

Is the cart hitched up before horse? What to do?

The second sign of Project 1990 has appeared.

Two Victorian era style lampposts have been raised. Within a few days, the missing parts will be on hand so that the lamps may shine in resplendent glory upon the saplings planted by the village earlier.

Well and good. Willy Loman showed how a new suit and a shoeshine gave a rundown salesman a new lease on life. But Willy Loman also showed that such court plaster covers the wound until it scabs over, whereupon the scar remains when it is removed.

That the saplings and the new lamppost are pleasant to look upon goes without saying.

But do they deal with the problems of the Public Square? We think not.

What are the problems of the Public Square, for almost a century and a half the center of commerce in the village and the focus of notice and attention by the citizenry?

1. Said citizenry has an enormous investment in the sanitation and utility services of the Square, an investment that will not be paid off for a number of years down the road. The rate structure to settle those obligations is predicated upon thriving enterprises that can pay for, and continue to pay for, their reasonable share of the total encumbrance against the systems.

2. The number of viable businesses doing business around the Square has diminished over the past five years. One that opened with some fanfare a few short months ago has discovered the land of milk and honey is not as strident the 41st parallel in Plymouth, Ohio. Of those that consistently open their doors every day save Sunday, one is and has been for sale, with no takers at the price sought by the seller; another that's for sale can't find a buyer under any circumstances; a third struggles to build a volume of business that once was but may never be again; a fourth is feeling its way as a baby on its feet for only the second time; two others are steering close to the wind, for obvious reasons.

3. The kinds of businesses that drew a catholicity of consumers and would do so again do not now participate in retail business here.

Do saplings and Victorian lampposts address these maladies? Not quite.

Galion is a small city, the largest in Crawford county, only 19 miles off. Our friend Dan Ritchey, executive director of its chamber of commerce, says, "We're not going to ask people to invest in a streetscaping project without having in motion a program for revitalizing the business and retail mix and economic conditions."

A lengthy presentation was made Aug. 28 to a group of 15 who said they are interested in helping Galion to grow by a Mansfield architect. Its gist was substantially as has been offered, and adopted, here. To which the co-chairman of the committee said, "Nothing is possible until we meet the economic revitalization factors. This is like putting the cart before the horse."

It strikes us that this was said here some time ago. To what effect? It only hurts when we laugh.

Those who have promoted the courtplaster approach, for whatever reasons, ought to examine what they have done, see how and why it's an unfunny joke, hitch up their socks and get cracking on some sensible resolution of the only questions that count:

1. What kinds of new retail businesses will Plymouth support?

2. Where will they be housed, with adequate parking space to accommodate a reasonable flow of customers over 40 hours a week?

Private kindergarten organizer, Mrs. Fackler, 91, dies at Willard

Mrs. Henry H. Fackler, 91, 65 Plymouth street, a retired teacher who conducted a private kindergarten here for a generation, died Sunday evening in Hillside Area Nursing home, Willard.

Born Elora Delancy in Cass township Dec. 20, 1894, she was graduated by Shelby High school in 1912. She attended Ohio university, Athens, obtaining a teaching certificate and was assigned to a one room school near Shiloh before she took a contract to teach in Plymouth schools.

She organized and operated Plymouth's first private kindergarten, which she conducted in her home until 1967.

Her late husband was a prominent leader of farmers who objected the New Deal farm policies in the early 1930's, activity that in time led to a mass protest meeting in Plymouth attended by several thousands of supporters eager to hear Rep. William Lemke a North Dakotan, the central figure in the futile farmer's protests.

Henry Fackler died of cancer in 1964.

A son, John J. died in 1969.

Mrs. Fackler was a member of First Evangelical Lutheran church and, until it discontinued its meetings, the principal women's civic association in Plymouth, the 20th Century circle. She also served for many years on the library board, a coterie of women who raised funds and collected books for the library branch here.

A son, Richard D. Plymouth; a grandson, Todd H. Plymouth; a granddaughter, Elizabeth, Waterville, and two great-grandsons survive.

The Rev. A. Preston Van Deusen, her minister, conducted graveside services in Oakland cemetery, Shelby, Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Memorial contributions may be sent to Plymouth Public Library.

Big Red aims to avenge 50-12 defeat in 1981

It was a bitterly cold night on Nov. 6, 1981, when the Big Red went to Danbury for its penultimate game of the season.

