

What should be done about demonstration?

(This editorial was written Monday in the mistaken belief the board of education would meet that night and any alterations necessitated thereby could be made Tuesday. The fact the board met Tuesday night obviously prevented any action by it from reflecting on this piece.)

The episode in the high school of May 5 was embarrassing, to use a kind term, to us all.

It is likely the board of education will discuss, probably has already discussed, the event, what led up to it and the ramifications of what happened. It is unlikely that its collective thoughts and conclusions will be spread before the public, more's the pity.

Nevertheless, each of us ought to consider those factors and draw such conclusions as the facts available warrant. Is it not we who pay the bills? So far as we can determine, these conclusions are valid and are based on fact:

1. The demonstration was not a quick Johnny-on-the-spot thing. It was carefully planned. The plan was disclosed to us, in confidence, and to a few others several days before.

2. The planners of the demonstration have not previously been active in protest movements or activities. One boy and two girls carried the load.

3. The complaints that prompted the demonstration are not wholly new ones or entirely complaints that arose after the engagement of the new principal, who succeeded to a post vacated by a man who was advanced to the superintendency.

4. That the device of the demonstration was chosen by the pupils suggests strongly that the machinery for the receipt and processing of reasonable complaints does not work. What justifies this conclusion? Any system established to redress wrongs must, in its execution, satisfy both parties thereto. This one obviously does not. The pupils say they were, and are, so disgrusted with how the system has been applied in the past that they brushed off any suggestion that it ought to be availed of in this instance.

5. Some of the specific complaints would be valid and legitimate anywhere. In particular, that about the security of the lockers, that relating to the disaccommodation of pupil-drivers who wish speedy egress from the school parking lot so they can meet their employment schedules, that relating to food shortages that may or may not be the fault of slipshod luncheon count by some teacher or other, and that relating to what the pupils insist were broken promises to organize a pupil leader group, of broad spectrum of interest and representation of all high school pupils.

6. In any dispute, the accused is entitled to equal time to defend himself. This has not been accorded in a public manner, not so far, anyway. Other, older, perhaps wiser heads, of more experience, may very well have an explanation, perhaps a reasonable one, of why certain events occurred or didn't occur. But to assign the complained of to investigate the complaints is pretty much akin to leaving the fox to watch the henhouse. Or Willie Sutton to guard the office safe. It would have been better to appoint a special blue ribbon committee, comprised of faculty, pupils and outsiders, to look into the situation and make a complete report of its findings that must be made available to the public.

7. The low key attitude taken by the police force was correct. It was available if needed, but it stayed out of the building until it was called. This did not occur. After the demonstration erupted, the conduct of some mature teachers was worth writing home about. That the eruption continued to spew its ugly lava for a considerable spell only magnifies our collective shame.

If someone's head is on the block, his job on the line, too bad. The public has a right to expect that this sort of thing will not occur, not once and certainly not again. If it is a reflection of the failure of discipline, then those individually or collectively responsible for failure of discipline need to be disciplined.

It is hoped the board of education will not delay in dealing with this matter forcefully.

Capelle new head of PLW; purchase effective Friday?

PAUL W. CAPELLE

Welker named to council

A 45-year-old R.R. Donnelly & Sons Co. employee is the newest councilman, succeeding Mrs. Terry Jump, who resigned her seat to become clerk-treasurer as of Apr. 1. He is H. Lee Welker, 149 West Broadway, a native of Shelby, where he was educated. He was graduated by his high school in 1961. And joined Donnelly in October, 1962, and is now a supervisor in production control. Mrs. Welker teaches third grade in Auburn school, Shelby. They have three children, Glenn, 18, to be graduated here in June, Kathy, 16, an 11th grader, and Heather, 10, a fourth grader. Should he seek to serve beyond Dec. 31, he must face the general election of Nov. 3.

Fire Chief Terry Hopkins told village council May 4 the Firemen's association has purchased a Ford van for the department and has equipped it out of its funds. He also said the new water tanker will cost about $12,000, which is $3,000 less than was initially planned.

