For Gillmor. Van Meter. Kilgore, Christ on May 6

The citizen-elector has some important decisions to make on May 5.

Participants in the GOP primary election must choose among three candidates to select a candidate to oppose Gov. Richard Celeste in November, who, unless he falls ill or dies before then, will surely be the Democratic candidate.

James A. Rhodes has served as governor of this state longer than any other. He is a late septuagenarian, vigorous still, but not so vigorous as when he was in his prime. And some of his campaign promises seem to us, at least, to be equally old hat.

Would it be wise for Republicans to opt for him in the belief that he, perhaps he alone, can defeat the incumbent governor? It is, we think, the meet and proper thing for anyone who votes in the primary to consider "will my candidate, if he should win the primary, be the best candidate to win the office in November?

At the same time, the elector ought to consider the proposals made by every candidate for making Ohio a better place in which to live. One candidate has done so, in our opinion, better than the others. That candidate is Sen. Paul Pfeifer, who represents this district in the Ohio

It is doubtful that he can win on May 6. His campaign has not shown substantial acceptance, he seems to be mired down with an assault on a tar baby, and he may have aggravated, if not completely alienated, some party wheelhorses who can be expected to get out the vote on May 6.

He has served us well and he is entitled to a vote. But we think he cannot win. Paul Gillmor, of Pt. Clinton, president of the Ohio senate, seems more likely to win, if Rhodes can be Given that Rhodes is too old and too antiquated to be the party standard bearer, and that Pfeifer, for all his merits, cannot win, it follows that Gillmor ought to be elected. Vote for Gillmor.

The campaign for the senate seat in the 19th district has been bitter and demeaning. One party regular said, confidentially, "It's a race between a jock and a jerk." etween a jock and a jerk."

The characterization may be harsh. It does not bode well for the prospect of a victory in November, whichever candidate wins. The Democratic candidate, Richard Stander Mansfield, is a gentleman, a capable and successful businessman, a family man with no blet on his escutcheon, publicly or privately, and will be tough to beat.

We have been disappointed by the conduct d attitude of each of the GOP candidates. Van Mêter has the experience. He needs to be taken to the woodshed. Schafrath seems out of his depth. Van Meter is the better choice, if a choice must be made.

Who serves as domestic relations judge (read juvenile judge, as well) in Richland county has his work cut out for him.

And it's important that the right person be aspirants, have some experience and the advantage of enthusiasm and relative youth. We lean toward Kilgore, for reasons we can't quite explain. One of them is, however, that he has no visible ties to any incumbent office holder. Terry Kilgore and Robert Konstan, GOP Democrate have the opportunity to choose Paul Christ, with long experience, or T. Michael Dorner, with less experience. It seems likely the Christ would prove the stronger candidate.

Willard seeks boost in water rates. asks 17 per cent

An increase in water rates for users of village water may be immenent.

City of Willard, which furnishes water to Plymouth from its reservoir, has asked for an increase.

Thursday night the increase requested was 25 per cent. By Friday morning it had dropped to 17 per cent, with the hope that the Plymouth's village council would act immedi-

Tymouti s range ately.
Thursday's meeting sought by Willard took place here. Willard councilmen Jack Fryman and Roderick Shininger, members of the water committee and Paul Capelle, Willard's city committee and Paul Capelle, Willard's city manager, were present.

For Plymouth there were Mayor Keith A. Hebble, Councilmen Roy Barber, Mrs. Terry Jump, Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., and Bill Taulbee and James C. Root, village administrator, and John Fazzini, village clerk-freesurer. treasurer.

Willard's water fund needs more money. The argument is that Willard consumers have had three rate increases totalling 20 per cent in the last five years, but Plymouth's rate has not been increased since the initial contract was signed May 1, 1981.
Plymouth pays a minimum charge for 150,000 gallons of water a day. This amounted to $55.684.75 in 1085.

to $00,084.75 in 1985.

However, Root points out, Plymouth is using an average of 138,471 gallons a day. His figure is based on meter readings for the last 14 months, even though during March, April and May of 1985, the meter was not working, and the village was read out at an average of 140,000 gallons, which may be higher or even 140,000 gallons, which may be higher or even lower than actual usage.

With these figures for Plymouth and those of Willard for their costs, it turns out that Plymouth is consuming about 14 per cent of the daily pumpage but paying 21 per cent of Shininger said Willard users feel Plymouth

Snininger sain a whard users feel Plymoutn rates should be increased as theirs have been, and the only way Willard can balance its water fund budget is that Plymouth should pay the same rate as Willard pays.

To this argument Plymouth negotiators took strong exception.

Mrs. Jump said Plymouth residents can't afford such high rates.

Solicitor Richard Wolfe, 2nd, Solicitor Richard Wolfe, 2nd, said that Plymouth's participation in the Willard waster delivery system has in reality kept Willard rates down and it is unfair and not accurate to claim that Plymouth should sustain the same raise as has been effected in Willard. G. Thomas Moore, former councilman who was present as concerned citizen, said Willard rates would be higher if the city did not sell water to Plymouth. He said a raise of 25 per water to Plymouth. He said a raise of 25 per cent reflects an accumulation of "adjust-ments" over five years or so and suggested a smaller percentage. Willard, he said, should not be allowed to recoup losses of the past. Village council met Tuesday night to discuss the proposal further. It agreed informally with the Willard negotiators that if and when an upward adjustment is agreed to, it will have retroactive effect to May 1, the magic date set forth in the contract negotiated with Willard

To submit to the Willard proposal, Plymouth negotiators said, would require the village to raise the minimum water rate to $9 for 2,000 raise the minimum water rate to $9 for 2,000 gallons.

Mrs. Jump, whose family by marriage stretches back for many years in Willard, was emphatic about her views. Plymouth, she said, pays enough to support Willard: it sends workers there, it provides new customers for new restaurants, more income tax for the Dale street sewer in Willard.

Capelle observed that the inexorable economics of water usage patters affects the Willard water fund when rates are raised. When the price goes up, he said, the usage level goes down, proportionately in some instances, disproportionately in others.