That Plymouth took a horrible lacing, 50 to 12, ranked as much in the ears — the frozen ears — and hearts — the cold hearts — of the faithful Red fans who made the journey won't be forgotten tomorrow, when the Lakers host the Big Red once more.

Danbury is rebuilding and doing not such a bad job of it.

The Lakers are coached by Brad Bauer, one of Crestline's Junk Yard Dawgs of yesteryear, a fellow who has considerable experience with Plymouth teams.

He's in his third season. On Friday the Lakers knocked off Mapleton, on the Mounties' field. Danbury has 15 returning lettermen, led by Mark Harris, who scored the only touchdown of the game against Mapleton Friday, and Brian Kowalczyk, each of whom has three monograms, and five others who've two letters apiece.

They are seasoned, all save one a 12th grader.

The squad numbers 41, and this in a school considerably smaller than Plymouth.

That squad is not big, except for Jeff Zenowicz, who scales 207 pounds, but its experience and desire make up for what it lacks in size.

Dale Culver is the quarterback. He stands six feet five and weighs 167. His number is 10.

Harris, No. 34, can do it all. He blocks well, he carries the ball with great force — he's another Dave Powers — and there are three fine tailbacks to go with Harris at fullback. These are Brian Cichocki, 145 pounds, 11th grader; Brian Kowalczyk, No. 30, with three years of experience, the leader of the trio, and Randy Sucky, No. 44.

Up front, Zenowicz plays right tackle. Bauer is especially happy with the play of Chuck Dobrowolski at center. And Jeff Hale, his nose guard on defense, is so quick his coach merely shakes his head in wonderment.

The linebackers have experience, eight letters among the three of them. They are Kowalczyk, Harris and Dobrowolski.

Against the Mounties, the Lakers rang up 131 yards on the ground with 47 plays and 67 yards through the air with six completions and one lost by interception in 14 tries.

The Laker defense held the Mounties to a total of 171 yards, 73 on the ground, 98 through the air. They are vulnerable to a strong passing game.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The gentleman from Parselt road seeks to change that image on the football field. Big Greg Burks, offensive tackle and defensive tackle on the Big Red eleven, is out to prove in this, his final year, that Plymouth can make waves in the Firelands conference. He's looking to dine on Laker meat tomorrow.

John Myers doesn't speak much of his abilities. He knows that praise to those who witness what he does on the field. He'll be seen always at tackle and, he hopes, often in Danbury's backfield in non-conference game there tomorrow, when Red aims to avenge terrible defeat of 1981.

John Ganzhorn treads in steps of father of same name, a generation ago, and of brother, Reggie. But he's his own man and he plays strong guard with skill and determination, making what he has count for a bit more than the balance of the scale reads.

No. 45 is Dave Powers, co-captain, tackle on defense, fullback on offense, a main cog in the gears that Coach Richard Roll has assembled for the 1987 Big Red team. Powers has three letters so far and will surely win a fourth. But he'd rather win the FC championship.

A trin, Todd Wilson is the only one that participates in three major sports. This is his first year in football and he's made it a good one so far, mostly in the defensive backfield and on special teams. He's a stout tackler and, considering that he's relatively green, shows a good head for the game.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

October 4 - 10, 1987

I am delighted to extend greetings once again to newspaper staffs and readers across our land who are joining the Newspaper Association Managers in observing National Newspaper Week, 1987.

From the days of Peter Zenger onward, newspapers have played a critical role in the history of liberty and in the founding and preservation of our Republic. Today, newspapers continue to bring local, national, and international news to our doorstep, giving us the information so vital to a free people. We owe a debt of gratitude to all those throughout our history who have worked and sacrificed for our freedom of the press -- and to the thousands upon thousands of newspaper staffers who now produce our newspapers day after day. They are truly, as the theme for this year's Newspaper Week reminds us, "People Serving People."

Nancy joins me in sending best wishes for a successful week and for the future. God bless you, and God bless America.

Simple dessert: wine with 13 marshmallows

By AUNT LIZ

We have lived through wars, revolutions, torrential rains, snow up to our chins, but Thursday was our first real earthquake.

No that they haven't been going on for centuries, but this time our kids were in the middle of it all, and so were a lot of others from here. They got through it safely with just a few things broken.

