

Pay increases for village staff win approval

A pay raise for village employees will take effect Jan. 1.

Councilmen briefly went over the proposed changes during Monday night's committee meeting.

Utility employees will receive a five per cent raise, policemen three and a half per cent.

Members of the fire and ambulance squads will be given hourly mileage bills individuals, however, for each run.

Hopkins said he checked with the Richland county auditor's department as to how much the township received from its levies for the two services. The fire levy produces $10,773 and the ambulance levy $3,283, so he feels the village charges are within reason, since they do not exceed the levies.

The trustees have objected to one clause in the contract. It says they are responsible for 50 percent of any damages to equipment that is not covered by village insurance.

This is to be deleted, since legally they should not be paying what could be termed "insurance" for equipment owned by the village and not themselves.

Hopkins also told the council Richland county is beginning to undertake countywide numbering system, which Huron and Crawford counties already have done.

This, he said, will make it easier find where emergencies exist.

Specifications are ready for the village now to advertise for bids on a new fire pump.

A 10 per cent bid bond is to be required, a non-mandatory pre-bid session set up and special financing will be considered in the bidding.

The fire pump fund has a total of $150,035.17 as of Nov. 30, which enables the village to pay cash for the vehicle. If a successful bidder can offer an attractive financing plan at an interest rate lower than what the village can earn on its deposits, it would be to the advantage to accept such a plan.

Teacher pointed out a five year contract would offer gas customers a lower rate than a shorter term one.

Taulbee said he thinks a two or three year contract would be wiser and Tischer is to prepare new figures for that time period.

Taulbee also said he does not agree with the company increasing the customer charge, which is a gas user must pay before he starts to consume any gas. It is now $4.60 and the company wants to increase it to $5.15.

Plymouth township trustees seem to be agreeable to the terms of the new three year contract for the village.

The voice of The Advertiser—

Ave atque vale,
Casey Kinsel

It is not easy to say goodbye to one who has been so cooperative and so understanding as Casey Kinsel.

He has earned his retirement and we pray that it will be as rewarding to him as has, obviously, his long tenure of service as teacher, coach and principal.

We told a passerby late Monday night that Casey is packing it in.

"I know," he said, "once he kicked me, right in the keester. So hard I saw stars, and I turned around and kicked him right back, right in the shins, enough to stagger a horse. But he kept right on comin' and he said to me, 'See here, damn you, I did it for your own good, but if you want to make something of this, let's go outside!' I didn't want any part of him, but with his face as red as it was. He'd have torn me into bits. Casey's all right. But for him I'd be in jail."

We once asked our own children why they spoke to seldom of their teachers and preceptors.

"Because," one of them said, "when we compare them to you and Mom, there's nothing to say."

Yet each of them, in his own way, has kind things to say about Casey Kinsel: how he encouraged them, how he cooled them down when they were heated up and how he fired them up when they needed firing.

This is what education is all about. Some of us have it and some of us don't. Some of us do fine with the children of others, less well with our own. Some are the reverse: we do well with our own and we aren't worth a damn with those of others.

Those of us in the second category don't try to be teachers. We are all lucky that Casey did.

Loss of $876 to thieves reported here

Theft of copper wire, two chain saws and plumbing gear said to be worth $876 was reported to police Saturday at 4:57 p. m. by Robert Boyer, 150 Plymouth street, who said the items were taken from his garage.

Police are studying clues.

Fleming kin, Clifford Preston succumbs at 82 at Shelby

Nephew of the late Miss May Fleming, for many years a composer in The Advertiser and thereafter the pulp census taker for Plymouth Local School District, J. Clifford Preston, 82, died Friday evening in Heritage Care Center, Shelby, of a lengthy illness.

Born near Plymouth Jan. 19, 1902, he was the son of the late Nellie Fleming Preston.

He worked 42 years for Shelby Metal Products Co. before he retired. He was a lifetime member of First United Methodist church and a former member of the Knights of Pythias.

His wife, nee Geraldine Smith; two daughters, Betty, now Mrs. Forrest Smith, Shelby, and Mrs. Wilma Miller, East Lansing, Mich., and four grandchildren survive.

His minister, the Rev. Carl G. Beighley, conducted services at Shelby Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

Interment was in Oakland cemetery there.

