet the recent accommodation of North Richland County Council of Religious Education "bends the rules".

She is a past president of the PTO in the elementary school, which she helped to form, and is now a coordinator of volunteeas who work in the high school.

David R. Gillum, 23, a 1979 alumnus of Plymouth High school who was graduated by Ohio State university this year, is employed by Shelby Mutual Insurance Co. He was an outstanding athlete while he was a pupil. He believes the possibility of a reduction in state funding is the most critical issue facing the school district. If cuts must be made, he says, "they ought to be made across the board. We mustn't crucify one program to leave another untouched."

He is satisfied with the resolution of the religious instruction issue. "Both sides were satisfied and they stayed within the law", he says.

He would support efforts to compare Plymouth pupils academically with other districts and to reduce t ie high rate of teacher turnover.

Martin L. McKenzie, 24, was graduated here in 1978. He has attended Wilmington college, where he played football and baseball, and Ohio State univer tity. A bout of severe ill health felled him for a time, but now he is fit and seeking to find means to pay for the remainder of his education as an elementary teacher and recreation adminjstrator. He is a part-time sports reporter and serves as volunteer football coach at Shiloh.

He is active in the Masonic order and was a strong participant in the Order of DeMolay, in which he rose to

Red scuttles Pirates

Offense produces 419 yards, 217 in air

Black River found Plymouth's weakness at Sullivan Friday night, but little good did it do the Pirates.

Plymouth walked away with an easy 40 to 12 victory over Black River, the seventh victory of the season for the Big Red, tying the best record of any previous team.

The weakness? Plymouth doesn't defend against the long run very well.

The Haswell brothers broke off two of them on this cold, windy night, one for 50 yards by Rod, the fullback, and one for 81 yards by Dan, his younger brother, which produced all of the Pirates' points and 64 per cent of the yardage gained on the ground against the Big Red's defense.

Plymouth, meanwhile, was fasionong its own success in its individual style.

The defense was a significant part of it.

But the offense lost two scores because of penalties.

It started with the first play from scrimmage. Steve Jamerson intercepted Chad McComas's pass at the Red 39, after Larry Ensign had nearly broken loose for a 91-yard return of the opening kickoff. Only Rodney Hampton's crashing tackle stopped Ensign.

In possession at the Pirate 39, Plymouth needed only eight plays to score. Mike McKenzie darted around left end for 25 yards and a touchdown, only to be recalled by a yellow kerchief. Plymouth was fined for clipping. With first down at the Pirate 18, McKenzie got a yard over right tackle, Hampton threw to Darren Branham for nine yards and then McKenzie bolted into the the end zone for the score. His kick for the PATs was good.

Plymouth was in the end zone the next time it got the ball.

It took over at its 25 and in seven plays had the second touchdown. It started with a 16-yard pass to Richard Cunningham. With first down at the 41, McKenzie ripped around left end for 31 yards and first down at the Pirate 28. Cunningham got four. McKenzie added four and after Cunningham got five, McKenzie bolted home from the 15. His kick was again good.

At this point it appeared to be the beginning of a Big Red route. But in the next series, Rod Haswell and Darrin White took charge, White got 16 in two carries, then Haswell bucked for eight. White came back to get six in teo tries and then, from the 50, Haswell split the Red defense and ran right up the middle for 50 yards to the end zone. The place kick for PAT was shanked.

A 15-yard penalty on the kickoff return set the visitors back to their 12 and they managed only three yards in three tries, whereupon Branham punted 20 yards to the Plymouth 34. On fourth down, after White had gained nine, McKenzie burst through the Pirate forward wall to nail the quarterback before he could hand the ball off. The resultant loss gave Plymouth some breathing room to the Red 29, whence on first down Hampton heaved a bomb to Tom Baker, who took it beyond the secondary and ran down the east sideline for 71 yards. McKenzie's kick for PAT was blocked.

Plymouth stopped the Pirates cold in the next series, then after a Black River punt had first down at its 29. The Big Red held the ball until the end of the half, for 16 plays, before surrending possession at the Pirate 24. The Big Red had third down at the Black River 15 only to have Hampton sacked for nine yards.

After 24 minutes, the two teams were even on the ground: Black River 93 yards, Plymouth 92. In the air, it was a different story. The Big Red had put the ball up 14 times with six completions, good for 131 yards. The Pirates had tried one pass, which Plymouth intercepted.

Plymouth took the secon'. half kickoff and marched 80 yards in 17 plays. There was only one pass, of 10 yards to Cunningham for first down at midfield. The Big Red stayed on the ground — 25 yards of the drive came on a run by McKenzie through right tackle; he gained 140 yards in 23 attempts — and reached the Pirate six inch line.

Sideliners sepculated on which of the two running backs would carry for the score on third down, a penalty for face mask violation having cost Black River just six inches. But Hampton, who ran for the first time in his schoolboy career with the abandon of a Harmon, fooled everybody with a bootleg to the right. He went in untouched. McKenzie's kick for PAT was good.

A recovery of a Pirate fumble by Hampton at the Plymouth 38 produced another opportunity in the next series but Branham was forced to kick. Terry Mansfield recovered another Pirate fumble at the Black River 47 and in six plays Plymouth had another touchdown. Hampton rolled out to his right and romped 21 yards for the score. The kick for PAT did not succeed.

McKenzie's kickoff sailed to the end zone and Black River took over at its 20. Unable to gain, the Pirates punted, pitifully. The wind held up the ball and Black River got only six yards from scrimmage. From the 17, Hampton passed to Branham for 16 and from the one Cunningham bolted into the end zone.

McKenzie kicked the PAT.

After an exchange of punts, Jamerson's kick having carried 34 yards to the end zone, Black River set out from its 20. The first play resulted in a yard loss. The next one went the distance. Dan Haswell broke through the right side of Plymouth's line and raced 81 yards untouched for the second Pirate score. The run for PATs was halted.

By. this time the second string of Plymouth was on the field and it did well enough, advancing from the Plymouth 47, whence the Big Red took over because the Pirates' onside kick did not travel far enough, to the Black River 16 before running out of downs.

There was time for only two plays by the Pirates.

To count the heroes on Plymouth's side would require an abacus. Hampton performed nobly on defense and his offensive contribution far exceeded any he has made so far. McKenzie was superb. Cunningham is a much better running back than any conference team recognizes.

The offensive line performed well in the second half.

But it was the defense that excelled and since defense is what wins Class A football games, Plymouth has two aces faces up when the cards are dealt.

Straightshooter

'We have exceptional people this year . . . They're a good bunch, willing, respectful, cooperative, intelligent, well-disciplined, everything you'd want a player to be'

Americans generally, and Ohioans in particular, have always admired the straight-shooter.

It was a characteristic of the frontiersman, the early settler who disputed with the Indians the right to occupy and farm the land the red man had lived on for centuries. It was admired because it showed economy of resources, a one bullet, one bird or deer sort of thing. Straight shooters spared pain; the first shot killed.

Coach Roll
In second season at helm

In time the word straightshooter came to refer to the person whose honesty of purpose and frankness of speech, whose complete lack of guile and subterfuge, impressed his friends and neighbors.

The epitome of the straightshooter was a woman, who went by the name of Annie Oakley. During the late years of the 19th century, she was a star attraction of theatrical and entertainment performances. She was a rifle shot par excellence. Nobody could outshoot Annie Oakley.

She came from a tiny community in Darke county, North Star by name. It is near there she is buried. Those who remember her all are dying out.

But straightshooters still come out of North Star. And one of them is a shoo-in for Firelands conference coach-of-the-year honors. His name is Richard Roll, in his second year at the helm of Plymouth's Big Red.

A 1971 alumnus of Versailles High school — North Star is too small to have a high school — where he was exposed to a splendid football tradition (the Versailles team lost only six games during Richard Roll's four years there), he "laid out a year" before he followed his brother, William, who also taught and coached here for a couple of years, to Wilimington college. There the two of them were coached by the man who led the Plymouth teams in 1961 and 1962, William Ramseyer, by now Dr. William Ramseyer, athletic director and head football coach of the Quakers.

Richard Roll was graduated in 1976, prepared to teach industrial arts. There were two vacancies that he knew of and where he thought he had a chance of employment. One of them was Blanchester. The other was Plymouth, where his brother was leaving to return to his old stomping grounds, now betrothed to a Plymouth girl, Marcella Edgeson, whom he later married.

The offer to sign a contract from Plymouth arrived first and Roll put his name on the dotted line. He's now in his eighth year.

Right from the start, he was assigned to coaching. He was assistant to Mike McFarren and then David Coulter. And when the latter was dismissed, he got his chance.

There was no way to go but up and that's where he went, taking the Plymouth team with him.

His first club won two games, more than any Big Reduesm had done since McFarren resigned to enter private business. The straightshooter thought he might be on the way.

"Matter of fact," he says, "if we hadn't had a good season this year, I'd have thought I wasn't worth a damn as a coach."

And the whole world knows that Plymouth's program has turned around. For how long?

"Let's not kid ourselves. We have exceptional people this year. It may be a long time, maybe 10 years, before we get another group of players like this one, with the same kind of skills. Next year we'll have a different kind of squad, one that doesn't have the individual skills this one has. But it'll be competitive, I can tell you that."

What is the secret?

"I don't think there's any particular secret. I try to treat my — I should say, our — players as adults. I try to impress on them that it's time for them to learn to make decisions on their own. For example, we have some training rules, and I expect them to be obeyed. But they are designed so that the individual player must make a decision on his own, between him and his parents, whether he wants to be a member of the team or he doesn't. Sure, there are som players that I have to talk to more than others, and some that I don't have to talk to at all. But in the main it has worked so far.

"One reason why it has worked with this group is that we have here a bunch of players who're intelligent. They're smart. We don't, for example, send in a messenger with the plays. We signal what plays need to be called, and that takes intelligence. The sender needs to be smart — I don't mention any names, but you can see who he is — and the receiver needs to be smart, and you can see who he is. Sometimes it's 'they', because the signals aren't a secret between the quarterback and the relayer. It's easier to get the job done with intelligent people.

"And intelligent people want to be treated as adults, which is what I do and what I insist my coaches do. Bill Ramseyer taught me that. He treated me as an adult. Of course, I was four years older than these players here are, but it all works out the same: if you're treated as an adult, and expected to behave as an adult, and the rewards go to those who behave as adults, then you'll conduct yourself as an adult."

It's a classic expression of the old saw: "If it waddles like a duck, swims like a duck, quacks like a duck, eats like a duck and lays eggs like a duck, then dammit it's a duck!"

Coach Roll lives at 79 Plymouth street with his wife, Mildred, and their three children, Nicholas, a kindergartener, and Heather and Heidi, twins. Three livelier children would be hard to conceive of.

He comes by his interest in fire protection naturally. His father, a farmer and auctioneer in North Star, was fire chief there for many years. He's an accredited rescue squad corpsman as well as a fireman.

The Rolls attend St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church.

He is obviously the perfect family man. He shows it in his attention to and affection for his children. And for his players.

"The most important thing to me is the safety of the players. We call the parents whenever a boy is sick or injured. We lost a reserve game today (this was Monday) because a key player got a rap on the head at Black River last week and we weren't going to take any chances that he'd get another one until he's healed from the last one.

"Matter of fact, there's Nicky there. Think he'll ever get to be 225 pounds and over six feet? (It is a rhetorical question; the way he's going, he'll be six feet seven and 260 pounds!) I hope so. But there may not be any opportunity for him to play football, especially in the small school."

Why is that, coach?

"The cost of outfitting a team, that's why. Do you know what a helmet for next year will cost us? Eighty-five or 90 dollars apiece. Apiece! If I had a bigger budget, a lot of windfall money, I'd plow it into better equipment. All the same, let me tell you this so you won't forget it: we have outfitted our players second to none. Our shoulder pads and helmets and hip pads and other equipment are the best that money can buy. What bothers me is that down the road, I can see soccer taking over in the smaller high schools. It's an exciting game, it involves just as many players, though there aren't so many substitutes, but you can outfit a soccer team for one or two per cent of what it costs to outfit a football squad."

So what's down the road?

"We'd like to get into that 11th game. We don't care which team we'll play. We'll be ready for them. These players deserve that opportunity. They're a good bunch, willing, respectful, cooperative, intelligent, well disciplined, everything you'd want players to be. It's a pleasure to coach them. But after this year, the skills that characterize this team will be gone and we'll have to build on what's left. What will be left is good, believe me, but we'll have to depend more on running and less on passing — did you ever see two boys with such hands as Darren Branham and Tom Baker? — and who knows better than you, who've seen so many Plymouth games, that we wouldn't be to first base without those 11th graders, Scott Ryman and Bill McVey. They're the keys to our team and I wish I had a dozen more like 'em.'

Straighshooter Roll will be firing with a dead eye in the two remaining contests, South Central here tomorrow and Mapleton there a week later. And, out of the corner of his eye, looking for another target in Game No. 11 on Nov. 11.

Ten starters in swan song before home crowd tomorrow when Trojans seek upset

Plymouth's second longest consecutive interscholastic football rivalry will be renewed in Mary Fate park tomorrow when South Central comes to play on Robert A. Lewis Memorial field.

The Trojans were predicted to be in the thick of the fight for the southern division championship in the Firelands conference this year but it didn't pan out that way.

Coach William Lewis has had his problems, including injuries to key players.

South Central has won eight of the 17 contests between the two schools, which date from Sept. 11, 1961, when South Central won by 38 to 6.

Last season the Trojans prevailed by 27 to 12.

Two players with Plymouth roots are outstanding figures on the South Central team.

One of them is Darrel Hale, who transferred to Greenwich school just before the beginning of the 1982 season, after he was counted upon in the Big Red secondary.

The other is a Tuttle, this one named Mike, a big, 225-pounder who runs at fullback and who whacked the daylights out of Plymouth's forward wall last season.

Eric Dendinger is the other running threat of the Tro; jans. A 12th grader, he scales only 150 and stands only five feet six inches. But big things often come in small packages and Dendinger is one prize example. He ran for 100 yards against Crestview last season in the first half alone.

The quarterback is Steve Lewis, the coach's son, a big, gangly kid with a good head (his grades are superior) and a desire to excel to the point that he gets no static at the dinner table.

Hale is a slotback.

Defensively, the Trojans haven't been so formidable as in seasons past.

Coach Lewis has had to replace 14 starters, including all but two on defense.

The tackles, as is the custom at South Central, are big, strong and fast. These are John Weatherbie, who weighs 240, and Joe Villareal, who was credited with 123 tackles last season. Tony Tackett, an 11th grader who scales 190, is the relief man.

Mark Wireman plays tight end on offense and end on defense. He weighs 210, stands six feet two, and has three seasons of experience.

Brad Music, another in a long line of Musics, will alternate with Dave Klinger at the other end.

This team hasn't won so many games but it can be tough and South Central would rather beat Plymouth than eat. Well, almost.

Game time is 8 p.m.

It will be Parents' night.

Parents, and guardians, of footballers, cheerleaders and musicians will be recognized in a pre-game ceremony. Parents should report to the west goalposts at 6:45 p.m.

A reception for band parents will take place in the old gymnasium immediately after the game. This is for parents of all musicians in grades five through 12.

Five seek school posts — master councilor of Independence Chapter, a state officer and, in 1981-82, officer-of-the-year. In 1983 the JayCees chose him as an Outstanding Young Men in America.

The board of education's votes on most issues are unanimous, he says. He doesn't think this ought to be the case. Members ought to put more thought into such as bus purchases. "It's sometimes better to pay a little more for a bus and have it last longer," he observes.

Gifted pupils ought to be challenged more than they are now, he believes. And he agrees with the recent Bible class decision. "The Bible ought to be in the library but not taught as a subject."

Donald L. Barnthouse, who was appointed complete who was appointed to complete the term of the Rev. Arthur Hamman, is the only candidate for that vacancy.

Funny ideas about driving

By AUNT LIZ

This is the time that there are all sorts of "How to Drive in the Winter".

The best I can dream up is summed up in one word, DON'T.

If you must, though, there really are some good ideas.

First, be sure your gas tank is full. It would be embarrassing to have some one push you out of a snowbank only to find you can't go any place at all because the gas gauge is on empty.

Secondly, stash a few tasty candy bars in the glove compartment on which to munch while waiting for help. Be sure you replace them after munching so you have them for the next time around.

Thirdly, fill a thermos with hot coffee, which you can graciously offer to those who pitch in to help you. It would be thoughtful if you also have cups, sugar, powdered cream and spoons. You will be considered a very gracious hostess...in a snowbank.

Fourth, have change which you can offer for the use of a telephone in the middle of nowhere. Because people can be so nice, they will refuse your money, which will make them feel good, and you haven't lost a cent.

Fifth, keep a couple of good pocket editions in your car which will while away the time waiting for help. Anything on safe winter driving is desirable or how to keep cool when the temperature zooms upward.

Sixth, once you get home arrange your day so you can call everyone you know and tell what a terrible thing just happened to you. You will enjoy it to no end, and your tale will get better and more disastrous as you tell it. Your friends will be impressed and they will tell the ones you missed. By then it will be worth writing a book.

Once you're safely home and it is all a memory, turn your oven on and bake something. This will warm you up and fill you up.

It's for an applesauce cake and is very old, probably came with the third boat of settlers to this country, and has been passed down among New England families. Modified a little, because they did not have the things to cook with that we do. They used chicken fat for shortening, so we can be grateful for the changes.

Stir a teaspoon of baking soda into a cup of applesauce, add a half cup of cooking oil and a cup of sugar. In another bowl mix one and a fourth cups of flour with a dash of salt, a teaspoon of nut-meg and a fourth of a teaspoon of ground cloves.

Mix.

Then add a cup of ground raisins, a fourth of a cup of chopped nuts and a small jar of maraschino cherries, chopped.

Bake at 350 degrees in a square pan for about an hour.

Powdered sugar can be sprinkled over the top while it is still warm.

A daughter was born Oct. 19 in Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital, Norwalk, to Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Vanderpool.

Three couples seek to marry

Kenneth Sturgill, 33 West High street, and Paula K. Kreitmeyer, Shelby, have applied in Richland county probate court for a license to marry.

Nephew of William R. Miller, Michael J. Sherck, Willard, a railroad employee, and Alison A. LePontois, Willard, a factory employee, have applied in Huron county probate court for a license to marry.

So have Gregory M. Brown, Shiloh, a laborer, and Melinda S. Sexton, Plymouth, pupil.

Mmes. Paul Stoodt, Roy W. Carter, Arthur Nordyke, Charles Williams and Carol Bisel attended the workshop in First United Presbyterian church, Loudonville, Thursday.

All about town . . .

Mrs. Thomas DeWitt and Mrs. Otto Curpen visited the herb display at Kingwood Center, Mansfield, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Levering spent Sunday with their dauhhter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Gillespie, Lexington.

Mrs. Darrell B. Faust spent the weekend in Columbus with her daughter and son-in-law, the Woodrow Combses. Their son, Brant, a student in Miami university, where he is enrolled in a premedical course, was also there for the weekend. Mrs. Faust returned last week from a two week visit with another daughter and son-in-law, the George Kaufmanns, Bellevue, Wash.

The Larry Taylors and Mark Sheelys exchanged homes over the weekend. The Taylors will live in the former Sheely house at 32 Trux street until their new home in Plymouth East road is raised.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

On Tuesday, for incumbents

For nearly 30 years, our attitude, nay, out posture, has always been, "Retain those in public office who've done a good job, but turn the rascals out!"

Absolutely no one, and we state this without fear of contradiction, has watched elections in Plymouth over three decades closer than this newspaper.

It speaks with long experience and a memory that is almost as good as a computer's.

It remembers a mayor who appropriated for himself a valuable piece of furniture, uncopied anywhere in the world, unique as well because of its local connection, and spirited it off to God-knows-where.

It remembers a mayor who "borrowed" mayor's court funds for personal use and was compelled to resort to obtaining personal loans from two benefactors, one now dead, the other dying, in order to square accounts or face exposure by a village officer who, even in old age, remains the most faithful public servant in Plymouth history.

It remembers a mayor whose matches with John Barleycorn were so monumental, so devasting, that the mayor and spouse were unable to attend a special dinner arranged in their home by a respectable family of the village.

It remembers a mayor who forced the village into public humiliation for no good reason save that it "would show the council who's boss".

It remembers a mayor who by methods still resented by some citizens concocted a string of accusations against a faithful, albeit unsophisticated, village employee to the point that he was compelled to seek the support of the courts to obtain relief.

The incumbent is still learning. There are some good things to say about his approach to the job. He understands that it is not he who makes policy, nor even cracks the whip, but the village council. He affords the village council ample, sometimes too much, time to mull over what's proposed to be done and to take action.