When I first heard about it, it was about 10:30 a.m., and without remembering they were three hours behind us, I thought they will all be at work and in school, so I didn't try to call. About then our son-in-law called to say they were all right. He was at a meeting drinking coffee and was more shaken than what his coffee cup must have gone through.

The rest of them were still at home, getting ready for school, when their dining room chandelier started swaying. Suzie said it was terrifying, but they stayed in their hallway, which was good protection.

One mother, whose daughter lives out of northeast of Los Angeles, said that the only thing that saved their dishes was that they had sturdy cupboard doors that stayed closed through the rumblings.

A long time ago I realized that California simply was not the place to have anything good that is breakable. That happened the day we went to a friend's apartment to water plants while they were in Pennsylvania, and all the antique china pieces on her what-not stand were on the floor, which looked like she left in the middle of dusting. I was all for putting it neatly back, when Suzie said it was for a purpose, "just in case".

Now that they have had a second one, I would guess that the paper plate business is booming out there, and they make nice gifts, rather than Wedgewood. Actually, some can be wiped off and used again, so you are not being wasteful and only polluting the air half as much when they go into your trash.

Californians are really spoiled. They have so much all year long — fresh stuff we don't even see here, like figs. Still they can be very frugal.

There is a story about the wife of a vineyard owner who was asked what they did with leftover wine from wine tastings.

By then, everyone has enough to drink, so she converts it to a desert, which we can all do.

She recommends that you use either Cabernet or a Riesling, although the former will make a prettier desert because of the color.

Bring to a boil one and a half cups of wine and three fourths cup (measure between the two markings) then reduce the heat and stir 13 marshmallows in pieces, stirring until the pieces are melted. Cook a little longer until it thickens, then pour into small ramekins and chill.

With whipped cream on top, any queen or king will love it, in case you have them coming for dinner.

Why the marshmallows, which kind of shocked anyone who thinks he is a real cook? They are natural, made with egg whites, gelatin and sugar.

With the big gift season coming, you can also make many wines into jelly. Mogen David is kind of like a fresh grape jelly with a small ramble and chill.

A special note to all of you in California who may read this: we want you to know we have all been worried about you and sincerely hope you escaped with little damage. Next time, call us so we know.

D. A. Riedlinger marries at Shelby

David Allen Riedlinger, Route 61, was married June 13 at 2 p.m. in Most Pure Heart of Mary Roman Catholic church at Shelby to Miss Theresa Kay Pengov.

She is the daughter of the Edward Pengovs, Shelby. He is the son of the Charles Riedlingers, Plymouth route 1.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of sheer organza and lace, styled with V-neckline accented by lace and pearls. Lace trimmed the bishop-length sleeves and cuffs. A chapel-length train was marked by two lace ruffles and a lace insert.

She carried a cascade of rainbow colored roses, miniature white carnations, pearls, English ivy and spaghetti streamers.

She wore a heart-shaped necklace given to her by her sister.

The bride's sister, Cindy, now Mrs. Richard Baugh, Ontario, was matron of honor. Another sister, Darlene Mortenson, Willard, the bridegroom's cousin, Patricia Slesman, Willard; his cousin, Brenda Barnett, Columbus, and his sister, Cindy, were bridesmaids. Andres Mortenson, Willard was flower girl.

Craig Studer, New Washington, was best man.

Aaron Waines, Shelby; Thomas Cole, Plymouth, the bride's uncle; Michael Metcalf, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, ushered. Brian Baugh, Ontario, was ring bearer.

A reception took place in the Knights of Columbus hall. The couple resides in Route 61 here.

She is a graduate of Shelby High school who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school. She is enrolled in North Central Technical college and employed by the Center for Individual and Family Service.

The bridegroom is a Willard High School alumnus employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co.

First half attack too much for Trojans — Big Red wins No. 3 in conference play

Plymouth had no trouble with South Central at Greenwich Friday night, steamrolling an easy 34 to 6 Firelands conference victory over the winless Trojans.

South Central was limited to a net of 13 yards by rushing. The Trojans managed only seven first downs, six of them through the air. South Central was successful with the pass over the middle. It completed seven of 22 throws. Plymouth intercepted five of them. South Central gained 76 yards by passing.

The Big Red rushing attack was formidable.