Personal tax of $1,186.41 in red at Norwalk

Personal property tax delinquencies reported by the Huron county auditor for Plymouth Local school district include $1,186.41 owed by Charles E. Pritchard, 150 West Broadway; $16.74 owed by Kerox Corp., both in the village, and $6,382.32 owed by Abel Materials, Inc., Strongsville.

Ex-auditor K. E. Reed dies at 70

Huron county auditor for two terms and an employee of that office for 41 years, Kenneth E. Reed, 70, Willard, died in Cleveland Clinic Hospital Thursday of a lengthy illness.

He was born in Willard June 14, 1914, and lived there all his life. He retired as auditor in 1980. He succeeded Bernard F. Keon as auditor.

Fore was a member of First United Methodist church, whose minister, the Rev. Bruce Bequaette, conducted services Monday at 1:30 p. m.

Burial was in Greenwood cemetery there.

He is survived by his wife, nee Helen Kline; three sons, David, Willard; Dennis, Derry, N. H.; and Eric, Denver, Colo., and three grandchildren.

After 28 years in local system —

Kinsel to retire from Shiloh post

He was fresh out of the Army and came home to Shiloh looking for a job.

He coached in Shiloh High school in 1952 and was hired the following spring as full-time teacher and coach.

And, save for four years when he was an elementary principal at Ontario, he has been there since.

Edward M. (Casey) Kinsel will retire at the end of January after 32 years as an educator, 28 of them in the Shiloh and Plymouth systems.

"It's time for some new blood," he said Monday night, after his notice of intent to retire was read to Plymouth Board of Education.

"You know, in all the years I've taught or been principal at Shiloh, or at Plymouth, I never met a kid that I didn't have or couldn't find some good use in. There were some who were troublemakers, and some who went haywire after they got out of school, but every one of them that I had anything to do with was all right."

He plans to be occupied with his farm in Route 603 east of Shiloh.

His successor, as acting principal, will be Mark Sheely, who now is assistant principal. He will complete the unexpired term of Kinsel's 10-month contract, which runs out in June. The board will post in the local system a notice that the post of acting assistant principal is to be filled and will invite applications from the staff.

He was a Shiloh High school alum who was graduated by Bowling Green State university, whence he took a master's degree.

He was principal of Shiloh High school from 1952 to 1959.

He has been employed in the traffic department of Fisher Body Cars, General Motors Corp., for the past 19 years.

Kinsel is the father of a son and four daughters. There are two grandsons and three granddaughters.

The term to which he was appointed by Mayor Dean A. Cline, who acted because the village council failed to act within 30 days of Moore's resignation, expires Dec. 31, 1985.

E. A. Cole named to council by mayor

E. Adrian Cole, 46, was sworn as a councilman Tuesday night to fill the unexpired term of G. Thomas Moore, who resigned two months ago.

A native of Shiloh, where he graduated from Shiloh High school in 1957, he has lived in the village since 1959.

He has been employed in the traffic department of Fisher Body Cars, General Motors Corp., for the past 19 years.

Kinsel is the father of a son and four daughters. There are two grandsons and three granddaughters.

The term to which he was appointed by Mayor Dean A. Cline, who acted because the village council failed to act within 30 days of Moore's resignation, expires Dec. 31, 1985.

New JayCees elect Akers to top post

Ronald Akers is the president of the second JayCee organization to be undertaken here.

He was chosen Dec. 5 by 21 colleagues who were taken into the organization by the Shelby chapter, whose president is Carl Yeager, son-in-law of the J. Max Fiddler.

Other officers are Nathaniel Maggard, internal vice-president; C. Edward Watson, external vice-president; S. Michael Tracey, treasurer, and Lisa Perdue, secretary.

Next meeting of the JayCees will be Dec. 18 at 7:30 p. m.

He has served as elementary principal here, as high school principal and as principal at Shiloh, in charge of grades kindergarten through eight.

Price of cafeteria meals will advance five cents in each category, effective Jan. 2.

The cafeteria is now recording red ink. Supt. Douglas R. Staggs told the board The current figure is $2,876.64. He said the increase in price to 85 cents for grade school pupils, 85 cents for high school pupils and $1.46 for adults will overcome some of the losses. He and the cafeteria staff are studying how to make some "cost containment" changes in the operation of the cafeteria to bring the account into balance. Inordinate outlays to cover sick leave and other unforeseen expenses were blamed by Staggs for part of the slump in accounts.