Judge says village water suit incorrect

What will the village do now that Common Pleas Judge Robert W. Smith at Norwalk has approved the finding of Referee Henry Young that a 17 per cent increase in water rates by Willard is valid. Judge Smith threw out Plymouth's claim to the contrary. The increase is retroactive to May 1, 1986. The village has 30 days in which to file an appeal in the district court of appeals. The increase will cost the village about $10,500 a year. Presumably water rates will be raised by that much to meet the charge. The clerk-treasurer has sufficient funds "squirrelled away" to meet the retroactive fee.

City manager of Willard since Aug. 15, 1974, Paul W. Capelle is the new president and chief operating officer of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., effective June 1. He will be paid $42,500 a year, with the opportunity to qualify for bonuses up to $20,000 if the performance of the company under his direction meets standards set by the board of directors, of whom he is one. Miles W. Christian, who has been associated with PLW or its predecessor, the Fate-Root-Heath Co. since he got out of the Navy after World War II, will become chairman of the board of directors and consultant at the same salary. Donald Barnhouse, interim president, will continue his principal as estimator on all tenders by the company and serve as special assistant to Capelle as No. 3 in PLW. Other officers of the company are M. Fate Christian, secretary, and Richard Gullett, treasurer.

The board of directors as now constituted is comprised of five "outside" directors and four "inside" ones. The "insiders" were appointed to represent employees intending to participate in the ESOP buyout of PLW and will serve until 30 days after the purchase agreement is signed. This may occur tomorrow. In addition to Capelle and the elder Christian, "outside" directors are John Fricks, president of Empire-Detroit Steel Co. in Mansfield, who is a lawyer; Jack Hansen, Willard, resident manager of R.R. Donnelly & Sons Co., and David Williams, formerly finance officer of Ohio Brass Co. before it was sold to Mansfield Ferrous Metals Co. in an ESOP buyout, to which he served as fiscal consultant. A resident of Medina, he maintains a private consulting firm as well. "Inside directors" are Eldon Burkett, Ervin Howard, Larry Bailey and Roy Collins. Monday afternoon was the deadline for employees to "fish or cut bait." Those intending to participate in the ESOP plan were to notify the company of this intention and to pay the participation fee, roughly 18 per cent of the average annual earnings less overtime of the employee, by Tuesday. (One employee, whose pay rate is $10.48 an hour, was required to pay $4,360.) Christian said some employees who will continue have arranged with Huntington bank, the principal lender in this transaction, to pay their participation fee and to deduct reimbursement from their salaries. Others, he said, have sought and obtained funding from other sources.

The main stumbling block is that some believed to be a substantial number, have encountered difficulty in obtaining funds with which to participate, owing to pool collateral.

Aim of the program was to obtain $400,000 from ESOP payments. This would amount to roughly 100 employees. As of the end of last week, total payments and/or pledges amounted to only slightly over $300,000. It was hoped that by Tuesday this figure would exceed $350,000, indicating about 70 employees participating, in which case it is believed the Huntington bank, Samuel J. Krasney, Banner Industries, Inc., the vendor, and the state, which has advanced several hundred thousands of dollars, will agree to go along with the lesser figure.

"A good bit of the work to be done before month's end," Christian said Sunday, "involves a firm, satisfactory contract with Advance Vitcher, a Cleveland firm comprised of two long-standing workers with the old Schreck line that Banner bought and transferred here and lost money on. Later Banner returned the Schreck line to Cleveland (it had previously been in Strongsville) and these two fellows, both experts, took it over to run."

Within 30 days of execution of the purchase agreement, the UAW has agreed to decertify the local union.

It is the intention of new management to streamline operations considerably.

"Ervin Howard, who has been in charge of planning, and has worked hard in that assignment, will also become chief of manufacturing," Christian said. It may be necessary to increase the number of directors from nine to 11. Paul Capelle, who has been an "outside" director, will now be an "inside" one, and he must be replaced.

"Within 30 days of effective turnover, the present 'inside' directors will be either elected by ESOP participants to continue or replaced, at present to the total number of four 'insiders'."