The offensive line tore big holes in the green Trojan forward wall during the first half, when Plymouth ran for 250 yards, 156 of them in 14 rushes by Chuck Deskins, who scored three touchdowns. He ran for four yards in the second half, making in all 160 in 15 tries, a good night's work.

Co-Capt. Dave Powers scored two touchdowns for the Big Red. He gained 79 yards in 10 carries.

Plymouth won the toss and elected to receive.

The Big Red marched 63 yards in eight plays after the kickoff. Powers covering 30 yards in the last two plays, the first for 19, the scoring play for 11.

Bernad Schneider, the West German exchange pupil, booted the PAT. The clock read 7:58 of the first period.

Plymouth penetrated to the Trojan two in its next series before running out of downs. A 12-yard poke by Powers fell short of first down.

In its next series, the Big Red stayed on the ground after fielding a Trojan punt at the South Central 33. It took 10 plays before Deskins burst in from a yard away. The clock read 10:06 of the second quarter when Schneider kicked his second PAT.

Time was running down in the second period when the Trojans assaulted the Plymouth goal.

On fourth down, Chad McQuillen passed to the front corner of the end zone, where Co-Capt. Jeff Staggis nailed the throw on the Red seven inch line.

Undaunted by such uncomfortable quarters, Plymouth used just four plays to score at 2:39. Deskins hit right tackle and ran down the west sideline for 69 yards and first down. Deskins ripped off another 29 yards to set up a first-and-goal situation at the Trojan 2. He jammed off tackle for his second score. Schneider's kick was blocked.

Statistically, the game was as lopsided as the score of 20 to 0 suggested after 24 minutes of play.

With 41 plays, Plymouth had 15 first downs, all by rushing, 250 yards of it. The Trojans had two first downs, both by passing, and a net of four yards rushing.

After the second half started, it was clear that South Central had two choices: pass or die. It elected to choose. It died.

On second down, from the Trojan 21, McQuillen passed and James Fletcher intercepted. He ran it from the 27 to the three, whence Powers backed through the middle for the fourth touchdown. Schneider again kicked the PAT at 10:28.

A little over two minutes later, Plymouth produced another score, the result of an interception by Corey Myers, the big tackle, who nailed McQuillen's pass at the Trojan 17 and ran it to the South Central four. From here Deskins needed one shot to score. Schneider's kick was good at 8:19.

By this point the South Central lands were all but desert land and the Homecoming queen and her court huddled under blankets and bumbushes to wait it out.

Coach Richard Roll sent his second stringers onto the field. The South Central coach could hardly do so: he didn't have enough players to substitute freely. There were only nine suited up.

With time running down, South Central took over on downs at the Trojan 44.

In eight plays the Trojans had a score.

They did so by going through the air. They got 11 yards on first down, four on third, nine on fourth and, with first down at the Red 25, 12 on first down, then six as McQuillen ran when he couldn't pass.

The Ryan Teglovic-McQuillen connection produced the Trojan score at 1:56. A pass for PATs didn't connect.

This was a mismatch.

Even under favorable weather conditions, there is reason to doubt that South Central is or could be competitive with Plymouth this season. Its defense is not stout enough and its offense is better suited for playing a junior high schedule.

Plymouth planned to run and run it did. The offensive line, Greg Burke, Barry Handshoe, John Ganzhorn and the Myerases, acquitted themselves with style and success.

It didn't take much defense to turn back the Trojans. John Kasey excelled. So did Staggis, despite the mental mistake of intercepting a fourth down pass on the goal line.

Halfway through the season, Plymouth is three-and-two. There are four league games left, with New London and Monroeville as well as Black River and Mapleton. The Big Red needs to hope for another team to sack the Eagles and the Wildcats as well as Western Reserve if Plymouth is to have a shot at a share of the championship.

Plymouth has had but little fortune in Ottawa county and needs to approach with Danbury's Lakers with some caution. If the Big Red plays up to its capabilities, it can win. Danbury has nothing to lose and will be anxious to show its home town fans what winning is like.

A score!

Here's summary of five weeks' work —

F. L. Buzard guest selector; Old Grad leads the pack

Fred L. Buzard, long-time sports enthusiast here, is guest selector this week.

He has his work cut out for him.

His predecessors leave him with a 19-and-16 record, worst of the lot, to improve upon.

Old Grad is three games in front of Young Dad. Old Grad and Past Dad are tied for third.