Which is to say that it's safe to reelect him. Pay no mind to the idle stories that he'll light out for Wayne county as soon as he sells his house. Until he proves otherwise, or there is sufficient reason to disbelieve him, he should be taken at his word.

An incumbent should be reelected when he has met the test. Mr. Cline has done so and merits a vote of support.

The incumbent clerk has performed in the job with greater skill than anyone since Carl V. Ellis. He should be given a full term.

Both counties seek health levies.

It appears to us that each merits support. The cost is small, the benefits in proportion to the costs to each household are correspondingly large. Vote FOR the health levies.

We have said many times that vocational education as it is now organized is not our cup of tea and we don't think it ought to be sustained. And we have in the past counseled our friends and neighbors to vote against taxes for Pioneer Joint Vocational school. This they have done, consistently.

Purpose of the levy of Tuesday is chiefly to pay for repairs. The building is there. It needs to be maintained. Perhaps some day, when we realize what a waste vocational education really is, we can use the building for another purpose. On this argument, we think a vote FOR the levy is in order.

Fight at Shiloh leads to arrest of two men

A fracas in Shiloh Laundromat resulted in arrests of two men who will be heard Wednesday in Shelby Municipal court.

Police report shows Susan Faulkner, 20, Pettit street, told police Hicks came into the Laundromat and chased her and a friend, Renee Sheena Adkins, 20, 31 North Delaware street.

How many need meals delivered to home?

Is there a need in Plymouth and Shiloh for a "Meals on Wheels" program for those who are housebound?

Ecumenical council has appointed the Rev. Thomas R. Hoover, pastor of First United Methodist church, Sister Mary Kuhlman and Miss Delores Bettac as a committee to seek names of those who need the help.

If there is a sufficient number, a program will be established.

Mrs. Priest, 89, long villager, dies at Willard

Mrs. Golda Idell Priest, 89, West Broadway, died Tuesday morning in Hillside Acres Nursing home, Willard, of a brief illness.

Born in Ashland county Nov. 30, 1893, she was the daughter of Thomas and Violet Rice Grafton. She married Guy Priest in November, 1919. He died in May, 1963.

Mrs. Priest engaged in the sale of real estate in and near Plymouth for many years and was also a breeder of German shepherds.

She is survived by a daughter, Monica, now Mrs. David H. Bachrach, Oakland, Cal., two grandsons and a granddaughter and five great-grandchildren.

Who flung missile into windshield of Arthur?

A 38-year-old Plymouth driver told Richland county sheriff's deputies Sunday at 1:53 p.m. that his windshield was shattered in London East road when an unknown person threw an object into it.

Damage amounted to $100, it was reported.

The driver was Jack W. Arthur, 413 Plymouth street.

His face was slightly cut.

The object was a chunk of concrete.

Profit 13 cents, or $504,157, for quarter, Banner says

Profit of 13 cents a share, or $504,157, was realized during its first quarter ended Sept. 30, Banner Industries, Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., reports.

This net income compares with a loss of 27 cents a share during the same period last year.

Net sales amounted to $25,073,463. A year ago they were $43,196,878.

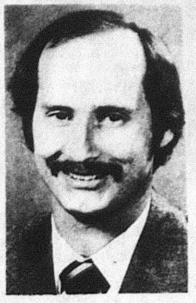

Reason for the turnabout: improved earnings of the aviation group and a deep cut in the losses of the motor freight division.

Cline-Fazio mayoral race headlines Tuesday ballot

MAYOR CLINE

CHALLENGER FAZIO

A race for mayor, marked by some innovations in politics campaigning in Plymouth, and a race for clerk-treasurer highlight Tuesday's election, in addition to a contest among four persons for two seats on the board of education.

Incumbent Mayor Dean A. Cline, 32, 92 Sandusky street, is opposed by former Mayor William Fazio, 60, 329 Willow drive.

Incumbent Clerk-Treasurer John Fazzini, who lives at East Main street, faces opposition from Mrs. Benjamin Montgomery, nee Bobbie Metcalfe, a former clerk-treasurer, like Fazzini appointed to the job by the then mayor.

Mrs. Terry Jump, 36, 139 Maple strret, and incumbent Councilman Billy T. Taulbee, Curtis drive, are unopposed for two seats as councilmen.

Donald R. Barnthouse is unopposed for member of Plymouth Board of Education to complete the term of the Rev. Arthur Hamman, resigned, because he moved from the district, to which Barnthouse was appointed by the board.

For the two other seats, candidates are Mrs. Robert Sponseller, incumbent Charles Reinhart, Martin McKenzie and David Gillum.

Thomas Shaarda, Jr., is unopposed for reelection as trustee of New Haven township. So is Calvin Wadsworth, seeking reelection as clerk.

Contests for two seats in Plymouth township will be settled Tuesday.

Mark H. Baldridge and Charles E. Miller, the incumbent, seek to trustee.

Joseph H. Lasch, incumbent clerk, is upposed by Richard Russell.

The race between Cline and Fazio has been marked by accusations that should the incumbent be elected, since he has his house for sale and in employed at Wooster, to which he commutes five days a week, he is likely to resign his post shortly after a sale may be consummated, leaving the president pro tempore of the council, who may very well be someone who has never submitted his name to the electorate, to succeed him. Cline was at pains last week to deny the accusation

"It's true that my house is for sale. That's no crime, is it? If I can sell it, for what I consider to be a fair price, I plan to locate my family elsewhere in Plymouth until I can resolve a housing situation for my wife and two children," he told The Advertiser.

For the first time in history, a champaign headquarters has been opened by a mayoral candidate. Fazio has obtained the former quarters of Hill's Jewelry in Sandusky street and receives electors there for coffee and conversation.

Some hangers-on in the village hall allege that Fazio has said he will, if elected:

1. Break the "oppressive" water contract with Willard.
2. Clean house in the police department.
3. Shape up the village employees.

In statements for publication, neither candidate is controversial.

Cline says the village needs industry and points to the fact that during his administration an industrial park was established near the water plant and Tri-County Asphalt, Inc., will occupy it.

He says that for the first time the village is with some force teeking state and federal grants for sewer and water improvements and a federal grant to improve housing in a sector bounded by Mills avenue, Railroad street, West High street, McDonough street, Nichols street, Beelman street and Riggs street.

Cline is a 1972 alumnus of Plymouth High school who attends North Central Technical college. He is employed by American Augers, Inc., Wooster, as a project engineer.

He is married to the former Percilla Thornsberry, Willard, and they have a young daughter and a newborn son.

Fazio was born and reared in Plymouth. He was graduated in

Hamptons reunite for Trojan game

Not in a decade has there been so many Hamptons in one place at one time as at Robert A. Lewis Memorial field Friday night.

The Hampton brothers, each of them a varsity footballer during his time, assembled to watch the latest Hampton, son of one of them and nephew of the three others, play for the Big Red in his last home game.

Rodney Hampton, lefthanded quarterback of the Big Red, is the son of Roger Hampton, who played in 1953 as fullback on offense and linebacker on defense. Roger came from Macon, Ga. with his wife.

Larry Hampton, who played on the first 11-man team in 1948, came from Vermilion with his wife and a cousin, James Hampton, Lorain.

Marty Hampton, Mansfield, played on the 1955 team. He set the school record of 435 yards total yardage in a single game. He was halfback on offense and a linebacker on defense.

Daryl, or Mickey, as he was known then, was a member of the most successful team Plymouth has ever had, that of 1956, which won seven, lost nine and tied one. He was all-Ohio selection as a linebacker. He played in the offensive line and was an excellent placekicker.

He insisted Friday that team of 27 seasons back was Plymouth's best. Nephew Rodney disputes that and promises to prove it come Nov. 11.

Turkey dinner Nov. 19

Plans are underway for the annual Boosters' club turkey dinner Nov. 19.

The dinner will be served from 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Elementary school.

Tickets are $4.50 for adults, $4 for those 65 years or older, $3.50 for pupils, $2.50 for children six to 11 years, free for pre-schoolers.

Carry-out orders will be available.

She is Mrs. J. Max Fidler.

The Fidlers' son, John M., is serving in the USS Guam, which was scheduled to leave two weeks ago from Norfolk, Va., for the Near East.

When the Grenada crisis arose, the ship was made part of the task force sent to the Caribbean.

Fidler is serving as an aviation second class storekeeper.

Ex-villagers held in Medina shooting

Two former Plymouth residents are in the Medina city jail as the result of a shooting incident in Medina Community hospital Oct. 24.

The James Greathouses, who formerly lived in North street, brought their nine-year-old daughter to the hospital's emergency room, asking for drugs to treat the child.

When hospital personnel noticed that the child appeared to be abused, they tried to detain them until a welfare worker arrived. Greathouse then produced a gun, which he pointed at the doctor. The gun fired when the doctor tried to wrestle it from him, the bullet striking the ceiling.

The Greathouses then fled. Later that day they were sighted by the state highway patrol near Seville and they were placed under arrest.

The car contained a cache of drugs. So did their house in North Fairfield which was searched later by Huron county deputies.

The charges against the two will be presented to the Medina county grand jury this month.

The child has been placed in the custody of the Huron county welfare department. The parents remain in jail because they were unable to post bond.

Greathouse was convicted of drug abuse offenses when he lived here.

Seven accused get delays

Charges in two cases were dropped and those in seven others continued when Mayor Dean A. Cline conducted his court Oct. 25.

The arresting officer dropped charges against David L. Bolen, 8 Mill street, in which he was accused of resisting arrest. Bolen pleaded not guilty by letter to a charge of assault, which was dropped by the complainant.

Charges of criminal trespass and intoxication were continued to Nov. 8.

Accusations of drunken driving, excessive speed and eluding an officer against Bruce G. Sams will be heard Nov. 8.

Charges of assault against Donald W. Arnett, Plymouth, will be heard Nov. 8.

Daniel R. Baker, Greenwich, accused of criminal damaging at the post office, were continued to Nov. 8. He pleaded not guilty.

Disposition of other cases: Buford Sexton, Plymouth, no operator's license, no contest, fined $130; Charlie Robinson, Plymouth, carrying a concealed weapon, no contest, fined $500, fine suspended on condition of no similar violations for one year;

Also, Alice D. Hanline, Plymouth, speeding, $13; Sharon E. Nieder, Plymouth, speeding, $14; Douglas A. Porter, Reynoldsburg, speeding, $25; Maxine Reed, Willard, speeding, $10; William F. Banks, Mansfield, speeding, $12; Sheree L. Trimmer, Willard, speeding, $12.

An old diver says, 'Make sauerbraten!'

By AUNT LIZ

The post office has come up with something very nice, and for once it is free.

It is "pushing" the Olympic stamps. The idea is that you buy them to save and not use them to mail anything, which makes work for them.

What they are passing out is a beautifully printed pamphlet advertising the stamps, but they happily threw in something really interesting.

Everyone knows they started out a few centuries ago in Greece, but what I did not know is that they got revived in 1896 after they had died out for hundreds of years. I guess that was when they were all too busy throwing good athletes to lions for Sunday entertainment.

There are 25 events in all, some summer and some winter. Nine of them were included in 1896 and the rest added over the years.

The newest is volleyball, which came into vogue in 1964.

What is most interesting is that it took the girls years to make it, and they apparently broke down and recognized us.

Diving for men started in 1904, but the women didn't stand a chance to show their skills until 1920, and everyone who has watched it all on television surely know that women are better, more curvy and graceful.

If any man reads this, he will say, "She is prejudiced." Sure I am. I cannot dive decently at all and right now I am not going back to try, but I sure taught a lot of kids to do swans, back flips, jack knifes and such, and they were good. Even though my legs did not stay together and I would really belly flop, there is nothing like sliding into water. It is one of those really rare sensations.

Canoeing is another thing that is rather new. Men got started in 1936 and women in 1948. I can remember the last time around when kayaks were going in rapids, which was scary, but they did it, and those people even if they lost should have been wined and dined for even trying.

No doubt they were, and probably had the real thing, not this.

It is a flaked up recipe for sauerbraten with ground beef and not a beautiful expensive roast, and not bad at all.

Grate three yellow apples so you have one cup. Mix with a pound and half of meat. Add a half cup of soft bread crumbs, a fourth of a cup of chopped onion, one egg, some salt, pepper, a fourth of a teaspoon thyme.

Make it all into little balls and brown in a little cooking oil.

Have ready a mixture of a cup of water, two tablespoons of vinegar, a solid tablespoon of brown sugar, a fourth of a cup of crushed ginger snaps.

Pour this over the browned meatballs and bring to a boil, simmer them for about 20 minutes.

While doing this, you can add apple wedges, which will decorate it all.

While it is simmering, do rice or noodles to ladle it over.

This should be good for four healthy servings. What is left over can simply be reheated for another meal and will probably taste even better, since it has "aged".

Now that you saved a small fortvne with this version, trot to the post office and buy your kids those stamps, which they will treasure 50 years from now and pass down to their children. They will not be worth anything because so many are printed, but it is the fun of it all. Maybe they might be if they are saved for about a thousand years.

During its 15 years of operation, Pioneer Joint Vocational School has graduated 6368 young men or women — 521 from Plymouth alone. At present 76 juniors and seniors from Plymouth are attending Pioneer.

Placement records show that about 92% of these graduates found jobs, started their own business, or qualified for further education.

Clearly, Pioneer does provide its students a "salable skill" and area businessmen depend on Pioneer graduates to fill job openings.

The one-mill levy is badly needed to meet current operating expenses, provide building maintenance, and purchase new educational equipment. (For lack of funds, no new educational equipment has been purchased for the past two years.)

According to this clerk, it will cost the average taxpayer less than 3¢ more per day to pay for the levy, or less than the cost of a tank of gasoline per year:

Pioneer is your vocational school. It helps your youngsters get jobs and become well-adjusted, productive citizens.

After sluggish first half —

Red tramples South Central

After a sluggish first half, during which it was outplayed by South Central, albeit not outscored, Plymouth capitalized on a controversial officials' decision to build sufficient momentum to pound out a 21 to 0 Firelands conference victory and set a new school record for wins in a single season here Friday night.

Plymouth led by 7 to 0 when the Trojans, who spent the entire first half in Plymouth territory — the Big Red did not once advance into South Central's side of the field on its own steam during the first 24 minutes — and showed a strong running attack, obtained possession at the their 44 after a 23-yard punt by Darren Branham.

In 13 plays, which included a 15-yard and two five yard assessments against the Big Red, the visitors were at the Plymouth two, with fourth down.

Mike Tuttle, the huge fullback, took the handoff from Steve Lewis and poked into the left side of his line. He pushed toward the final stripe and his head and shoulders penetrated the plane over the goal. The head linesman raised his arms to signal touchdown.

But the referee, Ed Sauers, and his crew huddled and decided that Tuttle's knees hit the ground just an inch short of the last marker. Plymouth was saved, despite the protests of Trojan Coach Bill Lewis, who called for time out to remonstrate with Sauers and his staff.

The half ended just eight seconds later.

When it did, the Trojans were clearly the aggressors and deserved to win. In 43 plays, they had managed eight first downs and 103 yards rushing. They didn't and couldn't pass a lick. They had no completions in five tries and indeed went 0-for-6 during the entire game. Plymouth, meanwhile, had managed just two first downs, 19 yards by rushing and 17 by passing, with one completion in five efforts.

When the Big Red kicked off the visitors set out like a prairie fire. Eric Dendinger, who gained 51 yards in 15 carries for his night's work, ripped through right tackle for eight yards. Then Tuttle hit left tackle for 10 and a first down. But he fumbled, Plymouth recovered, a penalty against South Central was declined and the Big Red set out from the Trojan 38.

Richard Cunningham got four, Mike McKenzie made 14 in three straight assaults and Cunningham managed two through right guard. McKenzie added another to the 17 and on second down, Rodney Hampton, whose father, Roger, and uncles, Larry, Marty and Mickey, were here for the game, found Co-Capt. Tom Baker at the flag for a 17-yard gain.

The line judge ruled that Baker stepped out less than five inches from the goal line.

On first down, Plymouth was penalized five yards. On first down, again, McKenzie hit left tackle and squeezed out a bare yard. Then on second down the doughty McKenzie cracked off tackle for four yards and the score. His kick for PAT was good. The clock read 7:53.

Whatever it was that Coach Richard Roll said to his team during the halftime recess, he ought to bottle it and offer it at retail.

Because Plymouth came out with his mane bristling and a burr under its saddle.

South Central kicked off and the Big Red marched 66 yards in nine plays for the second touchdown, which came at 7:55 of the third period.

It was a matter of McKenzie and Cunningham pounding through the South Central forward wall.

McKenzie gained 30 yards and Cunningham the remainder as the Red offense simply took the initiative and got off the ball faster and cleaner than the Trojans did.

Cunningham contributed two long gainers, one of 10 yards and the critical one, a 20-yard shot through left tackle in which he shook off tacklers like an angry bull tormented by wasps. This gave Plymouth first down at the Trojan 10, whereupon on first down McKenzie ran around his right end to the end zone.

His kick for PAT was good.

The Plymouth defense against the run, which leaked like a colander during the first half, closed up and performed with high credit during the second half. It limited the vaunted South Central running attack to just 44 yards in the final 25 minutes, and the last six of those was with the second string on the field.

The defense, which has produced so many opportunities for Plymouth's record-setting season of 8-and-1, glittered like a rajah's jewel during the third quarter.

Steve Jamerson intercepted Steve Lewis's pass (he is the son of the Trojan coach) at the Red 39 to stop the first possession by South Central during the second half.

Although Plymouth put together two first downs and penetrated to the Trojan 36, Cunningham's fumble was recovered by the visitors and the defense went at it again.

This time it produced the maximum result.

On third down, after Tuttle had been limited to four yards in two shots, he hit left tackle. The ball squirted loose and Chad McGinnis, in his final game before home fans, scooped it up and darted 38 yards to the end zone for the final score. McKenzie's kick was again good.

South Central disdained the punt in the first three series of the game and by doing so cowed the Plymouth defense, because the Trojans were able to produce a running play that more than made first down. By contrast, Plymouth's kicking in the first half was not good enough to hold South Central off. Although Darren Branham's average was 23 yards on three boots during the first half, there was one kick that carried only 13 yards.

His only punt in the second half was good for 47 yards, a tremendous boot that set the Trojans back to their 34. Plymouth sacked Lewis for 12 yards and forced them to go for first down on the fifth play of the series. Tuttle fell inches short and Plymouth was out of trouble.

Steve Jamerson punted one, for 29 yards, later in the fourth period.

McKenzie carried 19 times for 91 yards, Cunningham 12 times for 63 yards. Plymouth's passing game was not a considerable factor. Hampton and Troy Keene, his relief and probable successor next year, got off just seven during the game, completing three, for just 29 yards.

This was the defense's night to howl and its success in the last half rescued it from what surely would have been the humiliation of a decade had the Trojans' second half been anything like what the first half was.

Both coaches agreed that the officials' decision with eight seconds left in the first half changed the impetus of the contest. Lewis, who still thinks his player scored, said South Central's momemtum and enthusiasm drained on that play. Roll admitted his team took encouragement and "played much better after that".

Plymouth has a match with Mapleton at Polk tomorrow and then a return engagement with Edison, this time at Norwalk, on Veterans' day. The Chargers are still licking their wounds after the bruising struggle with the Big Red at Milan on Sept. 30, when they wore down a tired but dogged Plymouth team in the final period by scoring 18 points. Plymouth realized its role of underdog but is determined to capitalize on it.

Adams, J.

'It looks now that we won't score enough points to get into the playoffs for the state Division V championships but we're in the Firelands conference championship and we're going to beat Edison this time! If it is Edison, that is.'

Adams, J., is a distinguished name in American, and Ohio, history.

Adams, setital, second president of the United States, unfortunately labored under the shadow of his famous predecessor, George Washington. History has not accorded him the greatness that is his entitlement. Yet he was perhaps the most profound thinker and best delineator of the procepts of American liberty and constitutional government of the 18th century. He left the presidency after a single term in 1801 and died on Independence day in 1826, within a few hours of his friend and colleague, Thomas Jefferson.

Adams, J., setital, was born to federal service. After a distinguished diplomatic career, he was chosen the sixth president of the United States, the first — and only — by a special commission because the established procedure came up empty.

And Adams, J., is an equally distinguished name in Plymouth football history.

There have been three of them, although one, the current one, is a kind of misnomer.

The first was James. The second was the late Jay. The present one is Donald, who responds to Junior. And all three followed the oldest brother, Robert, who still serves the school district as bus driver and habitually drives the conveyance of players to away games.

Adams, J., is the specialist in charge of offense and of defense on the right side of the Big Red line.

And this despite a game knee — he turned it again Friday night, when Plymouth came alive in the second half and overwhelmed South Central in as tough a battle as Plymouth has had all season, a season that set a school record for victories at eight and has won for the Big Red the championship of the southern division of the Firelands conference.