'74 alumnus dies in a crash en route to church service

A 31-year-old man was killed, his wife and daughter severely injured and another driver is in serious condition after a head-on crash in Ganges Five Points road near Kaster road southeast of Shiloh Sunday at 5:45 p.m. Christopher L. Reed, en route to Shiloh to collect Todd Weber to attend a church service, died in the emergency room of Mansfield General hospital. His wife, Linda, 27, received two broken legs and other injuries. Their child, Tiffany, six, was also critically injured. Each is in the surgical intensive care unit at Mansfield. Reed's car was struck by a pickup truck driven by Mrs. Ruth A. Deskins, 27, 12 East Main street, Shiloh, who sought to avoid a rear end collision with a vehicle that slowed in front of her, swung left of center and struck the Reed vehicle. Reed was pinned in his car. A Jaws of life unit was needed to extricate him. He resided in Shelby route 1 in Shelby-Ganges road. Born Mar. 21, 1956 in Willard, he was a life resident hereabouts area. He graduated from Plymouth High school in 1974 and was employed as a guard at the Ohio State Reformatory, Mansfield.

He was a member and associate minister of Marientata Fellowship church and enrolled in the ministerial intern program of the church. He also was in charge of the jail and prison ministry for his church. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Tiffany and Tina; a sister, Beverly, now Mrs. Kenneth Lewis, Friendsville, Tenn., and his mother, Mrs. Elva Reed, Shelby.

His father, Christopher C. Reed, died in 1963. Funeral services were conducted yesterday morning by the Rev. J. Art Kennard in his church. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township.

Editor given special award

The editor of The Advertiser and 15 other Ohio journalists have been chosen as winners of the Ohio State Bar association's 1987 News Media Awards for excellence in reporting on the law and the justice system. OSBA President Leslie W. Jacobs noted they were chosen by an independent panel, including working lawyers, working journalists and journalism faculty members from Ohio universities. The officers and staff of the association do not participate in the judging process.

"As we observe the 200th anniversary of the Constitution this year, and look back on Ohio's recent past, it is clear that a free and courageous press remains vital in preserving our heritage of freedom under law," said Jacobs. "The goal of this program is to recognize those who do an outstanding job of informing the public about legal matters." Jacobs will present an engraved plaque to each winner Thursday at a special luncheon during OSBA's 107th annual meeting in Columbus. The judges voted a special award to Editor A. L. Padlock, Jr., of The Plymouth Advertiser, and of The Monroeville Spectator, for his seven-to-eight coverage of two local murder trials: one involving conflicting community interests and the other presenting a unique defense based on long-term abuse of the defendant by his father, the murder victim.

Mack rites conducted in Wisconsin

Brother of R. Harold Mack, Plymouth East road, Clarence Mack, 61, Waukesha, Wis., died in a hospital there Friday of a long illness.

His condition worsened over the past month or so when his emphysema became more acute and he was stricken lightly by apoplexy.

He grew up in Clintonville, Wis., youngest son of J. Valentine Mack, immigrants from Canada. He was a product of Clintonville schools and took a degree in education.

In 1955, he came to live in Plymouth and with Queen R. Beam bought Cornell's restaurant from Weldon M. Cornell, now deceased, and his wife, nee Gertrude Ford of New London.

The partnership did not survive and after a time they sold to Hugh and Betty Washburn.

Bloomfield's homer wins as Hall fans 21 batters

A 10th grade substitute, Jeff Bloomfield, knocked the second pitch of the eighth inning over the left-centerfield fence at Crestline Saturday to lead Plymouth to a 4-3 victory over New London in the Class A sectional final.

The Big Red will now face Colonel Crawford, which beat Buckeye Central, 15 to 0, in the first round of district play at North Robinson Tuesday afternoon.

Plymouth built a 2 to 0 lead in the opening inning. Lance Combs drew a pass and, with one out, Steve Hall belted the first pitch over the leftfield fence.

The Wildcats scored three unearned runs in the third.

Lawrence Jackson singled and Mike Hess doubled. With no out and runners at third and second, Hall had his work cut out for him. Jay Van Sickle grounded to Combs at short. He elected to try to catch Hall's third hit. He failed and the bases were loaded.

Hall forced Rod Wilkerson to hit a stovepipe to Combs and the New London shortstop went out on the infield fly rule.

By now Hall's wicked curveball was breaking so sharply his catcher could not handle it. Two runs scored on successive passed balls. Van Sickle was at third and there was only one out. Hall worked on Ash, whom he fanned. But a wild pitch scored Van Sickle and the Wildcats led.