Pregnancy recuperation leave was accorded two teachers, Mrs. Carol Knapp, a second grade at Shiloh, and Mrs. Paul Gase, nee Joyce Sloan, fourth grade at Shiloh. Mrs. Knapp expects to be confined Dec. 15 and plans to return to duty on Feb. 25. Mrs. Gase anticipates confinement on Dec. 24 and would return to work on Mar. 4.

A proposal by the English department of the high school to organize a school play, open to pupils of all high school grades, was approved. So was a proposal by the vocal music department to stage a pupil talent show. Director of the former will be paid 24 per cent of base salary, of the latter one per cent.

Target date for the play, which apparently will be the comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace", is early April, that for the talent program late February.

The productions will rotate annually with a musical.

Memorial day observance, to accord with new state law, was switched to May 27, a Monday, rather than May 30, a Thursday.

Carter Young was approved as a volunteer assistant in the wrestling program.

Republic Franklin Insurance Co. notified the board that it will cancel personal liability coverage for its members as of Feb. 1 at 12:01 a. m. and make refund for that part of the premium of $731 that is applicable. The company said new interpretation of the sovereign immunity law prohibits it from continuing to extend coverage at the agreed rate.

Local woman, two companions hurt in collision

A Plymouth woman and two companions were injured Dec. 4 when a tire of their vehicle blew out in Boughtonville road and the vehicle struck a mailbox.

Kathy Stumbo, Route 61; the driver, Leonard Barnett, 20 Mansfield, formerly of 37 West High street; and Bobbie Barnett, 35, Route 99, Willard, were treated in Willard Area hospital shortly after 10 p. m.

Shelly L. Root was charged by the state highway patrol with failure to control her vehicle, which she said skidded in snow.

Two Plymouthites, husband and wife, and a Shilohian were indicted Dec. 4 by a Richland county grand jury.

These are James Poston, Jr., 44, and Kathy Sue Poston, 29, his wife, 64½ East Main street, accused of four counts of trafficking in marijuana, and Steven W. Poth, 27, Shiloh, charged with another Harry (Bud) Tackett, Jr., age and address unknown, with theft.

Gingerbread and recipes included —

Four nice things in week!

By AUNT LIZ
There's an old saying that things happen in threes. Bad things really do. But the good things come in fours.
Four nice things have happened, and one hopes there will be a fifth, a sixth, and so on.
First, I came home one day and there was a lovely paper plate of the most beautiful date bars. Tasty, too.

Next came a telephone call from a nice neighbor, who asked if we like gingerbread. Frankly, I thought it was one of the dumbest questions I had ever heard, since everyone in his right mind likes it. She said she would be right over, and I expected a plate of two nice slices. Instead, it was one large round cake, and the real thing.

Lord only knows how many she had made that day. She was experimenting. For years she whipped it together without measuring and now a niece wanted her recipe, so she was trying to figure it out and kept on making them.

Then about an hour later one of our little friends appeared with a plateful of real elderberry pie, with which his mother was saying thank you.

The fourth is almost unbelievable. I got a fan letter from a guy I have never laid eyes on, but he sure has a sense of humor. He's a retired detective in Cincinnati and he sounds like the Mike Hammer type.
He thought some of my recipes were rather good, and he sent three of his own.
One, I think, would be a great success even though we haven't tried it.

And it is timely, with New Year's Eve coming.
Start with a pound of fresh sauerkraut. Mix it with a fourth of a teaspoon of dill or caraway seed (taste it and add what you want) and two tablespoons of grated fresh onion. Chill it over night, and before serving it, mix in some sour cream so it will spread nicely on small slices of rye bread.

He recommends serving it as an appetizer with beer or white wine, but it can also be a salad.
Here's another one that sounds equally as good.
Four a half cup of beer in a skillet and add a fourth of a teaspoon of dill and a very thinly sliced onion. Cook it until the onion is transparent.

Add a pound of sauerkraut. On top of it, bratwurst or Kielbasa. Heat it very slowly until the meat is hot.
He apparently does not waste a thing, including the left over beer. After you have measured out the half of cup, that goes in the cook.

His Kentucky sweet potato recipe is the best one of all, and first we will try it before passing it on.

Don't place debris on rails!

Juveniles apparently stacked three railroad tie butts onto the right-of-way of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad under the bridge in West Broadway Dec. 10.