Plymouth will play for all the marbles at Norwalk Nov. 11 against the winner of tomorrow's clash between Edison and Western Reserve.

Save that the appellation has been prompted by another, perhaps greater, athlete, he might well be called Dr. J.

Junior Adams is the biggest stalwart in the Red forward wall. He scales a few pounds over 200. He plans to wrestle with the Plymouth varsity when football has died down, and he'll do so "either in the 195-pound class or the heavyweight class' depending on what Coach Roll thinks we've got in the other classification."

His number is 77, the same number-made famous over half a century ago by the Wheaton Iceman, Red Grange, who led Illinois to a fabulous conquest of mighty Michigan in 1925.

Opponents think he may be another Grange, incofar as he dominates the line of scrimmage.

Already a letter winner — he matured a bit later than some of his classmates, who've won two letters, and two of them who've won three — he has already qualified for a second one.

But he'd rather qualify for two consective victories.

"It looks now that we won't score enough points to get into the playoffs for the state Division V championships but we're in the Firelands conference champion; ships and we're going to beat Edison this time around. If it is Edison, that is."

Adams, J., has some deep-set ideas about football and how it ought to be played, taught and watched.

On the unbalanced line: "It depends on what kind of people you have. It takes more time to teach two assignments than it does one. And not everybody learns at the same pace. Also, the size and speed of your linemen, and the number of linemen, make a difference. I admit that it's harder to play standard defense against an unbalanced line, which is what Edison uses. We haven't used it since I've played at Plymouth and I don't think we've suffered any."

On a pupil trainer: "I think it would be a good idea. And I don't think it would make any difference if the trainer is a boy or a girl, so long as the trainer is trained. If it's a girl, she can come and go in the dressing room all right; we don't have to parade around in our birthday suits if that upsets her. What's important is that a trainer who's been to school knows all about taping, maybe more than a coach knows, and how to massage a sore muscle and what to do about bruises and aches and pains and how to regulate the whirlpool and such, and this would let the coach go free to do what he's supposed to do, teach and coach and show the players how to do it."

On the proposed new eligibilty rules, to be submitted to principals by referendum by the OHSAA: "They're all right but at the start there will be a need for some special tutoring. Some players will need help to get passing grades in all subjects and even more help to get Cs in all subjects. I don't know specifically how many of our players would need it, or if any would, but taking all players that I know here and in other schools, I'd think some of them would need some help to get their grades up to where they need to be. If the tutor is a teacher that'd be fine but if it's a pupil, the tutor would have to be a pupil that the players respect as a friend and as a smart person."

On enthusiasm and mental preparation for the game: "Getting yourself ready to play the best you can, the best you know how, is what it's all about. We weren't ready to play Edison, not in the first period, anyway, and we certainly weren't ready to play South Central in the first half here last night. You've got to be ready. It's the coaches' duty to get the players ready, but they can only do so much. If the players don't want to get ready, they can't play the game the way it ought to be played."

On why Plymouth's squad is much smaller, numerically, than say, South Central's or Monroeville's each school having smaller enrollment than Plymouth: "They've had some winning seasons. We haven't. The players will turn out when they have a hope of winninh and when they have a hope of playing. It's a lot more fun for the whole squad now because we get a lead and the game is locked up and some of the younger players and smaller boys can get to play. Did you see how some of them did against South Central? And against Black River? If next year's team can win more than it loses, then we'll have to get more uniforms because they'll turn out to fill 'em."

On the Adams contribution to Plymouth football: "My brothers and I played as hard as we could or we can and we did it and we do it as team players. I'm the last Adams for now. But I've got a nephew, a boy named Billy Castle, who's playing junior high ball right now, and he'll carry on for us Adamses."

On community acceptance and appreciation: "Lots of people come to the games when we're winning. Not so many come when we're not winning. We're the same boys, win or lose. There ought to be more than parents out to games, whether we win or we lose."

On tough opponents: "Toughest player I've faced all year is that No. 52 from Monroeville (Steve Smith, co-captain of the Eagles). Those tackles at Edison are pretty tough and Weatherbie and Villareal were sure tough last night. But that No. 52 from Monroeville, he's something else. Or he was against us."

On what he wants to do with himself: "I expect to graduate, get my diploma and probably go into military service, the Army, I think. But I'm not sure what specialty I want to choose, not yet, anyway."

On how Plymouth will conduct itself for the remainder of the season: "We'll play hard and we'll play to win. We'll beat Mapleton and we know that if it's Edison, we'll have our hands full, but we won't have ourselves beat before the opening kickoff. This time we'll be ready for them. Stop their straight ahead running game and you can beat Edison. One team did it. Why can't we? That's our challenge."

Adams, J., as the Adamses, J., before him, thrives on challenge. He'll seek to infect the others of the Big Red with that attitude.

Cline vs. Fazio, Fazzini vs. Montgomery races on

1941 and served thereafter in the Army. He worked for 31 years with the General Services administration before he retired in 1982. Several times a grandfather, he has served twice as mayor, once from 1960 to 1963 and one from 1968 to 1971. He was turned out as mayor in favor of Luther R. Fetters 20 years ago because, he said "the people obviously don't like my efforts to dismiss Russell J, Moser as superintendent of utilities."

Fazio ran as a Democrat in Huron county, then almost as foolhardy as seeking to stand on one's head atop the Empire State building, for representative to the General Assembly in 1963. The incumbent, Harry V. Jump, a Republican, won in a landslide. Fazio won only two precincts and failed to carry even his own.

He says the village needs "revamping", a fact he has implied in at least two written public communications. He wants the village to take over Mary Fate Park pool. He says the bankruptcy procedure forced by then mayor Eric J. Akers in 1980 was unnecessary and should not have occurred. He says he would try to "rejuvenate" the village by enticing new business to come here.

Fazzini retired as superintendent of Plymouth Local School district after a lifetime of teaching and supervising in public education. He is married and the father of three daughters, all married.

Mrs. Montgomery's husband is a truck driver. They reside at 215 Sandusky street.

Mrs. Jump, whose husband is superintendent of electrical services, has two children of her own and two step-children. This is her first political race, although previously she filed a nominating petition, only to be disqualified because she had not resided here long enough.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

The young mothers of the village are to be complimented.

Every child, and we had almost 200, who came to our door, held his Trick or Treat bags out for our small offering.

And every blessed one said, "Thank you".

They must have had a little coaching from some place. It certainly was a joy to hear those words.

The costumes were lovely, too. A lot of work went into them, and perhaps next year there might be a parade on the Square, such as we had years ago, so they can really show them off.

We have no idea who the little Pumpkin was, but she certainly was cute. We guessed it was a little girl, because boys do not have such shapely legs.

Thank you all for coming to our house.

P.S. And we didn't have a window soaped this year. Thank you very much for that!

Hodge appointed police chief

Acting Police Chief Frank Hodge was formally named to the position Tuesday night by Mayor Dean A. Cline.

He will, as required by law, serve a six month probationary period.

Hodge has been a member of the Plymouth police department for close to eight years. He came here after serving a year in Shiloh until that village could no longer pay for local police protection.

He worked over a year on the CETA program and then was hired parttime as an officer until an opening and funding were available to put him on full time.

Cline named him to the position when former Police Chief Robert Conley went on involuntary leave after being accused of assaulting his estranged wife.

In other action, the council listened intently to John Hoffman, a guest of Councilman Roy Barber, who had been asked to explain the Explorer Boy Scout program which can involve boys from 14 to 20 years of age in volunteer police and fire department duties which might lead them to follow careers in those fields.

Two arrested at Shiloh

Charges of trespass were laid against two men Nov. 1 after they were allegedly seen on the roof of Shiloh Elementary school.

A neighbor reported to Richland county sheriff's deputies that Dewayne Deskins, 22, 39 High street, Shiloh, and Hubert Cole, 18, West Main street, Shiloh, were atop the building. When deputies arrived, the men fled. Deputies gave chase and apprehended the men, said to have had tomatoes in their pockets.

Whether his candidacy for a post on Plymouth Board of Education was an issue in the vandalism against his car while he was driving it is something David R. Gillum, Free road, Shiloh, will probably never know. He told deputies he was approaching Caster road when an occupant of a southbound vehicle overtook him and threw a missle into his windshield, cracking it in several places.

Deputies said the missile was a balloon filled with water.

Ruby J. Sparkman, 39 High street, Shiloh, reported to police that vandals threw eggs on her car, parked at her home, some time before Nov. 2 at 12:30 a.m.

Driver, 24, in hospital after crash

A 24-year-old Plymouth route 1 man was taken to Mansfield General hospital in fair condition Friday after his car went off the right side of Route 61 north of London West road and struck a tree at 10:10 p.m.

Bryon S. Gayheart, West road, received multiple injuries and burns of the back.

Rouser today!

A gymnasium rouser to send the Big Red off to Norwalk with community enthusiasm will be conducted today at 7 p.m. in Plymouth High school.

Admission is free.

High school band will play, Coach Richard Roll will speak briefly, cheerleaders will direct some special yells and the entire football team will be present.

School board to meet Monday

Plymouth Board of Education will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Charles Rhine armory in Sandusky street.

'Cyclists injured in freak mishap

A 26-year-old Plymouth man is in University hospital, Columbus, with severe injuries received Sunday at 12:55 a.m. in Route 603 a mile southeast of Shiloh.

He is Kenneth Cutright, 140 Plymouth street, operator of a motorcycle whose exhaust system dragged on the pavement at a curve and forced the vehicle off the road. Cutright and his passenger, Donita Buchanan, 20, Apartment 1, 25 Plymouth street (when admitted to Mansfield General hospital, she gave her address as 54 Mulberry street), were thrown off the motorcycle.

He was taken to Mansfield and transferred. She remained in General hospital for treatment of a bruised kidney. He has multiple injuries and third degree burns on his back.

Churches ask for names of infirm needing meals

Ecumenical council is still seeking names of persons in Plymouth and Shiloh who wish to become part of "Meals on Wheels".

If there are enough, the council will institute the program within a few months.

Persons to call are Miss Delores Bettac, Tel. 687-9633; Sister Mary Kuhlman, Tel. 687-4611, or the Rev. Thomas R. Hoover, Tel. 687-9332.

Leaves? Bag 'em, village will call

Leaf collection in the village will be on and ad hoc basis, Administrator James C. Root says.

"We won't have any special schedule. Householders should bag their leaves in secure plastic or heavy paper containers and leave them at the kerb or beside the alley at the rear. We will collect the bags at no charge to the household."

Game tickets go on sale here

Ticket sale for tomorrow's championship game at Norwalk will continue today and tomorrow.

Pupil tickets may be obtained at the high school, the junior high and in Plymouth Elementary school at $1.50 each, through the close of school tomorrow.

Adult tickets at $2.50 each may be obtained at the high school today and tomorrow through the close of school.

Best route to the stadium:

Proceed east in East Main street to Baseline road, turn north (left) in New State road, continue to Norwalk.

Cross railroad tracks in Benedict avenue and turn east (right) at county jail. Proceed to end of street. Turn north (left) and continue across old Route 20 (East Main street) to fork in street. Take right fork and continue three blocks to street parking or four blocks to west edge of stadium. Public parking adjoins stadium.

Three arrested in fight here

Three Shelbians were arrested early Friday after a fight in front of Bob's Cafe.

Coaches' consensus: Chargers hard to beat

A poll oc coaches who've tangled with Edison's powerful Chargers finds none willing to say that Plymouth can or will defeat the league champions at Norwalk tomorrow.

But none wants to be identified and a pledge of secrecy was extended to each. Some of the coaches are not head mentors, it being impossible to reach some of them on a Sunday afternoon.

Consensus: "Edison can be beaten by a team that plays it right and has the right number and speed of horses, but there's no guarantee that Plymouth has the horses."

How can Edison be beaten?

Coach No. 1: "The game will be won in the trenches. Plymouth has got to bang heads with Edison in the line and to dominate the line of scrimmage. The Plymouth offense has to get off the ball faster than Edison defense, which is big and experienced. And the Plymouth defense has a man-sized job to contain the Edison running game."

Coach No. 2: "Edison will run straight at you all night. Springer and Ostheimer and Geres are big and fast but they wouldn't be much if it weren't for those tackles and guards. They're big, man. Don't worry too much about the passing game, although I suppose Edison can pass if it has to. But if you take it to 'em on the line and your linebackers hold Edison down to six yards on the first two plays, you've got a chance."

Coach No. 3: "Edison is stingy on defense. I think they've allowed the fewest number of points in league play of anybody. They showed how stingy they are against Plymouth the first time around. It won't get any better at Norwalk. They'll be ready, old Whit will see to that, and the big problem is how to handle those huge tackles and guards."

Coach No. 4: "You can run on Edison if you trap well and if you blow the tackle aside enough to let a fast back through. But the back has got to be fast! And I think you can pass on Edison. But you won't be able to pass much if you can't run on 'em. If I could have my druthers, I'd like to get seven or eight yards on the first two plays consistently (who wouldn't?) so I could play around on third down. The team that doesn't have to punt, or punt much, against Edison can win. But you'll know you've been in a ball game!"

Coach No. 5: "Don't minimize Taylor the quarterback. He's crafty and he can do the job. Brant and Landoll can play for anybody. They're tough on defense. And Dabrowski and Peschke and Cloward, they're all over 200 pounds and hard as nails! Ostheimer is as good on defense as he is on offense and if we had 10 like him on offense we'd be almost unbeaten."

Coach No. 6: "It's almost impossible to beat Edison. They've got numbers — you know without my telling you they're the largest school in the conference — and they've got size and experience. Plus they've got Whittington, who wasn't born yesterday, and he's got a fine staff, people who're good teachers and smart football people. Plus there's that tradition — they've won so many times they look on winning as second nature and they try to lock it up early so the second stringers can play. And those second stringers can play for most varsities in the league."

Coach No. 7: "If it comes down to kicking, watch out for Landoll. He's a fine kicker. And Edison is not above passing off the place kick formation. Landoll can throw and Taylor can catch it. Your man is a good coach but he doesn't have the experience of Whittington, who's won over 100 games and should win another 100 unless he gets tired of it all and quits, which is what he did once."

Coach No. 8: "Edison respects Plymouth now, which is more than it did when you played them the first time. The principal told me, 'I see now Plymouth is for real'. This doesn't help you any. You've got to score early and then hang on for dear life and hope you can keep them back and take up on a break, like a fumble. If the field is wet and sloppy, I feel sorry for you. They'll do well in that kind of going."

Coaches can be wrong, in the Firelands conference and elsewhere.

Nevertheless, it's clear Plymouth is an underdog in the championship contest. By how much? It's anybody's guess. Edison won't win by 33 points this time around, may not win at all.

Red wins No. 9

Stubborn Mapleton succumbs, 21 to 8

Stubborn resistance for the third consecutive week stymied Plymouth for one half at Polk Friday night but the Big Red righted itself to score twice in the third period and grind out a 21 to 8 victory over Mapleton.

The win established a school record for the Big Red. No Plymouth team has ever won nine games in a single season.

And long after the outcome was assured, Mike McKenzie stayed in the game to roll up enough rushing yardage to pass the 1,000-yard level. This he did with 28 carries and a net of 127 yards.

Mike Messer was the last Plymouth rusher to reach the 1,000-yard plateau.

Mapleton turned out to be a far more worthy foe than even the most sceptical Plymouth supporter anticipated.

The Mounties held Plymouth scoreless during the first period. They outgained the Big Red, 33 to 17 on the ground, 26 to 8 in the air.

Early in the second period, they thwarted a Plymouth drive in the shadow of the goalposts, forcing the Big Red to surrender possession at the Mountie nine after a fourth down pass from Rodney Hampton, who threw splendidly this cold, raw night, to Darren Branham that covered nine yards but fell short of first down.

But it was Mapleton's failure to make a first down in the ensuing series and a punt that carried 28 yards to the Mountie 37 that led to Plymouth's first score.

Setting up at the Mountie 37, Plymouth sent Richard Cunningham through tackle for seven and Hampton passed to Branham for 13. With first down at the 17, the Big Red sent Cunningham off tackle for three but drew a yellow kerchief for holding (the visitors were assessed 100 yards in nine penalties during the game) and the Big Red fell back to the Mapleton 29. Hampton threw two successive passes, both to Darren Branham, the first one for nine and the second for 20. It carried for the touchdown at 3:42. McKenzie's kick for PAT split the uprights.

Plymouth had only slightly the best of it after 24 minutes. With six first downs, the Big Red had rushed for 66 yards and passed for 87. The Mounties had four first downs, with 51 yards on the ground and 26 in the air.

The visitors took the second half kickoff and punched to the Mountie 20, where Cunningham fumbled on fourth down after Hampton had passed on two plays for 12 and 15 yards, respectively. Cunningham was en route to the second score when he was hit and the ball was shaken loose.

Stout Red defense, a hallmark of this team all season and certainly the reason why Plymouth prevailed in this one, penned the Mounties in the ensuing series and forced the punt, good for 21 yards to the Mapleton 26.

In seven plays Plymouth was in the end zone, the last six a shot by McKenzie, whose kick for PAT was again good. The clock showed 4:02. Plymouth stayed completely on the ground in this surge, Cunningham getting 13 and McKenzie the rest.

Plymouth got its third and final score the next time it got its hands on the ball.

McKenzie kicked into the end zone after the second touchdown and Mapleton was compelled to punt. The boot carried to the Mountie 47. A 15-yard penalty was tacked on and Plymouth set up at its 41.

McKenzie got 10, there was a 15-yard assessment against Mapleton, McKenzie ripped four off right tackle and Cunningham was stopped cold. So on third down Hampton found Tom Baker free in the secondary and threw it squarely on his No. 25 for the touchdown. McKenzie's kick was again good.

The clock read 22 seconds of the third period.

Mapleton drove with the next kickoff deep into Plymouth territory, indeed to the Red four, where the offense braced and held for downs. The Big Red mounted a counter drive and was rolling along with great success until a fumble occurred at the Mountie 44. Plymouth would probably have been in the end zone save that a major 15-yard penalty and an unsportsmanlike conduct assessment occurred on the same play. Mapleton refused the first fine, because it wanted the down box to turn, but took the second, a dead ball foul against Branham for lashing an official.

With Plymouth's second string defense on the field, Mapleton needed only three plays to score. The clincher was a 44-yard pass-and-run play from Jim Goon, the substitute quarterback, to Greg Forbush. Goon passed to Brian Mohrman for the PATs.

Plymouth took the kickoff and ran out the clock, a matter of three minutes 35 seconds.

Mapleton, coming off a season of no football, acquitted itself well. This is a precinct that will be heard from in subsequent seasons. Coach Richard Roll, who had some harsh things to say to his team at the halftime break, was wise not to run up the score on the Mounties.

But the success of the Mountie defense led some Red supporters to conclude that an exceptional performance, perhaps more than Plymouth can mount, will be needed in the league championship at Norwalk tomorrow.

Some energy saving reminders for the whole family.
(Clip and Save.)

Stick these ideas on your refrigerator.

MAGNET GOES HERE

The more you use, the more energy you'll save.

1. Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or an electric frypan instead of your large oven or range.
2. Never use the oven as a heater.
3. Place pans on the surface units of your range before you turn on the heat.
4. Use a small amount of water when boiling eggs and vegetables. Use tight-fitting lids, too.
5. Place the most often used items in the front of your refrigerator shelves so you can get to them quickly.
6. Make sure refrigerator door seals are tight, free of grease.
7. Don't wash your dishes until you've got a full load. That's usually after dinner.
8. Turn off the lights, radio and TV before you leave.
9. Don't let the hot water run while you're shaving. Fill the sink halfway instead.
10. If you can, use an electric razor. It uses less energy in a year than the hot water your hand razor uses in a week.
11. Set your water heater's temperature at a moderate 140°F or as low as possible to allow for enough hot water.
12. Take shorter showers.
13. Wash and dry only full loads of clothes.
14. Keep your thermostat at 68° or less in the winter, at least 78° in the summer.
15. In winter, open drapes and shades to let sun heat your home. When sun sets, close them.
16. In summer, close drapes and shades to keep your home from getting overheated.
17. Don't heat or cool unused rooms. Close them off.
18. Keep the damper on your fireplace closed when not in use.

Sauerkraut balls are in season or so Auntie says!

By AUNT LIZ

How to be really unpopular with a lot of people is not hard at all.

A bunch will hate me for this, but it is only being a really economical housewife.

It all started one day when I went to buy colored sugar. Not only is it pale looking, but has reached a point where just about the only people who can buy it are wearing sable.

Then I met a friend, and simply complained about it all. She merely looked at me and calmly said, "I make my own."

I had completely forgotten that I did, too, years ago, when we lived in places where it did not exist. We also made our own maple syrup by just adding flavoring to sugar dissolved in a little water. It wasn't the real thing, but if you weren't too fussy, it was great on French toast and pancakes.