In the fourth, Hall struck out four New London batsmen. The first, Todd Wise, made it to third base after an error at first base and another wild pitch.

The Plymouth catcher was benched after an altercation with Coach Mike Tracey during Ash's term at bat.

Plymouth tied it in the sixth. Jason Robinson doubled and stole third as Terry Hall struck out Bloomfield, who replaced the catcher and was sent to left field.

belated a line drive that nearly killed Wilson at third. He was charged with an error. Jeff Staggs walked after Bloomfield stole second. After Beverly fanned, Ernie Echelberry dumped a single behind the second baseman. Robinson steamed home, so did Bloomfield from second, only to be thrown out at the plate.

The Wildcats threatened in the seventh. After two were out, Van Sickle drew a pass, went to second and then to third when Wilkerson struck out but was safe at first on the passed ball. This left it to Ash. Hall blew him down on five pitches.

After Bloomfield's home run electrified the Red bench and paid attendance of 135, Staggs doubled. Beverly was safe on a bad throw by Wilkerson and Staggs ran to third. But Echelberry, Combs and Todd Wilson fanned.

Hall hitched his belt, took only four warmup pitches in the eighth and fauned the side.

Hall struck out 21 Wildcats and issued two walks. Ash fanned 14 of the Big Red and issued three passes, one intentional.

Plymouth had six hits and four errors. New London was held to four hits. The Wildcats erred five times.

20 seeking head cage job

About 20 "well qualified candidates", reports Athletic Director Bryan J. Neff, have applied to the vacant head boys' basketball coaching job.

It is his intention, with the approval of the administration, to screen the candidacies, conduct some preliminary interviews and select two who will be finally interviewed by the board of education together with the present assistant coach, David E. Hirschy, Jr., 79 1/2 Plymouth street, who is guaranteed a final interview.

Neff emphasizes "there is not as yet a teaching vacancy and if one does not open up, other options will have to be looked into. I can tell you that we really don't like to assign elementary teachers to high school coaching posts because of the conflict in their schedules. Pupils below the ninth grade attend classes until 3:30 p.m. Their teachers are thus tied up with their formal duties, what they're hired for, but it delays and sometimes interferes with the practice session."

He confirmed that Mike Badetscher, the highly successful girls' varsity coach, is not a candidate.

Sir:
I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank the citizens of the Plymouth Local School district for the vote of confidence and support they gave the school board. Because of the polls May 5, because of the current reductions in school support at the state level, it was necessary to send out a call for help from our local people. Despite the heavy burdens already placed on our community not to the current economic climate, our voters stepped forward to answer the call and to say in no uncertain terms that "Yes, Our Kids Are Worth It!"
Sincerely,
Jeffrey Clauson
Superintendent

Sir:
We, the organizers of the recent student sit-in at Plymouth High school, wish to clarify our actions.
First, the sole purpose of the sit-in was to draw attention to certain problems of the high school, not to single out any individual member of the faculty or teaching staff. We only wished to point out certain problems of the high school and to voice the concerns of the student body. While we agree that our methods may not have been appropriate, we still believe that the problems needed to be addressed. Our high school, like every other, has its problems, and we as students sought solutions.
We are very pleased with the attitude of school administrators and wish to thank them for their cooperation, understanding, and swift action taken to correct certain problems without protest.
We apologize to any individual who was hurt by our demonstration and wish to inform the public that from this negative perspective event, many positive changes have come about as a result about the future.
In the future, any issues raised by the students will be addressed by the newly formed Faculty and Student Input committee.
Sincerely yours,
Randy Smith

Councilman Eckstein takes bride in garden ceremony here

Mrs. Cynthia Marie Thompson, Willard, and Everett Eugene Eckstein, 183 Sandusky street, were married Apr. 25 at 1:30 p.m. in his rose garden beneath a golden arbor decorated with chrysanthemums, daisies, carnations and ferns. Lilac rhododendrons provided color at the base of the arbor. Outdoors accents were trumpet lilies, geraniums, daisies, begonias, forsythia, daffodils, hyacinths, and blossoming cherry and apple trees.

The Rev. A. Preston Van Deusen performed the ceremony. Music was by flautist Paulette McKinney, Maryville, Tenn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hutchinson, Route 61. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Royal W. Eckstein, Sr.

