A good idea to honor a good citizen

The death of Carl V. Ellis is not so shocking now as it would have been, say 10 years ago.

He was a modest man of a little better than modest talents. What counts so much is that for every dollar he was paid as public servant, and God and the custodians of the village and county records know it was not much, he gave at least $1.15 in service, in attention to duty, in value, in character.

He was painfully honest. His service to the village was terminated by an angry electorate that took out its animosity towards another on him, well aware that it would be effective. Undaunted, he carried on with his service to the County board of health, the board of trustees of the cemetery and his party central committee.

Is there one among us who can ever recall when he was not cheerful, optimistic, strong on community improvement and loyalty?

He has no immediate survivors.

The village council could do far worse than to establish the Carl V. Ellis Memorial award, to be presented annually on the anniversary of his death to the citizen-elect whose service and/or contributions to his native village have in the past year been most comparable to his standard and image.

Carl V. Ellis succumbs

Civic servant here from 1947-81

He whose tenure of public service to his community has been exceeded by no other died Saturday in Quality Care Nursing home, Willard.

Carl V. Ellis, 83, who was born here Jan. 30, 1904, only son of the late D. William Ellises, was in failing health for a long time. He lived for many years at 98 West Broadway.

Graduated by Plymouth High school in 1922, he attended Ohio State university briefly. Forced to drop out because of lack of funds, he went into the ice and coal business in Greenwich, which he followed until home refrigeration and use of oil to heat homes prevailed over ice and coal.

While he was in Greenwich he served as trustee of public affairs. He was a charter member of its Rotary club. And he married Mary Elizabeth Plough, of a prominent Greenwich family, on Dec. 23, 1925. She died Apr. 24, 1984, after they had been married 58 years.

In 1952 he was elected village clerk. After the village council eliminated the post, then held by Mrs. James Reynolds, he became its first clerk-treasurer.

After 12 years, he was narrowly defeated by Guy E. Flora, then a high school English teacher.

He was appointed as a trustee of Greenlawn cemetery and served that assignment, much of it as president, until ill health forced him to retire.

For two generations he was GOP committee man for the Huron county precinct.

He served several terms as a member of the Huron county board of health and was for almost 30 years a member of the Huron county fair board.

He joined Kuchland Lodge 201, F&AM, almost 60 years ago. He was a member of Plymouth Chapter 31, OES, until it dissolved.

He served each of these Masonic bodies in several offices, including worshipful master of Richland lodge.

He was a member of First Evangelical Lutheran church, whose minister, the Rev. A. Preston Van Deursen, conducted services from Secor Funeral home Thursday at 3 p.m. Internment was in Greenlawn cemetery.

His survivors, cousins, request memorial contributions be made to the church.

His first wife, nee Oleta Mitchell, died, in 1956. A brother, Frank, and two sisters, Mrs. LeVell Elton and Mrs. Gwendolyn McBeil, also died earlier.

He is survived by his wife, the former Vera Long; a daughter, Barbara, now Mrs. Neil Hartwell-Canton; a step-daughter, Geraldine, now Mrs. Charles Spohn; Satellite Beach, Fla; three grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

'Eye on road' advice ignored

Keep your eyes on the road is a true saying that works.

Ten-year-old James Meader, 97 West Broadway, was riding his bicycle in Portner street Thursday evening, not watching where he was going.

This resulted in his hitting the car of Lynn Cayheart. The impact threw him off the bicycle, but he was able to get home under his own speed. His mother then took him to Willard Area hospital to be checked.

A Terra vehicle pulling another piece of equipment swayed into a tree at 183 Sandusky street Thursday noon.

The impact caused a power line to be pulled down. This was quickly repaired.

Smith to hang up bag as mailman Saturday

Saturday will be a red-letter day for Roger Smith, postal carrier here for nearly 19 years.

He'll hang up his dress blues, including the fashionable summer shorts, and his leather bag and retire from the U. S. Postal Service.