Colored sugar is so simple. Just pour a little sugar in a bowl, add a few drops of food coloring, mix well, and let it dry.

But a word of warning: keep the coloring off your fingers or they will be red and green for days.

After I made up two lovely looking batches, I talked to another friend and could not resist gloating about it all. Then she came up with the most terrific deal.

She had received a gift from someone in the eastern part of the state which she says will last her a life-time! Little bags of every colored sugar you can imagine. It had been a fund raising project, and I bet it was the most successful thing they ever did.

Now that it is getting near the time for happy holiday parties, things can be made leisurely ahead, like sauerkraut balls. There are millions of recipes, but this one which we tasted last New Year's Eve is superb.

Brown a cup of chopped onions in four tablespoons of margarine. Stir in four tablespoons of flour, add a half cup of sauerkraut juice, three cups of well-drained and chopped sauerkraut, a tablespoon of chopped parsley a minced half clove of garlic and one and a third cups of chipped ham, minced.

Cook this until it forms a stiff paste, then chill thoroughly.

Form into small balls, dip in a mixture of one egg in two cups of milk, roll in flour. Again dip back in the liquid, but this time around, roll in bread crumbs.

Deep fry until nicely golden.

They freeze splendidly.

Another thing you can do ahead is to sugar cranberries.

They will add to any table, especially if your idea of cranberry sauce is to merely open a can of the jellied stuff, slice it and put it on a plate like we do.

All you have to do is place a cup of them in one beaten egg white, then roll in granulated sugar and carefully lay out to dry.

Schools to check claims to weed out some of 360 free lunches

Verification of claims of indigence to support requests for free or reduced price luncheon for 360 pupils in Plymouth Local School district will be conducted on a random sample basis by the building principal, Plymouth Board of Education agreed Monday night.

Department of Agriculture has instituted new rules, Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board. He said he has a 33-page booklet of regulations to enforce.

Three per cent of those to whom free or reduced price lunches are given will initially be subject to scrutiny, Staggs said. "This means 11 pupils, but I am sure that later on there will be more, because the federal government is getting to be very sticky about this."

Principals will address letters to parents and/or guardians requiring them to submit convincing data to establish just claim for free or reduced price lunches within the guidelines set down by the federal government. Failure to do so within 10 days will result in revocation of the lunch.

Staggs will be hearing officer should a parent or guardian object to the finding of the building principal.

A committee of 20 persons, heavily weighted in favor of employees of the board, will meet Dec. 15 at 4 p.m. to begin to study the Presidents "Nation at Risk" report on the state of public education to ascertain whether Plymouth district needs to take any action.

Staggs said the committee will be comprised of four administrators, five teachers, five parents of pupils enrolled in the schools (two of high school pupils, two of pupils attending classes at Shiloh, one of pupils attending Plymouth Elementary school, the same ratio as teachers to be chosen), two pupils, three adults not having pupils in the schools and one board member. This will be Charles Reinhart.

FFA was authorized to farm on half shares a 15-acre plot adjoining Sohigro Service Co. The work will be undertaken by 10 graders. Ninth graders will farm the board-owned plot of 30 acres at Pioneer Joint Vocational school. The Horton plot will be farmed by 11th and 12th graders.

No change will be made in location of school bus stops during the 1983-84 school year, although some pupils have been assigned to different bus routes.

Mrs. Neil McKown was accorded pregnancy leave from Nov. 28 to Feb. 20, 1984.

Mrs. S. Michael Tracey was approved to tutor Scott Lynch, injured in a reserve football game, until Jan. 1.

Keith Diebler was hired as boys' assistant basketball coach, Mrs. John Echelberry as girls' assistant basketball coach, Karl Pfaff, 3rd, as instramural coach, Daniel Donoghue and Mark Sheely as elementary basketball coaches.

A resolution praising the football coach and his staff, players, cheerleaders and band musicians for the success of the 1983 team, which won the Firelands conference championship, was approved without dissent.

Renee Carter, daughter of the Richard Carters, was unintentionally omitted from the list of Plymouth High school pupils tapped for membership by Louis Bromfield Chapter, National Honor society, which installed 17 new members Sunday. She is a member of the Class of 1985.

Van Loo wins Caywood award

Joel Van Loo is the first recipient of the Gerald W. Caywood award of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

It was presented Friday during the post's annual Veterans' day dinner by Theodore A. Ross, post commander.

The award, to be given annually, is for contributions by a member to the post activities.

Van Loo, a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High school, is a Vietnam veteran who has served in several offices of the local post, including commander.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Loo.

The award is named for the late Mr. Caywood, who also served in several positions and also was a commander.

Max Caywood spoke briefly for the family, and Ross recognized the Shavers for their contributions of the site on which the present building stands.

The award came after five years of dormancy. It was given in 1978, shortly after Gerald Caywood's death, by the A.L. Paddocks, Jr.

Contracts for fire, ambulance renewed

Contracts to furnish New Haven township with fire protection and ambulance service have been renewed by the village council and the township trustees.

The existing contracts expire expire Dec. 31.

The new three-year contracts call for fire portection at $5,500 annually plus $200 for each call over 12 runds a year, and $50 for false alarms. The ambulance is $2,500 annually. The village will bill persons transported at the set rates for each call.

James C. Root, village administrator, told the council that Plymouth will not receive the $350,000 job grant it had applied for. Only 15 communities out of 107 which had applied are receiving the grant.

Councilmen G. Thomas Moore and Roy Barber were appointed as council represenatives to the dependency board of the fire department.

Mrs. Bradley gets divorce

Valerie Tackett Bradley, 170 Nichols street, has obtained in Richland county common pleas court a divorce from her husband, Ernest Bradley, "address unknown".

Who won election, and by how much?

Incumbent Plymouth Township Clerk Joseph J. Lasch was ousted Nov. 8 by a young newcomer in his first political race.

Richard Russell, Route 98, polled 272 votes, 22 mor than Lasch.

Lasch won in his home town of Plymouth but was unable to prevail outside the village.

In Cass township, Ivan Dale Rhodes, incumbent trustee, drew 282 ballors and incumbent clerk Joyce Von Ttein 280 votes.

In Bloominggrove township, a Plymouth High school alumnus of 1949, Kenneth M. Burrer, outpolled Forest Peters for trustee, 144 to 79. The incumbent clerk, Ardith Lowe, unopposed, drew 183 ballots.

Incumbent trustee of Plymouth township, Charles Miller, was returned to office. He turned back Mark Baldridge, 321 to 179.

Two incumbent councilmen at Shiloh won reelection, by sharply divergent totals of complimentary votes.

Delmar Nesbitt drew 135 ballots, Richard G. Tallman only 58.

Mrs. Charles R. Reeder was unopposed for clerk-treasurer. She was given 123 votes.

J. Michael Bauer drew 113 votes and Earl Sexton 69 for trustee of public affairs.

There was no candidate for mayor. Francis Gowitzka will remain in that office until a successor is elected and qualified. The councilman chosen as president pro tempore of the council will accede to the mayorship in January and a replacement for that official must be chosen, within 30 days by election by the village council or thereafter by appointment by the mayor.

Frank A. Cline, the incumbent president pro tempore, once before was in line to become mayor but resigned as president pro tempore because he did not then wish to serve as mayor.

. . . and why were votes accorded to winners?

Surprises in the Nov. 8 election numbered four:

1. Defeat of the veteran clerk of Plymouth township, Joseph J. Lasch, by a newcomer, Richard Russell.

2. Defeat of William Fazio, candidate for mayor, by a larger majority than anyone dreamt possible.

3. Approval of the Pioneer Joint Vocational school operating levy.

4. Defeat of Issue No. 3.

Why was Lasch defeated? Why did Fazio not come closer?

Why did voters give their support to the PJVS levy?

Why did so many of them turn against Issue 3?

Although national television and wire service media have developed for an on-the-spot-after-polling interview with voters to determine the outcome of an election before the ballots are counted, they haven't so far succeeded in obtaining answers to the questions that most political managers want: "Why did you vote for your candidate?"

The Advertiser was no less successful.

Nevertheless, after examining the voter lists, inquiries were made of voters on both sides of the village to seek answers to the four questions.

Summary:

To question No. 1:

"I like Joe Lasch, but he's had the job long enough to work up a pretty good pension and he won't suffer any by losing the job. Besides, with the golf course and going to Florida, he's got his hands full."

"Lasch isn't around at the time of year when you need him most, when there's snow on the roads or when there're potholes so big you can hide an elephant in them. To call the trustees sometimes means a toll call. Besides, it's right to lay your complaints before the clerk, that's what he's for. Why else do they pay him all that money?"

"Russell is younger and he seems capable. Lasch gave good service. I voted for Lasch but I can live with the other man."

"It's time that we had a clerk who doesn't live in town. Even though some voters, a large number of them, in fact, live in the village, the real truth is the township government is for the folks who live in the country and now we've got a country resident as clerk. That's as it should be."

To question No. 2:

"The newspaper said it right. Cline did an acceptable job and there was no reason to turn him down. He certainly was a lot better than the man who was in before him."

"I remember Fazio from when he was in before. He's too strong for me. He wants to run things all by himself. We had enough of that with Akers, who got us into this water contract that's killing us."

"It's better to have a weak mayor with a strong council than the other way around. Besides, when Fazio was in before, he tampered too much with the administration of justice. I was present once when he said, 'Just how much justice can so-and-so afford? I've never forgotten

Convicted chief allowed to leave jail for classes

Convicted former police chief Robert Conley, serving a one year term in Richland county jail for a confessed assault on his then estranged wife, Wendy, at Mansfield in Apsh, will be allowed to leave confinement to attend classes in Mansfield Business college, the sentencing judge, Nelfred Kimerling, Crawford county, ruled Nov. 8.

When he sentenced Conley, the judge said his crime was particularly inexcusable because he was then a police officer sworn to uphold the law and "if I were to give you time in a state penitentiary, your life wouldn't be worth a plug nickle."

He sentenced Conley to 15 years, then suspended it, put him on five years of probation and ordered him to be jailed at Mansfield for a year.

Red upsets Edison for title

He who has seen more Plymouth games than any other, living or dead, was asked at Whitney field, Norwalk, Friday night, just before the beginning of the fourth period, what was likely to happen.

He pointed to the south side and said, "Plymouth lies in that direction, victory lies in that direction and Plymouth is going home."

How prophetic was his statement was manifest in what the Big Red did in the fourth period.

It struck for two touchdowns, overcame a six point Edison lead and held on despite a furious Charger attack on the Red goal as time was running down to forge a 13 to 6 victory and the 1983 Firelands conference championship.

Plymouth limited the mighty Edison offense to just three first downs in the second half and outplayed and outmaneuvered the vaunted Milan team in the final 24 minutes.

The first half was all Edison, but the last half was Plymouth's, pure and simple.

The Chargers scored with their second possession of the game, played in an all but blinding snowstorm on a wet and slippery field that made the ball difficult to handle.

Plymouth kicked off to start the game and the Chargers were compelled to punt after rushing for one first down. The Big Red gained only two yards in its five downs, having taken a five yard penalty, and surrendered the ball with a 14-yard loss because the snap from center on this cold night trickled along on the ground and Darren Branham, the punter, mishandled it as well.

Edison set up at the Plymouth 32. In five plays the Chargers had their only score. Kurt Ostheimer, the big gun of the Charger attack, ripped for four and Jeff Springer, the main running threat of Edison, who was all but shackled by a tight Plymouth defense this miserable night, made first down at Plymouth 21. Ostheimer ran for 10 and on first down, Springer darted into the end zone on an 11-yard play.

The kick for PAT was wide. The clock read 4:53.

After the kickoff, Plymouth managed one first down and then Branham punted, dead to the Edison three. But the Chargers couldn't advance beyond their 20 and Ostheimer punted. Edison was to obtain possession twice again before the half ended but it was limited to just 13 yards in five plays.

Rodney Hampton was sacked for nine yards at the Edison 43 in the penultimate play of the half, Plymouth having punched from its 46, where the Chargers failed of first down, in 10 plays.

The start of the second half was anything but auspicious for Plymouth. It could not advance with the kickoff and Branham punted 23 yards to the Edison 44, whence the Chargers mounted a push that carried into Red territory, only to run afoul of a 15-yard penalty. This led to a punt by Edison and Plymouth took possession at its 19.

Here began the operation that produced the tying score.

Mike McKenzie, who scored the winning touchdown, was watched like a hawk by the Charger defense, which had not yet seen Richard Cunningham, who did not play in the earlier debacle at Milan, when Edison won, 39 to 6. So Plymouth called on Cunningham and he responded as a champion responds. He and McKenzie alternated in shots off tackle and between tackle and guard and, thanks to a major penalty against Edison, reached the Edison 46 as the third period ended.

It was at this point that the prophetic statement was issued and Plymouth did not disappoint its oldest supporter.

Cunningham got four off right tackle. He hit the middle for seven, McKenzie jammed through left tackle for six and Cunningham hit right guard for four.

On second down, from the Edison 25, Hampton found Co-Capt. Tom Baker deep in the Edison secondary with his best pass completion of the night for the tying touchdown.

It was a thing of beauty. The passer's hands were bitterly cold. The ball was a leaden, soggy thing, difficult to manage even by a master. But Hampton's throw would have put a Baugh to shame. It was right on target and the gloved Baker gathered it in and stepped over the goal line.

McKenzie's kick for PAT was the victim of a poor snap and cold hands. He got it off, poorly, and it was deflected. The clock said 9:52 of the final quarter.

Edison netted exactly one yard in five plays in the ensuing series and Ostheimer, a left-footed kicker, punted 25 yards to the Red 44.

On the first play, Scott Ryman was carried from the field with a leg injury.

Plymouth seemed to come alive after this and applied itself with vigor to the Edison defense.

McKenzie bucked for one, on the play that hurt Ryman. Cunningham hit right guard for five and then went through the same hole for six. He broke up the middle for two, whereupon McKenzie was stopped cold at the Edison 30.

Here, on third down, Hampton passed to Baker, on a play that everybody in the stadium had figured out in advance, for 11 yards and first down at the Charger 19.

Edison braced. Cunningham was shut down. McKenzie got three yards. On third down, Cunningham bolted over left guard for 15 yards and first down at the Charger one.

Edison expected Cunningham to carry the ball and that is what he did. The Chargers stacked the defense to the right and Cunningham was thrown down after gaining only half the distance to the goal.

Edison again expected Cunningham to get the ball. So did the shouting Plymouth stands — and be it said here, the Plymouth stands never stopped shouting from the first whistle — and Plymouth fooled them all. It called on McKenzie and the stout co-captain smacked over tackle for the touchdown.

Then he kicked the PAT. The clock read 2:07 left to play.

Plymouth was 127 seconds from victory and the championship, after 36 seasons of defeat, for the most part, and heartbreak at every turn.

McKenzie kicked off, a short boot, and Edison set up at its 41.

With time running down, the Chargers forsook the game that had brought them to this point. The running attack was put on the shelf. Edison put the ball in play 12 more times before it was forced to surrender possession and nine of them were passes, of which three were completed, for 42 yards.

Edison died on the Plymouth eight yard line, with just 15 seconds left.

Ostheimer rescued Charger hopes with a seven yard shot off left guard that gave Edison first down at the Plymouth 43.

The Red defense threw Edison for a two yard loss, a splendid performance by Chad McGinnis, who had his problems this cold night, stopping the Charger assault for a two yard loss.

After an incomplete pass, Joe Taylor found Steve Geres on a screen pass play and Geres ran 31 yards to the Plymouth 24.

With first down, and 46 seconds remaining, Edison returned to its ground game. Ostheimer was thrown for a yard loss. Taylor unloaded two passes that fell incomplete and with 21 seconds left, on fourth down, Edison went for broke.

Taylor threw to Ostheimer, who was tackled at the Plymouth eight, three yards short of first down. Plymouth was home free.

Americans generally, and Ohioans in particular, have always admired the straight-shooter.

It was a characteristic of the frontiersman, the early settler who disputed with the Indians the right to occupy and farm the land the red man had lived on for centuries. It was admired because it showed economy of resources, a one bullet, one bird or deer sort of thing. Straight shooters spared pain; the first shot killed.

'The kicking game is attended to after the defense and the offense are installed and made to work, more or less. The offense includes the passing game and there must be some emphasis on throwing the ball to the right man at the right time. The kicking game gets only a little attention and after the others are all right. Is this the right way to do it?

Soap decorating's easy — if you know what to do!

By AUNT LIZ

One of life's little problems is "giving".

Everyone likes to give a little something here and there and especially at this time of the year.

It can almost add up faster than you give, though.

Our daughter-in-law came up with this idea several years ago for all the neighborhoood kids that her daughter thought she would remember with something.

One of the advantages of being an elementary school teacher is that you can come up with ideas the rest of us never have seen or thought up.

This one is great and can be used any time of the year. It is practical and no one will turn up a nose at it.

It's for decorated soap, which is one of those things everyone under the sun needs.

To start, find small bars that have names on any writing on one side only so the other side is smooth. This can be involved; either you open every kind to look or start asking your friends to look at the brand they use.

Once you find the right soap, then start hunting for cute little pictures that will fit neatly and nicely in the middle of the bar. A great source can be the store catalogues you get for nothing, which here and there will have little things which work like a dream. The first year they were made in our family was one Thanksgiving when our holiday catalogues were all over the house and were being looked at with a pair of scissors.

When you are ready to start, get it all arranged handily. Dip your finger in water, moisten the top of the soap where the picture goes, press it gently on, and let it dry.

Next use a disposable foil pan (this is easier than trying to get wax out of a good cooking pan) to melt a little parafin over boiling water.

Hold the soap by the bottom side, and skin it in the bottom side, and skim it in the melted wax so it is coated.

Then all you do is let it dry.

Kids will love having their own special soap. What is an added touch is to wrap it in something transparent, and put it in a little soap dish all tied with a ribbon and bow.

While you are doing that, you might as well have the oven going.

This takes an hour to bake at 350, and by then the soap should be done.

It's for cranberry nut bread which is tasty and downright pretty.

Mix a cup of sugar with two tablespoons maragarine, one egg and a dash of salt.

Add three fourths cups orange juice, a tablespoon of dried orange peel 1you can leave his out) a cup of cranberries cut in halves, a half cup of chopped walnuts and two cups of flour which has a half teaspoon baking powder in it.

This makes a regular size loaf, and doubled can make three smaller ones.

Why they voted for winners or versus losers that."

"I heard too many things about what he was going to do and he wasn't going to do, although not from him. Beyond those two letters to the newspaper, which you say weren't edited in any way, and I take your word for that, he didn't say how he would get new businesses or new industries into Plymouth. He has all this time, why doesn't he busy himself with getting them now? He doesn't need to be mayor to do that."

"I don't think the village staff likes Fazio very much. It's like the Yankees. There're some players, good ones, too, who don't like Billy Martin. Steinbrenner has to figure it's easier to fire Martin than to lose those players or to have unhappy ones that won't pitch or won't field or whatever. He'll fire Martin eventually for that reason. So why take a chance on Fazio?"

"Fazio, Fazio, all you can talk about is Fazio! Why not talk about Cline. He did all right, he keeps his nose out of business that's not his and lets the council do what the council is supposed to do. What more do you want?"

To question No. 3:

"I went along with what the newspaper said, I'm not sold on vocational education but it's true we've got a lot of money invested over there and if the buildings are falling down, we ought to fix them up so we can think about how they ought to be used later on. That's why I voted for the levy."

"The recent business slump shows that there are a lot of people out of work who'll never find jobs once the economy turns around because their kind of job aren't needed. We've got to train people for the new jobs. Where else but the vocational school?"

"I've always been for vocational education and my vote this time was no different than what it has been. I approve of the program and I voted for it."

To question No. 4:

"They said the schools would close if Issue No. 3 passed, so I voted against it."

"I'm past 65. They said I would lose some benefits if Issue No. 3 passed so I voted it down."

"It's right that the rich should pay more than the rest of us and that's why I voted against Issue No. 3."

"You fat cats can afford things the way they are. The rest of us are sucking air. To hell with cutting your taxes."

Why was Mrs. Robert Sponseller defeated for member of the board of education?

"It's not so much that she was defeated as that she was so heavily outdistanced. I lay it to her strong stand on religious instruction in the schools. She and her husband frankly said they don't want any religious teaching in the schools period, although they are church people. The deal worked out between the schools and the churches is different from that and satisfies most of the people."

"Mrs. Sponseller's situation is separate from the other three. Each of them has been actively involved in athletics. This town is aimed toward sports more than academics and it was a matter of whose contribution to the sports program was rated the best. I suppose Reinhart's long connection with the Boosters didn't hurt him any. Between the other two it was a tossup, and you can see McKenzie ran strong in Plymouth."