The bride wore a lilac lace Victorian style gown over taffeta. A stand-up collar adorned a V-yoke at the front and back of the dress. Lace formed a caplet covering the fitted bodice that fell to a flared skirt with a slightly raised waistline. She wore a spray of lilac roses and lilies-of-the-valley covered with pearl trim in her hair. Her jewelry was diamond earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and a Victorian gold pin worn by his great-grandmother, Mary Caroline Fisher Coyer, on her wedding day in 1882. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath, and springer with pink ribbon accent. The bride also carried a handkerchief that was carried to the bridegroom's late mother, Ethel D. Eckstein.

Mrs. Kenneth Hammonree, Shelby, was their attendant. She wore a teal-length gown with shirred asymmetrical bodice and dress featured the pink taffeta dress waistline. The bride wore one shoulder and divided puff sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of lilac roses, baby's breath, and springer. Her jewelry was a sterling silver necklace, a gift from the groom. Hired attendants were Kelley J. Thompson and Kimberly M. Thompson, daughters of the bride.

The reception followed the ceremony in the Italianate Victorian home, built in 1865. Pink satin bower decorated the porch. The walnut staircase was decorated with pink bows and silk flowers, all of which were designed and executed by the bride.

Assisting at the reception were Jane Hutchinson, sister of the bride, Jean Hutchinson, sister-in-law of the bride; Kelli Quisley, niece of the bride, all of Willard, and Anne Eckstein, Indianapolis, Ind., niece of the bridegroom. Diana Thompson, Attica, made and carried the strawberry wedding cake decorated in English Tudor style with raised hearts, pink roses and apple blossoms. The apple blossoms were in memory of the bridegroom's parents, who raised apple trees.

As part of the ceremony the minister read "New Life" from "Sunrise on the Mohican" by the bridegroom, his second of three published books. He also wrote the cover of the program, and a poem printed on the back of the program, in memory of his late parents.

The bride's mother wore a mauve, georgette knife pleated street dress and beige accessories. She completed her ensemble with a double orchid corsage.

Honored guest were Mrs. Sarahella Fife, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bilsing, uncle and aunt of the groom.

The new Mrs. Eckstein is a graduate of Willard High school, attended Ohio State university, and is attending Tiffin university, Tiffin, majoring in business administration. She is a credit analyst with UFORMA/Shelby Business Forms, Inc., Shelby.

Mr. Eckstein is an honor graduate of Plymouth High school. He also attended Wittenberg university, Springfield. He serves as councilman, member of the planning commission and tree commission, and of the chamber of commerce. He is employed by UFORMA/Shelby Business Forms, Inc., Shelby, in Quality Assurance and owns and operates Plymouth Antiques, located in the Eckstein house.

Bidding was spirited until Kilgore's last tender that exceeded that of the bank by $500 was accepted.

The Atkinses are now en route to a new assignment in Michigan.

Two properties sold in sheriff's vendues

Two properties hereabouts have changed hands in sheriff's sales.

Premises at 85 Porter street owned by Joseph C. and Jacqueline Dean Woonmansee were foreclosed by Federal National Mortgage association, Chicago, Ill., which claimed debt $29,234.66. Sale for $18,687 was confirmed and deed conveyed.

Darrell Kilgore, Route 603 east of Shiloh, was successful bidder at $50,000 for the premises of the Rev. Ronald Atkins, ultimate pastor of First Evangelical Lutheran church, who moved to a charge in Dayton, and his wife, the Rev. Pauline Atkins, ultimate pastor of Mt. Hope Lutheran church, Shiloh, who went with him.

They thereafter filed for bankruptcy in the federal court at Cincinnati, claiming no assets and debts of $80,600, including $51,000 in loans against real estate owed to two banks, $43,000 to First Buckeye bank, Willard, and $8,000 to Bank One of Mansfield, and $39,600 to other creditors, including $30,000 to her parents, Peter and Eula Stanislawski, Flat Rock, Mich., $7,400 to Citibank, Mastercard, Sioux Falls, S. D., $1,400 to First Lutheran church, Dayton, and $800 to Sears Roebuck & Co. in Dayton.

Bidding was spirited until Kilgore's last tender that exceeded that of the bank by $500 was accepted.