Old Grad: "Crestview will have enough to do it big over St. Paul's. So will Roughriders over Pirates. Plymouth will top Danbury. Monroeville won't get by New London by six. Ball State and BGSU each by six, Western Michigan and Toledo each by seven." Past Dad: "It's pretty much out and dried except for Eagles at New London. Wildcats are building and I look for an upset win by them. It would be good for Big Ten and good for this part of Ohio (Bill Mallory is from Sandusky) if Indiana could dump the Buckeyes, but it won't happen this year. Poor Redskins!"

Old Grad: "Bowling Green over Bobcats is one tough call."

Flu shots available here, at Shiloh

Annual immunization against influenza is recommended for persons 60 years and over. Younger adults with chronic health problems such as diabetes, diseases of the heart, lung, and kidneys, and other chronic illnesses may receive the vaccine. Because the vaccine is grown in an egg-based culture, those allergic to eggs should avoid the shot.

The vaccines will be given by the Community Health Nurses of Mansfield-Richland County Health department at Eberet-Parcel Post 447, American Legion, Oct. 16 from 3 to 5 p.m. and at Garrett-Riest Post 503, Shiloh, Oct. 27 from 3 to 5 p.m.

A make-up clinic is set for Nov. 20 at the Beatty clinic, 555 Lexington avenue, Mansfield from 1 to 4 p.m.

Homebound patients may call 624-2335 to make arrangements for immunization.

Donations will be accepted.

Who set fire?

The blaze early Sept. 29 which destroyed the office unit of Terra International Inc., in Shiloh road remains under investigation.

Plymouth, Shiloh and Shelby firemen answered the call.

It is suspected the office, which is where the blaze started, was broken into. Some hand tools were missing and the soft drink machine was broken into.

Damage is estimated at about $100,000.

Pair with blasting caps held

A routine traffic check ended with charges against Curtiss Newsome, 21, and his wife, Cheryl Newsome, 20, both of Celeryville, Monday night.

Their vehicle was stopped at East Main and Mill streets, when it was noted its license tags were expired.

Newsome had no operator's license. Two bench warrants were outstanding against his wife from the mayor's court.

When the vehicle was searched, controlled substances were found, along with blasting caps.

He is charged on three counts, having possession of a controlled substance, having dangerous ordinance and having no operator's license and expired tags.

Fines in mayor's court amounted to $9,508

Of the 69 investigations during September undertaken by Plymouth police department, 67 were closed.

They included one hit-and-run collision and one non-injury collision.

There were four cases of assault, 10 of theft, three of vandalism, 23 peace disturbances, 100 traffic summonses and 41 misdemeanor arrests made.

missing an unlicensed driver to operate her vehicle.

Net fines in the mayor's court were $9,508, the highest month this year.

"The American government of the American people responded to the Holocaust with virtual uncomprehension and prolonged indifference."

—Alan Brinkley in review of "The Abandonment of the Jews: America and the Holocaust, 1941-1945," by Harvard Magazine, May-June, 1985.

"In the 100th Congress, 51 members — 34 Democrats and 17 Republicans — are alumni of Harvard. These include 14 Democratic Senators, six Republicans, 20 Democratic Representatives, 11 Republicans."

—Harvard Magazine, January-February 1987. "While the full glare of global publicity focuses on Ronald Reagan, Mikhail Gorbachev, and other leaders who presumably make the really "big" decisions affecting today's world, a tiny group of men and women, virtually unknown, is right now busy making even bigger decisions."

It is not too much to say that the decisions made by this almost invisible group could affect human destiny for all time.

Though their actions could affect everyone, nobody elects these people. They are accountable to no broad public. Worse yet, though their decisions have the broadest human implications, they are guided by the narrowness of criteria.

This small group does not constitute a conspiracy, since conspiracies are formed to carry out a plan. These people not only lack a plan, they don't, for the most part, even know one another. They don't meet in Bilderberg conferences and are not members of the Trilateral Commission. They are not particularly rich, and they are undoubtedly well intentioned.

Who are they? Who are the businessmen, bureaucrats, judges, doctors, and scientists who, in a vacuum of public policy and relevant moral guides, are, bit by unplanned bit, shaping policy for the biological revolution about to engulf us.

The incredible technological thrust will knock the props from under all of us.