CHRISTOPHER BROWN

The Voice of The Advertiser —

No insurance, no registration

It is an established concept of common law that every dog is entitled to one bite. One bite, that is, until he may be labelled a menace to society and dealt with as society may direct.

The concept has, until the end of the year, anyway, been extended to the driver. He who operates a vehicle over the public highway without injury to himself or another need not be insured against damages. There are scores of careful drivers, folks well into their twilight years, some of them operators who were among the first to be licensed by the state when licenses were required, who've never been involved in a collision (please note the choice of word; "accident" hardly describes what occurs when two vehicles collide, for someone or something is always at fault). And there really is no reason to compel them to buy liability insurance. Like the dog that has never bitten, they are presumed to be free of sin now and for all time.

Compulsory insurance has been a mixed bag for a long time. Even some insurors opposed it. "We don't want to have to bother with the high risks," they've said. "Those who've had two or three collisions, those in the 'high risk' age bracket (read 16 to 24, male, unmarried, especially not living at home), the elderly — they cost us money and force the premiums up and make it harder to sell the average customer."

Those who've been burned say otherwise. Particularly those whose property damage has been enormous and who may have relatively large floors of deductible repair costs in their own insurance coverage policies.

So Ohio has, in a way, straddled the issue.

Come Jan. 1, every person who renews his license tags must show evidence that he has an effective liability insurance policy in force, so that he is capable of paying for other party damages in event of a collision. This he may do by posting a certificate of deposit of monies or securities, posting a surety bond, or posting a certificate of self-insurance.

Whichever way he chooses, he cannot but be the loser, no matter how careful he may be as a driver or how careful those who drive his car may be. The insurance policy cost will be a burden to him. If he has means, he is unlikely to want to tie them up, without the opportunity to trade in his securities or bank deposits. Certificates of self-insurance don't grow on trees, and in any case, to submit one means that he who submits it also submits his personal finances to the scrutiny of a clerk in a deputy register's office who may very well be his neighbor.

The damage done by automobiles is staggering. Ohioans rejected an effort to reduce it, somewhat, at least, by refusing to raise the legal drinking age on Nov. 8. Those who are innocently maimed, or worse, or damaged materially by automobile collisions need absolute protection.

There are other ways of doing it that wouldn't put safe drivers to needless expense. But the General Assembly didn't ask us for advice.

Four firms get contracts for fire house

Four bids totalling $63,563 to build an addition to the fire station were accepted by village council Tuesday.

Studer-Obringer, Inc., New Washington contractors, will do the actual construction for $56,000.

Keller Plumbing and Schodorf Plumbing will share the dorf Plumbing will share that part of the building. The former's bid was $730 and the latter's $2,160.

The electrical work will go to the J & J Election, Monroeville, for $4,565.

Construction can begin as soon as the council works out the financing.

It was not included in this year's appropriations, which means it can be held off until the first of the year, when a new appropriation ordinance is enacted, or the 1983 ordinance can be amended.

The finance committee plans to meet Monday to make a decision.

The public hearing for a federal grant to help finance a local business was almost forgotten, both by the council and certainly the public, since no one appeared.

The village will seek a grant of $125,000 earmarked for Tri-County Asphalt, Inc., to construct a plant that will hire 10 persons.

James C. Root, village administrator, said the village can qualify in all aspects in seeking the grant. He said that normally it is a 10-year loan at a determined low interest rate. The application

A Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America

Since the Pilgrims observed the initial Thanksgiving holiday in 1621, this occasion has served as a singular expression of the transcending spiritual values that played an instrumental part in the founding of our country.

One hundred and twenty years ago, in the midst of a great and terrible civil conflict, President Lincoln formally proclaimed a national day of thanksgiving to remind those "insensible to the ever-watchful providence of Almighty God" of this nation's bounty and greatness. Several days after the dedication of the Gettysburg battlefield, the United States celebrated its first national Thanksgiving. Every year since then, our nation has faithfully continued this tradition. The time has come once again to proclaim a day of thanksgiving, an occasion for Americans to express gratitude to their God and their country.

In his remarks at Gettysburg, President Lincoln referred to ours as a nation "under God." We rejoice in the fact that, while we have maintained separate institutions of church and state over 200 years of freedom, we have at the same time preserved reverence for spiritual beliefs. Although we are a pluralistic society, the giving of thanks can be a true bond of unity amoung our people. We can unite in gratitude for our individual freedoms and individual faiths. We can be united in gratitude for our nation's peace and prosperity when so many in this world have neither.

As was written in the first Thanksgiving proclamation 120 years ago, "No human counsel hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most high God." God has blessed America and her people, and it is appropriate we recognize this bounty.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States of America, in the spirit of the Pilgrims, President Lincoln and all succeeding Presidents, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 24, 1983, as a national day of Thanksgiving, and I call upon Americans to affirm this day of thanks bz their prayers and their grauitude for the many blessings upon uhis land and its people.

Your energy-saving options are as easy as:

1 Electric Thermal Storage.
Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, a very efficient whole-house heating system that works in a unique way. It stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day.
Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend.
ETS not only heats your home, it also heats your water. Individual room heaters are available, too.

2 Add-On Electric Heat Pump.
Another very modern option to save energy, and money.
An Add-On Electric Heat Pump works with your existing furnace — no matter what kind of fuel it uses — to heat your home more efficiently all winter long.
In summer, it's a central air conditioner, cooling and dehumidifying your home.
So an Add-On Electric Heat Pump can actually work year round for you and save you money on your winter heating costs.

3 Add-On Resistance Heating.
Another add-on option. Your third way to save energy and money.
Add-On Resistance Heating is simply an electric element that's slipped into the duct of your furnace. It takes over for your furnace on weeknights and weekends when the cost of electricity is less. And, as an Add-On Resistance Heating customer, you pay special lower rates for nighttime heating — as well as all other electricity you use during those same hours.
For a low initial investment, Add-On Resistance Heating can be a real comfort to your nighttime heating costs.

'62 grad to race at 200 mph

A 1962 graduate of Plymouth High school is being lured out of retirement to go drag racing.

Gary Foster formerly of Shiloh, is being groomed to drive the top alcohol funny car of Dardio and Sampson, Akron.

The car known as "The Stripteaser", competes on NHRA and AHRA strips in an eight state area. It runs a quarter mile drag strip in 6.6 seconds at speeds of 200-210 mph. The car runs on alcohol fuel.

Foster, who used to drive many forms of racing equipment, has not competed for some time. He was known for his exploits in the Vogelsong & Kitchen AAFD and was one of the top 20 drivers in the U.S.

Troy Collins was released at Willard Saturday.

Mrs. Chester Bettac was released at Willard Sunday.

Clarence Barnes and Mrs. Pamela Howell were admitted at Willard Sunday.

Ed Taylor scored 168 points —

'56 team unbeaten, tied by Berlin Hts.

Until this season, Big Red fans exulted over the achievements of the 1956 squad, who won seven, lost none and tied one and won the North Central league championship.

The team, called the Pilgrims, was coached by Lew Petit, then his second season with some seasoned players he inherited from Fred Kreutzfeld, who was recruited to come here after an undefeated season at Butler in 1952.

There were 12 lettermen. These were Ray Einsel, probably the best quarterback Plymouth ever had until Rodney Hampton challenged him for that honor; Eddie Taylor, certainly the best running back in Plymouth history; Ted Fox, the best all-around athlete ever to wear a Plymouth uniform; Jim Hunt, Dick Akers, Jim Jacobs, Franklin Eckstein, Mickey Hampton, John Elliott, Duane Utiss, Jim Wasserman and Don Barnthouse.

Some of them are still living hereabouts. Barnthouse is a member of Plymouth Board of Education. Fox lives at Greenwich. Jacobs lives here. Einsel is a banker in the Chicago area. Taylor lives in Lexington and represents a textbook publishing house. Hunt works for National Cash Register in the Dayton area. Akers is an engineer with two master's degrees and lives in Macedonia. Utiss works for Empire Steel at Mansfield and lives there. Wasserman is a psychiatrist in the Army, last assigned in Arkanasas.

The league was comprised of six Class B teams. In addition to Plymouth, these were Westfield's Red Raiders, Lodi's Tigers, Seville's Barbers (the three consolidated some years later and now are parts of AAA Cloverleaf), Townsend-Wakeman and Berlin Hts.

The one blemish on the Pilgrim record that season was a 7 to 7 tie with Berlin Hts. in a game here. It was marred by the ejection of two outstanding players, Einsel, Plymouth's passer, and Dewey Acord, now a barber in Berlin Hts. but then the scourge of this region as a running back. His coach was Carroll B. (Snag) Sanders, now principal of Edison High school, a North Fairfield product who went to Ashland college. Acord and a running mate, Paul Oslin, ripped through all opposition save Plymouth that season.

Acord and Einel had a disagreement and the umpire threw them out. Plymouth fans roared with disapproval. They said the fight was provoked. Subsequent research, years later, revealed that it was planned, indeed. But not that Acord should be involved.

It was the fourth game of the season. Plymouth had already beaten Green Springs by 45 to 0, Ashland Reserves by 49 to 0 and Seville by 45 to 0. After the Berlin Hts. contest, the Pilgrims sailed over Lodi by 42 to 0, over Westfield by 44 to 6, over Townsend-Wakeman by 62 to 0 and over Burgoon by 62 to 0.

Taylor, who was a 12th grader, concluded two seasons of varsity play with 352 points. He scored 168 of them in 1956.

Others on that squad were Taylor's brother, Bill, who lives here and is cemetery sexton; Lynn Cashman, in the insurance business in Shelby; Jim Fidler, who lives in New Haven and works at Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.; his brother, Dick, who lives here with his family (his daughter won a letter in cross country); Walt Wilhelm, who lives at North Fairfield; Dennis McGinnia, who lives here and whose son, Chad, was an outstanding performer on defense for the Big Red this season.

Also, Jim Lawrence, who now lives in the west; Mike DeWitt, living in Dayton; Doug McQuate, who lives here; Arnold Renz, Lawrence Wilson, Ronald Evans and Mickey Hampton, Rodney's uncle and himself Plymouth's first bona fide all-state performer.

Petit now owns a driving school. Plymouth district is one of his customers.

Drop cookies easy to make, just ticket for holiday events

By AUNT LIZ

All housewives seem to get really shook this time of the year.

They have to make this and that for little bake sales and sometimes for schools and clubs.

This can really leave their families a little on the hungry side.

Make something easy and call it a meal.

All anyone has to do is maybe hole up for about a morning or four hours in a kitchen and bring out those little extras that perk things up.

This will liven any dessert of easy come ice cream or sherbert: West Indies cookies.

The nice thing is they are "drop" jobs and makes a whole bunch.

Cream a fourth of cup of margarine with a cup of surgar. Add two cans of coconut and two beaten eggs and mix it.

Do this gradually add a mixture of one and half cups of flour, a dash of salt if you feel you need it, three teaspoons of baking powder, a teaspoon of allspice and a half teaspoon of ginger.

Bake at 400 degrees until brown around the edges.

Another thing that is great for a Sunday brunch like breakfast is French toast, but not like the way it is usually made.

Find a loaf of wheat bread which you can cut in rather large hunks. Soak it in prepared eggnog. You have to guess at how much you use, then saute it as usual. Sprinkled with a mixture of cinnsmon and sugar, it is great. Some eggs and sausage will really help to make it greater.

Then there is nothing like a hamburger night or a spaghetti night to have a really nice gelatin deal.

This can be made ahead, and it makes almost enough for two meals unless you have "snacking" people who will snitch it.

Start with a large package of orange gelatin dissolved in a cup of boiling water. Then stir in a pint of orange sherbert. After that add two small cans of mandarin oranges, drained, add a small can of crushed pineapple, also drained. You can save the juice for something else, if you remember where you stashed it. Best you label it because it is very usuable.

Pour into a dish for chilling.

This should give you time to go out to gather up the things that Santa Claus is to bring.

Don't ever, ever underestimate the intelligence of today's child. He has good, young teachers who are really doing a job, and you will be very pleasuntly surprised at what little ones are learning.

If in doubt about a book or game, go talk to the teachers.

Little ones really cannot read so well as senior citizens like some of us, so you can read it to them. The big thing is that they will remember it all like mad because esther Grandma or Grandpa read it to them.

The one thing we can give out little ones is their American heritage. Make them proud they are Americans, so go back and dig up the beautiful stories of the boyhoods of Lincoln and some of our most wonderful people.

You don't have to be famous to be wonderful, give your kids some of your memories of your grandparents and great-grandparents, that really counts.

Last of Akerses, Mrs. Chorpening dies at Ashland

Last surviving child of the Lafayette Akerses, long time Plymouth residents who moved here from the northeast corner of Crawford county during World War I, Mrs. Clifford W. Chorpening, 92, Ashland, died Saturday evening in Samaritan hospital there.

She was ill only briefly.

Her brother, Donald E., Plymouth's only attorney for a generation, and her sister, Helen, a retired teacher, both Plymouth residents for many years, died in 1982 and 1983, respectively.

She was a member of First United Methodist church, Ashland, and of its Friday Bible club.

She is survived by a daughter, Joanne; three sons, Robert, Lima, and Oliver and Judge Paul, Ashland; six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Alfred Sprague conducted services yesterday at 10:30 a.m. at Ashland, where burial was in Ashland cemetery.

Four firms win bids on addition to PFD is to be made for it.

The village is also seeking a grant to replace street signs, by which the village contributes 10 per cent and the grant money 90 per cent. Root said the Richland county application is ready and he is working on completing the Huron county report must be done by Dec. 16.

Praise was heaped on the village's only four legged police officer. Police Chief Frank Hodge proudly told the council that Duke is not only trained to seek out law violaters, but he has been trained to find lost children.

Mayor Dean A. Cline said he is an asset to the village.

Hodge also informed the council that from now on regular monthly reports of the activities of the department will be forthcoming, as they had been done a number of years ago, but then neglected.

The council went into executive session with Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine over pending litigation for a short period.

When the meeting resumed the mayor complimented Mrs. Terry Jump on her election and said that as in the past, a woman is an asset to the council.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore suggested the council declare a special day to honor the Plymouth High school foortball team as Firelands conference champions. The day will be decided later.

Ohio Geology

Notes from the Division of Geological Survey of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources

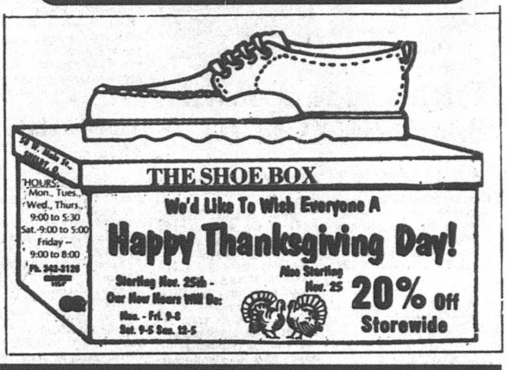

THE SURVEYING OF OHIO

In the years following the Revolutionary War, Ohio, as part of the Northwest Territory, was the western frontier of the United States. The area that is now Ohio was controlled by the newly formed federal government, except for an area in northeast Ohio claimed by the state of Connecticut (the Connecticut Western Reserve) and an area in southwest Ohio claimed by Virginia (the Virginia Military District).

It was during this time of post-Revolution westward expansion that the rectangular-grid surveying system of townships and ranges was developed and later became characteristic of states west of Ohio. Ohio was an experimental area for various surveying schemes, and consequently no other state has so many different kinds of original surveys. These original survey lines are still recognized today, and are the basis for real estate transfers and all legal matters dealing with land, such as deeds, leases, and title abstracts.

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

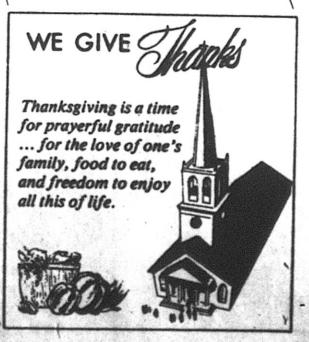

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Get ahead in your reading— read the newspaper.

The Voice of The Advertiser –

On winning

No one rejoiceth greater than we because our team, at long and painful last, has won a league championship.

There is no one who has seen more games, standing in the wind, snow, rain and fog, sometimes beset by misquitoes and once by ravens, or blackbirds, or starlings, or grackles, we did not stop to ascertain the species.

So perhaps it is suitable, and the emphasis is on the second word of this phrase, to make some observations about the whole business.

On Nov. 11 at Norwalk, we saw and met folks that we haven't had business or social contact with for 10 years, at least. Where were these people when the team went through a 10 game season without winning a game, without scoring a single point?

2. The success of the program is attributable to many factors, not at least of which is that there was this season a cadre of seasoned, determined performers of unusual abilities and remarkable courage upon which to build a winning team. Other factors are that the coaching was, for the most part, even-handed, fair, and inspirational, had a grasp of what the game is all about and how it should be played, and above all kept its eye on the main goal, which is to teach sportmanship, to encourage the making of sound decisions by those of tender age and to furnish wholesome entertainment for the players and their peers (note: there is no mention in the constitution of the OHSAA that any game is played for the edification of other than the pupils): that the equipment furnished by the community was, at the least, competitive with that afforded other teams in the league, acquired with a special consideration of the safety of the wearer and/or user; that the facilities furnished by the community, albeit in need of some immediate repair, were, at the least, competitive with what was furnished to other schools in the league, and that, as the team began to win, community support grew, perhaps grew too much, so that the players could not but realize that their friends and neighbors stood with them.

3. One rose does not a summer make. One hopes the worm has turned. Turned from what? Only four seasons back, Plymouth won seven games and lost just three, a better than fair performance for any team. The syndrome that has afflicted the school, the team, the community, remains. We won't know until next August if the success of this team will result in a stronger turnout for the 1984 outfit.

4. Individual honors have fallen to some performers, among whom a few whose contributions have been obvious but not especially conspicuous. Certainly not in headlines outside this town. The honors are the result of a political system. Even the selection of all-conference team is fraught with consideration of pride and greed, or unwillingness to be excluded for whatever reason, including lack of talent. On another occasion, a selection for an all-league team was made wholly out of a desire to preserve the employment of a coach rather than to recognize outstanding ability in a player. One would hope that this sort of thing, in education, at least, would not prevail. But it does. Anybody who pays any attention to a poll needs to see a psychiatrist.

Newspaper people are supposed to be, we are told, cynics. If this be cynicism, so be it. For what it's worth, our experience over 30 years is that it's too soon to count our chickens. What evidence? Well, for one, a responsible person who had a dandy program up his sleeve to benefit the athletic program, at no cost to the schools nor to the folks who supported the athletic program, has decided to drop it. Why? Ask him.

New firm buys one-third of Bachrach Co. real estate

Sale of about a third of the land holdings of Bachrach Co. to a new corporation for $2,434,400 took place Nov. 20, when deeds were filed at Norwalk and Mansfield.

New owner is Mueller-Hauss Farms, Inc., a newly established Ohio corporation whose agent is a Rocky River lawyer, Robert E. Ward. He declined to disclose the names of the incorporators. Sources in the office of Sherrod Brown, secretary of state, said last week they would not have access to such information for several days.

Eleven parcels of land are involved.

Theses include the Bachrach Co. headquarters and buildings and 108.812 acres of land in the west side of Route 61 in New Haven township, sold for $174,400; 168.6212 acres in Cass township, of which sold for $2,300,000.

Bachrach Co. was holder in fee simple as of Nov. 1 of 962.615 acres in Plymouth township and 596.93 acres in Cass township.

None of the land belonging to the Bachrach Co. or its principals that abuts Base Line road was involved in the transaction. This includes the land north of East Main street and astride the Huron river to North street and east to the village line, on which the Robert Bachrach homestead is situate.

Lands in Sections 4, 9 and 16 of Cass township, amounting to 428.31 acres, and in Sections 8, 2, 6, and 22 of Plymouth township, amounting to 673.6 acres, remain in the hands of the Bachrach Co.

James Thomas has been appointed manager by Mueller-Hauss Farms, Inc.

Ward said Monday:

1. "This is an Ohio corporation and will observe all federal and state laws governing corporations established in this state."

2. "I don't know what rumors have been circulating around Plymouth but I should think it ought to be made known that the operation will continue as it has been and there will be no violent displacement of persons or buildings."

3. "The management outfit comes from Minnesota. It is, as I understand it, the intention of the new owners to lease the land to local farmers for such agricultural activities as they may wish."

Employees of the Bachrach Co., for publication, at least, have been conspicuously close-mouthed. None has offered to respond to any questions by The Advertiser, other than to say, "That's out of my jurisdiction, you'll have to talk to somebody else", "Gee, I don't really know, and that's the truth — if you find out, I wish you'd tell me!", and "It'll all work out eventually, but coming just before Christmas like this means some emotional upsets."