Acting Chief Bill N. Spognardi reports he found the debris as reported by Rick Super, Willard, railroad patrolman of the Chesapeake system. Spognardi called on parents of active juveniles to warn them of the consequences of piling any obstruction on the railway right of way.

He promises to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law anyone detected of having done such damage.

IT'S TIME TO STOP TALKING ABOUT EDUCATION.

The topic's been covered up one side and down the other. Reports tell us that over half of our high school graduates can't even write a simple letter. Can't think through the most basic kinds of problems. And therefore, aren't adequately prepared to join our country's work force.

But haven't we said enough? Published enough dismal findings? Isn't it time something was done?

Yes. And the fact is, every one of us can help. Many already are—individuals, small businesses, large businesses, and all types of organizations. Here are just a few ways:
Individuals can: • volunteer as teachers' aides • attend school meetings • run for school board • support school bond issues • donate time to school libraries • urge elected officials to push for better funding. Businesses and other organizations can: loan or donate equipment • provide internship programs • hire teachers for summer jobs • support new legislation • help train school personnel on the latest technology • form partnerships with local schools • work with a state task force on education.

There's no denying we have a problem. One that threatens our individual lives, as well as our nation's economy. Because without quality education, America won't have a quality future.

Talking isn't going to change that. But doing something will. To find out more, write: Task Force on Education for Economic Growth, P.O. Box 76696, Washington, D.C. 20013. It's just plain smart to get involved.

Second half surge wins for Big Red over Edison

Plymouth showed Friday night that it can do, and do with great gusto what it could not or would not do before: play with force and aggressiveness in the third period. Breaking a 24 to 24 tie at the half, the Big Red stormed to a 32-point third quarter against Edison in Firelands conference competition and won, 63 to 59.

It was a team effort all the way, even though two of the starters fouled out. These were Kevin Taylor, who went to the bench with 4:06 left, and Eric Rath, who was sent off at 1:18.

The lead in this one changed hands 15 times and the score was tied five times.

The adversaries traded baskets in the early going of the third quarter. Edison established a lead of six points and Plymouth called for time out at 3:50. Whatever Coach Dave Dunn said to his team, he said it with force and effort, because the Big Red outscored the Chargers 14 to 4 for the remainder of the period and took a 46 to 42 lead into the final eight minutes.

Plymouth converted 10 of 17 shots at the basket during the critical third quarter. Edison was even better: nine of 18. But Plymouth tacked on two free throws and those four points stood up for the remainder of the game. Edison never got closer.

With 3:22 left in the game, Plymouth led by 57 to 49 and Jeff Lasch, who concluded his efforts with just 10 points after canning only two of eight shots in the first half and one of five in the third period, missed a free throw.

The Big Red enlarged the lead to 10 at 59 to 49 at 2:49 and then watched the lead fitter away steadily, largely on the strength of baskets by Kevin Rutherford and Dave Shupe. Shupe led all scorers in the game with 19.

Only one other Charger, Klark Ostheimer, was in double figures. He scored 11.

Each team collected 31 rebounds. Plymouth was much less careless on offense. The Big Red was charged with 19 turnovers, Edison with 26, eight of them in the fourth period.

Steve Hall was high for Plymouth with 16, nine of them in the second half.

Eric Rath replaced Brian Christoff as a starter and produced 12 points, eight of them in the second half, before he fouled out.

Troy Keene scored 10 as well. All told, seven Plymouth players contributed to the scoring.

The Big Red shot acceptable, converting 25 of 53 tries for field goal and 13 of 26 free throws. Its penalty shot shooting may cost dearly down the road. No home team can afford to miss half of the free throws.

An unfortunate incident developed with less than 20 seconds left. Keene drove for the basket and was fouled by Shupe. It was strong contact, contact that displeased Keene so much he thumped the safety pad with his hand. Remarks then made cost Plymouth a technical. Another technical was called on the Plymouth bench, from which Junior Porter sprang and engaged in heated and menacing colloquy with Chris Mize. Coach Dunn was socked with a two shot penalty for stepping onto the floor.

Two of the technical fouls, shot by Shupe, were good, which reduced the Plymouth lead to four.

Heavy rebounding contribution is expected of Kevin Taylor, Plymouth's tallest player, in league matches with Mapleton there tomorrow and South Central here Saturday.

Sparkling of Big Red girls' team is Rhonda Branham, averaging 13.5 points a contest after two games. She averages 5.5 rebounds a game, as well. Girls play at Mapleton today.