He joined the service in the fall of 1968, on Nov. 3. The late Kenneth V. Myers had retired and he was appointed to the vacancy.

He was engaged in farming after he graduated from New Haven High school in 1940. And he drove a school bus for 12 years.

Married to the former Arlene Ruggles, he is the father of four daughters and three sons, all of them married and living away from home.

Members of the United Methodist church at Willard, the Smiths have 12 grandchildren.

What'll he do now that he's retired? Why'd he quit now anyway?

"I'll be 65 years old on June 4," he says, implying that benefits deriving from FICA will become available in fall.

"And I have hobbies. I like to square dance. I like woodwork. I'm a workaholic in the yard. These keep me busy!"

Smith, who lives in a brick house in Route 224 in New Haven township, east of New Haven, plans to continue to farm the premises.

His colleague, Charles Harrington, within a few months of the same age as Smith, intends to retire at the end of the summer. He has longer service than Smith. He started earlier and he has applied military service credit to his retirement eligibility.

Rock Merritt, Shelby, is the successor to Mrs. Mary Oney, who was sent to Folk, as postmaster.

Red ousted in ninth as Eagles score three

It took two days to do it, but Colonel Crawford ousted Plymouth from the 1987 Class A playoffs with a 4 to 1 victory at North Robinson Friday afternoon.

The game began on Thursday, at 4:30 p.m. under a sun that became more and more ominous through a tight game. The umpires finally suspended the contest in the middle of the eighth. The score was 1 to 0.

Steve Hall, who pitched all the way for the Big Red Thursday, allowing one hit and three passes while fanning 13, belted the first pitch to him with two out in the first inning over the 341-ft. mark in left-center.

He mowed down the Eagles until the fourth.

Mickey Zwyer hit a clean single over second and stole that base while Chad Zwyer was striking out Tim Bogan, the winning pitcher on Friday, ahead to right. Bogan advanced to third after the catch. A throw there by Jason Robinson went astray and Mickey Zwyer tied it.

On Friday, with the left-handed Bogan on the hill, Plymouth's first three batters went down quietly, one on a fly to right, two by strikeout.

Tony Hammond went to the hill for Plymouth.

Duane Rios, ninth batter, walked and advanced on a wild pitch. After the Zwyers fanned, Bogan walked. Ralph Hart singled to score Rios. Bogan scored on a wild throw to third by the Red first baseman. Jeff Dyer, who matched Hall almost pitch for pitch on Thursday, slapped a single to score Hart, who had advanced to third on another wild pitch.

Robinson opened the ninth with a feeble grounder to third that was booted.

Jeff Staggs fouled out to third. Terry Hall fled out to center. Red singled. Robinson and Reed executed a double steal.

With runners on third and second, Beverly went down on strikes.

Bogan picked up the win with one strikeout.

Hammond was the loser, giving up two hits. He fanned two and walked two.

Wilson pitches no-hitter

Todd Wilson won his fourth game of the season against one loss May 20 by pitching a no-hitter against Western Reserve in Firelands conference play.

Score was 4 to 2.

The Roughriders scored twice in the third to tie the game.

A walk, a hit batsman and a 3-fielder's choice that advanced runners to third and second preceded a ground ball to Lance Combs at shortstop. He threw a second to get one man but an error allowed two runs to score.

The Big Red jumped off to a lead in the second. Jeff Staggs singled and stole second. Jeffery Beverly walked with one down. Staggs went to third on a fielder's choice.

Combs was safe on the pitcher's error. Staggs scoring. Wilson and Steve Hall drew passes, forcing a second run home.

Plymouth broke it open in the fourth. Beverly walked and stole second. After two strikeouts, Wilson won his own game with a run-scoring single.

In the fifth Jason Robinson singled, went to second on a sacrifice and scored when the pitcher had him dead to rights in a pick-off but threw into centerfield.

Wilson fanned four and walked three.

His opponent, Mark Savina, walked seven and fanned five.