One experienced agriculture expert who has held state office told The Advertiser, "Let's look at the numbers. This outfit paid somewhat over $4,000 an acre for land that God wasn't all that kind to, its not that fertile, it won't produce grain crops sufficiently to crack the nut of the high per unit cost of the land, so they've got to continue in the livestock business, unless I miss my guess."

The Advertiser understands it is the intention of the Bachrach Co., eventually to liquidate and to dispose of its real estate holdings save for the homestead property.

Yule baskets set

Christmas baskets will be distributed by the Ecumenical Council of Plymouth and Shiloh Dec. 23.

Three criteria, however, must be met by those receiving holiday help.

These are they must be resident in Plymouth Local School district, they must enroll for a basket at either the Plymouth Village utilities office ot Bauer's Market, Shiloh, between Monday and Dec. 9 and they must attend a food workshop.

Baskets will be distributed in First Evangelical Lutheran church, Plymouth, Dec. 14 at 10 a.m.

Burglary reported at Shiloh

A report of breaking and entering was filed with the Richland county's sheriff's office Saturday at 7:57 a.m. by the pool hall at 15 West Main street, Shiloh.

Theft of raw fox furs worth $1,400 from a shed on his property in Route 224 was reported to Huron county sheriff's office Saturday at 5:45 a.m. by Richard A. Fox, Plymouth High school alumnus.

The door to the fur house was pried open, deputies said.

Significant factor in developing 1984 and 1985 squad was performance of Paul Manuel, down lineman who, when he was used, did what was expected.

Girl Scouts seeking books for project

All five Plymouth Girl Scout troops have decided to participate in a Global Understand project, guidelines of which were outlined on a national level.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Richard Paulo, Troop 219, "Literacy" has been chosen for the project and a program designed to involve the Scouts on a local, national and world-wide level.

Locally, the Scouts are collecting used children's books, to be put back into circulation within the community. Anyone wishing to donate children's books may leave them at the library or with any Scout.

The books will be sold in the Upstairs store and circulated in the elementary school.

Five seeking ASC election

These are Lee Buckingham, Verne LeSage, Richard Reber, Cloyce Sleesman and Roger Smith.

Culvert out, road closed

A badly deteriorated culvert will require the closing of New State road south of Town line road 131 beginning Nov. 28, according to Huron County Engineer Lawrence Heit.

The need to replace the culvert was determined by a recent inspection. Heit said county crews will work until tomorrow, weather permitting.

5th grade wins third in league

Fifth grade Vikings won their third without defeat in league play Saturday, overcoming Springmill, 11 to 7.

Steve Thornaberry scored four and Andy Bowman three.

On Nov. 23, the Vikes beat Hloy Trinity of Bucyrus, another fifth-and-sixth grader outfit, in a controlled scrimmage, but on Nov. 22 they went down before St. Mary's at Shelby, also a fifth-and-sixth grader team.

Bucks!

Ninth graders just as strong as varsity, whip Big Red

Ninth grade basketballers opened their season at New Washington Nov. 21 and learned from the Bucks how the game ought to be played.

The score was 44 to 36.

Bob McCracken and Kris Walter scored 34 points between them, McCracken 20. He took down 14 rebounds.

Chris Baldridge and Mike Lasch scored 10 apiece for the Big Red.

The Bucks led by four at 14 to 10 after one period and by 13 at the half at 28 to 15. They outrebounded Plymouth, 29 to 18.

Big Red favored over Flyers tomorrow

A confident Plymouth team opens its 1983-84 slate here tomorrow against St. Paul's in a Firelands conference match, favored by the home court advantage of our point to win its fourth game in three seasons.

Coach David P. Dunn is cautiously optimistic abovt the prospects for this team.

"We don't have any great height and we don't have superior leaping ability so we have to adjust our play to the kind of players that we have, We must shoot well and qlay good eefense and we neeg to work on a string transition game. The team hasn't looked so bad in three scrimmages, but it hasn't been perfect, either."

Plymouth took on Old Fort, Cardington and Hilldale and won all three settoe, albeit not so crushingly as to conclude that the Big Red will have a fantastic season.

But then, nine or 20 games in the win column will be little short of a fantastic season for a team that has wallowed in the doldrums for so long.

For Dunn's part, he looks forward uo some victories with considerable anticipation: his first team was 1-and-20 and his second 2-and-19. This is his third season at the helm.

The reserve coach for the past several seasons has forsaken the sidelines for a year, at least, John Hart told the board of education his plans to obtain a master's degree require atten eance at classes that will conflict with coaching. His replacement is Keith Diebler, the jack-of-all-trades of the Plymouth coaching staff, who has been head boys' basketball coach, head girls' basketball coach, boys' track and field coach, assistant baseball coach, assistant football coach, head junior high school football coach and junior high basketball coach.

The four lettermen returning this season have played together since they were knee high to grasshoppers. Rodney Hampton, MVP last season as an 11th grader; Mike McKenzie, Tom Baker and Brian Vredenburgh comprise this quartet. Each will be a starter here tomorrow.

The fifth starter may be Kevin Taylor, a 10th grader who's being advanced ahead of his peer group, as indeed he was last season, when he played reserve ball instead of ninth grade basketball. He's the tallest on the Plymouth squad, has put on some weight and has sorted out his awkwardness so that he may be a significant factor in the renaissance of Plymouth. Darren Branham, a 12th grader, will also see heavy action. And so will Chae McGinnis, another of the 12th grade corporation that will direct Plymouth's basketball activity this season.

Others on the squad include Jeff Lasch, who played reserve ball last season as well as briefly with the first team and is looked upon to make substantial contributions to the Red attack; Mark Kamann, who dropped off last season's squad but has returned with a new attitude; Jeff Caudill, seeking to emulate the success of his father, Herb, who shone for the Big Red a generation ago, and Mike Hawkins. One of the reserve players, probably on a rotation basis, will be brought up in each game to flesh out the 12-man roster.

The visitors have a new coach, Wally Amburn, who teaches social studies in Monroeville High school. He has had substantial success at St. Mary's Central Catholic in Sandusky. His problem at Norwalk is a shortage of experienced, seasoned players with sufficient height to be competitive.

Only one letterman is back. He is Mike Smith, a six foot two inch 12th grader, who will serve as co-captain with Matt Spriggs, a gvard who measures six feet one inch.

Al Lieber, Kevin Shumate, John Landoll, Scott Nickoli, Gean Berry, Keith Mainzer, Steve Adelman and Charlie Meyer are the other varsity players.

Amburn won the state championship with the Panthere at St. Mary's in 1980. He laid out of coaching three years. His return is colored by his dual nature as teacher at Monroeville and coach at St. Paul's. No stringer rivalry exists in the Firelands conference.

He has changed some things but they are mostly cosmetic changes. New uniforms have been bought. The gymnasium has been painted and new endline pads have been hung. The press table will sport a banner proclaiming the fact the Flyers are the home team.

Whether this will rub off on the St. Paul's entry remains to be seen.

He Thought That Drinking Wouldn't Make Any Difference, Even Though He Was on a New Medication. But It Did.

Now he knows that alcohol and some medicines don't mix. In fact, more than half the 100 most prescribed drugs have at least one ingredient that can cause trouble if taken while drinking alcohol. The result of mixing these drugs (alcohol is a drug) may be no more than simple temporary illness, but some combinations can be dangerous, even deadly.

So, don't make a test tube out of your body. Be sure to tell your doctor or druggist about any medications you are taking and be sure to ask about the consequences of mixing a newly prescribed drug with alcohol.

Also, make it a habit to check the label carefully when you get a drug, whether it's a prescription or over-the-counter medication.

And when you get any prescription, be sure you know—

- The name of the drug
- Its purpose — what conditions does it treat?
- How and when to take the drug — and when to stop taking it
- What food, drinks and other drugs to avoid while taking it
- What side effects may result — are they serious, short-term, long-term, etc.?

If you have any questions about your prescription, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Afraid to be incinerated? Nobody to blame but us, Auntie says

By AUNT LIZ

Now it's weeks "after" and a terrific television program is taking a backseat to what's on currently.

Like everyone else, we watched and really missed some better programs.

It was the cheap publicity that did it.

Why did teachers, psychiatrists and you name them get so shook about kids watching it, suggesting even adults hold hands so they wouldn't be scared silly?

It certainly wasn't anymore scary than some of the programs and movies that have popped up in the last 10 years. Even Count Dracula was scarier, and remember Frankenstein? He was manmade, too.

Sure this can happen, and so have a lot of other things happened over the years — rapes, murders, arson, things now called World I, II, Korea, Vietnam plus what has been going on in the last couple months.

It all should be stopped some place and prevented, but then man like his dog or cat almost better than his neighbor.

That is history right down the line.

What was really more interesting about that program was "the day after the day" and the comments about it all.

Let's face it: this country is not the least bit prepared to deal with such a situation. Back in the 50's there was an attempt made to provide shelters, stockpile provisions, and even drills for air raids in the schools. I remember our mother describing it all. She was then rather well on in years and well fed, which made climbing under her classroom desk a problem, but she had to do it.

Maybe it will take a diaster for us to get smart. Other countries are doing it, even though they know they will bot be targets but will get radiation.

Some countries, mostly the Scandinavian ones, require that all construction not only be livable but survivable.

It kind of makes you wonder if scrubbing a kitchen floor is worth the effort, if that at any minute you don't even have a floor, nor walls nor ceilings.

Meanwhile I am forgetting it all, but doing a little stockpiling of practical things. Like holiday treats.

I have no idea how long one could exist on little nutraisins clusters while sitting in their basements (if they are lucky enough to have one) for the all-clear, but they are good.

Melt a 12 ounce package of chocolate chips in a double boiler, cool, then simply throw in a cup and a half each of chopped nuts and raisins.

Drop in little clusters on wax paper and let them sit until they harden.

And while I am pandering to raisin marketers, this can be very welcome.

It is a raisin relish.

Combine one and a half cup of raisins with a cup of packed brown sugar and three cups of water. Bring to a boil and simmer uncovered until the liquid is absorbed.

Make a paste ot two tablespoons of cornstarch with two of water to make a paste. Stir into the raisins, bring to a boil and cook until the cornstarch has vanished from sight. Add a teaspoon of grated lemon rind, a fourth of a cup of fresh lemon juice, a tablespoon of finely chopped candied ginger and about a half cup of chopped nuts.

It will last a week or so in a refrigerator, and is good on ham and pork.

A little jar can go a long way, and it has been known to have been spread on ordinary toast, it's that tasty.

Willard branch set by Tiffin university

Two courses for college credit to be offered in January

A Tiffin university extension of classes in Willard will begin Tuesday, Jan. 10.

University officials say two classes will be offered for college credit Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The term will begin Jan. 10 and run through Feb. 28.

The Willard Extension will convene in Home Savings & Loan Co., 221 Woodbine avenue. The first courses, "Accounting Principles" and "Learning about the Computer", will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:50 to 8 and from 8:15 to 10:45 p.m.

"Accounting Principles" is an introduction to accounting which includes the double bookkeeping system (debits and credits.) Coverage is given to journal preparation and ledger posting. Work sheets leading to the preparation of beginning income statement and balance sheet are included.

"Learning about the Computer" includes the fundamental concepts of the computer, terminology, and the theory of computerized processing. Some instruction of the BASIC programming language is included.

Dr. John Millar, dean of enrollment services of Tiffin university, noted "As part of our outreach we selected Willard. After extensive investigation we chose this city because it is one that does not have higher educational opportunities at hand." Dr Millar also expressed the hope that such an outreach would give the people of the community and surrounding area an opportunity to have an experience in higher education. "Each course will offer three college credit units," Dr. Millar stated. "The courses are designed to give specific knowledge in current business fields. We look forward to our association with the Willard community."

Registration is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 5 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Home Savings & Loan Co. Advice and counseling will be available at this time.

Continuous registration or further information may be obtained by calling at Tiffin university administration offices, 155 Miami street, Tiffin, 44883, Tel. 160-447-6442.

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

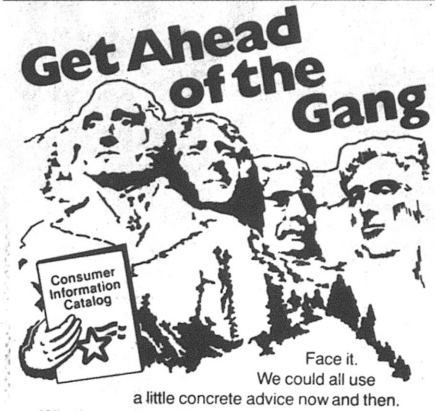

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Building's ours

GSA acquires used building

How community cooperation under brisk leadership can achieve success was shown last month when Plymouth Girls' Softball association acquired a new service building, which it will raise at the water tower site to house rest rooms, storage space and a meeting room.

It began when Willard Area hospital sought to dispose of a building to amke room for additional parking. A. L. Paddock, Jr., a trustee of the hospital, suggested it might be sold to the girls' softball association, which had no money, he well knew.

"We can take care of the money part of it if the hospital will sell the building to the GSA, which I guarantee will move it at no expense to the hospital," he told the trustees.

A competing bid fell through and the building was sold for $750. Paddock disqualified himself from the voting on the sale.

Time was running out. The hospital wished the space and the building needed to be moved before cold weather set in.

Paddock suggested to John Hedeen, one of the organizers and financiers of GSA, that American Legion members might be willing to donate their efforts to remove the building. He proposed that Glenn (Skeet) Hass head up the operation.

Hedeen, adjutant of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, obtained its support and seven volunteers in addition to Hass.

It took them two weekends — Oct. 29-30 and Nov. 5-6 — to remove the building and the foundation, with the assistance of some GSA personnel, including Councilman Roy Barber, Kenneth Reiderman, W. Roger Ross, Billy M. Young and Oral Oney.

Bachrach Co. loaned a wagon. So did the American Legion.

Hedeen, Barber and Paddock solicited the funds to pay for the building — the $750 goes into Willard Area hospital's scholarship fund - and ancured there will be enough to pay for erecting the building in April.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

The lessons of organization

Congratulations to the Girls' Softball association on its acquisition of a building in which to store equipment, install lavatories and conduct meetings.

Funding has been assured so that the building can be erected in the spring to meet the needs of girls wishing wholesome recreation.

It was fitting that some who have long advocated equal opportunity for girls should have been involved with the project. One of them insisted 23 years ago that girls ought to be allowed to play in the Midget league, of which he was an architect. He was turned down. It is a truism in life that nothing is so overpowering as an idea that has reached its time.

The entire enterprise points up some facts that ought to be written on the wall of every establishment in town.

These are:

1. Folks with experience in getting things done know how to organize, have resources upon which to draw, both human and material, and know whom to see and when to see him to get the project accomplished. This also goes for the raising of funds.

2. Projects that show signs of prompt rewards, whether spoken or unspoken, usually obtain prompt support and are executed quickly.

3. There is no substitute for knowledge, experience and enthusiasm, in equal parts. Those who aspire to lead ought to apprentice themselves to others who've been down the road a piece at least half a dozen times, to learn how it should be done to achieve results.

4. Public recognition of contributions other than funding, tastefully and effectively carried out, usually results in repetitive offers of help at another time. Theft of the recognition by one or two always results in loss of assistance the next time around.

5. Requests for funds need to be tailored to reflect a genuine need, a useful purpose, an effective administration of the proceeds and the prospect of a grateful recipient.

Those to whom the establishment has accorded status because they are supposed to know their business say that any public funds expended on the young should be first applied to boys of the ages of nine through 12 and girls of the ages 12 through 16, in order to obtain maximum benefits in preventing juvenile delinquency.

Yule parties set

Employees of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., will gather at the MSC Center, Shelby, Dec. 17 for a holiday dinner party.

Plymouth Fire department will have its annual holiday party Saturday night at the home of the Misses Nancy Ritchie and Lisa Perdue.

Ford seeking to oust Hauser

Incumbent Richard Hauser, Willard Democrat, will seek reelection. His former assistant, George C. Ford, Republican, will seek to oust him.

Ford says he has the ammunition and fire power to dislodge Hauser, who turned back Michael Fegan, Norwalk lawyer, last time around.

What is the ammunition? "Hauser tied up the court for a week with a trial on the issue of $42 worth of bad checks but he plea bargains lots of other cases. He has a private practice in Willard but he ought to be available in the county seat so county officials may consult with him readily. He doesn't need so many assistant prosecutors. And the prosecutor's office ought to be closer to the courthouse, not down the hill in Benedict avenue as it is now."

Ford was graduated in 1977 by the college of law of the University of Dayton and served as assistant prosecutor and public defender in Shelby county. He is 37 years old.

Fifty-four-year-old Clark Hunter, Greenwich, will seek reelection as clerk of courts. He was appointed to succeed the late Dana W. Call in 1970 and has since been elected three times to four year terms. No opposition has yet surfaced.

Douglas Colvin, Oorwalk businessman who has served in public office there, says he will seek a post as county commissioner. He isn't sure which of the two incumbents he will seek to dislodge. Terms of Thomas Carabin and Roy Palm expire at the end of 1984.

Dolvin is a Democrat. The incumbent are Republicans.

Lloyd Smith is the handpicked successors to John Borgia if he can win election. Borgia will retire. He has worked nearly 10 years as a deputy. He is 40 years old.

In Richland county, incumbent Sheriff Richard Petty, Democrat, will seek reelection.

Incumbent Treasurer George G. Griffeth will not seek reelection. His hand-picked successor, on the Democratic ticket, is his assistant.

The name of James Robetts will be absent from the Richland county ballot for the first time in a generation. He retired. His assistant was named to succeed him and will seek election. He is Marion (Duke) Schaus.

Dr. Gorden Morkle, controversial Mansfield physician, will run again for coroner on the Democratic ticket. It will be his fifth time.

Mrs. Joan Thompson, commissioner, and Richard Orewiler, recorder, will run again. Each is a Democrat.

Officers hurt during arrest

An hysterical female voice telephoned to police Saturday at 6:01 p.m. that a homicide had occurred at 170 Nichols street.

Police Chief Frank Hodge went to investigate and learned that Gobel Risner, 38, 185 Riggs street, was accused of assaulting several occupants of the Nichols street residence.

With Patrolman Ronald Croxford, Hodge sought to find Risner. The two were apparently assaulted at the Riggs street address.

When a Richland county sheriff's deputy arrived, he found Hodge lying on the ground and Croxford and Patrolman Joseph McKinney endeavoring to place Risner in the police vehicle.

Risner was subdued and brought to police headquarters, where Croxford fainted. The 27-year-old officer and his chief, who is 42, were taken by ambulance to Willard Area hospital, where Croxford was treated for a possible concussion and Hodge was retained for treatment of a back complaint.

Risner was taken by ambulance under guard to Shelby lockup to face charges of assault by Bertha, Buford and Garland Sexton, all of 170 Nichols street.

The charges by the Sextons are misdemeanors. A charge of felonious assault and resisting arrest will be filed by Plymouth police.

Recorder erred —

New firm bought entire holdings of Bachrach lands

Total conveyance amounted to 1,630.9507 acres, not 576.7696 acres as reported to The Advertiser by Recorder Richard Orewiler on Nov. 25. He offered no explanation for his mistake. Total price for Richland county real estate was $2,330,000.

The Coleman farm, lying in New Haven township, Huron county, was included in the transaction. It, according to John Elmlinger, Huron county recorder, amounts to 108.812 acres and was sold for $174,000, or $1,591 an acre.

Despite diligent efforts by The Advertiser's staff to get the facts of the transaction, which is a matter of public record, no source doing business in Plymouth was willing to speak out.

Officers of the Bachrach Co., which is now a mere shell, particularly objected to any publicity about the transaction, seemed astonished that the newspaper staff could have found the name and address of the statutory agent of Mueller-Hauss Farms, Inc., or that it is a new organization with 750 shares of no par value common stock, and apparently made every effort to obstruct publication of the facts.

Which are, the Bachrach Co., is now, or will soon be, a thing of the past; the new owner, an absentee organization comprised of investors with little or no experience in agricultural affairs in Ohio, have hired a Minnesota management outfit to oversee the operations; James Thomas is the resident manager; to the extent that lessees obtain use of the individual parcels at once, operational personnel of Bachrach Co. will not be retained by Mueller-Hauss Farms, Inc.; management personnel of Bachrach Co. will not be retained by Mueller-Hauss Farms, Inc.

Most people use only one, or maybe two rooms of their home for most of their living. So it makes sense to just heat the space you use, not the whole house.

With a portable electric heater you can carry your comfort with you from room to room. That means you can turn the thermostat for your furnace down 10 degress or more. Then set a thermostatically-controlled electric heater to the temperature that is most comfortable for you in the room you're going to be in. And close that room off by shutting doors. When you have to spend some time elsewhere in the house, take your heater with you.