The Atkinses are now en route to a new assignment in Michigan.

Sarah Kesler was released from Willard area hospital Friday. Mrs. Ray Bright was released there Saturday.

Welker takes appointment as councilman

Mayor Keith Hebble and Councilman Everett Eckstein said four antique street lights of four bulbs each will be purchased to begin the village's Project 1990.

They are to be installed on the four corners of the Square. Two of them are being purchased with poles that will cost $1,193 each. The other two will cost less because they can be installed on existing poles.

The planning commission also hopes to change the parking pattern in the Square to angle parking, which will give more spaces in the southeast side.

James C. Root, village administrator, said he believes village employees can clean the sewer lagoons with the purchase of special equipment. An earlier estimated cost by a private company was pegged at about $100,000.

He also said the water level has been raised, but will put off the cleaning, but that it will have to be done within a few years.

Mayor Hebble reported the village-sponsored garbage pick-up will be advantageous to the village. He hopes that when bids are received from the several scavengers, and when the council determines what the charge will be for each point of pick-up, householders will save money and the village should come out ahead so that a spring and fall clean-up can be undertaken.

The council had decided earlier the village could not afford a spring clean-up this year.

Approval will be forthcoming to allow the Boy Scouts to use a site on the sewer lagoon land for camping. It is a 50-acre area east of the Huron river. Special guidelines will be set up for it because the police firing range is in the area. Councilman E. Adrian Cole again said he wants all pit bulls banished from the village, because it is a dangerous breed.

Mrs. A. L. Paddock Jr., said a house bill defining a vicious dog is in the General Assembly and that she will get a copy of it. She said that if the state has a good law, the village would not need one.

Both she and Councilman Bill Taubert contend that other species of dogs can be equally as dangerous and furthermore that any dog can be a menace if provoked, so it was not necessary to pick one breed.

Stephens an ace in classroom, track

He who dares to play high school track and field poker had better have a stronger hand than what he relies upon on Saturday night with the boys.

And nobody knows that so well as Dan Donoghue, coach of the Big Red entry in Saturday's Firelands conference championships at Olivesburg.

Openers of two pairs are de rigueur. He's got the beat from the start: his two pairs are wrapped up in one athlete, the splendid Ron Stephens, an 11th grader who stars in the sprints and the long and high jumps.

The 16-year-old Shilohian is a remarkable fellow. Until the last grading period, when he drew a B from a veteran teacher, he never scored less than an A in any subject in any grading period.

His records, so far: 23.3 secs. in the 200-m dash (world standard so far was set by Carl Lewis at Modesto, Cal., Saturday, just 20.25 secs.) 6 ft. 2 3/4 ins. in the high jump, and 20 ft. 7 1/2 ins. in the long jump.

You could make book that he'll be in the top two in each event at Olivesburg Saturday.

Diligent practice (his coach says, "He's most cooperative, does as he's told, he's a real gentleman, obviously has considerable talent, he's the kind of kid you'd like your sister to go out with"), careful warmup and a keen desire to win are what produces his success, he says.

He wears two kinds of shoes. In jumping, there are four spikes under the ball of the foot and in running six spikes entirely under the ball. One hazard: "I spike myself a lot with the jumping shoe." Jumping shoes can't be worn on the track, by rule.

Like all high jumpers these days, he uses the Fosbury Flop, approaching the bar in a hemispherical path from the right. He usually passes until the bar is at 5 ft. 6 ins.

When he sprints, he prefers the center lane — "you can watch on two sides to see who's chasing you" — and he'd prefer to run against one with whom he's competed before. Then I know what to expect. When I haven't seen the other man run at all, I've got to pour it on from the start and do the best I can. But since I like to run from in front anyway, it really doesn't make that much difference."

Scion of a one-parent family — he lives with his mother, Mrs. Jane Stephens, at 31 Prospect street in Shiloh, together with a sister, Polly, 11, a fifth grader — Ron Stephens has earned a reputation of helping the less experienced and qualified. "He's always shared what he knows with the youngest competitors." Coach Donoghue says — and those who watch the Big Red basketball team reach the district finals, only to be ousted by Wyndford in a thriller, can attest to this appraisal: "He's sure as heck not short on guts."