Plymouth's now 15-and-8 overall, 9-and-5 in the Firelands conference. The Roughriders are 8-and-11 overall and 4-and-7 in league play.

OIL, BULL AND HOT AIR

A GIANT ORANGE hot air balloon bearing the state seal and flags of Texas belched fire as a 2,400-pound standing pot roast munched serenely on the River Oaks Country Club lawn.

Folks representing a cross-section of the world circled the driveway to get to the party honoree inside the clubhouse. They were impressed by this high-tech/bucolic scene but not the least bit surprised.

After all, what becomes a legend but THE most?

Leonard F. "Mac" McCollum, an ex-Tennessee-turned-Texas-hero like Sam Houston and Davy Crockett, was celebrating his 85th birthday. And party invitations pictured the legendary oilman/rancher/banker/philanthropist and his bull in the basket of a balloon happily sailing off to Timbuktu.

That's a long way from Cuero, the little South Texas town where he grew up, and from Austin, where he received a geology degree at the University of Texas. Why do you think that balloon was orange?

After graduating in 1925, he went to work for Humble Oil & Refining Co., and in 22 years went from a scout to head of world oil production. In 1947 he became president of Continental Oil Co.

The ruddy-faced Texan of Scotch-Irish descent, once described by Nation's Business as "the man who looks like he struck oil or something," is a Mr. Houston if ever there was one.

Gov. Bill Clements sent over a proclamation from Austin declaring him Texas Ambassador Extraordinary to the World. So it seemed significant that Mac's six-story tall balloon for a night had just returned from a visit to Budapest, Hungary.

The balloon, put into service last year during the Texas Sesquicentennial by Air Adventures International Inc., is well-traveled.

The handsome red-haired bull, a 3-year-old named Volcan, is a Salers with French ancestors, and he just recently won grand champion honors at Houston's annual livestock show. And standing by his side was 2-year-old heifer SOR Lapine, one of the herd at the McCollums' Scattered Oaks Ranch near Brenham, plus an adorable little "bullet."

David and Linda Eller of Granada Land Cattle Co. Inc., Mac's joint venture cattle-raising partners, pointed out at the party that the heifer is the granddaughter of Mr. President, the bull that France's then-President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing presented to McCollum in 1976.

The ex-president couldn't make the sojourn of his daughter Juliana, but his wife Barbara came to the party. Her children Olive Neuhaus and L.F. McCollum Jr., and their respective spouses, Hedy Neuhaus and Lauran McCollum, were there. So were two granddaughters, Austin Realtor Melissa McCollum and Emily Brown de Carrere Montevideo, Uruguay.

Eleanor's son, Searle Whitney of Berkeley, Calif., came for the party. So did her godchildren, actress Virginia Kiser (she's current working in the new TV series Max Headroom that airs Tuesday on ABC), James Shumroe vice-president of the trust department of the Citicorp Bank in New York City, and Barker Hiel of Phoenix, Ariz.

Also here from New York was Maggi Neuhouse of the art gallery of the same name. Mac's birthday cake by John Hunt was something of a legend, too. Six feet long and 3 feet high, it told the story of Mac's interests, bulls, a right down to the Conoco Tension Log, a drilling platform. Flying through the air was Orbis plane that flies the world saving eyesight and offering the services of top-ranking ophthalmologists. The $1,000 bills represented the Capital Bank he started, and there it was — a entire Baylor College of Medicine camp where he served as board chairman from 19 to 1985.

Sampling the cake — a combination of angel and devil's food for this sweet man with a twinkle in his eye — were the city's leaders: Donique de Menil (her late husband Jean de Menil followed Mac as president of the Southern Republic of International Education); the Museum of Fine Arts' director, Peter Marzio, a wife Frances, Roy and Phyllis Haffington; a chieftess Kenneth Bentsen and wife Mary; Bill and Nancy Adams; Mike Wright, retired head Exxon and Cameron Iron Works; and wife J. Texas Republican chairman George Strake at wife Annette; Bill and Lorraine Bland; Isab and Wallace Wilson; Lefty and Lucile Melche and their daughter and son-in-law, Evie and Danny Lang Jr. Old friends were delighted to see philanthropist Barbara Daniel, who has been living in California for the past year, back in Houston.