Remember, your portable electric heater doesn't consume oxygen. In an enclosed space, a fuel-burning heater is competing with you for the very air you breathe. An electric heater doesn't burn anything so it doesn't produce fumes or soot. It's safe, clean and economical, too.

You'll start saving money right away when you buy a portable electric space heater because your initial investment is so low compared to other types of heaters. Naturally, since you can lower the temperature in the rest of the house, your total heating expenses will be much less, too.

Safe, clean heat for just a few cents an hour. If you are considering using portable electric heat, contact the Marketing & Customer Services Department of Ohio Power. We'll be glad to answer any of your questions.

We give it our best.

Red defeats Flyers with late surge

Two shots at the foul line by Rodney Hampton with 5:44 remaining in the game reestablished Plymouth's lead and the Big Red staggered on to a 71 to 65 victory over St. Paul's in Firelands conference play here Friday.

Plymouth's triumph was not artistic in any sense. The Big Red jumped off to an early lead onto to see it disappear and in a match that saw the lead change hands nine times and the score tie seven, Plymouth prevailed because it outshot the visitors from the field. The Flyers went to the line 37 times and sank 23 of them, whereas the Big Red was successful with only 19 of 25 tries. From the field, Plymouth was superior, 26 to 61 to 21 of 63.

After eight minutes the Flyers maintained a three point lead at 16 to 13. The Big Red reversed that figure during the second period and it was even at 29 at the half, Plymouth having shot 22 of 36 from the field, the Flyers eight of 20.

Hampton scored 10 of his night's output of 19 in the first half. Darren Branham had three personal fouls but otherwise Plymouth was in good shape to prevail.

In the third period, the Big Red scored just 14, with six successes in 14 tries for field goal. The Flyers managed only 12, on five field goals and two free throws.

Which brought it all down to the last minutes, when both teams threw defense to the winds and locked horns in a rammer-jammer finale that left the fans exhausted and each team drawn to the point of ultimate fatigue.

Plymouth went to the line 16 times and was successful 13 times. St. Paul's was awarded 16 shots but managed to make only eight. That was a major part of the difference between the two outfits.

Hampton scored eight, half of them on free throws. He played the entire game. Jeff Lasch, who came off the bench to make a notable contribution to Plymouth's fate, scored six of his night's output of 15 in the final eight minutes. Tom Baker also scored six.

Branham was gone at 4:02 of the third period, having scored four points. Chad McGinnis, a starter, did not score a point before he left the game on five personals at 4:34 of the fourth quarter. Scott Nickoli of the visitors retired with 5:11 remaining in the game, having thrown in 14 points.

Why did Plymouth win?

It made fewer mistakes. The Big Red commited only 20 turnovers and it took down 33 rebounds. The Flyers were charged with 27 turnovers, 18 of them in the first half, but collared 37 caroms. Added to Plymouth's superior shooting from the field, the rebounding and smaller number of mistakes produced a victory that stands out as significant because Plymouth has not won so early in the season for three years and certainly not over a league opponent.

Mike McKenzie, who did not start, scored 14 for Plymouth. Baker concluded with 12 and played a steady floor game.

For the visitors, Matt Spriggs scored 18, John Landoll and Nickoli 14. No other player broke into two figures.

Coach David P. Dunn used eight players. A confusion on the bench apparently cost Plymouth the opportunity to use Kevin Taylor, the big 10th grader, for more than one period. The bench thought he had two periods of eligibility in varsity play, the referees ruled that he had only one, although neither score book seemed to prove convincingly that Taylor had one or two periods remaining.

First double win since 1980 —

Northmor victim No. 2

Nearly three years after it last won two games back to back, Plymouth accomplished that aim here Saturday night by mauling Northmor, 64 to 44.

It was, as they say, a piece of cake.

Last time the Big Red took two straight was in 1980, when on Jan. 20 Plymouth downed Western Reserve, 80 to 62, and on Jan. 25 took Lucas, 72 to 66.

This one resulted from a better defense than Plymouth showed the night before, in its first game against St. Paul's, and excellent shooting.

The Big Red was exactly 50 per cent from the field, with 25 successes in 50 tries, and at the foul line, with 14 conversions in 28 attempts.

The Golden Knights shot well enought to win a dozen games, but not often enough. They converted 15 of 36 efforts, while committing 27 turnovers, 16 of them in the first half, nine in the second period alone. They went to the line 23 times and were successful with 14 shots.

The visitors drew first blood with a basket by Terry Snavely but that was the only time Northmor saw the lead. Plymouth tied it promptly and forged to the front on a basket by Tom Baker from 15 feet away. By the end of the first period, Plymouth led by three at 10 to 7.

An outstanding shooting performance in the second quarter led the Big Red to a 14-point lead at halftime. Rodney Hampton scored six, Baker four, Jeff Lasch five

Here's new, inexpensive game for junior high pupils

By AUNT LIZ

Perhaps it is a little late for me to decide to be an inventor.

Our most famous ones started when they were plain young, but I think I have come up with a great idea.

If it exists, I have never seen it, but then I simply do not look at all the little games that are available. Some I have been stuck to play when we visit here and there. Never mention what fun something called "You Know" is to me. Last year a five-year-old beat me every time, and it is so simple.

My idea is for the junior high school age and it all started with a crossword puzzle.

The more I thought about it then, it became clear to me it would be a great thing. Then I started really thinking. It is too much for first graders.

It is something all kids should know. I know the schools try desperately to give all knowledge they can muster up to pupils, but this is a little extra.

By the time that age group reaches the eighth grade or so, we can assume it knows the names of all the states, (Ed. Note: We disagree!) but does it know their nicknames?

This all started with you-know-who doing a crossword puzzle and he asked me the name of the "Empire State". I knew it and was floored he didn't since he grew up next to it. (Ed. Note: Not true. Being a teacher at heart, we simply asked Auntie if she knew the proper name of the Empire state.)

The next one was the "Volunteer State". No way did I know it was Tennessee. Sure, I could name all the Big Ten names plus Texas. After that it plain ended. (Ed. Note: We've always said Minnesota schools must have been inferior).

So right then and there I said let us do a card game of matching them up. The schools do not do this, but it is essential knowledge so kids can follow sports. Everyone has a name rather than a state.

All you need to do is get some cards of good sturdy paper, write out the states on one set, all 50, then their nicknames on the other set, and on the back pencil in the identifying state.

I think they will love it, and it will be fun.

Now where to find all this? Just get hold of a World Alumanac. It lists each state and its other name.

Another blow for victory you can do is to teach that age of child all the famous college football songs, so they know them. That is part of growing up, and I am willing to bet that their teachers don't even know them nor can recognize them, which is plain sad. Our poor kids would ride with me here and there. I cannot carry a tune, but we sang "I'm a Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech and a Helluva Engineer". They loved it. The sad thing was that I only knew the shady words to some of the songs. I never really knew the real words, which are truly lovely, of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi". All I know is, "The girl of my dreams dyes her hair". Back then that was a real no-no. No one dyed her hair then.

Dig back in your old records, and pass them on, they are almost historical.

This isn't so historical, but can be handy for anyone with left-over turkey meat she froze, plus some gravy. If you do not have the latter, you can buy it ina packageor a jar, and it works.

Then merely mix up a couple cups of leftover turkey and gravy that you have flavored with a little chopped onion. And for flavoring, that depends on what your family really like — curry powder to taste, soy sauce or plain poultry seasoning. For little ones, one heaping muffin half is more than enough.

and Chad McGinnis three.

Plymouth went nine-for-24 in the second eight minutes and converted six of 11 free throws. Its free throw shooting must improve for the Big Red to make a splash in the Girelands conference.

Plymouth outscored the Morrow countians in the third period by 15 to 5 and then, with the second line players on the floor, hung on in the final eight minutes, when the Golden Knights managed 19 and Plymouth only 15.

Hampton led all Red scorers with 15, seven of them from the free throw line. He missed six of 10 shots for field goal and five of 12 free throws. Lasch, the bright spot of the Red team so far, added 12, missing only one try for field goal and one free throw.

Seven others got on the scoreboard, led by Darren Branham with eight. Lasch fouled out.

Only Doug Sinclair, with 17 points, got into double figures for the visitors, who were simply outmatched.

Troy Keene scored 12 to lead Red reserves to an easy 39 to 28 victory over Northmor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

I would like to personally thank every voter that voted for and against my father, William Fazio.

The people who voted for him certainly know and understand what a person of quality could do for a dying township. Thank you.

I especially thank those who voted against him. I, a resident of Plymouth for 20 years, did not want my father to waste his valuable retirement years trying to rebuild a ghost town.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey A. Fazio

Red underdog at Edison, Margaretta over weekend

How will Plymouth's improved basketballers fare against Class AA opposition?

The Big Red engages Edison's Chargers in league play tomorrow and will play the Margaretta Polar Bears Saturday night.

In each contest the visitors will be the underdogs, if for no other reason than that the home court advantage is worth four or five points, in schoolboy basketball, at least.

But there are other reasons. Not the least of which is that Plymouth doesn't have a big man and thus its rebounding is not what it could or should be. In the first outing, Plymouth was outrebounded by St. Paul's. In the second, the Big Red managed only one more than a very weak Northmor team.

Plymouth played better defense against the Golden Knights than it did in its opener and it was a welcome change.

This team can go a long way. Not a perfect season, surely — not with the like of Monroeville and Western Reserve, the Riders twice, on the slate. But if it should show some improvement on a steady basis, it can do better than a .500 record.

Its free throw shooting must improve. Red Auerbach, the Boston Celtics's genius, often says, "If you can't get the rebound, score when the clock is stopped." Which is the case with free throws. Plymouth's record is less than spectacular.

The best attack when a team has no great height and therefore can't rebound is to shoot well. Which is what Plymouth must do tomorrow and Saturday.

Coach Dave Kotasek at Edison lost his two best scorers on a club that notched a 12-and-10 record last season. The Chargers haven't started out all that well this year. Pat Landoll, Kurt Ostheimer and Loren Grant are the three lettermen. Plymouth knows what they can do on the gridiron. They're tough competitors on the hardwood as well. Landoll and Ostheimer are muscle men who play in the forecourt. Grant is the play maker.

Margaretta may be too much for Plymouth to deal with at this stage of the season. The Bears have height, some speed and good shooters, a formula that when applied correctly is a certain antidote to what Plymouth has had to offer so far.

This Plymouth team has not yet hit its stride. It has been tentative. Perhaps the prolonged football season and the euphoria that went with it has affected the performance of those who came over from the successful gridiron team.

What seems possible, if not probable, is that Plymouth can win one of the two games, perhaps that against Edison. But it will take a better effort than Plymouth has shown so far.

"These are quality players," says one experienced observer, who wishes not to be identified because of personal considerations, "and they will come around. Whether they will win them all would be foolish for me to say. Now, at least. But they will show improvement and if they can get their act together and not be consumed by ego, on the one hand, or dissension or depression, on the other, I think they can get into the last month of the season with a better than respectable record."

Masons to serve breakfast Saturday

Breakfast will be served Saturday from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. by Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, in its rooms at 16½ East Main street.

Three perform for OMTA

Amy Root and Matt Mitchell, pianists, will perform Thursday for the OMTA Christmas recital, also at Kingwood Center.

Chamber sets breakfast

Santa Claus breakfast staged by Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce will be served Saturday, Dec. 17, at 9 a.m. in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church.

Tickets at 75 cents must be obtained before Dec. 15 at Nancy's Beauty salon or Miller's Hardware.

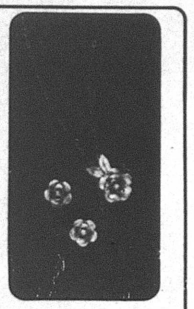

Route to game detailed

Fans wishing to attend the contest Saturday at Margaretta High school may proceed by two routes, state highway patrol says.

First is north via either Peru Center road or Route 99 to Route 20, thence west to Route 269 in Bellevue, thence north to Castalia. This route is the preferred one, the patrol says, because road condition is superior.

Second is via Route 99 to Route 101, turning southwest to Castalia.

Driving time is about 50 minutes.

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Get ahead in your reading— read the newspaper.

The voice of The Advertiser —

Respect? Good reasons to hear it for Plymouth

This newspaper never solicits letters to the editor. Readers and/or complainers are encouraged to express their feelings in writing and, subject to the general rules of libel, obscenity and good taste, they are published as received, errors notwithstanding.

One such unsolicited letter appears today. We endorse its sentiments, in the main.

But there is one sentence that sticks in our craw. Not just slightly, either.

It says, more or less, like Rodney Dangerfield, until this year we got no respect anywhere. The implication is that unless there is a winning athletic team, no town can be respected, nor any of its residents, by extension.

What does it take to get respect? We confess that, after 30 years, we don't really know.

But we suggest these facts for starters:

Plymouth has produced in the past 20 years three medical doctors, three doctors of veterinary medicine, six law school graduates, five doctors of philosophy, nine graduate engineers, one military academy alumnus and 117 recipients of baccalaureate degrees. Allowing for duplication, there were in the same period 14 persons who received master's degrees. Three have been called to the Christian ministry and three others to serve that calling without the benefit of ordination.

Plymouth has produced in the past 20 years four millionaires, two persons with estimated net worth in excess of $500,000, 39 persons with net worth of $100,000. The figures are floors rather than ceilings.

Of the marriages contracted in Plymouth in the past two decades, 69 per cent have proved to be what demographers call "viable"; that is, they have not ended by divorce.

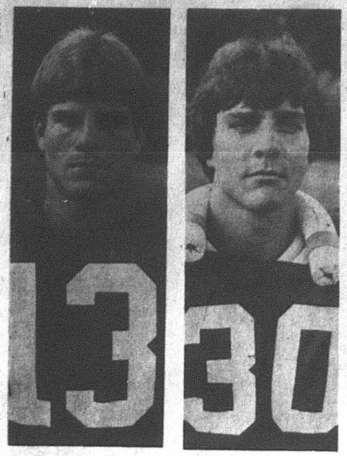

The produce of its industry continues to merit respect and good favor not only domestically but in a number of foreign states; that it does so is an earnest to the kind of work that we turn out here.

Its oldest continuing business, this newspaper, is selling more copies than it ever did. In the past 20 years it has been the winner of 83 state and national awards for excellence, an achievement that could not have been reached if the community it serves were of a lesser stripe.

The quantity of its professional services is at an all-time high. A medical doctor-surgeon practices here. So do two dental surgeons. Three lawyers maintain offices here. A pharmacist meets needs of those who require prescriptions, nostrums, non-prescription drugs and other pharmaceuticals. That each is patronized substantially is an indication that their clients consider the quality of their services to be high as well.

There remain some who, despite the point blank refusal of their neighbors to accord them recognition for the thousand and one things they do to make life more pleasant here, persist in sticking their necks out and exposing themselves to the sleights, which are many, and arrows, equally numerous, of the rude, ungrateful, selfish, jealous, resentful and unappreciative folks who abuse them.

Not have any respect? Maybe not. But show us another place that's done more than we.

5¢ rise approved in cost of lunches; girls' league formed

Cost of lunches in Plymouth school cafeterias will rise by five cents, effective Jan. 1.

An examination of the Plymouth and Shiloh cafeterias resulted in a recommendation by examiners that lunches for pupils in grades one through eight be raised 15 cents, for high school pupils 10 cents and for adults proportionately.

Supt. Douglas Staggs told the board of education Monday night he fears such a sharp increase would be self-defeating. He said it is likely fewer pupils would participate in the lunch program if the increases as recommended are instituted.

He recommended the five cent raise, which was approved without dissent. Member Charles Reinhart was absent.

Pay for substitute teachers will rise to $35 a day, effective Jan. 1.

Staggs said the district now pays $32, a figure that has remained stable for three years. The two city districts that abut Plymouth district pay $38 and $40, he said. He recommended a raise to permit Plymouth district to be more competitive for substitute teachers.

Working hours for Mrs. J. Max Fidler, Staggs's secretary, will be increased by an hour a day to eight. Her pay will be adjusted at the beginning of the year.

County Supt. Harold E. Daup will retire Dec. 31 after 31 years in public education. The 57-year-old administrator began his career at Shiloh in 1952, upon his graduation by Ashland college. He taught and coached at Shiloh until the annexation in 1958, whereupon he became principal of Plymouth High school and head basketball coach.

He left here to become superintendent of Crestview district, after which he succedded Dale B. Kinney as county superintendent.

He and Mrs. Daup, also a former teacher in Plymouth schools, are the parents of two daughters and two sons, who with their families will attend a reception for the retiree in Shiloh Elementary school Jan. 15 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The county office will be hosts.

Plymouth will enter a new girls' softball league, beginning with the coming season.

Staggs told the board the athletic control board recommends joining the Ashland Area Girls' Softball league, together with Black River, Mapleton, Northwestern, Loudonville and Hillsdale.

He said the Firelands conference constitution requires that six schools field a team in a specific sport in order to obtain a legitimate champion. Plymouth, Mapleton and Black River are the only schools now fielding a girls' softball team.

He said the contracts for the home-and-home series with each team in the league will be for one year, "and if additional schools in our league organize girls' softball teams so that a league schedule can be played, it is understood that the three

Planners sort out tenures

Terms of Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard and Roy Barber will end Dec. 31.

H. Lee Welker's term will expire Dec. 31, 1984, Douglas A. Dickson's on Dec. 31, 1985 and Miss Luella Vandervort's on Dec. 31, 1986.

The commission is continuing to search for someone with the proper equipment to videotape all structures in the village for a permanent record.

At the suggestion of Dickson, consideration is being given to the establishment of a local museum.

Suggestions are welcome from villagers of what they can contribute, either items of historical interest or monetary donations.

Miss Vandervort may be addressed at 346 Plymouth street or Mrs. Joseph H. McClure at the Chamber of Commerce. The Advertiser will also take messages.

Dickson hopes if the museum becomes a reality, funding can be obtained for a building to also house the Plymouth Branch library and provide a community meeting room.

Do you think we have enough nuclear firepower?

Our government doesn't think we have enough.

Judge for yourself.

The dot in the center represents the destructive force of all the firepower used during the entire six years of World War II.

Three million tons of TNT.

Three megatons.

The other dots portray the firepower of the world's nuclear arsenals. 16,000 megatons. More than 5,000 World War IIs.

Do you think we have enough?

The top lefthand circle (circle A) is the firepower of just one U.S. submarine. Think of it: twice the firepower used in World War II aboard a single submarine.

That one submarine could destroy over 150 Soviet targets.

We have 19 such subs, plus 15 others with even greater firepower.

Do you think we have enough?

The Pentagon doesn't think so. The Pentagon wants more. Like the new Trident submarine. Its firepower is portrayed by the lower lefthand circle (circle B). About seven World War IIs.

Just two squares (labeled C) on this chart (more than 250 megatons) represents enough firepower to destroy all the large and medium-sized cities in the entire world.

Do you think we have enough?

The Reagan Administration doesn't think so. In the next decade, the U.S. plans to build 17,000 new nuclear weapons.

If you think we already have enough weapons, call, toll-free, 1-800-NUCLEAR. We will send you information about what you can do to help halt the arms race.

You can make a difference.

If you saw, and were shaken by, the TV movie, "The Day After" and are groping for something concrete to do, (and if you think this ad is an effective way to educate people about the dangers of the nuclear arms build-up) here's a suggestion—and an offer:

The suggestion: Get together with friends and neighbors who feel as you do and chip in on the cost of publishing this ad in your local or neighborhood newspaper.

The offer: Simply call the Public Media Center, (415-434 1403), and we will send you a copy of the ad in a form ready to place in your local paper.

It was the Big Red's first loss of the season.

Betty Ringler score 18 and Cathy Freelon 11 for the Mounties, who took 78 shots at the basket, mostly because of their offensive rebounding, which amounted to 31. The visitors were credited with 42 all told.

Plymouth collected 34 rebounds and made more mistakes, 29 to 24, than did Mapleton.

Rhonda Branham scored 13 for the home forces.

Branham heroine at Edison

A basketball by Rhonda Branham with three seconds left produced a come-from-behind victory for Plymouth over Edison in Firelands conference girls' basketball at Milan Dec. 6. The score was 54 to 52.

The Big Red trailed by 15 points in the second period and went to the halftime break behind by seven points at 34 to 27. Plymouth outscored the Chargers in each of the two final periods, by six in the third and by three in the fourth.

The winners shoule have won it hands down, taken on the basis of field goal shooting. Led by nine from Branham and five from Lori Fidler, the Big Red scored with 23 of 60 tries. Edison managed only 20 of 60 shots.

The Chargers had more opportunities at the penalty line, 21 to 16. They converted 12, Plymouth just eight.

Sports editor sets record

Saturday's contest at Castalia was No. 555 involving a Plymouth varsity team for the sports editor of The Advertiser, who broke into the business in November, of 1954, when Plymouth was in the throes of a losing streak that eventually stretched to 46 games.