Red trounced by Margaretta

James Tyree scored the first three baskets in Saturday's contest here to lead Margaretta to an awesome 69 to 35 thumping of Plymouth in a game that was close for only one minute, toward the end of the first period, when the Big Red closed to within three points.

The Polar Bears shot from outside with fantastic accuracy. Only nine of their 41 field goals were made within the paint. Sixty per cent came from ranges of 14 feet or more.

The visitors were shooting over a zone defense thrown up by Plymouth before one of the larger crowds in recent history. Margaretta fans, perhaps because they smelled victory before they left home, easily outnumbered those from Edison on the night before, when the visiting attendance produced perhaps enough revenue to pay the officials but no more.

Margaretta had a four point streak early in the second period to open a lead of 20 to 11 and from there on it was Katy, bar the door.

The visitors outscored Plymouth seven in the second quarter, by 11 in the third and by 13 in the fourth.

Their leader was Jim Bodey, who scored 18. He was the only Polar Bear in double figures. But Coach Wally Amburn, who last year guided St. Paul's, knows Plymouth's offense well and he had enough horses to deal with it, such as it was, and to counter it. The he did with seven other scorers.

At one point toward the end of the third quarter Margaretta scored eight unanswered points, a feat it duplicated and then some after giving up a basket to Eric Rath to end the third period, scoring 13 in a row at the beginning of the fourth period.

You can't beat this kind of basketball with a stick.

Plymouth got 10 points from Steve Hall.

The Big Red couldn't have hit a bull in the tail with a banjo. It got off 55 shots at the basket and made just 15, only 27 per cent. And it missed nine of 14 free throws.

The visitors, meanwhile, were shooting well. They fired 55 times and scored with 31, or 56 per cent. They missed five of 12 penalty shots.

The Polar Bears collared 35 rebounds, Plymouth only 28.

The Big Red did not make all that many mistakes in advancing the ball, only 14. Margaretta was charged with 11 turnovers.

Girls down Crestline in second half

The third period is the name of the game the way Plymouth girls play it.

For the second straight time, they came out blazing after the halftime recess and knocked Crestline into the gutters with a ten strike. The score was 43 to 38.

Rhonda Branham and Lori Fidler contributed 14 points apiece to the Big Red victory, which was forged upon 20 conversions of 56 tries for field goal and three of seven free throws.

The Bulldogs, meanwhile, were much less effective on the Plymouth floor. They got off 43 shots and sank 14 of them. They missed 16 of 23 free throws.

The visitors outscored Plymouth by 10, 33 to 23, but they made more mistakes in advancing the ball, 22 to 13.

Dollies issued by cards!

If you think you've heard of everything, wait until you hear this!

Beginning today, Plymouth Branch library will issue library cards for dolls.

It may sound a little outrageous, but library community relations officer, Melanie Kosower, says with the current craze associated with Cabbage Patch Kids and other dolls the cards, good for any type of doll, are a new and fun way of bringing children and books together.

Any child may obtain a dollie library card by visiting the branch library or the bookmobile.

Mrs. Kosower says parents may want to give dollie cards as stocking stuffers to go along with dolls they give their children for Christmas.

The cards will be distributed through Jan. 6, in order to accommodate those children who may receive dolls for the holiday, and want to bring them to the library "in person" to collect a card.

There is a limited supply of cards, so the library is restricting distribution to one for each child. Mrs. Kosower suggested children obtain a card for only their favorite doll.

The cards are not valid for actual check out of library materials.

Finally, what about all of the little boys who may be offended at the prospect of a dollie card?

Library cards for Teddy bears will also be issued.

Every year the Government
publishes thousands of books. And every year the Government Printing Office sells millions of these books to people in the know. Now there's a book that tells you about the Government's "bestsellers"— but it's not for sale... it's free!

It's our new catalog of almost 1,000 of GPO's most popular books. Books like Infant Care, Merchandizing Your Job
Talents, The Statistical Abstract, Starting a Business, The Space Shuttle
at Work, How to Select a Nursing Home, Voyager at Saturn, and Cutting Energy Costs.

This catalog includes books from virtually every Government agency.

So the subjects range from agriculture, business, children, and diet to science, space, transportation, and vacations. And there are titles on military history, education, hobbies, physical fitness, gardening, and much more. There's even a special section for recently published books.

Find out about the Government's bestsellers. Send today for a copy of the book we don't sell. Write—