Berberick wins prize at OSU

Michael Berberick is the winner of the 1986-87 John T. Mount Academic Excellence award.

The award is given to the outstanding graduating senior who started college at an OSU regional campus.

An electrical engineering honor student, Berberick began his undergraduate program at the OSU Mansfield campus. He attended OSU—M for eight quarters starting in 1980. At Mansfield he maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

The John T. Mount award is presented annually to honor academic excellence, quality of program, and extracurricular contributions. All OSU seniors who have completed 45 of their first 75 credit hours at an OSU regional campus, and have a minimum 3.5 grade point average are eligible.

Dr. Janet Z. Tarino, OSU—M honors committee chairperson, said, "Michael's record is certainly one of the strongest the committee has ever considered. His academic achievement in a demanding major is impressive. We, therefore, nominated him with no reservations."

Berberick has a number of academic honors and awards to his credit. During 1986-87, he served as president of the student chapter, Ohio Society of Professional Engineers. He was the 1986-87 winner of the Ohio Association of Consulting Engineers scholarship and was chosen as Ohio's Outstanding Engineering Student by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

Son of the Robert F. Berbericks, 330 Trux street, he is a 1979 alumnus of Plymouth High school.

Pupils visit newspaper and tell what they liked!

(Ed. Note: Pupils of the fourth grade at Shiloh on a field trip visited The Advertiser Tuesday morning. It has been a long-standing custom of the publisher to insist on a short orientation talk in the classroom before the visit.

This occurred Friday. Mrs. Lawrence J. Root, teacher who organized the field trip, bowed the publisher all but off his feet at the conclusion of the visit. Tuesday business day him some essays written by her pupils Friday.

(Some excerpts follow.)

"Mr. Paddock: I like the way you explained things. I want to come to the newspaper place. I would like to see your wife. Are there any animals there? Will you and your wife ever retire? I liked the way the metal plate looked. I sent out a balloon with my address last Saturday. Thank you very much. I love Lee Hamilton!"

"Mr. Paddock: I love much for our school. It was a lot of fun to hear about the newspaper. I hope it was a lot of fun for you to come. I want to thank you for letting us come to your newspaper shop. I also want to thank you for all the support. I feel sorry for you because you got sick. It was nice of you to leave some of the stuff here. I didn't get to ask you this question: what day in October was it that the newspaper was born? My birth date is Oct. 18th. Your friend, Leanna Gieseg."

"Dear Mr. Paddock: I thought what you did was nice. I thought it was very interesting, too. How old were you when you started in newspapers? I was thinking about being a newspaper carrier. Do you think you would let me? I hope so. Thank you for telling us so much. Will you come again? I hope so. Your friend, Crystal McC."

"Dear Mr. Paddock: I liked to see the newspaper. You are real nice. I'm really looking forward to come. You are a nice friend. I like how you dress. You must have fun making newspapers. You must travel a lot. Your friend, Joseph Albanese"

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to thank all those who helped get the cemetery ready for Memorial day, all my employees and friends who assisted me: Walter Bland, Jake Berberich, Tom Woodmansee, Greg Burke, Erin Echelberry, Kevin Echelberry and Jason and Tom Rich, who worked hard to get the cemetery mowed and trimmed. I wish to thank the American Legion for a fine Memorial day program, all the folks who put potted flowers and urns of flowers on the graves. We require an 18 x 18 centimeter stone on which to set the urns close to the memorial stone. Also, Plymouth Garden club, which planted flowers; the Reginald Ganzhorn, Walter's Flower shop, which donated all the flowers planted at the entrance to the cemetery, and Homer Walters, who planted the flowers and urns at the entrances to both cemeteries.

Thank you again.