Edison wins in OT, 67-65

Two free throws by Loren Grant with two seconds left in an overtime period at Milan Friday night led Edison to a 67 to 65 victory over Plymouth in Firelands conference play.

The lead changed hands nine times and the score was tied seven times in this one, which Plymouth lost because it could not rebound adequately. Edison took down 50 rebounds, 24 of them offensive caroms, whereas Plymouth could manage only 26 rebounds, eight of them offensive.

The Big Red shot well enough to win several games. It scored with 24 of 57 tries for field goal and its free throw shooting was vastly improved, at 17 to 21. The Chargers converted 25 of 62 shots at the basket and sank 17 of 23 charity tosses.

Plymouth fell behind by as many as six early in the second half, only to claw back on a three point play by Tom Baker and two free throws by Chad McGinnis, whose contributions in the final goiig were what kept Plymouth in contention. After missing the first of two one-and-one opportunities on two occasions, he stepped to the line amidst shouting that would deafen an elephant and threw in four straight. The first two brought the score to 54 to 53 in Edison's favor and the second pair immediately thereafter gave the Big Red a slim lead at 55 to 54.

Rodney Hampton, who scored 27 points in this contest, fouled Kurt Ostheimer with 3:54 remaining and he promptly sank both opportunities. Mike McKenzie was hacked by Ostheimer, who left the game with 2:58 left, and McKenzie, who received a standing ovation from the Edison fans at the outset of the game when Principal Carroll B. Sanders singled him out as an all-Ohio Class A football player, together with Tim Cox, Edison center, punched one down.

With the count tied at 56, Pat Landoll, who contributed 21 to the Edison score, nailed a basket at 2:35. Hampton threw one down at 2:27 but neither team was able to score before the end of regulation time.

A 35-footer by Grant went through the net at the buzzer but the referee ruled he got it off too late.

In the overtime, Hampton drew first blood with a bucket. Scott Kuhl matched it. Hampton sent Plymouth ahead again. Grant tied it up, with two free throws. McKenzie made the front end of a one-and-one penalty but missed two thereafter. Landoll banged a basket down for a 64 to 63 lead. The clock read 1:17. At 1:06 Klark Ostheimer was fouled by McGinnis, who was forced from the game, and converted one shot.

Leading by two points, Edison set up its defense. Plymouth let the clock wind down and with six seconds left Hampton fired in the tying shot.

Baker fouled Grant at two seconds and the denouncement was set. Even a time out between the last two shots by Grant failed to disturb his concentration.

The Chargers committed 17 turnovers, Plymouth only nine.

Brian Vredenburgh was carried from the floor with an ankle injury in the first half and manfully struggled to compete thereafter. This he did with considerable success, scoring three baskets that kept Plymouth in the running.

Baker had 15 and McGinnis 10 for the Big Red.

Bears sink Red in fourth with 29

It was fairly close for three periods at Castalia Saturday night, then Margaretta's Polar Bears found the range and trounced Plymouth, 87 to 68.

The Green and White won because it controlled the boards and it outshot the Big Red.

Margaretta made some adjustments late in the first half and pulled out to a narrow lead of two points at 36 to 36. The Big Red led after eight minutes, 18 to 14, thanks to some strong outside shooting. Indeed, one reason why Plymouth could not win is that it was unable to shoot from close range. Fewer than 15 per cent of its tries for field goal came from within arm's reach of the basket.

The Big Red shot well enough to win a dozen games. It got off 64 tries for field goal and converted 31 of them, just a hair under 50 per cent. The Polar Bears shot 65 times and made 35 of them. Considering their advantage in rebounding, 37 to 21, and in height, it is small wonder that Margaretta was able to prevail on offense with more than one try at the net.

No. 13 makes all-Ohio

Mike McKenzie is Plymouth's third all-Ohio Class A football player chosen by UPI.

The 12th grader was selected as kicker on the all-state offensive team.

Greg Polachek, punter, was a selection on the first team in 1962. Mickey Hampton was chosen as all-Ohio middle guard in 1957.

The biggest one was the winner against a tough Monroeville eleven. Plymouth defeated the Eagles 17 to 14.

Richard Cunningham got honorable mention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

In response to the letter that Plymouth is a ghost-town I would like to say, "Don't judge a town if you don't live here." It may be true that, except for one major industry, the rest has escaped us, but this does not reflect the true backbone of this town. It also may be true that up until this year we, the community in general, were given no respect at all. I myself being a volunteer leader reap hansomely from the dividends our young people keep earning. The pleasure of standing back and watching can never be replaced by material things.

This town may be invisible in some eyes, but as of lately I have seen no ghost walking around. I say to those who want to complain about what is happening in Plymouth, quit making excuses an offer your experience in bettering this community.

Baked apples great for Yule

By AUNT LIZ

There will probably be only three little girls in the whole United States who will not find a Cabbage Patch doll under her tree.

Unless, of course, their mothers and two other grandmothers fell for this latex American fad.

It isn't even American.

There is the big cry about "Buy American" and "Buy Ohio". Heck, these things are put out by the bulk in Asia someplace.

Let us face cold hard facts, they can do it cheaper than we can. And in some cases really better. (Ed. Note: It's a common truth: Argentinian beef and Japanese beef are better than American beef.) A few weeks ago I bought a little thing of holiday stickers, and spent almost two hours using every word I know while tryinq to unstick them from the backing. Then I looked. They were made in Pennsylvania.

You know what I said to myself? If they were Korean they would be plain easy to use.

I was wrong, wrong, wrong!

I had no idea what a Cabbage doll was until I heard some toy store owner say on the radio that he simply could not keep them in stock. Then a few days later I stopped to say hello to a visiting young friend whose mother proudly showed me her version of them, which she was making like mad for friends and selling for much less than the stores.

Do our great, intelligent guys in this country who call themselves economists and keep predicting this and that really know what is happening to retailers?

They are just about out of business in a number of things because we are now back to what history calls "home industries". All you have to do is go to a church bazaar and come away with great, clever, and nice homemade things. This goes for little decorative household things, toys and even foods.

Every clever young wife is making stuff like mad. This is great because they love it all.

The big catch is that they are not making it to give to friends, they are selling it without paying a sales tax that a store must charge.

Perhaps this sounds very mean, but it is so true.

So when a friend drops in with some of her homemade stuff which she says you will really love, give her a cup of coffee and baked apple, which just might keep her in a happy mood and off your back if you think the stuff is really lousy looking.

You can do a whole bag of them at one clip so there will be enough left over for your family.

Core good ones, put in a little mixture of cinnamon and sugar, add some raisins that have been boiled a little beforehand in water so they are soft. Sprinkle them on top and bake until the apples are tender.

They can be served either warm or cold with a topping and are good either way.

To make this for a dressed up adult meal, cook the raisins in a little white wine or brandy. Great!

Polar Bears sink Big Red on second half surge

Even so, it was still close going into the final eight minutes. Margaretta led by 53 to 52.

Perhaps fatigued by an exhausting effort at Edison the night before, and certainly drawn after three periods of playing against a bigger and stronger outfit, Plymouth fouled too much in the final period. The Polar Bears went to the line 14 times and made 13 of them. Plmyouth did not make a single free throw. But it was accorded only two chances.

Randy Fredrick scored 28 for the winners, almost all of them underneath. Ed Kurt scored 14 and Glen Davis 12.

How to spend without worry.

Buying the things you want makes you feel good. But spending that "little extra" you should be saving makes you feel guilty. And you worry.

One answer is to buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. They'll take out that "little extra" from each paycheck for Bonds.

You're automatically saving the amount you want to save, without ever seeing it. So you can't spend it. You won't even miss it. But you can spend what's left of your pay (after bills) without feeling guilty. Without worry.

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

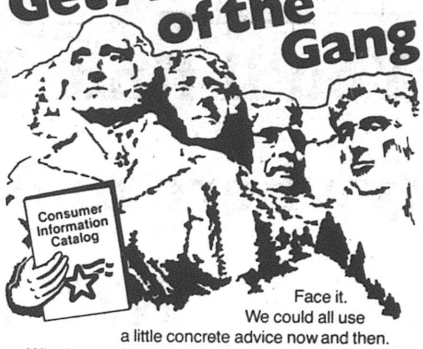

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Get ahead in your reading— read the newspaper.

TOM BAKER — RODNEY HAMPTON — MIKE McKENZIE

Baker, Hampton, McKenzie chosen 'athletes of year' by The Advertiser

Not since the Class of 1958, with which Ted Fox, Ray Einsel and Eddie Taylor were graduated , has Plymouth High school had in one class such a coterie of outstanding athletes.

In a departure from long tradition, The Advertiser begins this year the selection of an outstanding athlete of the year, which arbitrarily begins on Dec. 1 of the preceding year and concluded on Nov. 30 of the year of the award.

Nominations may be made by any person, including the publisher and the sports editor, neither of whom participates in the evaluation of the nominees. This is reserved to a confidential board of persons knowledgable in athletic matters and experienced in the community, most especially with community affairs. None knows of another's membership. Only the publisher knows the makeup of the board. Each member has agreed to serve without publicity; indeed, all but one insisted on absolute anonymity.

The publisher has made clear to the board that nominations are not limited to males, nor to those who are enrolled in a public school, nor to those attending school of any kind anywhere. Nominees must be domiciled in the Plymouth school district. This permits selection, at some future date, of a local athlete who excells at the college level or professionally. He or she must, however, maintain domicile in the district.

There were nine nominations for the award this season. After three ballots, three nominees survived. Two subsequent ballots were unable to settle upon one winner, so three have been chosen.

Baker excelled in baseball, basketball and football, in which he was a tri-captain of the highly successful 1983 team.

Hampton was outstanding as pitcher and outfielder in baseball, played all positions in basketball and was quarterback and all-Firelands conference offensive player and MVP representing the 1983 grid squad.

McKenzie was involved in track and field, played basketball with some distinction and won all-Ohio first team honors as placekicker among Class A players chosen by UPI. He also won all-conference honors as defensive and offensive player.

The committee was instructed to consider athletes in all fields of endeavor, specifically including but not limited to Midget league baseball, girls' softball, golf, cross country, wrestling, volleyball, basketball, baseball, football and track and field, and to consider equally those who may excel outside interscholastic athletics.

Nominations must be made in writing and submitted to the sports editor before Dec. 5 of a given year. They must state, in such detail as the nominator may wish, the reasons why the nomination is made. They must be signed. The address and telephone number, if any, of the nominator must be appended.

All nominations will remain confidential. The board of judges will not be apprised of the identity of any nominator, even those he may be a parent, spouse, fiance, sibling or other relative of the nominee.

Five candidates seek election as sheriff

Five persons now seek to be sheriff of Richland county.

Incumbent Richard Petty will seek reelection. He is a Democrat.

Two candidates are Republicans. These are Clarence Pollock, Mansfield, a former deputy who is now bailiff for the controversial Judge George Murray in Mansfield Municipal court, and Mearl Nichols, who is bailiff for Judge Ralph Johns in Mansfield Municipal court.

Walter Prosser, also of Mansfield, will be a Democratic candidate for the commissioner's seat now held by Terry Wolf, Lexington, a Republican, who hasn't said if he will seek reelection. His colleague, Mrs. Joan Thompson, a Democrat, has already thrown her hat into the ring. Edward Olson, Mansfield, a Republican, hopes to win his party's nomination to oppose her.

Incumbent Common Pleas Court Judge Max Chilcote, 59, Ontario, will seek reelection as a Republican. He defeated Judge James J. Mayer in November of 1978 and when there were two months of Mayer's term remaining, Chilcote, who grew up in Attica, where his father was chief of police and where he later taught and coached basketball, was appointed to complete Mayer's term.

The lines are drawn for a stiff fight in the May primaries for some Huron county offices.

Incumbent Commissioner Roy F. Palm, 66, North Fairfield, will seek reelection. He was elected in 1976 and reelected in 1980.

Thomas W. Carabin, the other Republican on the board of commissioners, will also seek reelection.

Douglas Colvin, formerly director of finance at Norwalk, and William Focht, trustee of Clarksfield township, a Republican, are curculating nomination petitions for commissioner.

Incumbents seeking reelection at Norwalk are Richard B. Hauser, prosecutor; Lawrence Heit, engineer; John Elmlinger, recorder, Thomas Heydinger, probate and juvenile judge, and William B. Holman, coroner.

The voice of The Advertiser —

The Christmas story

In those days a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be enrolled.

This was the first enrollment, when Quirinius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be enrolled each to his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child.

And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered.

And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn.

And in that region there were shepherds out in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And an angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were filled with fear.

And the angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord.

And this will be a sign for you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling cloths and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying,

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!"

From the Gospel according to St. Luke, second chapter, Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible.

Tuttle held after fight

Charles Tuttle took offense to a remark made by Coach Keith Diebler about Tuttle's brother, Joe, a reserve basketball player, before Friday's game and an imbroglio resulted.

He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Two injured in collision

He was charged with drunken driving.

He was taken to Shelby Memorial hospital.

His passenger, Donald Risner, 19, Rome road east of Shiloh, was also taken to Shelby by Plymouth ambulance and then transported to Mansfield General hospital.

Breakfast set

A holiday breakfast will be served Saturday from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. in Richland Lodge 201, F&AM.

Shilohan injured in crash

A 49-year-old Shiloh woman was injured Dec. 14 when the car in which she was a passenger struck another at Routes 61 and 224 at New Haven.

Marie Shepherd was taken to Willard Area hospital.

She was a passenger of James Shepherd, 79, same addres, whose car struck the rear of that driven by Joy I. James, Shelby, who was sitting to turn left into Route 224. Shepherd was summoned for failure to stop within an assured clear distance.

This is what Christmas means to me: Jesus was born and it means lots of presents but everyone gets me clothes and I want toys not clothing. But it mostly means Jesus was born.
Kelly Cooke

What Christmas means to me: Christmas is a time for fun and presents. Toys is what some kids like about Christmas. But Christmas is more than that. It is the time Jesus was born in Bethlehem. It is to the south. The end.

Lasch scores 22 points, Red 'D' dunks Mounties

Plymouth played defense as it ought to be played for three periods here Friday night and overcame Mapleton and a 10-point lead to win a Firelands conference contest, 69 to 60.

The Big Red forced the Mounties into mistake after mistake after stumbling through an unproductive and somewhat embarrassing first period and outshot the visitors in the final 24 minutes.

It wasn't that Plymouth was able to control the boards. Nor that its shooting accuracy was superior to Mapleton's. It was simply that in the transition game the Big Red was alert, aggressive and tenacious and forced eight mistakes in the second period, five of which led to scores; eight in the third quarter, of which six resulted in baskets, and seven in the final period, with six turning into Red hoops.

Offensively, Plymouth found a new course of sustenance, a skinny 11th grader named Jeff Lasch, who produced a career high of 22 points and kept Plymouth in the game in the first half. All he did was score 12 points in the second period, missing only three shots at the basket and none of two free throws. He scored eight more in the second half, by which time the classic Red scorers had found themselves, more or less, to shoulder some of the burden.

Rodney Hampton, for example, had a sorry experience in the first half. He took only four shots at the basket and made one and he missed five throws without sinking one.

He didn't score a field goal until the second period clock read 2:25. He wound up with 13, six of them in the final period.

Brian Vredenburgh scored a career high of 14 points, all of them from underneath, in his best performance so far. The turnaround shot was marvelous, certainly not less so than the marvelous turnaround of his physical condition. He was injured at Edisyn and did not dress at Margaretta.

Tom Baker, a steady performer throughout the season so far, scored 12, all of them in the first three periods.

Plymouth trailed by two at the half and seized the lead at 6:07 of the third period, when Hampton coverted the second of two free throws. His shot from the corner at 6:36 tied at 40.

Not thereafter was Mapleton able to close. After the Mounties went ahead on a shot by Gil Kuhrt at 7:28 of the third quarter, with the score 40 to 38 Plymouth went on a five point spurt to build its lead to 45 to 40 and led by as many as 16 in the final quarter before Mapleton bagged five unanswered points against second line players for Plymouth.

Plymouth got off 72 shots at the basket and made 31 of them. It missed 10 of 17 free throws, too many on a home floor. It committed only 25 turnovers and took down 38 rebounds.

Mapleton fired 56 times and scored with 26. It missed 11 of 19 free throws, made 24 turnovers and collected 37 rebounds.

Plzmouth's refusal to panic when Mapleton seemingly scored with ease with a smooth transition game and a strong under-the-basket attack showed signs this team will be competitive after the first of the year in the southern division of the Firelands conference. And on a good night it may give fits to some of the northern division clubs. But hardly Monroeville or Western Reserve.

Bank merger final; Willard United now First Buckeye

Merger of Willard United bank and First Buckeye Bank, National Association, took place Monday.

The decision to merge the two Toledo Trustcorp affiliate banks was announced in July. Regulatory approval cleard the way.

Consolidation is the result of a Toledo Trustcorp plan to operate three regional centers to serve each geographic region. The three regions are centered at Toledo, Defiance, and Mansfield. The Mansfield region is the newest area for the multi-bank holding company and covers five counties.

Rex. E. Collins, president and chief executive officer of First Buckeye Bank, National Association, and its newly merged bank says no special ceremonies will mark the occasion.

the occasion. "Business will go on as usual for our customers and staff. Since both banks are affiliated with Toledo Trustcorp, our operating procedures and philosphies will be similar. The name change will happen as smoothly as possible," Collins says. He said both banks were looking forward to joining forces in order to better serve their customers.

George W. Haigh, president and chief executive officer of Toledo Trustcorp, said the consolidation was a natural plan since Willard United bank and First Buckeye bank serve the same general region. "By consolidating their operation, we will be able to provide all communities presently served by both banks with expanded lending limits, commercial and retail services, and trust services," Haigh said.

Willard United bank had seven branch offices, in Willard, Greenwich, North Fairfield, Norwalk and Plymouth. First Buckeye bank has 23 offices in Mansfield, Ashland, Attica, Bellville, Crestline, Lexington, Ontario, Shiloh, Willard and Galion. The resulting bank has 30 offices and approximately $400 million in assets.

WHEREAS, pursuant to Ordinance No. 24-83, passed December 13, 1983, this Council authorized the construction of an addition to the fire house of the Village of Plymouth, and it appears advisable in lieu of issuing bonds for said purchase at this time, to issue notes in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds; and
WHEREAS, the Clerk as fiscal officer has certified to this Council that the estimated life of the aforesaid acquisition is at least five years, and that the maximum maturity of the bonds herein after referred to is twenty-five years, and the maximum maturity of the notes hereinafter referred to, to be issued in anticipation of said bonds is January 2, 1934; now therefore,
BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the Village of Plymouth, State of Ohio, 6 members thereto concurring:
Section 1. That it is hereby declared necessary to issue bonds of the Village of Plymouth in the aggregate principal amount of $65,000.00 for the purpose of construction of an addition to the Fire House of the Village of Plymouth.
Section 2. That such bonds shall be dated approximately January 5, 1984, shall bear interest at the estimated rate of eight per centum (8%) per annum, payable semi-annually, until the principal sum is paid, and shall mature in twenty-five (25) substantially equal annual installments after their issuance.
Section 3. That it is necessary to issue and this Council hereby determines that notes in the aggregate principal amount of $65,000.00 shall be issued in anticipation of such bonds. Such anticipatory notes shall bear interest at a rate of eight per centum (8%) per annum, such interest to be payable at maturity, or at any date of earlier redemption; with provision that if requested by the purchaser, such notes shall bear interest after maturity at such rate of interest not to exceed eight per centum (8%) per annum as may be required by the purchaser until the principal sum is paid. Such notes shall be dated January 5, 1984, and shall mature on January 4, 1985, but, if agreed to by the purchaser thereof, shall be issued subject to redemption prior to maturity at par and accrued interest, and shall be issued in such numbers and denominations as may be requested by the purchaser thereof.
Section 4. Such notes shall be executed by the Mayor and Clerk and bear the seal of the corporation, shall be payable at a depository bank of the municipality to be designated by the Clerk when such notes are awarded, and in federal reserve funds of the United States of America if so requested by the purchaser thereof, and shall express upon their faces the purpose for which they are issued and that they are issued pursuant to this ordinance.
Section 5. The proceeds from the sale of such notes, except any premium and accured interest, shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose for which such notes are being issued under the provisions of this ordinance. Any premium and accured interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of such notes in the manner provided by law.
Section 6. The Village of Plymouth hereby covenants that it will restrict the use of the proceeds of the notes in such manner and to such extent, if any, as may be necessary, after taking into account reasonable expectations at the time the debt is incurred, so thay they will not constitute arbitrage bonds under Section 103(c)of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations prescribed under that Section.
